Eli W. Weaver Is Struck by Train and Died of Injuries

Eli W. Weaver, 83, who has spent the past seven summers in this community with his daughter, Mrs. Jesse Sowden, was fatally injured Monday, April 11, when he was struck by a south-bound Pennsylvania train, about a quarter mile south of Carlisle road near Byron Center, which is south of Grand Rapids.

According to reports by the train crew, Weaver was walking along the right-of-way, and being a little hard of hearing, failed to hear the oncoming train. He was struck a glancing blow, and rolled into the ditch. The train crew backed the train up to Sierd Andringa's store at Carlisle and an ambulance was called. Mr. Weaver did not seem to be seriously injured, but examination at the hospital disclosed he had a broken hip. He died as a result of the injuries and shock Tuesday morning.

Mr. Weaver, a former resident of Byron township, lived with his son, Louis, on Clyde Park road. He is also survived by another son, Roy E., of Grand Rapids, and a daughter, Mrs. Lona Sowden, of Cass City.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover H. Burke returned home Thursday, April 14, from a winter's sojourn in Florida.

SURPRISE JAS. PROFIT ON HIS 64TH BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. James Profit of Yale were very pleasantly surprised on Easter Sunday when all of Mr. Profit's children gathered to honor him on his 64th birthday. He was presented with a beautiful Easter lily.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Williams of Harbor Beach, John Profit of Grand Rapids, Mrs. Sam Kirk of Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Profit, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Profit, Kenneth Profit and Miss Fern Karr of Cass City.

This was the first time in the past eleven years they have all been together. Several pictures were taken of the children in the afternoon.

A delightful dinner was served in the evening, in which the table was decorated in pink and white with a huge birthday cake at the center.

Mrs. Sophia Striffler Honored on Her 78th Birthday

Honoring Mrs. Sophia Striffler on her 78th birthday, members of her family met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ricker on Easter Sunday and enjoyed a delightful dinner. Those present besides Mrs. Striffler and Mr. and Mrs. Ricker were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Nique of Decker, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Smiley of Drayton Plains, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Weaver and two sons of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Striffler, Mr. and Mrs. George Dillman and Mrs. S. B. Young.

On Monday, Mrs. Nique, Mrs. Ricker and Mrs. Dillman entertained in honor of their mother and grandmother in the Dillman home at a delicious dinner. Members of the Sunday School class, of which Mrs. Striffler is a member and a few friends, were present. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Buehly, Rev. and Mrs. R. N. Holzaple, William Akermann, Mrs. G. E. Krapf, Mrs. D. C. Elliott, Mrs. Grant McConnell, Miss Martha Striffler and Miss Emma Lenzner.

College Chapel Choir Here Next Sunday

Prof. J. W. Ewer, conductor of the Alma College Chapel choir which will appear at a union service in the Presbyterian church in Cass City next Sunday evening, has had a great variety of experience in the field of vocal training. While in the process of completing his work for his academic degree, Prof. Ewer pursued his studies at Morningside College, Iowa, and trained three years with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Garst in Chicago. While in Chicago he was soloist at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Later he was conductor and soloist at the Asbury Methodist Church, and also filled various concert engagements. He was a pupil of the late L. A. Torrens of New York, and of Theodore Harrison, then of the University of Michigan. He also studied at the University of Washington at Seattle.

Mr. Ewer's choirs have appeared in various parts of the state, and have always been well liked for the interpretation and beauty of their numbers. This group of twenty finely trained voices are appearing in various cities this week.

The concert begins at eight o'clock on Sunday evening, April 24.

Eighth Grade Exam Will Be Held May 11

Seventh and eighth grade examinations for rural school pupils of Tuscola county will be conducted by their instructors on Wednesday, May 11. Teachers will meet at Caro on the afternoon of May 6 to receive the supplies for the examinations.

The seventh grade pupils will write on word study, hygiene and geography.

The eighth grade will have examinations in the following subjects: Arithmetic, history, civics, grammar, agriculture, spelling, penmanship and reading.

TWO ALARMS, ONE FIRE, LITTLE DAMAGE RESULTING

Friday morning, dense smoke from the chimney in Mrs. J. D. Brooker's residence on North Oak street made it look very much as though the roof were afire, but fire ladders summoned to the scene could find no trace of a blaze.

That evening another alarm, brought the fire department to the Dailey residence on East Houghton street occupied by the James Mulady family. The fire was on the roof and very little damage was done.

Bidding Brisk at Drain Letting on Tuesday

Three Miles of Lockwood Drain Was Awarded to Flint Men at $1,210.00.

The Lockwood Drain letting was attended by eight contractors Tuesday and bidding was so brisk that the job was let for $1,210.00 which is about $800 less than County Drain Commissioner Roscoe Black estimated the drain construction would cost. This contract was awarded to Yoder Bros. of Flint.

The drain is located in Columbia and Elmwood townships and the contract covers a 3-mile stretch. The main part has a bottom ranging from four to seven feet and the branch has a three-foot bottom and an average depth of 4½ feet. The same day a two-mile "clean-out" of the Belgian Drain in Akron township was let to Al Carmody of Sebawing. His bid was 95 cents a rod.

Weight Tax Revenue Off 3½%

Weight tax revenues available to local governmental units are off 3½% for the first three months of the year, State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner disclosed this week in turning over vouchers for first-quarter payments to the auditor-general.

Current vouchers total $10,223,762 compared with $10,593,445 for the first quarter of 1937. All of the weight tax revenue is turned over to county treasurers for county and municipal road and street purposes including debt services. The total weight tax revenue in 1937 amounted to $19,602,702.

Commissioner VanWagoner attributed part of the reduction to an increase this year in the number of half-year automobile license plates issued by the secretary of state.

Current payments in the Thumb counties follow: Huron, $58,347.65; Sanilac, $72,563.60; Tuscola, $70,968.41.

David French to Be Ordained June 13

Rev. A. K. Korteling of Fairgrove was elected moderator for the coming year at the meeting of the Presbytery which convened at Linden on Monday and Tuesday. The session was adjourned to meet at Caro on Monday, June 13, to ordain for the ministry, David French, son of Dr. J. Leslie French, pastor of the Caro Presbyterian church.

Rev. P. J. Allured and John L. Cathcart represented the Cass City church at the Linden meeting.

Guess This One? Taken When We Were Young

There was a good percentage of Wright guessers on the "Guess Who" picture which appeared in this column last week and naturally they were correct for the half-tone was that of Albert B. Wright.

Those who named Mr. Wright are John Cole, Solomon C. Striffler, Mrs. B. F. Hill, Herb Greenleaf, Mrs. George Seeger and Mrs. John Young.

A. C. Atwell, John W. Ball and Mrs. E. Hunter thought the picture resembled John L. Cathcart, John Marshall guessed William Little and Mrs. M. M. Moore said it was Sam F. Bigelow.

Who is the ball player pictured above? Your guess may be as correct as your neighbor's so let's have it.

BEANS FAIL TO HALT HOPPERS

With a grasshopper infestation that may prove more serious than any previous growing seasons in Michigan, steps are being taken to catch up early with the young hoppers with poison bait. Advice from the United States Department of Agriculture indicates that farmers in Michigan had better stick to poison baits. Reports from states farther west had indicated that perhaps the castor bean plant was capable of protecting other crops by poisoning and controlling grasshoppers. The federal department has tested out the theory and claims that castor bean plants are not the answer to the farmer's prayer for a cheap and easy way to control the pest.

Thumb Cooperative Service Starts Soon

Uby Community Club Is Arranging Program for Opening Ceremonies.

The Rural Electrification Administration has approved another requisition from the $2,000,000 fund available for the Thumb Electric Cooperative project, the amount for April being $227,071.88. A check for this amount is expected from the Treasury Department any day. With the arrival of this latest allotment a total of $1,480,744.43 is reached.

Frank Wilson, president of the Cooperative, announces that it is only a matter of weeks now before the generating plant will be ready to turn on the juice to some 1,400 miles of line serving about 5,000 members. The power plant building itself has been completed within the 100 days originally scheduled. The building is modern with interior walls of a buff-colored finished brick. A crane of 5 tons capacity, capable of handling various pieces of auxiliary machines which might require repairing, is an outstanding part of the equipment.

Fairbanks, Morse & Company, whose work consists of furnishing and erecting the three Diesel engines of 900, 1,050 and 1,050 horsepower respectively, under the supervision of their erecting engineer, H. F. Larkin, is making fine headway in installing the Diesel engines. The three fuel tanks, each of 30,000 gallons capacity, were received and installed on their foundations last week. Cooling towers for cooling the warm water after it has gone through the Diesels have been erected.

Mr. Wilson says that an announcement as to the exact date of opening may be expected in about a week. In the meantime, the Community Club at Uby is making arrangements for a day when the opening ceremonies take place. Prominent speakers whose names will be announced later are expected to participate in the program, and the Village of Uby is making provisions to accommodate at least 5,000 people at that time.

Harry Grayson, associate supervisor of the Cooperative, reports that approximately 1,100 homes have been wired to date and that at the present rate approximately 3,000 homes will be ready to receive current at the time that the plant starts operations.

LOCAL ITEMS

About 15 Rotarians from Cass City attended an inter-city meeting of the Pigeon Rotary Club on Monday evening.

Friends of Mrs. C. J. Striffler are greatly admiring the gorgeous blossoms on a cactus owned by Mrs. Striffler. The plant contains two beautiful, magenta red blooms, the centers of which are tinted with lavender. There are also numerous buds in various stages of development.

The marriage of Donald P. Schenck and Miss Genevieve M. Ruede, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Ruede, of Jackson, will take place tomorrow (Saturday) in St. Mary's rectory in Jackson. Mr. Schenck, a son of Mrs. Alma Schenck, of Cass City, is employed in a drug store in Jackson.

Don Skinner and Kenneth Hebdon of Dresden, Ontario, were guests at the John Cole home on Wednesday afternoon and left the next morning for Dauphin, Manitoba, where they expect to make their home. Mrs. Skinner and children, Ruth Florence and John Alex, are expected here in a few weeks and will visit at the Cole home and with Mrs. Skinner's parents in Clifford until June when they will leave here to join Mr. Skinner in Dauphin.

Dairy Prices Hold Well Compared with Other Farm Prices

Milk Prices in 1938 Period Held Even with Same Period in 1937.

Milk prices have not suffered as much drop as most farm products, according to the Milk Producers' Association. The U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics has compared farm prices during the first three months of 1938 with the same period in 1937. It lists the price of chickens at 17 per cent above the 1937 range although eggs are down about 16%. Chickens are the only farm product showing an advance.

Milk prices in the 1938 period maintained just held even with the same months of 1937 taking the country as a whole. Some milk markets have dropped recently but not much below the 1937 level for the same period.

For whatever comfort it may be worth to make comparisons with things that are in a worse condition, dairymen should note below how much better off their products are than a long list on the other side of the ledger.

Potatoes have the doubtful honor of leading the commodities with prices in reverse with a drop of 57 per cent. Corn is down 50 per cent, apples 42%. Other important products with percentage of price decline follow:

Wheat down about.....37%
Oats .....43%
Cottonseed .....47%
Hogs .....17%
Cattle .....10%
Lambs .....18%
Eggs .....16%
Wool .....38%

Another way of getting a slant on how prices have behaved is to note their relation with some previous period—say 1909 to 1914 taken as 100. Again using the first quarter of 1938 and of 1937, these price relatives are taken from the U. S. report. Wheat was 140% of the pre-war period in the first quarter of 1937 but only 96% of the first quarter of this year.

Corn 161 last year, 81 this year.
Oats 133 last year, 75 this year.
Cottonseed 170 last year, 89 this year.

Potatoes 183 last year, 79 this year.

Hay 99 last year, 73 this year.

Apples 127 last year, 73 this year.

Hogs 128 last year, 109 this year.

Cattle 127 last year, 114 this year.

Butter 120 last year, 116 this year.

Milk 113 last year, 113 this year.

Chickens 121 last year, 142 this year.

Eggs 98 last year, 84 this year.

It may be noted that milk prices are in the same relative position as during the pre-war period. Taking all farm prices into consideration the Bureau of Agricultural Economics states that selling prices have but 76 per cent of the purchasing power which they enjoyed before the war. This is 21 points below March of last year.

Sheriff Geo. Jeffrey Gives Talk at Cass City Grange Meet

"Traffic Accidents" was the subject of an address given by Tuscola County Sheriff George Jeffrey at the monthly meeting of the Cass City Grange at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kilburn in Novesta Tuesday evening, April 19. Mr. Jeffrey illustrated his discourse by showing pictures of wrecked cars and other views.

The gathering was designated "Men's Night" and thirty people enjoyed the eight o'clock supper prepared and served by the men.

Following a closed business meeting, a program under the supervision of Representative Audley Rawson was presented during which a guessing game was conducted.

The May meeting of the society will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Martin, two miles west of Cass City.

SHABBONA MAN GETS QUICK RETURNS FROM LINER AD

Lewis Travis advertised a cow for sale in the Chronicle's liner columns on Friday, April 15, and the next morning he sold the animal through that advertising medium.

The liner cost Mr. Travis just 25c.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

Reid and Starmann Bowlers Are Tied

The Wallace and Parsch groups stand in first and second positions in the bowling league this week with little changes in their percentages of a week ago. The Kelly team has advanced into third place while the other groups occupy the same position with the exception of the Starmann sextet, who won two out of three of Wednesday night's contests to tie the Reid team for ninth position.

	W	L	Pct.
Wallace	36	12	.750
Parsch	34	17	.666
Kelly	27	24	.529
Knapp	23	23	.500
Fritz	24	27	.470
Kirtson	22	26	.458
Landon	21	27	.437
Schwaderer	22	29	.431
Reid	19	32	.372
Starmann	19	32	.372

The high scores of the six-man teams follow:

Kelly	1053
Wallace	1018
Schwaderer	1004
Knapp	978
Parsch	976
Fritz	966
Starmann	958
Reid	954
Landon	950
Kirtson	943

DEATHS

Mrs. David E. Harris.

Mrs. David E. Harris passed away on Easter Sunday morning after a severe illness of ten days' duration.

Funeral services were held at the residence on Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. Frank M. Purdy, pastor of the Shabbona M. E. church, officiating.

Minnie A. Bartle was born Jan. 27, 1866, in Minnesota and when a small girl moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bartle, Sr., to Maple Valley township, Sanilac county, where she resided at the time of the 1881 fire.

She was united in marriage with David E. Harris of Mackinac county on June 19, 1888, and they resided in Northern Michigan, for four years, afterwards moving to the farm in Evergreen township where they have lived for 46 years. Had Mrs. Harris lived, they would have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on June 19th next.

Mrs. Harris leaves her husband, three sons, Willard and Earl, of Decker and Roy, of Coldwater; two brothers, John Bartle, of Wickware and George Bartle, of Cass City; six grandchildren and a large number of nephews and nieces.

John Rathbun, Jr.

John Rathbun, Jr., 15, a promising young athlete and a member of the freshman class in the Uby High School, died unexpectedly in St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw on Monday, after an illness of two weeks.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rathbun, of Uby, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Rathbun, of Uby and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weitzel, of Bad Axe.

The young athlete had been a patient in the hospital for the last 10 days undergoing treatment for a generalized blood infection. Clare Ramseyer, a team mate on the high school basketball team, gave blood for a transfusion for the stricken youth a week ago, after Coach Theodore Leemgraven and several other members of the team had offered to act as blood donors. The youth rallied after the transfusion and appeared to be gaining strength until Sunday.

Campaign to Combat Cancer

Next week is membership week for the Woman's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

Cancer, in its early stages, is one of the most curable of all serious causes of death and in its campaign of education the society distributes literature regarding danger signals or symptoms and makes available to the public information regarding the disease through lectures similar to the one given in Cass City several months ago by Dr. Brines of Detroit.

The American College of Surgeons has records in its files of 29,195 persons cured of the disease for five, ten or fifteen years.

The membership is one dollar of which 70% per cent is spent in the state and 30% in the society's national work.

Mrs. Ora G. Keyworth is the society's commander in Michigan. Mrs. A. J. Knapp of Cass City is lieutenant commander in nine counties, including the Thumb of Michigan, and a member of the state board.

Dog Wagon To Call for Dogs on Which No Tax Is Paid

Supervisors Ask Sheriff That House to House Canvass Be Made.

Dog owners who failed to pay the tax on their canines need not be surprised to see a representative of the sheriff's department drive up with a dog wagon this spring and demand the dog or the payment of the dog tax. Sheriff George Jeffrey was authorized to do just that by the Tuscola Board of Supervisors on April 13. The sheriff was asked to cause a house to house canvass to be made in an effort to collect delinquent dog taxes.

The building committee was authorized to purchase typewriters for the offices of the county clerk and probate judge, to make repairs on the jail porch roof and repairs to buildings at the county farm, and purchase chairs and other equipment for the county home.

Not over six mills will be raised by tax the coming winter for all county purposes. This amount recommended by the ways and means committee was adopted.

At the suggestion of the committee on officers' salaries, any motion or resolution in effect at the present time which permitted any county official to draw more than his stipulated salary for any service pertaining to his office was declared null and void.

The sum of $1,200 in addition to the amount heretofore appropriated was set aside to be used by the Emergency Relief Commission during April, May and June if and when deemed necessary by the welfare commission.

The supervisors requested the county treasurer to send out notices to delinquent taxpayers in compliance with Act No. 325 of the Public Acts of 1937.

Chairman John N. McAlpine appointed Roscoe Black, James Schwaderer, William Profit, William Gunnell and Lewis Massoll as a committee to investigate the cost of removal of small buildings on the Clare Thomas property that it may be used for a park. This committee is to make their report at the June session of the board.

The sum of $166,524.36 was received by Tuscola county as its share of the weight and gas tax in 1937. Fifty per cent of that amount is retained by the county for county highway purposes, $1,300 will pay a township road bond and interest, and the remainder is divided between the county road fund and the several villages of the county on a population basis at the rate of $2,486,679 a person.

Akron will receive $1,097.50, Caro $6,356.09, Cass City, $3,138.22, Fairgrove, $1,087.50, Gagetown $915.83, Kingston $823.75, Mayville $1,627.60, Millington $1,687.32, Reese, $1,219.45, Unionville $1,189.59, Vassar $4,519.44, and the county road fund $58,299.84.

Students and Teachers Receive X-ray Examinations

One hundred and nine high school students and twenty school teachers, who gave a positive reaction to the tuberculin test, received an X-ray examination last month at the clinic sponsored by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, the Sanilac County Red Cross and the Sanilac County Health Department. At the same clinic, thirty-one people who were known to be contacts, to active cases of the disease, or in whom the disease was suspected, were X-rayed also.

As a result of the examination, one high school student, one rural school teacher, and three of the contact group were found to have active pulmonary tuberculosis. In two of these patients, the disease was in an early stage, and in the other three, it was only moderately advanced. All of these cases have been referred to their family physician for further observation and study, and such treatment as is indicated. Recommendations have been made that three of them be given the advantages of sanatorium care.

In addition to these cases there were thirty-six cases of the childhood type of infection discovered among the high school group. Most of these students will need no active treatment but they need careful observation and repeated examinations. It is most important that they break all contact with an active case of tuberculosis and that their individual resistance be kept at a high level.

THANKFULNESS FOR AMERICA.

A New York dispatch tells how a 16 year old messenger boy who with his family fled from Germany three years ago, recently published in a high school magazine a "prayer for Thanksgiving" for his home in America.

Among various expressions of gratitude, this prayer said: "I am thankful that I am given the opportunity to enjoy many privileges that are unheard of in European countries. I am thankful that I live in a land where one is not persecuted. I am thankful that I shall be able to realize my ambitions, which would have been impossible had I remained in my native land."

Most of us who have always lived in America need to realize better the blessings which belong to us in this favored land. Instead of feeling blue because of various troubles, we should realize that on the whole we are far better off than the people of other lands.

There is no country in the world where such opportunities are given. The free schools of our country are more generous to the poor boy and girl. They have a chance to rise, and their success and future depend on themselves. If they show perseverance, willingness to learn and work, they attract attention and people give them a chance.

Some of the young people who have not been able to find work, in spite of earnest effort, feel this is not true. Yet the country has been generous to all who are out of work. It has poured out the money by billions, and doubled its debt to provide for them.

Such conditions in the past have proved only temporary. Meanwhile, instead of a government that is intolerant of race and religious and political differences, we have one where entire freedom of thought and faith is permitted. Well, we can thank God for a home in such a land of the free.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

The great political battle of 1938 opened some days ago, when Illinois had its party primaries to make nominations for the fall elections. Other states are following in rapid succession.

The American people have somewhere near continuous politics. That is one reason why the people neglect their political duties. If elections and primaries didn't come so often, not so many voters would be playing truant election day. If government was run the way schools are, the truant officer would be sent after neglectful voters.

How can people expect good government, when the great majority of them never turn up at these primary elections? It takes the election day to wake them up, and many of them are still asleep on that fateful occasion.

In many ways the primaries are more important than the elections. At the primary the fates of state and nation are largely decided. If one party makes a good nomination and the other a poor one, the first party usually wins. The elements that control the primaries usually control the elections. Movements for better politics soon bog down, because so many people who believe in good government are too tired or too tender to get out and help make the nominations.

When the American people finally get tired of waste, inefficiency, high taxes, and extravagance, they will conclude that it is extremely important to attend each primary and election. Not so many will merely walk into the voting booth and vote for the name that sounds the best, but they will make some inquiries in advance and learn who are the real true blue candidates and who are the "also rans." Then we shall see the services of government run more like ordinary business.

Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon were big fellows in their day, but it didn't get them much.

CRACK OF THE BASEBALL.

The crack of the batted ball heard at the season's early games is very sweet music to baseball fans.

All over the land the opening of the league seasons brings pleasure to millions of followers of this grand game. These lovers of the sport are found in every village. They have an astonishing knowledge of the history of the game and its individual players. They can tell you the sporting record of hundreds of these fellows, and give an estimate of their powers.

When they learn the make-up of any given team, they can look back in their memories, size up the performances of these ball tossers, and give a pretty fair estimate of what they will do in the months to come. It's a good healthful interest, provided they aren't thinking about baseball when their minds should be on their job.

NO REORGANIZING NOW.

After a great clash of words and storm of protesting telegrams and letters, the government reorganization bill is shunted onto a side track. Apparently it is destined to remain there quite some time.

Advocates of this measure say the government is a musty mess of red tape and false notions and duplicating effort, and that it is too bad to let it go year after year accumulating more of these mistakes. It is argued in opposition that the reorganizing job is too big for any man, that the president already swings more power than any one man should have, and that when the government is reorganized, it should be done on a purely non-political basis. Almost everybody agrees that the reorganizing should be done, but they all think differently when it comes to telling how to do it. This may lead some more cobwebs to grow on the ship of state, though some will say that cobwebs on it are better than running it into some rock.

NATIONAL DISCIPLINE.

The amazing vote cast on a recent date in Germany and Austria, by which over 99 per cent of the people of those nations rendered submission to their "Fuehrer," or leader, Adolf Hitler, will be cited by citizens of that country as a magnificent exhibition of national discipline, which they will say is essential to progress.

What a tremendous contrast that is from conditions in the United States. In our country there are the sharpest differences of opinion about everything. The people don't hesitate to express them here in Michigan. No candidate for president is likely ever to get more than a two-thirds vote of the American people. Anyone who can get 60 per cent of the vote is a marvel. Opinions shift quickly from side to side.

That was manifest when national prohibition was put into the constitution with a grand whoop in 1920, and thrown out with an equally grand whoop in 1933. So it goes in fickle America. The Germans say there is no discipline in that kind of government.

Germany will say that an army would get nowhere in a war, if the troops all marched where they wanted to, and fought only when they felt like it. They must submit to discipline, it is argued, and do as the higher powers order, and then they will get results. They will say their national condition has improved since they did that under Adolf Hitler.

Our people would never assent to that idea. They may see many things go wrong, but they insist on their right to kick early, often, and continuously. That constantly upsets things, but in the end it will prevent everything from blowing up. The countries that march as their leaders and "Fuehrers" tell them, are likely some day to find themselves marched into a first class war, which will not be so good.

THE BEAUTIFUL HOME.

You do not necessarily need to have a costly and elegantly built home in order to have a beautiful one. There are many tiny little houses the owners of which have a love for beauty, that are among the most attractive and pleasing in their home towns.

The first essential of a beautiful home is neatness and good repair. Tumble down fences and such things don't fit in with beauty. The beautiful home needs to be well cared for. If it looks shabby, there won't be much beauty. Planting of trees and shrubbery and flowers is usually an essential. It can turn even a plain little dwelling into an abode of beauty which all will admire.

Hitler, you know, is a bachelor and has always had his own way.

Fish in Michigan Depend on Bugs

Experiments with northern Michigan and lately with southern Michigan trout streams undertaken by W. F. Morofsky of the entomology department at Michigan State College indicate that with foresight and cooperation the state can maintain and improve its reputation as a mecca for fishermen.

What an entomologist has to do with fishing needs but brief explanation. For if bug life is not plentiful and of the right kind Morofsky has proved there is waste in pouring money, labor or young fish into a likely stream.

Surveys of trout streams were begun in the north in 1933. First attempts involved seeking the proper shelter and condition for spawning and studying effects of rates of waterflow.

Stream improvement was followed up with studies of effect on aquatic life. In most cases, Morofsky reports, the improved stream beds gave increase in the number of aquatic insects upon which the trout feed.

Fishermen in the meantime had assumed that southern Michigan streams had too warm a temperature for trout, that the water and banks were too open, that there was too much pollution and that spring floods and erosion filled up streambeds with silt which discourages certain aquatic life.

Five streams in Kalamazoo and Allegan counties were studied in 1937. Numbers and kinds of insects are remarkably similar to those in northern Michigan trout streams.

Water temperatures also seem about as low at least in one of the streams. But these factors may not be the determining condition. Suckers, carp, pike and minnows offer greater competition for the available insects for food. The findings indicate, Morofsky contends, that fishermen may expect a return of trout abundance if they cooperate with any attempts to increase propagation in trout streams.

Picks Pots, Pans in College Tests

Women equipping their kitchens with pots, pans and kettles can save money and subsequent loss of pride in cooking if they observe some of the results obtained from a survey of what's available in today's hardware stores.

Advice of Irma H. Gross, head of the department of home management at Michigan State College, is to pick and choose without too much regard for "just looks."

New types of materials include the stainless steel, aluminized metal and non-staining aluminum which require less work for the housewife but are more expensive. Glass sometimes is efficient because food may be served in the dishes in which it is prepared. Bakelite and other composition materials provide cooler handles.

Straight sided kettles to fit the burner are best. Tight fitting covers conserve heat. Baking pans should be seamless to avoid dirt. Metal should be heavy enough to prevent warping, denting or tipping.

Among the undesirables are the very heavy cast aluminum pans which are too costly. Color sometimes is attractive but subsequent chipping in poor quality enamels proves a disappointment. Colored paint on handles usually wears off.

Some of the old types of utensils still are good. For frying pans and Dutch ovens Miss Gross finds iron less expensive yet capable of turning out good foods. This iron may be chrome plated but this adds to the expense. And a pie baked in a tin plate still is in good taste with those practicing economy. Pressure cookers and fireless cookers also come in for praise in saving money, labor and time in meal preparation.

Spring housecleaning time is here.

What kind of equipment do you use when you wash windows in your home? Thoughtless housewives too often climb up on rickety ladders and dangerous stools and even teeter on rocking chairs in order to reach high places.

The only wise practice is to use a good, sturdy step ladder which provides a place for the water container.

Falls cost 26,000 lives in 1937!

And a word about home dry cleaning. Despite countless warnings of danger, people persist in using naphtha, gasoline, and other cleaning fluids indoors in inadequately ventilated rooms. Explosions and fires caused by faulty handling of these cleaning fluids have caused severe injuries and have cost many persons their lives. Do all your home dry cleaning out of doors.

FARM TOPICS

LEGUME HAY GOOD AS SHEEP RATION

Ewes Require Special Care Before Lambing Time.

By H. G. Russell, Live Stock Extension Specialist, University of Illinois.

To insure a profitable 1938 lamb crop, farmers can do no better than to depend on legume hay as the basis of the winter ration and to make sure that the ewes get plenty of exercise.

This is one point of a 15-point program outlined by the animal husbandry department of the agricultural college for the management of a commercial flock of sheep.

Relative to the ration for ewes prior to lambing, the program calls for one-half to three-fourths of a pound of grain each day for each ewe for a month prior to lambing. From lambing time until the ewes go on pasture, it is recommended that they receive from 1 to 1 1/4 pounds of grain a head a day.

Making sure that new-born lambs get milk, giving weak lambs special care and giving prompt attention to ailments are suggestions for saving all lambs. It pays to creep-feed early lambs until they go on pasture and to dock all lambs and castrate all male market lambs at about two weeks of age.

It is suggested that the flock be sheared in May and the wool sold on a market where a uniform system of classes and grades is recognized. After shearing it is well to go give the flocks two dippings two to three weeks apart to destroy ticks and lice.

With plenty of feed on hand, the lamb crop will be earlier than a year ago. For profit, farmers are advised to sort market lambs and sell only those which are fat.

Ducks Offer Breeders a Chance for Research

Most of the market ducks in the United States are of the Pekin variety, and according to A. R. Lee of the bureau of animal industry, the best commercial flocks are remarkably uniform in size and quality.

This is probably due, he says in an article in the current Yearbook of the Department of Agriculture, to a considerable degree of inbreeding in the variety. Nearly all the Pekin ducks in the country are descended from a relatively small number of imported birds. Ducks offer a virgin field for poultry-breeding research, he says—since little has been done in the way of scientific duck breeding—and there is an excellent opportunity for the investigation of the inheritance of meat characters in ducks.

Easier Tractor Plowing

Tractor operators often tire of holding the furrow wheel of the tractor against the land when plowing. A farmer may easily make a steering device to reduce this strain, notes a writer in Wallace's Farmer. Fasten a coil spring to the frame or fender of the tractor at a point that is just left or right of the forward part of the steering wheel. Connect the other end of the spring to the upper side of the steering wheel or to the spider at that point. Adjust the spring so that there is a slight tendency of the tractor to turn to the left, but not enough tension on the spring to cause the tractor to climb out of the furrow.

Gathering Eggs

Gather eggs at least twice daily during the spring. Use clean, wire baskets, which allow the eggs to cool quickly. Be sure the hands are clean when eggs are gathered. Avoid soiling the shells. Do not wash table eggs before marketing them. If, in spite of care, the eggs are slightly soiled, clean them with fine sandpaper, or a damp cloth, not wet. Let moistened eggs air-dry. Store eggs in a cool, clean place between gathering and marketing.

Stock Per Acre

Usually one to three acres of pasture, depending on the quality, are allowed for each full-grown steer. Five ewes are considered the equivalent of one cow or matured steer. Eight to ten lambs may be pastured on an acre of good forage or 12 to 15 hogs averaging 100 pounds will find sufficient grazing on this amount of pasture. Fifteen to eighteen spring pigs weighing 50 to 60 pounds may be pastured on an acre of good alfalfa, says the Indiana Farmer's Guide.

Linseed Meal for Cows

Linseed meal is one of the most popular high protein feeds for dairy cows, says Hoard's Dairyman. It is not quite so rich in protein as cottonseed meal, but feeders have found it has splendid conditioning qualities which invariably make it sell for a little more per ton than cottonseed meal, although cottonseed meal will furnish more digestible protein. Analysis—30.6 per cent digestible protein; 78.2 per cent total digestible nutrients.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

by Thornton W. Burgess

PETER FORGETS ABOUT THE STRANGE TRACKS

Kick your heels and jump and dance! Hop and skip and gaily prance! Sister South Wind's come to stay, And Mistress Spring is on the way!

EVERYBODY said that Peter Rabbit and Jumper the Hare had gone crazy. Of course, it wasn't true. They weren't really crazy, even if they did act so. People always say that Jumper the Hare is mad at this time of the year, but it isn't so unless trying to show how happy and full of joy you feel is madness. That was the trouble with Jumper and Peter this time. They were so full of joy that they just had to do something, and because they couldn't sing and shout—for you know they have no voices for singing and shouting—they just had to do something to show how glad and happy they were, and so, in the moonlight, when they thought no one saw them, they hopped and skipped and jumped and danced, and did all sorts of foolish things.

But other people did see them. Jimmy Skunk saw them and said, "How silly!" Bobby Coon, poking his head out of his hollow tree to see if the last bit of snow had disappeared, yawned sleepily and said, "How foolish!"

But Peter and Jumper didn't know this, and they wouldn't have cared much anyway. They didn't have room for anything but the joy that filled their hearts, and that joy was because they knew that Mistress Spring was on the way, and she always brings the glad time, the happy time, the merry time, when the very air is full of joy and love, and it is, oh, so good to be alive! They knew that she was on the way because Sister South Wind had arrived and told them so, for Sister South Wind had come to prepare the way for her, to melt the snow and ice, and to whisper to all the trees which had slept the long winter through that it was time to wake. So they forgot everything else in the joy of this good news. Peter forgot all his trouble because his friends and neighbors wouldn't believe the story he had told them of the strange great tracks he had found deep in the Green Forest. In fact, he forgot all about those tracks himself. There was too much else to think about. The Green Forest and the Green Meadows, and the Laughing Brook and the Smiling Pool would soon be waking up, and Peter just had to be on hand to greet each of the sleepers, who had spent the long, hard, cold winter warmly tucked in bed, and knowing nothing about Jack Frost, or rough Brother North Wind, or how hard it had been sometimes to get something to eat.

So Peter hopped and skipped and danced in the moonlight with Jumper the Hare, and was happy. "No more days of hunting and hunting to find something to eat!" he cried, as he foolishly tried to jump over his own shadow.

WILMOT.

George Guy has moved his family into the living rooms on the second floor of the John Powell building.

J. Lee Evans and family and Miss Bernice Evans of Pontiac spent the week-end at the Roy Ashcroft and E. V. Evans homes.

Miss Rea Loadie has returned to her home in Cash after spending a week with her uncle, Frank Orchard, and family.

Bert Polworth has traded his home here for a farm near Evart, Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Polworth will remain here for the summer and their son will run the farm.

Harry Garbutt of North Branch, Mrs. Sarah LaCroix of Kingston, Mrs. Cora Atfield and son, Glen, motored to Howell Sunday where they visited Miss Ina Mae Atfield. The many friends of Miss Atfield will be pleased to know that she has improved and is up part of the time.

A Non-Partisan State News Letter
By GENE ALLEMAN
Michigan Press Association

Lansing—Like a financial juggernaut rolling down upon Michigan is the unemployment or welfare problem.

Even with the federal government allotting 30 per cent of the WPA extra appropriation for use in Michigan, Governor Murphy was moved to release a statement to the press that he had talked directly to the White House and had appealed for a grant of 10 to 15 more millions. Cheerless newspaper headlines chilled the citizenry: "110,000 face starvation, says Murphy."

Last week-end the governor flew from Wichita, Kan., to Washington to plead personally for additional federal cash.

Gone long ago was the hope that the state treasury would be balanced and that a huge deficit could be diverted. Terming the care of unemployment "the major responsibility of state government," the governor has let it be known that he insists upon full and adequate treatment of the jobless not only in food and clothing but in medical care.

Grand Rapids Rally

President Roosevelt originally proposed that Congress reduce the highway aid fund for matching state expenditures without a similar reduction in the federal gasoline tax. The reaction was unquestionably unfavorable. Local communities rose in protest against tax diversion because it would mean that projected local road improvements would not be undertaken.

In the spirit of "safety first," good roads promoters of Michigan—chambers of commerce, city officials, tourist leaders, county road commissioners and engineers, the road builders and the state highway department—will meet next Thursday, April 28, at the Grand Rapids Civic Auditorium.

The good roads movement has many supporters. The tourist business depends upon good highways for future development. Entering civic leaders see in the extension of concrete highways a hope for expansion of their trade territory.

In a state as motor-minded as Michigan it is inevitable that automobile owners should think also in terms of highways.

Tax Sale Likely

Attorney General Raymond Starr's recent opinion that public officials "must proceed with their duties" in connection with the May tax sale is believed to have clinched the certainty that delinquent properties will go on the block as scheduled.

The governor had previously hinted of calling the legislature into session to authorize another tax moratorium. The idea fits in with labor's demands at Flint for a "debt moratorium."

Auditor General George Gundry discouraged Murphy. Few homes were involved in the tax sale, he said.

Starr's logic, however, is coldly irrefutable. Property owners will have 18 months to redeem property sold for non-payment of taxes.

Unless all signs fail, the tax sale will be held as authorized.

Romance Lasts 47 Years.

Holly—Nearly 50 years ago they were childhood sweethearts, but that was broken up, the two were separated, were married. When they met recently for the first time in 47 years, Mrs. Ella Letson, a former resident of Holly, and George Schultz, of Remus, were married.

Apples Absorb Oxygen

Like human beings, apples live by absorbing oxygen and expelling carbon dioxide and therefore die of suffocation and begin to decay when they are left too long in the hot, close air of a storeroom or a hold of a ship that is without ventilation, says Collier's Weekly.

Shallow Seas Around British Isles

The seas surrounding the British isles are shallow. If the waters were to subside to the extent of 300 feet, the whole of the British islands, including Ireland, would once more be united to continental Europe.

12th Million

The state legislature appropriated $16,000,000 for welfare needs during the biennium ending June 30, 1939.

By the middle of April—the 10th month of the first fiscal year—the state had started on its 12th million dollars, and the end is not yet in sight. State revenues have been falling, general state expenses are the highest in history, and relief costs have been mounting steadily. The combination is enough to give any budget director the jitters.

Theodore I. Fry, state treasurer, who follows a conservative policy, protests that state expenditures for relief "must stop somewhere."

Experience of other states has also shown that unemployment compensation, whereby temporary "stop gap" aid is given to a worker when he becomes unemployed, has proved wholly inadequate to meet present living costs.

Men on WPA projects have been encouraged by CIO leaders to believe that collective bargaining with the government would benefit their lot—fewer hours and more wages—all through the payment of CIO dues.

To say that the present situation is bewildering and confusing is to put it mildly.

Perhaps you have a better name for it.

Gasoline Taxes

Taxes are high enough, according to the governor, and yet additional money must be obtained in some manner to solve the present crisis.

First as a revenue-getter is the sales tax. Last year it raised over $54,000,000.

Second is the gasoline tax paid by motorists and truck and bus companies for building and maintenance of highways. This includes such costs as snow removal, sanding icy roads, and chemical treatment to lay the dust.

The gasoline tax is particularly profitable in Michigan because so many tourists visit us from other states. A sizeable part of the $130,000,000 tourists income last year was paid by outstate visitors in the form of the little gasoline tax.

Tax Diversion?

The third major source of revenue is the automobile weight tax, also paid by the motorist. This income exceeded $19,500,000 during the past fiscal year.

Here are two financial wells that had a combined flow of $47,000,000.

In the quest for additional relief money it is inevitable that somebody at some time will rise to suggest: "Why not divert some of these millions?"

No official at Lansing has publicly declared himself in favor of motorist tax diversion. And the matter is a bit involved because 1938 happens to be campaign year.

An Electric Water System for Your Farm Pays Cash Dividends

MODERN ELECTRIC water systems are amazingly efficient and inexpensive. They offer endless advantages to every farm and its household. An investment in running water increases profits and contributes to better living.

FOR EXAMPLE, a good supply of running water can increase milk production. The average dairy cow consumes 33 1/3 gallons of water per day, or 1,000 gallons of water per month. This requires about 2 kilowatthours to pump, with a good electric water system. Figured at 2 1/4 cents per kilowatt-hour, the lowest step of your electric rate, the cost of pumping 1,000 gallons per month is only 4 1/2 cents.

MILK PRODUCTION per cow, on the average, can be increased 2 pounds per day by installing an electric water pump to supply water cups at the stalls. The increase in revenue from the additional 60 pounds of milk per cow, computed at an average price of $2.00 per cwt., equals $1.20 per month—all this from 4 1/2 cents' worth of electricity! The time formerly spent by the farmer in carrying water can be used for more constructive occupations—and the farmers' time is worth money.

THE FIRST COST of a pumping outfit is virtually its last. But be sure to select one large enough to meet future demands. Remember that herds increase, and buy accordingly. At the present low cost of electricity, you can afford an electrical water system for your farm!

CHAPTER VIII

Soon they were taxiing over the meadow, and Sarah Lynn saw with a warm uprush of gratitude that it had been leveled into the semblance of a decent landing-field. Great-granny, Uncle Lynn, going to that extra expense so that she might see her Ladybug first in the setting of old memories.

The plane turned, disdained the browning grass, rose serenely into the air. Instantly, Sarah Lynn knew in a blaze of ecstasy that she had never flown before! Turning traitor to all earlier thrills, she realized that a cabin-plane cut in two the kingdom and the power and the glory. Now, with nothing between her and the sky, she was really flying!

"My first flight in my own plane!" she told herself rapturously. "I can never be as happy as this again if I live to be a hundred!"

She wished passionately that there were more hours instead of minutes before her, but the Gipsy Moth devoured the miles relentlessly, and came daintily down at the San Jose airport.

Men came running with grinning, friendly faces to help her out, mechanics, helpers, attendants. There was a youth with a camera which clicked as Sarah Lynn stepped to the ground.

"Well, Miss Dana, how do you like your boat? Slick job, huh? Going to fly her yourself?" He came closer. "Mind if I get one of you and Gunnar Thorwald together?" the reporter persisted. "Shaking hands, huh? Sort of 'Welcome to the sky!'"

"Gunnar Thorwald isn't here," she began coldly, but then she saw him coming toward her. "Oh, please, we'd rather not!" She kept her head down.

The Norwegian ace reached them. "I drive you home," he said without preliminary greeting.

The young newspaper man managed a snapshot while they got into

"You mean—?"

Jordan's car. "Thanks a lot!" he called out, his nose looking pertly triumphant.

They rolled out of the field and down the road.

"Oh, I forgot!" Sarah Lynn said. "Great-granny and Uncle Lynn were coming for me! I'm afraid I must wait for them."

"We meet them on the road?"

"Yes, we could—"

"You must go quickly home?"

"Oh, no," she discarded the happy birthday plans at which her mother had archly hinted. "You mean—"

"I have the earnest wish to see those large trees."

A muscle twitched in her cheek. "Then we'll go to Felton, over the mountains, an hour, an hour and a half—"

"No matter. I am free."

And she was free! Her own plane, her own life!

"So, now," he was saying gravely, "you will fly."

"Now I will fly."

"That is good."

They met the car from Danavale and Sarah Lynn jumped out and ran to explain. "Oh, you've brought Lightning!"

"We had to," Lynn Dana told her. "She was having refined hysterics. Better take her along. I'll telephone your mother." They waited, watching contentedly, until the fliers were out of sight.

Lightning crouched at Sarah Lynn's feet, making small sounds.

"Mountains I like; large trees I like," Gunnar said, coming out of one silence and going into another. She nodded without speaking, and the companionable stillness held, mile on mounting mile.

Redwoods were outlined against the hearty blue sky.

"So, now you fly," Gunnar said again, seriously. "So, now, also, we are friends?"

They were now friends, she told him with a gravity matching his own, and comfortable cloaks of silence enveloped them again.

But a sound of pure astonishment escaped him at sight of the first forest giant.

"But—I have never believed it could be so!"

"Wait!" she pledged him happily. "That is only the prelude to the great ones."

He settled back in his seat with a long, relaxing sigh of contentment. "Large trees I like," he said, "and mountains and the sea, and songs and books; most I like the sky. Also I like a friend."

Sarah Lynn leaned over Lightning and gave her a hug. "You have one good American friend already. My Uncle Lynn says Conrad Jordan is the best possible person in this country for you to know. He says he's everything—a fine flier, a scholar, a sportsman."

"Also, he makes good music."

"Oh? I didn't know that."

"But yes. At his lodge on the Lake of Tahoe, many nights I have sat by the fire, and rain sounding, to listen to his deep thoughts from the piano." He gave generous gangway to a truck. "You shall hear. I will bring you there one day."

She did not answer, unless, indeed, he heard the thumping beat of her heart. She thought he must. It was a relief to reach the park and get out of the car, and to watch his face as they went walking into the presence of the Big Trees.

The effect upon him was satisfying. He would never be ecstatic or explosive, she knew, but all the appreciation and emotion which others expelled went into the quality of his looking, his silence. He stepped softly, as if he found himself in a cathedral, and his face, under the thatch of unsalted-butter-colored hair, might have been the earnest countenance of a Boy Scout bent upon good deeds.

Gunnar was looking only at the trees, so Sarah Lynn was able to look at him. He seemed younger, somehow; his austerity was giving way to a little-boy-like wonder, with an interlining of wistfulness.

"So, now, you fly," he began as before. "So, now, we are friends."

"Yes," she told him contentedly.

"Friends," he repeated, but there was clearly more on his mind. "Fliers," he stated with authority, "shall not marry."

"No?"

"No."

"No," she agreed docilely.

Then they walked on, and he was quite evidently relieved at having settled an important matter swiftly and finally. She would be a flier, and they would be friends, and fliers did not marry.

Newspaper publicity broke out like a rash.

Miss Ethelinda Pennington proved to be putty in the hands of bright young reporters and bland feature-writers from San Jose and San Francisco papers. Quickly and painlessly they extracted a vivid picture of Sarah Lynn's odd childhood with many quaint details as to the mornings in the meadow and her preoccupation with ladybugs, and departed jubilantly for their typewriters before she was well out of the ether.

Ladybug was a rich theme and they rang endless changes upon it. Many pages went from the wheeled-chair to Sally Ann in Cornwall.

"There was an epic battle between Cousin Adelaide, big and beautiful and lyrically maternal, and the little old matriarch, small and mighty and mad. 'I'm sorry for you, Addie,' she said, 'but you better make up your mind to it. You're worse off than the hen that hatched ducks; you got an eagle, and I guess maybe it's harder to watch 'em fly than swim!'"

"We bought her that flying-machine, Lynn and me, and we're paying a young feller to teach her to run it. Didn't I tell you, first time ever I laid eyes on the young-one? I knew right off she was one of the dark ones."

"Then she went close and peered up at her and shook a parchment finger in her face. 'And you listen to me, Addie, for it's the gospel truth. She's more my child than she is yours, for all you barked her and there's worse than seventy years between us!'"

Sarah Lynn was sincerely sorry for her mother's martyrdom, but life contained for her now only two shining and splendid facts—flying and Gunnar Thorwald: when other subjects came into her mind it was like pouring fluids into an already brimming bowl; they simply ran over and off.

Whenever she flew with Gunnar Thorwald, Sarah Lynn sat in silence watching his sure hands, looking, learning, remembering, and stored up questions for the earth.

"I have the wish to see your Golden Gate in sunset," he said one day.

They were driving to the landing-field. "Gunnar, I want to come down in a parachute," Sarah Lynn said.

"Yes. But not yet. There's for you much more learning."

"Of course. After I can really fly. It must be the most satisfying thing in the world and not so terribly hard. Just wait and count ten before you pull the string."

"That is, you think, so simple?"

She shivered happily. "It must be the most gloriously terrifying thing—just bailing out into the blue beyond with a silly trick parol over you! But I want to do it, Gunnar."

He nodded. "You shall do it. That I promise. From my plane. But—when I say you are ready."

"Yes," she settled back in her seat, entirely content.

Lynn Dana had written Sally Ann the night before: "As to your question—I don't know. Our queer dark one, beyond all possibility of a doubt, quite literally worships the air he flies in. As for the lad—he approves her utterly for her courage and cleverness, but he's flint-hard and bat-blind. If her heart's on her sleeve, he doesn't see it, and she has a nice young dignity and reticence."

Something did not quite suit Gunnar in Hermod's rhythm as they flew up the valley, and they came down at Oakland before crossing the bay. It needed only a minor adjustment, but would take a little time.

"Tea, while we wait," the ace said. He hailed a taxi and put her in it, and they drove a couple of blocks. "Here! This will do!"

It was a shabby little eating-house with a menu written in chalk on a blackboard at the door.

"Wait!" Gunnar directed the taxi-driver.

"Sure," he said amiably. "Comin' in myself. 'Lo, Lena!" he greeted a big-busted woman with dyed hair. "How's tricks?" He sat down in the last seat before the counter which brought him close to the tiny kitchen from which issued heat and smells.

The fliers sat near the door. "Tea and bread, honey," he ordered briefly.

The woman slammed down their plates and cups and Gunnar was buttering a thick slice of bread.

Their taxi-driver had risen and slouched into the back room, and now a little man in an enveloping apron came out. He had scared eyes and an unimportant chin, and he was staring at them. He spoke over his shoulder. "Honest? You ain't stringin' me, Nick?"

The woman said something to him and he popped out of sight like a gopher into its hole, and the taxi-driver came back, grinning.

It was the usual thing to be recognized. Almost everywhere they went someone knew Gunnar Thorwald at once, and then there would be nudges and whispers.

Other customers came in. The woman served them truculently. Her husband came edging out of the kitchen again to stare at Gunnar and Sarah Lynn. He had a droll little pot-bellied figure and pipe-stem legs, and he stood nervously rubbing his hands over his dirty apron.

"I just gott ast you," he began in a hissing whisper. "Nick, he's a great one to kid you along. On the level, are you Gunnar Thorwald and—that girl?"

They were, they told him, Sarah Lynn gently, the Norwegian ace with a sudden friendliness which surprised her.

The wife wheeled about, snarling. "You get back where you belong!" She took an order. "Stack 'a' wheats!" "Ham and!"

Without a word he scuttled back into his unsavory domain.

Gunnar finished his bread and honey and drank off his tea. His eyes were narrowed to a gleaming blue slit. Then he stood up and walked back through the stuffy room, past the hunched figures feeding at the counter, and stuck his head into the steam and stench.

"So it interests you—flying?"

"Interests—say, boy! I read every scrap I can lay hands on, and I see every movie that's got flying in it, and when I stand here, hashin' and hear 'em go by in the sky—" he stopped, gulping, his Adam's-apple moving convulsively in his stringy throat.

The wife came back with a pile of soiled plates and pushed rudely past the flier. "Pop, you tend to business! Tea-bone and country fry!"

The Norwegian looked through and beyond her. "Yourself would wish to fly?"

The little man put down a long pronged fork and clasped small pudgy hands with broken and black-rimmed nails. "Just once—before I die—I wouldn't ast nothin' more. I wouldn't—"

"Come, then!"

It was all done in a flash. The aviator's arm which seemed to lift him bodily out of his fetid trench and propel him through the tiny restaurant and into the taxi, the driver, wiping his mouth, grinning, running after jumping into his seat, Sarah Lynn, delighted, agast, following Gunnar, the staring customers, the woman emitting shrill staccato cries—

"Pop! Pop! You come back here! You crazy? Want to break your fool neck? Pop!" She began to whimper and storn. "You let loose a' him. Mister! I'll call a cop! You can't kidnap—"

They were rattling down the street, the little man wedged in between them, the unhealthy pallor of his face suffused with scarlet excitement.

Sarah Lynn drew Gunnar aside while the Hermod was being wheeled to the line. "It's a gorgeous thing to do—and I adore it! Look at him—almost expiring with bliss! But, Gunnar, he looks so sick—he has such a wretched color, and see how he breathes. I mean—suppose he has a weak heart?" She put an anxious hand on his arm.

He looked down at her, his gaze at once stern and gay, reckless and reasonable. "Thinking still with fear of death? You have not listened, then, while I told you? Life is one adventure; death is another! To be alive—that is nothing, unless life is good. Is he living in that foul hole? Better death in clean air! We go!"

"Greater Love Hath No Man—" Muskegon—When one of his workers was overcome by fumes while cleaning a gasoline storage tank in Muskegon recently, Foreman Richard Mullally, 27, rushed into the tank without a gas mask, tied a rope around the body of the unconscious worker, Kenneth Mack, and signalled for other workmen to pull. Mack was hauled to safety, but Mullally was dead when taken from the tank.

More Noise Than Damage.

Grand Lodge—Residents of a western section of Grand Lodge were awakened early one morning by what they at first feared was an explosion at the Blair refinery. A smoke box at one of the stills at the plant had blown out, making an alarming noise but causing little damage.

Henhouse Double Feature.

Sidney—A short time ago, a woman residing near Sidney found an egg 7½ inches by 6½ inches in circumference in her hen house. The egg weighed four ounces. Upon breaking the shell it was found that another shell was encased in the outer one. This shell, completely surrounded by the ordinary white and yolk, measured 5½ inches by four inches.

RURAL SCHOOLS

Rescue School.
Teacher, Miss Catherine MacLachlan.
Reporters, Madelyn O'Rourke and Wilma Hartsell.

Those who were neither tardy nor absent for the month of April were: Justus and Theodore Ashmore, Sylvia Fay, Wilma, Elda, Roland, William and Leonard Hartsell, Kenneth, Geraldine and Isabel Martin, Kenneth MacAlpine, Betty MacAlpine, Dean Powell, Grace Ellis, Jackie and Madelyn O'Rourke.

Those on the honor roll are Clarence Kilpatrick, Eleanor Longuski, Alton and Clifton Summers, Madelyn O'Rourke, Edna Ellis, Harold Commis, Elda Roland and William Hartsell, Dean Powell, Isabelle, Geraldine and Kenneth Martin, Betty MacAlpine and Kenneth MacAlpine.

We had an Easter party this week. We had cake and homemade ice cream.

Our visitors this week were Donald and Marguerite Cummins, Ilene Ellis and Anna Mae Hartsell.

Sharrard School.

Teacher, Agnes E. MacLachlan.
Reporters, Genevieve Miljure and Olga Dombrowski.

We had an Easter party this week. We played games. Eva King's side lost in the contest and served sandwiches and eggs to Robert Kipfer's side. We also had candy bars to complete the lunch. We had no school on Good Friday.

Our teacher gave us some new sponge balls.

We have been playing anti-over at noons and recesses.

We each received a package of bird cards from the Arm & Hammer Soda Co.

We received our report cards Thursday. Those on the honor roll were Kathryn Woolner, John Gross, Richard Zaleski, Harold King, Joseph Dombrowski, Genevieve Miljure and Albertus Kipfer.

Those receiving attendance certificates were John and Jake Gross.

Robert and Albertus Kipfer and Genevieve Miljure.

We had monthly tests this week. Josephine Zaleski received a spelling certificate this week.

Those having 100 in spelling for the week are Kathryn and Kenneth Woolner, Richard and Josephine Zaleski, Harold, Eva, Edward and Marion King, Robert and Albertus Kipfer, Joseph and Olga Dombrowski, Genevieve Miljure, Aileen Kirby, and Joseph Figurskey.

Leek School.

Teacher, Sarah Schell.
Reporters, Betty Jane Bruce and Dolores Turner.

For geography, the fourth and fifth grades are studying the outstanding possessions of the United States.

We had two visitors Friday, Betty Jean and Mariam Silvermail. They are from Caro.

Several of the children were absent Friday on account of it being Good Friday. Most of them attended church.

We are making a collection of bird pictures.

The first and second grades are having health charts to fill out each day.

Those receiving monthly certificates for being neither tardy nor absent were: Audrey Richards, Betty Jeane and Martha Bruce.

For fifth grade language, we have been learning how to divide words, using a hyphen.

The third grade are learning the poem, "The Bluebird," for language.

SUGAR BEETS and your SEEDINGS

A good catch of alfalfa, sweet clover or red clover means better grazing, less weeds and higher quality hay. A healthy growing forage crop means finally an improved soil.

It is universally known by old beet growers that alfalfa does much better seeded with a grain crop, following beets, than any other farm crop. Alfalfa stands become better after beets because the grain crops grown after beets never lodge too much, ripen faster, and are harvested earlier.

The soil contains more fertilizer for the growing alfalfa plant to get a rapid start. Also, the channels left by Sugar Beet roots create a passageway for quicker growth of seeding roots to moisture and thorough establishment in the subsoil.

Beet growers have found that by heavily fertilizing the beet crop 300 pounds to 500 pounds of fertilizer to the acre, they can establish seedlings where they have never been able to before.

A Definite Rotation Means More Profits Less Speculation—Easier Work

It takes planning ahead to grow a good money crop of beets. Sugar Beets like any other crop do better in definite rotation.

Sugar Beets naturally follow a corn, bean or cultivated crop, feeding and thriving on the plant food which beans or corn did not feed on. Small grains are planted after beets. The beet ground does not have to be plowed for grains.

It merely has to be dragged several times and is ready to be sown to grain before any of the other ground on the farm. The grains again feed on the decayed root system of the beet and thrive on combinations of plant food which is not needed by the Sugar Beet.

Farms which follow a definite rotation with a root crop such as Sugar Beets in the rotation do better in all kinds of weather and work easier.

The action of corn roots, grain roots, bean roots, alfalfa roots, and Sugar Beet roots, all have a different action on the soil making it more granular, weed-free, easier to work, richer in plant food, and healthier because of air that can get into the soil better.

In wet years a farm with a definite rotation, with beets included, drains better. In dry years it holds the moisture better and the loose soil allows roots to penetrate into subsoil moisture quicker.

Definite four to seven year rotations, with Sugar Beets included, softens a hard soil and keeps it from getting hard.

Toothsome Education . . .

A Child Health Day Feature On How New York Schools Are Teaching Dental Hygiene

This unenthusiastic young lady typifies thousands of New York school children who visit Guggenheim dental clinic regularly for lessons in oral hygiene and practical instructions in correct care of the teeth. Objecting at first, they soon find careful attention to the teeth obviates painful dental sessions in the future.

Each youngster's toothbrush is kept in a sterilized rack container at Guggenheim clinic, to be used regularly for "drill" purposes. These students are going through their "daily dental dozen" with vim and vigor.

Off stride, they're being shown the correct brushing movement under supervision of a graduate dentist and nurse. Rubber aprons protect clothing.

Open wide! Youngsters with teeth in bad need of cleaning first undergo a thorough dental scouring, then move to the brushing room where they are taught to keep them spotless.

On the first visit to the clinic, the child's teeth receive a thorough examination. Cavities are filled and, as a last resort, bad teeth extracted. The little patient may decide whether the anesthetic be local or general. This child is taking gas.

Removal of Gall Bladder

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

A PROMINENT lawyer was going down hill physically. He was seventy years of age but had always been able to look after his legal work despite attacks of indigestion and an irritation which caused painful and frequent emptying of the urine.

The indigestion gave him loss of appetite, sour taste in the mouth, a bloated feeling, gas on the stomach and in the intestine, fullness after eating, and either constipation or diarrhoea.

He didn't want to go to a doctor as he was afraid that an operation, perhaps two operations, might be necessary, and at seventy years of age he was "taking no chances."

The symptoms, however—terrible attacks of indigestion, and the frequent desire to pass urine—made him decide that life wasn't worth the living with this pain and distress so he consulted his physician.

Some months later friends meeting him on the street stopped him and congratulated him on his splendid appearance—good color, brisk walk, calm, serene face.

Don't Put Off Operation.

To the inquiry as to the cause of the change in his appearance, he quite casually remarked, "Oh, they found some gall stones and removed my gall bladder, and then a little later I had them remove the gland at the neck of the bladder, so with these two annoyances removed I'm feeling young again."

The point here is that while operation can never be treated lightly and operation on one past seventy would seem somewhat of a serious risk, nevertheless when gall stones are present it is not the age of the patient that matters from the standpoint of a good recovery after operation, but the length of time the patient has allowed the symptoms to be present before undergoing the operation.

So if your doctor advises removal of the gall bladder, don't put it off too long. If it should come out, the sooner the better.

Dieting Daughters.

One of the unfortunate things about prescribing reducing diets, particularly for women, is that so many young women of normal weight, or even below normal weight, believe that they will have a better appearance, will look "slim," if they follow the general rule of reducing weight, which, after all, is "just to eat less food."

Intelligent young women, college and business girls, who would not think of using a drug such as thyroid extract to reduce weight, will deliberately "starve" themselves to get the slim boyish figure.

"Of all the conditions found on examination of large groups of young women, underweight is about the most universal and likewise the most likely to prove dangerous," I am quoting Jane Foster, R. N., in Hygeia. Miss Foster is assistant director of health, Sarah Lawrence college.

"There is then the problem of the girl of eighteen or nineteen consciously controlling her own weight at a standard below that for good health. Now the greatest cause for death in this age group is tuberculosis, the predisposing factor of which is malnutrition—underweight.

"The greatest cause of illness in college health records is found to be infections of the nose, throat and chest and these, too, go with pronounced underweight. Other companions of underweight may be irritable dispositions and a loss of the natural mental ability or alertness. Those who work with this age group are frequently impressed with the large number who complain of fatigue and general dissatisfaction with life."

Of course the cause of this fatigue, irritability, dissatisfaction with life, is that these young women, who should be eating more food at this age than at any other age in their lifetime, are actually eating less than the body needs just to keep it working, aside from the extra food needed for growth in height and width. And the foods that should be eaten for growth and strength—meat, eggs and milk—are not included to any extent in the diet of these slim-mad girls.

What these girls of normal weight forget is that underweight means undernourishment, and undernourishment means that a reduction of the "energy reserves" of the body occurs when not enough food is eaten and the body is below normal weight.

The energy reserves of the body—the reserves needed to promote health and growth, and prevent or lessen the effects of illnesses—can only be maintained by a generous all round diet at this important age in a woman's life.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

"THE marriage and the room are both new and shining," writes a reader who asks us for an approval or a suggestion about the room—not the marriage! She sounds like a person we'd like . . . maybe because she hands us a plum in her last paragraph for which we are very grateful. Anyway, here's her problem.

"I have an Oriental rug with a rust ground and designs in other tones, two mahogany cabinets, Phyfe coffee table and a Sheraton sofa in blue-green. Because we like our hearth, we are about to buy a pair of easy chairs, not too large, but comfortable, to flank the fireplace.

"Considering again that dear delight and source of color scheme—the rug—I'm wondering if one chair in deep blue and the other in green, probably antique velvet, might be a wise choice. My reasons for not wanting rust or gold are, first, there's so much rust in the rug, and second, the gold I see usually looks too gilded and elaborate for the effect I want.

"The windows all have beige ruffled curtains; the walls are yellow with white woodwork. The room is west with five large windows, four of which make a bay in which I have a Phyfe table and two chairs and an Oriental rug in blues and beiges. I've been using turquoise accents but if you advise I could change to something warmer. For summer I have a start in a rosy beige slip cover for the sofa with turquoise binding. What summer cover would you suggest for the two new chairs? I doubt whether I'll be able to afford a summer rug so again must keep the ubiquitous rust in mind."

For the two chairs by the hearth, we'd be inclined to suggest the same material. Why wouldn't turquoise be right here, or a shade of blue-green just lighter than that you have on the sofa? For summer you might use a flowered material with a turquoise ground. I like your turquoise accents; keep them, but if you like, you could add a piece or two of copper, kept gleaming. Don't worry about the room being too chilly with the cool colors on the furniture. Remember that your biggest expanses—floor and walls and windows—are in warm colors, which makes cool colors in the furniture almost essential.

Dramatizing the Lady.

Gentlemen prefer blue—you can't evade that. So they like Hildegard's living room, which has the blues very literally, being all in shades of blue. But it doesn't give you the blues. Not at all, probably because it's a very becoming background and has a way of dramatizing the lady in the case.

Anyway, Hildegard was pretty brave to attempt it, but now that it's worked out so beautifully, everybody's saying how clever she is. She began with a soft gray-blue carpet, then used a slightly lighter gray-blue for the fall color. Draperies of the same blue as the wall but in a textured material merged themselves gracefully into the walls, and overhung sheer curtains of oyster gray. The upholsteries ranged from the ink blue velvet of the big fireside sofa to the paler smoke blue satin on a sectional settee near the fireplace. Then a pair of chairs in a striped gray and blue fabric, along with a textured covering in gray-blue for an extra chair, added the feeling of pattern to the ensemble.

Furniture and accessories in a room like this demanded a careful eye for balance and tone. Hildegard used mostly blond woods for her furniture, with accent pieces in mirror.

Because her balance of color was right and her colors chosen with minute feeling for the fine shades of difference in tone, Hildegard's room was a success. But oh, dear—that's a difficult type of room to do and one that shouldn't be attempted by a lady who isn't awfully sure of her color sense.

COLOR IMPORTANT TOPIC THIS SPRING

Recaptures Sentiment and Femininity of the Past.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Speaking of the important vogue of color scheduled for spring—it's a riot! Seems as if all the romance, the sentiment, the fascinating femininity of century-past fashions have been recaptured in present day modes. The fact that pastels have been revised (inspired by Watteau paintings and Eighteenth century dress) and that we will be wearing pale blues and dusty pinks and lavenders and mauves for veils. In gloves for footwear, for accessory touches and costume jewelry, would indicate that fashion has grown sentimental in taste.

However, we're glad of it. We have come out of the lethargy that kept us in dark colors, and according to the signs this will be a seasonally colorful season.

It is not only that colors in themselves are intriguing but designers are using the most remarkable color combinations. The bi-color idea is especially played up. The costume entire makes you feel there is a fair fifty-fifty use of, say, red with navy or white or a new light yellow or any combined colors. A certain French designer prefers to use colors of the same family together, such as sapphire blue with Wedgewood blue, rust with gold and so on.

For immediate daytime frocks navy with touches of dusty pink seems to be in the lead. Raspberry with navy is also employed. White as worn in the South has an enviable touch of vivid color supplied by accessories or trimming details.

STRESS STRIPES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

There is nothing smarter or newer one can choose in the way of a suit for spring than that which is tailored of a striped material. In fact stripes are the big news for suits. Creed of Paris designed this dark blue and white striped suit with white trimming and white belt. The Rose Valois hat is an interesting type that emphasizes the importance of scarf trims, the long ends of which either drop to the back and about shoulders as pictured or wind round the throat in becoming manner.

Prints for Town Wear Are More Glowing in Coloring

The prints designed for town and resort wear are more vivid than ever in coloring, although silk prints for daytime have a tendency toward smaller designs.

Something new and nice are the all-over patterns that simulate lace or embroidery.

Yellow is very prominent in the color line-up, appearing as a ground as well as a dominant hue in the design. Yellow is a good choice for a background since it can be worn nicely with a black, brown or blue coat.

STYLE NOTES

It's a season of enchanting colors. Necklines are low-cut and going lower.

Amusing novel clips and pins, animals, fruits, birds and such adorn smart suit lapels.

Pale oatmeal shades vie with white for dresses and coats.

Front fullness, flat back is new formula for skirts.

Beige dyed fox on nude woolen is important for coats and suits. Fashion calls for pink accessories, pink veils, pink flowers, pink jewelry.

Use Leis of Artificial

Flowers as Chic Touch

A pretty custom is being followed in southern resorts which will "carry on" later in the north of wearing graceful leis made of small artificial flowers. These flower necklaces as one might call them are most flattering, their charm added unto by wearing a flower in the hair to match.

Rather Laughable Idealism. Bay City Times.

One naturally wonders whether Edward W. McFarland, chairman of the state liquor control board, was laughing in his sleeve while making his talk here to the liquor dealers.

When he described the Michigan monopoly and marketing system as "a plan of controlled consumption, a plan of moderation," surely he must have done a little inward snickering.

It is to be regretted that he neglected to say who does the controlling. Certainly stocking up with seven million dollars worth of hard liquor and maintaining agencies for selling it in every place that will warrant the expense is no indication of downward control. And it would be interesting to find the person who has been refused a bottle at a state dispensary if he had the money to pay for it.

As Mr. McFarland knows the conditions quite well and naturally has much to do with framing the sales campaigns, of course he was merely talking when he made his pretty speech.

But why not get away from the hypocrisy? When a state engages in the liquor business it is not making a social experiment but running a super-saloon to make money.

The odor of sanctity and the acrid smell of red liquor do not mix well, so why try to blend them?
