

CASS CITY CHRONICLE

Published every Friday at Cass City, Michigan. The Tri-County Chronicle established in 1889 and the Cass City Enterprise founded in 1931, consolidated under the name of the Cass City Chronicle on April 20, 1936.

THANK YOU, GENTLEMEN!

Finishing touches were made Friday by WPA workers on the $75,000 sewage system in Cass City and a project started here late in 1936 has been completed at a direct cost of approximately $25,000 to village taxpayers.

To Village President Eugene B. Schwaderer, who contributed valuable service, and to John A. Sandham, Ernest L. Schwaderer, Frederick H. Pinney, Audley H. Kinnaid, Frank Reid and Ernest Croft, who held the position of trustees on the village council during the period in which the project was under way, local citizens are indebted.

Positions on the village council carry no remuneration and are quite often considered "thankless jobs." If an officer makes a mistake he always hears about it, but for many commendable acts he performs, it is taken as a matter of course, and he's seldom praised.

DISCUSSING THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving holiday has been much in the limelight of late. President Roosevelt proposes to move the date up a week to give more time for Christmas business.

For example, we hear that football coaches, captains and enthusiasts are angry because the change in date interferes with their schedules.

To one who occasionally reads history and has some respect for tradition, however, all of this discussion is pretty much beside the point.

Down through the years Thanksgiving has generally been regarded as a day for worship. That has been its real purpose.

This is not to say, of course, that college football is not desirable. It is not to maintain that holiday business is not important to the economic welfare of our nation.

When that first move was made in 1883, hours of labor were usually 10 hours a day, and in some industries more. Wages were usually low.

LABOR DAY HISTORY.

The Labor Day celebration has a history extending over 57 years. Back in 1883, Matthew Maguire, secretary of the New York City Central Labor Union, corresponded with various labor organizations, suggesting that a day be set aside as labor's own holiday.

The results on the health and comfort of the working population have been very great. The people benefit physically from the added leisure, and with more time at their disposal they become more intelligent.

The power of labor also brings responsibility. If labor uses its power in any industry to obtain such high wages that the people are unable to buy its product, the workers suffer.

In the main labor and capital get along well together. Unfortunately labor troubles occur, but the number of industries where there are no serious disputes far exceeds those in which there is conflict.

When that first move was made in 1883, hours of labor were usually 10 hours a day, and in some industries more.

The troubles which the world has suffered for the past 20 years may be attributed largely to great stirrings of popular discontent.

WHEN DISCONTENT BLOWS UP.

The present situation in Germany grew out of the public discontent with unemployment, debts owed to the victors of the World War, and business and industrial prostration.

We have to look out in our own country for similar popular discontents. If the world gives people no chance to work or earn daily bread, something may blow up.

Several states including New York are considering more rigid tests for automobile drivers. This was a leading subject before the recent convention at New York of the American Vehicle Administrators.

It is claimed that about 65 percent of the country's drivers never had their driving ability questioned.

When that first move was made in 1883, hours of labor were usually 10 hours a day, and in some industries more.

WILL LABOR DAY BE A "MEMORIAL DAY" FOR YOU?

WILL YOU COME BACK—ALIVE?

By Fred W. Braun, The Safety Man.

Labor Day will mark the closing of the outing season and everybody will take advantage of the opportunity afforded to enjoy the final holiday of the summer.

Your best insurance for safety is "Drive slowly—carefully." Don't be in too great a hurry to get there.

Think of it. Last Memorial Day—376 people didn't come back. Fourth of July 450 failed to return.

land was entirely paid for. He has added three more acres to his home and is paying for that now.

"I worked 17 years in Detroit and when I left all I owned was the clothes we carried," Smith says.

"Today we have a small farm planted in strawberries and fruit which is fast developing to the point where it will support us if necessary."

"I haven't been back in Detroit since we left and I can get along if I never see it again."

"Certainly," Smith asserts. "For instance, there's an opening right here for somebody to raise celery just for Cass City."

"I'll kill that guy!" So spoke a friend of mine recently when a driver persistently blew his horn at an intersection.

How many times have you felt the same way? About the most discourteous driving habit people have is to try to "blow others out of their way."

Should he build a home? After some debate, he decided to go ahead. He went into debt for a good part of his material costing a total of $605.

Public opinion should rise against this type of driver until he realizes that courtesy is the keynote of conduct on our highways.

"It's Smart to Drive Carefully."

IN SAFETY!

Five Rules For The

of Safety Children

- 1. First of all, remember what your teacher has told you in school. Always watch and obey your safety patrol boy. He is experienced, and is able to guide you in safety.
- 2. Always watch the traffic on the school hill. Never cross the street when a car is traveling near. Don't take chances!
- 3. When you cross a street corner, be sure to look both ways before you walk. Also look down cross-streets for oncoming motorists.
- 4. If you are playing . . . stay out of the streets. Never run into the street, as the streets are for cars and not for people to play in. Play in the playgrounds and be safe!
- 5. You are unsafe if you walk across the street in the middle of the block. This is "jay-walking," and if you want to be safe you will cross at corners.

Five Rules For The

of Safety Motorist

- 1. The motorist's first duty to his city is to have his car in excellent repair. Don't drive your car if the brakes, horn or lights are defective. Better have them checked!
- 2. Never drive if you are tired. You must always be on the alert. Even then your speed must conform with city limits, and your common sense should govern the use of that limit!
- 3. Safety patrol boys, who wear the white belt and breast band, are your protection against accidents. Obey these boys' signals, the same as you do the automatic signal lights
- 4. Govern your speed and alertness to driving conditions. Never speed when you see children playing. Slow down! Check your speed when children are going to and from school.
- 5. Several states now interpret law to hold any driver hitting a child under 16 years of age for manslaughter. Remember that it is your responsibility. Protect precious lives!

Soliloquy

A small boy's impressions of a bleak, sad world as he prepares for one of life's biggest adventures, the first day of school.

"Shucks, Mother, I look alright. Weren't you there when I washed behind my ears? Besides, goin' to school for the first time ain't like goin' to Sunday school. Anyway, I don't want to look like a sissy. What'd Butch and Skinny say then?"

"Well, goo'-by, Mother, an' I promise I won't be late if Flash can walk part way with me. He doesn't want to stay in that hot ol' doghouse all day, and you and Dad don't pay no attention to him.

"C'mon, Flash, you don't have to hurry so much. It's me that gotta stay in school all day, but you don't care. Just remember you won't be havin' a gay ol' time, either. You go walkin' alone and go swimmin' alone, an' see how you like that. Then you won't be in such a hurry.

"Gee, Flash, why do boys have to go to school? There's a lotta things more important than readin' and all that stuff. Anyway, ol' pal, you'll miss me. Specially when there's no one to throw sticks for you. But you be sure to be here when school's out. Then we kin go for a walk, and I'll bet Ma will be plenty sorry she made me go to school."

Grain Weevils Need Fumigating

Weevils infesting grain bins on Michigan farms are inviting permanent sleep by fumigation.

The bins should have been thoroughly cleaned before harvest, but many farmers caught in the process of threshing millions of bushels of wheat, barley, rye, and oats, found not enough time to prepare the storage bins.

Now, say members of the entomology department at Michigan State College, the only remedy to preserve the size and quality of the grain crop is to fumigate.

Members of the Michigan Agricultural Conservation committee supervising crop insurance and crop loans, are recommending attention to the weevils, as any grain must pass inspection to be eligible for a loan and the quality of the grain under loan must be kept up by farmers until the time the loan expires.

Complete directions for the fumigation process are included on pages 43 and 44 of Michigan Extension Bulletin 180.

"Two rules are essential," says Professor Ray Hutson, head of the entomology department. In fumigating, the bins must be tight to confine the fumes. Tarpaulins, blankets or building paper often are used to confine the fumes. The other rule is to do the job when the temperature is 70 degrees Fahrenheit or above.

Professor Hutson suggests use of non-inflammable mixtures. One of these is propylene dichloride, another, ethylene dichloride mixture, using two pounds to each 100 cubic feet of storage space.

The company was composed of the following firemen: S. G. Benkelman, R. M. Moore, William Fleenor, Roy Halleck, Gid Kosier, N. Kitchen, Louis LaCroix, Ernest and Lawrence Clement, William Seeger, Guy Landon, Roy Hill and Dougald Gillies.

6,000 Farmers in Game Units

A 25 per cent increase in game management farm cooperatives in Michigan this fall is forecast by R. G. Hill, game management specialist with Michigan State College, as work of 1938 shows that on 6,000 farms there were approximately 400,000 acres of hunting land governed by community cooperatives.

Hill announces applications should be sent in before September 20 to enable proper posting and the printing of permit cards.

In the meantime, through county agricultural agents, the services and counsel of representatives of the game division of the state department of conservation and of the extension service of Michigan State College can be obtained for community organization meetings.

Already 26 applications have been received for cooperatives in 1939 and new groups and renewals will be accepted until the September 20 date.

Michigan was first in the nation with a unique plan for farmer organization of hunting areas. The Williamston group began operation in 1929. Since then other communities and counties have taken up the idea and similar groups have been organized in other states.

First to get cooperation of the state department of conservation was the cooperative at Kingston in Tuscola County in 1936. Seventy-five farmers with about 15,000 acres were involved.

In 1937 there were 34 cooperatives formed. Last year hunting areas in 20 Southern Michigan counties were supervised by 66 organized groups. Prime purposes are to control trespass, avoid over-hunting and to aid wildlife.
