Let's Light Up the Spirit of Christmas

Many people enter a contest for the fun they get out of it, others for the prize they win. The Christmas Lighting Contest being sponsored in our city for this coming holiday season offers a full measure of both.

A few strings of colored Christmas lights can transform into a fairyland of color a home which loses its exterior identity when darkness falls, into a scintillating Christmas card. It is an original and pleasurable means of expressing one's greetings to friends and neighbors. It even gladdens the heart of the unknown passerby. A home dressed for the holidays in the gaiety of color and light seems to embody the warmth of the yule log itself.

A store which decorates itself for Christmas extends a helping hand to bewildered shoppers. It builds that "good will towards men."

There will be civic pride among the citizens of a city so bedecked. Ours can be a "City of Christmas" if most of us will but enter into the spirit of making it so. Why not all of us?

Judging of the decorations will be made on the following basis:

> Ingenuity of the display. 50% 1.

General decorative effectiveness.....25%2.

3. Elaborateness. .25%

In judging residence decorations consideration will be given only to exterior or yard decorations. With business places, the decorations may be either exterior or window decorations, without consideration to the merchandise displays.

As announced last week, the Cass City Rotary Club are offering prizes of $10.00, $4.00 and $2.00 for each of these contests, residences and business places. Judging will be done on the evening of December 22nd by three judges from the Caro Rotary Club.

The legislative probe started out originally to look into finances of the Wolverine "self help" cooperative in Lansing which received federal subsidy money as a welfare project. But when Attorney General Starr ruled that legislative investigations by committee had no legal standing after adjournment of the legislature, the legislative council took up the torch. Speaker George Schroeder, council chairman, declared that the investigation would include all cooperatives.

Friends of the Michigan cooperative movement are welcoming the prospect of statewide publicity. It is pointed out that the Klan, nearly deceased, is now thriving again since the press hullabaloo over Justice Black's former membership in the hooded order.

Representative Vernon J. Brown of Mason resigned from the investigating sub-committee of the legislative council, declaring that the extended probe was "beyond the scope contemplated in house resolution No. 114."

Special Session?

Several developments are complicating the prospect of another special session of the state legislature early in 1938.

1. Governor Murphy's candidacy for re-election is generally taken for granted. There are a number of administrative sores yet to be healed over before Murphy runs the risk of having his meas ures rebuffed in the legislature.

2. The main reason for a special session would be the passage of a labor relations bill. With a business recession now in force and general layoffs looking for many workers, the time is not considered opportune for organized labor to demand higher wages at the threat of strikes

The Michigan Federation of Labor held a special meeting in Lansing last Sunday, December 12, to discuss a policy on labor relations legislation, apparently in anticipation of a special session.

The governor's statement of Thanksgiving week indicated that he would not tolerate with "wildcat" sit-down strikes brought about by a minority group.

Sooner or Later You'll Wonder Why You Didn't Use Liner Ads Sooner.

Each Christmas for many of us, the vexing question of "what to give" arises. The answer is simple: Give something electrical. An electrical gift is the satisfactory solution for your gift problem-for man or woman or family. You are sure to find SOMETHING for every person on your Christmas list-at the price you want to pay! Use the suggestions below in your Christmas shopping.

Electric Waffle Irons

For delicious "melt-inyour-mouth" waffles which allows you to bake waffles light, medium or dark, as required.

Dutch Oven Susan

So many advantages come with this compact electric roaster. A complete meal for six people-cooked while you are out for the afternoon-with all the recognized goodness of electric cooking, costs only $2\frac{1}{2}c$ for electricity! Dutch Oven Susan operates from an ordinary convenience outlet. It's ideal for the small apartment, summer cottage, or for preparing big dinners at home. There is at least one person on your Christmas list

Half-a-Cent A Meal Per Person

No Food Value

ECONOMY OF OPERATION: By actual meter test, the cost of electric cooking averages $1.70 per month for a family of three. This amounts to about ONE-HALF A CENT a meal a person.

MORE HEALTHFUL COOKING: Foods are steam cooked, not boiled. The precious juices of meats and vegetables do not boil away. Nourishing elements and important food values are retained. Cooked to melting tenderness in their own juices, meats and vegetables have a delicious natural flavor.

pay is sought by C. I. O. workers in the Chrysler U. A. W. local in the Detroit area. Their contract with the automobile company expires March 31.

While this demand for a shorter week with the same pay is probably only a weapon for bargaining, the resolution indicates a trend towards higher manufacturing costs.

At a time when Congress is considering passage of an hour-wage bill giving the federal government the authority to establish hour and wage levels throughout the nation, it is interesting to note that Michigan's average cost per man-hour in industries is exceeded only by those of Wyoming and Montana where little industry exists and is tied actually by the man-hour cost in New York state.

Figures compiled by the National Industrial Conference board from the last census of manufactures lists the following states with man-hour costs of 50 cents or over:

D. C.	64	Idaho	55
Wyoming	61	New Jersey	55
Montana	61	North Dakota	54
New York	60	Oregon	52
Michigan	60	Colorado	51
Nevada	58	Pennsylvania	51
Illinois	58	Kansas	50
California	57	Nebraska	50
Ohio	57	Indiana	50
Washington	56	Arizona	50

At the bottom of the list are southern states such as Virginia, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arkansas, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, North Carolina, Georgia and South Carolina with man-hour costs ranging from 40 cents down to 23 cents.

"Decentralization"

The Detroit district council of the C. I. O. recently appealed to Governor Murphy to fight widespread advance of unemployment, asking him specifically to stop layoffs by spreading the work through a shorter week and to stop "de-centralization of industry such as farming work out of the state."

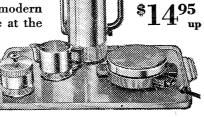

The reference of the automobile workers to "decentralization" was viewed as a criticism of the policy of General Motors corporation, for one, in opening new plants in other states so that "all eggs wouldn't be in the same basket.'

If manufacturing costs are increased still more in Michigan, the inevitable result would be a speeding up of this decentralization-

COOKING WITH PURE REFINED HEAT: As clean as sunlight! Electric heat does not blacken pots and pans: Cooking utensils remain bright and shiny after long use. Your kitchen, too, stays sparkling and pleasant for a much longer period of time. The dirt is removed at the power house.

Pox Hits Flocks in

It's news when chickens get chicken or fowl pox. In fact poultrymen in at least 10 Michigan counties are learning that it is bad news for egg production.

Counties from which reports of chicken pox have been received by J. M. Moore, poultryman at Michigan State College, are Monroe, Lenawee, Hillsdale, Wayne, Saginaw, Washtenaw, Shiawassee, Macomb, Calhoun and Clinton.

Cankerous and watery eyes, water blisters on combs and heads and later small pox scabs are some of the symptoms of the external pox disease, not quite so serious. More serious is the internal type which

Commonwealth and State

The two words, commonwealth and state, have about the same meaning, but "commonwealth" originally connoted more of self-gov-ernment than "state." Strictly speaking, our Union consists of 44 states and 4 commonwealths. The four commonwealths are Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky.

FRANK MERRIWELL AT FARDALE By Gilbert Patten

The Original BURT L. STANDISH @ Gilbert Patten VNU Service

At that moment, as he came walk ing toward Frank and Barney, Hodge looked like a fellow who had no fault to find with himself or the world at large. It might be wrong to say there was a twinkle in his eyes, but they held, at least, a gleam of triumph.

"See the rooster strut," muttered Mulloy. "I'd like to crown him right on his comb."

"Take it easy, Barney," advised Frank.

"But if he starts to crow-" "Let him crow and get it out of his system. Don't make any false moves. Somebody'd see you and it would count against you." "Now this," said Bart as he came up, "is an unexpected pleasure." The sarcasm in his smile matched his words "Not entirely," said Merriwell. "I saw you come out of the school gym with two other fellows a while ago."

"Oh, did you?" Bart almost "They were friends of beamed. mine, Hugh Bascomb and Walter Burrage.'

Burrage! The name gave Frank a little shock. Barney had told him, he recalled, that Inza Burrage had a brother in the school.

Hodge let it sink in before he added: "Bascomb's a big shot on the football team. We were in high school together. Walt's sister-I believe you've seen her-fixed it up for him to show me around. He's a swell guy."

He was enjoying himself mightily, for he felt that he was rubbing it in. That was something he always found pleasure in doing. Mullov's face was the color of a beet. He bit his tongue to make it behave.

"You're lucky to have such friends here," said Merry.

"Are you telling me!" Bart's smile became a grin. "It puts me in right. They showed me all over the place, and it's some school, take it from me. I've tried a couple others, but I know I'm going to like it here."

"But you didn't like the others?" "They were punk. This one's fine. That's why it's jammed to overflowing." Then Hodge unlimbered his heavy gun. "Burrage says a lot of late applicants were turned down simply because there was no room for them in the dorms and the classes were stretched to the limit."

Barney swallowed uneasily. It didn't sound good for him.

He said: "But if it's crowded, me lad, where will they put us?" "Oh, you?" said Bart malicious-ly. "I should worry. But I've been to see the dean, and he says he'll slip me in somewhere. You see, he received a few letters about me, signed by persons of importance. They settled it."

The Irish boy shot Merriwell a glance and wondered at his undisturbed aspect. Hodge seemed to be wasting his ammunition, as far as Frank was concerned.

This was something Bart noticed himself, and it irritated him. He decided to let go a full battery broadside.

"The fact is, Irish," he said with a sneer, "I guess both you and Merriwell are going to find yourselves on the outside looking in. Of course that's going to make me feel simply terrible.'

He was laughing insolently now, and Barney quickly thrust his hands into his pockets to make it a little more difficult for them to fly around carelessly.

Frank's level gaze was fixed steadily on the mocking face of his enemy. He smiled just a trifle, but it was a smile of faint scorn and silent pity. Words could not have cut Hodge so much. He blew up. Snapping his fingers under Merry's nose, he barked:

"You put yourself in Dutch when you insulted Inza Burrage last night, Merriwell. That queered you with her, and I'd knocked your block off if she hadn't stopped me. But she was right; you're too cheap to notice. Still if you want to pick it up-'

"You know I won't pick it up here, Hodge," said Frank. "We're where anybody around the academy can see us, and Mulloy is with me. You'd like to have me lose my head and make a pass at you, for then you could claim I attacked you-with Barney backing me up. Two to one against you. Not so good for me.'

"Aw, you'd crawl anywhere. You're a big four-flusher, Merriwell. You make a big bluff when you feel sure you won't be called." Bart got control of himself, shrugged his square shoulders, and glanced quickly at his wrist watch flexing his arms and making his muscles bulge. "Shoot him." "That's not a bad suggestion," said Frank, approaching. Hodge jerked round and stared at "Why, if it isn't Mr. Merrihim.

look of surprise and distaste that Inza gave him. "I regret having to spoil such a jolly party," he said, "but Mr. Snodd wants everybody here to come back to the house-at once.'

"Oh, yeah?" cried Bart derisive-"Can't you think of a better ly. one than that, boob?'

Now Barney came crashing toward them. "Be after getting out of here!" he shouted breathlessly. "There's an ugly dog running loose and he was seen coming this way.' Hodge laughed mockingly. "Talk about cheap tricks!" he jeered. "This one takes the blue ribbon." Inza put up her hand. "Be still!" she said. "I thought I heard a

Michigan's electrified farms have TRIPLE

in the last eight years

Each year since 1930, the utilities of Michigan have led the entire nation in the number of farms electrified. The total number of Michigan farms having electric service has tripled in the last eight years—eight years of the depression:

MICHIGAN FARMS HAVING ELECTRIC SERVICE

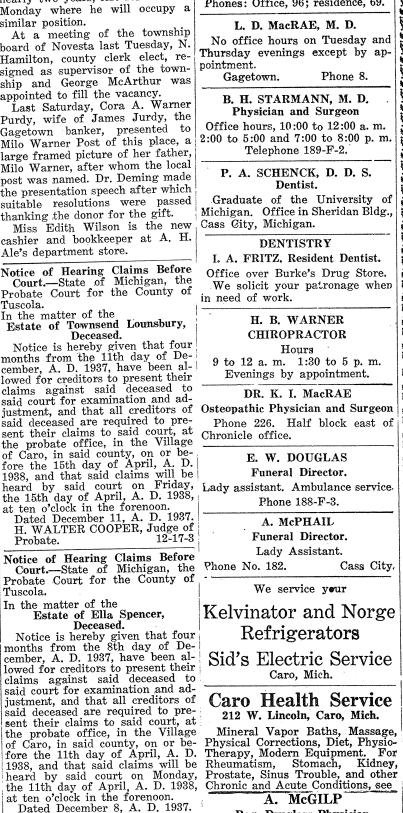

(As of December 31st) 1929-24,233 1933-38,468 1934-42,152 1930-29,869 1931-34,230 1935-50,876 1936-63,729 1932-36,079 June, 1937-74,273

Electricity is just as essential in the farm home as it is in the city home. Indeed, it is even MORE essential-because the farmer has enlisted electricity to shoulder many burdens that the city dweller does not encounter. Electricity is eliminating much of the drudgery formerly associated with farm life-such tasks as pumping and carrying water, the back-breaking labor of washday, the daily chores of cooking meals, the heating of water for dishes, etc. And electricity can be hired to do this work for wages of a few cents a day.

It is easy to believe that in the not-too-fardistant future, EVERY farm will be electrified as is practically every city home today.
