The Schwaderers Contribute Ice Rink to Local Youngsters

Half of School Playground Is Graded and Sprinkling Outfit Is Being Built.

Young and old of the Cass City community will feel particularly grateful to Village President and Mrs. Eugene B. Schwaderer for their contribution to the happiness of the boys and girls this winter in the preparation of a portion of the school playground for an ice skating rink.

Several days the past week, workmen of the Schwaderer road machinery graded about half of the playground at the school, preparing it for an outdoor ice skating rink. A regular sprinkler outfit is being built at the Schwaderer plant to flood the rink and it won't be long now before the ring of the ice skates will cleave the wintry air.

This contribution of Mr. and Mrs. Schwaderer to the youth of the community represents several hundreds of dollars.

Perkins School First in Tuscola to Sell Quota of Seals

Perkins School at Akron is the first rural school in Tuscola County to sell its quota of 1938 tuberculosis Christmas seals, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association announced this week. Returns were made by Miss Helen Higgins, the teacher who supervised the sale.

Record-making, record-breaking were the efforts of Miss Higgins and her twenty-six pupils. In little more than a week after they had received their supply of the tiny 1938 health seals, every seal was sold. Their Christmas seal pennies will be used to help fight tuberculosis in Tuscola County, the association said.

Rural school boys and girls, together with their teachers, in every corner of Michigan give splendid cooperation in the annual campaign against tuberculosis in Michigan, according to association officials. Their energy and fine spirit of willingness in selling tuberculosis Christmas seals is of invaluable aid in fighting the White Plague, it was emphasized.

Congratulations were extended by the association to Perkins School as one of the many Tuscola County rural schools which are helping to prevent the spread of tuberculosis in Michigan.

New Auditorium and Gymnasium of Gageton Public School Nearly Completed and Ready for Occupancy

The above halftone gives a view of the Gageton Public Schools with its new addition (at the right of the picture) which provides room for two class rooms and a combined gymnasium and auditorium. The contractors expect to have the new part of the school completed and ready for occupancy the latter part of this month. The addition which has been building is 77 by 62 feet in size and is constructed of brick. It contains a combined auditorium and gymnasium and two class rooms.

The stage of the auditorium is 13 feet deep and about 50 feet wide. The two class rooms are located above the bleachers in the second story on the south side of the new building and connect with the main school building by a corridor and stairway.

Official approval of the grant of $13,500 allotment by the Public Works Administration for the addition to the school building was received by the board of education last summer. A $16,500 bond issue was voted by the taxpayers of the district at a special election on May 10, and thus $30,000 were available for the new building. Photo by Virgil Spitzer.

Demand That State Gambling Laws Be Enforced

County Ministerial Ass'n. Sends Resolution to State and County Officers.

"The Ministers' Armor for Evangelism" was the subject of the lecture given by Rev. J. B. McMinn, pastor of the Mayville Baptist Church, Monday morning when the Tuscola County Ministerial Association met in the Presbyterian Church here. Twenty ministers and wives were present. Devotionals were in charge of Rev. Lester Dana, pastor of the U. B. Church of Gilford. Mr. Dana also played several selections on his cornet during the song service. At 12 o'clock a pot-luck luncheon was served and was followed by a business meeting.

A discussion was held on the general gambling devices throughout the state. A resolution was passed, and will be sent to the law enforcement officers of the county and state, including the incoming governor, demanding that the state gambling laws continue to be enforced.

Guess This One? Taken When We Were Young

Well, last week's picture was easier to recognize with nine guessing correctly and five making wrong estimates.

Benjamin Guinther thought it was George Bartle, Mrs. James Walker concluded it was William J. Schwegler, Clarence Quick guessed Lyle Koepfgen and A. H. Henderson named James J. Wallace.

We came near giving Frank Hegler 50% on his guess when he said it was Burt Gowen. One trouble Hegler had was that he placed the Burt on the wrong side of the fence for that part of the name should have been given last. The correct way was George Burt.

Correct guessers who named George Burt include Mrs. O. W. Nique, William F. Joos, Ben Schwegler, John Gordon, C. U. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Striffler, C. J. Striffler and John A. Sandham. Whose picture is printed at the head of this article?

Dr. and Mrs. R. N. Holsaple drove to Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday to attend the national convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, and expect to return on Saturday of this week. He is at present a member of the board of directors of the national organization. He is also a member of the board of trustees of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League, representing the Michigan Conference of the Evangelical Church, in that capacity.

Champion of Economy Named Deputy Auditor

Gus T. Hartman of Houghton to Serve Under Brown as Deputy Auditor General

The well known team of Brown and Hartman will step into double harness again on January 2 when Gus T. Hartman assumes the job of deputy auditor general of Michigan alongside Vernon J. Brown, auditor general elect, who Wednesday announced the selection of his former house colleague as chief aid and assistant. The combination of Brown and Hartman is not unknown in state affairs. Both are veteran members of the house of representatives. Their names were associated much during the 1933 session of the legislature when they jointly introduced on the opening day of the session more than a hundred bills, all aimed at reducing state expense, and the cost of administering government, both state and local.

Unionville Woman Fatally Injured in Auto Accident

Stepped into the Path of Car Passing Her Home Wednesday Afternoon.

Another fatality due to a high-way accident was added to the list in Tuscola County late Wednesday afternoon, bringing the total from that cause to 28 for 1938. The victim was Mary Primer, 20, who resided 1/2 mile north of Unionville. Miss Primer was struck by a car driven by Nick Lambert of Rural Route No. 1, Gageton, as she stepped from a bus into the highway in front of the Lambert car. The automobile's right front fender and light were damaged and it is thought the door lock on that side of the car inflicted the injuries which caused the young woman's death.

Miss Primer with two other young women companions were talking to the driver of the Sebewaing bus which had stopped in front of the Primer home 1/2 mile north of Unionville on M-25. The bus had pulled off the pavement and the young ladies had gone into the bus because of the strong wind which was prevalent. The bus was headed north and as the young women, left the bus, Miss Primer, who was in the lead, stepped around the front of the bus into the path of Nick Lambert's car who was travelling north on the pavement at a 25 to 30-mile an hour rate. With Mr. Lambert were his wife and a man passenger.

Thousand Dollar Check, Derby Hat and Turkey Talk

These with Rotary Club Charge Made a Varied Program at Luncheon.

Welcome to two new members, the presentations of a thousand dollar check and a derby hat, heartfelt remarks of a "champ" exhibitor and his proud dad, and turkey talk made a most varied program at the Rotary luncheon at the Hotel Gordon here Tuesday.

The welcome to a new club member, Cameron McLellan, was extended by Frederick Pinney, and the Rotary charge to Mr. McLellan and Horace M. Bulen, who was welcomed as a member a few weeks ago, was made by William Miller, who gave a brief history of the Rotary movement and told of the objects of Rotary.

William Profit expressed the satisfaction which was felt by being the dad of a championship exhibitor and Willis Campbell, adviser of the Cass City Live Stock Club, presented Leslie Profit with a $1,054.50 check which represented the amount for which Profit's grand champion steer was sold at auction last Thursday at the close of the Junior Live Stock Show at Detroit. Leslie Profit told of the advantages of being a member of the live stock club and he, like his father who preceded him in speech-making, said much of the success of club members was due to the advice and assistance of Mr. Campbell. Leslie said at the conclusion of his talk, "Here's a gift that our club adviser has long desired," and handed Mr. Campbell a derby hat. The members of the local live stock club here have for nine consecutive years won one or more championships.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Our congratulations to members of the Cass City Live Stock Club and their adviser, Willis Campbell, on their achievement in winning one or more championship awards at the Junior Live Stock Show at Detroit for nine years in succession.

Many a 4-H club would be proud to secure such recognition for two years hand-running, but when it occurs with such regularity as has been evidenced in the exhibitions of the Cass City club, it is most remarkable indeed.

Half-tones of championship exhibitors and their animals in the state dailies and columns of newspaper write-ups of the accomplishments of the youthful exhibitors has given the Cass City agricultural community some very desirable publicity in the past nine years by this younger generation of farmers.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

The church choirs draw from the great library of music the sweet and haunting carols that have been the priceless possession of the ages. Those charming phrases of song and melody have echoed through the homes and churches of Europe for centuries, telling of a better world, and bringing the message of good will.

The world of those ages was constantly being torn up by wars. The people suffered from great tyrannies, and from a poverty so abject that we can hardly imagine it. The carols told of the Holy One who had come to earth to bring about happier lives and to destroy hate and conflict.

15,000,000 JOBS.

The Scientific American states that 15 of the major industries of the country have been developed in the 60 years since 1879, and it is estimated they have provided directly and indirectly 15,000,000 jobs.

The people who think that machinery causes unemployment might study those figures. Probably few if any of those industries could have come anywhere near attaining their present status, if machinery had not been developed so that production costs could be greatly reduced and these inventions placed within the people's reach.

How far have these new industries and jobs been created through inventions and discoveries by Americans? Our guess would be that the majority of them are due to the resourcefulness of our own folks. Our ingenious people have a great power in their hands, which should give them an almost unlimited chance for progress.

GREETING CARDS.

Now comes the time when a large part of that stuffed bag the mail man carries, consists of pretty little greeting cards that bear the welcome messages of Christmas joy. Art and fine sentiment go into the making of these cards. The golden words of the poets illuminate these missives, and there are pictures of nature's beauty and the artistic triumphs of man.

The recipient of such cards feels a warming of the heart, as he looks these messages over. They give a feeling of comfort, to think that we are not taking the pilgrim path alone, but are walking down the march of life with a company of kind hearts who wish us well.

EFFECT OF PERSECUTION.

What will be the effect in the long run of the very severe persecution which the German government is imposing on its Jewish citizens? We might consider the effect on the Christian religion of the persecutions to which its adherents were subjected in the Roman empire and various countries many centuries ago.

A certain number of pagan Roman rulers thought in those periods that they could put down the Christian religion by cruel treatment of the Christians. One of their favorite diversions was to throw those martyrs into a den full of hungry lions, and have this revolting spectacle take place before an arena crowded with people, who seemed to enjoy the gory sight.

What did they gain by such terrible acts? Instead of destroying Christianity, it had precisely the opposite effect. Christians fled all over the portions of the world then known, and the result was to greatly extend the spread and sway of that religion, until it became the principal faith held by the civilized world of that date.

The persecution of the Jews likewise is going to drive those people all over the world. They are going to tell the world the full story of the wrongs and humiliations they have suffered. This will tend to alienate the friendship of great bodies of people from the German nation.

The German government is reaching out for more trade and influence. It will discover that the story of its doing toward the Jews will create alarm and horror. People don't like to do business with a country that tolerates such actions. It is quite likely that the masses of the German people do not approve of these cruelties, but their country will be blamed so long as these things go on.

CHRISTMAS TRADE.

For the ordinary run of people, Christmas is a time of unstinted pleasure, when they are delighted by beautiful and practical gifts they receive. They do some worrying over what to give this or that friend, but in the main the season is one of heartfelt satisfaction.

There are many for whom the coming days are a period of anxiety and strain. These folks are the merchants of our stores and all who work for them. The merchants have a great deal at stake. They have invested large amounts of money in Christmas goods. They have had faith in their townspeople, that this enterprise would be appreciated, and that these goods so splendidly adapted for the purpose, would be readily sold.

All the people in these stores, from the man at the head down to the newest clerk, know that a period of hurry and strain is ahead. No wonder if they feel uneasy. The public can remove these reasons for anxiety. If it will show loyalty to the home town, and make purchases at home, the merchants will be rewarded for their enterprise.

The money will be kept at home where it will continue to benefit us all, and circulate among our own people and produce local prosperity.

Chips Take Slice of State's Spuds

Michigan's potato crop, second largest in the nation in 1938, will deliver nearly three-fourths of a million bushels to a specialized food industry, that of making potato chips, it is estimated by H. C. Moore, farm crops extension specialist at Michigan State College.

Moore has occasion to know, for some of the experimental work in production and storage of potatoes by the college staff concerns best varieties, sizes, shapes and culture and storage for ideal tubers for making chips.

Russet Rurals, Chippewas and Katahdins, three important varieties in Michigan, seem to be almost ideal for this special treatment. Shallow eyes and smooth surface are desirable.

In storage tests the buyer pays more for those potatoes which have been kept not below 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Best results in chips seem to be obtained when the storage temperatures are raised to 50 to 60 degrees two weeks before they go into the chip factory.

During the processing the potatoes are scrubbed and skinned and then soaked in water after slicing. Just before the slices are dropped into hot fat they are surface dried.

Several large establishments in Detroit and others scattered throughout the state are in the business of making and distributing potato chips.

Up at Cadillac the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange has started the manufacture of potato chips. Since June the exchange has been merchandising the food product under the name of "Miss Michigan" in several sizes of packages.

Why Louisiana Has Parishes Soon after the purchase of Louisiana from France, that part of the territory which comprises the state was divided into 12 settlements called counties. These districts were not clearly defined and proved unsatisfactory for the purposes of civil government. In 1807 the legislature of the territory of Orleans divided the territory into 19 districts and called them parishes, from the old French and Spanish ecclesiastical districts or parishes. And when the state was admitted to the Union the name parish was applied to additional civil districts which were afterwards created.

City Boys Seek Future on Farm

Rural youths still may seek their future in cities, but a new trend of city youths to the future offered by farming is apparent in the enrollment of youths now attending short courses at Michigan State College.

More than a score of the 200 studying short courses in agriculture at East Lansing have city addresses. A survey and some interviews indicate their parents have purchased farms recently, or the boys hold the ambition of owning or operating a farm when they complete their training at the college.

One of these farm minded city boys in Merrill Gottschalk, 20, completing his second year in the 16 weeks' general course in agriculture. He is the son of a Detroit doctor. His grandfather farmed many years at Lapeer. Gottschalk intends to specialize in dairy manufacturing and eventually he hopes to have a dairy farm from which he will distribute milk to city customers.

Two other students are older and each has travelled.

One is Frederick Tullas, 30. He has had opportunity to study what he wants to do. City employment has been mixed in with travel in Europe and South America. His father, associated with a paper company at Monroe, purchased a large farm in 1932 as an investment. Now it attracts young Tullas as a future and he intends to make a Holstein herd pay its way on the 300 acres of land.

Another also is the son of a paper company executive. He is John Williams, 26, Gull Lake. He also has done some travelling, but finds agriculture offering an attractive future on the 160 acres he is operating in alfalfa, corn and potatoes, plus live stock that includes 13 head of deer.

Soy Bean Paint Wins Approval

Michigan's farmers can use soy bean paint with confidence and treat themselves to three distinct advantages, advises C. H. Jefferson, agricultural engineer at Michigan State College. After a tour through paint factories and testing laboratories, Jefferson has checked his information with the knowledge he has gained in an extensive study of paint surfaces. From this he offers endorsement of paint made in part with soy bean oil. The three advantages are important to farmers. They include obtaining higher quality paint, making use of the soy bean in processing so that the by-product of soy bean oil meal becomes lower in cost for live stock feed, and creation of a market for more soy beans, grown in Michigan or other states.

Present supplies of oils used in paints include linseed oil, China wood oil or tung oil and soy bean oil, most of these imported. Tung oil, derived from a nut crop, is obtained largely from China. War in China has boosted the price of tung oil many times its former cost to paint manufacturers. So they are becoming increasingly interested in soy bean oil.

What happens to the paint is another phase of the problem. Jefferson finds that manufacturers are agreeing that 20 to 25 per cent soy bean oil makes a better non-fading paint, chalks instead of cracking and checking. The chalking, indicating oxidation through-out instead of just on the surface is called the test of a good paint. One of the modern paints now includes 60 per cent linseed, 30 per cent soy oil and 10 per cent thinner and dryer.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

IMOGENE'S linen closet is my despair—and delight. I always adore taking a peek at it when I go to her house, and yet it makes me green wanting such a one in my house.

There's a separate shelf to hold the linens for each room with gay little labels. Imogene has night spreads with special pillowcases for her room and for the guest room. They're as dainty as forget-me-nots—made of sprigged dimity with wide ruffles. They're the crowning glory as far as I'm concerned—they're so pretty.

Her bedspreads are all extra nice, too. In the maple room, the twin beds are covered with beautiful creamy crocheted spreads in a tufted design and a well filled in pattern. This is where she uses light blue sheets. In Imogene's room, the mahogany poster bed has a quilted spread in white with applied flower baskets for the design. Her sheets are white with peach applied monograms. Bill's room has a grand spread for a high-school boy—it's made of bright green corduroy and finished around the bottom with a thick green wool fringe. His sheets are white with his initial and graduating year embroidered in green. Helen's room has a flowered chintz spread over an eyelet embroidered flounce—the sheets here are white with double rows of hemstitching.

For each bathroom Imogene has towels that match the other decorations. But in addition, she has a small towel rack on the inside closet door where she keeps some extra personal towels. They seem to come in quite handy.

But of course it's her dining-room linen shelf that really makes me covetous. Stacks of snowy damask napkins, yards of lustrous damask tablecloths, gossamer lace tea cloths, jaunty piles of informal colored linens in just the right colors for the room.

Imogene takes pride not only in the quality and quantity of her household linens, but also in how she keeps them. They always look so crisp and smooth and fragrant. Yet she does them up herself, every piece. She's learned to be quite an artist with her mangle—puts them through with never a wrinkle and so that each one is folded straight.

A Master Bedroom. Really much too pretty to be so clever, and so I'm always surprised anew when I see how many things she can do. A tweed suit that looks a hundred dollars' worth is nothing for her to run up on her sewing machine. And you should see the kid glove fit she gets on a slip cover.

Naturally I always like to drop in at her house as often as I can because she invariably has something new and pretty to show me. The other day when I went by, Jane had been doing things to her bedroom, came away with a head full of she'd done over two old twin beds for one thing, upholstering them in cream quilted taffeta (yes, she did the quilting herself) with spreads to match. (Saying that the same idea could be worked out with slip covers for the head and foot boards.) The carpet in this room is a warm cinnamon brown, walls are cream and the ceiling is a lighter tea color. A chaise longue is upholstered in a dull green and so is the dressing table bench. Curtains in cream are edged with a green fringe and the dressing table skirt is cream with green fringe for finish—and she has amber glass perfume bottles.

But it's what Jane did with the walls that really won us over. Above the bed she hung six little gold brackets to hold a collection of green porcelain Chinese figurines. On either side of her dressing table mirror, she had prim vertical rows of little old family pictures framed in gold frames.

The particular thing we liked about this bedroom is that it has charm without too much daintiness. So that George, Jane's husband, looks as much at home there as she does—in spite of the quilted taffeta beds!

Albert Vatters of Sparlingville, a Grand Trunk fireman, suffered two broken ribs and a punctured lung Tuesday of last week, when he was thrown against the boiler box, at the Grand Trunk roundhouse in Port Huron, by an unexpected lurch of the locomotive. He is a patient in Port Huron General Hospital, where Dr. T. H. Cooper, attending physician, says he is improving. Mr. Vatters is a brother of Mrs. R. S. Kerbyson of Cass City.

Mrs. John McGrath, Sr., is considering herself a fortunate person in that she still has a home to live in on Woodland Avenue. Monday morning while Mrs. McGrath, who lives alone, was out-of-doors, in some unaccountable way, clothing hung near a stove in the dining room, caught fire and when Mrs. McGrath returned to the house she found drapes and other articles within the room burning. In her excitement and hurry to extinguish the flames, she took no time to call the fire department but went to work herself and soon had the fire under control. Cranberry Season Is Ever Welcome

Long Absence of Berry Makes Greeting Heartier

By EDITH M. BARBER
CRANBERRIES with their lovely red color add a cheerful note to the markets and, of course, to the table. Perhaps we give them a heartier welcome because they are one of the few foods which deprive us of their presence during the summer months.

Not long ago, when I needed some cranberries for a Christmas photograph, they had to come down especially from Cape Cod, where they had been picked by hand instead of by rakes which gather them in large quantities for market. No cranberries ever tasted so good as these before-season berries.

While we do not judge foods merely for their color, we give them an extra score when they add a decorative note to the meal. We like the flavor because, when we use them as we almost always do with sugar, we get a "sweet-sour" tang which is particularly appetizing. And now we are told that they provide us with important minerals and several vitamins so that we have an extra reason, if we need one, for putting them on the menu.

Sauce and jelly still remain the favorite ways of using these berries. We do, however, put them to many other uses among which my favorites are pie, tapioca pudding, steamed pudding and shortcake, for which I use what is known as ten minute cranberry sauce. By the way, a pot roast cooked with cranberries and glazed with sugar before serving is an interesting novelty.

And orange and cranberry relish which can be prepared without cooking seems to be designed for serving with baked ham or roast pork.

Steamed Cranberry Pudding.
1/4 cup butter.
1/4 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
2 cups flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1 cup cranberries

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream together until light. Stir in beaten eggs. Mix and sift flour with baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Stir in cranberries. Pour batter into greased mold, cover and steam three hours. Serve hot with hard sauce.

Cranberry Tapioca.
3/4 cup granulated tapioca
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/2 cups boiling water
1 pint cranberries
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup sugar

Cook tapioca, salt and boiling water together until clear. Cook cranberries and water until soft and add to the tapioca with the sugar. Cook five minutes, pour into a wet mold, chill and serve with whipped cream.

Cranberry Cocktail.
4 cups cranberries
4 cups water
1/2 cup granulated sugar
Cook cranberries and water until all the skins pop open (about 5 minutes). Strain through cheese cloth. Bring the juice to boiling point, add sugar and boil 2 minutes. Serve cold. This may be corked and sealed for future use.

Cranberry Jelly.
1 quart cranberries
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
1 cup diced celery

Pick over and wash cranberries, add water and cook until soft. Strain through a coarse sieve. Add the sugar to the juice and stir over fire until dissolved. Remove from fire and add diced celery. Pour into a mold or jelly glasses and cool.

Cranberry Conserve.
4 cups cranberries
1 cup water
1 cup nut meats
1 cup seeded raisins
2 1/2 cups sugar
1 sliced orange

Cook cranberries in water until they stop popping; rub through a sieve and add coarsely chopped nut meats. Add raisins, sliced orange and sugar; and cook for 15 minutes. Put away in glasses.

Candied Cranberries
1 cup firm cranberries
1 cup sugar
1 cup water

Wash and dry cranberries and prick each in several places with a needle. Boil sugar and water together until a little lifted on a spoon spears a thread, or cook to 230 degrees Fahrenheit. Add the cranberries and cook gently until the syrup will jelly when dropped from the tip of the spoon. Remove berries and place on waxed paper to cool and dry. Roll in granulated sugar and use in place of candied cherries.

Heather for All Purposes
The heather which covers Scotland's great hunting moors once had more use than as a protection for grouse. Highlanders formerly used it for everything from walls to beds. Alternating with layers of mortar, it was built into the walls of houses and was also used for thatching. Comfortable beds were once made of it and it was also very popular as a pot scourer. Even a dye was extracted from heather, and in northern Scotland it was often twisted into fine ropes.

HEALTH

By Dr. James W. Barton

THERE are many cases of goiter where the physician is undecided as to operation. He knows that the patient could afford the time and money and would get results almost immediately, but there are other matters that must be considered.

In many cases X-ray treatment solves the problem notwithstanding that this often requires months of treatment. In some early or threatened cases, rest and iodine give satisfactory results.

Some years ago when a patient became nervous, easily upset, irritable, and was losing weight, some high-ranking physicians put these patients to bed in a dark, quiet room and fed them as much food as they could get them to eat. The food was made as inviting as possible and the patient's likes and dislikes in food were carefully considered. Sometimes the results were gratifying and other times the patients were really worse than before.

This "forced feeding" with hard exercise has been used with good results in patients with early mental symptoms. The food nourished and the exercise strengthened the body, the circulation of the blood was improved, and the quality of the blood itself was improved.

Importance of Diet.
Now some physicians are trying out this treatment of giving large quantities of food to their early thyroid or goiter patients. These patients have the usual symptoms—rapid heart, nervousness, poor appetite and sleeplessness.

Dr. Israel Bram, Philadelphia, author of "Exophthalmic Goiter and Its Treatment," has this to say in Medical Record:

"Diet is paramount in the treatment of exophthalmic goiter. The sufferer—usually very thin—must eat his way to health. All stimulants—tea, coffee, tobacco and alcohol—must be forbidden. Small amounts of meat may be given

How good a driver are you? Can you answer questions on rules of the road correctly? Here is one: When you make a right turn from one street into another, should you turn from the lane nearest the right edge of the street? You should, but many persons drive in the middle of the street and then make the right turn.

Drivers should get in the lane nearest the right edge of the street when making a right turn from one street into another; otherwise, there is danger of collision with cars in the right-hand lane.

Do you agree, and do you make your right turns correctly?

Three Plead Guilty to Breaking and Entering Charge

Edna Lewis was given a divorce decree from Ralph Lewis in the Tuscola County Circuit Court on Monday and similar action was taken in the divorce case of Arnold W. French vs. Peggy French.

Joe Karpowski and John Kerna, both of Wilmot, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Homer Hillaker, on a charge of breaking and entering the home of William L. Penfold on the night of November 19, pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Cramton, and Andy Kerna, who accompanied the pair and acted as auto driver and watchman, entered a similar plea. All three were remanded to the custody of the sheriff to await sentence of the court.

Mr. Penfold reported the loss of five guns, a revolver, a blackjack, a set of handcuffs and a box of fishing tackle, practically all of which have been found. Officers recovered two guns which had been sold in Detroit.

Three judgments were entered in as many cases. They are: $314.99 in the Wendell P. Bauer vs. Paul Lada; $540.96 in David H. Livermore vs. John Hampel; $361.96 in Ewing H. Knight vs. Mike Amend.

The case of George Hutchings vs. Ora E. Harris, guardian of Bernard Harris and Zella Harris, for a petition restraining sale, was dismissed with prejudice and without cost.

The jury in the case of George S. Hile vs. Country Gas and Oil Corp. was directed to return a verdict of no cause for action.

Three cases against Ed Seddon and Nellie Seddon which were appealed from the justice court and in which the three plaintiffs were the Globe and Republic Insurance Co., Flossie May Bohnsack, and Clarence Bohnsack, were ordered, on motion of the defendant's attorney, dismissed with prejudice and with cost to plaintiffs.

In 60 no progress cases on the December calendar in which no action had been taken within a year, 53 were dismissed by order of the court.

Bilateral, Multilateral Treaty

A multilateral treaty is one that has been signed and effected as between three or more governments and deals with matters of more or less common interest to all of them.

Told How to Buy Clothing Fabrics

If a lady buying dress material is very skeptical and might even burn a small piece to detect rayon, rub vigorously between the hands to test for sizing or pin in a small tuck and then pull gently to see if the threads separate easily, you may know she was with the Beihel Extension Group when they met at the home of Mrs. Earl Maharg on Thursday, December 8.

Mrs. Audrey Rawson presented the lesson: "Buying Fabrics for Clothing." She was assisted by Mrs. Sam Blades in making the tests for durability. Mrs. Earl Streeter and Mrs. John W. Marshall assisted Mrs. Maharg to serve a potluck luncheon at noon.

In the contest which takes up the recreation hour, the score was even, leaving Mrs. Delbert Profit's team four points in the lead.

The next meeting will be in February at the home of Mrs. John Marshall.

A Non-Partisan State News Letter
 By GENE ALLEMAN
 Michigan Press Association

Lansing—Voters of Michigan may be called upon to express approval or disapproval next April of two additional amendments to the state constitution.

Encouraged by the success of the "good roads" amendment at the November 8 election, the Michigan Education Association proposes to seek legislative action next month to earmark state funds for educational purposes. So far the idea is yet in the hatching process, and no definite plan has been formally approved.

Educators are determined that public schools must be guaranteed a fair share of revenue, and a constitutional amendment is one way of assuring this.

Governor-elect Frank Fitzgerald has pledged support to statutory ear-marking of school funds and he also has promised to recommend a state appropriation of at least $44,000,000 a year in state revenue. Last year the schools received $41,000,000.

Non-partisan Courts?

Assured on the April ballot is a proposed constitutional amendment to remove judges from politics.

Instead of creating a judicial commission to nominate candidates to the Supreme Court bench and let the governor make his choices, the new amendment would merely require a non-partisan listing of judicial candidates for county and state courts. Party designations would be prohibited.

The amendment would affect circuit court judges and commissioners, probate court judges and justices of the State Supreme court.

Petitions were filed December 1, with the secretary of state by the Non-Partisan Judiciary Committee of Michigan.

A similar amendment was voted upon by Michigan citizens four years ago. It lost by 80,000 votes.

Drys and Townsendites

After each election the credit for victory is usually claimed by minority groups, each strong enough to swing the "balance of power."

The Townsendites are taking credit for Fitzgerald's victory over Governor Murphy, stating that the Republican nominee was favored by the $200 pension-per-month because of his sympathetic support of congressional consideration in 1939 of the Townsend Plan.

Fitzgerald made a speech in Detroit during the primary campaign that was interpreted by Detroit daily papers as a near outright endorsement of the Townsend scheme. Later the Grand Ledge citizen hedged a little on the claim of "endorsement."

To Michigan drys the election result was also pleasing. D. L. McBride, superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League, points to the popular vote given to Luren D. Dickinson of Charlotte for lieutenant governor. Dickinson is president of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League.

Fitzgerald's position pleasing to the drys was a pledge to recommend removal of the state from the retail liquor business. Liquor would be cleared through state warehouses.

Milk Price-Fixing

Fearful lest state fixing of retail milk prices will increase consumer costs, the Milk Marketing Study Commission, created by Governor Murphy, is ready to recommend state control of milk prices for producers only.

The retail price would vary in proportion to distribution costs and other competitive factors, according to a legislative draft prepared by G. Mennen Williams, assistant attorney general.

Milk regulations would be made by a non-partisan state commission. On petition by local dairy farmers, an election would be held to create a marketing district and then the state commission would intervene to fix basic prices at wholesale.

Labor would benefit by wage-hour regulations.

All of this Lansing control would cost between $100,000 and $200,000 a year. Who would pay the bill? State licenses would cost from $1 to $5,000 a year. In the long run, Mr. John Q. Public would probably pay for the hidden tax through increased retail prices.

Civil Service "Scandal"

Did Democrats violate civil service rules during the recent campaign?

Both James Thomson, chairman of the Republican state central committee, and Senator Miller Duenkel, treasurer-elect, have declared in press statements that they did.

During the campaign the Democrats were on the receiving end of contributions from state employees. Obviously someone must donate money to finance a campaign. It has been customary for years for politicians to get a substantial share from friends whom they have placed on public payrolls.

But civil service "dirt" will not fly until next month when the legislature convenes here. To air the evidence now, Thomson explains, would be to place certain state employees in jeopardy of losing their jobs.

Treasurer-elect Duenkel, declining to appear before the civil service commission, explained:

"A more appropriate opportunity will present itself later for a correction of the condition which prompted my complaint."

In two years the tug-of-war will be probably reversed. The Democrats may be charging civil service violations, and the Republicans denying them.

By making a case against the Democrats this year, Republicans will be putting themselves in a position not to perpetrate such wrongs in 1940. Perhaps the public will have forgotten all about it by then. Perhaps virtue will triumph. Who knows?

DAMAGED GRAIN IS GOOD STOCK FEED

Ground or Rolled Wheat Is Equal to Ground Corn.

By Dr. George E. Taylor, Extension Dairyman, Rutgers University—WNU Service.

Unfavorable weather conditions during the harvest season caused considerable damage to cereal grains, but total loss of these crops can be averted by using the damaged grain as feed for dairy cattle and other live stock.

Wheat especially has been damaged to the extent that much of it is not suitable to market for human consumption. Although it is not ordinarily used extensively as a live stock feed because of its high market value, experiments have proved that wheat is a satisfactory feed for all farm animals when it is fed in suitable rations.

Ground or rolled wheat is equal to ground corn in feeding value for dairy cattle and may be substituted in the ration pound for pound. On account of its pasty nature the best results are probably secured when wheat does not make up more than 50 per cent of the concentrate mixture.

Wheat is about 3 to 4 per cent higher in protein than corn and contains about the same amount of total digestible nutrients. When wheat is used the amount of protein-rich supplement used to balance the ration from a protein standpoint may be reduced slightly.

Size and Color of Egg Controlled by Feeding

The old theory that egg size and quality were influenced only by heredity has now been proven false, and discarded. Experiments have shown that, like production, the contents of the egg may be greatly altered by feeding.

There are three chief influences on egg size: The first is the heredity of the bird; hens bred for egg size will usually produce large eggs. It is also true that larger birds lay bigger eggs.

Calcium is required to produce shell; but too large quantities of this mineral may produce abnormal conditions. About 2 1/2 per cent of the ration is all the calcium required for normal production.

As a matter of interest to commercial poultrymen, it has been found that hens fed rations containing 1 per cent of ground pimento produce eggs with rich yolk color.

Drouth Apples Keep Best

Dry year apples are smaller, less juicy than apples in years of ample rainfall, but the small apples keep better in storage. Horticulturists of the bureau of plant industry found that well-watered trees produced higher yields of better quality fruit but the fruit grown under conditions of ample moisture cannot be held as long in storage.

White House Shares Yule Spirit

WASHINGTON.—The holiday atmosphere that grips America each December also finds its way to the White House, home of our chief executives for nearly 140 years and scene of many a colorful Yuletide party in bygone years.

White House history is rich with anecdotes of such gatherings since the building was occupied by the country's second chief executive, John Adams. For his granddaughter, four-year-old Suzannah, President Adams gave the first Christmas party ever held in the White House. Those were the days before the mansion was finished, when Mrs. Adams is said to have hung out her wash in the great East room.

Suzannah's party was a success but one of her guests broke a doll dish belonging to the little hostess. Suzannah retaliated by biting off the nose of the young guest's new wax doll. President Adams had to resort to diplomacy. Jefferson Played Violin. Christmas has always aided chief executives in discarding their dignity for a brief return to the simplicity of their childhood days. It was the widower President Jefferson who played the violin for his young guests, and the aged Andrew Jackson threw wide the White House doors to hundreds of orphans who listened to the President himself tell them wild tales of Indian wars. Dolly Madison, most famous White House hostess in history, was in charge of President Jefferson's party in 1805 when nearly 100 guests were present. Mrs. Madison also served as hostess at 13 other Christmas dinners in the White House during the two terms each of Jefferson and her own husband, James Madison. Once the Madisons had to flee from the mansion when the British invaded Washington in 1812. Jackson's party for the orphans was inspired by his own sad boyhood. At his party Santa Claus came to the White House as usual, leaving many gifts for the homeless youngsters. Jackson himself found a cornucopia and warm carpet slippers in his bulging stocking.

Jackson in Snow Fight. "Old Hickory" is said to have participated in a snowball fight at the party, aided by Vice President Martin Van Buren. As his little guests scattered over the moonlit White House lawn he turned to a friend and said:

"They remind me of the one who came to the knees of Jesus, and of whom He said, 'Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of Heaven.'"

In modern times much more ceremony has been attached to official Washington's celebration of the Yuletide. Each year the chief executive radios holiday greetings to American soldiers, sailors, marines and diplomatic representatives throughout the world. His most important official duty is a Christmas eve address to the nation, a custom that has probably become permanent.

The nation's "official" Christmas tree in Washington is lighted annually by the President as he participates in colorful ceremonies broadcast throughout the country. During the past decade and a half, four Presidents have used the same switch box for this purpose. Last year a new silver plate was attached to the box bearing the names of these men.

Another recent innovation at the ceremony is the use of a four-toned chime to signal the lighting of the tree. The chimes ring out as the President presses the button lighting the tree, broadcast as a signal to millions of listening Americans.

Rotary members, who are better versed in raising turkeys on farms after the birds have been roasted than in rearing them alive, learned considerable about turkey culture and their growth and development from the lips of Hilliard Wright, a young Detroit attorney, who spends part of his time in preparing birds for the local and the Detroit markets as a partner of O. Guertson, on a turkey farm, five miles east and north of Cass City.

Mr. Wright said in part: "The poultry industry has undergone many important changes. The rearing of poultry in confinement was and still is being scoffed at, but the introduction of Vitamin D (cod liver oil) to starting and growing mash has changed this and helped the industry immensely. Two years ago we started with 40 birds and raised them on wires. Last year we started 1,200 on the wires but later placed them in range pens or fenced yards and kept moving them to give the turkeys plenty of fresh greens. After comparing our records, we decided to raise all our birds off the ground.

"Probably we made ourselves a lot of unnecessary work, but we wrote and received formulas from all sections of the country. We sat down and studied them, tore them apart, added something we thought necessary, left out other ingredients that in no certain way would help grow the type of bird we had in mind for proper marketing. We have and again thank those who were kindly helpful in our problems. We have no fault to find with the prepared dry mash feeds but our problem was different.

"Along with our feed problem, we had a few others: proper control of temperature, ample ventilation, plenty of floor feed and water space and sanitation. We placed our day old poults in the wire decks, 30 to the section, each section containing a 38-watt heat element to insure uniform heat—a small number of poults to avoid crowding and give sufficient feeding and water space. In two weeks they had to be moved because of their rapid growth. Before placing these birds on the pen floors, the walls and floors were heavily sprayed with a mixture containing among other things crank case oil.

"The problem of dust boxes and droppings was eliminated by spreading three inches of gravel in each pen (of which we had four) and topping this with peat moss and this was raked over good. Bi-weekly rakings prevented packing. To range or not to range came next. Was our first eight weeks' work to go for naught? These birds were developing fast. If wire screens worked for chickens why not turkeys?

"The correct gauge and right mesh of wire for the birds to walk on, the floor high enough off the ground to prevent contact with the droppings, the necessary height of the pens to permit the birds to strut and stretch, the placing of the water troughs and covered feed troughs outside and against the grill so they could reach their heads through to eat and drink, and feed before them at all times to prevent stuffing and insure a more uniform growth. The troughs placed in this way prevent contamination.

"Protection from the hot sun meant building these pens to the brooder house. Further, we built shelters at the other end of the wire walks thus giving the 150 birds in each section plenty of space to walk, air, sunshine and weather protection. All this was to prevent contamination and give us sanitation. Further, we sprinkled lime on the droppings to prevent odors and discourage the flies. We did this to prove to ourselves that turkeys could be raised in confinement and by that we mean off the ground. For when the word is generally used among growers, they have reference to limited range space or fenced yards. Confinement because turkeys and chickens do not thrive well together, at least the turkeys don't for the bane of all turkey growers is that dreaded disease, blackhead.

"Some folks say that one turkey is as good as another whether it is raised on a grasshopper diet or is fed in confinement. Don't fool yourself. There is as much difference between the two as a steak from one of Campbell's 4-H club prize winning baby beefs and Grandpa Snazzy's 17 year old dairy cow.

"Many advantages are to be found in the method we used and briefly we found them to be: smaller space required; labor reduced; mortality greatly reduced; sanitary conditions easily maintained; more uniform quality turkeys; quicker growth and less feed costs; six to eight weeks later than others; and better prices."
