Keinath and Whittenburg Elected as Commissioners by the Board.

The Tuscola County Board of Supervisors in session this week, voted to adopt the dual system of control for a new welfare set-up.

Chairman Fred Hutchinson named Supervisors Miller, LaFave and Profit as a special committee to work in conjunction with the county welfare board on all questions of policy and organization.

Chairman Fred Hutchinson appointed Supervisors McAlpine, McFarlane and Burns as a committee to plan WPA projects and to see that projects are carried out.

Supervisors Ackerman, LaFave and Profit were named as representatives of the board of supervisors at the annual meeting of the Eastern Michigan Tourist Association at Bay City on October 12.

The hospital and medical committee were instructed to investigate a contract with the Tuscola County Medical Society and report their findings to the board.

The poor commission reported that the expense for each patient at the county hospital, not counting the cost of food, was $1.07 a day.

Treasurer Arthur Willits was authorized to hire help to assist his office in preparing the tax sale records.

An appropriation of $250 for the potato show at Mayville was made from county funds by the supervisors.

In a report, Sheriff George Jeffrey said his department had killed 172 dogs on which no tax had been paid. Sale of dog licenses by him had reached $876.00. Expenditures in this department totalled $160.70.

Superintendents of the poor reported expenditures of $39,742.52 for the year ending September 30.

Ziobro-Baker Nuptials at Alpena

Gladioli and palms banked the altar while kneelers were of white satin in St. Ann's Church at Alpena Saturday morning, October 7, when Miss Margaret Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Baker, of Alpena became the bride of Stanley Ziobro of Cass City, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ziobro, of Detroit.

Miss Baker, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white satin and the voluminous skirt had a long train, inset with lace, beyond which the bridal veil extended. Her veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms, lace and bows of white satin. Upon her arm she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Lillian Chranze, of Detroit, sister of the groom, wore eggshell satin, while Miss Gloria Mosseau of Grosse Pointe, as bridesmaid, wore gold satin and both carried arm bouquets of American Beauty tea roses.

Edward Nida of Detroit attended Mr. Ziobro as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served the bride party and immediate families in the Baker home and open house was held throughout the day. At six o'clock the same evening, a dinner was served to 60 guests at Twin Acres and was followed by dancing.

For the present, Mr. and Mrs. Ziobro will live in rooms at the Mrs. C. W. Heller home, corner of Seeger and Third Streets. Mr. Ziobro is employed by the Michigan State Highway Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Ziobro are planning to spend the week-end as guests of Mrs. Ziobro's sister, Mrs. Carl Swanson, in Flint where a shower is being planned in their honor.

Les Takes the 'Brakes' without the Alibis

"Getting the breaks helps win many a game," remarked a high school player of many years ago late Wednesday afternoon, "but the way Coach Lester Ross has been getting them they're made with the 'e' and 'a' in entirely different positions, spelling the word as b-r-a-k-e-s."

"Huessner has been out since the Mt. Pleasant game because of injuries, McIntyre has necessarily slowed up because of back injuries, Smith has undergone an appendicitis operation, Spencer was out of the Vassar game because of injuries, and Stine was out of a few encounters because of shoulder boils. They are all first string men and that's just too much grief to hand a coach at the beginning of the season. But there's one thing about Les," continued the old timer, "he never complains; he offers no alibis."

Pollock Gives Graphic Picture of War Situation

Political Science Professor at University Speaks to the Community Club.

Reviewing events in the last World War, Prof. James K. Pollock of the political science department of the University of Michigan, gave a graphic word picture of European conditions at that time and the years intervening in an address before the Cass City Community Club Tuesday evening.

Germany collapsed before the armistice and the victors in the World War, Prof. Pollock said, overstepped themselves in the Versailles Treaty and its terms were utterly impossible to fulfill.

From 1919 to 1933, Germany formed a well-governed democracy and made some of its greatest advances. The depression fell hardest on Germany and the Germans are to blame for Hitler's accession to power.

In late years, the government has interfered with religion, its fine educational system is pretty much wrecked with only four of its universities open during the war period, and with secret police everywhere, it is best not to think out loud and for the people to do exactly as Hitler wants them to do.

In Mr. Pollock's opinion, Germany will go down to ignominious defeat in the present war and that Russia is in it definitely for her.

Fourth Quarter Rally Fails to Save Game for Cass City

Caro football players, accompanied by the school's splendid appearing band and a large group of fans, carried home a 13-6 victory on Wednesday afternoon. The game was played at the City Park here. The first quarter was fast and both teams showed strong defense, no points being made. Dewey did some wonderful tackling for Cass City.

In the second quarter, Cass City kicked on a last down, the ball went outside and Caro took possession in local territory. On the second down, Dillon, carrying the ball crossed the goal line, standing up for the first touchdown of the game. The try for point failed and Caro took the lead 6-0. A few minutes Caro passed from the 20 yard line for touchdown number two. The conversion proved good and Caro advanced their lead to 13 points.

The third quarter showed some excellent ball carrying by McIntyre, Stine and Strickland, backed up by a hard hitting Cass City line. In the first half of the third quarter, Cass City intercepted a Caro pass and ran it to their 30. McIntyre, carrying the mail, advanced it to the 50. A penalty. Turn to page 8, please.

Sandusky Team Administered 27-0 Licking on Friday

An undetermined and over-confident Cass City team was overpowered to the tune of a 27-0 licking administered by a hard driving Sandusky crew Friday afternoon. The local team seemed powerless against the hard charging Sandusky line and were forced to punt. Sandusky brought the ball from deep in their own territory to the Cass City 35-yard line where Ernest passed to Beatty who romped over for the touchdown. Ernest plunged for the extra point.

In the second quarter, after Sandusky had brought the ball into scoring territory, Ernest again passed to Beatty who ran thirty yards to the last chalk stripe. The try for point failed. Sandusky scored again in the second quarter as O. Stoliker broke through and blocked McIntyre's kick which Nichol recovered in the end zone for a touchdown. Ernest's plunge for a point was good.

Cass City threatened late in the second quarter but the march was stopped when Strickland's pass to Butler was intercepted on the Sandusky 8-yard line.

The Cass City defense seemed to be a little more aggressive in the Turn to page 8, please.

INSURANCE RATE ON CROP LOANS CUT TO 3 PER CENT

The interest rate to farmers on all Commodity Credit Corporation loans will be reduced from 4 per cent to 3 per cent per annum, effective November 1, according to an announcement made this week by John M. Reagh, chairman of the Tuscola County Triple A Committee.

The loans on which the reduced rate applies are those which Michigan farmers have taken out on their farm-stored wheat and corn, or wheat stored in federally licensed warehouses.

"Banks and lending agencies holding loans made prior to November 1, 1939, under current programs, will be allowed the interest rate specified in the present contracts of purchase, but in all instances the rate to farmers will be reduced from 4 to 3 per cent," Mr. Reagh said.

Relief Has Become "Big Business" Today

A New Law Enacted Placed the Handling of Relief Back to Counties.

Gene Allemen in State News Letter.

Lansing—Home rule for administration of relief, authorized by the 1939 state legislature as part of an "economy" program, is coming home to roost in more than eighty counties this week.

County supervisors are in session. During the last gubernatorial campaign supervisors urged defeat of the 1937 welfare act. They insisted that a centralized system of providing relief to jobless and unemployables was fodder for a highly trained social worker, yet was a luxury that Michigan could not afford. Local control would lower costs, they pleaded. Many voters agreed.

The 1937 welfare act was defeated, and the problem was thrown into the laps of 1939 legislators.

A new law was enacted whereby handling of relief was returned to counties. The state was pledged to match local payments, dollar for dollar. A three-member board was set up in each county, two members of which were to be named by the supervisors and the third man to be appointed by the state social welfare commission.

This sounds simple, but complications were numerous. Relief has become "big business" in America today.

New Chevrolet on Display Saturday

The 1940 Chevrolet will be placed on exhibit at the Bulen Chevrolet Sales here tomorrow (Saturday). "The new Chevrolet embodies more changes than have been made in any one year in a five-year period," says H. M. Bulen, local dealer.

Three completely re-styled series of Chevrolet passenger cars, combining greater length and width with more massive appearance, and embodying many mechanical refinements, make their formal bow at dealers' salesrooms from coast to coast. Over-all length has been increased, a change which makes the new line outstanding for its sleekness and grace.

In appearance, the 1940 Chevrolet is new from bumper to bumper. Bodies, fender, hood and frame are completely redesigned to embody low-slung grace. These changes result in increased stability since they lower the center of gravity.

New "Royal Clipper" styling, a large car inside and outside, new full vision bodies by Fisher, new exclusive vacuum-power shift, a super-silent valve-in-head engine—these are features of the new models. The new Chevrolet has more than 175 important modern features.

Knee-action and shockless steering are featured in the Special Deluxe and Master Deluxe series.

REDEDICATION OF CHURCH AUDITORIUM HERE ON SUNDAY

The first deacons of the church were John W. Barker, Roswell Webster and R. H. Lewis and the first trustees to serve the church were James MacArthur, R. H. Lewis and Roswell Webster.

The Ladies' Aid Society, organized in 1891, had for its first officers: Mrs. G. S. Riker as president; Mrs. R. Robinson, vice president; Mrs. J. S. McArthur, secretary; and Mrs. S. Edwards, treasurer.

A Sunday School was organized in 1884 with Rev. James MacArthur as superintendent.

During the pastorate of Rev. H. W. Clough the church parsonage was erected, the east wing of the church was built under the leadership of Rev. H. C. Hayward, and while Rev. W. R. Curtis served as minister, many improvements were made to the church building and its equipment.

were nominal. The word "poor," usually associated with "charity," vanished upon the advent of the Great Depression which swallowed millions of workers into idleness. It became "unemployed." Millions of dollars were poured out from Washington to sustain life and to maintain morale on a basis of American decency. State capitals were called upon for legislative appropriations.

To prevent possible political misuse of relief millions, the social worker was glorified in a big way. Relief applicants had to be certified as to need, and that meant careful scrutiny by trained investigators. Salaries increased as responsibilities grew; payrolls mounted as more millions were spent; the entire administrative overhead sprung up like a mushroom.

The old relief system, keyed to a limited need, was put into total eclipse by a highly centralized system focused on Washington and Lansing.

During the 1938-39 fiscal year the state spent approximately $15,000,000 for direct relief alone.

This was a lot of money. A deficit in the state treasury was one result.

Economy

The 1939 legislature, heading demands for economy and hoping that local control for relief would aid in realizing this objective, passed a law that gives the county supervisors the whip hand with certain limitations.

First, the act attached a string to the "home rule" proviso by requiring counties to pay the cost of local administration—an expense which the centralized system (or state control at Lansing) had previously borne.

Second, more administrative responsibility meant more financial responsibility. That called for raising the "ante" in some counties which had coasted along, letting the state carry most of their load.

Third, a practical limitation was imposed by an arbitrary slicing of the fiscal relief appropriation (1939-40) from $15,000,000 to $8,750,000, or a reduction of nearly one-half.

True, legislators prayed that business would pick up, that the new plan would effect new economies, and that counties would absorb the balance of the need. The present state social welfare commission, headed by Walter F. Gries of Ishpeming, has turned a deaf ear to occasional cries for a special session of the legislature. Even Mel McPherson, unofficial state spokesman for the supervisors, has admonished counties to prepare to carry their part of the load. Having asked for home rule, supervisors were told to shoulder the new responsibilities cheerfully. This they are doing for the most part, although grumbling profusely and loudly against Washington's hard-boiled attitude that spending of social security money (unemployment compensation, old age assistance, etc.) must be done only by persons hired under federal civil service standards.

Matching Plan Is Out

The legislative intent, as expressed in the law, was that the state should match relief dollars of counties. It was thought at the time to be insurance that counties would do their part in a decentralized program.

However, just the unexpected happened. In Wayne County, for example, the 50-50 plan was hailed with delight. Wayne County had been doing more than a good many upstate counties. With only $8,750,000 on hand to spend, state officials realized the matching plan would quickly exhaust their 12-month appropriation. This part of the law has been openly ignored, and probably will not be enforced by the present commission.

A hitch also developed between the supervisors who wished to control the spending of all relief funds and the social security administration at Washington which adhered strictly to a policy of hiring skilled, trained workers on a non-partisan, civil service basis, thus minimizing any chance of political mishandling of federal or state funds.

Supervisors proposed, in some counties, to engage a single director whom they would hold responsible for administration of all welfare funds—direct relief by the state and county governments, unemployment compensation and old age pension jointly by state and federal governments, and so on.

Washington was unyielding to suggestions for an integrated system unless it was established according to civil service requirements.

And there hangs another interesting hitch in the Michigan welfare situation today.

Civil Service

This Saturday, October 14, written tests will be conducted by the civil service commission for social workers and social work administrators who are to handle the social security money.

The minimum requirements for a social work administrator under federal standards are these: "Four years of experience in social welfare work in a public or private social agency, one year of which shall have been in a responsible administrative capacity and completion of two years of college training including or supplemented by courses in the social sciences.

Higher classes for social work administrators (to be hired in large counties) call for six years of experience as a social welfare administrator and up to four years' college training.

It is said on good authority in Lansing that not one county supervisor in Michigan could possibly qualify for the job of relief administrator under these conditions. The result was inevitable.

Dual System Favored

Because of the civil service standards which automatically ruled out the average local official, most of Michigan's four-score counties are going to adopt what is known as the "dual system."

Under this plan the three-man county welfare board will either become a working board whose members draw annual salaries and devote their full time to their duties or will become a policy board with per diem allowance and with the actual work being done by full-time administrators.

Federal-state funds (social security) will be expended by persons who meet federal civil service standards.

State-county funds will be handled by persons who meet requirements established by the local county board.

This, in brief, will constitute the "dual system."

For example, Genesee County has a three-man working board. One man will administer direct relief. Another will be in charge of hospitalization, infirmary, and other services. The third man will be responsible for the social security funds—unemployment compensation, old age assistance, and so on.

Each administrator will get $3,000 a year salary.

Unless Washington rules otherwise, the social security administrator must meet rigid civil service requirements for a competent, trained man in the field of social welfare. Supervisors can pick who they please for their two members on the board, and the state commission is expected to concur in their recommendation for the third man who is to represent the state in welfare activity. But the social security administrator must hurdle the civil service tests of proven competency.

Short Courses to Open October 23

Forty-sixth year for short courses in agriculture at Michigan State College opens Monday, October 23, with what likely will be a record enrollment. Scholarships alone will bring 190 to the campus at East Lansing this fall and winter to enable studies by rural men and women from the age of 16 and up.

Success of past seasons keeps the 1939-40 schedule of courses practically intact, reports R. W. Tenny, short course director.

Opening courses are the first and second year 16 weeks' course in general agriculture for terms which will run until March 1. Later there will be nine other courses of eight weeks' duration. These begin January 2 for special study in general agriculture, in agricultural engineering, commercial fruit production, dairy manufacturing, dairy production, forestry and wildlife conservation, home economics, poultry and practical floriculture.

Special courses for 120 young men and women from Southwestern Michigan counties are being made possible by the Kellogg Foundation. Thirty boys are now on the campus through scholarships provided by the National Youth Administration for study in classrooms and laboratories in the agricultural division.

Since the opening winter session in dairying in 1894, nearly 17,000 have received certificates or diplomas from the college short course. Livestock and horticulture study was added in 1896 and cheese and butter production in 1897.
