WILLITS, OSBURN, QUINN, ATKINS AND JEFFREY SUCCESSFUL IN REPUBLICAN PRIMARY CONTESTS

Six Republican Candidates and All Democrats for County Offices Had No Opposition Tuesday.

The races for the Republican nominations for treasurer and drain commissioner of Tuscola County were so close that candidates in the lead were not absolutely sure of victory in the early primary count when 23 of the 24 precincts had reported by one o'clock Wednesday morning. The receipt of Vassar township's belated returns assured Arthur M. Willits and James Osborn that they had been successful. Willits for treasurer and Osborn for drain commissioner. Vassar township's election officials toiled all through the night and until about six o'clock Wednesday morning to complete the count and records.

Willits defeated Arthur Whittenburg, the incumbent, by 149 votes, early returns indicate. Osborn was the winner over Roscoe Black by 225.

Other races that featured the primary election here were the contests for road commissioner, sheriff and prosecuting attorney. Albert W. Atkins defeated Loren VanCleve for road commissioner by 887 and Timothy Quinn was nominated prosecuting attorney by 4,194 votes while Guy G. Hill, his opponent, received 3,446. For sheriff, George Jeffrey received 4,175 votes which was 499 more than the total votes cast for his three opponents for the nomination.

On this page are early returns, by townships, on the vote cast for governor, state senator and candidates for county offices where there were contests by two or more aspirants.

On the county ticket in November, the following names of candidates nominated Tuesday will appear on the general election ballot:

State representative, Audley Rawson.
Prosecuting attorney, Timothy C. Quinn.
Sheriff, George Jeffrey.
Clerk, Clare W. Horning.
Treasurer, Arthur M. Willits.
Register of deeds, Alger L. Bush.

Guess This One? Taken When We Were Young

Jimmie McCoy was the first correct guesser on the picture in this column last week when he telephoned to the Chronicle and named James Elmer Seed. Apparently Mr. Seed was more easily recognized than several pictures printed lately for guesses were more numerous.
Mrs. W. C. Shell, Harry Young, George Seeger, Mrs. O. W. Nique, Mrs. E. B. Schwaderer, U. G. Parker, Mrs. Alice Moore, Miss Elsie Buehrly, Mrs. Lena Parrish, J. D. Turner, William Meiser and Miss Lura DeWitt all guessed correctly.
Mrs. Ernest Ferguson thought it was Samuel F. Bigelow and Mrs. George Kirton said it was Andrew Seed.
Here's another easy one this week. Just say "My guess is" and then name this well known resident.

Men's Lives Imperiled as Silo Falls on the Chas. Tedford Farm

Several men narrowly escaped injury or death on Saturday when the 12 by 36 steel silo fell to the ground when within about two feet of being filled.

When Basil Quick looked down on the ground, he noticed the silo leaning dangerously to the east and yelled to his three companions that "it's going down." Mr. Quick, Charles Nemeth, Charles Tedford and Mr. Atkins, who were spreading the silage, scrambled down the chute on the west side of the structure to safety. Men hauling corn drove their teams of horses away and hitched a tractor to the silo filler to pull it from its dangerous situation. This had hardly been accomplished before the silo buckled four feet from the foundation, broke and crashed to earth. The silo had been in use for 20 years.

About 30 neighbors rallied to the farm and moved the silage to a large silo on the Albert Quick farm. This kindness was greatly appreciated by Mr. Tedford.

Short, Dry Pasture Forces Butterfat Production Down Three Pounds in August

"We have this month further evidence of short, dry pasture," says Clayton Reid, tester of the North Tuscola Dairy Herd Improvement Association, in his August report. "The association average butterfat production is down nearly three pounds since last month and over six pounds since two months ago."

Table with columns: Owner, Breed, Age, Lbs. Milk, Pct., Lbs. Fat. Lists data for Clayton Rohlf, Marriet McDonald, Harry McCollum, Fred Miller & Sons, Cleveland Neal, William Parrott & Sons, R. C. Humm, Murry McCollum.

This list contains all the breeds on test and all the age classes except the two-year-olds. In May there were 35 50-pound cows. "The second high cow was incorrectly classed as a 4-year-old cow last month," says Mr. Reid. "The third high cow was the high 3-year-old cow last month. She produced three pounds more butterfat this month than last and has not had a bit of grain since she freshened. "I wish to call attention to two cows that finished lactation records this month. Fore Hengerveld Belle 1787012 a two-year-old heifer, finished her first lactation with a record of 11,754 pounds of milk and 459.2 pounds of butterfat produced in 320 days."

TODAY, modern light conditioning and the new Science of Seeing demand the right size lamp in the right socket. There is a correct size bulb and a proper degree of light for every seeing task. That is why it is important to have a selection of lamps on your shelf... so that you may replace the burned-out bulbs in your floor and table lamps—or in your ceiling fixtures—with another bulb of the correct size. (The Detroit Edison Company exchanges smaller bulbs for larger—or vice versa—in all the standard household sizes, without extra charge. When you bring in your burned-out lamp bulbs, ask to see the light conditioning chart which specifies correct lamp sizes.)

An I.E.S. reflector-type lamp for a child's study desk requires a 100- or 150-watt lamp for proper illumination. A good reading light usually also needs this size bulb. For close visual tasks such as sewing, reading fine print, etc., you may require a 200-watt lamp bulb or larger. Our Home Lighting Advisors will be glad to help you choose the right lamp for the right socket in every room of your house. Call your Detroit Edison office.

According to the young minister, the world needs to return to the simplicity of the old time religion as revealed in the Divinely inspired Word of God. He believes there is no other panacea for the world's ills, and his preaching radiates this belief.

The winter program of the Novesta Church will include preaching services both morning and evening, with Bible School in the morning, and C. E. services preceding preaching in the evening each Sunday. Certain special services are being planned, and will be announced from time to time.

Why House "Peels" If your house is a chronic "peeler," that is, if the outside paint insists upon checking and blistering and flaking off, it is probably because moisture gets into the interior of the outside walls and saturates the wood siding. There are many causes for dampness in the walls, but probably the commonest is from moisture in the cellar and improper stopping of the spaces in the walls leading up from the cellar.

Why Fishes Were Used The period, roughly corresponding to our month of February, was sacred to the Babylonian fish god. The Babylonian calendar had but 360 days and every six years the calendar was adjusted by inserting an extra month after February, and that, too, was sacred to the fish god, so two fishes were used to signify the double month.

Why Fundy Bay Tide Is High The high tide in the Bay of Fundy is due largely to the configuration of the bay. When a tidal wave from a deep water enters a broad, deep river mouth or bay and spends its energy up a narrow channel at the far end, the momentum of the water forces a tremendous mass of water inland.

Why Sheaf of Wheat Is Used A sheaf of wheat is often used in a floral piece for the funeral of an elderly person as a symbol of a full and complete life; the sheaf of ripe wheat is appropriate.

Roman England Most tourists forget that the Romans occupied England for more than 300 years; yet every time he uses the abbreviations for English money the Englishman is under Roman influence. L stands for "librum" (pound); s. for "solidus" (shilling); and d. for "denarius" (penny).

WHY Lightning Starts Fires in Buildings and Trees.

Instead of lightning never striking twice in the same place, the chief reason why it sets fire to things is precisely because it often does strike, not twice, but many times in succession. So K. B. McEachron, lightning expert of the General Electric company, has discovered with his 10,000,000-volt lightning generator at Pittsfield, Mass.

Mere high voltage is not all there is to lightning. The amperage also is important, indicating the amount of electric current. Recently McEachron succeeded in combining a voltage of 5,000,000 volts with a current of 50,000 amperes. Electric power in his flash was about 12,500,000 kilowatts, discharging for a brief instant about one-third the power of all the dynamos in the United States, according to the Baltimore Sun.

Instead of flashing downward from the sky or upward from the earth, according to rival theories of other experts, lightning is shown by McEachron's photographs to shoot both ways at once, the earth flash and the sky flash sometimes meeting midway. Other photographs show lightning's not uncommon habit of making repeated strokes and setting fires.

A single stroke seldom would produce enough heat for a fire. It is the strokes repeated several times a second which gradually build up heat to ignite houses or trees.

Why Control Counts in Sports, Business, Habits On the baseball diamond, the difference between a great pitcher and a dud who can merely throw a ball hard, is largely a matter of control, asserts a writer in the Washington Star.

Fire, when under control, turns the wheels of industry. When out of control, it is one of the most destructive forces in the world.

A brilliant scientist, making revolutionary discoveries in his laboratory, may be changed into a helpless madman, simply by losing control over his mind.

Sounds pretty important, doesn't it—this matter of control? And it is. The motorist, the airplane pilot, the locomotive engineer—the life of each one depends absolutely on his ability to control his machine.

But that isn't all. Control is important for you, too—control over your habits, your temper, your undesirable impulses, your unworthy thoughts. If you have it, you'll be like the good baseball pitcher, and win a lot of games. If you don't, you'll be like the dud who not only never gets to first base, but who never even makes the team.

Why Shooting Star Has Tail The reason why a shooting star appears to have a tail trailing behind it is that an image remains in our eyes for about one-sixteenth of a second, says Pearson's London Weekly. Since the falling meteorite (wrongly called "shooting star") is moving very quickly, it has covered quite a distance before that one-sixteenth of a second has passed; so there appears to be a tail. It is the same phenomenon that makes the spokes of a whirling wheel look solid; and it is also the basis for the apparent continuous action on the cinema screen on which sixteen pictures are flashed every second.

Beauty Is a Duty It is one of life's true values for every woman. Don't neglect it. Character waving, brush curls, shampoo tints, permanents to suit you and all other work.

Franklin as an Inventor Benjamin Franklin, according to some authorities, not only invented the Franklin stove, but made the first warm air furnace for supplying pure heated air separately to various rooms. The first installation of a warm air furnace in New England, however, was not recorded until 1835. It was constructed in Worcester, Mass.

Children Mean Good Fortune The measure of a Hindu's good fortune is the number of his children. The Brahmins, the priestly caste, teach that parents of many children are blessed of the gods.

Money Is Envied, Says Hi Ho "Money is envied," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "and yet those who have sacrificed it may be most highly honored in our thought."

'The Baker,' 'Baker's Wife' Because they gave bread to the starving mob at Versailles on October 6, 1789, Louis XVI, and Marie Antoinette, of France, were popularly named "The Baker" and "The Baker's Wife."

Brewery Cellars of Solid Rock Pilsen or Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, whose main industry is beer, has a citizens' brewery with cellars cut out of the solid rock in which the beer is fermented and stored, running to a length underground of some seven miles.

Nova Scotia in Scotland The parade ground in front of Edinburgh castle, in Scotland, is legally a part of Nova Scotia. It was so declared in the reign of Charles I so that newly made Nova Scotian baronets could "take possession" of their lands on Nova Scotian territory.

Marijuana Cured Like Tobacco The leaves of the marijuana weed have seven or more narrow tapering petals. A drying process similar to that used in ready tobacco "cures" the vicious weed for smoking purposes.

Meaning of "Carrying Trade" "Carrying trade" is a phrase used in political economy and in commercial transactions to designate the commerce of different countries with each other.

Significant Details In New Fall Modes
Decided Changes in Skirts, Bodices, Sleeves
By CHERIE NICHOLAS
Skirts are straighter. If any fullness, it is apt to concentrate at the front. There is a vast amount of draping employed by designers.
Bodices are softly bloused, with care exercised to maintain neat trim waistline. Many are intricately draped.
Sleeves furnish the thrills. There's the dolman sleeve, for instance, revived in all its former glory. Contrasting the large armhole dolman sleeve is the high narrow shoulder-line arrived at by means of close fitted sleeves that are filled in at the top to stand up in puffs. Awfully old fashioned looking if they were not so really new fashioned that they are the "last word" for fall dresses.
Considerable black will be worn at the season's start but there is promise of rich colors for later on.
As to materials, crinkled and cloque effects are highlighted. Rich metal fabrics will add a note of luxury. At the moment sleek black rayon jersey is a favorite. Lots of fringe noted, also wide use of jet and gold bullion embroidery.

Bespeaks Chic
Couldn't be smarter, speaking of the young woman pictured at the top. Her Scotch reefer is of that new nubby colorful tweed that fashion so loudly acclaims for fall. Her quaker hat with its tall crown is of soft suede with gloves to match. Practical for town and country wear the ensemble is completed by a stunning bienen-davis flat square calf bag with wide handles. Note the metal-outlined tab for initials which is a new style feature. The lady of fashion centered in the group wears a background dress of sheer black wool which is brightened by Monet's new bracelet and necklace set composed of wide-spaced links and rotund globules. Monocraft modern monograms are spotlighted on the soft suede handbag. Belts are very important in the fall fashion scheme. Note the Criterion belt made of kape krush leather as worn by the fair lady below in the illustration. A swank cavalier hat of felt color-blended to the belt bespeaks ultra chic.

Belts Subordinated
Unless a belt is made of handsome material or has some distinctive jewelry feature it is likely to be relegated to the background in the scheme of autumn fashions. Many of the coats and dresses have belts that show only part way around the waistline, being pulled through slashes at the front and back or merely at the sides.

Scarf Decorations
Since dresses with scarf decorations are featured for autumn, squares of bright colored silks will be smart additions in every wardrobe. Scotch plaid taffeta, striped taffeta with metallic threads and many Persian patterns are among the new scarfs on display.

Paris Flashes
Use of jet trimming is noted. Feather trims give height to hats.
New furs stress string color caracul.
Tailored lace evening jacket suits are chic.
Gold embroidery appears on many black dresses.
Handsome black knit dress is latest for day wear.
Wool lace redingotes are worn over gay print frocks.
Rich fabrics reflect Persian and other oriental influence.
Chic Parisiennes wear veil over face with tiny hats, high coiffure.

MRS. KNAPP ENTERTAINED W. S. C. AT FIRST MEETING
which Mrs. T. Heron, the new secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting of May 14. Mrs. J. I. Niergarth led in the singing of the club song.
The resignation of Mrs. John Guisbert was read and accepted. Mrs. H. M. Buien will fill the vacancy.
Mrs. Hart welcomed the new president, Mrs. Edward Baker, and in presenting the gavel, said: "We are ever mindful of the high standards and traditions set before us by the pioneer members who organized this club thirty years ago and which have endured through the years and which we know you will uphold and pass on to your successor."
Mrs. Knapp, mother of the club and also past state president, Mrs. Samuel Benkelman and Mrs. Geo. A. Striffler, charter members, are still active members of the club.
Mrs. Baker, in accepting the presidency, spoke of the challenge, privilege and obligation involved in the office. The past presidents have her reverence and respect. The success of the new year depends on the direct proportion to what is put in it. There is a definite part for club women to do, as the women of the nation do nearly eighty per cent of the buying and have great influence, although at times they lack the pioneer spirit.
Miss Eleanor McCallum of Greenleaf sang two selections, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ethel McCoy, and Mrs. C. L. Graham outlined the year's program.
Mrs. Baker introduced Mrs. Fred Cross of Bad Axe, first vice president of East Central District. Mrs. Cross announced the district meeting which is to be held in St. Louis on October 4 and 5 in the high school auditorium with the clubs of St. Louis and Alma entertaining. She spoke briefly of the seven hundred acres planted in pine seedlings near Higgins Lake by the State Federation of Women's Clubs. On September 17, "Constitution Day," forty acres will be planted in the Upper Peninsula.
Mrs. Starmann's mother, Mrs. Wadsworth, past president of the Ladies' Library Association of Port Huron and Port Huron Musicales, was introduced and extended an invitation to all club members to visit their club house in Port Huron.
Miss Dora Krapp was also a guest of the club.
Thirty-nine members answered in the form of vacation echoes to roll call. The club was adjourned to meet with Mrs. A. H. Higgins on September 17, with Mrs. T. Donahue and Mrs. M. C. McLellan in charge of the program, entitled "Travel Day." Roll call will be, "An Interesting Visit."
At the close of the program a social time was enjoyed during which dainty refreshments were served by the program committee, consisting of Mrs. Graham, Mrs. E. H. Starmann, Mrs. Alex Tyo, Mrs. R. M. Taylor and Mrs. Ernest Croft. Mrs. Hart and Mrs. Baker poured tea at a prettily appointed table.

League Rules.

The following rules will govern league competition:

(1) All matches will start at 7:30 promptly, except on Monday nights when two teams will be scheduled to bowl at 9:30.

(2) On the Tuesdays on which Community Club meets, all matches will begin at nine o'clock.

(3) A charge of one cent a miss will be made with a limit of ten cents an evening. This money will be paid by each bowler to his team captain to be given by him to the league treasurer.

(4) Absolutely no excuse will be accepted for failure to bowl on the night scheduled. The absentee will be fined 25c and will be given credit in score for a total in each game equal to his average less ten pins.

(5) When a bowler is late he may enter competition at such stage in the match as his captain sees fit, taking the debit of ten pins for each game missed or its equivalent in fractions for part games missed.

(6) Each captain will be responsible for the "miss" and "fine" money collected by him to the league treasurer, C. M. Wallace.

(7) All disputes will be settled by a committee composed of the fourteen team captains.

(8) All tie games will be scored as one-half game won and one-half game lost for each of the tied teams.

(9) All disputes or questions as to rules arising during a match will be referred to Mr. Larkin, manager of the alleys.

Lansing—Smoke of the primary fight is now clearing away, and party managers are adjusting their gun ranges for one of the most bitterly-fought political battles in Michigan history.

The state ballot test in November is assuming nation-wide prominence, largely due to the unusual confidence which Governor Murphy enjoys at the White House and due to the fact that Murphy still basks in the public limelight as a possible presidential nominee in 1940.

The New Deal governor has made no public utterance that could be construed as mildly critical of the President.

In his devotion to FDR, he has voiced his blessing for a third term—and you can't go much farther than that!

"Sky the Limit"

As the opponents line up in September with "sky the limit" for charges and counter-charges, we find their strength to be somewhat as follows:

Democrats—All the payroll cash, and that is nothing to be sneezed at, considering the $9,000,000-plus payments out of the state treasury in the past 18 months. (What the civil service's new pay scale will accomplish is something yet to be seen.) Millions of dollars from Uncle Sam in the form of WPA, PWA, FHA, AAA and other alphabetical benefits—all a part of the so-called "pump priming" program for spending our way back to recovery.

Republicans—No state patronage organization, but hundreds of county leaders—supervisors, etc.—eager to return to Lansing. Nursing severe and painful wounds received in the recent family row, but deriving some consolation from the thought that the Democrats have family troubles, too: (1) Former Governor Comstock grimly whetting his tomahawk; (2) Lieut. Gov. Leo J. Nowicki maintaining discreet silence as to Murphy's labor policies; and (3) Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner being more interested in highway plans than in Murphy's re-election. G. O. P. troubles: What to do with McKay, the Grand Rapids G. O. P. boss. How to pacify Labor, acknowledging their right to collective bargaining and peaceful picketing, and yet not offend Business (both Big and Little).

Democratic Schism

Comstock's determination to get Murphy's scalp is a neat sample of the schism that has been slowly growing in Michigan Democratic ranks. It isn't split as yet.

The state administration is thankful that Senator Prentiss Brown is not up for re-election this fall. Prentiss fought the reorganization bill. He voted against his court bill. With these black marks, he would certainly be in line for the Roosevelt's own G. O. P.—"Get-Out!-Purge."

Brown's attitude is that of most old-line Democrats in Michigan who sympathize generally with FDR's program, but balk at some of his far-reaching reforms. Along with Brown, you will find Edward Fry, state chairman, and his brother, Theodore, state treasurer. This viewpoint is shared by VanWagoner and Nowicki; nationally, it is held by such men as Vice President Garner, Carter Glass and other life-long Democrats who vote straight and abhor the very existence of a Republican.

Independence

In somewhat of the spirit of a declaration of independence, State Chairman Fry greeted James A. Farley, national chairman, at Mackinac Island, with these significant words:

"Mr. Farley, Michigan is still Democratic. Some of us may not agree with everything that has been done in Washington or in Lansing. But any alterations in the course we have adopted are going to be made by an experienced pilot and not by fortune tellers."

This was interpreted in several ways: (1) Ed Fry, at least, desired no interference from Washington; (2) Practical men, not day dreamers, would determine policies in Michigan.

Governor Murphy certainly has set a shining example of how a state governor can co-operate 100 per cent with the President. In his idealist fervor for reform, he is far ahead of the party rank-and-file in echoing enthusiastic approval of every Roosevelt objective. In other words, he is willing to go the limit.

Sometimes the reformer gets too far ahead of the masses or wanders to the left. As Roosevelt phrased the idea the other day, explaining Purge failures: "It sometimes takes years for the past to catch up with the present."

Up-Hill Fight

Except for the possibility of an out-and-out Democratic split, Michigan Republicans face an up-hill fight.

For one thing, their own ranks are not consolidated.

They lack patronage payrolls to help finance the campaign. (Both primary camps were practically "broke" a week ago).

They are handicapped by not having the political key to the New Deal treasury chest. ("Murphy can get us more federal money.")

As the governor declared in his special session message, 200,000 workers are on WPA payrolls today in Michigan. The governor today has a black check good for $10,000,000 to assure adequate welfare relief.

Yes, the Michigan campaign is going to be worth watching. Anything may happen before it is over.

Trace Dog Racing to 1566

Dog racing is a modern sport that had its origin before the reign of King James I (1566-1625), who is reputed to have written a set of rules to govern the sport of greyhound racing. Instead of a mechanical rabbit to spur the dogs on a live deer was used. But aside from that the rules sound strangely modern, even to the award, which generally consisted of a fat purse or a piece of plate.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

"Our lives are rivers, guiding through To that unfathomed, boundless sea The silent tomb."

In memory of Brother John Marshall, who died September 6, 1938.

"Leaves have their time to fall, and flowers to wither at the north wind's cold blast, but thou, oh Death! hath all seasons for thine own."

Once again a Brother Mason, having completed the designs written for him on life's trestle board, has passed through the portals of Eternity and entered the Grand Lodge of the New Jerusalem and has received as his reward, the white stone with the new name written thereon.

And whereas, the all-wise and merciful Master of the universe has called from labor to refreshments our beloved and respected brother.

And whereas he having been a true and faithful brother of our beloved Order, therefore, be it Resolved, That Tyler Lodge, No. 317, F. & A. M. of Cass City, Mich., in testimony of his loss, be draped in mourning for thirty days, and that we tender to the family of our deceased brother our sincere condolence in their deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

CHAPTER VIII

Pink Mulgrew was engrossed with plans for an after-dinner excursion. The incident of the doughnut pan had left him a prey to vague forebodings. There was the chance that Brown dame might come back for her property. If she encountered the dominie or Dale, it was more than likely she would make some "crack" about that kitchen visit.

Accordingly, Pink chose four of the likeliest "Browns" in the telephone directory and copied the street numbers on a bit of paper. He planned to begin the quest as quickly as the dinner dishes could be washed and the kitchen put in its usual scrupulous order.

Even then he had a narrow escape, for Dale appeared just as Mr. Mulgrew and the pan were achieving a stealthy exit from the back door.

"Where are you going, Pink?" "Milkin'." The door closed with a hasty bang.

The first "Brown" doorbell summoned an aged man who proved hard of hearing and eyed the pan with deep distrust. Apparently he labored under the delusion that a contribution of some sort was desired. After a noisy attempt to clarify the situation, Pink turned away in disgust.

At his next stop, fortune favored him. The door was opened by none other than Miss Abbie herself.

"Here's your pan," the grateful messenger announced and thrust it at her.

"Why, thank you! Did you ever hear of anything so stupid? Calling at your house just to get that pan and then walking right off without it! You must come in and sit down a few minutes. You're tired, I know."

"No thanks. Not tonight." "But my mother would so like to meet you. I've been telling her how we . . ."

"Not a chance. I mean I'm in a hurry," Pink explained. So that was it. Been telling her old lady. And who else? "Fine time I'd have gigin' that one off," he told himself as he beat a hasty retreat into the darkness.

In the meantime Dale had made his way to the Bradys' where Hattie, the elderly domestic, assured him that Lee was at home. Mrs. Brady, however, was the only occupant of the living room when he entered.

"Oh! It's Dale. How are you? Lee is upstairs, but she will be here presently. Please sit down."

"Fine." Dale helped himself to a chair. "I suppose I should have asked Lee if it was convenient for me to call," he began abruptly. "But I was away all afternoon and I did want to tell her how disappointed I was about last night. Father had invited guests for dinner and I didn't know it."

Mrs. Brady sensed the anxiety in his voice. "That was quite all right," she suggested kindly. "Lee was disappointed that you were unable to come. All of us were."

Before he had time to pursue the subject further, Lee appeared from the hall. The caller's heart sank when he saw that she was wearing her coat.

"Hello," was her cheerful greeting. "How are you?" "All right. I shouldn't have come over unannounced. Were you going out?"

"Only to the corner to post a letter." Lee removed her coat and tossed it into a chair.

"If you'll trust me with it, I'll drop it in the post office." Dale took the letter and thrust it into his pocket. "I was just telling your mother how sorry I was about last night."

"Oh, well . . ." Lee's voice was disappointingly indifferent. "Maybe I'll have better luck next time. No I won't." She laughed. "I'm all through having birthdays. I forgot."

It was impossible to tell from Lee's manner whether or not she held any resentment against him. She chatted freely and frankly as Dale's spirits drooped. He was almost on the point of making his adieux, when Mrs. Brady excused herself and retired from the room. When he was satisfied that she was out of hearing Dale drew a long breath.

"Lee," he blurted, "I wanted to tell you about last night. Who our guests were."

"I know," she answered quietly. "Evelyn was here today. She mentioned it."

"Oh—I see." The admission left him floundering. "I would rather have told you myself."

"I'm not sure I wouldn't have preferred it that way. But it's quite all right."

"Well, you see, I didn't like to mention it over the phone. I guess I was rather upset anyway. Father told me point-blank that he expected me to be on hand to help him entertain. It sounds queer, I know. But it's rather difficult to oppose him."

"Please don't say any more about it, Dale. I told you it was all right." "But it isn't," he insisted miserably. "I feel like a rotter. And all last evening . . ."

"Now don't try to make me think you didn't have a good time," Lee laughed. "That would be too much. I thought perhaps you dropped in tonight to tell me good-by. I heard you were going away sooner than you had planned."

"Who says so? I'm leaving after the holidays. Mr. Marblestone sort of got to quizzing me last night. I might have given him the impression I was ready to put on my hat and start. I know I felt like it."

"Just what are you going to do at the U, Dale?" "It's a joke. I'm trying my hand at—well, it won't be teaching. Just keeping a section of beginners busy. Ben Lingham is taking a leave the second semester and Payne thought I could hold down some of his work. There isn't much in it, but I jumped at the chance to be associated that much more with the chief."

"Doctor Payne is head of the department, isn't he?" "I'll say he is! He's one of the foremost consultants in the country today. There are a lot of mining men, up north mostly, who swear by him. I'm going to cultivate him all I can in hopes he might land a berth for me with one of his clients this spring. A recommendation from him ought to go a long way."

"That sounds interesting. Where you won't be coming back here."

There was a little note in the last that Dale was quick to detect. "Lee," he told her steadily, "I should have gone away sooner. I didn't. And there's just one reason. I'll always be coming back, if you're here. Or unless you tell me I can't."

"Do you remember, Dale, that I told you one day that you were funny? You are. And I think we'd better talk about something else."

"Yes, I do remember," he said slowly. "Everything that happened that day. I always will. And I'd better be going home." Dale rose to his feet, hesitated uncertainly. "Lee, there's something I want to ask you first."

"Yes?" She met his eyes unflinchingly. "Is—is everything all right now?" "Yes." Lee smiled up at him brightly. "Everything's just right."

The fast approaching holidays brought little of pleasurable anticipation to Dale Farwell. Each time he thought of Christmas, he was conscious of a feeling of dejection that he could not shake off. It meant leaving Locust Hill. Leaving home. Leaving Lee.

For the first time, his departure from his father's roof carried a realization of permanency. Dale's forthcoming graduation at the university must be a stepping stone only. High time he was making a niche for himself, putting his education to the test. In the meantime, he must devote as many hours as possible to his father and to Pink. He owed them that.

Hence, young Mr. Farwell became something of a recluse those last few weeks, pleading his preparations as a reason for declining invitations. There was one exception. He went to Lee's home as frequently as he could contrive an excuse.

Lee had been as good as her word, so far as their outward relations were concerned. But Dale was miserably conscious that something of the old comradeship was gone. He could not define it with any degree of satisfaction. There was a vague barrier there. Lee was holding him away from her, gently but none the less firmly.

Aside from the usual home remembrances, Dale's Christmas shopping concerned itself only with a gift for Lee. Furtive prowls through department stores, a search that took him as far as New York, left him rather dismayed at the vast miscellany contrived for feminine use.

"I hope you don't mind my acting as my own delivery boy," he explained evasively to Lee when he was fortunate enough to find her alone on the afternoon of the day before Christmas. "I had these flowers for your mother and I wanted to be sure they got here shipshape, you know."

"Dale, how lovely!" Lee exclaimed, as she carefully opened the box and brought to view a mass of pink roses. "How did you know that she loves flowers better than anything else in the world?"

"I didn't," she smiled happily. "I just couldn't think of anything else good enough for her."

"You've no idea how she will appreciate it. I wish she were here now to thank you. You must excuse me a minute while I take care of them."

"I had the very dickens of a time finding a little something for you," Dale remarked when Lee returned to the living room. He held out a small flat parcel as he spoke. "Save it for tomorrow."

"Indeed I won't!" Lee's brown eyes were shining. "I never could wait until Christmas morning to look at my presents. Please . . ."

Her eager fingers were already working with the ribbon that bound the tissue-wrapped package. Then Lee was gazing in breathless delight at a small painting held in her two hands.

"Like it?" "It's adorable. I'm afraid I don't know how to tell you. It's so beautiful," she added softly.

Dale gave a relieved sigh. "Then I'm glad. I had just about given it up. Then I was browsing around over in the city and happened in a funny little restaurant down in the Village. Some artist had a number of pictures on display there and I saw that one. As soon as I looked at it, I knew it was you. Do you know what it made me think of?"

"Of course," Lee answered quickly. "Our trip to Staten Island. It's that same soft haze over the water. The same coloring—and that old house. I wish I knew how to thank you."

"Can't you think of a nice way?" was Dale's bold retort. By way of answer, Lee laid the picture carefully on the table, crossed swiftly to Dale's chair,

MOTION PICTURE COOKING SCHOOL STARTS TODAY

Concluded from first page. The wizardry of the camera has made it possible for every person who is present at the Cass Theatre to share each fascinating stage of the planning, measuring, blending, and baking in practical, up-to-the-minute kitchens.

Keeping pace with the baking, roasting and frying, a series of salads and frozen delicacies will parade in and out of the adaptable electric refrigerator, which will reveal its host of possibilities for simplifying labor and marketing and contributing to good health and good food.

What to do with left-overs? How to take the gloom out of laundry day? How to save time, energy and temper in meal preparation? How to be attractive in spite of the daily rush? How to make the picnics that men love to eat? How to give first-aid to fallen cakes?

It won't be necessary to ask the questions, for expert home specialists have anticipated these very problems. They know what bothers many an experienced housekeeper, because it is their job to know and to counsel helpfully.

Fun, novelty and entertainment are joined throughout the feature picture for it is always fair weather when neighbors cooks get together. Home-making has a universal appeal, and every woman is eager to learn the newest news of her craft.

Cooking romance, modern kitchens, and clever actors and actresses do not tell the complete story of this 1938-model cooking school. The picture is a whole laboratory of modern ideas and wise counsel, touching on latest developments in home equipment and accessories, including laundry methods, ways to prepare left-overs, beauty secrets, hints on saving time and labor, and fresh suggestions on how to entertain graciously, as well as how to be thrifty.

It won't be necessary to carry pad and pencil and try to scribble measurements in the darkened theatre, because free recipe sheets, with complete formulas for many of the delicious dishes prepared in this Motion Picture School will be distributed daily.

Surprises will not be limited to free entertainment and instruction, since there will be daily gifts, many of which will bring pleasure and renewed appreciation of "school days" long after the final graduation on the closing day.

The school is naturally most interesting to adults. A child should be accompanied by parent.

GRANT PIONEER DIED AT AGE OF 80

Concluded from page one. The hardships of pioneer life and lent their energies in making the transformation of Grant Township land from a wilderness to finely cultivated acres. Hard times were often present in the early years but they mastered difficulties and enjoyed many happy years of wedded life.

In those early years, it was sometimes necessary to travel what was then long distances to obtain work during the winter months. One winter, Mr. Maharg worked in Caseville, chopping elm and ash wood to four feet lengths, at fifty cents a cord. After paying his board, his net earnings were about 35 cents a day.

In order to spend a week-end with his family, Mr. Maharg walked 17 miles from Caseville to his home on Saturday afternoon. Often he would walk the seven miles to Cass City for groceries and meat before starting on his return hike to Caseville on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Maharg celebrated their golden wedding in 1928 surrounded by a large group of friends and relatives. Last January, their 60th wedding anniversary was observed when the family gathered for a family dinner and in the afternoon a host of friends called and extended congratulations at open house.

Mr. and Mrs. Maharg were for many years among the most active members of the Heron Methodist Protestant Church which was built across the highway from their Grant Township home. Mr. Maharg, for a period of 40 years, served continuously as a member of the board of trustees of the Gageton circuit. He also served as clerk of that body. No services have been held at the Heron Church for several years, the congregation there uniting with the membership of the Methodist Protestant Church at Gageton.

Mr. Maharg was Grant Township supervisor for a number of years. Mr. Maharg leaves his widow and two sons, Alfred and Herbert Maharg, of Grant Township; a foster daughter, Mrs. Leslie Townsend, of Cass City; three sisters, Mrs. Jane McKinney, Mrs. Robert Reynolds and Mrs. Thomas Meyers, all of Toronto, Ontario; two brothers, John Maharg, of Moosejaw, Sask., and Clark Maharg of Vancouver, British Columbia; six grandchildren and one great grandchild. Two sons, Clark and Louis, preceded the father in death.

Relatives and friends who came from distant points to attend the funeral included John Maharg of Moosejaw, Sask., Mrs. Jane Kinney of Toronto, Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Maharg and two daughters of Detroit, Ralph Maharg of Flint, Miss Cassie Maharg of Toledo, Ohio, Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Putnam of Otisville, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Motley, Mrs. Alvey Motley and Mrs. Maurice Weidman, all of Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Gray of Davison, Mrs. Charles Wilson and son, Clayton, of Clarkston, Mrs. Viola Gardner of Kingsville, Ontario.

LOCAL WOMEN IN NATIONAL TAX FIGHT

Concluded from first page. headquarters in Chicago, represents women throughout the country "who are determined to combat all taxes, direct and hidden, that are increasing living costs," Mrs. Alvord said.

"The interest of Cass City women in movements that safeguard consumers' welfare," she added, has lead the commission to choose Cass City as the center of the organization work in this area.

"The commission's crusade against taxes, state, local and national, that are eating deeply into the family dollar is one that women all over the country are enthusiastically supporting. As housewives they are the guardian of the family purse. On them rests the task of making the family income go just as far as possible and hence of combatting those taxes which increase prices on every necessity of life."

EGG COAL IS MORE CONVENIENT TO FIRE

In making fires EGG COAL gives you even firebeds; the fires are more responsive to regulation and combustion is better.

Use EGG COAL to pick up furnace fires in the morning when quick heat is needed.

EGG COAL is especially desirable in homes where the women and children are called upon occasionally to look after the furnace and keep the fires going throughout the day.

Use EGG COAL for banking fires at night.

Many styles of modern heating stoves have narrow-mouthed openings, therefore manufacturers of heatrolas recommend the use of EGG COAL for best results.
