Cass City Had $27,000 Fire When the Cass Theatre Burned

Fire of Undetermined Origin which Started on Wednesday Afternoon Destroyed One of the Finest Motion Picture Houses in Upper Thumb; Fire Dept. Saves Other Buildings.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Cass Theatre building and its equipment Wednesday afternoon. The theatre is owned by Schuckert & Schuckert and Harold Schuckert, manager, estimated the loss on Wednesday night would reach between $27,000 and $30,000. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The fire was well under way when it was discovered shortly after three o'clock in the afternoon. Dense smoke in the building added to the difficulty of fighting the flames and the fire department, as the flames broke through the roof, had a hard fight to keep the fire from spreading to nearby business places.

Village President E. B. Schwaderer sent a message to the Caro Fire Department for help and they responded promptly in sending over a supply of hose and other equipment.

Four lines of hose sent water into the burning building and shortly before six o'clock, the firemen had the blaze well subdued and the danger was overcome.

Next door business neighbors to the theatre had reasons to be nervous while the fire was at its height. The A. & P. Store removed its safe, but no merchandise was moved, though a truck was backed up to the front door ready to load if things became too hot. Fire fighters were on the roof of the Fort Confectionery ready to extinguish any blaze which might be kindled in that territory.

Dense smoke poured down Main Street and its immediate neighborhood and the outlook for an hour or so was rather grim and foreboding. Everyone was distinctly relieved when the danger was past and happy over the successful work of the fire department in keeping the blaze from spreading to other buildings.

Will Rebuild.

Harold Schuckert stated Wednesday evening that work would commence at once in rebuilding the theatre here.

Remodeled Four Years Ago.

The theatre, formerly known as the Pastime which the Schuckerts had been conducting for several years, was enlarged and completely remodeled four years ago. On December 20, 1935, it was opened under the name of the Cass Theatre.

The auditorium, after rebuilding, was 28 by 85 feet and seated an audience of approximately 400 people. The stage was 16 by 24 feet in size. Equipment installed at that time included three loud speakers, a double set of projectors and an air conditioning unit. The Cass was considered one of the finest theatres in the Upper Thumb.

Serving Drunk Costly to Pair

For selling drinks to a man who was convicted of causing an accident afterward in which three persons were killed and another was injured, two beer garden proprietors must pay damages totaling $500.

A circuit court jury at Sandusky awarded the damages Wednesday in favor of Harry Jones of Sandusky, the injured man. Jones' car collided with one driven by Merle Cook of Crosswell.

Defendants David Murray of Crosswell and Clarence Pedigo of Peck were accused of selling drinks to Cook while he was intoxicated shortly before the accident.

Circuit Judge Xenophon A. Boomhower instructed the jurors to assess damages if they decided that Cook was drunk at the time he was permitted to buy drinks.

Pending against Murray and Pedigo are similar actions by the estates of Mrs. Viola Brown and George Hill of Sandusky. Floyd Carney of Watertown also was killed in the crash.

Cook served six months in the Sanilac County jail for negligent homicide.—Detroit Free Press.

Rotary Club Visited by Dist. Governor

His Address Dealt with Society's Vocational and International Departments

The Cass City Rotary Club was honored at their Tuesday luncheon by a visit of Henry A. Nordheim, who is governor of this district of Rotary International.

Mr. Nordheim is a utility man from Owosso, a member of the Rotary Club there, and was elected governor of the 152nd District at Rotary's 30th annual convention in Cleveland last June.

Henry A. Nordheim

In his address here, Governor Nordheim spoke on the vocational and international departments of Rotary. Following the general session, President Guy W. Landon, Secretary Arthur Little and other officers and heads of committees conferred with the governor on matters of club administration and activities.

Rotary Governor Nordheim is one of the nearly 200 men who were elected to serve Rotary's 5,000 clubs and 210,000 Rotarians in 80 countries and geographical divisions of the world.

Venison was served at Tuesday's luncheon of the club, E. B. Schwaderer, a successful huntsman of the society, furnishing the meat.

McCoskey Will Speak Here Next Friday

Barney McCoskey, centerfielder for the Detroit Tigers and said to be the "best find" in the Tigers' training camp last year, will be guest speaker at the December meeting of the Community Club on Friday of next week. Members of the football squad will be guests of the club at the dinner.

George Morarity, famous baseball umpire, was scheduled as speaker, but could not fill the engagement as he is obliged to remain on the coast because of Mrs. Morarity's health. President Harbridge excused Mr. Morarity's attendance at the umpire's meeting in Cincinnati on December 5 for this reason.

Bearded Aces Here Saturday Night

Don't forget the feature basketball attraction of the year this Saturday night at the high school gym when the Bearded Aces meet the Cass City Independents. The game will start at 8:00 p. m. and admission to all will be 25c.—Advertisement.

Miss Rabideau, Bride of Calvin Helwig

By Gagetown Correspondent. Miss Velma Rabideau, daughter of George Rabideau, of Cass City, became the bride of Calvin Helwig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Helwig, also of Cass City, on Thursday, Nov. 30, at Caro.

The bride wore a street length dress of plum shade with black accessories and her attendant, Mrs. Dennis Rocheleau, of Gagetown was dressed in navy blue crepe with accessories of the same color. Mr. Rocheleau attended the groom.

A reception was held Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Rocheleau.

The newly-weds will make their home with Mrs. Helwig's grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Rocheleau, with whom she has made her home since childhood.

Previous to their marriage, a miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Dennis Rocheleau and Mrs. Francis Rocheleau at the former's home. The decorations were in the colors of white, pink and blue and a bride's cake centered the table.

Books Purchased for the School Library

According to Supt. J. Ivan Niergarth, approximately $300 have been spent this year to increase the Cass City school library. One hundred seventy-five dollars of this amount was allotted to the grades. These books are used by the students for leisure reading and are supplementary to the regular text books.

The stress in modern education is to give the student more freedom in the choice of his reading and study. This results in more interest which in turn stimulates learning.

New books must be bought to parallel the changes in the world and in the interests of the youth. To make the choice of such books easier various national committees prepare from time to time bibliographies appropriate for children of any age or background.

Among the books chosen for the high school are:

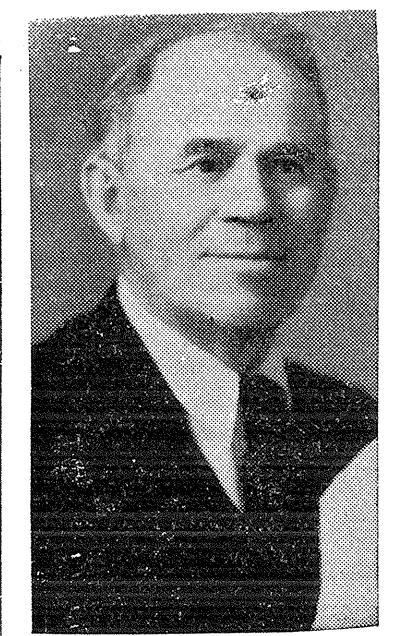

Bartlett's Familiar Quotations.
Byrd, Richard—"Alone."
Curie, Eve—"Madame Curie, My Mother."

Davis—"Farm Enterprise Mechanics."
Edmond—"Drums Along the Mohawk."

Howells, W. D.—"Boy's Town."
LeMay, Elizabeth—"On With the Show."

Louise and Kent—"Two Children of Tyre."
Morrow, H. W.—"With Malice Toward None."
Roosevelt, Eleanor—"This Is My Story."
Simpson—"Crippled Splendor."
Wallace, Lew—"The Fair God."

Youth Center Registrations Will Be Taken Tonight

A Definite Program for Each Club Is in the Process of Formation.

Two or three supervisors for the Youth Center, each with an advisory committee of three members, will be in active charge of five distinct groups or clubs of children and youth for the coming winter months.

The enrollment will take place this (Friday) evening and anyone interested may register between the hours of seven and eight o'clock as members of the group in which they are classified in the public schools of the community.

These groups will meet on five nights a week with a very definite program for each club, as follows:
Monday—Grades 4 to 6, girls, 4:00-6:00.
Tuesday—Grades 7 to 9, girls, 7:00-9:15.
Wednesday Grades 7 to 9, boys, 7:00-9:15.

Thursday—Grades 10 to 12, boys and girls, 7:30-9:45.
Friday—Grades 4 to 6, boys, 4:00-6:00.

Russell Striffler has been appointed as supervisor of the Wednesday and Friday groups. His advisory committee is Rev. W. H. Hastings, Jim Milligan and Daniel Kroll.

Miss Pauline Knight will be in charge of the Monday and Tuesday groups.

Miss Mary Frank and Ludwig Gebnar Wed

A lovely wedding was solemnized at nine o'clock Saturday morning, November 25, in St. Pancratius Catholic Church in Cass City when Miss Mary Jane Frank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Frank, of Cass City, became the bride of Mr. Ludwig Gebnar of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gebnar, of Akron, Ohio. Rev. Fr. E. R. Werm, pastor, officiated.

Miss Frank was very pretty in a gown of white satin made with long sleeves and circular train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of pink and white carnations and baby chrysanthemums.

Miss Emily Orban of Colwood, who wore a gown of blue slipper satin and carried a shower bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, was Miss Frank's maid of honor. Miss Rose Frank of Caro, as bridesmaid, wore orchid satin and carried pink and white snapdragons.

Mr. Gebnar was assisted by Albert Frank of Detroit and Louis Orban of Colwood.

Immediately following the wedding, a breakfast was served in the Frank home, north of town, to fifty relatives and a reception and supper was held at the same place Saturday evening when about 150 relatives and friends were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Gebnar will make their home in Detroit where Mr. Gebnar is employed by the Ford Motor Company.

Guests at the wedding and reception were from West Virginia, Ohio, Detroit and nearby places.

Deputy Sheriff

John A. Caldwell Died Here Tuesday

Former Business Man Held Several Political Offices in Community.

Deputy Sheriff John A. Caldwell, 75, a former business man of Cass City, passed away early Tuesday morning, November 28, in his home on South Seeger Street after an illness of about four months.

Funeral services will be held this (Friday) afternoon in the home, Rev. Henry G. Bushong, pastor of the Cass City Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Elkland Cemetery, Tyler Lodge, No. 317, F. & A. M., will assist in the services.

John A. Caldwell was born in St. William, Ontario, October 13, 1864, and came to Michigan when sixteen years of age. For several years Mr. Caldwell was employed in Bay City where he conducted a house moving and wrecking business. Here he met Miss Sarah Fisher and they were united in marriage on August 9, 1888. Prior to going to Bay City, he had sailed the Great Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell came to Cass City in 1896. For a number of years, Mr. Caldwell conducted a farm implement business here and later became interested in the Cass City Sand and Gravel Company, holding the position of president of that company for several years. Fourteen years ago he was appointed a deputy sheriff of Tuscola County by the late Sheriff L. S. McEldowney which position he continued to hold under the regimes of Sheriffs James Kirk and George Jeffrey up to the time of his death.

Mr. Caldwell had been worshipful master and held other offices in Tyler Lodge, F. & A. M., served as village president and village trustee for a number of years, and also held the office of township treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1938. On the occasion of his 75th birthday on October 13th last, friends of Mr. Caldwell remembered him with a post card shower while he was ill in bed. He received over 70 cards and took a Turn to page 5, please.

Man Burned to Death Saturday

Fire Destroyed Tenant
House on Doerr Farm in Grant Township.

Steve Adamski, 45, lost his life in the fire which destroyed the tenant house on the farm of John J. Doerr, Jr., in Grant Township about 9:00 a. m. on Saturday. He was employed as a beet worker and resided there since the spring of 1938. He had been away for about two weeks and returned to the house Friday night.

The fire was well under way when it was discovered by Mr. Doerr and it was impossible to rescue Adamski. The origin of the fire is unknown but the theory is advanced that Adamski might have started a fire in the stove with kerosene which might have exploded. Coroner Alden A. McAlpine decided death was accidental and no inquest would be held.

Adamski is reported survived by a wife and two children, some of whom reside in Detroit.

Penalty for Theft of Christmas Trees

Free Christmas trees do not grow in Michigan.

The cruising motorist who spies one he thinks would look well in his living room in season, and the trucker who wants to make some quick and easy money, alike are warned that removal of Christmas trees without the written consent of the owner of the land is theft, for which the penalty is $25 to $500 fine and up to three months imprisonment.

Any vehicle bearing a Christmas tree may be stopped by a conservation officer, an officer of the department of agriculture, or a regular officer of the law, and inspection of the bill of sale or written consent of the owner demanded. Permission is quite as necessary in getting a tree growing on state-owned land as for one on private land. No Christmas trees are cut in state forests.

The law protecting Christmas trees is broad in its application and covers all wild trees or shrubs, including the well-liked spruce and balsam.

WILL SPEAK TO CASS CITY ROTARIANS NEXT TUESDAY

Congressman Wolcott.

M. B. Auten, program chairman of the Rotary Club, has announced that Congressman Jesse Wolcott of Port Huron will be the speaker at next Tuesday's meeting of the club at the Hotel Gordon.

Three Traffic Deaths in Three Days in Tuscola

Highway Fatalities in the County Reach a Total of Fifteen in Eleven Months

Three traffic accidents in Tuscola County last week resulted in three deaths of victims of crashes in three days, bringing the total of traffic fatalities in the first eleven months of 1939 to fifteen. Last year similar fatalities reached a total of twenty-five for the twelve months.

Julius J. Carpenter, 44, of Beachwood Street, Detroit, died in St. Luke's Hospital, Saginaw, Thanksgiving Day, a half hour after his automobile had crashed into a tree on the curve of M-15, three-quarters of a mile south of Vassar. The accident occurred at 1:10 p. m. Carpenter died of a fractured skull and other injuries. Mr. Carpenter, a Michigan Central Railroad conductor and a former Caro resident, was on his way to that village to visit his mother, Mrs. Charles Carpenter. He also leaves his widow, a son and two brothers.

Gale Willard, 57, was so seriously injured when his car hit the side of a State Highway Department truck at an intersection two miles east of Gilford that he died on his arrival at the Caro Community Hospital. The accident occurred on Friday at 11:30 a. m.

When the car driven by Stewart Phelps, 47, of Mayville hit a culvert, 3 1/2 miles south of East Dayton at 12:20 a. m. on Thanksgiving Day, the driver was thrown from the automobile and received serious injuries about the head and chest. He passed away Saturday night in St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw. He is survived by his widow and children.

Phelps, accompanied by Dewey Graubner, 44, and Ernest Morgan, 45, all of Mayville, were on a coon hunting expedition when the accident happened. Graubner is in St. Luke's Hospital, Saginaw, in a serious condition with both legs broken, one in two places, a broken arm, and injuries about the head and body. Morgan was taken to his home with one leg and his nose fractured.

JOAN HOLMBERG BREAKS COLLAR BONE IN FALL

Joan, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holmberg, was so unfortunate Saturday evening as to fall down the stairs leading from the first to the second floor of their home on West Main Street. Joan received a broken collar bone and a severe bruise below one eye but is recovering very nicely.

Leslie Karr Buys Half Interest in Folkert Store

Will Be in Active Management of This Merchandise Mart.

G. & C. Folkert have made arrangements with Leslie Karr to buy a half interest in their general merchandise store at the corner of Main and Seeger Streets. Mr. Karr will have the active management of the store.

Mr. Folkert says the store will announce a going out of business sale next week, and after the stock is reduced in size, an inventory will be made between the Christmas and New Year holidays and then the new partnership becomes effective.

Mr. Karr was employed by the Folkert Stores at both Cass City and Traverse City for about two years before he took over the management of the Standard Oil Co.'s service station here. This popular station manager will be succeeded in that position by Lewis McGrath of Cass City, who spent several months as Mr. Karr's assistant at the station. Mr. McGrath takes over the management of the station this week and Mr. Karr will go to the store next week.

G. & C. Folkert entered business in Cass City in June, 1923, when they purchased the store from E. W. Jones. For several years, they have been interested in a line of branch stores in the state. At present, they have business places in Bay City, Traverse City and Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Folkert and two children and Mrs. Clara Folkert plan to leave Cass City early in 1940 and will reside either in Bay City or Traverse City.

Christmas Seals in Mail Next Week

Supt. Niergarth Again in Charge of the Sale of Seals in This Community.

J. I. Niergarth, superintendent of schools, has been selected to serve as community manager of the tuberculosis Christmas Seal sale in territory served by the Cass City Public Schools, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association announced today. The sale is conducted each year during the holiday season to finance the fight against tuberculosis.

Communities will benefit from money contributed to the Christmas Seal drive in numerous ways. The association sends into Michigan schools a special health teacher, one who makes good health fascinating to children. Literature on disease prevention is sent to every county. Educational movies for school and adult programs are available for all communities. In counties equipped to conduct a wide-spread tuberculosis control program the Michigan Tuberculosis Association holds tuberculin testing and X-ray clinics.

Seals will be in the mail next week.

ATTENDING INTER- FRATERNITY CONVENTION

Donald Kilbourn, student at Michigan State College at East Lansing, was home for the week-end visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kilbourn. From November 30 to December 3, Donald Kilbourn is representing his fraternity, Phi Chi Alpha, at the inter-fraternity convocation in New York City. He is one of ten Michigan State students at the gathering.

Pennies for Peace Are Being Contributed

Willis Campbell, district chairman of the "Pennies for Peace" movement, says that contributions received last year represented about 5,000 children and this season he anticipates the number will be doubled. Each school is asked to contribute a penny a child though, of course, lesser amounts are acceptable. Several public schools have already contributed and Sunday Schools are also cooperating.

Contributions of $1.00 or more from schools may be made by checks drawn to the National Council for Prevention of War, and, of course, checks of individuals are welcomed.

A Special Dancing Class will be held every Monday evening at the Cass City High School. Ten lessons for $3.00. All enrollments taken on Monday afternoon.—Advertisement 2t.

TIME FOR CHRISTMAS BUYING.

When does the Christmas buying season begin? Many thrifty persons and many who have foresight say it begins any time in the year when they see a chance to get some article they need for a gift, or for their own use. As things go, most people do not start buying their holiday presents until a short time before Christmas.
If they would all begin the first of December at the latest, they would save themselves a heap of trouble, avoid rushes at the stores, enable the merchants to do business at less cost, and save the store workers a period of extreme nervous strain.
The people who start buying early perform this task under the most favorable conditions. They have time enough to look at the goods, and the store clerks can give them good attention. The stocks have not been picked over by the crowds of buyers, and they come nearer getting what they want.
There is little satisfaction in holiday buying if you find the counters thronged with eager customers, and the store people so busy that they can give only the most hurried answers to questions. That is the reason why many people regret the purchases they make in the rush days. With so many people to wait on, the clerk is frequently unable to display the whole stock to the prospective buyer.
Local stores have in stock what the people need for gift and winter purposes. They have larger stocks than usual, encouraged by the recent revival of business and the general feeling that people have more money to spend. If you have not already bought your Christmas gifts, better make a list today of the things needed and start immediately on your buying campaign.

MEN BEHIND THE FIGHTERS.
Anyone who thinks the United States should get into the war should consider how far strains every resource of a nation. It is said, for example, that for every soldier fighting at the front, it takes 17 men in manufacturing and transport to provide for the needs of one soldier.
War used to be a proposition of a moderate sized army which could be supplied without such vast expense. In these days war has become enormously complicated, and it calls for a vast system of supplies and fighting tools. Practically the whole nation has to work for it behind the lines. You can't thus devote the energies of a nation to war and away from human welfare, without paying a terrific price.

Christmas Dinner
By Katherine Edelman

AS SOON as Darrel Thorpe got a chance to use the phone, he dialed his home. He must tell Edna, how sorry, how terribly sorry he was for what had happened this morning. All the way down on the car he had reproached himself for the hasty words he had said. He couldn't understand how he had spoken to Edna like that, and on Christmas eve.
He drummed impatiently on the desk as he waited. Edna was always punctual about answering the phone and doorbell. It was a way she had, going right through with things.
Which really was the cause of his flash of temper this morning. In her quick, decisive way, she had swept aside his idea of having old Mrs. Darby for Christmas dinner. The little lady, now down on her luck, had befriended Darrel when he had come to the city.
"I'm not going to have her!" Edna had declared emphatically. "We're going to skip Christmas as much as possible—go out and eat somewhere—and miss all the rush and bother."

"I think that's a darn selfish way of doing it," Darrel shot back. "Christmas is a home day, with a turkey, and a tree, and gifts, and above all, someone to share them with us."
Then, without waiting to see the effect of his words, Darrel rushed from the house, banging the door.
Now, he dialed the number three times, but there was no answer. Panic seized him. Had Edna believed that he meant what he had said? He had heard of young wives who had packed up and left for much less reason. What a brute he had been to fare up as he did!
THE morning was unbearably long. Inwardly fuming, he hung up the receiver, to answer an imperative buzzer from the inner office. It was about the tenth this morning. If it hadn't been for Wheatley, keeping him running around in circles, he might have been able to reach Edna long ago. And if the old man hadn't been in the same ugly mood yesterday, Darrel knew that he himself wouldn't have been on edge this morning, that he wouldn't have spoken to Edna as he had done. He blamed Wheatley as much as himself.
"You sent for me," he said stiffly, as he waited beside the desk. The big man did not seem to hear him. His eyes were glued on a closely-typed statement. Darrel spoke again. Then Daniel Wheatley looked up, and rubbed his hand across his forehead as if trying to remember something.
"Oh, yes, yes," he began; "Mrs. Thorpe called before you got to the office this morning. I forgot to tell you. She left word that she was going marketing with a Mrs.—Mrs. Darby, or some such name. Also, she wanted me to be sure to tell you to bring home a Christmas tree and all the trimmings." There was a merry twinkle in Wheatley's usually hard eyes. "Looks as if you were going to celebrate Christmas at your house," he finished, with a laugh.
"We certainly are," Darrel grinned back; "we're going to have a real old-fashioned celebration of the day."
"Think your wife would object if you took a cranky old man to Christmas dinner?"
Darrel wondered if he were hearing things, then his quick wit jumped to the surface. "If you really mean that, Mr. Wheatley, I can assure you of a hearty welcome. My wife thoroughly believes in having people for Christmas dinner. At least, I am sure she does now." The last sentence Darrel whispered to himself.

The big man did not seem to hear him. His eyes were glued on a closely-typed statement.

Setting the Pace
Because the Detroit milk market directly affected farmers in 20 counties and indirectly affected those as far away as near Grand Rapids, Flint, and Lansing, the metropolitan center has set the pace for Michigan's milk industry.
Last May the price of milk in Detroit was 10 cents a quart. Farmer-producers were paid $1.90 per hundredweight for fluid Grade A milk, delivered in Chicago.
The state board held public hearings. A composite audit by Roy I. Brown, certified public accountant in Detroit, showed that Detroit distributors lost $44,415.34 during the first six months of 1939. Retail prices varied throughout the state from 7 cents in Lansing to 12 cents in Kalamazoo, Battle Creek and Saginaw. A breakdown of the dairy industry seemed imminent.
On September 1, the state board raised the farmer-producer price to $2.08 and reduced hauling rates 5 cents, making an increase in revenue of 23 cents per hundredweight. (Producers had asked $2.49).
Then on October 5 the board lifted the consumer price one cent to 11 cents a quart, home-delivered, and 10 cents a quart, "cash-and-carry," a price differential of one cent.
The increase of 1 cent a quart, effective October 5, was split one-half between the farmer-producer and the distributor. Labor received 28 per cent of the distributor's additional revenue.

Who Gets What?
Now comes an illuminating analysis, made by the state department of agriculture and the state milk marketing board, on who gets the 11 cents:
To Producer, income for milk hauled to Detroit.....04
To Labor, wages for milk delivery.....04
Distributor, income for plant maintenance, delivery trucks, etc.....03

Labor's Share
The milk driver, whose hours of work are conceded to be abominable, receives $12 a week plus 14 per cent commission on his sales.
On his "day off," a substitute worker, known as the "swing man," takes over the route for approximately $12 a day. (Union drivers in large cities make from $40 to $50 a week).

Lansing—A peak into the Michigan milk picture is like Alice's first visit to Wonderland.
You run into some unexpected things.

First, is a somewhat paradoxical situation whereby Detroit drivers of milk trucks receive as much out of the consumer's bill for home delivered milk as do the farmer-producers themselves.
Considering the point that labor has no investment at stake for the distributor furnishes the motor equipment and pays for its operation and maintenance, it would appear at first thought that labor was better off than the farmer who must invest and risk money in cows, land, building, equipment and who must dig into the purse for taxes and transportation and so on.
But don't rush to any conclusion. You'll find yourself in a daze; milk economics are not simple as the ABC's.

Murphy's Speech

The state's present venture into milk price-fixing had its beginning, so it is confided, in a speech-making jaunt of Governor Frank Murphy to Uby. The year was 1937, the campaign was on, and the occasion was the dedication of a federally-financed electrical co-op.
Thumb farmers listened to Murphy's oratory with stolid indifference. But when the governor chanced to utter a pledge to provide relief to the dairy industry, the crowd cheered.
The result? A milk study commission. Republicans, not to be outdone, promptly pledged assistance.

The Walsh-Patterson bill, creating a milk marketing board with authority to fix producer and retail prices for market areas was then passed by the 1939 legislature.

Setting the Pace
Because the Detroit milk market directly affected farmers in 20 counties and indirectly affected those as far away as near Grand Rapids, Flint, and Lansing, the metropolitan center has set the pace for Michigan's milk industry.
Last May the price of milk in Detroit was 10 cents a quart. Farmer-producers were paid $1.90 per hundredweight for fluid Grade A milk, delivered in Chicago.

Who Gets What?
Now comes an illuminating analysis, made by the state department of agriculture and the state milk marketing board, on who gets the 11 cents:
To Producer, income for milk hauled to Detroit.....04
To Labor, wages for milk delivery.....04
Distributor, income for plant maintenance, delivery trucks, etc.....03
Yet the Detroit price, home-delivered, is under Chicago and Toledo prices. Toledo consumers pay 12 cents a quart, while Chicago consumers pay 13 cents. (New York prices are 18 cents; Jacksonville, 16 cents).
In Chicago, where milk prices have gone up recently, the city is experimenting with paper containers as substitute for glass bottles which must be returned, cleansed and replaced if broken. New York distributors are experimenting with two-quart containers, thus effecting a saving in delivery costs.

actively for it. Likewise, labor has consistently opposed "cash-and-carry" stores for milk depots because of the obvious threat to employment, eliminating the need for home delivery.
And so the state board was a bit miffed when the Non-Partisan Labor League in Wayne County came out recently, following the footsteps of the county prosecutor in condemnation of the milk price rise. Later it was explained privately that the statement was "unauthorized." Complicating the picture are the existence of four different viewpoints. While producer, distributor and labor divide the revenue, it takes the consumer to pay the bill. Other complications have been a steady drop in milk consumption and a surplus in production. When consumer earnings decline, milk consumption falls. In 1936, for example, milk consumption was 6.89% below the 1929 level.

It's a Big Coal Pile That Has No Ending

And there are very few of us who are able to command such a huge pile of coal. However, we have a solution that might help out.

When you burn low grade coal it seems like the only thing done is a continuous buying of coal to replenish that which has gone up the chimney.

If you would but stop and consider the mythical coal pile that has no ending, you will find it in a pile of QUALITY COAL that lasts much longer because it gives off that much needed supply of heat units, going farther at actually less cost.

Meat and Drink

By OSCAR EKLUND
(Released by Associated Newspapers WNU Service.)

Lucia simply couldn't resist the temptation to stand for a while before the gorgeously decorated windows of the building which she had been in such haste to reach. She had boarded the 7:30 downtown car in order to be among the first to enter the doors, yet here she stood transfixed as usual by the beauty displayed in bold relief was an old Chinese vase; Lucia knew nothing of its value—that its reign mark showed it to be a genuine Ming—but she did know that its old green enamel against that background of dark blue drapery was a thing of beauty which satisfied some need within her. A jolly, fat, round pewter bowl, of which she was particularly fond, was still there, and a duck of an old tea-caddy with brass handles and an ivory knob; some wonderful goblets—Jacobite had she but known it—a pink luster tea-set and an old sampler with exquisite stitching. How she loved them all! She had formed the habit of coming to these windows every time she had occasion to visit this downtown section. Time had flown faster than she realized and so it was that upon reaching the offices of the building she found five men ahead of her. The switchboard operator nodded to them one by one to enter a door marked "Private." While Lucia waited each one of the five came out of the inner room within five minutes of his entrance.

"He wants a man," the girl at the switchboard told her when she asked to see the manager about the position advertised.

"I know, but you see I'm going to try to persuade him that I'm just the person he needs," said Lucia with the friendly, confidential manner that had won her friends ever since she was three years old. "That is," she coaxed, "if you'll only let me see him."

The girl seemed appreciative if dubious. She motioned for Lucia to enter the private office, however, saying, "Good luck to you, dearie, but take it from me, he's no easy mark."

"I came to see about your ad," began Lucia, "for a salesperson in your art shop."

"How did you get in here?" barked a voice from behind a big desk. "I advertised for a man and that—that girl at the board knows it. She's paid to keep people out of here and this is the way she does it." The voice had grown more and more irritable as Lucia made no move toward the door.

"But you really don't know how badly I want to work for you and I thought perhaps if I made you understand you'd let me try."

"Work for me? Why for me any more than for someone else, I'd like to know? I never hire women when I can help it. They can't appreciate things that they don't own."

"Oh, but I do," cried Lucia. "I love your shop," she went on passionately. "Your windows have been just—just—meat and drink to me."

If nothing else Lucia had captured the attention of the manager and owner of the famous art shop.

"What do you mean, 'meat and drink'?" he asked curiously.

"Did you ever," inquired Lucia, "live in one little back room, with horrible red and green and yellow paper on the walls and with battered golden oak furniture and a view from the window of back stairways, milk bottles and grayish-white washings on clothes lines that are worked by pulleys?"

"That's why your windows are meat and drink to me. I love the soft colors of the draperies and the pottery. Of course I don't know the names of the old china and the beautiful glassware, but I could learn them quickly—really I could. There are art books there in the library and I could read them at night."

Lucia was breathless with emotion.

"How old are you?" he asked.

"Nineteen," said Lucia, her cheeks growing redder and her eyes brighter.

"You don't look it," said he meditatively. "It's the short hair and short skirts, I suppose. By the way, what makes you think you could suit me? I've a reputation of being a hard man to work for."

Lucia smiled in her friendly fashion.

"I've always felt that you must love your beautiful things in just the same way that I do," she said eagerly, "and people who love the same things always get along well together."

"If you really mean all that you've said—" he began.

"Oh, I do mean every word of it," interrupted Lucia fervently. "I—I think I've been starved for beautiful things."

"I can use you," was the terse reply.

"I did it," whispered Lucia joyously as she passed the friendly switchboard operator.

While sitting idly at the big desk the bachelor proprietor of the art shop was thinking that of all the women he had ever met in the 34 years of his life Lucia, who had sought meat and drink in his windows, would make the ideal companion for his wanderings in far-off lands in search for the beauty that he loved.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

A MAN NAMED CAXTON

YOU may not remember ever hearing the name of William Caxton, but it was his life which makes your life today comfortable. He it was who introduced printing into England. This was in 1476. The introduction of printing has made all progress possible.

It wasn't until 1638 that America had a printing press, this at Harvard university, but after that printing grew, and newspapers sprang up, and modern American life began.

The printing press is the forerunner of knowledge wherever it is introduced. The printed word, even to this day, has no rival as a quick means of disseminating vital facts and ideas.

The newspaper of today is one of the modern wonders of the world. It is the broadest, quickest, most flexible and most economical way of getting a message into the minds of the people.

Early in our national history, manufacturers and merchants sensed this power of the press. They began using it to carry their advertising facts and ideas into the homes.

These early advertisers were careful business men. The fact that the newspaper would complete the educational process for their goods wasn't enough. It also had to do the job at less cost than any other medium.

And they found, after many trials in different fields, that it did. It got their message to prospective buyers in a manner which was economical as well as effective.

Today this same condition is unchanged. Advertisers, using newspapers year in and year out, find it the most profitable way in which to tell their story to buyers.

The reason is simple. The newspaper is the great common denominator of modern life. It reaches practically every family. It has the confidence of its readers. It stands for everything which is right and good and modern.

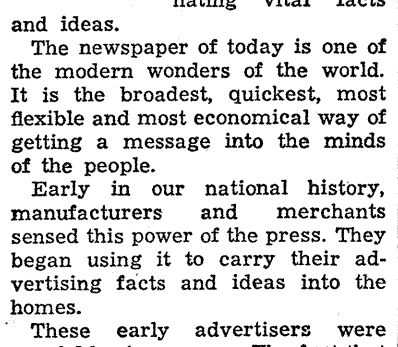

The advertisements in your newspaper are as much a part of its vital importance as the editorial and the news columns.

As a matter of fact, most readers find it hard to tell what interests them most—the commercial news, which is called advertising and which touches their lives every day, or the general news, in news story, editorial and cartoon.

They're both valuable.

This man named Caxton was one of the great benefactors of mankind. He lit the lamp—and it is still burning bright, though centuries have fled since he lived.

4-H STOCK SHOW HAS 141 ENTRIES

rine Goodall, Alfred Goodall, Floyd Dodge, William Ritter, all of Cass City; Stilson Hall, Unionville; Carson O'Dell, Cass City; Edgar Mantey, Fairgrove.

Hereford Steers—Alma Spencer, Kathleen Smith and Alan Spencer, all of Cass City.

Shorthorn Steers—Frances Koepfgen, Evelyn Dodge, Leslie A. Smith and Clayton Turner, all of Cass City.

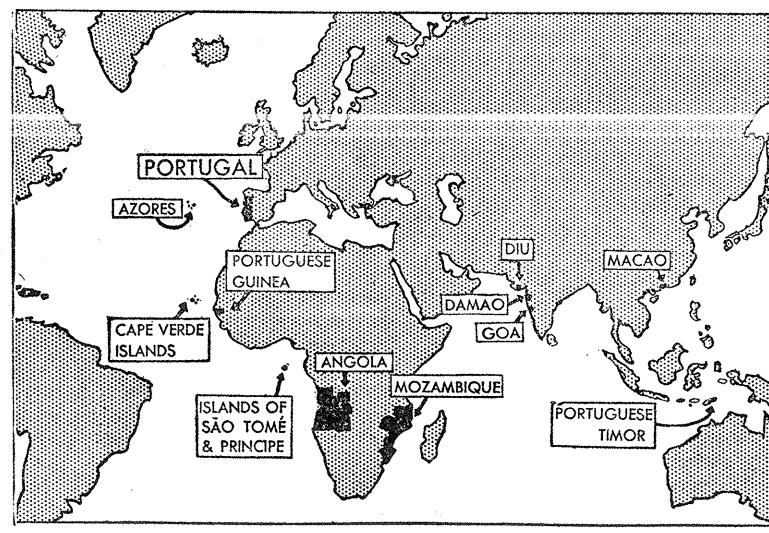

Members of the Cass City Livestock Club have exhibited animals at the 4-H club show since it was started in 1930 and at no time in the nine years did they fail to show a champion. Their most successful year was in 1931, according to Willis Campbell, club advisor, when the club exhibited three champion animals.

Eighty-six of the 4-H exhibitors of the state are to show steers, while 55 exhibitors will have pens of three lambs. Animals are to be at the yards Monday, December 11, for allotting show numbers, judging is scheduled Tuesday and the auction sale the third day of the show.

Tuesday evening at the Detroit Masonic Temple the banquet program, entertainment and dancing annually staged in connection with the show will admit all the junior showmen as guests. Speakers are to include R. J. Baldwin, director of extension service at Michigan State College, G. A. Brown, head of the college husbandry department, E. A. Beamer, state commissioner of agriculture, E. L. Benton, livestock specialist at the college, Val Clare, Detroit broadcast executive, and Nevels Pearson, assistant state 4-H club leader.

Portugal, Former World Power, Begins Recapture of Prestige

South American Republic Orders Vehicles Valued at $3,000,000.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

Recently restricted trade relations between the United States and Argentina have taken another turn, according to dispatches from Buenos Aires, indicating that Uncle Sam is about to sell more pleasure cars and trucks to the South American country. Under a new agreement with the Argentine government, U. S. auto and truck concerns are reported to have signed up for more than $3,000,000 worth of Argentine treasury notes in return for permission to export cars and trucks to Argentina in an equivalent amount.

Argentina is usually one of Uncle Sam's best customers in the automotive field. In the first three months of this year, however, a sharply curtailed quota on United States cars, together with other trade restrictions, resulted in a drop of nearly 50 per cent in all U. S. exports to the Argentine.

Trade Balance Upset.

In the first quarter of 1938, the United States sold Argentina a bill of goods amounting to more than $24,000,000; but in the corresponding period of 1939 U. S. exports amounted to less than 12 1/2 million dollars. Imports of Argentine products to the United States, on the other hand, went up from about 12 1/2 million dollars for the first quarter of 1938 to something over $18,000,000 this year.

These figures show a reversal of the previous trade situation between the United States and Argentina. For in 1938 Argentina bought from the United States more than twice as much as she sold here—a condition attributed then to heavy Argentine purchases of machinery and vehicles.

In addition to automobiles, trucks, and farm implements, Argentina normally takes from Uncle Sam important shipments of American motion picture films, steel, chemicals, office equipment, and building materials. In return she sells chiefly linseed, wool, casein, hides, corn, quebracho logs, and preserved meats.

Competitors in World Markets.

A constant and important feature of economic relations between the United States and Argentina is the fact that they both raise for export many of the same products—for example, wheat and corn, beef and mutton, hides and wool.

The United States itself provided much of Argentina's tools and facilities for the large-scale production that was to make her in time a serious competitor in world markets. From the industrial plants of the north came plows, seeders, harvesters and tractors, together with forests of windmills that now rise from one end of the Argentine plains to the other, pumping up life-giving water for the herds, for small towns, for plantation crops, gardens, and shrubbery. American packing companies moved down to fatten cattle on their own ranches. Seed wheat from Kansas was even exported, to be turned later into still more competition in the world grain markets.

Foreign Capital Built Railroads.

Foreign capital, also exported to Argentina, brought the railways, over which the products of the vast, flat and fertile fields are now raced to port and thence to market overseas.

With millions of yards of imported wire, the great feudal-like estates of the Argentine pampas were fenced in. Settlers came, mostly Italians, Spaniards, Englishmen and Irishmen, with a sprinkling of Poles, Germans, Syrians, and others. Prize lands and blooded stock replaced the wild herds that once roamed these Texas-like plains that stretch for more than a million square miles east of the southern Andes. A live stock census gave Argentina in 1937 a cattle population of 33,000,000 head; some 44,000,000 sheep.

Packing plants, grain elevators, and huge refrigeration systems came into being. Today Argentina has the world's largest refrigerating plant. She exports more beef than any other country, most of it going to Great Britain. She supplies over two-thirds of the world's linseed and more than half of its corn. In wheat export, she ranks after Canada; in shipments of lamb and mutton, after New Zealand and Australia.

Children Give Play for Woman's Club

The Woman's Study Club was favored at its meeting Tuesday afternoon, November 21, in the Cass City High School library when Mrs. A. Schmidt, in charge of the program, announced that under the direction of Mrs. Eva Marble and Miss Roersma, grade children would give a play entitled "Thanksgiving Up-to-date" and also some songs by the lower grades. They were much enjoyed.

Mrs. B. H. Starman, in charge of review of recent plays, introduced her mother, Mrs. T. J. Wadsworth, of Port Huron. Mrs. Wadsworth gave a review of a play, "Our Town," that Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth had seen given on Broadway, New York, in 1938. It was written by Thornton Wilder and he won the Pulitzer Prize in 1938. Mrs. Wadsworth gave a very vivid review and held close attention of listeners. During the business meeting, Mrs. Clayton Hamilton was accepted as a new member.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. L. I. Wood on December 5. The subject is "Religion and Democracy," with Mrs. Chester Graham, Mrs. Hastings and Mrs. A. Moore in charge.

great deal of delight and satisfaction in reading each one.

As a business man and officer, he became widely acquainted in the community and formed a large circle of friends. Deeds of kindness and good will were often manifested in ways in which few, if any other than those whom he benefited, learned of them. Without ostentation, Mr. Caldwell conferred his helpful acts with a rare understanding of human needs.

Besides his widow, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. William J. Wetters, of Detroit; five brothers, Coville Caldwell, Chicago; George, Judson, Oswald and William Caldwell, all of St. Williams, Ontario; two sisters, Mrs. W. S. Sherk, Courtland, Ontario, and Mrs. Clarence McCall of Vittorio, Ontario. He also leaves one grandson, Norris Wetters, of Detroit, a student in Albion College.

FARM TOPICS

FOOD CROP IS EASILY STORED

Average Farm Provides Many Choice Spots.

By H. R. NISWONGER

Most farms provide plenty of choice spots where the family can store ample supplies of fruits and vegetables for the winter.

A cellar, basement, attic, or pit are favorable places to store apples, pears, root crops, dried beans or peas, onions, pumpkins, and squash, studies at North Carolina State college disclose. However, cellars containing furnaces usually are not satisfactory for fruits and root crops as the atmosphere is too warm and dry. Also, cabbage should not be stored in a cellar since the odor will penetrate through the house.

On the outside, hot beds or cold frames provided with a covering of boards and dirt may be utilized for storing root crops such as beets, turnips, and carrots, and for celery, cabbages, and cabbage.

Outdoor pit storage in a well-drained location is very satisfactory for storing root crops and potatoes. Several small pits should be constructed instead of one large one.

Vegetables should be stored in conical piles and covered with straw and dirt. As winter approaches, the dirt covering should be increased. Ventilation may be provided by inserting a section of stove pipe into one side of the pit, extending from the vegetables out through the straw and dirt.

Another section of stove pipe may be inserted on the opposite side. Not only will this provide ventilation, but it will permit the removal of vegetables in small quantities through the pipe. In this manner, the straw and dirt covering will not be disturbed.

After each removal of vegetables, the stuffing used in closing the stove pipes should be replaced. Some farmers erect a temporary board covering or shed over the storage pits to keep off the rain.

Holiness Meeting—An all-day meeting of the Huron-Tuscola Holiness Association will be held in the Nazarene Church at Gagetown on December 8. Rev. Stella Crooks will be the guest speaker at the morning and evening services. Rev. E. M. Gibson will be the speaker at the 2:30 p. m. service.

Mennonite Churches, Cass River Circuit—E. M. Gibson, Pastor. Week beginning Sunday, December 3: Riverside Church—Morning worship, 10:00. Sunday School, 11:00 a. m. Prayer meeting in one of the homes, Thursday, 8:00 p. m. Mizpah Church—Sunday School, 10:30 a. m. Morning worship, 11:30. Evening service, 7:30. Revival services at this church continue with Rev. H. E. Miller preaching the gospel every night except Saturday. You will enjoy the messages of this man of God.

You are cordially invited to attend these services.

Free Methodist Church—Rev. F. H. Orchard, Pastor. Wilmot—Preaching service, 10:00. Sunday School, 11:00. Evening service at 7:30 with Woman's Missionary Society in charge. Mrs. H. G. Fletcher of Snover will bring the message.

Evergreen—Sunday School, 10:30. Preaching, 11:30. Evening service, 8:00. Revival meetings will continue with Rev. A. E. Potbury of Port Huron bringing the message each week night except Saturday.

All are cordially invited to attend these services and worship the Lord with us.

Many Farmers Use U. S. Marketing Aids

More farmers are carrying their problems to the county agent now than a few years ago, on the basis of nation-wide reports from the 3,000 agents of the agricultural extension service. Seekers after information on marketing, for example, numbered approximately 1,200,000 last year—more than double the number of farmers asking for help with marketing problems as recently as 1932.

Most of those assisted were members of co-operative selling or purchasing organizations. Records of county agents show that some form of assistance with marketing problems was given by extension agents in 18,500 communities. Individual farmers and organizations aided handled products valued at more than $640,000,000.

Among the types of marketing counsel most frequently requested by farmers was assistance in making best use of current market information, in locating markets, and in packaging and processing farm products. Organizations asked for similar services, and for assistance in accounting and methods of keeping their membership informed.

More than 100 specialists on state extension staffs spend either full or part time on extension work in marketing. County agents, at work in all agricultural counties, give a share of their time to marketing work, the amount varying in different counties. As with all activities of the extension service, the marketing program has reached its present proportions largely because of the assistance given by 14,000 farmers who voluntarily act as local leaders in marketing work.

Hot-Spot Remover

Farmers near one Ohio town have found that rural hot spots can be cooled off with the right kind of competition, according to the Country Home Magazine. When a local dancing pavilion and tourist camp of questionable reputation began to get on their nerves, a dozen farmers contributed $2 each to hire a group of entertainers. Then they advertised a Saturday night dance with free ice cream and other mild refreshments, and for two Saturday evenings in a row attracted such big crowds that the hot spot was left high and dry. Seeing the handwriting on the wall, the dancing pavilion proprietor now operates his place in a manner which meets community approval.

Surplus products amounting to 1,700,000,000 pounds were bought and distributed by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation in the last fiscal year. The cost, including charges for freight and handling, totaled $66,000,000. Included in the list were 122,000,000 pounds of butter, 3,210,000 dozen eggs, 61,200,000 quarts of fluid milk and 13,900,000 pounds of dry skim milk.

The BATHROOM needs the benefit of good lighting, too!

Ask the man who is shaving how important it is to have good lighting! A bathroom with a single glaring lamp bulb—unshaded—is woefully lacking in proper Light Conditioning. Bare lamp bulbs produce harmful glare, and there is no reason why you should put up with them. A clever new adaptor unit is available that screws into the socket of the ceiling fixture, furnishing an abundance of soft, pleasant light, free from glare and harsh contrasts. You can transform your lighting with a twist of the wrist! The Detroit Edison Company does not sell Light Adaptors. See them on display at department stores, hardware stores, lighting fixture stores or electrical dealers.

Pigskin Dress Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming, Warrens-town, Pa., owns a pigskin dress sent her by a son, Lawrence, who is stationed with the United States army at Cahu, Hawaii. The dress is light blue, trimmed in navy, and was obtained from a Portuguese family in Oahu. WHERE FIRE OF 1881 STARTED. Contributed by A. A. Jones, Cass City, Michigan. Well, it was a long while ago. That our resources were brought very low, yes, it was in the fall of 1881. A fire was started just in fun. The homes, fences and timber were burned. Along with everything people had earned. Their furniture and everything was gone; The people sorrowed, they had no song. The clothes were burned from some backs; And other troubles they did not lack. The skin hung from my father's fingers, too; Covered with blisters; yet he pulled through. Some saw no way to make their escape. So there they died because they got no break. Then their friends they did look on and weep; Tears and smoke together, they could not sleep. Some people were seen going with their dead. To their lonely graves with bowed heads; They returned to where they loved to be; The appearance of home they could not see. Six families in cane-patch of W. J. M. Many similar gatherings in the fire zone. Richard Meredith was there, his clothes were gone. From blisters and pain he called loud and long. He called for his friends, he called for his wife; None came to help save his life. But he lived and did not die. Until his many years had passed by. Care came from my brother and I; With a rug we covered him and sighed. Removed to Dr. McLachlan for medical care; There he recovered everything was fair. My father removed to Dr. Green. But changed to Dr. Smith, all was serene. The whole fire zone had similar things; But hope and ambitions raised people's feelings. Time went on, there was no welfare. But relief came, kindness gave from its share. With this help, it was quite a little; But with all the sum; what a pity. Where did it start? Who set the fire? I called a short time ago upon one Who told me the story; he lives near the spot. SEP. Sec. 18, Almer Township, Tuscola County. Between Caro and Fairgrove. A couple of boys made a stump fire with birch bark. That finished on Lake Huron Shores. The boys were sorry, but it was on the way. And could not be stopped; until it hit Lake Huron water.
