Jury Decided Tuesday Maxson Is Not Guilty

Rugenstein Is Awarded a $1,012 Judgment Against the H. P. Orr Estate.

"Not guilty," spoke Ivan Heckroth, foreman, in announcing the decision of the Tuscola County Circuit Court jury after they had filed into the court room late Tuesday afternoon. The jury had spent the greater part of the day in listening to the testi-mony of persons called in the case of The People vs. Robert L. Maxson of Saginaw and hearing the pleas of the attorneys for the state and the defendant.

Mr. Maxson was called into court to answer to the charge of negligent homicide following the death of Ruth Esther Lounsbury, Cass City High School senior, who had been killed when she was struck by the automobile driven by Mr. Maxson. The accident occurred on May 6, in front of the home of Miss Lounsbury's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Lounsbury, 1¾ miles west of Cass City, directly after the student had alighted from a school bus and was crossing State Highway M-81 to go to her home.

The jury deliberated about 35 minutes before announcing their decision. Members of the jury were Ivan Heckroth, Earl Walker, John Hile, Will Tomlinson, George Mahnke, Jay Stratton, Ewald Ill, Henry Palmer, Carl Chambers, Lee Dillon, Albert Kopeshke and James Scott.

In the circuit court on Monday, Theodore Rugenstein of Linwood was awarded a judgment of $1,-012.50 by a jury against the Estate of Herbert P. Orr, deceased, late of Caro. The verdict was returned after the jury had deliberated nearly an hour.

The plaintiff had asked for $1,-577.50 for losses sustained in an automobile accident of last August 14, when the truck he was driving loaded with gravel, and the automobile driven by the late Senator Orr collided at the intersection of on Friday Evening.

Despite rainy weather, a good proportion of this community's attended the local population school exhibit on Friday evening, May 24, and were rewarded with a parade of educational and entertaining displays. Various carefully prepared rooms, exhibiting modern school teaching methods and their results, attracted people of many different interests. For those who liked the mechanical things, the Shop had many practical projects; for those who were interested principally in farming, there was a demonstration of halter-making and egg-grading in the Agriculture Room, where boys made halters for the nominal sum of 25 cents. Child of Five Was Killed when Hit by Auto Monday

Accident Happened on M-53 in Front of Parents' Farm Home.

Richard, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Collins, of Evergreen Township, was killed shortly after noon Monday, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Frederick H. Morris of Cass City. The accident happened in front of the Collins farm home on M-53, six and one-half miles south of the junction of M-81 and M-53.

Mr. Collins, who owns land on both sides of M-53, was employed in fixing a fence across the highway from his home which is situated on the east side of the road. and the boy was struck by the automobile as he was crossing the cement highway from his home to reach his father.

With Frederick Morris were Ferris Kercher and Edward Graham. All three young men were returning to Dearborn where they are employed by the Ford Motor Co., after spending the week-end at their parental homes in Cass City. The injured lad was rushed to the Morris Hospital in the Morris automobile by the young men. The boy was stricken by death before he reached the hospital here.

State police investigated the accident and were told that the driver sounded his horn and applied his brakes when he noticed the child crossing the road. The machine was turned partly off the cement road to avoid hitting the boy. Coroner H. T. Donahue of Tuscola County was asked by Sheriff Ace T. Campbell of Sanilac County to assist in the investigation and it was decided that no coroner's inquest was necessary.

The child's injuries included a pasilar skull fracture and the fracture of two bones in the left leg Turn to page 4, please.

Upper Thumb Track and Field Meet Held Today

Caro, Cass City and Bad Axe Should Provide the Strong Competition at Meet.

The 13th annual Upper Thumb Track and Field meet will be held in Caro Friday, May 31. There will be nine teams competing in twelve events to determine the track and field champion of the Thumb. This meet promises to be one of the best in recent years because of the comparative strength of all teams. In the regional meet at Flint two weeks ago, Caro and Cass City both had 151/2 points and Bad Axe had 141/2. Bad Axe is considered a favorite this week because of a better team balance.

Smith of Cass City placed third in the state meet at Lansing last week-end by vaulting 11 feet 3 inches and this Friday will be shooting at the Upper Thumb record of 11 feet ½ inch held by Glen McCullough of Cass City. The preliminaries will start at 9:45 a.m. with the finals being run in the afternoon.

Iron Wood

Henry Giese, of Iowa State college, recently reported that a typical Iowa farmer now finds use for 6,000 square feet of plywood in constructing his buildings, and that he could readily employ 10 times that amount. In making plywood, thin ribbons of wood are peeled from huge logs, like a roll of wrapping paper is unwound, laid alternately crosswise, and glued together. This takes advantage of the strength along the grain as well as that across it, thus yielding a product that is stronger than ordinary wood. By using plywood, you can economize on timber.

YOU'VE NEVER

MORE DELICIOUS MEALS!

*/OU'VE heard and read a great deal about electric cooking-its better flavor, healthfulness, superiority—and now you can enjoy it economically with one of these compact electric cookers. At a cost of about 2c, you can prepare an entire meal at one time in the cooker-two vegetables, a roast, potatoes and gravy.

Waterless cooking at its best

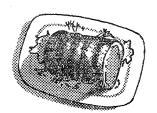

You'll maryel at the difference electric cooking makes: Meats and vegetables cook to melting tenderness in their own juices, with very little water.

Important minerals and food values are SEALED-IN, instead of being boiled away or poured down the sink with excess water.

Cooks even cheap cuts of meat to tenderness

You can save money on meat bills, too, by buying cheaper cuts and cooking them electrically. And your family will compliment you on the cakes and pies and pastries you can bake in the cooker. An accurate heat control eliminates guesswork and assures successful baking results time

80,000 OF YOUR NEIGHBORS now use these electric cookers. See them on display-in many different sizes and models—at furniture and department stores, hardware stores, electric appliance dealers and all Detroit Edison offices. The Detroit Edison Company

More practical than ordinary paints for the purpose, special cement paint contains no material that would be affected by the chemical action of lime, alkali or water. Wars Ball Up Foreign Trade

United States Loses Normal Exports, but Gains On Tanks and Planes.

WASHINGTON .- War is playing havoc with international trade. As hostilities continue on two continents, trade experts are kept busy revising trade reports.

"Uncle Sam's current exporttrade reports reflect rising orders for tanks and airplanes instead of apples and wheat; lumber instead of pork; machinery instead of tobacco," says the National Geographic society.

"Great Britain is shifting her orders for raw materials and foodstuffs to regions within the empire wherever possible, concentrating on such surplus items as Australian wool, meat, and dairy products; New Zealand's butter, cheese, and lamb; Canada's copper, lead, lumber, and bacon. Germany, cut off by allied blockade from the usual flow of overseas supplies, is seeking her necessities from nearby continental sources.

"In some cases one war's trade has slowed down that of another. Japan's supplies of chemicals and minerals, for example, needed to carry on the Chinese war, have been inconveniently reduced or cut off altogether from a Europe conserving its own war materials. The blockade against the Reich has curtailed Japan's delivery of Manchukuoan soy beans in exchange for machinery, chemicals, and construction materials. Embargoes by western belligerents against Japan's toy exports and other wartime nonessentials have blocked the outlets for a large share of Nippon's foreign trade

Unsets Trade Streams.

"Neutrals as well as belligerents have inaugurated various national economic policies that have upset former international trade streams. Turkey, for instance, by failing to renew her clearing agreement with Germany, has discontinued a large business amounting roughly to half of the nation's foreign export commerce. Following recent international financial and commercial arrangements, Turkish exports, such as dried fruits and tobacco, are now postmarked for the allies.

U. S. Tobacco Bows to Turkish Leaf. "American tobacco is an economic casualty of this new trade movement from Turkey to Great Britain. By eliminating purchases of United States tobacco in order to 'smoke Turkish,' England has at one stroke dried up at its source an annual shipment across the Atlantic of more than 200,000,000 pounds of tobacco. Other commodity upsets resulting from British war economy have occurred in the exports of such American food products as apples, pears, and wheat, now replaced by crops of the empire.

"On the other hand, since the outbreak of European hostilities, increased sales to Great Britain and France of American airplanes, iron and steel products, oil, chemicals, and rubber, have given impetus to new trade currents that offset (in dollars at least) the lost farm-product markets. In December, 1939, total United States exports advanced some 37 per cent over those of the preceding December.

Widespread Dislocations.

"Manufacturers around the globe are feeling the strain of war-born trade dislocations. Italy's artificial fiber producers, for instance, are facing a problem of diminished cellulose supplies usually imported from Finland and Sweden. "The disruption and rerouting of commodity lanes has sometimes resulted in specific local gains. Such is expected from the shift of cacao markets, offering new sales opportunities in the United States for Latin America's cacao-producing led by a drum and bugle corps from countries, notably Brazil and Ecua-

"In British Malaya, India, and the Netherlands Indies, where war has hammered other normal sources of supply, improved markets are now reported for United States specialties, such as machinery, iron and steel, radios and other manufactured goods.

"Following the co-ordinated-economy agreement, the United Kingdom and France are giving preferred treatment to allied products and services.

"Canada is buying more cotton textiles from the United States, less from Great Britain, as the mother country concentrates on war-materials production. The United States is taking more newsprint from Canada, as shipments from Europe have decreased.

"With Germany's overseas commerce practically at a standstill, the trade of the Western hemisphere as a whole has undergone a dramatic change, in kind and direction. England has taken over much of the Reich's Latin American business, while in the first three months following the European war declaration, Uncle Sam's sales south of the Rio Grande increased by some 40 per cent."

Migrant Labor Seen as Pariahs

Study by WPA Finds Roving Agricultural Workers Are Ostracized.

PHOENIX.—Stories of exploitation and social ostracism of migratory workers presented in "The Grapes of Wrath" and other works of fiction are closely paralleled in a report on migrant families prepared by PWA research workers.

The report, entitled "Migratory Cotton Workers in Arizona," gave a detailed account of the activities of 518 migrant families in this state early in 1938.

It said homeless workers were attracted to Arizona by distorted advertising, only to find below subsistence wages, unsanitary living conditions, and social barriers as rigid and inflexible as to be found any-

Seek Cheap Labor.

"Although Arizona's most valuable crop (cotton) cannot be harvested without them," the report said, "itinerant cotton pickers are regarded as pariahs, and farmers feel their children are degraded by contact in school with poor migrants."

The report said as much as \$300,-000 had been spent by Arizona producers in a single year to attract a cheap labor supply to this state. $\label{eq:mediums} \mbox{Mediums usually used were display}$ advertising in newspapers, hand-bills, and publicity, all promising good pay, good living conditions in the camps and a "healthy, salubrious climate."

"Actually," the investigators rerily provide only a meager day-today existence at best, and the workers have no reserves to tide them over slack times."

Average earnings of a cotton picker were found to be about $6 to $8 N. J., in Clinical Medicine and Sura week, and only in one instance was a worker able to earn as much as $16 a week. Large families with four workers or more averaged a gross income of $18.38 for a week's

Willing to Work.

The report presented a scene of poor living conditions in the camps, describing them as "filthy, makeshift collection of shelters, frequently lacking even elementary sanitary facilities."

Many migrants must appeal for direct relief upon completion of the harvest, the report said, because their meager earnings will not carry them as far as the next area where a harvest may be under way.

"The migrant's plan for further movement at the end of the season reflects his bewilderment and hopelessness in a situation where few had enough money to go anywhere. "The very fact of this migration is an indication of his will to undergo hardships for the sake of a job. The migrant workman is not a relief applicant by choice, but by bitter necessity."

Dental History Gives 'Why' of Decayed Teeth

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON (Released by Western Newspaper Union.) HEN the school report shows that the majority of school children have some physical defects, parents may be alarmed until they see that TODAY'S 90 per cent of these defects are decayed COLUMN teeth. As there are a number of children who have defects of the teeth, it would be interesting to know how they have preserved their teeth from decay.

Doctors H. G. Miller and D. M. R. Crombie in the Lancet, London, tell of their endeavor to trace some of the grosser factors causing tooth decay. They examined 25 children from ten to fourteen years of age with no decayed teeth, and no history of decay in their permanent teeth, and compared them with an equal number of children showing severe or gross decay of teeth, but similar in other respects.

Hygiene, Diet Important.

There was no difference as far as between the two

What are the lessons learned from the above test? First, that while it was helpful to have parents who had good teeth, this was not as important as the proper diet and proper health habits of the youngsters themselves. Thus fruits and leafy vegetables and all dairy foods-milks, cream, butter-the protective foods, are of great importance in preventing decay of teeth. Other good health habits affecting the teeth are outdoor play and proper rest. Second, that other things being equal, natural infant feeding is better than artificial feeding. Third, the absence of severe illness and not having the infectious ailments of children too early, also helped preserve the teeth.

That is, every organ has one or two jobs to do. Dr. Robert G. Contrell, Englewood, > gery, says: "Not so with the liver, for there is hardly a part of the body that is not directly or indirectly affected by the functioning or working of this large gland.

Liver Has Many Activities.

"It is conservatively stated that the liver has from 60 to 100 distinct activities, and that every other important system-circulation, digestive, nervous and others-is definitely influenced by its activities."

All the blood from the digestive apparatus-stomach and intestineis carried to the liver to be filtered and cleared of harmful substances before it goes back to the heart to be sent to lungs and thence to the heart to be sent to all parts of the body. The blood must not only get rid of carbon dioxide and be enriched with oxygen by means of the lungs, but before it can do all its work of building and maintaining the various tissues it is made fit by the liver to destroy harmful products in other fluids of the body.

It has long been said that life depends upon the liver; it might well be said that "your everyday health depends on the liver.'

Generally speaking, the liver processes can be kept "more active" by bending exercises keeping the knees straight and by deep breathing exercises. For those who cannot exercise, the physician can now prescribe some safe and helpful preparations to make liver cells more

At Washington where a vast aviation program is being rushed to legislative completion, military experts decry the lack of trained ground mechanics as a serious barrier to immediate realization of the world's foremost air force as recmmended by President Roosevelt.

In this situation of national emergency it is a sad commentary on government and democracy in particular, that with all this feverish appeal for trained workerswho incidentally command good pay-government has done comparatively little to rehabilitate the idle thousands on public relief and the idle thousands inside prison walls to fill jobs such as these.

The state social welfare commission is reported to be fully cognizant of the need of rehabilitation for family heads in those areas of northern Michigan, outside the industrial belt. But the state has a deficit of approximately 30 millions; the legislature reduced the relief appropriation, and you can't spend money you haven't got. The prison situation appears to be somewhat different. Therein lies an interesting story -one that is off the beaten track. It is the story of Michigan's "forgotten men"—the 7,500 inmates of

5,000 Prisoners Idle

When citizens commit wrongs against their fellows, justice decrees they must be punished. Minor offenses bring jail sentences or fines; major offenses bring incarceration inside prison walls. In Michigan's three prisons-Jackson, Ionia and Marquette-are 7,500 men. They are serving time ranging from a year to life.

Approximately 950 out of the 7,500 are "lifers."

What do these 7,500 men do? Are they kept busy at useful tasks? Are they given an opportunity to rehabilitate themselves, to maintain their vocational skill? Here is the answer:

Out of approximately 6,500 prisoners who may be eligible to ultimate parole or release, only 1,500 are given employment in prison industries.

Today there are 200 prison inmates, already paroled by the state for good behavior and conduct, who are denied the privilege of freedom because they cannot find a job outside.

An Old Question

goods and where they should be sold has beset many state legisla-

Until 1935 the state of Michigan permitted prisons to sell products of state industries in the open market. It was what the Michigan furniture industry considered to be competition with private industry -sale of prison-made furniture to state institutions-that led to adoption in the legislature of a new law. This law permitted the state to purchase its products anywhere, presumably at the lowest price according to specifications. Only binder twine can be sold in the open market for private use.

In New York and 12 other states it is compulsory for state departments and institutions to purchase such equipment, as could be manufactured to meet specifications, from state prisons. The argument is that the state should use its own agencies to reduce its own costs, and all this in the interest of the

"Out of 490 men who have been employed at the Jackson prison textile mill, 200 have just been laid off due to lack of state orders.' said Mr. Burke whose offices are at Jackson. "These men go back into their cells, idle and unproductive. In the meanwhile, state purchasing agents are buying textile goods elsewhere.

"The law requiring men to have jobs before being paroled is sound. But at the same time it fails to provide that these men prepare themselves while in prison to assume their places again in society. Our prison program has been negligent in this regard. Require prison inmates to do something that will teach them the habits of industry; make them self-supporting and you will improve their attitude toward

Industry Critical

Michigan manufacturers have been critical of prison industry. The low cost of prison labor, 10 to 25 cents a day, is an emblem of 'unfair competition," they say.

But in the meanwhile thousands of prisoners are in idleness, supported by society itself and denied the privilege of learning and practicing a useful trade.

Here is the old problem. Shortage of skilled labor in private industry and the constant rise in cost of government merely puts it into sharp focus once again.

War Toughens Man's Job Of Protecting Horses

LONDON.—Wars and crises have greatly increased the work of a Briton who has devoted 42 years to protection of animals in Italy. Since 1937 he has directed his work from a London nursing home. Commendatore Leonard Hawksley receives a large subsidy from the Italian government. Italy is short of horses due to the wars in Ethiopia and Spain. Wherever possible they are used instead of motor trucks, because gasoline is 90 cents a gallon. Horses are being worked to death, he says, and others are being starved through lack of fodder.

> Car Muffler Blow Out Why should the muffler blow out when the car is allowed to coast with the gears engaged and the ignition cut off. It happens this way: The running engine draws fuel, which, due to the absence of a spark, is not fired. The gasoline thus escapes from the combustion chamber in a liquid state and runs down into the muffler. When the ignition is turned on again, the tremendous heat of the exhaust gases ignites the gasoline in the muffler causing it to explode.

Origin of Derby

The bowler hat, known in this country as the derby, got its British name through having first been made more than 60 years ago by William Bowler, of St. Swithin's Lane, London, to the design of a Norfolk farmer. The bowler or derby is popular in Britain and has many adherents here. The bowler is a symbol of solidity. The high silk hat represents lofty social standing. John Hetherington invented the 'topper' in London some 140 years ago. When he first wore it he was arrested for inciting a riot; the complaint was made that timid persons were frightened by its sheen.

Washington Patterns Future After Original L'Enfant Plan

Spring Brings Influx Of Tourists to Capital

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service. The spring tourist trek is descending on Washington. The Capital City has changed so rapidly in the last decade through a $200,000,000 government building program that even those who live there have difficulty keeping track of the shifting scenes.

The problem faced by the commission of fine arts and the builders of the new Washington is twofold. In carrying out the plan of 1901, worked out to incorporate virtually all that was feasible in Major L'Enfant's original plan, they are striving to produce the most beautiful capital in the world and at the same time to provide suitable quarters for the everincreasing bureaus of the federal

To erect a truly graceful building large enough to house the thousands of employees of one of the major departments, such as commerce, interior, or agriculture, is a task so difficult as to challenge the most skilled architects. There must be hundreds of offices, all with outside windows; no gloomy medieval castles will prove satisfactory. Hugeness is a physical necessity, grace an artistic obligation.

Federal Triangle Large.

To their everlasting credit, the architects who have designed the new edifices have mastered seemingly impossible difficulties. The federal triangle, where are concentrated more official activities than in any other capital, covers an area of about 20 city blocks from its department of commerce building, to its Sixth street tip, the Apex building, which is to be occupied by the federal trade commission.

Within the nine buildings of this group are offices for more than 25,-000 government employees; yet, despite the vastness of the structures. the development has genuine architectural attractiveness and dignity.

Fortunately L'Enfant planned a Federal City with room to expand. Even the largest edifices can be made to look graceful if surrounded by grounds sufficiently spacious, and the new buildings are so framed by pleasant parks and plazas that they escape the charge of crowded awkwardness.

With its new south extensible section, the department of agriculture building has become the largest government office structure in the world, housing in its 4,292 office quarters 6,450 employees; yet even in such a commodious building only about a third of the department's Washington personnel can be brought to

Wings Added.

Constant expansion of activities requires an increase in government office forces too rapid to be taken care of in any single structure, even though it be extensible by merely adding wings and be placed, as is this, in a 35-acre park.

One of the latest of the new structures to be occupied is the new in terior department building, into which some 3,000 workers recently moved. Designed by Waddy B. Wood, in consultation with Secretary Harold L. Ickes, this building departs somewhat from the classical style of its neighbors. No pillars adorn it, but setbacks providing outside walls for its many wings give the appearance, at a distance, of Doric columns.

Building Has Electric Stairway.

This gray stone giant, just north of the marble edifices that form the frame for the Lincoln memorial, is the first government office building to be equipped with electric stairways. Two of these have been installed to carry passengers between the C street and E street levels and to relieve congestion during the rush hour when lunch is being served in the big cafeteria in the basement Besides the moving stairs there are 20 high-speed elevators and 11 complete stairways. Like others rea completely automatic air-conditioning system.

The structure is virtually a city within a city. It has a telephone system now handling 2,200 main lines and 1,100 extensions. At a peak, 2,600 main lines can be served. The system is equivalent to one serving a city of 30,000.

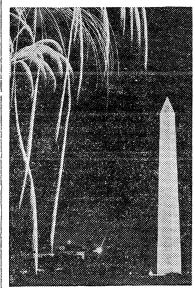

Along the north side of broad Constitution avenue, across from the munitions building, stand the white marble edifices described by the commission of fine arts as the frame for the Lincoln memorial. Erection of a home for the federal reserve board between Twentieth and Twenty-first streets completes this composition, and when eventually the temporary buildings, result of wartime haste, are removed, one of the major dreams of L'Enfant will be

Pan American Annex Planned.

Other splendid buildings in this 'frame' are those occupied by the National Academy of Sciences, the public health service, and the Pharmaceutical association. Plans for an annex to the Pan American union have been prepared.

Although a short sight-seeing tour seldom includes a trip through the public health service, that bureau is one that will richly repay a special visit. Within its laboratories men are constantly at work, seeking out causes of diseases that menace life.

Here Dr. Edward Francis discovered the nature and origin of tularemia, or "rabbit fever." Here he is now conducting a study of intermittent fevers. He has exposed himself to the bacteria of so many diseases that it seems a miracle that he still lives. Other earnest scientists are his colleagues. They work tirelessly, risking their own lives for the safety of others.

The late Andrew Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, in presenting to the nation his collection of art, together with a $10,000,000 building to house it, made a gift valued by experts at probably $50,-000,000. For a site, the location across Constitution avenue from the Apex building has been chosen. Mr. Mellon's magnificent gift is not to bear his name, for he has asked that it be called the National Gallery of Art.

Any discussion of Washington art treasures must include at least mention of the Corcoran gallery, the Phillips Memorial gallery, the Freer gallery and the National Collection of Fine Arts. formerly the National gallery. All are distinctive. In the Phillips gallery the pictures are hung as they would be in a home. Washington circles, parks, and plazas are adorned with many memorials, some of outstanding artistic merit. For those interested in sculpture and other arts, the city cently constructed, the building has offers a field for months of study.
