Norman Herr Fatally Burned

Kerosene Poured on Fire Sets Boy Ablaze, Inflicting Terrible Burns.

While attempting to start a fire in the kitchen stove with kerosene Monday morning at his home, three miles south and four miles west of Cass City, Norman Herr, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Herr, Sr., was fatally burned. He was hurried to the Morris Hospital for treatment and he passed away at four o'clock that afternoon.

Norman arose at six o'clock and it is thought that while pouring oil in the stove to hasten the fire, an explosion occurred blowing the bottom out of the can and showering him with oil. All ablaze, the boy ran into the yard, and before his parents could reach him, his entire body was severely burned. The kitchen of the home was badly damaged by the fire.

Norman Herr was born October 19, 1925, in Fort Wayne, Indiana, and moved with his parents to Cass City four years ago. Funeral services were held at 1:00 p. m. Wednesday in the Angus McPhail home. Burial was in Ellington Cemetery.

He is survived by his parents, two brothers, Billie and Clare, and five sisters, Phyllis, Jacqueline, Lamar, Nancy and Kay.

Men's Octette Here Next Thursday Night

The Men's Octette of North Central College at Naperville, Ill., for many years regular visitors in Cass City, will appear in sacred and secular concert at the Evangelical Church Thursday evening, Sept. 1, at 8:15 p. m. The octette is making its thirty-sixth annual tour of the United States and Canada traveling from the college at Naperville to the Pacific coast and reaching many of the central states. The octette is selected from a home squad of fifty voices which make up the College Glee Club and are under the direction of Clarence Dissinger, director of music at the college. The accompanist for the group will be Robert Hieber, a student in the school of music of the college.

There is no charge for admission to the concert, although an offering will be received for the singers and club expenses.

North Central College, which the octette represents, is a Christian liberal arts college of "A" grade standing and a member of the North Central Association of colleges. It is endowed and supported by the Evangelical Church.

TUSCOLA MARRIAGES.

Robert Melvin Milner, 22, Caro; Geraldine Thelma Bell, 20, Unionville; married August 21 at Colling by Rev. Fred W. Sharp.

Ernst Gauderer, 34, Birch Run; Maxine Morgan, 25, Birch Run; married August 20 at Otter Lake by Rev. A. Earl Hatt.

Frank Trotter, 23, Ypsilanti; Eileen M. Bitzer, 22, Unionville; married at Unionville on August 20 by Rev. A. W. Wilkening.

DELINQUENT TAX PAYMENTS.

Since August 1, delinquent tax collections made by Arthur Whittemburg, Tuscola County treasurer, have reached $4,891.48. Nearly all the payments included in this total have been those made on the ten-year plan.

Pleasant August Days Lend Happiness to Families of Community in Reunions

Brown Reunion.

The third annual Brown reunion was held at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert James Brown on Sunday, August 21, with 114 friends and relatives in attendance.

A potluck dinner was served at noon and ice cream and cake at five o'clock. Games were played by the children and prizes were given to the winners.

The oldest member present was Joseph Brown, 80 years old, of Cass City. The youngest was Baby Carroll Hunter, five-weeks-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hunter of Snover.

News officers elected for the following year are: President, Mrs. Bertha Brown Kilbourne; vice president, Joseph Hunter; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Effie Hendrick.

Relatives and friends were present from Jarvis, Ontario, Detroit, Port Huron, Trenton, Lapeer, Pontiac, Dearborn, Argyle, Decker, Snover, Cass City and Gagetown.

The Brown history, dating back to 1797, was read by Mrs. Bertha

McNAMEE IS SPEAKER AT DISTRICT CONVENTION

Robert L. McNamee is listed among the distinguished visitors at the meeting of 100 engineers from six states attending the convention of the seventh district, American Society of Civil Engineers, held this week-end at Houghton, Mich., under the auspices of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology. Mr. McNamee, a son of R. A. McNamee, of Cass City, is a member of an Ann Arbor engineering firm and is consulting engineer for the state of Michigan in matters concerning water and sanitary conditions. He was one of the speakers on the convention program at Houghton.

Larke Tells "The Story of Sugar"

Emphasized There Is No Difference Between the Cane and Beet Sugars.

It was a diversified program at the Rotary Club luncheon here Tuesday. During the meal, Otis Heath led the group singing, and directly after the luncheon, C. E. Jackson, an expert in trick and fancy horseshoe pitching, demonstrated unusual skill in ringing stakes hidden by a blanket, pitching ringers through loops formed by another's arms, knocking a paper bag from his wife's head with a shoe and making a ringer, and other unusual stunts. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are one of the entertainment features of the Tuscola County Fair at Caro this week. The speaker was Glenn R. Larke. Turn to page 8, please.

Guess This One? Taken When We Were Young

Mrs. Helen Karr, the first to register a guess on last week's picture, was correct in her opinion as were Mrs. Edward Helwig, A. O. Smithson and W. D. Striffler. They all named William McKenzie. Stanley Striffler was sure that it was Dr. Harry Striffler's picture and Leonard Patch wrote the Chronicle that the likeness was that of John Epplette. Of course, a person cannot be right all of the time.

Today's picture represents the youthful days of one long a citizen of this community. Phone, write or drop into the Chronicle and register your opinion.

Rural Teachers in County Meets

Tuscola Instructors Meet August 27 and Those of Sanilac Co. August 29.

Rural teachers of Tuscola County will meet at the court house in Caro on Saturday, August 27, at 1:30 p. m. Plans for the year will be discussed and supplies will be distributed to teachers. A member of the college extension department of the Michigan State Normal College will be present and the opportunity will be given to select two subjects to be offered in the extension classes at Caro this fall.

The rural teachers of Sanilac County will meet in Sandusky, on Monday, August 29, at the court house at 2:00 p. m., according to an announcement by School Commissioner John R. Francis. Those teachers whose schools open that day will hold half day sessions.

Miss Marian C. Barton of the Department of Extension Education of Michigan State Normal College will be present to determine the subjects desired by those interested in extension classes, also the hour and place of meeting.

Dr. Gaston will give a brief outline of the plans of the Health Department for the coming year and Clarence E. Prentice, county agricultural agent, will discuss 4-H club work plans.

Mr. Francis will greet the county teachers and discuss with them the program of the new term. Supplies for the year will be distributed at the office.

Peck Man Accused of Theft of Aged Pal's Pocketbook

Vandall Nemeth, 44, of Peck was arrested on Monday charged with larceny of the person and when he appeared before Justice M. G. Atwood he was bound over to the circuit court and bonds were set at $500.

Saturday afternoon, Nemeth, and an acquaintance, Andy Gaul, 72, went out together. When Andy reached his home 1 1/2 miles north of Colwood, he discovered he was short his zipper pocketbook which contained $21 and his citizenship papers. He reported his loss to Deputy Sheriff Goslin. Sunday night, Sheriff George Jeffrey located and arrested Nemeth in Saginaw.

Nemeth, officers report, said he threw away the pocketbook on the road nearly four miles south of Gagetown. The finder will confer a great favor on the owner by returning the pocketbook with the citizenship papers to Mr. Gaul.

Milk Producers Ask Price Increase

Negotiations so far have failed to reach an agreement on August milk price to producers in the Detroit area. On August 15, the special committee representing producers proposed to dealers that an increase in Class I price go into effect for the second half of August. The price asked was $2.15 per hundred at receiving stations and in the first 45-mile zone with a one-cent decrease for each 8-mile zone outside.

Bargaining for f. o. b. prices at stations would be a departure from the system of quoting prices f. o. b. city.

The extreme heat of August 15 had no effect in melting dealer opposition to the proposed price. It would necessitate, they alleged, a higher scale of prices to the retail and wholesale trade. Under prevailing depression conditions dealers claimed customers would do without milk, use substitutes, or purchase at cut-rate stores.

Some months past dealers asked for lower prices to meet market conditions which they believed could be improved. Producers claim the price declined more than can be justified for this time of year.

New School Bus Route.

Plans are under way for a new Cass City school bus route. This route is scheduled to run six miles north of Cass City, two east, two north, one east, two north, and then east to M-53 and returning by a way that will accommodate as many students as possible in that section.

Tentative plans also include the extension of the high school bus running to nine miles west, one north, two east, and back to the main road.

Persons interested are requested to interview Principal Willis Campbell immediately.—Advertisement.

Earle Memorial Group Here in '39

Association officials felt that nothing could be accomplished by holding a meeting this year, so the Earle Memorial Highway Association decided to cancel its 1938 gathering, Fred W. Kinde, its president, has announced.

The 1939 meeting will be held in July, 1939, in Cass City to celebrate completion of seven miles of pavement on M-53 south of the junction of M-53 and M-81. Efforts will be made at this meeting to obtain completion of the nine mile stretch which will remain north of the junction.

Well Acquainted with the Early History of Cass City

Anyone who wants information regarding the early history of Cass City may secure facts regarding the beginning days of this community by consulting Mrs. Alice Moore, who has been a resident of Tuscola County since 1867 and who came to Cass City four years later.

Alice Buckingham was born near Chicago 82 years ago and moved with her parents when she was five years old to Ohio. The family settled on a farm near Kingston, that village then existed, in 1867 and four years later she came to Cass City to reside with her sister, Mrs. Charles Zinnecker. Mr. Zinnecker was the first miller to operate the first mill to grind flour in Cass City which was built by Howell & Ale. He is 94 years old and now resides in Honey Grove, Texas.

When Miss Buckingham reached the age of 21 years, she went to Caseville where she conducted a millinery store for 13 years. Caseville was then in her heyday of business with two salt blocks, iron works, grist mill, two saw mills and four hotels, besides the usual stores. Business life was very active and progressive those days in the Saginaw Bay village.

In 1891, she married M. L. Moore and three years later they moved from Caseville to Cass City. Here Mr. Moore represented the express company as its agent. It was the days before the parcel post and the express business involved a large volume of incoming and outgoing shipments. Mrs. Moore resumed her occupation of trimming and selling women's hats, conducting a millinery business here for 14 years.

While in the seventies, Mrs. Moore made several trips from Michigan to Texas and is contemplating such a journey again. She enters upon these across nation trips with anticipations of pleasure and no hesitation or timidity.

Eighty-two years rest lightly on the shoulders of Mrs. Moore and she is unusually active for one who two years ago entered the ranks of the octogenarians of this community.

BELL-MILNER.

A lovely wedding took place on Sunday afternoon, August 21, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bell near Unionville when their daughter, Miss Geraldine Thelma Bell, became the bride of Robert M. Milner, son of Mrs. Anna Milner, of Almer. Rev. Fred Sharp of Colling read the service.

The bride wore a beautiful floor-length white satin gown with floor-length veil falling from a crown. The dress was made with a high waist line with an accordion pleated skirt, and was highlighted by a wide girde of deep orchid shadow velvet. She carried an arm bouquet of pure white gladioli, tied with orchid tulle.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Nora Bell, of Flint, who wore a floor-length pink crepe dress and carried mixed asters, tied with tulle of green.

Norman Rutledge of Reese attended Mr. Milner as best man. Twenty-five relatives were present and were served ice cream and bride's cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Milner left on a short trip through the North and will make their home with Mr. Milner's mother, on the farm where he was born and raised.

A reception for the newlyweds is being planned for Tuesday evening, August 30, at the home of the bride's parents to which two hundred relatives and friends have been invited.

Office Closed Thursday Afternoons. Dr. P. A. Schenck's dental office will be closed on Thursday afternoons during the summer months.—Advertisement.

Three Named on Tenant Loan Com.

Walter Heckroth, H. N. Green and W. S. Smith Are the Members.

A county committee of three farmers has been named by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to certify applications for tenant purchase loans in Tuscola County, it was announced today by Harry S. Muir, regional director of the Farm Security Administration, Milwaukee, Wis.

The members, appointed from a group recommended by the State FSA Advisory Committee, the local county agricultural and the FSA county supervisor, are Walter Heckroth of Unionville, H. N. Green of Fairgrove and William S. Smith of Unionville.

The committee will investigate all tenant purchase applications as to the applicant's knowledge of farming, experience and qualifications for ownership, as well as appraise the value of the land which the buyer intends to purchase. No land owned by a member of the committee or by his immediate relatives may be considered. Farms recommended for tenant purchase must be of a size easily maintainable by the owner's family and preference will be given to those needing the least repairs or improvements.

In recommending an application, the committee will give preference to married persons or persons with dependent families; to persons able to make a down payment, or to persons owning sufficient livestock and equipment to satisfactorily carry on farming operations. However, no loans will be granted to persons who can obtain an adequate loan from another source on reasonable terms.

Applications for loans must be filed in the office of the county supervisor, John McDurmon, at Caro not later than Aug. 30.

Tuscola County is one of six counties designated in Michigan for the tenant purchase program. The other counties are Antrim, Berrien, Gratiot, Osceola and Hillsdale.

The tenant land purchase program is administered by the Farm Security Administration, which agency also administers the "rural rehabilitation" or operating good loans for such items as livestock, machinery and seed, made to eligible farmers who are unable to secure credit elsewhere.

Clubs Offer Prizes for Flower Show

Final arrangements for the flower show at Cass City on Tuesday, August 30, sponsored by the Woman's Study Club, were made when the committee in charge met at the home of Mrs. Levi Bardwell, the chairman, on Tuesday afternoon.

The show will be held at the Baker Electric Shop and all entries must be in place by 10:00 a. m., on August 30. Judging will start at 1:00 p. m.

The following societies are offering awards: The Community Club offers two prizes for the best arrangement of flowers by a child from 12 to 16 years of age.

For a man's best arrangement of flowers in a bouquet, the Rotary Club offers two awards.

The Extension Club offers two prizes on the best table arrangement.

Prizes are offered in eight other classes. The complete list was printed in the Chronicle last week.

VASSAR RESIDENT 63 YEARS TO VOTE FOR WHITTENBURG

Mr. Arthur Whittenburg, Caro, Mich.

Dear Sir: I have been a resident of Vassar for 63 years and claim to have been a faithful and consistent Democrat during that time.

Having known you since you were a young lad, and know of your persistent and successful efforts in paying all obligations that occurred before and at the time of your father's death, together with your clean life and fine service as County Treasurer, I am going to extend to you my influence and my vote at the coming primaries.

I do not abandon my party in so doing, but that we may have a successful and deserving treasurer, I deem it a pleasure and a privilege to favor your nomination and election.

Sincerely yours, PRESCOTT L. VARNUM.—Advertisement.

DEAD LINE FOR HALF-YEAR PLATES NEAR

Use of the black and white colored half-year auto license plates will be illegal after midnight August 31, 1938, advises Leon D. Case, secretary of state. All motor vehicles operating in the state after that date must be equipped with the green and black colored full year plates which will be legal to use until February 28, 1939.

The secretary of state estimates that approximately 450,000 Michigan motorists are still operating their cars on half-year plates.

Prominent Deford Citizen Passes

Samuel Sherk Active in Business and Political Life of Novesta Township

Samuel Sherk, for nearly fifty years a prominent figure in the business and political affairs of Novesta Township, died at his home in Deford on Friday, August 19, after a lingering illness of six years' duration.

Funeral services were held in the Deford M. E. Church on Sunday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. B. A. Sherk, Baptist minister of Kingston. Interment was made in Novesta Cemetery.

Born in Ontario on September 9, 1866, he came to Michigan in 1884, settling at North Branch. For 14 years he was employed by the P. O. & N. R. R., and during that period resided at both North Branch and Deford. After leaving the railroad, he engaged in farming, and after following that pursuit, he retired after a ten-year period.

He served Novesta Township as clerk and justice and his school district as director. He was a trustee of the segregated assets of the Kingston State Bank. In 1891, Mr. Sherk married Miss

Visit to One of Father Divine's 'Heavens' Proves Interesting to Rev. R. J. Striffler

During the three weeks which Rev. R. J. Striffler of Geneva, Ohio, spent at the Union Theological Seminary in New York City recently, a group of the students at the summer session paid a visit to one of the "Peace Missions" of Father Divine. Mr. Striffler was asked to provide the Geneva Free Press with a brief account of his visit there. The Chronicle is printing the Free Press story in the following paragraphs:

"Many people believe that the religious movement inaugurated and carried on by Father Divine is on the decrease. The contrary is true. There are now about fifteen 'Peace Missions' or 'Heavens' in New York City alone. In addition to these there are a number of community farms in rural New York and New England which are called 'The Promised Land' and there are many extensions in cities and villages near New York and throughout the country.

"We came to the 'Peace Mission' on 63rd Street after a busy afternoon spent in the study of Negro institutions in Harlem—churches, Y. M. C. A., the Harlem Art Center, business places, housing and schools. The street was dirty, noisy and turbulent. We passed through!

Three New Teachers on High School Staff

Students Start Studies Here on Sept. 8. Pupils Will Enroll on Sept. 7.

There will be but three new faces on the staff of instructors of the Cass City Schools when students start their studies here on Thursday, September 8. That is the least number of changes in instructors in many years.

Enrollment of grade and high school pupils will take place on Wednesday morning, September 7, commencing at nine o'clock. The high school students that enrolled last spring will not need to come to school on September 7. Studies start in all the grades at 8:30 a. m. on September 8.

Schedule of Pre-School Events. Football suits will be issued to players on Wednesday, August 31, at 2:00 p. m.

First football practice on Thursday, September 1, at 2:00 p. m.

Teaching Staff. J. Ivan Niergarth, superintendent. Willis Campbell, principal and agriculture.

Arthur Holmberg, science. Daniel Kroll, speech and English. Wesley Dunn, mathematics. Orion Cardew, manual arts. Lester Ross, athletic director and social science.

Arthur Hesburn, music. Elsie Titsworth, home economics. Verda Zueschnitt, commercial. Edith Carlin, French and history. Marian Deabler, English and Latin.

Mary Holcomb, junior high and auditorium work.

Ella Mae Rike, junior high. Eva Marble, sixth grade. Ruth W. Hile, fifth grade. Ella Price, fourth grade. Erma Flint, third grade. Marion Hopkins, second grade. Zora Day, first grade. Ruth E. Schenck, kindergarten and art.

New Instructors. Lester J. Ross, who was signed to fill the coaching and teaching vacancy left open when Kenneth Kelly signed a Mt. Pleasant contract last spring, is a graduate of Central State Teachers' College and has also attended the Northwestern University's coaching school. He is an all around athlete, having played football, basketball and baseball while in school. For the past two years, he has been teaching at Waterford High School.

Arthur Hesburn, a graduate of Western State Teachers' College, and for two years an instructor in the schools at Flat Rock, Mich., will be the new instructor in music.

Miss Marian E. Deabler of Elkton, who graduated from North Central College at Naperville, Ill., in June, has accepted the position of English and Latin instructor.

Farmers Vote $240 for Swimming Pool

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Cass City Live Stock Shipping Association held Friday evening, it was voted to end the activities as a shipping society by closing its books and donating the amount in the treasury, about $240, to the municipal swimming pool fund.

The association has not been actively engaged in shipping live stock for several years.

Visit to One of Father Divine's 'Heavens' Proves Interesting to Rev. R. J. Striffler

"In the center of the large room was a table in the shape of a square horseshoe, covered with a spotless white table cloth. The cooks and waiters were dressed in shining white garments. The china and silver were cheap but clean and neatly laid.

"The upper floor of the building consisted of an auditorium with crude benches. The walls were covered with pictures of Father Divine and with tinsel mottoes in the language of the cult. After our inspection of the building, we went to the 'banquet table' and joined the 'angels' in their evening meal.

"Unfortunately, Father Divine happened to be in 'The Promised Land' that evening and did not appear. The central seat at the head of the horseshoe was his seat covered with a white cover, embroidered with the word 'God' in bright yellow. On either side of it sat a

SEEKING THE YOUNG VOTER.

Both political parties are organizing the young voters, of whom 2,500,000 have become 21 years old since the 1936 election.

Probably it will not do much good to wave flags and call on them to support the grand old principles of the government.

Also they want work at good jobs, same as the young folks in former years used to get. They look for some action that will release and make fruitful the vast powers of American energy which tamed the continent, and which should be filling the land with prosperity and opportunity.

THE FARMERS' COMPETITORS.

Agricultural experts from all over the world are meeting in convention at St. Anne De Bellevue, Quebec. American farmers would like to ask these authorities what can be done to induce these countries to take American farm products same as they used to.

If those nations would only settle down and live in peace, they would have more money with which to buy American wheat and beef. As long as they will spend their money for guns and explosives instead of food, they have to deny themselves the good American products they need.

CAMPAIGN PROMISES.

It has been more or less customary in American politics from the beginning, for candidates to make fine promises of the things they or their political parties expect to do if they win the election.

It is one thing to make those promises and another to get them fulfilled. Countless orators have predicted lower taxes, reduced government expenses, more money for public improvements, if they or their parties were victorious.

Frequently these pledges are impossible, because of the inflexible laws of economics, or because the people demand action that makes it out of the question to accomplish these golden forecasts.

Northwest Elmwood.

Miss Melva LaFave of Royal Oak is spending the week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hebert LaFave.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Salgot attended the Karr reunion Saturday at Port Austin.

The Lyman School held their reunion Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Adam Leiterman spent Sunday in Sandusky at the home of Mr. Leiterman's mother.

There are adults all over the United States worrying themselves sick over the younger generation when they ought to be worrying about themselves.

TREES, GOD'S TEMPLES.

Chico, California, is believed to have the world's largest oak tree. Its circumference, outside its branches, is 446 feet. Allowing two square feet for each person, 7,885 people could stand under its shade.

Few towns have trees that could come anywhere near shading such a crowd. Yet the ordinary elm tree, casting a shadow perhaps 40 feet across, could on a similar basis allow 1,000 people to stand under its spreading umbrella shaped branches.

THE FIRST NAME HABIT.

The word "Mister" is not so often spoken now, while "Bill," "Jim," "Tom," etc., are more frequently heard. It is becoming customary to a far greater extent than formerly to call people by their first names.

Formerly you might live in a town most of your life, but if you did not grow up there, hardly anyone might call you by your first name. Now it has become the custom in many clubs and organizations to use the first name, and the habit spreads.

The old use of "Mister" for everyone was fitting enough in a day when people lived individual lives in their own little sets, and did not mix much with the general run of people.

The use of first names indicates intimacy, and that the people in communities like this are all supposed to know each other, to be interested in the same things.

When you go down town and people say "Hello George," or "Hi there, Harry," or whatever your name is, it makes one feel at home, and that he lives in a community where his presence is valued.

DISCOURAGING WORDS.

There is a regulation in the British navy that forbids officers to speak discouragingly to their comrades about any enterprise in which they are engaged.

For a while it looked as if Governor Murphy would have opposition. Murray D. VanWagoner, highway commissioner, was on the fence.

One-Man State Fair

Michigan's state fair at Detroit, a 16-day event which opens this Saturday, August 27, continues to be remarkable in more ways than one.

Frank Isbey, general manager, accepts no salary. He examines every expenditure whether it be for a nickel pencil or for the $5,000 neon sign on Woodward Avenue.

Last year the fair attendance increased over 100 per cent. This year, with an extra week's showing, the state event may establish an all-time record.

Michigan Mirror

A Non-Partisan State News Letter By GENE ALLEMAN Michigan Press Association

Lansing—Humorously called "Michigan's greatest show," the two-year state legislature will convene here next Monday, August 29, to appropriate between eight and ten million dollars for relief.

The main ring, the house of representatives, is expected to go through its tricks to the crack of Whip-master George Schroeder. In the smaller ring, the senate, the administration may encounter trouble in the tie strength of democrats and republicans.

The special session is not expected to last more than three days. Coming so close to the primary election, it cannot drag along much more than this, as many legislators are candidates for re-election and are busy campaigning for votes.

Many Sideshows

While more money for jobless welfare, extension of the mortgage moratorium and revamping of the state housing act are due to occupy the legislators' attention, according to the governor's official call, yet it is conceded that there will be several interesting sideshows to provide front page copy for campaigning legislators.

For example, take the appointment of Richard T. Frankenstein, ousted U. A. W. vice president, to the state welfare board.

Frankenstein was removed from the U. A. W. board after Homer Martin fired him for alleged communist favoritism and activity.

Republican Feud All may appear serene on the surface, but both parties in Michigan are having "family rows."

Among the Republicans it is the Toy-Fitzgerald feud which is becoming hotter every day. Fitzgerald charges his opponent as being anti-labor, while Toy declares that "McKayism" is the real issue.

The reduction in admission has therefore been decided upon as an experiment for the remainder of the 1938 season, to see if more people wish to make use of it.

'Minster' From 'Monastery' "Minster" is a corruption of the word "monastery." Hence all of the minsters that the tourist finds in England formerly had that identity.

Little White Hen in Contest Lead

One little white hen has taken temporarily at least the egg laying crown from a little red hen in the 16th annual Michigan egg laying contest now in its 11th month on the campus of Michigan State College at East Lansing.

The leading lady is one in a pen owned by the Foreman poultry farm of Lowell, Michigan. The deposed queen, unless she deposits more eggs than her rival this month and next, is a little red hen of R. O. Wagemaker of Grand Rapids.

Interest in these contests continues each year. Unusual this year is the fact that the 17th annual contest, not scheduled to start until October 1, already has attracted more entries than can be accommodated. C. G. Card, contest superintendent, has requested some of the nation's leading breeders to enter but one pen instead of several.

What kind of a record can a topnotch hen show? In 10 months the White Leghorn now leading has laid 262 eggs rating 284.25 points. The Wagemaker Rhode Island Red has laid 265 eggs for 283.25 points.

For entire pen the honor roll to date puts the pen of Rochelle hatchery, Rochelle, Ill., in top place with 12 hens left in the pen from an original 13. The records show 3,055 eggs in 10 months for 3,137.65 points. Second place, P. J. Osborne, Holland, Mich., 12 hens still living, 2,768 eggs; third place, Lindstrom poultry farm, Clinton, Mo. Other Michigan entries near the top include Hamilton poultry farm at Hamilton; Asetline farm at Comstock Park; W. A. Downes, Romeo; and Northland Farms, Grand Rapids.

Cathedral Organ Long in Use St. Stephen's cathedral at Sens, France, has an organ which has been used continuously for about 500 years. During its lifetime, it has been renovated three times. This famous cathedral is the oldest Gothic building in France, being designed by Guillaume de Sens, who reproduced within it certain features of Canterbury cathedral.

Name of Lake in Massachusetts Chargogagogogmanchauggogogchaubunagungamaugg is the name of a lake in Massachusetts. It was named after the terms of an Indian fishing treaty, and means: "You fish on your side, I fish on my side, nobody fish in the middle."

Oldest Above Sea Level The oldest part of North America, the first to be elevated above sea level, is the northeastern section.

BOILED ALIVE —until she got SHELLANE How she dreaded her kitchen in the summer! How she hated the vicious old stove that belched forth smoke and sticky soot and wave upon wave of gasping heat! She hated it but, like thousands of other women in country homes, she thought she had to endure it...thought she couldn't avoid being virtually boiled alive in her steaming kitchen. But that was before she discovered Shellane Cooking Gas—the cooler, cleaner, modern way of cooking. Because it can be turned on in an instant—off in an instant, Shellane supplies cooking heat only when you need it...does not over-heat your kitchen. Shellane saves hours of scrubbing, scouring, emptying ashes. It puts an end to soot and dirt...doesn't even tarnish your pots and pans! Delivered to your home in cylinders, this pure, natural gas gives you all the conveniences of city gas service... precision cooking... automatic hot water... automatic refrigeration. Mrs. Emma Shaw, who had spent the week with her sister, Mrs. Folkert, returned to her home in Marine City with the Port Huron folks Sunday night.

Friday evening members of Echo Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, spent a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. John Caldwell at their home on South Seeger Street. A program of music and keeno were the pleasure of the evening and ice cream and cake were served. Mr. Caldwell was presented with a Past Patron's pin and Mrs. Caldwell with a Past Matron's pin. Mrs. Neil McLarty making the presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Craftleam and granddaughter, Ruth Hawk, of Pontiac and Mr. Craftleam's sister, Mrs. Mary Loose, of London, England, were callers on Thursday, August 18, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sovey. Mr. Craftleam and his sister, Mrs. Loose, had not met for 52 years until the visit she is making at the present time. Sunday guests at the Sovey home included Mr. and Mrs. Warren Westcott, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Garner and Mr. and Mrs. Ebbey, all of Pontiac.

Glenn McCullough visited friends in Lapeer Sunday.

Miss Edna Linderman of Wah-jamega spent Friday to Sunday at her home here.

Sunday dinner guests at the Maurice Joos home were Mr. and Mrs. Nick Thayer of Gilford.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Harris of Ann Arbor came Monday for a week's vacation with Mr. and Mrs. John Dillman, parents of Mrs. Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKay and family left Sunday evening for Rockford, Ohio, because of the illness of Mrs. McKay's parents in that place.

VISIT TO ONE OF FATHER DIVINE'S "HEAVENS" PROVES INTERESTING

Concluded from first page. hostess, one colored and one white. Waiters brought the huge bowls of food to the hostesses who first held them over the plate of Father and said "Thank you, Father" before passing them down the sides of the table.

"The meal consisted of great bowls of rice, browned potatoes, green string beans, cooked cabbage, cold sliced roast beef, stewed chicken, baking powder biscuits, cole slaw, ice water, iced tea, and ice cream. The food was well cooked and abundant. The total cost of this meal was 20 cents per person. There was another table in the room on which a 10 cent meal was served.

"A few of their rules for eating are of interest. In passing the bowls of food, a bowl must never be set down on the table even for a moment. When the bowls have reached the end of the table they are passed back but one may never take any food from a bowl on its way back. No food may be left on the plate at the end of the meal.

"During the meal three of the 'children' gave their testimony. All of them told how they had been in great trouble—out of work, sick, in trouble with the police, having trouble with their wives, or given to drunkenness. When they first saw 'Father' they knew that he could save them from all of this and he did. They are now free from all trouble and at peace with the world. One man freely acknowledged that he had left his wife and children behind. During the meal they sang often and loudly, clapping their hands as they did.

"Their beliefs are simple. They believe that Father Divine is God and that everything they have he has provided. They believe that he will never die nor will they as long as they remain his children. The 'missions' are chiefly communities in which all property is pooled. The 'children' live in a celibate state in separate dormitories for men and women.

"They publish a weekly magazine called 'The New Day.' It consists largely of addresses by 'Father' given at banquet tables. The most interesting items were copies of letters received from various sources such as real estate agents and physicians telling how some one of the 'children' had come to them and paid an account of unpaid rent or an over-due bill. One was from the department of welfare of New York City telling how a woman had come to them and paid $175.80 which was the amount of home relief she had received from the department at one time.

"The rise and growth of such a movement is not hard to understand. In the midst of great hardship and some suffering Father Divine appeared promising them peace, plenty and security. They now have plenty to eat, a place to sleep, an opportunity to freely express their emotions—their idea of 'Heaven.' The sad fact that stands at the center of the whole cult is that it is based on cruel delusion from which there is bound to come great suffering some day.

DEFORD

Death of Mrs. Kilgore—

Mrs. Charles Kilgore quietly passed away on Friday night, Aug. 19, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Melvin Smith, at Farwell. Mrs. Kilgore has been in a very delicate condition of health for the past two years. Two weeks ago, she felt well enough to go to her sister's home and planned to rest and recuperate for a couple of weeks. Zeleigh, daughter of George and Mary Ellen Ross, was born Jan. 17, 1889, and was married to Chas. Kilgore on Nov. 30, 1910. Mrs. Kilgore has lived in this community all of her life excepting 18 months which were spent at Pontiac.

In the death of Mrs. Kilgore, the community has lost a kind friend and neighbor, and the Deford Church is saddened by the loss of a devoted Christian worker, a member for 22 years. She served as choir member, president of the Aid Society, and Sunday School teacher.

The immediate relatives to mourn her departure are her husband, and three sisters, Mrs. Fred Bolton of Pontiac, Mrs. Melvin Smith of Farwell, and Mrs. Scott Kelley of Mayville.

Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday afternoon at the Deford Church which was filled to capacity by friends and relatives. On account of the absence of the pastor, the Rev. John Mellish, of Lapeer conducted the service, and the body was interred in the family lot in the Novesta Cemetery.

Clarence Stockwell is laid up by illness.

Leroy Vanderkooy of Pontiac is a guest at the E. L. Patterson home.

N. R. Kennedy has exchanged his Deford property for property belonging to Mrs. Frank Drace at Rochester. Mr. Kennedy moved to Rochester on Wednesday and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Drace will occupy the Deford residence.

Philip Retherford is delivering mail on Route 1 during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Ruggles at Washington, D. C., and other points east.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Martin entertained during the week, Mrs. Myrtle Palmer of Regina, Sask., Miss Mabel Kilpatrick of Grindstone City, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Campbell of Akron, and Mr. and Mrs. Azell Stephens of Caro.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Schmuhl and Mrs. William Mathison of Center Line were Wednesday guests of Mrs. Nellie Lester. Mrs. Mathison remained for the week, a guest also at the H. D. Malcolm home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Towsley spent Sunday to Saturday inclusive touring in Upper and Western Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Malcolm and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kelley spent a few days at the C. A. Bruce home in Nevada, Iowa, and viewed the scenery on 2,200 miles in five states returning home on Tuesday.

A half mile of tarred streets settles the dust problem in Deford village. We appreciate it very much.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carmody of Royal Oak were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Riley. In the afternoon they all visited Cass City where Mrs. Carmody looked up old friends and looked for familiar places that she knew when she lived there 30 years ago. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. M. West.

Carlton, Old English Name
Carlton, or Carlton, is an old English or Teutonic residence name meaning, according to two authorities, "dweller at the peasant's farm" and "from Carl's farm." Both meanings are doubtless correct, the former probably going back to the time when the word carle was a common noun meaning "a man," and possibly a peasant.

Nature Finds a Way
Nature has the best compensation system in the world. When one sense goes bad, the others become so much better and make up for the loss. Thus, blind people have better developed organs of touch and hearing than normal. Music is one field in which the blind can excel. Many piano tuners, for example, are blind.

Farmer Urges Support of Senator Pangborn

Dear Editor:

I am an old timer and might not understand the gags of politics but I have for many years been interested in working for the improvement of farm markets and farm conditions. It is that idea which prompts me to write this letter to ask my fellow farmers to think. While I have not always agreed with Senator Pangborn but in explaining his stand on various bills I am convinced that for the best interests of all of his district his acts were right. Senator Pangborn is a farmer who possesses the proper qualifications for an ideal legislator. His experience in public service plus the training and common sense judgment makes him worthy of the consideration of every voter to return him to the important office of State Senator.

The Thumb area for the past several years has held a favorable position at Lansing due to the splendid class of men who have been our officials there. Folks that know Lansing are aware that there are too few farmers in the Legislature and too many other professional men. Mr. Pangborn has spent nearly his entire life on a farm. He has served his constituents well. Do not let the politician fool you with the idea of passing up a good man because of some political promise which private interests are using to get rid of a man who would not yield to their personal wants. Private interests may object, BUT THE THUMB SECTION NEEDS PANGBORN FOR SENATOR. As a fellow farmer interested in the Thumb area I am urging the voters to get busy before it is too late.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN NEUBER,
Elkton, Michigan.

Mr. Neuber is a substantial farmer who owns 240 acres in Oliver Township for nearly fifty years and has always been an outstanding man in the Farm Bureau, Farmers' Union, Beet Growers' Association, Farmers' Elevator and other community affairs.—Advertisement.

FARM TOPICS

SANITARY SYSTEM HALTS MILK LOSS

Extreme Care Is Urged in Cleanliness of Cows.

By John A. Arey, Extension Dairyman, North Carolina State College, WNU Service.

Dairymen lose thousands of dollars each summer as a result of not handling their milk properly. Because milk is so easily contaminated, every person connected with its handling should be clean in his methods. When drawn from healthy cows, few bacteria may be found in it.

Milk souring is caused by bacteria changing milk sugar into lactic acid. It is impossible to remove these bacteria by straining, as many people think.

Milk receives most of its contamination from the body of the cow during milking. Therefore, it is essential that all parts of the animal's body be kept clean and well-groomed.

Then, too, the milker's hands may be a source of contamination, so they should be clean and dry during the milking process.

Small top pails have proven effective in cutting down the number of bacteria that enter while the cow is being milked. Dairymen should recognize this type of container as one of the easiest and cheapest means at his disposal for producing good milk.

All containers used in handling milk should be of metal with all corners and seams completely filled with solder. To clean these containers thoroughly they should first be rinsed in lukewarm water, then scrubbed with a brush in water of the same temperature as that in the rinsing process to which a good alkali washing powder has been added. After washing, sterilize with steam and store in a clean dry place.

Milk should be cooled immediately after the milking process and held at a temperature of below 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

IF THERE'S anything that puts a damper on a crisp cool summer room, it's a dark cavern-like black fireplace. The very sight of it raises the temperature of a room degrees and degrees . . . anyway it feels that way. So we've been digging up ideas for making a fireplace contribute its share to the cause of coolness.

The most successful idea we know of is to have a panel of plywood or compo-board cut to fit into the fireplace opening. Then cover this with a large scale floral medallion cut out of wallpaper or chintz.

Another way to get the same effect is to have a fire screen frame made with a pedestal base so that it will stand up steadily. Cover this with chintz or needlepoint and see what you have.

You can buy tilt-top tables that make lovely fire screens when their tops are painted with attractive floral designs. Or you can buy interesting folding firescreens in lacquer or some other pleasing finish.

The decorators often take a good-sized piece of white or figured paper (flowered wallpaper for instance) and pleat it into a big gay fan and put this in the fireplace just back of the andirons to brighten up the effect.

But when all's said and done, nothing is half so nice as fresh flowers here as elsewhere, so if you're a good hand with the garden and are assured plenty of cut flowers for the house, then by all means, plan on having them in your fireplace in graceful arrangement. Your best bet here would be to get a glass fish tank in a size to fit into the fireplace opening. This you can keep banked with greenery and large dramatic flowers for a charming fragrant effect. Next best would be a large vase or bowl for flowers. Or even a fish tank filled with tropical fish indirectly lighted would stand out and contribute design and interest to this space.

What to Do With a Gun Collection

"I'm no feminist," writes Mrs. C. V. S., "so I play up to my husband and make him the big shot around the place in a way that probably makes my more modern friends writhe. But I've observed that life usually goes along more pleasantly in homes where a woman doesn't rule the roost. Or appear to! She can have her say in subtler ways. And after all what's the point of life but to be happy as you can around home. Well, all this rambling on now because I have a problem. My husband is a collector of old guns. He has dozens of all sorts and spends all his spare time reading up on old weapons."

"But there's no place in the house to keep them. For all my theories, I can't come to the point of offering him the living room walls, because all those guns would spoil our lovely room. And yet in my heart I know it's not fair to make him keep them in boxes in a closet. There's simply no room to turn over to

Four Changes in Game Bird Rules

Four important changes occur in the new migratory game bird regulations approved by the state conservation commission this month to make state and federal regulations consistent.

All migratory game birds except woodcock may be hunted for 45 days this year, from October 1 to November 14. Woodcock may be hunted in the upper peninsula from October 1 to October 12 and in the lower peninsula from October 15 to October 31, all dates being inclusive.

The hours of legal shooting of ducks, geese, brant and coots will be from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m.; for jacksnipe, rails, and gallinules (except coot) and woodcock from 7 a. m. to sunset. The time given is eastern standard.

The daily bag limits which will be in effect in Michigan are as follows:

Ducks—10 in the aggregate of all kinds of which not more than three of any one or more than three in the aggregate may be redheads, canvasbacks, buffleheads or ruddy ducks.

Wood ducks may not be taken.

Geese and brant—five in the aggregate of all kinds.

Coots—10.

Rails and gallinules and jacksnipe—10.

Woodcock—four.

Possession limits are:

Ducks, geese and brant—two days' bag limit.

Rails and gallinules and jacksnipe—10.
Coots—20.
Woodcock—four.

A non-resident hunter shooting more than one day in the state will be allowed to carry out of the state a two days' bag limit of ducks and geese and brant, combined, and one day's bag limit of other migratory birds in one calendar week.

Other regulations pertaining to the migratory bird season remain much the same as last year.

SIX NATIONS ENACT ANCIENT CEREMONY

Induct Chiefs Into Council in Solemn Rites.

BRANTFORD, ONT.—An ancient ceremony, reminiscent of the days when the redman ruled Canada but is now merely a tradition supplanted by the white man's laws, has been enacted again at the historic Onondago long house on the Six Nations Indian reserve near here.

Five new chiefs, chosen for their wisdom and their courage, were inducted into the hereditary council of the Six Nations people. The initiation was the largest in three decades. It was the first time the Mohawk tribe had filled a vacancy around the council fire in more than 30 years.

Early in the afternoon on the day of the ceremony a long line of chanting braves and Indian women formed at the long house at Cayuga. Led by the chiefs-elect, the processions, with members dancing in the fashion of their ancestors, wound along the reservation roads to Onondago.

At the council house in Onondago stood in stolid dignity Ah-Rah-Reg-Go, keeper of the council fire. As the line of dancing Indians rounded a bend, Ah-Rah-Reg-Go started calling the new chiefs to the council fire in the guttural accents of the Mohawk tongue.

Solemnly five braves marched forth and Ah-Rah-Reg-Go, aided by the other members of the tribal council, performed the simple ceremony adding them to the membership of the traditional Indian parliament.

Since 1924 the traditional council has had no part in the administration of local Indian affairs, the reserve Indians being governed by an elected Iroquois council.

A great majority of the people support the hereditary council, and council members assert that some day they will once again guide the destinies of the Six Nations people.

Advertise it in the Chronicle.

One Crop Dairy Farmer

"One crop" Harry Norton, as he is called by his neighbors around Adelphia, N. J., is a dairy farmer who threw out all his plows and went into grassland farming. Norton feeds his herd grass, 12 months of the year. Half the year the cattle are in pasture, and the other half they eat grass silage and early-cut hay. Grass silage improves the cows' appearance, keeps color in their milk. Early-cut timothy gives heifers more body than alfalfa, he finds. "I let some western farmer raise the grain I need," says Norton. "All I do is spread manure and cut hay. It saves labor and machinery and reduces the cost of producing milk."—The Country Home Magazine.

Starting Mash for Turkeys

Turkey growers may use home produced or purchase farm grown grains for a starting mash, if they are balanced with a good protein supplement, says a St. Paul university farm authority. Following is a starter recipe that can be mixed on the farm, provided all ingredients (expressed in pounds) are included: corn 21, wheat bran 10, four meals 15, ground oats or barley 10, alfalfa leaf meal 15, meat scrap 20, soybean oil meal 10, dried milk 5, salt 1, oyster shell 1, and cod liver oil 2.

Water Held by Corn Land

Soils used for producing a three-year rotation of corn, oats and red clover hold 15,600 more gallons of water per acre than if the same soils are used to produce corn continuously without any fertilizer, it is reported by the South Dakota experiment station. If lime, manure and phosphate are used with the crop rotation, the soil will hold 46,500 more gallons of water per acre than when corn is grown continuously.

CHAPTER V

Evelyn Marblestone did not neglect her mother's suggestion of entertaining for the minister's son.

"It will be very informal," she explained to Dale over the telephone. "A few couples that want to meet you. I thought we could dance. Bridge table for the hopeless addicts. Something to eat later. I'm depending on you."

"I'll be there. Thanks."

Dale no sooner had hung up than he wondered if it would be possible for him to call for Lee the night of the party. He would find out before someone else beat him to it.

"I'm sorry, but I can't say yes," Lee told him readily when he dropped in to call and proffer his request. "Evelyn has arranged for my escort. It's a quaint custom we have here. Pliny Morehead is the victim. One of the stand-bys. He's a nice boy. You'll like him."

"I don't like his name. And I shan't like him."

Dale wished afterwards that he had taken advantage of the occasion to inquire what this Pliny person and the other males would wear. Evelyn had called it an informal affair, but he didn't feel sure. He finally elected to wear a dinner jacket.

"I was beginning to worry about you," Evelyn told him when she greeted him in the hall. "You've been very neglectful of me, too. But you do look nice," she added graciously, eyeing his slender figure and well-tailored clothes.

"So do you," he replied with a little bow. "Gorgeous."

"Come in and meet the crowd."

There was but one name that impressed itself on Dale's memory. Pliny Morehead. A portly youth with thinning blond hair and pale eyes.

"And here is an old friend of yours, Mr. Farwell."

Lee's brown eyes smiling up from the depths of a big chair. Lee in a little russet dress that matched her hair. Russet slippers. She looked sweet.

"Of course. How are you, Miss Brady?"

"Very well, Mr. Farwell. I'm delighted to meet you again."

Later, the rugs were rolled back and the broadcasting stations searched for dance music.

"I didn't know it," Dale remarked complacently, "but I've been wanting to dance with you all my life."

"Go on. That's very pretty."

"Thanks. That's another thing I've been wanting to tell you. You look very sweet. It's your dress, I think. You make me think of an autumn leaf."

"In the 'sere and yellow,' you mean. That's very candid but not comforting. Don't you know you should be dancing this with your hostess?"

"She's bridging. I don't play and I won't be a kibitzer."

"Then you should be paying more attention to some of these nice girls. Remember I have to go on living here. This is the fourth time you've danced with me."

"It's only the fifth. And I still don't like Pliny."

"Maybe I do."

Evelyn soon found a substitute for her place in the bridge game and appropriated her guest of honor for the remainder of the evening.

"Stay for a little while and talk," she commanded when the others made ready to leave. "You're supposed to tell me that you've had a pleasant evening, you know."

"Of course I did. Marvelous, thank you," Dale said politely.

"Are you sure you mean me? Not Lee?"

"You."

"I didn't know. After all, you didn't seem able to tear yourself away from her, until I helped. She is sweet. But you needn't have made it quite so obvious, do you think?" Evelyn smiled sweetly.

"And how about some golf tomorrow, if it's clear. We haven't been out to the country club for ages, you know. Or had you noticed?"

"I'm not sure that I can. Do you mind if I call you later—" Dale glanced at the distant hall clock—"today?"

"Never mind. Some other time will do . . . After you get caught up with your work."

Dale extinguished his cigarette and rose to his feet. "I must be going," he said shortly.

His sense of irritation persisted as he strode through the dark streets. Perhaps he had devoted himself to Lee rather too conspicuously. But what of it? She had tried to tell him the same thing. In a tactful good-natured way, though. She was like that. Sweet. That word always came to him when he thought of her. Too bad if he had hurt Evelyn's feelings. Funny . . . about women.

When he reached the parsonage, Dale was surprised to catch the faint notes of the piano. His father was playing.

The one lighted lamp brought out Farwell's rugged features in bold relief. His chin was sunk on his breast. The dark eyes were half closed. From the keys came the stately solemn strains of Tschai-kowsky's "Andante."

Dale caught his breath sharply. He moved on tiptoe towards the foot of the stairs.

"Dale!"

"Yes, Father."

"Where have you been?"

"Miss Marblestone had a few people in tonight. She asked me over."

"I have not heard you say anything recently about going back to the university. Have you changed your plans?"

"Well, not exactly. To tell you the truth, Father, I've been thinking about the finances. After the first of the year, I'll be making my expenses there and a little more. Then I want to find a real job. In the meantime . . ."

"And in the meantime?"

"I can carry on a good deal of my work here by myself. I've been a rather steady grain on you the past few years. And what I have left of my own money will last me longer here. Unless you're thinking of raising my board." He smiled a little at his suggestion.

"Finances need not enter into your decision," his father reminded gravely.

"You mean . . . you think I should go back?"

"You will have to settle the matter in your own way," Farwell rose to his feet. "It is late. Good night."

Lee drove to Dale's house one day. "I thought maybe you would like to ride," she said when he ran out in answer to the honking of her motor horn . . . If you're not too busy, and if there is any of the country around here you haven't explored."

"Sure, I'd like to! Only—" he glanced down at his jersey. "I'm not dressed exactly."

"Of course you are. Look at me."

"I have been." Dale already was opening the car door. "Let's go."

"All right. I'll fool you. I've brushing up on my history so that I could talk intelligently to you when I had the chance. How would you like to cover the retreat of the hostile British nation? Over to Staten, I mean."

"Great! Is it very far?"

"Not with me at the wheel. There's a small ferry over to the island that runs every so often."

Dale entered wholeheartedly into the excursion. "And will you look at the old houses scattered along here!" was his delighted exclamation as they followed the road along Staten Island's northern rim. "They must have been standing at the time of the Revolution. If only they could tell us what they have seen. What stories!"

"I suppose they could," Lee admitted. A few moments later, she turned the car about on the summit of a small elevation and shut off the motor. For a little time she settled back in her corner of the seat watching her companion. He was staring dreamily at the scene below, apparently lost in his historical reflections.

"I am still here," Lee suggested hopefully.

"Oh! I'm sorry, Lady Lee."

"But I can't very well help it. And why that name?"

"I meant I was sorry if I seemed to be wool gathering. And I think the name suits you."

"Do you know you're funny, Dale? I've never known anyone just like you. It's almost as if you'd forgotten to quite grow up. It makes me wish I had known you when you were a small boy."

"I'm not so sure what I was like. But I know that everything would have been altogether different if we could have had . . . Elaine."

"Elaine?" she repeated hesitatingly.

"My mother. You see, I can't quite remember her. I wish I could."

"So do I, Dale. Will you tell me something about her, Dale? Unless you'd rather not."

In answer he fumbled a worn wallet from his pocket. Out came a small leather case. In the case was a photograph.

"That was Elaine."

"Dale! How very lovely!" Lee exclaimed softly, studying the picture. Then she murmured, as if to herself: "Lily Maid of Astolat."

Dale caught his breath sharply. "You thought of it, too! She has always been that to me," Dale reflected. "Ever since I was old enough for my father to tell me about her. I have wondered sometimes that he didn't object to my calling her Elaine instead of mother. But he never did. He was the one who sent me to Arthur's court in the first place."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, you see, father looked after most of my early education. And he used to read to me by the hour. I became a disciple of old Malory when I was pretty small. Rather a rabid one, as I think about it now."

"You mean you liked stories of knights? Chivalry? I understand that."

"Perhaps. I think most boys get the fever at one time or another. I went to extremes. I always had the house littered up trying to make armor out of pasteboard and tin cans. I was forever playing at being a knight. It was a good thing, in one way. I developed a regular mania for physical culture." Dale smiled to himself. "I know I used my desire for deeds of prowess to get into scraps with the other kids."

"Young Galahad."

"That was the general idea. By way of squaring myself, I would stand in front of Elaine's picture and tell her how I had ridden out with her scarf on my lance—that sort of thing."

"I thought it was something like that." Lee nodded wisely. "It explains you. But it makes me want to ask you about other things."

"Such as?"

"Well, your father. I feel it every time I look at him. It's something in his eyes, I think. I can't explain it very well, but . . . He was very devoted to your mother, wasn't he?"

"Yes."

"I was sure. He carries her scarf, too. Perhaps I shouldn't say that."

"Why not? It's true. Since I have become older I think I'm beginning to understand what she must have meant to him. What it meant when he lost her. I can talk about it to you. I've never tried to tell anybody before. Never spoke of it to Pink even. And I know him better than anybody. But I never found anyone who I thought would understand. Until now. I think it's because of your mother," he decided.

"Would you mind if I tried to tell you something?"

"Of course not, Dale."

"It's a queer thing—" he frowned thoughtfully, staring away again into the distance—"I doubt if a boy ever grew up with more beautiful ideals of a mother he couldn't remember. Father did it all. I'm not sure I can make this clear. But it must have been almost a passion with him. To be sure that I loved my mother. He wanted me to believe that she was beautiful and perfect. It wasn't difficult to make me understand that she was beautiful. I have two pictures of her. But the beauty of her character was built for me by father. It grew into something very near idolatry. Can you understand at all what I'm trying to express?"

"Of course not, Dale."

"Yes."

"That's the way it was all the time I was growing up. I don't mind telling you I'm glad now. Unconsciously, I think, I tried to be what Elaine would have expected. Please don't get the idea that I've been morally perfect. But I'd rather like to have you know I've never done anything I'm particularly ashamed of. I can thank father for that—and plenty of other things."

Almost no words were spoken on the homeward trip. Dale sat wrapped in thought. Lee devoted herself to driving, making as much speed as the road and traffic permitted.

Later, Dale called attention to the soaring arch of the Bayonne Bridge with its twinkling lamps spanning the purple murk.

"Looks like a rainbow going home late," he observed.

Lee smiled and made no reply. Nothing more was said until the car neared the parsonage. "I'm going to let you out here," Lee explained. Then, when Dale alighted and turned to speak, she checked him.

"I know what you're going to say. Please let me thank you instead. Good night."

Michigan Farms Like Hungarian

Michigan had a visitor a few days ago. He was Imre de Razzo, mechanical engineer visiting the campus of Michigan State College as part of a study he is making on a year's leave of absence from the Royal Hungarian Academy for Agriculture.

What is more news, however, was his amazement in finding so many likenesses between Michigan agriculture and that in his homeland.

Land and population figures differ considerably, although the Lower Peninsula has about the same number of square miles as does the entire European state. Of 9,000,000 citizens, he says, 55 per cent depend upon agriculture, quite a contrast to Michigan where one in five is upon a farm.

But the climate and crops are surprisingly similar. Hungary grows considerable wheat and some rye, oats and barley. Corn is important in some portions. Alfalfa is a crop widely used, a crop in which Michigan rates top in acreage in the United States. Hungarian farmers grow sugar beets, vast quantities of fruit, much of which is sold to neighboring countries, has chicory and truck crops like onions.

As a mechanical engineer de Razzo studied small combines and small power tractors working on the Michigan State College Farms. Hungary it seems, still favors horses for power. But the weather. He had never seen such sudden heavy rains in his life as he saw in this country.

He does believe his country, practicing soil conservation for centuries, has fewer soil erosion problems. Live stock farming, diversification, rotation all have been practiced although lately Hungarian farmers and engineers have begun borrowing American methods of modern power terracing.

Michigan Herd in High Rating

Rated as operating the most consistent high producing herd in the nation is the record held by a Michigan dairyman, Doan Straub, of Gallen.

Other herds have beaten his Holsteins in some years, but these other records fail to show the consistency of herd averages recorded for the Straub animals. In 1932 he had 12 cows averaging 629.8 pounds of butterfat in 12 months, a national record.

It's a family proposition, for Mrs. Straub is an active part of the management of the herd.

For the 12 years, according to figures in the office of A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College, the herd has averaged 549.54 pounds of fat for each animal milked. In 1937 the figure of 580.1 pounds was third high among Holstein herd averages in the United States.

At the start the Straub herd included grade cows until some suitable females were found. The Straubs then began to use a testing association and refused to keep animals that would not deliver at least 400 pounds of butterfat in a year as two-year-olds.

All feeds are homegrown except soybean oil meal. Heavy alfalfa feedings and some silage make economical rations fed out in very efficient but moderate cost buildings.

From this record, however, sales have placed 25 locations in Michigan and even more than that in Northern Indiana.

Plants Store Up Water

Plants of the desert regions (the Karroo or Kalahari desert, or Namaqualand in South Africa) store up water for the dry season and take on queer shapes. Many assume the form and even the color of stones. Some actually retire into the ground and look out on life through "windows"—the flattened translucent tips of their leaves. Many cover themselves with thorns or leathery skins. Some turn the edges of their leaves to the sun. Some are like a child's ball or a melon. Many bear beautiful flowers.

Oddity in Body Temperature

The body temperature of a person living in the extreme cold of the Far North is almost identical with that of one who resides in the steamy tropics.

Turning Back the Pages

Items from the files of Cass City Chronicle of 1903 and 1913.

Twenty-five Years Ago. August 29, 1913.

Cass City Schools open next Monday with the following on the teaching staff: Supt., J. E. Kennedy, A. C. Edgerton, Audrey J. Pell, Grace M. Northrup, Florence E. Field, Elsie Clark, Coral Reed, Ula W. Grace, Ella M. Cross, Adeline Gallagher, Mrs. Dora Fritz, Mabel Milton and Anna Finkbeiner.

The first passenger train over the D. & H. R. R. brought a crowd of 500 to 600 people from Bad Axe to the Cass City Fair Thursday.

Alex Duncanson left Thursday to resume the position of principal in the Ithaca High School. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Landon entertained the members of the Hub Male Quartet and their wives and lady friends Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Yakes. That men are fond of pie was again demonstrated when 165 pies of various kinds were served at Nowland's Lunch Room during fair week. Mrs. Nowland baked the whole number.

Clifford Gracey will leave tomorrow for Boyne Falls where he will commence his second year as superintendent of schools.

Thirty-five Years Ago. August 28, 1903.

The unique and impressive spectacle of several priests chanting old Catholic hymns in the open air was witnessed Wednesday morning at Cass City by about 300 spectators, who assembled on South Seeger Street, to see the corner stone laying of the new Catholic Church of St. Pancratius. Bishop Foley of Detroit officiated.

Recent deaths include those of William Wickware in Detroit, Jas. McGillivray of Greenleaf, Matthew Gaffney at Hot Springs, Utah, and William Bailey of Ellington.

H. P. Lee, who recently took the undertaker and embalmer's examination, has received word that he passed the examination and is now a full fledged undertaker.

Joe Grigware is acting as relief station agent at Gagetown this week.

The Ladies' Aid of the Evangelical Church have decided to serve meals. This is the first time in the history of local churches that the Evangelical people will appeal to men's stomachs in order to make a little money for the good of the Lord's cause.

Oak Bluff Breezes.

Kenneth Wickware spent the week-end at the Wickware cottage.

The Charles Striffler cottage is occupied this week by Robert Dillman and family.

Miss Katherine Ann Dixon was the guest of Mrs. G. H. Burke for a few days this week.

Mrs. R. C. Todd entertained at bridge Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ballard and their guest, Mrs. M. Deo, Mrs. J. D. Brooker, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Burke, and Misses Pearl Spinks and Myrtle Holmes. High scores were won by Mrs. J. D. Brooker and F. C. Ballard.

Building is picking up on the hill. Miss Holmes has a new garage under construction and Leo Hutchinson has started his five-room cottage which promises to be a decided improvement to the beach.

Miss Thelma Shaw of Saginaw came Tuesday to spend several days as the guest of Mrs. C. R. Todd.

The Milholand cottage has a retaining wall under construction at the rear which adds greatly to the appearance of the property.

Mrs. J. E. Wurm entertained at Sunday dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wurm and son of Sebewaing, Mr. Wurm's mother and sister, Mrs. Kittendorf, of Detroit.

Mrs. A. J. Knapp entertained three tables of bridge Friday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. G. H. Burke, Mr. Burke and Miss Margaret McKenzie.

The Edison Company are making some improvements in the local wiring and adding a number of new transformers.

Mrs. Thomas Foster and son, Robert, have returned for a few weeks before the school year begins, Mr. Foster having attended summer school at Wayne University this summer.

Beach suppers have given away to Bohemian dinners during the rainy evenings and the ladies have decided that community cooking and dining is the most desirable method of getting meals.

Guests at the Earl Wilson cottage over Sunday were Mrs. Levi Bardwell of Cass City, Mr. Wilson's father and sister of Lansing, the latter spending a few days this week with Mrs. Wilson after which Mrs. Wilson is closing her cottage and returning to Lansing. The Wilsons will be missed at Oak Bluff but fortunately they return for the hunting season and pleasant weekends late in September and early October.

... these new cost figures may change your mind!

How much do you think it costs to cook on an electric range? The latest figures just released may surprise you. A survey has been made of actual cooking costs in families of 3, 4 and 5 people, covering a period of one year's time. Results of the survey are as follows: Average cost for a family of three — $1.55 a month; family of four — $1.73 a month; family of five — $1.93 a month. These are AVERAGE figures, at the rate of 2 1/4 cents (net) per kw hr.

To obtain these cost figures, 5 well-known makes and 9 different models of electric ranges were included. The ranges were used by women cooking meals daily, in ordinary kitchens and under everyday working conditions. The tests prove conclusively that electric cooking on today's modern ranges is NOT expensive!

Why not enjoy the cleanliness, convenience and comfort of an electric range in your kitchen this summer? Sixty thousand families in and around Detroit have chosen this up-to-date cooking method. Ten thousand of your neighbors switched to electric cooking last year. Once you have discovered the many advantages of an electric range, you will wish you had installed one in your kitchen long ago.

See the new electric ranges on display at department stores, electrical dealers or at Detroit Edison offices.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Competition: Almost daily there is a meeting of the South Wind club in the roof garden of a prominent hotel. Membership is composed of men who have had adventures all over the world. One member bears the name Harold Dove. Once upon a time the man with the name of the symbol of peace deliberately walked into an ambush of African spearmen and wiped them out single-handed. Two members constitute a quorum. Sessions are informal. The members merely talk of gun-running for some banana republic or of other perilous pastimes. The South Wind club has been in existence for some time. Last fall a group of women who came to New York with their husbands from small towns organized a sewing circle which meets at the same hotel. Now the sewing circle has transferred its meeting place to the roof. As the women sew they talk. And won't it be fun when the sewing circle and the South Wind sessions happen to coincide.

Contrast: On lower Broadway a well-dressed young man stood beside one of those corner trash baskets. He was eating bananas. Evidently he is a person of consideration as instead of throwing the skins on the sidewalk he carefully tossed them into the basket. And on the other side of the basket was a hollow-eyed derelict who, as the skins went into the basket, fished out pieces of tinfoil and other bits of salvage which, if he found enough, might have a value of a few cents.

Recession: For years a legless man has been selling shoe laces in Exchange place. His place of business is a wheel chair. During the business upturn last year he invested a portion of his savings in a chair electrically propelled. He used that every day until recently. Now he is back to the old chair, which he propels with his hands.

Interludes: Xavier Cugat, when not swinging a baton, does caricatures for class magazines. . . . Sammy Kaye still owns Varsity inn, Ohio university campus rendezvous, which he took over in his undergraduate days. . . . Frank Dailey, another orchestra man, owns a swanky Long Island night spot. . . . Gene Krupa studies the history of drumming and writes books on the subject. . . . Bunny Berigan collects batons though he never conducts with one. . . . Kate Smith owns a professional basketball team. . . . Songwriter Benny Davis is in the wholesale meat business. . . . Abe Lyman owns a string of restaurants in California. . . . Alfred W. McCann, Jr., food commentator, takes pictures of hegriras, his photographic feat being recording an Alaska salmon run from beginning to end. . . . Tommy Dorsey spends his spare hours with a miniature railroad in the attic of his home.

Manhattan Crowds: Of musicians gathering during the matinee hours on the pavements about 1600 Broadway and Sixth avenue and Fifth street where the union offices are. . . . Of high-school students meeting in the lobby of the Paramount. . . . Of out-of-towners using the Rockefeller Center fountain to start their Manhattan tours. . . . Of collegians in the Astor lobby. . . . Of time-wasters circling about tricker vendors on Forty-second street. . . . Of large-eyed wonder seekers jamming pedestrian traffic in Times square. . . . Of uniformed policemen on Fifth avenue who spend part of their noon-hour gesticulating beside St. Patrick's cathedral. . . . Of musicians living in Kew Gardens and Forest Hills who use the last car of Eighth avenue subway trains as their private club car.

Finale: Andre Kostelanetz received a letter from a Philadelphia resident applying for the job of signing the Kostelanetz name to photographs sent to fans. The applicant was sure he could hold down the job because he had just completed his second term for forgery.

French Quarter Houses Chinese in New Orleans NEW ORLEANS.—The Orient has met the West.

The once legendary Chinatown of New Orleans has moved to the French quarter for a last stand. Driven out of their own section, the Chinese set up stores in the typical Creole buildings of the Vieux Carre.

Progress brought about demolition of their buildings and reports of a new, better Chinatown never developed. In the meantime, the size of the colony decreased. Coolies were barred from the waterfront and merchants were not able to meet rentals. Some Chinese went to work on farms, in stores and laundries.

Michigan Cairn Midway between Equator and North Pole

Americans are rapidly becoming a nation of "rolling" vacationists as each year more thousands venture farther away from home to enjoy the pleasures of the open road. Especially intriguing to tourists are roadside tablets marking points of local interest. This Michigan cairn throws in a geography lesson for good measure. Erected by a group of prominent citizens, a few miles north of Traverse City, it contains a stone from each county in the state, and marks the exact mid-point between the equator and the north pole.

PLEASANT AUGUST DAYS LEND HAPPINESS TO FAMILY REUNIONS

Concluded from first page.

H. Shephard of Flint, Mrs. Floyd Gallaway and Leonard Copeland of Cass City and Mrs. George Collins of Port Huron, program committee. The following received prizes: Mrs. John Vance of Cass City for being the oldest member present; George Schneider, thirteen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schneider, Sr., of Evergreen, for the youngest member; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Vance and eight children of Pontiac for the largest family present; Mrs. George Collins of Port Huron for traveling the most number of miles to attend the gathering. Mrs. Ella Vance was given a beautiful table cloth for composing in rhyme and reading the best history of the Vance clan. The 1939 reunion will be held at the same place on the third Sunday in July.

Palmateer Reunion.

Fifty were present Saturday, August 20, when the seventeenth annual Palmateer reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Colwell, one and one-half miles west of Cass City. Relatives attended from Spencerport, New York, Chelsea, Detroit, Ann Arbor, Rochester, Saginaw, Flint, Decker and Deford. A picnic dinner, self-served, was enjoyed at small tables outdoors and ice cream and cake were served later in the day. Following the dinner a business meeting was held and the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Fay Palmateer of Spencerport, New York; secretary, Miss Evelyn King, also of Spencerport. Letters of regret were read from Buffalo and Oneida, New York, and from Port Huron. Miss Charlotte and Miss Inez Carl of Flint sang several selections, Charlotte playing the accompaniment on the guitar. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in games, races and visiting. The oldest member present was Thomas Colwell, who is nearly 78, and the youngest was the two-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shaw of Rochester. The reunion next year will be held at the home of Mrs. Louisa King in Spencerport.

Muntz Reunion.

The twelfth annual Muntz reunion was held Sunday, August 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Muntz near Cass City at which thirty-five relatives were present. A social time and potluck dinner were enjoyed by all. Relatives were present from Detroit, Bay City, Mayville, Unionville and Cass City. The 1939 reunion will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dorr Smith, near Mayville, the third Sunday in August.

McCool Reunion.

The tenth annual reunion of the McCool family was held Sunday at Lake Forester. Following a potluck dinner at noon, a business meeting was held when officers were elected to succeed themselves. Prizes were given to George Palmer of Deford, the eldest member present, and to a three months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Strales of Mayville as the youngest. Those from this community who attended included Mr. and Mrs. John Pringle, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCool and Leo McClain, all of Decker; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Caister, Elmore Caister, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Read and two daughters of Cass City. Other relatives came from Flint, Deford, Capac, Detroit, Kingston, Argyle and Saginaw. The 1939 reunion will be held the second Sunday in August at Wenona Beach, near Bay City.

LARKE TELLS "THE STORY OF SUGAR"

Concluded from first page. assistant educational secretary of the Farmers' and Manufacturers' Beet Sugar Association and assistant editor of the Sugar Beet Journal. His subject was "The Story of Sugar," and in his introduction, he gave a historical background in which he stated that cane sugar was in use before the time of Christ, while the beet sugar industry came into existence 136 years ago.

Sugar, he said, was inexpensive and very energizing as calorific units. The average annual consumption is 103 pounds of sugar a person in this country, and the United States produces less than 30% of the amount consumed within its borders.

Thirty-two million pounds of beet sugar is manufactured in Michigan each year, 140,000 acres of land are devoted to raising sugar beets, and six and a half millions of dollars are realized annually from the growing of beets and the manufacture of sugar in the state. The industry furnishes 20 millions of man-hour labor each year in the state.

Mr. Larke emphasized that there is no difference existing between cane and beet sugar as used in the American household.
