It's a Big Coal Pile That Has No Ending

And there are very few of us who are able to command such a huge pile of coal. However, we have a solution that might help out.

When you burn low grade coal it seems like the only thing done is a continuous buying of coal to replenish that which has gone up the chimney.

If you would but stop and consider the mythical coal pile that has no ending, you will find it in a pile of QUALITY COAL that lasts much longer because it gives off that much needed supply of heat units, going farther at actually less cost.

BETHEL, ALASKA.-Eskimos do not accept white people as being urday night and Sunday at her superior but instead are rather critical of them, according to Miss Anna Martin, a teacher here, native and high school graduate of Dayton, Iowa, former student in Universities of Iowa, Colorado and California, now special student in San Jose State college, California. The Arctic schoolma'am has taught eight years in Bethel.

"The Eskimos' attitude toward even missionaries, school teachers and all outsiders, regardless of their superior learning and culture," Miss Martin asserted, "is very critical.

"They are appreciative of the and are scornful of failure. By na- relatives and friends here. ture the Eskimo is brutally frank and childishly naive. Approval or faces."

Aside from this, Miss Martin declared, teaching young Eskimos the three R's and other subjects is no different from teaching other children.

Miss Martin prepared especially Detroit football game. for her northern job by taking the special student courses at San Jose State college.

However, if they don't like a law or if it doesn't seem reasonable to them, they just pack up and move people, they are gentle and law ed the Michigan-Minnesota football abiding.

"The Eskimos put on the teachings of the missionaries," she commented, "like they do a gift of clothing. The new is put on over the old. 'They are usually converted on the surface, but underneath, they cling to their old beliefs and taboos."

Use Sailboats for Oyster Fishing When you eat a North Carolina oyster, in all probabilities it was caught in a manner which has been prevalent for several hundred years; at least as long as man has been eating oysters. Oyster fisherstill depend on sails for motive power, as they drag the bottom of Pamscoops, to scrape the oyster from his lair on the rocky bottom.

Pasture Land Decreases

Agriculture officials estimate that in 1915 it required 96,000,000 acres of farm crops to feed the horses and mules in the United States, but required. Pasture requirements dropped from 90,000,000 acres to 55,-000.000.

Dr. Elliott Addresses the State Grange

Excerpts from an address by Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction, at the annual conference of the State Grange, a religious significance. For that give the following pertinent facts regarding education:

In the thousands of boys and Michigan faces an important problem. This problem is, however, not Thanksgiving days-all in different better schools for country children. confined to the rural areas alone, since many youths who leave school at the end of the eighth grade eventually move to urban centers where they are forced to compete with boys and girls most of whom have had a high school education.

At the same time it is true that the rural areas offer many opportunities in the training of youth. Farm work itself requires youth to accept responsibilities. The closeness to nature gives an opportunity to study conservation.

The task of the teacher, then, becomes one of relating the experiences of the child to the work of the classroom. It is a question of securing the appropriate balance to the end that the individual may learn to act in harmony with American concepts.

The task of the parent is to assist the school in understanding the child. So, in the final analysis, education becomes a day long activity with the home, the school, and the community in close cooperation.

FSA Aids Tenants to Buy Own Farms

An added number of former Tuscola County tenants will soon become landowners through the Farm Security Administration's tenant purchase program, according to John McDurmon, FSA county supervisor, who announced this week that all applications for this year's loans have been turned over to a committee of three farmers for final consideration.

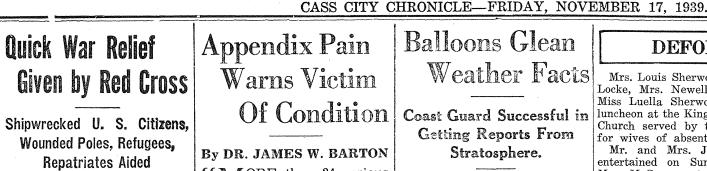

The qualifications of each applicant will be investigated thoroughly and the successful applicants will be requested to indicate the farms they wish to purchase. Preference will be shown tenants who own the necessary livestock and equipment to operate their farms and who may be able to make a down payment. First consideration will also be given to productive farms needing only a minimum outlay for buildings and improvements and which generally can be operated by labor of the owner's family.

Mr. McDurmon explained that this is the second year the FSA tenant purchase program has operated in Tuscola County. Last July the program which provides for fears of distraught relatives. the purchase of farms on a long time payment plan at three per cent interest, was expanded to 14 Michigan counties.

Washington.-The American Red Cross moved quickly at the onset of hostilities in Europe to organize relief for war sufferers and give aid to American citizens stranded in danger zones or rescued from sea-warfare catastrophe.

Red Cross officials pointed out that following contact of German-Polish forces on September 1, the organization made available medical relief for civilians and armies of Poland; provided aid for Americans repatriating from Europe as they landed in the United States ports; granted medical and maintenance assistance to American survivors of the "Athenia," first sea casualty of the war; gave financial aid to the American Hospital in Paris, France, and developed a comprehensive communications system to allay the Norman H. Davis, chairman. cabled the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva on September 1 asking what relief would be needed from the American Red Cross. In a first step in consolidating Red Cross relief forces throughout the nation, 3,700 Red Cross chapters were authorized to begin producing refugee garments and to accept contributions for war relief. A quick response from the Polish Red Cross to Chairman Davis' cable to the International Committee resulted in an American Red Cross appropriation of $50,000 for the purchase of 45 items of medicines, and for army blankets and a quantity of large hospital tents capable of housing 50 stretcher cases each. A grant of $25,000 was also made to the American Hospital in Paris to evacuate American patients from the hospital and to purchase in the United States a 100 bed hospital unit for shipment to the American organization, it was said.

To meet needs which were thought likely to result from bombardment of rural villages and the passage of hostile armies, the Red Cross called upon 21 of its large city chapters to roll surgical dressings of a special new type for European warfare injuries. More than 500,000 yards of gauze were purchased and 40,000 pounds of cotton, enough to make 157,000 surgical dressings. On September 2, the American Red Cross announced it was organizing to meet repatriating American citizens at seaport cities through chapter reception committees. Citizens without resources were given temporary shelter, and aided to resettle in their former homes or work. Between September 5 and 7, the American Red Cross cabled $20,000 through the State Department to help American survivors of the "Athenia," who had been taken into Symptoms which should serve as a warning include nausea, indigestion, vomiting, loss of appetite, flatulence (gas pressure), a sense of heaviness and soreness and tenderness over the lower right side. In a great many cases the dull heavy pain is right in the pit of the stomach, remains there sometimes for hours and then gradually shifts down to the lower right side of the abdomen.

In many ailments—gall bladder colic, ulcer of stomach or intestine, kidney colic-there is both the medical and surgical treatment, but Dr. Leibow points out once more that 'there is no medical treatment for appendicitis. Coast Guard Successful in Getting Reports From Stratosphere.

WASHINGTON. - The United States "weather frontier" has advanced 1,000 miles into the Atlantic as result of a novel stratosphere reporting system inaugurated this spring by the coast guard in cooperation with the weather bureau. With transatlantic commercial aviation imminent, a method of high altitude "observation" is under preliminary test, employing radio balloons, radio meteorographs and receiving-recording equipment. The coast guard cutters Chelan, Champlain, and General Greene are engaged in the experiment, and the collected data are sent to the United States weather bureau for analysis. Conclusions may afford basis for a permanent organization for stratosphere reporting.

Average Year for Icebergs.

There is usually one cutter in the vicinity of Bermuda, another near Fred Ross of Detroit. Nova Scotia and a third along the Grand Banks of Newfoundland. The normal activity of these vessels is the "ice patrol," aimed to protect Mr. and Mrs. Riley. shipping against the icebergs that drift into the North Atlantic. Since this patrol was inaugurated 25 years ago there has been no loss of life in the North Atlantic because of ship collision with ice. The forecast for this summer was for 490 icebergs in the North Atlantic, about an average number.

The cutters are furnished with balloons, each about 15 feet in diameter, each equipped with a radio transmitter. The released balloon sends signals at intervals of several seconds to a receiving device aboard ship, which records in diagrammatic form barometric pressure, temperature and humidity. Findings in vicinity of Nova Scotia or Newfoundland, Grand Banks and Bermuda are correlated for analysis, thus giving insight into the general pattern of northwestern Atlantic weather at high altitudes. The test period will extend to July 11.

The first radio balloon sent up this spring attained an altitude of 35,000 feet and reported a temperature there of 60 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. The balloons have a theoretical elevation capacity of 80,-000 feet and in overland tests have already reached 57,000 feet.

To Aid Island Forecasts.

The view of North Atlantic weather conditions will facilitate weather forecasting for continental North America, as the high altitude findings can be correlated with ships' surface weather reports.

Test flights of the Pan-American Airway clippers have demonstrated the need for the high altitude weather reports, and Gen. Vladimir Kokkinaki, Soviet transatlantic pilot who at Cass City. recently flew from Moscow to the St. Lawrence bay told the United Press that the high altitude weather reporting of all countries is notably of their patients find that from 5 to 10 per cent have gall bladder trouble, and yet it is known that in examination after death about two in every three show that there has been trouble with the gall bladder. Of course, these patients did not die because of their gall bladder trouble but the fact that the bile was not flowing freely from the gall bladder may have been partly to blame for their final illness.

The gall bladder may give trouble in one of two ways. First, there may be a spasm (preventing flow of bile from gall bladder to intestine) which distends the gall bladder. Second, the gall bladder may be too weak or lazy to push bile out, and so again the gall bladder It is believed that before severe

Girl Sees Upside

Down With One Eye JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AF-RICA .--- The case of a nine-yearold girl who saw everything upside down through her left eye was described by J. Raphael, vice president of the South African Optical association, in the organization's official magazine. Raphael said tests showed that her left eye was seeing objects as it would have at birth, namely inverted. She was trained to keep her right eye closed while she drew familiar objects with the aid of the left eye for an hour a day. Recently her condition has been improving, Raphael said.
