Commencement at Gagetown High School June 14

Class of Seven Plans
Trip to World's Fair in New York City.

From Gagetown Correspondent.

The senior class of the Gagetown High School has made plans for the approaching commencement activities and all dates have been definitely decided. The commencement week will be opened by baccalaureate exercises which will be held in the high school auditorium Sunday, June 11, at 8:00 p. m. Rev. Wesley Dafee will give the baccalaureate sermon.

On Tuesday, June 13, the juniors will entertain the seniors at the annual junior-senior banquet in the dining hall of St. Agatha's Church.

On Wednesday, June 14, graduation exercises will be held in the high school auditorium at 8:00 p. m. The commencement address will be given by Charles F. Hamilton of Bay City and diplomas will be presented by W. C. Downing, president of the board of education. The valedictory will be delivered by Joseph O'Rourke and the salutatory by Patricia Kelly.

Later in the week, the class plans to start on a trip to the New York World's Fair. They plan to visit such places of interest as Niagara Falls, Watkin's Glen, Howe Caverns and West Point on the way to New York. Approximately a week will be spent on the trip.

The Class of 1939 has seven members: Vernita Bliss, Genevieve Downing, Thomas Downing, Patricia Kelly, Max Leiterman, Luther Murray and Joseph O'Rourke.

High Testing and Prolific Guernseys

There must be a streak of luck running through the farm of Mrs. Harriet McDonald, four miles northwest of Cass City.

Not only did she have the highest testing butterfat herd in the North Tuscola Dairy Herd Testing Association with its 371 cows, but there have been three sets of twins and a set of triplets born within 12 years in the McDonald herd of Guernseys, which was started in 1927 by Mr. McDonald.

Mrs. McDonald is not only feeding the best testers, but may break the record in raising the most calves.

Carpenter, Totally Blind, Starts to Build House Here

Hugh Gray, 63, who is stone blind and hasn't seen a ray of light for six years, is, with the help of his son, Elwin, constructing the foundation preparatory to building a one-story frame residence, 24 by 26 feet in size, on the lot just west of his home on the corner of Houghton and West Streets. The house will have five rooms and bath. Mr. Gray expects to do a great deal of work himself on the new residence.

Not long ago, he did the work which remodeled his 10-room residence into a house suitable for living quarters for two families with five rooms for each.

Mr. Gray was injured by the fall of a scaffold eight years ago which injured him so he lost the sight of one eye. Two years later he was totally blind. Previous to this accident, he had erected over 200 houses as a building contractor.

COUNTY TREASURER WILLITS RECEIVES McNITT MONEY

Arthur M. Willits, Tuscola County treasurer, has received a check from the state for $45,617.00. This comes from what is known as the McNitt money which is used by the county in improving township roads.

Earns Master of Science Degree

Dr. Lewis C. Pinney, son of Mrs. Edward Pinney, will graduate on June 17 from the University of Michigan with a degree of Master of Science and Orthodontics.

He was recently elected to membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic fraternity, for outstanding academic work at the university.

400 Attended the School Exhibit

They Found a Great Variety of Fine Displays
Prepared by the Pupils.

The efforts of teachers and students of the Cass City Schools in arranging attractive displays of work done during the school year were viewed by a large number of parents and friends at the school building Friday night, June 2. The exhibit is an annual affair and increasing interest is being shown by the parents of students. The names of approximately 400 persons were included on the register which each visitor was asked to sign as he entered the building. Directories of exhibits were handed out at the registration desk to each person to enable him to wander with ease to the various displays in which he was particularly interested. From seven until ten o'clock visitors strolled about the building from room to room and found a great variety of exhibits—from Matilda, the kindergarten's pet hen, to the more mature displays of high school students' work.

Kindergarten and first grade displays, supervised by Miss Ruth Schenck and Mrs. Zora Day, and Home Economics work, supervised by Miss Elsie Titsworth, were to be seen in first floor rooms. The work of boys interested in the mechanical arts were housed in the shop room between the first and second floors and in the gymnasium. This work was done under the direction of Orion Cardew, shop teacher.

The second floor housed attractive displays of grade work arranged by Mrs. Ella Price, Miss Turn to page 8, please.

BUSY BIDDY HAS MANY FOLLOWERS

Mrs. Howard Martin is the owner of a hen that "stole her nest away" and covered 18 eggs. Now 17 fluffy chicks are following the hen around and looking to her to discover means of livelihood.

Two Cases Heard on Monday in Co. Court

Two cases were heard by Judge Louis C. Cramton in a short session of the Tuscola Circuit Court on Monday.

A divorce decree was granted in the case of Ralph Pomeroy vs. Edith Pomeroy.

The petition of Timothy C. Quinn, prosecuting attorney, for the correction of the description of the William Johnson's Addition to the Village of Vassar was granted.

Aged Fostoria Man Ended His Life Friday

Charles D. Summers, 83, who had been in ill health for some time, ended his life between midnight and 5:00 a. m. on Friday, June 2, by hanging himself in the barn at the farm home of his daughter, Mrs. Edward Schmidt, three miles north of Fostoria in Tuscola County. The body was found at 5:30 Friday morning by Mrs. Schmidt. Coroner Lee Huston decided no inquest was necessary.

Deford-Kingston Minister Died Suddenly Sunday

Rev. George B. Marsh
Had Planned to Retire from Ministry in June.

Returning to the Methodist parsonage in Kingston after preaching the evening sermon Sunday in that village, Rev. George B. Marsh died unexpectedly while preparing to retire for the night. Mr. Marsh had apparently been in good health. He was 69 years of age, had been a Methodist minister for 42 years, and had planned to retire this month at the close of the conference year.

Funeral services were held in the Kingston Methodist Church on Wednesday morning with Rev. Frank L. Fitch, district superintendent, officiating. Burial was in the Romeo Cemetery.

Mr. Marsh was born in Hamilton, Ontario, October 2, 1869. He joined the conference at Port Huron and served a number of churches in the Thumb of Michigan district including Romeo, St. Clair and Yale. He was pastor of the Kingston and Deford Churches at the time of his death.

time of his death and was assigned to that circuit four years ago. He had also served in Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie and Woodmere Church in Detroit.

Mr. Marsh was a trustee for several years of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League and at the time of his death was a member of the board of managers of the Methodist Old Peoples' Home in Chelsea, Michigan. He was a member of Masonic Lodge in Chelsea.

Besides his widow, he is survived by one son, Clyde Beverly Marsh, English teacher in Detroit public schools; four brothers, three sisters and two grandchildren.

Three Injured When Car Careens into a Gully Near Caro

A car driven by Bern Hogan, 23, while traveling south on the "dam road," south of M-81, on the western outskirts of Caro village, Sunday evening went into a gully and struck a tree wrecking the automobile completely and injuring the driver and his two companions, John Kern, 26, of Reese, the owner, and Lawrence Lipnick, 24.

Mr. Kern received cuts on the head and face and suffered internal injuries. Mr. Hogan was hurt about the head and had his left arm broken, and Mr. Lipnick received cuts on his face, arms and legs.

The accident which happened on the road leading to the dam on Cass River was caused when the right front wheel struck a hole in the road caused by a washout. This sent the car careening into a gully.

CRAIG-PITCHER.

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday, June 3, in the Presbyterian manse at Sandusky when Miss Mary H. Pitcher of Sandusky became the bride of Clare S. Craig of Evergreen. The service was read by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Kennedy.

The couple were attended by Miss Katherine Cameron of Sandusky and Wilfred LePla of Evergreen.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig left to spend a few days at Niagara Falls and are now at their home on the groom's farm in Evergreen.

RALPH RAWSON

John Marshall

Three young men of this community graduated from college and academy within ten days.

The first to finish his course was Ralph Rawson, son of State Representative and Mrs. Audley Rawson, who received his commission as an Ensign of the United States Navy signed by President Roosevelt at the commencement exercises at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., on June 1. He is the first resident of Tuscola County to graduate from this academy, and after a short leave of absence, will board the U. S. S. Detroit at San Francisco about July 1 for active duty.

Among 837 Michigan State College seniors listed by the registrar's office as candidates for degrees in the 81st annual commencement program at East Lansing on Monday, June 12, are Howard Roy Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Taylor, of Cass City, and John Hopkins Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Marshall, of Kingston. Mr. Taylor has completed a hotel administration course and Mr. Marshall pursued a liberal arts course.

Campbell Selects All-Star H. S. Nine

Aided by Other Observers
He Names Best Players
on High School Teams

Stanley Asher, manager of the Cass City Oil and Gas Company, was host at a banquet at the Parrott Restaurant Thursday evening, June 8, at which members of the Cass City High School Baseball team were guests.

A high light of the evening's program was the outlining of an all-star group of local high school players by Willis Campbell during the period that Mr. Campbell has been an instructor in the school here. Mr. Campbell was assisted in the compiling of this list by other observers of baseball activities here.

The consensus of opinion, according to Campbell, was that the following were entitled to positions on the all-star team: Earl Harris and Louis Striffler, pitchers; Charles Hamilton, catcher; John Giles, first base; Ed Fritz, second base; John Benkelman, Jr., shortstop; Bob Kelley, third base; Larry Hutchinson, left field; Clem Kelly, center field; Grant Patterson, right field.

The school's best team, that of 1922, were state champions, and the next best players were those of 1926. Striffler, Hutchinson, and Patterson were in the first group, and Fritz and Benkelman were on the 1926 team.

ALFRED LANDON TO SPEAK IN CARO ON JUNE 15

Rev. Alfred Landon, pastor of the Madison Avenue M. E. Church in Bay City, will deliver the commencement address to graduates of the Tuscola County Normal School on Thursday evening, June 15. The exercises will be held in the Caro M. E. Church.

K. Wagner Awarded Mail Contract

Postmaster Arthur Little has received notice from the second assistant postmaster general that the contract for carrying the mail from Caro to Owendale by way of Cass City and Gagetown has been awarded to Kenneth Wagner. This is a new mail service which starts July 1. Mr. Wagner's contract will expire June 30, 1943.

The bus leaves Caro daily except Sundays and holidays on receipt of mail from Saginaw Star Route due about 7:40 a. m., but not later than 8:30 a. m. and will arrive in Owendale in one and one-third hours. The bus leaves Owendale at 2:20 p. m., arriving in Caro at 3:40 p. m.

WILL RECEIVE A. B. DEGREE AT MT. PLEASANT

Attending summer school and Saturday sessions at Central State Teachers' College at Mt. Pleasant since 1933, Mrs. Eva Brackenbury Marble will be awarded an A. B. degree at the graduation exercises of the college on June 19.

Office Closed Thursday Afternoons.
Dr. P. A. Schenck's dental office will be closed on Thursday afternoons during the summer months.

NORMAN BACH AWARDED M. S. C. SCHOLARSHIP

On the basis of high school records, the recommendations of a local committee and comprehensive examination, Norman Bach of Sebawaing has been awarded a scholarship in the Michigan State College. The scholarship represents a waiver by the college of the course fees for three terms which is equivalent to $90.

Bach was one of three candidates in this district to take the examination. These three outstanding students were selected by an alumni committee of which Willis Campbell of Cass City is chairman. One alumni scholarship is awarded in each of the 32 senatorial districts of Michigan.

Saginaw Wholesalers to Visit Cass City Next Friday

A large party of wholesalers and bankers from Saginaw will visit Cass City on their 1939 good-fellowship trip Friday, June 16. The auto caravan carrying the Saginaw men will arrive in Cass City Friday afternoon, according to William A. Rorke, secretary, who was here June 5 to make the necessary arrangements.

The trip is one of several which the wholesale merchants of the Saginaw Board of Commerce take every year into the territory surrounding Saginaw. The party is made up of owners and executive heads of the wholesale establishments and the purpose of the visit to Cass City is to become better acquainted with retail merchants here.

The wholesalers will be accompanied by a band and have plenty of souvenirs for the children.

New Wheat Program Will Reach Farmer Earlier This Summer

Three important announcements concerning the wheat farmer have been made within the last week.

(1) On May 15, Secretary Wallace announced that no wheat marketing quota will be proclaimed this year.

(2) On May 16, a national wheat acreage allotment of 62 million acres was announced for 1940.

(3) On May 21, the 1939 wheat loan program was announced.

These three announcements mean that the new wheat program will reach farmers at least eight weeks earlier than last year's program did, including the 1940 wheat acreage allotments.

Allotments are being determined at the county office, for the 1940 wheat crop. Any farmer who planted no wheat in 1937, 1938 and 1939 and wishes to have an allotment, should immediately submit a written request to the county office.

Most of the details of the program are the same as they were last year.

Postmaster and Mrs. Arthur Little spent Monday and Tuesday in Detroit where they attended a convention of the National Association of Postmaster of Michigan at the Hotel Statler. Tuesday they attended the Yankee-Tiger ball game at Briggs Stadium when postmasters and their wives were guests of Detroit postoffice employees.

Sudden Death of William A. Seeger

Expired in Truck While on His Way to Detroit
on Friday Morning.

Funeral services for William A. Seeger, 56, of Cass City, who was found dead in the rear of the light delivery truck driven by Orton Spencer, 20, also of Cass City when on their way to Detroit Friday morning, were held at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday in the Angus McPhail residence here. Rev. Charles P. Bayless, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated. Interment was in Elkland Cemetery.

William Seeger and Orton Spencer had gone to Detroit to buy building supplies, the former being engaged in roofing work here. Mr. Spencer says that he talked with Mr. Seeger, who was lying in the rear of the truck, as they drove through Utica. When they arrived at Eight Mile Road he again spoke to Seeger but received no answer. Upon investigating he was found dead. A post mortem revealed Seeger had died of natural causes.

Guess This One? Taken When We Were Young

Guessers on last week's picture were not numerous but five of the seven registering opinions were correct when they named William N. Harrison.

Frank Reid and Mrs. J. H. Bohnsack thought the man was M. E. Kenney.

Those who guessed Mr. Harrison included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Charlton, C. J. Striffler, Mrs. John McTavish and A. A. Jones.

Ballagh Joins Bay Port School Faculty

All members of the Bay Port School faculty have been reengaged for next year with the exception of Richard Johnson, physical education instructor, who has resigned. Clare E. Ballagh, a graduate of the Central State Teachers' College at Mt. Pleasant, has been engaged to replace Mr. Johnson. Ballagh graduated from the Cass City High School in 1935.

Reese and Caro Winners at County Field Meet Friday

Cass City Is Second and Vassar Takes Third in Track and Field Events.

Baseball honors went to Reese and first honors in track events to Caro in the annual track and field meet of the Tuscola County High School Athletic Association held at Caro Friday.

The baseball contest was a tie at 2-2 until the eighth inning when Reese forged ahead of Millington and won the game by the score of 8-2. It was the first time in the history of the association that Reese won the baseball honors.

For the 13th time in the 33 years of the field day of the association, Caro won first honors, finishing Friday's schedule with 65 5/6 points. Cass City annexed 46, Vassar 38 1/2, Millington 10 1/2, Mayville 7 1/3, Unionville 6 1/2, Fairgrove 5 1/3 points.

Clark Johnson of Caro took first place in the four events he entered: The 100 and 220 yard dashes, the broad jump and the high jump. In the 120 yard hurdles, Caro placed one, two and three with Clayton Jackson, Philip Hurford and Bill Quinn, and in the same order with Crozier, Rutledge, Jackson and Quinn in the 200 yard hurdles.

Cass City athletes took two events: Blaine Smith, pole vault, and Millard Ball, shot put. Athletes from this school were superior in the field events in the morning, taking the first four places in the shot.

Leo Smith for Vassar won the Turn to page 5, please.

Methodists Hold Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Methodist Parish here on Wednesday evening, Rev. Charles P. Bayless, reported that repairs to property, improvements, and installation of permanent equipment at the church and parsonage, during the five-year period ending May, 1939, totaled $1,165 for the Cass City Methodist Church, and $1,185 for the parsonage. Bethel has expended $52 for similar purposes during the last two years. "This total of $2,400 in actual money expended has improved the church buildings and the parish considerably over $3,000 worth," the report stated.

Other reports showed all departments of the churches in excellent condition. Officers, trustees, stewards and quarterly conference committees were elected for 1939-40.

Trustees added at Bethel were Alton Mark and Delbert Profit, replacing John Marshall, Sr. (deceased) and John Profit (moved). Stewards at Bethel added were John Marshall, Jr., and John Doerr, Jr. No changes in trustees or stewards were made for the Cass City church. The outlook for a rigorous church program on the Methodist Parish here is the best in several years.

Two More Eighth Grade Honor Students

Two names of eighth grade graduates in rural schools in Tuscola County were omitted in the list printed in the Chronicle last week who received a high average mark in the recent examinations. They are: Richard Aldrich, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Aldrich, of Fairgrove with a mark of 95%, and James McAlpine, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McAlpine, of Fairgrove, who had an average of 94.5%. Both boys are students in the Parlo School in Fairgrove Township of which Mrs. Hazel Luther is the teacher.

26 STORES TO CLOSE ON THURSDAY AFTERNOONS

The following Cass City merchants have agreed to close their stores on Thursday afternoons, beginning June 8 and continuing through August 31:

A. & P. Store, Kroger's, H. J. Smith Store, I. Parsch, E. A. Corpron, O. H. Prieskorn, Gamble Store, Young & Maier, N. Bigelow & Sons, J. Diaz, Tate & Leeson, Ella Vance, Stanley A. Striffler, Reed & Patterson, Alex Henry, Pinney Dry Goods Co., F. A. Bliss, Cass City Furniture Store, Baker Electric Shop, G. & C. Folkert, A. H. Higgins, C. E. Patterson, D. A. Krug, G. B. A Non-Partisan
State News Letter
By GENE ALLEMAN
Michigan Press Association

Lansing — "Michigan seems to have a weakness for state boards.
It is true the state has as yet no trustees for washbasins or toothbrushes, but if we keep on as we are going there will be nothing from fish eyes to fox tails that will not be supervised by a board."
With almost prophetic foresight, Chase S. Osborn made this comment in his first message to the state legislature as governor 28 years ago.
"The Sage of the Soo," who incidentally was the first and only governor to come from the Upper Peninsula, foresaw the growing trend toward centralization power of state government—a trend which has been unparalleled at Washington, D. C., and which has
ministrations, Republican and Democrat.

A glance at the legislative record at Lansing for 1939 reveals the following examples of what former Governor Osborn had in mind.

Milk Price Board
Signed by Governor Dickinson is a bill which puts the state into the milk-price-fixing field.
Clearly an innovation in governmental function and one which is almost "New Dealish" in its scope, the milk marketing law will be administered by a five-member commission. Milk producers have protested for many months about low milk prices. Forming an aggressive bloc at Lansing, they persuaded legislators (most of whom are from rural areas or small towns) that price-fixing by the state was the possible remedy.
Marketing and advertising of apples are to be the responsibility of a state apple commission.
The legislature abolished the offices of fire marshal and state hospital director and eliminated the state legislative council. Then it created a labor mediation board, court of claims, welfare commission, athletic board of control, probation commission, and commission to pass on need for state-owned automobiles.
Laws were also enacted to tighten state restrictions as administered by state boards, for the licensing and practice of real estate brokers, funeral directors, chiropo-dists, dentists and nurses. Other laws required state licensing and control of soft drink manufacturers and residential building contractors.

Special Session
By leaving the state budget $6-000,000 to $15,000,000 out of balance when they adjourned May 19, lawmakers left at Governor Dickinson's door a virtual invitation to call a special session.
As we pointed out in this column
May 18, "if the budget is balanced, it will be a miracle of first magnitude." Dickinson insisted on general non-intervention in legislative affairs as did Frank Murphy in 1937, and the financial results were somewhat similar.
While Murphy's legislative deficit was $18,000,000 by actual appropriations, Dickinson's dilemma consisted of two parts: (1) $45-000,000 school aid authorized and only $38,000,000 appropriated and (2) $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 welfare aid authorized and only $8-750,000 appropriated.
These figures come from Emerson R. Boyles, the governor's legal advisor. Grover C. Dillman, state budget director, puts the pending legislative deficit at $6,000,000 to $7,000,000. Both estimates do not include the so-called "Murphy deficit" which may near the $25,000-000 mark by June 30, end of the state's present fiscal year. The legislature took no step to establish a debt retirement fund as recommended by the late Governor Fitzgerald.

"Pay-As-You-Go"
Governor Dickinson, thrifty farmer near Charlotte, insists firmly that the legislature must balance the budget.
This "pay-as-you-go" principle,

he points out, was an integral part of the Fitzgerald program which also proposed to accomplish it without resorting to new taxes. The legislature has several choices to make when it convenes for the special session scheduled for early in July:

1. Reduce authorized expenditures for schools and welfare to meet Dillman's budget requirements.
 2. Maintain present appropriations and impose a new tax or two —raise the sales tax from three to four per cent; a tax on amusements or tobacco; a state income tax. (These have been suggested by state officials or legislators in the past few years).
 3. Grant Governor Dickinson the same appropriation-cutting power that the 1937 legislature handed to Murphy.
- The situation is not discouraging,
however. The legislature did reduce state expenditures, as of 1937, with the leading exception of schools and welfare. As the Lansing State Journal points out,
"other daily papers expected too much. The State Journal has lived close to legislatures for a long time and so has learned not to be disappointed."
- This Lansing newspaper, with some sophistication, observes further: "Newspapers, which deride
the legislature, have never done anything, so far as observed, to get better ones. The general public very largely utterly disregards the legislature until it reaches Lansing."
- This legislative weakness, as such, may be an inherent part of our democratic system. Taking a long-range viewpoint, it may be a source of strength. The British would say, "We'll muddle through."
Governor Dickinson who has been a part of six administrations expects confidently to balance the budget by doing just that—"mud-dling through" the present confusion and disorder.

More Liquor Control
The legislature's special session will not be limited to financial matters.

The general problem of state control of liquor should be overhauled, the governor has indicated.
While it is doubtful that any step will be taken to remove the state from the business (or control) of sale of liquor through state-owned stores, as the late Governor Fitzgerald once recommended, the legislature may do something about the discriminatory tax on California and other out-of-state wines, proposed licensing of drinkers, and new restrictions on roadhouses located outside corporation limits of municipalities.
According to Murl H. Defoe, state liquor control commissioner whom Dickinson once said was his "personal" representative in liquor matters, "the legislature evidently was not in sympathy with the governor's ideas for liquor reform."
(The governor is president of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League and vice president of the National Anti-Saloon League). He also is head of a state which sells liquor through its own stores.
Providing the state commission has legal authority to do so, Defoe proposes that it effect the following reforms by administrative action:
Reduction of the number of liquor outlets by one-third.
More police supervision of road-houses.
Better enforcement of present liquor laws and regulations.
As for licensing of drinkers, Governor Dickinson is opposed to that on the general ground that he doesn't want any new commission (like Chase S. Osborn) "unless it is one to abolish commissions."

Van Wagoner Fares Well
With only nine Democrats in the senate and a handful in the house, Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, fared rather well with the 1939 legislature.
While the $5,000,000 annual highway appropriation from general funds was eliminated, the legislature turned down proposals to strip Van Wagoner of his upstate organization by turning back maintenance of state trunk highways to counties and to have the state highway department pay part of the cost of lighting state roads inside
municipalities.
The house approved the county maintenance bill, but the Senate left it in committee where it died.
The lighting bill never passed the House.
How did Van Wagoner accomplish all this? Mostly by getting Republican legislators to see his side of the proposals. A division among Republican legislators in both the House and Senate also contributed to Van Wagoner's defensive success.

FLAG DAY Where Do Flags Come From? Uncle Sam Stitches His Own

THE stars and stripes that fly from Army
outposts and buildings
everywhere on Flag Day, June 14, are all manufactured by the United States Army
Quartermaster Corps
in Philadelphia, Pa.
All bunting, regimental colors and standards are manufactured
there. Right: Two seamstresses cut out the stars for official bunting flags to be sent to Army posts.

Next step in the manufacturing is the joining together of the stripes.
After the 13 stripes have been gathered, it is sent to a second department, where the stars are sewed on.
This completes the manufacturing process. Finished flags are then sent to be inspected and packed.

Each flag undergoes rigid examination by an experienced inspector.
Some of the colors are valued up to $500, and should there be any fault
the flag is returned to the sewing room. Inspection passed, it is sent to its final destination, the United States Army.

FACTS FAVOR FORD

1 The 1939 Ford V-8 is a beautiful, modern motor car. Its 85-horsepower engine gives you economical, well-balanced performance over the entire speed range—and the 60-horsepower engine is even more economical.

2 The structural strength of the Ford car — frame, bracing, axles, body — makes not only for safety, but durability and long life.

3 Ford hydraulic brakes are exceptionally large and strong in proportion to car weight.

4 The Ford car is stabilized for comfortable riding. Its springbase, the distance between front and rear suspension, is 123 inches. Seats are toward the center, perfectly balanced. The car does not bob or dip and can have very little sway.

These four points — power, strength, safety, comfort — are by far the most important essentials in any motor car. They form the basic value of your investment.

With this solid foundation to build on, the Ford V-8 has been made beautiful, spacious, easy to drive. It is richly upholstered and has all the modern features which add to the luxury and pleasure of motoring.

You can see these things when you take a trial drive, but do not forget that the main value is in the things you do not readily see — quality of materials, precision of manufacture, fundamental engineering.

Mrs. Arthur Little and daughter, Lois, spent Sunday afternoon with the former's aunt, Mrs. Harry DeNoyelles, of Colwood.

Mrs. William G. Moore is visiting at the home of her son, Floyd Moore, at Fowlerville. Mr. Moore, who has been ill, is improving.

John C. Randall and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Randall, all of Pontiac, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Randall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benkelman and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Schwieger were entertained at Sunday dinner at the William Wahl home near Bad Axe.

Mrs. Levi Helwig entertained the Malfem Club at her home Thursday afternoon, when a social time was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. C. W. Heller entertained the Friendship Club at her home Tuesday afternoon. Thirteen ladies were present and enjoyed a social time. A potluck supper was served.

Sunday guests at the Ralph Ward home were Mr. and Mrs. Claud Moore, daughters, Miss Lila, Miss Marie and Miss Helen Moore, Allan Heck and Glenn Beechlin, all of Pigeon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Higgins and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Graham were visitors in Port Huron and Sarnia Sunday, making the trip from Port Huron to Sarnia by way of the Blue Water Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kercher and two children of Bairoil, Wyoming, motored here to spend a week with Mr. Kercher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kercher. They arrived in Cass City Wednesday.

Miss Lucile Anthes and Miss Ruth Schenck were among the guests at a tea given Saturday afternoon from 3:00 to 6:00 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Fone in Bay City, announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Fone.

The Mothers' Jewels of the Methodist Episcopal Church enjoyed a party in the church basement when games were played and refreshments were served. Mrs. A. H. Higgins and Mrs. Angus McPhail are superintendents of the Mothers' Jewels.

Sunday guests at the Loren Trathen home in Greenleaf were Mr. and Mrs. William I. Moore and grandchildren, Myrtle Lorene and Marshall Dean Souden, of Cass City, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Trathen of Ubly, Peter Rienstra of Argyle, and Dwight Barnes and son, Clare.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgero, who have spent some time with the latter's brother, Clare Craig, left Tuesday for their home in Onaway. Mrs. Maud Karr, who has also spent some time with her brother, Clare Craig, in Evergreen, accompanied the Badgeros to Onaway and will visit there for a short time before returning to her home in Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Ramsey of Marlette, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgero and Mrs. Maude Karr attended the funeral of their cousin, Terry Craig, at Mayville Sunday. Mr. Craig was killed Thursday in Flint when he came in contact with a high tension wire, while working for an electric company there.

Miss Lorene Barnes spent Friday with friends in Argyle and was honor guest at a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Linus Peters that evening. Sixteen ladies were present. Miss Barnes received many lovely gifts. Ice cream and cake were served. Miss Barnes will be married to Peter Rienstra of Argyle in the near future.

Members of the Rotary Club here at their luncheon Tuesday were both entertained and instructed when O. Dibble, Caro Rotarian, gave them a descriptive talk of a trip he made with a group of friends to several cities in Old Mexico. He was introduced by G. A. Tindale, program chairman. Guy W. Landon, Rotary president-elect, told club members of his trip to the Rotary district convention at Owen Sound.

Miss Shirley Anne Lenzner arrived in Cass City Tuesday to spend her summer vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Lenzner. She has completed her second year's studies at North Central College, Naperville, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benkelman and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Schwieger expect to leave tomorrow (Saturday) morning on a motor trip to Hartford City, Indiana, where they will visit in the home of Mrs. Benkelman's sister, Mrs. H. C. Blodgett, over the week-end.

About five years ago the Miracle Book Club, a religious movement among high school students, was begun which has had a tremendous growth. It is interdenominational in character and membership is restricted to high school boys and girls. In America, 2,000 chapters are functioning, and in the City of Detroit clubs in 18 high schools are active. In Cass City, the Miracle Book Club of about 13 members was organized by Mrs. F. L. Morris, who has been instructing the young people during the past year. Saturday, the local unit and their instructor joined representatives of similar clubs of 32 other Michigan city high schools at a picnic at Cass Benton Park at Northville. Besides Mrs. Morris, the following girls were at the day's outing: Esther and Gladys Chapman, Ersel and Ellamae Glaspie, Elaine and Ruth Jean Brown, Waunita Wise, Ruth White, Dagmar Martinek and Gloria Milligan.

4-H CLOTHING JUDGING
CONTEST JUNE 14

A 4-H clothing judging contest will be held at the Methodist Church in Caro, on June 14, at 9:30 a. m. This contest is open to any 4-H club girl over 13 years of age who finished a clothing project this year.

Miss Beatrice C. Boyle, assistant state club leader, Michigan State College, will be in charge of the meeting.

DEATHS

James Johann Hacker.

James J. Hacker, 86 years of age, and for 75 years a resident of Sanilac County, died Wednesday at his home in Austin Township after a 12-day illness. He came from Germany with his parents when three years of age, residing first in Canada for a short time. Then the family moved to Port Huron and later went to Forestville by boat and walked from there over a rough trail to settle on the farm where Mr. Hacker died on Wednesday.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock in the Ubly Presbyterian Church, Rev. L. Earl Bathlow officiating. Burial will be in Valley Cemetery in Ubly.

Besides his widow, he leaves three sons, Henry, of Pontiac, John and A. R. Hacker, both of Detroit; four daughters, Mrs. Jesse Soule, of Tyre, Mrs. Chrisanna Schroeder, of Woodstock, Ill., Mrs. Katherine Soule, of Carsonville, and Mrs. Mary Mullen, of Pontiac; nine grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and one brother, John C. Hacker, of Austin Township.

Mrs. Thomas Hoagg.

Mrs. Thomas Hoagg, 79, passed away Friday, June 2, in the home of her son, Andrew Hoagg, near Shabbona after a four weeks' illness.

Mrs. Hoagg was born August 5, 1859, in Ontario.

Funeral services were held at two o'clock Monday afternoon in the Andrew Hoagg home. Rev. Frank Purdy, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Decker, officiated and burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

Mrs. Hoagg is survived by eight children, Robert Hoagg of Saginaw; William, Archie and Miss Elizabeth Hoagg, all at home; Charles, of Berkley; Walter Hoagg and Mrs. Rufus Walker, both of Marlette; and Andrew Hoagg, of Shabbona.

Mr. Hoagg passed away forty-six years ago. Mrs. Hoagg has lived near Shabbona for many years.

Percy Starr.

Funeral services for Percy Starr, who passed away Monday, June 5, at his home, two miles west and one-half mile north of Argyle, were held Thursday afternoon in the Starr Baptist Church, near the Starr home. Rev. L. A. Kennedy, pastor of the Cass City Baptist Church, officiated. Burial was in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery in Austin Township.

Percy Starr was born August 11, 1883, and was united in marriage with Miss Ethel Kitchen, on October 10, 1906. They have lived all of their married life near Argyle.

Mr. Starr has been ill for a year and a half, and in spite of the tender care given him, he gradually grew weaker and passed away Monday morning.

He was a member of the Baptist Church and a teacher of the young people's Sunday School class for several years. The boys of his class served as pallbearers at the funeral and the girls as flower bearers.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Edward Starr and Rev. Kenneth Starr, both of Argyle; nine grandchildren; his stepmother, Mrs. Lydia Starr, of Cass City; six brothers, Rev. Roy Starr and Arthur Starr of Lansing, Rev. Lloyd Starr of Attica, Rev. Roland Starr of Muskegon, Clinton Starr of Argyle and Lee Starr of Phoenix, Arizona; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Stevens of Almont and Miss Marion Starr of Detroit and a half sister, Mrs. Leo Ware, of Cass City.

Mrs. Frederick C. Ballard.

From North Branch Gazette.
Mrs. Frederick C. Ballard, aged 61, died Wednesday morning at about one o'clock in the Alexander Blaine Hospital in Detroit, where she was returned for treatment about ten days previous to her demise. She had been failing in health for the past year, and she and her husband spent several weeks of last winter in Florida believing the climatic conditions would be beneficial to her health. The remains were brought here Wednesday morning and funeral services will be held this (Friday) afternoon at 2:30, at the home, conducted by Dr. H. A. Musser, pastor of the M. E. Church, and burial will be in the North Branch and Burlington Cemetery, under the rites of North Branch Chapter Order of Eastern Star.

The following friends will act as pallbearers: K. M. Barbour, H. H. Harper, Dr. G. D. McIntyre, Ralph Pitcher, Dr. J. O. Thomas and Clarence Lindquist.

Jessie Dunham Crosby was born in Wayne, Michigan, on September 30, 1877, the daughter of the late James D. and Kate L. Crosby. On November 20, 1901, she was united in marriage to Frederick C. Ballard, and with the exception of two years' residence in Sandusky, she spent her entire married life in North Branch. To this union one child was born, Charles W. Ballard of Flint, who besides the husband and one grandchild, Frederick Charles Ballard, survives her. Mrs. Ballard was a member of the O. E. S. and an active member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, affiliated with the Mayflower Chapter of Detroit. She was past regent of the D. A. R. Chapter and state chairman of the immigration committee, and a member of the Detroit Woman's Club.

On September 29, 1929, she organized the local Amos Wheeler Chapter, D. A. R., which was named after one of her ancestors who fought in the American Revolutionary War. Owing to ardent and active work in this organization, she was chosen as a delegate to attend many national and state conventions.

She gave generously of her time and support to worthy public affairs and was always ready and willing to lend a helping hand in time of need, and will be greatly missed from the community. The profusion of beautiful floral offerings at the bier coming from many sources pays silent though eloquent tribute to her memory.

Mrs. Ira Shoemaker.

Mrs. Ira Shoemaker, 46, of Snover, passed away Saturday morning, June 3, in Hubbard Memorial Hospital at Bad Axe, where she had undergone an operation Thursday.

Susie Vogel was born near Ruth, in Huron County, January 20, 1893, and was united in marriage with Ira Shoemaker on June 13, 1924, and they have made their home near Snover since that time.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday in the Urban Church, Rev. Mr. Hart, pastor, officiating. Interment was in the Moretown Cemetery.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Shoemaker is survived by a stepson, Gus Shoemaker, of Snover; one brother and five sisters, Charles Vogel, and Miss Bessie, Miss Alma and Miss Clara Vogel, and Mrs. John Gordon, all of Cass City, and Mrs. Roy Schweigert of Caro.

JUSTICE COURT

Henry, Falsenger, 44, was arrested at Richville on a drunk charge by Deputies Jeffery and Shrader on June 3. Justice Atwood's sentence was costs of $11.85 or 20 days in jail.

Ulysses Bigger, 38, of Fostoria, arrested on June 3 at Fostoria by Deputies Hillaker and Shrader on a drunk and disorderly charge was brought into Justice Atwood's court. He was given a choice between paying $15 fine and costs or serving 90 days in jail.

Alva Petty, 40, of Caro was arrested on June 5 on a disorderly charge. Justice St. Mary assessed a $10 fine and $5.35 costs. Deputy Sheriff Hillaker made the arrest.

Deputy Sheriff Goslin placed Edward Abraham, 21, of Bay City under arrest on June 1 for reckless driving, 5½ miles west of Gagetown. He had his choice between serving 60 days in jail or paying $35 in fine and costs. Because he had no driver's license, Abraham had to choose again. This time it was a $5 fine or 10 days.

An Uncle Al Saying

Uncle Al says that the most important thing about a hat is what's under it.

Rules Giant 20 Times Its Size

Immense Colonial Empire Of France Governed on Small-Town Set-up.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The recent attempted general strike in France calls attention to the complex social and economic set-up that ordinarily runs the affairs of "fifty-million Frenchmen" and their huge colonial empire.

"As an individual European state, France is a compact geographic unit organized on the 'home town' economic model," says the National Geographic society.

"Few French cities have a population of half a million. Small scale and varied industries are widespread over the land, some 90 per cent of all French factories hiring less than 100 workers each. National activities, almost equally divided between farming and business enterprises, are largely in the hands of petty property owners.

Rules Territorial Giant.

"Yet this nation of proverbial 'stay-at-homes,' with a reputation for caution, thrift, and domestic skills, is nevertheless the head and brains of a territorial giant whose members make up a foreign domain second only to that of Great Britain. Like the British empire, although little more than one-third the area of that colossus, French colonialists and dependencies are scattered about the world's continents and most of its seas.

"France itself occupies an area of something more than 200,000 square miles. It is the third largest nation in Europe; while abroad, the tricolor flies over an empire more than 20 times the size of the mother country, including an estimated 65,000,000 people of many races, creeds and cultures.

"To France—handicapped at home by scarcity of coal and other raw materials—these far flung possessions present a tremendous reservoir of still-unexploited economic wealth.

"The roll call of French possessions, dependencies and mandates around the globe reads like the index to a gazetteer. In north, central and west Africa are Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia, the French Congo (or French Equatorial Africa), Senegal, French Guinea, the Ivory Coast, Dahomey, French Sudan, Mauritania, Niger, and Dakar—altogether with French Somaliland, a small patch of land on the east coast, and the major portions of former German colonies of Togoland and Cameroun, under the bulge of the Great West African shoulder.

"Under mandate, with promise of early self rule, are Syria and Lebanon in the Near East. In northern South America is rich, sultry French Guiana, with its penal settlement 'Devil's Island.'

Then There's Madagascar.

"Such oriental tongue twisters as Pondichery, Karikal, Chandernagor, Mahe, and Yanaon are French specks on the map of India; while Cochinchina, Annam, Cambodia, Tonkin, and Laos making up French Indo-China, plus Kwangchow, leased from China, are other Asiatic possessions.

"To all these far-flung continental regions must also be added a French island empire that dots open water from Corsica in the Mediterranean and New Caledonia and New Hebrides in the South Pacific, to Miquelon and St. Pierre in the North Atlantic, and Martinique and Guadeloupe in the Caribbean.

"Madagascar, off the coast of southeast Africa, is something more than an ocean 'dot' of French territory. Bigger than France itself, and world's fourth largest island, it covers an area of some 240,000 square miles, with more than three million inhabitants.

"In the French colonial empire are found most of the earth's products needed to carry on modern industry or warfare. During the World war her colonies contributed to France an estimated half million soldiers and workers, together with millions of tons of supplies.

"Today, France seeks one answer to pressing economic problems at home in new and intensified drives to tap the resources of her foreign domain. The French Colonial office, according to news accounts, is now carrying out plans to build up trade, improve local politics, provide for the empire's defense, and in general develop its vast potential wealth in materials and markets."

Well Drilled 25 Years

AGO NOW YIELDS OIL
MOUNT AUBURN, ILL.—Spurred on by the sight of oil rising to the top of the well casing, an oil prospecting crew under direction of George W. Nelms, San Antonio, Texas, is proceeding with work of opening up a well drilled 25 years ago on the old C. A. Montgomery farm, south of here.

The crew lowered a drill bit through the old casing to 2,000 feet and encountered no obstacles.

Nelms intends to bail the accumulated oil from the hole, plug the well and acidize it.

Concluded from first page.
440-yard dash in the best race of the day, his time of 53 seconds—being only one-tenth short of equaling the record of 52.9 seconds made by Beagle of Millington in 1935. Allen Jaynes, Vassar, won the mile run; Floyd Taylor, Vassar, the 880-yard run; and the Vassar team the relay with Leo Smith, Conrad Gunnell, Heusted and Wright Freeland. Point winners are:

Boys' Events.

440-yard dash — First, Smith, Vassar; second, Spaulding, Caro; third, tie, Ur, Millington and Spencer, Cass City; fifth, Blasius, Caro. Time: 53 seconds.

Broad jump — First, Johnson, Caro; second, Clement, Cass City; third, Freeland, Vassar; fourth, Dillon, Caro; fifth, Clark, Millington. Distance: 19 feet, 2¼ inches.

880-yard relay — First, Vassar (Smith, Gunnell, Heusted, Freeland); second, Cass City; third, Millington; fourth, Caro; fifth, Mayville. Time: 1 minute, 42 seconds.

Girls' Events.

Archery — 30, 20 and 10 yards: First, Millington (Doris Seelye 406, Irene Vas 368, Gladys Fischbach 265, Elizabeth Rowell 248), 1,287; second, Reese (Catherine Shulte 247, Evelyn Humpert 201, Helen Burkel 267, Lorraine Wozniashke 231), 946; third, Mayville (Jean Othmer 227, Fontaine Sugden 196, Katherine Lester 249, Gertrude Most 251), 923.

This Friday all schools in the Upper Thumb League will go to Caro to compete for the Thumb championship. Bad Axe is the team favored to take the championship this year because of their earlier win over Cass City and Caro in a triangular meet and their fine showing at the regional meet in Flint.

Cass City Won Game by Staging Rally in the Ninth Inning

The Cass City Independents were victorious over Bad Axe in a game played here on June 4, staging a rally in the ninth frame. The score stood 6-5.

Bad Axe scored five runs in the first six innings and held Cass City hitless for five periods. Hicky, Cass City pitcher, received the only walk of the game in the sixth inning, stole second and third, and scored on Frederick's double to left field.

Bad Axe was held scoreless for the remainder of the contest, while the locals tallied five runs in the last two frames.

In the eighth, Walmsley singled, scoring on Frederick's double to center field. Frederick scored on Kelly's single to right field. Clement led off in the ninth with a single over short, advancing to second on McAlpine's single to left field. Hunter singled to left field, scoring Clement with McAlpine stopping at second. Both men advanced by a wild pitch. Hicky, who pitched excellent ball, led his team to victory with a single to right field, scoring MacAlpine, with the tying run, and Hunter with the winning tally.

Each pitcher had 12 strike-outs to his credit.

The score:

Whither the Young Graduate? Maybe This Holds the Answer

How the average high school student will be occupied one year from this June has been determined by a recent survey of 1,000 of last June's graduates. Teachers colleges, business colleges and vocational schools will absorb 140 graduates from the school surveyed, all in towns of approximately 3,000.

Clerical jobs in grocery stores, filling stations, shoe stores, etc., will be filled by 236 graduates. This total includes delivery boys and "handy men," most of whom serve part time in a clerical capacity. Thirty-one salesmen also received the sheepskins this year. The latter includes house-to-house canvassers.

Students numbering 171 will attend college or university the first year, with a large percentage failing to return the second year. Lack of industrial opportunity has increased college enrollment. A total of 163 will remain at home without finding work. This figure includes girl graduates not planning to work.

Agriculture will claim 190 graduates, many of whom are returning home to work. Included also are youths who are going to work on a farm for the first time. Seventy-seven are listed under a miscellaneous heading, including truck drivers, CCC enrollees, mechanics, waitresses and odd-job workers.

First Named Rio Bravo

Rio Bravo, the wild and turbulent river, is the name that was originally given to the Rio Grande by the first Spanish explorers, in the sixteenth century, and is still used by the inhabitants of Mexico.

Eccentric Bees Puzzling

Scientists who know bees are puzzled by their eccentricities when hunting nectar. Even white clover, top notch source of nectar, fails to tempt bees in some parts of the United States.

Limburger Castles

In America, Limburg may only suggest cheese, but in Holland Limburg is notable chiefly for its fine churches and monasteries and some of the finest old castles to be seen anywhere.

CHAPTER XV

She took more pains than usual in dressing that night, and was shyly pleased with the reflection the mirror threw back at her, as, giving it one last glance, she made ready to enter the living room. Phil, looking big and somewhat austere in dinner clothes, jumped up from the chair in which he'd been lounging, to greet her. "Darling," he exclaimed, "you look lovely tonight!" And then, as if fearful of having been lush, he hastily asked her where she wanted to dine.

Nor did he show, by any word or sign throughout the whole evening, that Mary Loring meant anything more to him tonight than she had the first day they had met. In fact, she might have thought that she had only dreamed he'd asked her to marry him—that he didn't care anything at all about her—had he not said, "If there's nothing more exciting in your life tomorrow night, Mary, what about having dinner with me? I could call all o'clock off at the office around four o'clock, and, if you'd like, we could drive somewhere on Long Island. The dog-wood trees are in bloom now."

"Thanks, Phil, I'd love it," Mary replied, and realized, an instant later, that she had experienced a moment of disappointment when she had thought he was not going to say anything about seeing her before their luncheon engagement on Thursday.

"Do I feel—keen about seeing him simply because I'm not busy writing now?" she asked herself, "and am rather lonesome? Or do I really care for him in the way he wants me to? But how could I? People don't fall in and out of love so quickly. I'm in love with Chris. I've always been in love with Chris."

But she was destined not to know for some time whether her eagerness to see Phil, to be with him, and listen to his clever, lazy talk, was due to lack of other interests, or not. The days went on. The luncheon engagement with Anthony Porter became an accomplished fact. "Storm on the Mountain" was now in his hands; he had already submitted it to a popular magazine for women. She was writing a new short, her feeling of distaste for sentences and situations having deserted her at last. She was seeing Phil every day now—a Phil still as cold and aloof as if he had never spoken those words of love to her, yet a man deeply, undeniably, devoted to one girl. A radiogram had come from Lella. She had received Mary's letter, and she and Linnie would sail on the first boat that was heading for New York. They would be home on the twenty-fifth of May.

It was on the night of the twenty-third that Mary, coming home with Phil from an evening at the Van Winkles', found a telegram for her beneath Aunt Linnie's door. Phil switched on the hall light, and followed her into the living room as she tore open the message. She stood there for an instant, reading it, staring at the slip of paper as if the words she read were too startling to believe; then, as they at last penetrated her benumbed senses, she uttered a low, hurt cry.

Phil was at her side instantly. "Mary! Is it bad news?"

She silently handed him the yellow sheet; then, like a little girl too stunned to cry out, covered her face with her hands.

Phil glanced apprehensively at the telegram. It read:

FATHER JUST PASSED AWAY PLEASE COME HOME IMMEDIATELY ELLEN.

Dropping it on the table, he went to her, and taking her, unresisting, in his arms, held her tenderly, protectively there. "Poor little Mary," he said softly. "Darling, I'm so sorry! So very sorry! Rest your head against me, my sweet, and cry. Let the tears come. I'll help, darling."

And standing thus, within the safe warm circle of his embrace, she wept—wept for the loss of the dearest friend she'd ever had—wept for the sacrifices James Loring had made for his family—wept for the defeat and heartache that had seared these last few months of his life.

At last, struggling for composure, she raised her tortured eyes to Phil. "How soon can I get away?" she asked. "Is there a train tonight? I have to go by way of Chicago, you know."

Phil's hold about her relaxed, and seeking in his pocket for a cigarette, he found one and lighted it. "It's too late tonight, but I'll phone the New York Central and the Pennsylvania, and find out what time you can leave tomorrow; how soon you can get to Hawkinsville. And I'll send Miss Cotswell a radiogram. Mary?"

"Yes?"

"Would you like for me to go to Hawkinsville with you? I hate to think of you making the trip alone."

Mary averted her haggard young face. "No, Phil dear. Thank you. You're so good—so very good to offer, but—I want to be alone."

Silence, and then, "All right dear. Hadn't you better telephone or wire your family right away?"

"I'll wire," Mary returned huskily. "I—I—couldn't bear to talk to them tonight."

"Write out the message then, and let me send it for you. I know you don't even feel like giving it to the telephone operator."

Mary automatically moved towards the desk, sought pen and paper, and scribbled a pitiful message to her mother. Then, again, overcome by her loss, compassion for her mother, heartache for her father, to whom of all his children she had been closest, she buried her face in her arms on the desk.

Phil, speechless with understanding, watched her for a moment; then turned, and went towards the kitchen, and Addie's room that led off from it. "Addie!" he called, knocking on the door. Eventually, Addie's sleepy voice responded, and the door was opened.

"Addie," Phil said in a low voice, "Miss Loring's had bad news. Her father's passed away."

"Oh, my God!" the woman exclaimed. "My poor baby! I'll be there right away, Mr. Phil—soon as I get on my robe and slippers."

"Stay with her while I do some telephoning," Phil whispered.

A second later, she joined Mary, and, all thought of caste and color thrown aside, had her arms about the girl. "Poor lambie!" she was crooning. "Poor little lambie. Had your Daddy been sick, honey? Did you know he was ailing? What did your sister say it was that took him?"

Mary's hand fell to the woman's shoulder in a convulsive grip. "He was terribly worried, Addie. Terribly unhappy. He had been for several months—and Ellen didn't say what . . . Oh, Addie, could my father have committed—suicide?"

"Hush, honey! Hush! Don't say such a thing! No, he couldn't have done that. He . . ."

"I must get there as quickly as possible," Mary went on as if in a daze, "and, Addie, I don't know what it'll cost. Maybe I haven't enough money . . ."

"Don't you worry 'bout that, honey. I have plenty money in the bank—and everything I got is yours."

"Oh, Addie, you're so good. I'll pay you back soon. I'll sell my novel some day. But, Addie, right now, I've only about thirty dollars . . ."

"Don't worry, baby. Addie'll take charge of things. Hush, honey—here comes Mr. Phil."

Phil Buchanan came into the living room. "There's a New York Central train leaving at ten forty-five in the morning," he announced. "It reaches Chicago at seven-ten the following morning. It's the first one out, Mary, and I'm afraid that's the best you can do, unless, of course, you want to go by plane."

"Oh, no!" Mary returned, thinking of the extra expense which flying would involve. "I can't fly. That morning train'll have to do. I can catch the eight-thirty train for Hawkinsville the following morning, and reach home about one."

"Then, I'll call for you at ten, Mary," Phil said. "Try to get some sleep, my dear. You'd better give her some brandy, Addie, or hot milk—or something."

"I'll take care of her, Mr. Phil," Addie replied proudly. "Don't you worry. I'm goin' to get her to bed right now."

"Then I'll be running along," Phil said, and, coming to where Mary sat, he stooped and kissed her gently on the mouth. "Good-night, my dear," he said tenderly. "Try to get some rest."

For one mad instant, Mary wished she might put her arms about this big kind man, and tell him not to go, not to leave her—that she needed, and needed terribly, his comforting presence. But he was making for the door now, and saying to Addie in the tone a father uses when entrusting his child to another's care, "Watch out for her, Addie, and call me immediately if she wants me."

Addie left Aunt Linnie's apartment an hour ahead of Phil Buchanan's arrival the following morning. She needed time to stop at the bank, draw out some money for Mary, get to the station and pay for the ticket before Phil and Mary should reach there. This she had accomplished, and, by Mary's arrangement, was waiting for them at the information desk when they reached the concourse.

Phil looked troubled. "I wanted to get your tickets, Mary," he said. "I couldn't let you do that," Mary returned proudly, wondering what he would think if he knew Addie was financing her trip.

He glanced at the reservation to see the number of the car that she was to be in. "Mary," he began, "you have a lower berth. Don't you want a compartment, dear? It'd be so much more private. Won't you let me give you this little—comfort, at least?"

"No," Mary replied dully. "A lower's all right. I don't mind."

"But . . ."

"Please, Phil. I couldn't let you . . ."

"All right," he agreed tersely. "Come along, then."

But once in the Pullman, he began again, "I wish you'd let me get a compartment for you, and I wish someone were making the journey with you. If you won't let me go along, Mary, what about Addie?" His worried eyes sought the Mulatto's face.

"No!" Mary said shortly. "No, Phil. I really want to be alone. There are so many things to think about. Phil, I received a letter from Anthony Porter in this morning's mail. The first magazine to which he submitted 'Storm on the Mountain' has offered five thousand dollars for the first American serial rights."

"Mary! That's great! That's wonderful! I knew . . ."

"But it's come—too late," Mary returned, her voice almost inaudible.

"Too late!" Phil repeated, bewildered.

"Yes, I'm afraid—it's come—too late."

"But I don't understand," he returned. "What . . .?"

"All aboard!" shouted the conductor. "All aboard!"

"You must be getting off," Mary warned. "Good-by, Addie, and thank you—for everything."

She rose from her seat, and throwing her arms about the woman, gave her an affectionate, fleeting embrace. Then, turning to Phil Buchanan, she held out a black-gloved hand. "Good-by, Phil. You've been so good, so very good."

The house on Concert street was in darkness when she arrived the following afternoon. Mr. Anderson, next door neighbor of the Loring's for the past ten years, had met her at the station and brought her home. The window shades were drawn to the sill, and the heavy fragrance of lilies and roses assailed her as she stepped into the dim, cool hall—and her mother's arms. The women, benumbed by their mutual tragedy, greeted each other wordlessly, embraced, drew apart, then impulsively embraced again.

Ellen, a new maturity in her bearing, came softly down the bare steps, and, with a convulsive sob, kissed Mary first on one cheek and then the other. "Oh, Mary," she breathed, "thank God you've come! Our father—Mary—our father . . ."

Mary held her sister tightly in her arms, unable to speak, yet struggling inwardly to force the question to her lips. She must know at once how her father died.

If only Ellen wouldn't cry like that! The girl's body, racked by choking sobs, was shaking hysterically.

"Darling! Ellen!" she cried. "Dearest . . . Then, 'Oh, Ellen! What was it? How did Dad die?'"

Why didn't she answer? Why didn't . . .

"It was a terrible accident, Mary," her mother broke in gently. "Dad was working on the car in the garage, and the motor was running . . ."

Mary felt a shudder pass through her. With the motor running? Oh, no! He wouldn't have . . . Why, one of the first things he told her when she was learning to drive was never, never to do that! And yet she fought the thought—the painful realization. Her heart refused to believe what her mind told her was the truth.

"Where—is—he?" she asked.

"In the living room, dear," Mrs. Loring answered gently. "Do you want to see him now?"

Mary, pleading for understanding, looked into her mother's eyes. "Yes, Mother," she said. "May I go in—alone?"

Mrs. Loring nodded compassionately. "Of course, darling. We have all wanted to do that."

For one appalled moment she stood there gazing at her father's dear face.

She walked slowly into the flower-banked room where the body of James Loring lay. The casket flanked the fireplace at the south wall, and a great piece of sheer netting lay over it. For one appalled moment, she stood there gazing at her father's dear face, so strangely young and peaceful in death; then, lifting the veiling, she tenderly touched his clasped hands. "Daddy darling," she whispered, "you were always so good to me! If only I could have eased your worries, my darling! If only I could have saved your life! I love you so, Daddy. I love you so!"

Gently, she let the transparent cover fall back in place, and, squaring her shoulders, turned away.

There was something mysterious about the whole thing. Even the friends who had come to condole seemed strangely quiet on the subject of Jim Loring's sudden death, and as the hours wore on, Mary grew more and more apprehensive. His going was spoken about as "tragic," "a great loss to Hawkinsville," and "terrible for the family"—but the spirit of evasion as to how his death had come about was always there.

"Ellen," she began that night in the privacy of their room "was dad's death really an—accident?"

Silence—a long silence, which answered her better than any words could have done.

"Ellen! Was it—did he—?"

Ellen stifled a sob. "Yes, Mary. Dad—took his own life."

"Oh, my God! I was afraid he had! Something told me at the time your message came, and then, today, when I simply couldn't get to see anybody alone, I began to feel sure . . ."

"Mother found him in the garage, Mary," Ellen went on, "the doors closed, the ignition turned on. She clings to the idea that it was an accident and, Mary, that's what the verdict was, but I know and so do you . . ."

"That it was suicide," Mary finished in a whisper. "Yes, Ellen, he was frantic about money, and he felt the only way to save his family from poverty was to take his own life, so that we might have his insurance. If only he'd waited another 24 hours, he'd have known it wasn't necessary to do such a dreadful thing! My novel's been accepted by a magazine, Ellen. They're going to pay me five thousand dollars for serial publication only. Think of it—five thousand dollars! And Dad committed suicide—in order to give his family ten thousand dollars insurance."

"Yes," Ellen replied bitterly. "Ten thousand dollars—only twice as much as you'll receive for your novel!"

"And I'm going to sell other rights. I know I shall! And I could've taken care of the family! The irony of it, Ellen! The tragedy! He gave up his life for his family's security—and it was all so needless!"

To be continued.

BEAULEY.

We are glad to hear that John O'Rourke is improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Croft of Caro visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reader one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hartsell visited Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Rourke Sunday afternoon.

Don MacDonald of Owendale spent the week-end with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Heron.

Children's Day service will be held at the church Sunday at 11:30 a. m., in place of regular church services.

Mrs. Dugald McLaughlin entertained the Ladies' Aid Thursday for dinner.

Miss Jean Wallace spent three days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, returning to Mt. Pleasant on Memorial Day.

Roy Martin graduates this year from Owendale High School and Joseph O'Rourke is valedictorian of his class at Gagetown High School. We are always glad to hear of our young people's success in finishing school.

Mrs. Donald Lester is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Moore, after spending a few days in Pleasant Home Hospital.

Mrs. J. B. Hartsell of Pontiac spent a few days with relatives here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Fay and children were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Heron Sunday.

Durward Heron and daughter, Lulabell, spent Monday and Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Heron. Miss Betty Lou McDonald was a guest also.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCallum are nicely located on the O'Rourke farm, formerly known as the E. W. Turner farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell MacAlpine and children of Owendale spent Sunday evening at the Alva MacAlpine home.

A large crowd attended the memorial service at West Grant Cemetery Tuesday morning, May 30. Much credit is due Rev. Wesley Dafoe of Gagetown for his untiring efforts in helping to bring about such a service. It was greatly appreciated by those present. Rev. Cletus Parker of Pontiac served as chairman. The program: Song, "America"; scripture lesson and invocation by Rev. Mr. Kirm; address, Rev. Wesley Dafoe; music by the Owendale High School Band; song, Owendale men's quartet. Mr. Dafoe pronounced the benediction and the sounding of taps concluded the program.

Invented Mainspring for Watches

Peter Henlein of Nurnberg, Germany, invented the steel mainspring for watches about the year 1500. A blacksmith by trade, he was born in 1480 and died in 1542. He is sometimes considered the inventor of the watch, but the early spring-driven timekeepers were probably more like table clocks or clock-watches. He was the inventor of the first portable timekeeper.

IF YOU like facts instead of claims, you'll be glad to know that the question of which low-price car is fastest has been answered—not in words but on the road.

At Daytona Beach in March a Ford-built Mercury 8 took first place in the grueling 150-mile stock car race. All prize-winning places were taken by Ford-built cars. A clean-cut triumph for the Ford V-8 engine.

In April the South American Grand Prize Race was run—twice across the Andes—4515 heart-breaking miles! All leading American low-price cars were among the 69 starters. The race was won by a Ford V-8. And 10 of 28 cars to finish were Fords!

There's just one way to know the smooth, quick power of a Ford V-8. That's to get behind the wheel. Come in and drive the new Ford.

Recently, a man wrote in and asked me whether all automobile drivers were bad drivers. We must remember that there are millions of good drivers compared to thousands of reckless ones. Approximately 25 per cent of the driving public is responsible for all of the automobile accidents and the accompanying grief and suffering which is reported annually.

Seventy-five per cent of the driving public does not have accidents.

However, it is necessary for the 75 per cent that does not have accidents to be constantly alert because the constituents of the 25 per cent that does report accidents is not permanent. In other words, the possibility of an accident is passed around frequently; and therefore, good drivers must be constantly alert in order to remain good drivers, and bad drivers ought to change their habits immediately.

It's smart to drive carefully!

Order for Publication—Sale or Mortgage of Real Estate—State of Michigan. The Probate Court for the County of Tuscola.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the Village of Caro, in said county, on the 31st day of May, A. D. 1939.

Present, Hon. H. Walter Cooper, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the Estate of Mary Chamberlain, Deceased.

The Pinney State Bank of Cass City, Michigan, having filed in said court its petition, praying for license to sell the interest of said estate in certain real estate therein described.

GOVERNOR MILKS COLLEGE COW

Governor Luren D. Dickinson participated in the May 31 "kickoff" of Michigan's observance of National Dairy Month in June by milking a Michigan State College Holstein cow on the capitol lawn in Lansing. With an escort of coeds from the college the 80 year old executive helped pay tribute to the state's 70 million dollar industry. Leaders in the milk producers' and the milk dealers' organizations in Michigan are being aided by dairy department members at the college in attempting to stimulate greater consumption of the state's dairy products for the sake of health and economy and also for better returns for dairymen.

Pay Cow Tribute in Dairy Month

Tribute to Michigan's dairy cows whose production puts 70 millions into farm pockets annually has led Michigan leaders of producers and distributors to join in celebration of National Dairy Month, the month of June.

As a kickoff to the program which dairymen hope will extend into succeeding months and arouse greater consumption of milk and dairy products, Governor Luren D. Dickinson, 80 year old Charlotte farmer, was induced to try his hand at milking a Michigan State College cow on the capitol lawn in Lansing.

In a dairy banquet May 31 in the Union Building at the college, leaders drew a picture of the state's dairy situation. A total of 915,000 dairy cows are producing approximately four and one-half billion pounds of milk annually in Michigan. Detroit alone consumes more than 500 tons daily out of bottles.

Earl Weaver, head of the college dairy department and principal speaker, pointed out that no matter whether it is overproduction or underconsumption, a slight shift in economics means drastic changes in farm incomes. He suggested more culling of inefficient animals and greater attention to economy and health advantages in using quality dairy products.

Leaders attending the banquet and seconding need for the program included N. P. Hull, Lansing, president of the National Federation of Milk Producers; Fred Meyers, Fair Haven, president of the Michigan Milk Producers; Ex Senator Neal Lamereaux, Comstock Park, president of the Michigan Allied Dairy Association; Bernard Beach, Pontiac, secretary of the Michigan Milk Producers' Federation; L. N. Francke, secretary of the Michigan Allied Dairy Association; A. L. McDonald, Ann Arbor, president of the Michigan Ice Cream Manufacturers' Association; F. M. Skiver of the state bureau of dairying, and E. L. Anthony, dean of the college's agricultural division.

'Touch Wood' Superstition
An interesting explanation of the "touch wood" superstition is that the wood touched was a reputed "piece of the true cross" carried by the faithful Elder wood, of which the cross was said to have been made, was supposed to have protective power. But probably, before the Christian era, the sacred oak was in the same manner accounted effective in averting the evil chance.

This and That

ED CORPRON is anything but a light sleeper on Friday nights if one may judge by his experience on June 2 when some persons opened the door of his garage which is attached to the Corpron residence on North Seeger Street, shoved his car into the street and took the auto on a joy ride. Next morning Ed discovered the car back in the garage with fenders and bumpers awry. Other indications of a wild party were in evidence about the car.

ACROSS the street, on Monday night, sleep did not come so easily for the Earl Douglas and Ernest Schwaderer families. The Douglas dog, usually kept indoors, spent the night in the open and made sleep quite impossible with a continual barking and howling, so much so that Mr. Schwaderer determined in the very early Tuesday morning hours to rock the Douglas dog to sleep so all concerned might get an hour or two of rest. One of the rocks was of sufficient size to thoroughly awaken doggie and send him yipping down the street. And the Douglas clan and the Schwaderers were happy because of the rocker's action which gave them a few hours of peace. What a short night!

Concluded from first page.

William A. Seeger was born October 16, 1882, in Cass City and grew to manhood here. For a number of years, while still a boy, he worked at the Bigelow Hardware and later left school to go into the tinning business for himself.

He was united in marriage with Miss Ethel Ford of Cass City and two children were born to this union, Donald Seeger and Mrs. Ruth DeBritz. After making their home here for a number of years, Mr. and Mrs. Seeger moved to Edmonton, Alberta.

On October 16, 1922, Mr. Seeger married Miss Mae Victoria Birch of Edmonton and later that year they moved to Detroit, where they resided until coming to Cass City in November, 1927, where Mr. Seeger started a sheet metal and roofing business.

On February 17 of this year, Mrs. Seeger was killed when the car in which she was riding with her husband, struck a freight train at the Grand Trunk depot crossing in Cass City.

Mr. Seeger's father, Michael Seeger, died November 25, 1927, as the result of injuries received when he was struck by a car while walking in the road west of town.

William A. Seeger is survived by three children, Mrs. Ruth DeBritz of Seattle, Washington, Donald Seeger of Detroit and William, 11, who lived with his father. He also leaves four sisters, Mrs. George Muentener (Florence) of Saginaw; Mrs. Atmore Beach (Cora) of Detroit; Mrs. James Smiths (Hazel) and Mrs. Mabel Moyer, both of Los Angeles, California.

DEFORD

Death of Norman Martin—

Norman Martin, son of Charles and Rebecca Martin, was born at Macon, Lenawee County, February 22, 1857. At the age of nine years, he moved with his parents to Gilford, where he resided until he was 33 years of age. In 1884, he was united in marriage with Miss Rosie Spencer, at Gilford. In 1890, Mr. and Mrs. Martin moved to Ellington Township, where they cleared from the forest a farm, which was their home for 33 years. Sixteen years ago they came to Deford, where they purchased the property which has since then been their home, and where Mr. Martin passed away on Saturday morning, June 3, at about 8:30.

They were the parents of one child, a daughter, Edith, who became Mrs. Arthur Stephens, and who died 26 years ago, leaving three small children, who were cared for by these grandparents, until maturity. They are Axel, of Caro, Floyd, of Flint, and Mrs. Herbert Phillips, of Deford. Other descendants are eight great-grandchildren.

Norman Martin was one of a family of seven children, four girls and three boys, and is survived by only one, a sister, Mrs. Clara Acker, of Fairgrove. Mr. and Mrs. Martin took a 10 weeks old baby, Leland Rockefeller, who died at the Martin home 1½ years ago, aged 34 years.

The deceased knew his Savior, and was a former member of an M. P. Church in Ellington Township. He was a good neighbor and exemplary citizen.

Rev. C. W. Clark of the Sherman St. Methodist Church of Caro was the officiating clergyman at the service held in the Deford Church Wednesday, June 7, a two o'clock. The body was interred at the Novesta Cemetery.

Farmers' Club—

The club will meet on Friday evening, June 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Quick.

Pioneer Reunion—

The pioneer reunion will be held again this year at the Deford Church on Thursday, June 15. Howard Retherford is president and Mrs. Robert Horner is secretary. Robert Warner of Cass City will give the address of welcome and Robert Brown of Caro will give the response.

George Palmer has been confined to the house during the past week but is getting better.

Guests at the Henry Zemke home Monday were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Vatters of Argyle and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Morgan of Detroit.

Rev. W. L. Jones of Lexington, former pastor at Deford, was a caller in town last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Gibbs and Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberg of Wyandotte and Mrs. Ray Gibbs of Caro were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Retherford.

Mrs. Samuel Sherk returned home on Monday after spending a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Woolman at Royal Oak.

It's the Spanish Main

Originally Venezuela and Colombia, in the northern part of South America, constituted the "Spanish Main," meaning "mainland." In England the sea is frequently called the "bounding main" and as England spread its government over many of the West Indies the Caribbean sea came to be known as the Spanish Main. It is generally spoken of as such.

Great Danes, Boar-Hounds

Great Dane dogs were originally known as boar-hounds because they were so big and powerful that they could bring to earth the wild boar in early Saxon hunts—that they are one of the mightiest of breeds, their weight running well over 100 pounds—that despite their size, they are gentle and companionable.

Consumers Hit By Hidden Taxes

Startling Facts Revealed In Wide Analysis of Family Expenditures.

CHICAGO.—Hidden taxes paid by the average low-income family in a "cross-section American town" equal the federal income tax on a salary of $7,500 a year, a study by the National Consumers Tax commission shows.

Research analysts of the commission, an organization with headquarters in Chicago waging a "war against taxes that penalize the consumer," took apart taxes paid by $2,500-a-year-and-under families in communities of varying sizes from coast to coast.

The communities, giving a "cross-section of America" from one ocean to the other, were those used by the U. S. department of labor in a recently issued survey of family income and expenditures.

Applying hidden tax percentages against expenditure figures computed from those obtained by the department, the commission's analysts reported the following findings:

Expense Exceeds Income.

One—During the period studied families with incomes of $2,500 and under, an income group which includes nearly nine-tenths of the nation, actually spent slightly more than they received.

Two—A total of $160.50—or about 12 per cent of their annual average expenditure of $1,364.12—was paid for hidden taxes on the purchases they made.

Three—This hidden tax amount was larger than the annual expenditures for any other single items in the family budget except food and housing.

The average income of families in the $2,500-a-year-and-under group was $1,348.77, according to the study made public by Mrs. Franklin M. Miller, of Chicago, Illinois national committeewoman of the commission.

"This study shows how heavily the burden of hidden taxes falls on families of smaller means who spend practically all their income for living necessities," Mrs. Miller said.

Hits Low-Income Families.

"These families, of course, pay no income tax but the $160.50 they do pay in indirect taxes equals the federal income tax paid by the average married man with two children who earns $7,500 a year.

"These unseen taxes are an unseen part of the purchase price of everything the families buy—food, clothing, transportation, housing, even medicines. They form as much as 53.7 per cent of the price of tobacco, for example.

"The hidden tax totals were computed on a conservative basis. The average low-income family probably pays even more because these figures list no taxes on some items where it was impossible to make a conservatively accurate estimate.

"This study indicates that many of the poorer families, living on less than the average income of $1,348.77, must give up some of the necessities of life because of the hidden tax load."

Cuba Abolishes Right of Police to Kill Captives

HAVANA.—The "ley de fuga" (law of flight) which permitted officers of the law to kill prisoners in their charge has been abolished under Cuba's new social defense code, which supersedes the Spanish penal code in force since 1879.

For the first time responsibility for the safety of prisoners is placed upon the men in whose custody they remain. Officers will be punished if they kill or permit the killing of prisoners in their charge.

The new body of laws embraces a modern and reformed conception of the treatment of crime and criminals. It establishes a wide departure from practices and ideas governing Cuban penal law during the last six decades. A commission of jurists and lawyers was named by the Mendietta provisional government in 1935, and the code was enacted after a year's work.

The code represents an exhaustive study of penal laws of many nations, and is based upon the promise that the criminal must be reformed, educated and rehabilitated, rather than punished and degraded. One of the most important phases of the law is that governing the administration of prisoners by a supreme council of social defense, with nine members.

Former Palace Cook Now Works Over Farm Store

UPPER SANDUSKY, OHIO.—Mrs. Amos Schoenberger now cooks for her former husband instead of royalty at Buckingham palace, as she did once.

The former Elizabeth Esson, while the palace cook, prepared many roast beefs and Yorkshire puddings for England's "first family."

She was born near Balmoral castle, in Scotland. She entered "service" at the castle while Queen Victoria was visiting Scotland.

Mrs. Schoenberger resigned her post as Buckingham palace cook in 1912 and came to America. On a visit to friends in Marion, Ohio, she met Schoenberger.

HEALTH

Scratch tests give new relief to asthma sufferers; science finds treatment.

By Dr. James W. Barton

IT IS a source of great satisfaction to physicians who treated cases of asthma in the old days to learn that in most cases there is a definite cause for these attacks and if the cause can be found and removed, the attacks can be prevented, or occur less often or in a less severe form.

It is now known that one can inherit the tendency toward asthma or what is known as the asthma-hay fever-eczema complex. When the individual with this tendency comes in contact with certain substances—pollen from plants, fur, feathers, house or other dust—an attack occurs.

As these substances may be always or nearly always about, the attacks occur very often.

The first thought in treatment now is to try to find just what pollen, dust, fur or feathers is causing the attacks.

This is done by means of scratch tests in which the skin is scratched in a number of places and some of the suspected substance is rubbed into or applied to the scratched spots.

If this causes a large red spot the size of a dime or nickel, it is evidence that the individual is sensitive to that particular substance. To remove this sensitiveness (desensitize) the individual is given small amounts of the substance by hypodermic injection or by mouth. The dose is gradually increased until he is able to withstand the ordinary amount of the substance without having an attack of asthma, hay fever or eczema.

Breathing Exercises.

Sometimes it is difficult to find the offending substance and yet the attacks must be prevented, or treatment given when they do occur. One form of treatment is the use of breathing exercises in which the patient tries to breathe out of his lungs every last ounce of air. This gives good results.

Physicians for a number of years have found the hypodermic injection of 5 to 15 drops of epinephrine (adrenalin) quite effective. The solution is 1 to 1,000.

A more recent treatment and one which the patient can himself apply is to take two or three deep breaths of a stronger solution of adrenalin (1 to 100), two or perhaps three times a day.

Some People Immune To Infection

One of the strange occurrences in medicine is to see an individual with a number of decayed teeth and also with infection at the roots of his teeth, yet he is free from rheumatism or arthritis, while another individual, crippled with rheumatism, becomes free of pain and stiffness by the removal of a single tooth with just one of its roots infected. The explanation is that the individual with the decayed teeth and infected roots is either immune or proof against arthritis—his tissues just refuse to become infected—or the organisms, despite their number, are not very virulent.

Should this individual with the infected teeth (or tonsils, or sinuses) have a severe cold, an attack of influenza or any other infection that requires some of the body's fighting forces to overcome it then with much of his power of resistance being used to fight this cold, he may be stricken with rheumatism from the infected teeth, tonsils or sinuses.

May Enter Blood Stream.

Professor Myer Solis-Cohen, Philadelphia, in Medical World, says: "Focal infection (where the infection starts at one focus or point and causes trouble throughout the body) may exist for several or many years in a latent (quiet or harmless) form. Although this infection has caused trouble at its starting point (teeth, tonsils, sinuses) by overcoming the body's tissues at this point, the general resistance of the body is still maintained, so that the organisms escaping from this one starting place—teeth, tonsils, sinuses—into the blood are destroyed before they can do any harm. Eventually, however, particularly after an acute illness or some special strain, the patient's general resistance fails. The organisms then not only infect the nearby tissues but they and the poisons they manufacture may be carried by a part of the blood system (lymphatics) to still other tissues. Now when these organisms and their poison products enter the blood stream they may survive long enough to reach distant tissues and organs—heart, knee joint, gall bladder—whose local resistance happens to be lowered from any cause. The organisms multiply at this point and create toxins (poisons) which damage the tissues.

"It is in this manner that most of the chronic diseases develop."

Concluded from first page.

Ruth Hile, Mrs. Eva Marble, Miss Marion Hopkins, and Miss Erma Flint, besides the high school science and music exhibits supervised by Arthur Holmberg and Arthur Hesbourn.

The arrangement of a large number of antiques before an appropriate background in Miss Edith Carlin's room proved to be an interesting spot and visitors spent many minutes looking at the old iron, carpet-bag, cradle, phonograph, etc. included in the collection. Other teachers on the third floor made helpful displays of work done by their students during the year and parents took advantage of the opportunity afforded to talk with the teachers of their children. These third floor exhibits were directed by Miss Marion Deabler, Miss Ruth Schenck, Mrs. Mary Holcomb, Miss Ella Mae Rike, Miss Verda Zusschnitt, Willis Campbell, Daniel Kroll, and Wesley Dunn.

Shortly after eight o'clock the girls of the home economics department presented a style show in the auditorium. Students modeled their own clothing which had been made during the year. They were assisted by several smaller people who modeled children's clothing. Those in the audience were given a splendid opportunity to see the work of students in this department as the models left the stage and proceeded to walk down the aisle before leaving the auditorium through the door at the back.

June Gilbert, chairman of the style show, gave names of the students as they appeared and added bits of information about the articles which they modeled. An orchestra furnished music.

Throughout the evening refreshments were served to parents and friends in the Home Economics room.

Ways Given to Detect Racketeers.

Facts that reveal how many up-to-date, everyday rackets operate, as reported by the victims are listed in The American Weekly with the June 11 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times. An exceptionally informative article, illustrated in color, and prepared from facts supplied by the victims of swindlers—a helpful article pointing out fundamental rules to follow if you want to avoid becoming the victim of racketeers.—Advertisement.
