Information About Water Softening Equipment

C. U. Brown, in Series of Articles, Gives Answers to Questions of Citizens

By C. U. Brown.

Since the Village Council passed the resolution to submit to the voters the proposition of bonding the village for the purpose of installing water softening equipment, many have been asking what the equipment will cost, what it will do and what are the advantages of water softening. In the following articles, an attempt will be made to answer these questions. While the writer is in favor of the proposition, the answers given will be designed to set forth the advantages and point out the disadvantages and not merely to sell the idea to the voters. First, let us consider the history of water softening in the nation.

In the year 1904, Allen Hazen stated in a paper before the International Engineering Congress, "No important municipal softening plant is in use in the United States. A few plants have been recommended as the water available for public supplies in many parts of the country is very hard. It is probable that such plants will become numerous in the future." That same year a small plant was placed in operation at Oberlin, Ohio, probably the first in the United States. In 1908, a large plant at Columbus, Ohio, was completed and placed in service. There water softening was carefully studied and it might be stated that water softening has centered about the Columbus plant. In 1924, seventeen cities were listed as operating softening plants with a combined capacity of 145 million gallons per day, serving 742,400 population. In September, 1931, the American Water Works Association published a census of water supplies, which indicated that there were 1782 filtration plants in the United States, serving 80,896,854 people. Of these plants, 151 softened the supply to serve 3,979,461 population. The softening plants in 1931 had a rated capacity of 764 million gallons per day.

The first and one of the largest softening plants in Michigan was placed in service in 1913 in Grand Rapids and has operated continuously and successfully since that time. It has a capacity of 44,000,000 gallons per day. Since that time, twelve more plants have been added, making 13 plants in Michigan today. Four of these towns use the Zeolite method for softening. They are East Lansing, Mt. Morris, Coopersville and Flushing.

Water becomes hard as it comes. Concluded on page 2.

Speaker Says to Harmonize Practices With Professions

One unpleasant experience should not allow one to poison his mind against hundreds of thousands of any particular group or race," said Rev. Chas. A. Hill, pastor of the Hartford Baptist church, Detroit, in an address on the subject of "Harmonizing Our Practices with Our Professions" at the Cass City Methodist church Sunday afternoon. "Rather we should take time to seek the causes of interracial troubles, and after learning them, have the courage to express our findings."

The race riots in Detroit two years ago were a protest against unbrotherly actions and attitudes, Mr. Hill said. He is of the opinion that conditions which brought them about have greatly improved. Men in Service have enjoyed a comradeship in the ranks which has eliminated many differences of race, color and creed and which will have an influence in bringing about a knowledge and understanding of other peoples and avoid racial conflicts. Even in some sections of the South there has been a decidedly better treatment of the negro in recent years, the speaker said.

Rev. Mr. Hill, who is president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, came to Cass City by invitation of the Cass City Council of Churches. The service was well attended Sunday afternoon.

299 Enjoyed Father and Chum Program Tuesday

Country and Village Tie Score in Contests for Old and Young

The only youngster who didn't have a jolly time at the father and chum night at the school auditorium Tuesday was the lad who stayed home nursing a toothache. Dads also seemed to enjoy themselves as well and entered heartily into the program activities. It proved a pleasant evening for the 299 who attended.

Presbyterian ladies served a fine dinner at tables decorated with emblems in keeping with Lincoln's birthday and the valentine season.

Following the meal, Rev. Arnold Olsen and Willis Campbell led group singing with Geo. Dillman at the piano.

Rev. Kenneth Bisbee and Kenneth Maharg were captains of town and country forces in a series of contests. Game supervisors were Jack London and Rev. Arnold Olsen, and Orion Cardew was official scorer.

Country lads and lassies were winners in a candy hunt for boys and girls up to six years of age, in the rooster fight for boys 6 to 10 years, village folks were winners. Country fathers and chums won the candle relay and also the obstacle race and then the total score stood 60 to 10 in favor of the agriculturalists. The last number—a suit case relay—counted 50 points and really was "some sight." Wives would have been interested in seeing how grotesquely their husbands appeared in feminine attire and how carelessly they donned the garments in the short period permitted in a race against time. The village group won the 50 points awarded in this game.

There's No Easy Road to Peace Says Lecturer

Landrum Bolling Urges All to Get Behind UNO and Make It Workable

Landrum Bolling, newspaper correspondent, appeared here Sunday evening as the second speaker in the Cass City Rotary's Institute of International Understanding. In discussing his subject, "Making International Organization Effective," he admitted there seems to be no easy road to peace.

He related an interview he had with Eduard Benes, president of the Czechoslovak republic, whom he described as a most astute and honest politician. Mr. Bolling said that he agreed with Benes in feeling that he could not be optimistic about keeping the peace and that it would be a hard job to build good will and understanding among the peoples of the world.

Too few people have had direct experience with war, and especially in the United States, few have really seen war. Its citizens should continue to remember its costs and they have a very great responsibility to see that war does not happen again.

Speaking of the cost of war, Mr. Bolling said the United States spent $54 billion dollars and other nations expended enormous sums also. The total cost will never be known, but the conflict left the world actually much poorer. The United States lost 272,000 men in the Pacific and European areas.

in contact with the minerals of the ground. Rain water is soft but does not stay that way if it comes in contact with any or all of the four compounds which are largely responsible for hardness. These are calcium carbonate (limestone), magnesium carbonate (magnesite), calcium sulphate (gypsum) and magnesium sulphate, one of the common salts. Calcium and magnesium sulphates are easily dissolved in water and where these are found in quantity, ground water is certain to contain large amounts of them and be so hard that it can scarcely be used for domestic or industrial purposes.

Magnesium carbonate is soluble in water but is not found so abundantly in the surface formations for the earth as calcium carbonate and so ground water usually contains considerably less magnesium than calcium. Calcium carbonate is by far the most common of these compounds. It is only slightly soluble in water except in the presence of carbon dioxide. Carbon dioxide is abundant in the atmosphere and in the earth near the surface. It is soluble in water and is nearly always present in it. Where limestone deposits are common, water remaining long in contact with them always contains calcium carbonate, held in solution by carbon dioxide in the form of calcium carbonate.

People judge water to be hard if much soap is required to produce a lather, soft if suds is produced easily. Before soap makes a suds, a sufficient amount of it must be used to neutralize the hardness. The soap reacts with the calcium and magnesium compounds, reducing the hardness to form a curd. Linens and fine fabrics appear discolored and feel hard and harsh after laundering, due to the soap curd. Most commercial laundries use a softened water and so advertise.

Hard water is responsible for the deposits in the teakettle and other cooking utensils, greasy, dirty looking glassware and the dirty soap curds in the lavatory and bathtub. All of these present an unnecessary labor problem for the housewife. Also, other household troubles such as rusty hot water accumulations in the furnace coil and hot water heater and automatic heat controls and the large amount of soap for softening the water can all be laid to the charge of hard water. These are important reasons for water softening.

It is necessary for many industries to have a supply of water that can be used economically for boiler or industrial purposes. A community that can offer a supply of clean, soft water is often at a decided advantage in attracting manufacturing establishments.

A municipal water supply which carries an iron content is also objectionable to housewives and industrialists. Unfortunately, many Michigan well waters contain iron in solution. Our water in Cass City is not an exception to this. Such waters exposed to air precipitates the iron as ferric hydroxide. This is brown in color and is recognized as the stain found in a lavatory or other porcelain fixture below a leaking faucet. Fortunately, all the processes for removing hardness also remove the iron.

There are several ways to remove hardness from water. The more common of these methods used in the home are with soap and washing compounds and by heating. None of these methods are satisfactory and all are expensive. When soap is used for softening water, the objectionable curd is formed. With washing compounds, the difficulty lies with the housewife not always knowing the correct amount needed to soften the water and not over-treat it, thus causing waste. The water is seldom mixed well and time enough allowed for the compounds to react with the hardness and the result is a water that is not satisfactorily softened. The excess of washing compound may be injurious to the skin and clothes.

Heating water to the boiling point is a method of partially softening water. The heat drives off the carbon dioxide and calcium and magnesium carbonates are precipitated. The precipitates are deposited on the walls of the vessel or boiler, forming a scale. Calcium carbonate hardness may be largely removed this way but the expense of heating and cooling the water is prohibitive. Many homes use a small Zeolite softener to treat a portion of the water supply, such as that used for laundry, dishes and bathing. The Zeolite process reduces the hardness to nearly zero, leaving it not altogether palatable for drinking.

How Edison Electric Customers will get their REFUNDS

Question. Is it necessary to apply to The Detroit Edison Company for this refund?

Answer. No. A complete record of all customers' bills is in our files.

Question. Can I call The Detroit Edison Company and find out the amount of refund I will receive?

Answer. Sorry, no. Because of the millions of records involved, it will be impossible to discuss individual accounts until after your refund check has been mailed.

Question. Who is entitled to a refund?

Answer. All electric customers including residential, farm, water heating, commercial, industrial, and municipal, who have received electric service from The Detroit Edison Company at any time between Jan. 1, 1944 and Dec. 31, 1945.

Question. What should I do to insure my receiving my refund check?

Answer. If you do not have our electric service in your own name now, or should move before June, 1946, be sure the company has your correct forwarding address. Please leave this address at any customer office or mail your new address to The Detroit Edison Company, 2000 Second Avenue, Detroit 26, Michigan. Otherwise, there is nothing you need to do about it.

Question. How much refund will I get?

Answer. The exact percentage cannot be determined until the Trustee appointed by the Court has approved the details of the plan. As a general guide, your refund will be about equal to your average bill for two months' electric service, provided you have had service for the entire two-year period.

Question. How is The Detroit Edison Company able to make this refund?

Answer. This money comes from a fund set aside by the Edison Company and impounded by the Court. About six-sevenths of it would have been required to pay Federal War-time Taxes. About one-seventh was taken from the Company's earnings during 1944 and 1945.

Question. When will I receive this refund?

Answer. Sometime before June, 1946. It requires individual processing of 12 million electric bills to issue more than 1,150,000 refund checks. The first refund checks will be issued about Feb. 5, 1946. They will then be mailed out at the rate of 11,000 a day.

Question. If I have received service at more than one address during this period, will I receive one check covering all addresses?

Answer. No. A separate check will be issued for each address at which you received service. These checks will be mailed at different times.

Question. To what address will a refund check be mailed?

Answer. Your refund check will be mailed to the address at which you are now receiving electric service.

Question. Can my refund be credited to my current electric bill?

Answer. No. All refund money is being paid by the Trustee. To apply the refund against your current bill would require a larger staff and additional bookkeeping which would increase the cost of making the refund.

Question. What should I do if I do not receive my refund check by June, 1946?

Answer. At that time stop at any of our customer offices or call The Detroit Edison Company, and ask for the "Refund Department." We will be glad to investigate your case and get the refund to you.

Can Save Labor in Corn Planting

The possibility of eliminating some labor in growing the Michigan corn crop is indicated in preliminary results of a soil science experiment conducted at Michigan State College.

These results showed that it was not necessary to do any intermediate fitting of the soil between plowing and planting, such as harrowing or culti-packing. Not only was the corn earlier to cultivate but out-yielded the corn planted after the usual fitting by four to eight bushels per acre. The ground at harvest time was not so hard as that which had been fitted in the usual way.

In this experiment the field was plowed in the usual way, with the exception that the furrows were undercut about an inch to give good coverage. Then the tractor wheels were set in so that the planter shoes trailed in the wheel tracks, and the field was planted as soon after plowing as possible.

The research man in charge of the experiment, Dr. Nathan Hall, of the soil science staff, believes that it is important to make sure that surface material is well covered.

Dr. Hall believes that harrowing and the usual operations of intermediate fitting tend to bring up weed seeds that might otherwise not sprout and grow. Thus, omitting the intermediate fitting helped in weed control.

It is emphasized that the results reported by Dr. Hall are for one year. Seasons in which different climatic conditions, such as rainfall, occur may modify the results.

Keeping Livestock a Paying Business

Keeping livestock as a means of utilizing feeds grown on the farm not only helps to maintain soil fertility but pays good financial returns, asserts John C. Doneth, Michigan State college specialist in farm management. He bases his statement upon results of studies which show that farmers who put $1,500 worth of feed into dairy cattle and poultry average about $3,000 in gross income from that investment. Hogs, beef cattle or sheep can be expected to return $1.25 to $1.50 for each dollar of feed invested.

Doneth cited other studies which reveal that farmers on general farms having crop yields 25 percent above the average of their community had farm earnings about 50% above the average. Conversely, crop yields 25 percent below average were associated with farms having gross incomes 50 percent below average. Farms returning higher profits were in most cases well stocked with livestock.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By Gene Alleman

Who's going to get some badly needed pairs of shoes in the taxpayers' family—the state's own "children," the educational institutions and mental and tuberculosis hospitals or the local governments? "children," such as the municipalities, townships and villages?

That is the issue at Lansing where the state legislature is now in special session.

At stake is an estimated biennium surplus by June 30, 1947—one year from next June 30—of $27,600,000.

Let's take a look or two at what it is all about.

It is the recommendation of Governor Harry F. Kelly, supported by leading committees of the state legislature and by elected state officials, that the bulk of this surplus should go to meet the long neglected needs of the state's own responsibilities.

These include the University of Michigan and Michigan State College, as well as other schools throughout the state. No state appropriation has been made since 1927 for an educational building at the university; 61 per cent of the university's present building facilities were financed by private donors or through self-liquidating student dormitories. The plight of Michigan State College is equally as great.

Mental and tuberculosis hospitals are unable to admit patients because of limited building facilities. From 1930 to 1945 the mental hospital population increased from approximately 15,000 to more than 26,000 for an average gain of 750 persons a year. The department of mental health estimates its building needs alone to be $20,296,000.

Who benefits from state hospitals, anyway?

INTERNAL FIRE

An old traveling preacher, encountering many a meal which needed seasoning, always carried a bottle of tabasco sauce with him. At one meal a hillbilly eyed it curiously, then requested some and poured it liberally over a piece of beef which he bolted. There was a pause. Suddenly the hillbilly made a grab for the water pitcher.

Finally he spoke: "Well, sir, you're the first minister I ever met who carried a sample of hell right with him."

and came out very lightly in a death toll which was much heavier proportionately in other countries. In the Yugo-Slav nation, there were 1,500,000 dead which is one-tenth of the country's population. Nobody knows how many Russia lost in the conflict but conservative estimates place it between 15 and 20 millions of people. The civilian people of Russia suffered a great mortality loss.

This experience of huge losses can be prevented and present a challenge to avoid a repetition of this tragedy, said Mr. Bolling. While the United Nations Organization has its weaknesses, we must get behind the organization with all our resources to improve it and make it a workable society to preserve the peace of the world. He listed as the greatest fault of the UNO the veto power held by any one of the big 5 nations—England, Russia, United States, France and China.

To make world organization effective, the world must make sure the eradication of Japanese and Nazi militarism and disarmament of the enemy countries. Equally important was the relief and rehabilitation of war stricken nations, enemy as well as allies, he said. The problems of hunger, starvation and discontent throughout the world are grave. "To insure peace," said Mr. Bolling, "we must build ways to cooperation, increase volume of trade, lay a basis of understanding and provide for a free exchange of news and information without censorship."

Firearms Dangerous

Accidents with firearms ranked second as the principal type of accident in the 5-to-24-year-age group in 1944, and although deaths from all home accidents decreased 4 percent in that period, deaths from firearm accidents in the home did not decrease at all.

SHE'S AFTER Potash

She's looking for potash because it takes potash to make succulent legume pastures high in minerals—the kind that livestock prefer. Clovers and all other legumes are heavy feeders on potash. When seeding or top-dressing legumes for hay, pasture, or cover crops, make sure that there is enough potash in your soil and fertilizer to balance the other plant foods and insure heavy growth of high feeding value. If you are in doubt as to the fertility of your soil, consult your official agricultural adviser regarding soil tests and proper fertilization.

tients, as of Dec. 1, 1945, reveals that Wayne county (Detroit) benefitted to the extent of more than 40 per cent of the total—10,989 out of 26,219. Kent county (Grand Rapids) had 1,180 citizens in hospitals; Oakland (Pontiac), 865; Genesee (Flint), 865; Ingham (Lansing), 577; and so on down the list. Fifteen municipalities benefitted to the extent of 13,267 patients out of 26,219—nearly 50 per cent!

Who benefits most from the educational services of state colleges and schools?

The facts are equally revealing, and again it is the metropolitan areas which derive the greatest benefit by number of students at state supported colleges. Enrollment at the schools totals 20,197, and more than half of these come from cities of 10,000 population and over.

Thus it appears logical—and the logic has received support from the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan State Grange, American Federation of Labor, just to mention a few—that Governor Kelly's case for giving priority to the state's own "children" is founded on the fact that the entire state, cities as well as rural areas, will benefit from the 1946 state building program now before the legislature. Certainly the cities will get their fair share, Mayor Edward F. Jeffries of Detroit notwithstanding.

Furthermore, none of these "children" possess the power to levy taxes. And the local governments—cities, counties and villages—do have this right. A. J. Phillips, executive secretary of the New cars will soon be here. Many of you will be buying cars out of income on a deferred payment plan. Old style, costly financing methods are "out".

Arrangements have been made with local banks in this territory to finance cars for State Farm policyholders at reasonable rates. And you can continue to enjoy the benefits of your State Farm Mutual protection.

This service is also available to careful drivers, not now insured with State Farm. In most cases it saves the buyers many dollars.

See or call me now. I'll be glad to give you the details of this money saving plan.

STATE FARM MUTUAL AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE COMPANY
World's largest

Michigan Educational association, has conceded that "any solution for the problem of school finances must come from local governments through raising their valuations or increasing their millage or both."

The schools' plight, admittedly great, is a by-product in part of the gradual breakdown of local tax responsibility caused by adoption of the state sales tax and elimination of the state property tax.

Local governments look to Lansing increasingly for a solution of their financial problems. The state's own "children"—colleges, hospitals and others—have been crowded out for years in the pressure group scramble of local governments to get more money at Lansing.

It is the conviction of Governor Kelly, whose courage in meeting the issue has elevated him in the esteem of many people, that if the state can't and doesn't look out for the interests of its own "children" when times are good and when there is money available in the treasury, then it never will do so when times are bad and the treasury deficits prevail.

Building contractors and representatives of organized labor have assured legislators that the state's building program can be completed by September, 1947, and that adequate materials and labor can be obtained.

A product of the Catholic parochial schools and of the University of Notre Dame, Governor Kelly has become a leading exponent for public schools. This is unusual. It does emphasize the devotion of a man to what he considers to be his obligations as governor of Michigan. Not running for office, Kelly is outspoken. Veterans' needs are close to his heart.

The outcome of the tug-of-war to see who is going to get $27,600,000—the state's own "children" or those of local governments—is going to depend largely on the willingness of legislators to support the administrative program, as drafted by the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee.

The Michigan Conference of Mayors has been telegraphing mayors of cities, large and small, to bring pressure on members of the house and senate at Lansing. Rep. David E. Young of Saginaw, retiring president of the Michigan Association of Supervisors, is co-sponsor of a bill to divert one-sixth of the state sales tax to local governments—cities, villages and townships—all of whom have payrolls and numerous employees right in the legislators' home territory.

It's a real showdown, and the outcome is none too certain.

If the big-town mayors and supervisors succeed in raiding the state surplus now, it's a cinch that the state never will have such a favorable opportunity to help its own neglected children—the state-supported schools and hospitals which serve the entire people of Michigan and which have no taxing powers themselves.
