SHORTAGE OF SKILLED LABOR.

We have frequently stated, in this magazine, that much harm has been done by implanting the idea that any boy might some day be President of the United States.

PRIZES IN JOURNALISM.

The annual award of the prizes provided by the will of the late Joseph Pulitzer has honored a number of brilliant newspaper men, besides recognizing high achievement in other fields of writing.

GOVERNMENT AND MONOPOLIES.

President Roosevelt wants $500,000 spent in an investigation of business, to see what can be done to break up price fixing and monopolistic practices that interfere with democratic ideals and free enterprise and competition.

PROBLEM YOUTHS.

A recent estimate has it that 250,000 youths between the ages of 16 and 24 are in jail, and an equal number wandering around the country.

PARKING PROBLEMS.

The American Automobile Association is to study the problem of parking the nation's cars. It remarks that even if parking is regulated and controlled, there is not enough parking space at the street curbs to take care of the demand.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

YOU can't beat the Dutch! With practically no ado at all, they've been quietly working away at a solution of the housing problem that makes the plans of other nations look pretty incidental.

Bought and Paid For.

So many of us homemakers have brainstorms in buying every now and then that we may be heartened by this story of the lady who acquired a pair of "problem" bedspreads.

She Was Audacious With Accessories

little on the masculine side—which, she claims, is as it should be since it is her husband's room too. She chose a deep woody green for her rug, and painted the walls of the room a cool, light green as a complement.

ACCORDING to the San Francisco Call, a young couple went camping in the Tuolumne country. They parked their car, which was equipped with an especially loud horn, beside a stream and started out on a hike.

New Discoveries Made in Alaska and Aleutians.

Washington, D. C.—The Aleutian islands and Alaska apparently constituted a "nursery" of races. New evidence of this has just been brought back to Washington by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of physical anthropology of the Smithsonian institution, who has just returned to Washington after his ninth summer in the Far North in an effort to retrace the steps by which the North American continent was originally populated from Asia.

Populated by Aleuts.

The finds this summer, Doctor Hrdlicka says, make more probable than ever the hypothesis of a "race nursery" in the Far North for the aboriginal population of the New world.

Five Distinct Strains.

Thus, Dr. Hrdlicka points out, the Far Northwest today presents five distinct though basically related strains, instead of one or two, as was believed up to a few years ago:

1. The long-and-high-headed Eskimo of the Seward peninsula, Barrow and eastward along the Arctic coast to Labrador and Greenland.

2. The broad-headed and medium-vaulted Eskimo of the Bering sea coast and along the interior rivers from the Yukon southward.

3. The Aleuts—Broad-headed with low skull vaults.

4. The Alaskan Indians.

5. The oblong-headed pre-Aleuts whose remains were found in the Aleutian chain last summer.

Individuals of all five of these races shade into each other, Dr. Hrdlicka says. It is only when the anthropological averages of larger numbers are taken that the racial distinctions become clear.

In addition, on Agatu island, one of the westernmost of the Aleutian chain, Dr. Hrdlicka found a whole new stone industry belonging to the pre-Aleut people.

The expedition also found once more a number of mummies and enlarged notably the national collections of Aleutian cultural collections.
