Band Concerts Are Planned for Summer Months

Ladies' Night of Community Club Was Attended by 221 Tuesday.

Ladies' Night, the concluding session of the Cass City Community Club, for the spring season, was attended by 221 persons Tuesday evening in the school auditorium.

Dr. P. A. Schenck, club president, welcomed the ladies as guests of the club, following the dinner served by the Evangelical Ladies Aid. During the dinner, the school orchestra, directed by Wesley Dunn, entertained members of the club and their guests.

The merchants' group, with G. B. Dupuis as chairman, were responsible for a pleasing program. Briggs & Scott, with free-hand drawings and musical numbers, presented worth-while entertainment.

During the business session preceding the program, Raymond Mc-Cullough, chairman of a committee appointed to solicit funds for band concerts, said they had met with a generous response, and while the canvass had not been completed, the project was practically assured. President Schenck appointed John West, Glenn Folkert and Fred Maier as a committee to superintend the concerts which will be given on Wednesday nights during the summer by the Cass City High School Band, according to present plans.

Aid to dependent children and the blind would be limited to $4,000,000; the University of Michigan would get $4,576,000 a year, $43,000 more than it received last year, and Michigan State College would get $2,467,000, an increase of $45,000. In the senate a deficiency bill for $2,600,000, second for this session, received sanction. Eliminated entirely was the proposed appropriation of $1,250,000 for the crippled children's commission on the suspicion that the act, making the state liable for payment of medical bills ordered by any judge of probate, had become a "racket." The sole legislator to oppose the bill was Senator Earl Munshaw, Grand Rapids.

Cause and Effect

The cost of maintaining Michiprison system, criminal courts, Michigan state police and the state mental institutions for the fiscal year 1936-37 was approximately $11,000,000. Prisoners total 7,400; mental patients, 15,400 The cost of handling, disposing of and treating 4,000 to 5,000 juvenile delinquents each year runs approximately $1,100,000, making a grand total of $12,100,000 a year, or more than a million dollars a month.

In Detroit alone the cost to taxpayers of maintaining the police department approximates $10,000,- 000 a year. What price crime? The total cost of crime in Michigan starts at $20,000,000 a year, while top estimates reach $600,000,000, just 4 per cent of J. Edgar Hoover's estimate of $15,000,000,000 annual cost of crime in the United States.

Eighteen of Michigan's largest cities last year reported 52,857 major crimes to the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C.

Aiming at the cause of crimethe child who becomes a criminal delinquent in the eyes of the lawis the Michigan Guidance Institute, created two years ago and placed under the University of Michigan board of regents for the purpose the wall, meditate in silence, for a of preventing juvenile delinquency. "Coolidge" Remark said Governor Dickinson in reply Ross and John H. Parker homes in to a query about seeking re-election Brookfield.

Coolidge-like in its inference, the governor's remark set politicians guessing anew as to whether Michigan's 80-year-old governor would seek another term. Governor Dickinson added slyly: "I've got to have a corner to get out of."

Alcohol Test Plus and Plus, but Man's Sober

TORONTO. - Walter E. Lunn's ability to absorb alcohol amazed medical authorities here.

At an inquest into a fatal accident, Dr. W. L. Robinson, Toronto university pathology professor, told a coroner's jury that, according to a new blood test, the alcoholic content of Lunn's blood after the accident was 3.8 to 1,000 parts of blood -enough, according to accepted

Coroner W. H. Avery, who conducted the inquest, however, told the jury that Lunn was quite normal after the accident except for a slight odor of alcohol on his

"According to the test," the coroner said, "Lunn should have been absolutely drunk and unable to walk straight and answer questions. Yet when I saw him he did not appear to be drunk and he was very cooperative concerning the blood

According to statistics compiled in the British Medical Journal, an alcoholic proportion of 2.5 renders a man absolutely drunk.

Lunn was the driver of an automobile which collided with a milk truck, killing Beverly M. Stoddart, the truck driver.

Physical Traits Studied From Criminality Links

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—Criminality may be linked by certain physical characteristics, according to Dr. Ernest A. Hooton, Harvard university anthropologist.

In a study of 15,000 prisoners in

Dr. Hooton emphatically denied that a tall, overweight, squarejawed man has "killer" tendencies.

"What the studies do mean," he said, "is that here may be some connection between a man's physical characteristics and his criminal-

Pair of Stockings Do

Duty Over 141 Years TURNER, MICH.-Mrs. Mannie Smith isn't complaining about the high cost of stockings-she has a pair in her family which have been worn for 141 years.

The stockings were worn first by an ancestor of Mrs. Smith's at her wedding in 1797. Since then, they have been handed down from generation to generation to be worn by brides on their wedding day. Mrs. Smith wore them and recently a niece, Doris Cole, was the latest to don them for her wedding.

Tip About Griddle Cakes and Waffles

Can Do Double Duty With Help of Sandwich Grill

By EDITH M. BARBER

YOU are a business woman housekeeper or are for any other reason interested in a quick meal, I hope somebody was thoughtful enough to give you a sandwich grill or a waffle iron or a combination of

You can make griddle cakes and waffles do double duty, if you like, and serve them instead of potatoes with your meat-and a gravy, of course-and then with syrup, honey, marmalade, cinnamon and sugar or whipped cream for dessert. You will always find some one at the table who will love to bake the pancakes or to manipulate the waffle iron, and that in itself makes electric table cookery a pleasure.

Don't forget that electric appliances are not supposed to be greased. This will not be necessary if you put plenty of shortening in your mixtures. This allows smokeless cooking in the dining room. Pre-heating is necessary for a few minutes. It happens that both my grill and waffle iron demand seven minutes for this. Yours may be dif-

And now about the batters. There are innumerable recipes which vary from each other in some respect Most of them are good, if they call for plenty of shortening and if you do not beat your mixture much Some people seem to feel that this is a necessary operation, although the contrary is true. The batters should not be too thick, although that for griddle cakes will vary with your choice of a thin or thick product. It is generally a good idea to make a "try cake." You may add more liquid to the griddle cake batter without harming it. In fact, it is pretty hard to spoil griddle cakes.

Griddle Cakes.

3 cups flour 5½ teaspoons baking powder 11/2 teaspoons salt 1/4 cup sugar

1 egg 1/4 cup melted shortening 2 cups milk

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat egg, stir in melted shortening, add one-fourth cup milk and beat half a minute. Add rest of milk and stir in dry ingredients all at once. Drop by spoonfuls on hot griddle. Cook on one side until full of bubbles. turn and cook on other side. If cakes seem to thick, add more

TESTED RECIPES

Chicken Liver Canape.

10 chicken livers 1 strip bacon

teaspoons minced onion

2 teaspoons minced parsley

Pepper, salt

Rounds of toast 2 hard-cooked eggs

1 pimento

Cook chicken livers, drain and mix. Fry bacon, remove from pan, mince and mix with liver. In the bacon fat cook the onion and parsley half a minute and mix with liver paste. Spread small rounds of hot toast with this mixture and garnish with minced egg white and strained egg yolk and pimento, cut into fancy shapes. Lemon Sauce.

1/3 cup butter 1 cup sugar Yolks 3 eggs

½ cup boiling water 1 tablespoon lemon juice Few gratings lemon rind

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and yolks of eggs slightly beaten; then add water and cook over boiling water until mixture thickens. Remove from stove, add lemon juice and rind

Spritz Cookies. 1 cup shortening

3 cup sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

1¾ cups flour ½ teaspoon salt

1½ cups ground nuts Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Stir in vanilla. Sift flour with salt and mix with ground nuts. Work flour and nut mixture into first mixture. Pack dough in the barrel of cookie press and force onto cookie sheet in various shapes and bake in oven, 850 degrees Fahrenheit, about 10 minutes. When cool, frost with confectioners' icing and sprinkle at once with sliced nuts.

Macaroon Cookies.

2 egg whites 1/2 cup sugar

1/4 teaspoon salt

1 cup ground Brazil nuts or almonds

Beat egg whites until foamy but not dry. Beat in sugar and salt gradually. Add ground nuts and drop by teaspoonfuls on an ungreased baking shet. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, 15 to 20 minutes, until light brown. Remove from pans at once.

Cranberry Hard Sauce.

4 tablespoons butter 11/4 cups confectioners' sugar 1/2 cup cranberry jelly Cream the butter and sugar thoroughly, adding the cranberry jelly gradually while creaming.

Youth Passes Too Rapidly; Use It Well!

By PATRICIA LINDSAY

ITTLE sister at the age of three loves to wear mother's highheeled shoes and powder her nose. A few years later she wants her curls "done up" or cut short like big sister's. When she is entering her 'teen age she is so eager to be an adult that she gets unruly, and causes herself, and those around her, a lot of trouble.

Are you a little sister? Why do you suddenly want to be old? It's no crime to be young! Youth is glorious-being young is thrilling, if you will just take it in your stride at the pace you should.

You think mother and daddy are old meanies for keeping you away from some parties and asking you to get home early from others. You get simply furious when mother insists on low heels and clothes which you think of too sweet, simple and girlish. Big brother is a downright nuisance when he suggests quietly that you lay off heavy make-up and petting in dark corners, "or else." 'Oh," you wail, "will they ever let me grow up!"

Of course they will, sister, just as quickly as you convince them that you are not a reckless, heady little tadpole, so eager for adult life that you are missing today. They know the pitfalls, and because they love you, and so want to be proud of you, they seem over-cautious when they try to steer you clear of them. Why don't you help a bit?

Quit hating the fact that you are still young.

Quit hating the fact that you are still young. Glory in being your age and live each day joyously. Delight in your clubs, your frivolous parties, your many privileges—all yours because you are young! And every minute, sister, cherish and protect your fresh loveliness, for once you lose it, or mar it, you can never recapture it!

These Things Are Essential

healthy and lovely. Eight or nine, even ten, hours of sleep each night (see why mother wants you home early?). Use little make-up, for young skins have a definite beauty which should not be covered. A rosy lipstick, a speck of good powder. No mascara, eye-brow pencil, rouge. Why hide that pixie allure with cosmetics meant for fading beauty? (Isn't big brother right after all?). Let your skin breathe unhampered, and keep your cheeks and mouth rushing with color by exercising. Walk in low-heeled shoes whenever you can to develop true and glorious posture, and eat your meals regularly with few sweets on the side! Don't be stubborn about your clothes. Simple sports frocks for day wear, full-skirted gowns (never too revealing) for evening.

Instead of pouting, and tirading against proper restrictions, spend those moments keeping yourself fresh as a daisy, and nicely groomed with hair brushed to shining glory and your nails manicured. And above all, my dear, live proudly! Don't cheapen yourself through thoughtless acts (like petting indiscriminately) even though you see other girls being foolish! A few years from now when Prince Charming comes along you will be awfully glad you didn't!

HINT-OF-THE-DAY

In your own home are materials for bath which beautify and invigorate. A pound of sea salt, two cupfuls of starch, oatmeal, bran, almond meal or a small package of baking soda thrown into the tub are of great benefit in relaxing the nerves and reviving the spirits. If you have no shower under which to rinse, then put the meal in small cheesecloth bags which you can make yourself. A quarter of a pound each of oatmeal and almond meal mixed is a good combination. Scent your bath if you wish with any scent you have on hand.

HEALTH

Rheumatism and arthritis often traced to infected teeth; care urged.

By Dr. James W. Barton-

Leeth or tonsils cause some cases of rheumatism or arthritis is not now disputed because nearly every family, in their own home or has observed one or more of such cases.

Pyorrhea-infected gumsis also known to be a cause of arthritis. For some time research workers have suspected the sinuses as also being a cause of arthritis. These little caverns or cavities are situated in the bones about the nose and form the sounding box for the voice. We are all familiar with the flat or nasal tone of the voice when these caverns are filled with mucous or pus. However, unless the patient had an active inflammation of a sinus—sinusitis — the fact that a sinus

Dr. Barton without active inflammation could cause arthritis was not suspected.

Dr. Lee M. Hurd, New York Polyclinic Hospital and Medical school, in Medical Clinics of North America, says that he believes that acute or chronic sinus infection aggravates or is the cause of many cases of chronic arthritis because he has observed many cases of arthritis in his own practice that were benefited by the removal of sinus infection.

Sinus Treatment Successful. Thus in a group of 400 consecutive cases of arthritis seen in office practice, there was some X-ray evidence of sinus infection in 68 per cent, the majority of which gave no history of symptoms of sinus trouble at the time of examination. Of those who were then given sinus treatment-medical or surgical-80 per cent showed various degrees of improvement in their arthritic symptoms, which seems to prove that sinus infection is a definite cause of arthritis. Dr. Hurd personally observed and treated the majority of these cases and can substantiate the statement that when the sinus infection was relieved either by medicine or surgery the patient was greatly benefited, some becoming entirely free of arthritic symptoms.

The point then is that in searching for the cause of rheumatism or arthritis more than the mouthteeth, tonsils, and gums-should be examined.

"The majority of these patients had no symptoms of sinus disease and were not aware that they had it. About one-third had a discharge or pus-like dropping from nose and back of throat. Sinus headaches were rare."

Low Back Pain Treatment Explained

In cases of low back pain due to injury—swinging at a golf, tennis, or baseball and missing it, lifting a weight, stepping downward when the ground was thought to be level, applying the foot brake to a motor car, or other conditions—it has been found that the joint between the last spine bone or sacrum and the hip bone or ilium has been pulled slightly apart. This is called sacroiliac sprain. The usual treatment by orthopedic and osteopathic physicians is to bend knee into abdomen, then have the patient (assisted by the physician) straighten his leg out forcibly. A method that may prove of great help to these sufferers with sacroiliac sprain is described by Dr. A. H. Warner, Woodside, Long Island. N. Y., in Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery, Boston.

Instructions Given. "The inner tube of a tire is placed around the footboard of the bedstead at the level of the upper surface of the mattress. Two loops, about eight inches in diameter and made of canvas tape or a trouser belt, encircle the inner tube perpendicular to its length (at right angles). The feet of the patient are placed in the loops, so that the tape hooks above the ankles and across the upper part of the toes. The two loops are about 18 inches apart. The foot of the bed is raised and the patient pulls himself toward the head of the bed (now lower than the foot) Feeder pigs 3.00 @ 9.00 sufficiently to apply tension on the rubber inner tube. In this way the patient's body weight opposes the pull of the inner tube. This position can be maintained for hours at a time without discomfort to the patient. It will usually be found necessary for the patient to pull himself 'down' to the head of the bed every once in a while, as the inner tube pulls him up the other way." For one who has found it impossible to stand on his feet or walk without severe low back and sciatic against a vaudeville team, for vio-

CHAPTER XI

Aunt Linnie arrived on the scene a few minutes later. "Don't say anything!" Mary admonished Balianci and Lelia. "Please. Please!" And her voice was so importunate that they both nodded their acquiescence.

If Aunt Linnie felt any surprise at seeing Mary sitting in the living room with Balianci when she had supposed her to be at the theater with Jerome Taylor, her face did not betray her. "How nice to find you and Balianci here," she exclaimed. "Lelia and I are going to the Club Torquay to meet the Bascoms and play a bit of roulette. Will you join us?"

"Thanks so much," Balianci replied. "We'd love it."

"I'll change in a jiffy," Lelia was saying, as if from a great distance. "Will you excuse me for five minutes?

Lelia appeared in but a moment, looking slender and lovely in a frock of flame-colored chiffon, and carrying over one arm her ermine wrap, and a black velvet coat with a white fox collar. "Here's your wrap, Mary," she said, handing Mary, the ermine cape; then proceeded to slide into the black velvet coat.

Fifteen minutes later, they were entering the crowded rooms of the Club Torquay. The scent of expensive perfumes, cigarette smoke, and food in the offing, filled the place. Men in dinner coats, women in evening gowns sat around the gaming tables, while persons wishing they had seats stood behind them, watching the play.

Two seats were finally vacated, and Aunt Linnie and Mrs. Bascom hurriedly slipped into them. "Are you going to play?" Miss Cotswell asked Mary over her shoulder.

"Heavens, no!" Mary answered, and glanced across the table just in time to see two more people get up, a defeated expression on their tired faces, and Lelia and Balianci slid into their little gilt and rosevelvet chairs.

Miss Cotswell opened her evening bag, extracted a fifty dollar bill, and asked the long-faced banker for fifty one-dollar chips.

The game went on and on. The placing of new bets before each spin began! The whirl of the wheel! The bouncing of the ball-on Black -or Red-on number twenty-seven! Here, there, until it settled on the winning number. Mrs. Bascom had lost consistently; had purchased one batch of chips after another; but Aunt Linnie, betting, as she said, "like a piker," had been fairly lucky.

Balianci, after a brief time, relinquished his seat to Mr. Bascom, and was now standing next to Mary, his moist hand encircling her elbow. Linnie had asked her again and again if she did not wish to play; had even offered her a bunch of counters when an adjacent seat had suddenly been vacated; and again and again, Mary had firmly refused.

Eventually, however, Linnie had risen from her chair. "Listen, Mary," she whispered, "I simply have to go to the powder room. Now here are five chips for your very own. Please play them while I'm gone. Hold this seat for me, or someone'll grab it the minute I leave. Whatever you win with them is yours. Go on, darling."

Thus importuned, Mary grudgingly took Linnie's place at the table. Everybody about her was intent upon placing chips on their chosen numbers or colors before the next turn of the wheel, but Mary, never having played roulette before, just sat there, the chips Aunt Linnie had given her clasped tightly in her

"Go on and play," Mrs. Bascom whispered. "They don't like it when people just sit around doing noth-

The "guests" were again placing their bets on numbers or colors; and rousing herself to action, Mary dropped just one of her five chips on Black. Again the croupier spun his wheel, and the ball dropped on Red; bounced out and landed on another Red; fitfully leaped out and settled itself comfortably on Black. "You've won!" hissed Mrs. Bascom, who had again placed her chips on a losing number. "Leave it there! It's worth two dollars now."

"Just leave it?" Mary inquired breathlessly.

"Of course! Leave it on Black." Again the croupier spun his wheel. Again Black won.

"It's worth four dollars now," said Mrs. Bascom. "Black's evidently your lucky color!"

"Oh, but maybe it won't win again! Perhaps I'd better try a number now!"

"Faites votre jeu!" admonished the croupier coldly, and before Mary had time to do anything at all, his wheel had again been turned, and her four dollars' worth of chips had remained, willy-nilly, on Black.

Again the bouncing of the ball here and there-and again Black "Mary This is uncanny! Leave it there, darling. Your chips are now worth eight dollars!"

"But it can't go on this way!" Mary demurred. "I ought to stop now, or place those chips on something else!"

"Well, do as you like, but I'm switching to Black."

Mary grabbed her chips and looked about the table in search of a magic number. "My birthday's the fourth of April," she told Mrs. Bascom. "I'm playing number four this time. Eight dollars on number

The wheel spun. The ball bounced here and there. "You'll be sorry," Mrs. Bascom whispered. "Black'll win! I'm playing on your luck, Mary -fifty dollars' worth of chips!"

The ball was still bouncing. Then, with a spasmodic jerk, it rose in the air, and fell with a brittle thud on number four. "I won again!" Mary cried, turning around and looking at Count Balianci. "How much is now, Umberto?'

Balianci removed a cigarette from his mouth. "Two hundred and eighty dollars, fearatasa, not counting the eight dollars you played."

"Two hundred and eighty dollars!" Mary exclaimed. "Well, it is time for me to stop!"

"Don't you dare!" cried Mrs. Bascom, grabbing a fifty dollar bill from her purse, and signaling the banker for more chips. "Play just once more. Mary. If you win this time, you'll really get something worth while.

"Faites votre jeu!" the croupier commanded icily.

"I want my chips, please," Mary hastily informed the assistant croupier nearest at hand; and, with a quick motion of the man's rake, her winnings were deftly deposited in front of her.

Mary sat back in her chair in a state of helpless indecision, casting an almost angry look at Mrs. Bascom. "If only that woman would stop urging me on," she told herself, "I might be able to figure this thing out.

The phrase "Two hundred and eighty dollars . . . Two hundred and eighty dollars!" whirled dizzily around in her mind. "How much that would mean to Dad! Yet, how wonderful it would be to double

It was unthinkable, of course, that she should risk one cent of those two hundred and eighty dollars. But why not take one last chance, win or lose, with the eight one-dollar chips?

Before she could act on this decision, however, the wheel had again been set in motion, and the croupier was now calling out, "Rien ne va plus!'

Mary leaned forward, determined not to be caught napping on the next spin. She would have her chips ready when the croupier again gave notice. Suddenly, she realized that she was still gripping in her left hand four of those five original chips which had been Aunt Linnie's gift to her, and, with a feeling of complete abandon, she added them to her prospective stake. "One more play!" she told herself sternly.

"Twelve dollars! Win or lose!" "Faites votre jeu!" came the Mary placed her final bet on number twenty-two. "That's my age," she told Balianci. "Maybe it'll bring me even more luck!"

The croupier turned the wheel, and with enchanted eyes, she saw it go around again and again. The ball now clicked on to four; bounced out; now dropped into number seven; popped out! Now it bounced up

"You've won again, Mary!" Balianci almost shouted. "Four hundred and twenty dollars!" Mary jumped from her chair. "I'm through!" she announced to the table at large, and the croupier in particular. "Take my chips off! I'm going to cash them!"

"Piker!" jibed Mrs. Bascom. "I don't care if I am," Mary re-"I'd be a fool not to quit torted.

"I want my chips cashed," Mary told the banker, and her voice trembled with excitement. "Oh, Aunt Linnie," Mary breathed,

"isn't it just too miraculous?" "Yes, darling," Linnie replied. "I'm very happy for you." Then, turning to Mrs. Bascom and to Bali-anci, whose swarthy face was as blank as the croupier's, "We'll see you later in the foyer! "All right," Mrs. Bascom replied.

"I'm nearly through." Balianci bowed, but said nothing. "Come on into the powder room, Mary," Aunt Linnie murmured, "to count your winnings, and-regain your equilibrium."

"I must have won about seven hundred dollars," Mary whispered as they made their way through the crowded room. "But, Aunt Linnie, it really belongs to you. It was your money I played with."

"Fiddlesticks!" said Miss Cotswell. "I gave you those five counters, and it was your own good luck that made them win."

"Then," said Mary, "you must, at least, take half. If you hadn't given them to me, I'd never have played."

"Hush!" commanded Miss Cotswell. "Not another word out of you about my sharing your little fortune. Every dime of it is yours! Here's the powder room. Come in and freshen up. You look as if you'd been in a cyclone."

In the meantime, Lelia, having lost all that she had intended to play, now relinquished her chair to the gaunt old man who had been standing behind her for the past half hour. Balianci appeared at her side immediately. There was a frown between his brows, and his dark eyes smoldered. "May I have a word with you, Mrs. Ormsby?" he asked, his voice so thick and foreign she could hardly understand

She glanced at him sharply. Had the man been drinking? "But no," she told herself. "he couldn't have. He's been right in this room ever since we got here." Aloud, she said, 'If you like."

"Let us move into the foyer," he suggested. "I must ask you some-

Without a word, Lelia made for the foyer, Balianci at her heels. Once there, she turned about and confronted him. "Well," she said coldly, "what do you want?" "It is this," he began in a low voice. "Why is Mary so extremely excited over winning a few hundred dollars? She acts as if she had gone mad with joy." "Well, why shouldn't she?" Lelia countered. "Seven hundred dollars are not to be sniffed at by anybody, particularly Mary. She needs that money, Balianci, and she needs it badly.' The Italian looked stunned. "But how can it mean so much to her if she is an heiress?" Lelia did not attempt to veil the disdain that she felt for the man. "And where did you get the idea that Mary was an heiress?" Balianci spread his long thin hands, the palms pointing to heav-"But she is Miss Cotswell's niece! Miss Linnie Cotswell's own niece! She dresses exquisitely. She leads a life of luxury!" Lelia regarded Balianci for one long, burning moment. "So, that's why you proposed to Mary," she finally said. "I might have known you had some ulterior motive. Everybody knows you're a fortune hunter! A gigolo!" "Perhaps it would be better to say opportunist, Mrs. Ormsby." Lelia regarded his smiling face as if it were something venomous. "It's very fortunate for Mary that you've discovered so soon-she isn't a moneybag for you to marry.' "You mean, then, she has nothing? Absolutely nothing?"

"Yes. I mean just that. Mary's father is a lawyer in a small town. Mary worked in a book shop until she came to New York to be the guest of her aunt. And, by the way, Miss Cotswell is probably not half as rich as you think. Besides, she expects to enjoy a very happy life for many years to come; and what's more, I don't know that Mary would be her heir-even were Miss Cots well to die tomorrow." "Unfortunate," purred Balianci.

"Very unfortunate. I am crushed." "Oh, I guess not!" Lelia retorted. "In fact, I think you'll survive very happily. I might even recommend something to speed your recovery."
"And that is?" Balianci murmured. "That you book passage on the Iroquois sailing for Havana tomor row noon! I happen to know that Mrs. Ulmstead, widow of the soapflakes potentate, and her two home ly, but, oh, so well-endowed daughters, are listed among the passengers.

"Ah, Mrs. Ormsby! How you wrong me! How can you think . . .?' Lelia pushed past him, her head high, her face flaming. "Good night, Count Balianci. You'd better run along now. You haven't a moment to lose."

A second later, she joined Linnie and Mary in the powder room. Mrs. Bascom, having lost three hundred dollars, had finally left the roulette table, and was there, too.

"Balianci's not feeling well, Mary," Lelia said. "He's asked to be excused."

"Oh, all right," Mary replied, thinking, "Maybe, with this nest-egg to see Dad and Mother along for a while, I won't have to marry Balianci or anybody! I'll tell him tomorrow that I've changed my mind. Linnie, who had just returned from | Of course, it was never made up!

He simply took things for granted Oh, thank heavens, this happened! Aunt Linnie says she won't take a cent of the money-that I earned it all-that every bit of it is mine. Seven hundred and twelve dollars. What a windfall at this time! I'll send Dad a money-order for six hundred and twenty-five of it tomorrow. Maybe I'd better send him more, yet with Aunt Linnie going away and my being left on my own, I really believe I'd better hold out the remaining eighty-seven in case of an emergency!"

Town Chimney Dilemma Is Gone With the Wind

SUPERIOR, WIS .- Residents of Superior are inclined to believe the old saw about an ill wind.

The city council was faced with the problem of destroying a 180-foot chimney of an old flour mill. Councilmen suggested that it be blasted, but then decided that that would be too dangerous, as the falling bricks might endanger nearby property, and satisfactory insurance could not be arranged.

Workmen were set to work undermining the chimney so that it would fall in an area where no damage would result.

Then came the wind. It blew down the chimney without a contract. without insurance, without damage.

Sea Scorpions From Ancient Era Found

Fossils Believed Oldest Yet Discovered.

GEORGETOWN, OHIO .- A party of geology students under Prof. Walter H. Buchre of the University of Cincinnati is excavating a rock layer here which already has produced parts of at least five sea scorpions that roamed this area several hundred million years ago.

The fossils discovered so far are the rarest in years, according to Dr. Kenneth E. Caster, curator of the university museum. The species is new to science, he says, and the genus hitherto unknown in the country outside of a small area in New York state.

However, the rock strata in which the fossils were embedded belongs to the Richmond groups, which is several million years older than the strata in New York where related sea scorpions have been found in

The excavating party is seeking to uncover the remainder of a fossil nearly three feet long, which indicated the sea scorpion must have been nearly three and one-half feet in length when alive. All the material is being studied by Doctor Caster. Enough now is on hand, he says, to make possible a fairly complete description of what the scorpion looked like 350,-000,000 years ago and to reconstruct to life conditions the ancient sea formed.

Doctor Caster explained the fossil sea scorpions had bodies covered with horny material of the same texture now prevalent on crabs and lobsters. Like the modern sea dwellers, he added, the ancient animals periodically shed their skins in order to grow larger.

Sea scorpions are distant cousins of later marine types from which today's desert scorpions have originated. The Ohio fossils are designated as pterygotids or winged forms be use of their wing-like paddles. Quarrymen in Scotland, where pterygotids first were found, called them "seraphims" also because of their paddles.

Britain to Build Three

31-Ton Land Airplanes LONDON. - Three 31-ton passenger land planes each costing at least $500,000, have been ordered by the British air ministry.

They should be ready in the summer of 1940. One will fly at 25,000 feet.

Two are designed to fly long distances non-stop at normal heights of about 10,000 feet, carrying 18 passengers and 3,000 pounds of mail and freight at a minimum of 200 miles per hour.

The third machine is purely experimental, to develop what is called "over weather" flying. It is designed to carry the same passenger, mail and freight load, with a top speed of 275 miles per hour. flying in the sub-stratosphere at 26, 000 feet.

Minnesota Mounds Yield Trace of Indian Culture

MINNEAPOLIS .- Dr. Lloyd Wilford, head of the University of Minnesota anthropology department, is studying results of excavations of Minnesota Indian mounds in an effort to trace cultural development of Minnesota Indians.

At Spring Lake in northern Minne sota, the group often found mounds in the front yards of homes of more recent Indians. One of the mounds contained 40 skeletons, of which one was found in a sitting position.

Near Mankato, excavations proved civilization had flourished some 2,500 years ago. Many pits were found, in addition to the mounds. Some had been used for corn storage, others for refuse, and some contained skeletons.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service. THERE are some things that everybody knows about Wisconsin. The mere mention of the name brings thoughts of cheese and politics, woods-holidays and lakes. But what do its long shores look like? Why is it famous for the arts of government? And to its docks and towering elevators, from west to south, curve the railway tracks that bring the grains and produce of mid-America.

Now inland again, half the journey done. Almost at once we catch glimpse of Manitou Falls, highest in the state, draping their long white fringes down the pine-shaggy rocks of Pattison state park. And crossing the jack-pine highlands that here divide the Great Lakes and Mississippi basins, we swoop down over the St. Croix.

Scenic Beauty

This famously beautiful river, at St. Croix Falls, sinks into its most famous reach, the Dalles, where the water swirls in potholes in the ruddy basaltic rock. The white squares of picnic cloths spread on the grass are a reminder that Minnesota and Wisconsin, some 40 years ago, here established Interstate park.
