

Footings Poured For Municipal Bldg. At City Park

New Structure Will House Water Softening
and Other Equipment

Footings have been poured for the municipal building at the City Park which will house the new water softening machinery and other village equipment. The building will be approximately 30 by 81 feet in size, one story, and will be constructed of cement blocks. It is located 300 feet east of the swimming pool.

One portion of the building will be used for a two-car garage and storage, another room will be used as a truck garage and workshop, the third room will house the water softening equipment, a utility room will contain the furnace and electric switch board, a room 20x15 will be equipped for holding committee meetings and the remainder of the space will be made into an office and small hall.

Two 10-inch wells 200 or more feet in depth at the City Park will furnish water for the village system and will be distributed through the standpipe as at present. One well will be drilled 200 feet north of the water softening plant and the second one 400 feet north. Both will be located 200 feet from the east boundary of the park.

Because pipe fittings will not be delivered to the village before next March and water pipe cannot be secured but a few weeks earlier, the water softening plant will not be in operation until late next spring.

When the powerhouse building next to the railroad was sold to the Diamond Die and Tool Co. of Detroit last spring, the village reserved the right to use the pump room until such time as the new building at the City Park was erected and the new wells to be drilled in the park were ready for use. The tool company has been preparing the building for their use and a carload of sheet steel and a carload of lumber has been received here by them.

Detroit Man Killed by Lightning at Caro Fair Grounds Sunday

Jackie Ray Adams, 18, a colored young man of Detroit, was killed by lightning at the Caro fair grounds about 6:20 p. m. Sunday. Deon Manke, 27, of Caro, who was standing about 15 feet away from Adams, was knocked down and left unconscious by the bolt but revived later in the Caro hospital.

All efforts to revive Adams, who had arrived Sunday morning to work at the county fair this week, were unsuccessful. Dr. Donahue of Cass City who was at the fair grounds, administered stimulants to both men and Adams was given artificial resuscitation for 1 1/2 hours by a group of Marine Corps recruiters, who have a booth at the fair, and by Caro residents.

Adams body was taken to the Huston Funeral Home at Caro and on Monday to Detroit by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adams.

Use of Absent Voter's Ballot Is Explained

John A. Wagner, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, declared today that all citizens of Michigan in the armed forces of the United States should be notified by friends, relatives or any available means of the procedure necessary for them to vote in the general election next November 5.

"Michigan citizens in the armed forces of our country," the GOP chairman pointed out, "need not be registered to vote if they are otherwise qualified as electors under the laws of this state."

"Such voters," he said, "may apply for Absent Voters' Ballots to the Secretary of State, or to the City or Township Clerk of the voter's place of residence. Applications received by the Secretary of State are immediately transmitted to the County Clerk of the county wherein the applicant is a resident, who will in turn forward the application to the proper City or Township Clerk. Upon receipt of this application an official Absent Voter's Ballot will be forwarded to the applicant by the City or Township Clerk together with envelopes for the use in connection with Absent Voters' Ballots of members of the armed forces. They will also outline the oath required, which must be signed by the applicant and sworn to before a commissioned or authorized attesting officer."

"Absent Voters' Ballots," Mr. Wagner said, "have been available since August 3, as the state law requires that they be available for distribution ninety-two days before election day."

"No effort should be spared to acquaint Michigan members of the armed forces of our country with these provisions of the Michigan election law," the Republican chairman concluded, "so that those who fought for representative government may have a full voice in its perpetuation."

Youthful owners of 32 head of purebred cattle showed their animals in the parade which was led by Dick Donahue on his Shetland pony.

Don Loomis of Gagetown showed a Hereford steer which qualified as the grand champion of the show. The reserve champion, an Angus steer, was exhibited by Billy Zinnecker.

Mr. McConkey has been anxious to enter business for himself for several years but because of the war and conditions which have existed it has not been possible until this time. Their many friends will wish the McConkeys success in their new venture and "Jim-mie" Woodard prosperity as the new manager.

TUSCOLA RURAL TEACHERS TO MEET SATURDAY

A meeting of all rural teachers will be held in the courthouse at Caro on Saturday morning, Aug. 24, at 9:30 o'clock. The meeting is called for the purpose of discussing plans for the year's work and distributing the various materials needed by each teacher.

Dr. Clarence M. Loessel, director of college extension, Michigan State College, will be present and teachers may at that time select two extension courses to be given in Caro this fall.

All rural teachers, particularly those who will be teaching on special certificates, are expected to be present at this meeting.

Small Budget with High Costs Hamper Co. Road Commission

Operating on a budget like that of 1932, with present day labor costs two and a half times higher and cost of equipment greatly increased in late years, is the problem that faces the Tuscola County Road Commission, Paul Kreeger, county engineer and clerk of the commission, told members of the Rotary Club Tuesday. Tuscola is fifth in the counties of the state in road mileage and with the greater part of its highway income devoted to upkeep, little is left to add to the county's blacktop road extension.

"One possibility to increase highway income in Michigan is an advance in the gas tax," said Mr. Kreeger. "Only ten states in the nation have a gasoline tax as low as Michigan's. Many of the state's tourist visitors come from Ohio, Indiana and Wisconsin where they pay a cent higher rate in their own states than they pay here."

Robt. Schuckert served as song leader and Mrs. Maurice Joos was pianist. Fred Hemerick of Gagetown was a luncheon guest.

Returning to Michigan they spent some time in the homes of their children—Mrs. Geo. Rankin in Berkley, Mrs. Richard VanWinkle in Milan, Darwin Bailey and Miss Mabel Jean Bradshaw in Ypsilanti.

Chaplain Mosure Writes from Germany Telling of His Work as an Army Officer

Chaplain D. C. Mosure, former pastor of the Cass City Methodist Church, writes the Chronicle from Germany under date of August 10:

A few Sunday nights ago I held a Communion Service in the Protestant Cathedral in Marburg. A most unusual and inspiring incident crowned that occasion. The service was held for American Service men, of course, but in attendance there were a number of English speaking German civilians. After I had read the invitation, and the participants came forward to the altar from which both Martin Luther and Martin Niemoller had preached, I observed that several German civilians came to kneel along with our American soldiers before the Cross of Christ and the table of our Lord. My heart was particularly stirred as I noticed that among the civilians and G. I.'s kneeling at the table was a blind ex-German soldier who had been led forward from the pew by his sister. He was still clothed partially in his uniform, for here many such men have no other clothes to wear other than those with which they have been released from the prison camp. As I offered the elements of bread and wine, symbolic of the Holy Presence of our Lord, Jesus Christ, to these people, I could not but feel here we have people who are very humble—the German for the catastrophe which they have in large part provoked on mankind, and the Americans facing obligations and responsibilities they seem to take very lightly in many cases.

I am thankful that at the foot of the Cross we both find a common meeting ground, and I trust that there through humility and faith a new age may be born.

My duties are as varied and interesting as one wants to make them. One thing I have noticed here as at home children are the same youth, gay and spontaneous individuals we like them to be. But they need guidance and direction. Of course, as Chaplain my first duty is to the American soldier, but in our spare time we often find

Plenty of Wheat, but No Place to Put It

The bumper wheat crop creates storage problems. Thousands of bushels are lying out in the open near grain elevators, where farmers have had to dump it because their own barns are full. Elevators too are loaded to capacity, and the shortage of freight cars slows up shipment to terminal markets. This picture was taken at Hockar, Okla.

Assembly of God Church—Jos. A. McGiffin, pastor. Sunday school, 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11. Evangelistic service at 8 p. m. We are in special services with Henry D. Rose of Detroit each evening at 8:00 p. m. (except Saturdays) until September 1, and have been rejoicing with him in his new found healing. On Friday evening, August 23, he will recount in detail the complete healing of another young man with whom he subsequently preached and testified, after he had been hopelessly maimed while in battle. This evening has also been designated as Divine healing night, when any who so desire will be prayed for. On Sunday evening, August 26, Mr. Rose will give his own heart moving testimony to the ability and willingness of God to heal today. Very gravely injured near Cassino, Italy, and sent home presumably to suffer for the remainder of his life, he has something to tell well worth the time and trouble of those who will come to hear him.

CHAPLAIN D. C. MOSURE WRITES FROM GERMANY TELLINK OF HI WORK THERE

Concluded from page 1. time to get acquainted with the children, who of course in years to come will be the leaders of a new Germany. I have found that they love to play, and have you play with them, just as our children do at home. So, frequently after supper during these long spring and summer evenings I will gather around me a group of the "local kids" and together we play. I've had great fun teaching them some of our American games, touchball, dodgeball, softball, etc. We each speak a broken tongue, they English, and I German, but it is amazing how well we get along, and surprising, though it may be, the children love the sport.

One of the other Chaplains has upon several occasions invited groups of war created orphans to have dinner with him at the Station Hospital where he is assigned. The other night I had dinner there with the Chaplain and around our table were gathered a number of little orphaned youngsters. We began the meal with grace, and then proceeded to eat dinner, while we enjoyed one another's company. I am firmly convinced that we must not only set up a standard for democratic feeling which these people may adopt, but we must, in every way possible, live that Christlike, democratic way as we mingle among them.

About a month ago I was assigned to the Chaplain's Section of the European Theater Headquarters in Frankfurt, Germany.

Our work is very different from what it was in Marburg or in Weilburg which was my last assignment. Here a chaplain office is more akin to the large city parish in civilian life than to anything that I know. All of the marriages which occur between soldiers and civilians either American or Europeans or civilians themselves must be cleared through this office. Consequently there is a great deal of paper work which we must do in addition to personally interviewing the applicants. Then there is the customary routine of holding personal interviews for people who are in distress, to say nothing about the regular worship services which we hold.

On Sunday we hold a general Protestant service in the local chapel. Our chapel seats about 500 people, and is always filled to capacity. Then we have a fine Sunday school as well as an evening service. Due to the fact that there are so many American dependents here in the Frankfurt military community, we have a number of children as well as mothers and fathers in our church and Sunday school. Several times a week it is my privilege to participate in giving a short message over the radio vesper hour which is held each evening. That particular responsibility is very enjoyable though quite different from anything I have done before. The American Forces Network over which we broadcast our religious programs is beamed out to all of Germany as well as other parts of western Europe.

You might be interested to know how we are locally set up here in Frankfurt. There is a section of the city which is relatively undeveloped, and this section has been completely surrounded by a barb wire fence which encloses the entire community, and this is known as the American military community in Frankfurt. Here the wives, children and families of our soldiers and American civilian personnel live. The headquarters of the European Theater are likewise in this area. Most of these offices are in large buildings which formerly were occupied by the IG-Farben industries. They are relatively modern. Out around the buildings there are beautiful gardens with flowers of every description and color. The quarters which are occupied by American families for the most part are very good. Usually they will include an apartment or several rooms of a house, and naturally our families are fixing them up and making them as attractive as any American home. Within the military community we have our Protestant church. There are theaters and clubs and recreation centers. Later on, we shall have adequate schools for the children of our dependents.

So you see, things are not bad at all for those who have their families here. You may wonder about the food and clothing situation. Of course, most of the families have brought with them from the States adequate clothes for some time, but we have already a fine commissary which stocks all of the groceries and meats which the quartermaster can procure.

To all our friends in Cass City my sincerest greetings.

Cordially,
DUDLEY MOSURE,
Chaplain U. S. Army.

Minute Make-Ups

By GABRIELLE

Curl your hair with water, to which a few drops of perfume have been added. Scrub your combs and brushes, then rinse them in perfumed water. Put drops of perfume on all flowers worn in your hair! Ledger Syndicate.—WNU Features.

Cooking Cheese

Cook cheese at low temperatures to prevent curdling, scorching or stringiness.

Gulls Nail Grasshoppers
Farmers report that fields heretofore filled with grasshoppers have been made absolutely devoid of the insects in a few minutes after a mass invasion of the gulls. The gulls give an unusual effect because they are continually moving on the wing. Swooping down with a swiftness that is too fast for the grasshopper, not many escape the eye or beak of the migratory birds.

Extinguish Smokes
Matches and cigarettes should be extinguished completely before being discarded. Matches should be kept in safe containers beyond the reach of children. Smoking should not be permitted in barns and around combustible materials.

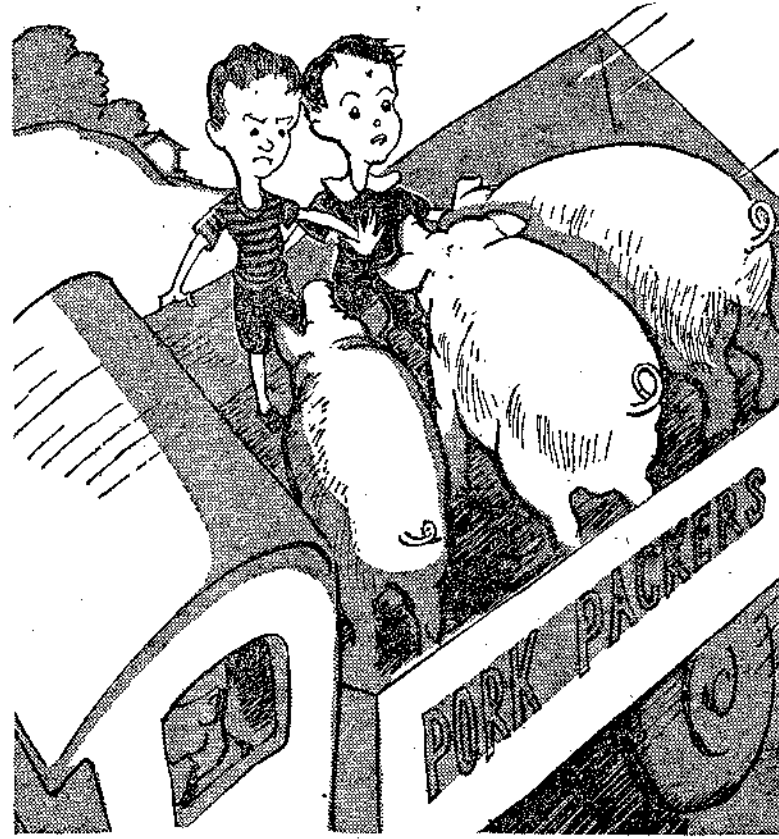

HOLBROOK

The Holbrook Community Farm Bureau will meet at the Community hall on Aug. 27 at 8:30 p. m. There will be an election of officers.

Butter in Recipe

There is a difference between "melted butter" or "butter melted" in a recipe. In the former instance the butter should be measured after it is melted and in the latter it is measured before. The amount obtained by each of these methods of measuring varies, so it is important to follow the instructions as given in a recipe.

Socialist Party
The Socialist party, whose nominees in the last Presidential election were Norman Thomas of New York for President and Darlington Hoopes of Pennsylvania for vice president, had a platform advocating a planned economy under democratic controls, with socialization of natural resources, the system of money banking and credit, monopolies and semi-monopolies including public utilities. The platform proposed legislation to end racial discrimination and urged co-operation between free peoples. It was strongly opposed to "unconditional surrender" for the termination of war and was against a peace of vengeance and imperialism.

The Farm Produce Co.

Lumber Department

How do they do it?

Could you produce one-third more crops with 10% less manpower? The farmers of America did it during the last full year of the war.

How? Partly by working themselves and their machines longer, harder. Partly by assisting hired help with wired help.

Electricity has taken over more and more farm chores. It pumps water, grinds feed, cures hay, fills silos. It steps up milk and egg and pork production. It eases farm housework, too.

Cheap, dependable electricity has done more than any other force to make farming efficient and farm life comfortable.

Who electrified the farms? Rural electric service didn't happen overnight. It started more than 25 years ago—with America's business-managed electric companies. These companies did the pioneering—the pick-and-shovel work.

The advantages of electricity on the farm were many. The problem was to get it to the farmer. Distance and weather called for new methods and materials. New farm machines suitable for electric drive had to be developed.

Each problem was licked in turn by American initiative and ingenuity. Service grew steadily better and cheaper. Farm by farm, area by area, the web of wire expanded.

What of tomorrow? Today Detroit Edison serves 35,278 farms (about 95%) of all farms in our territory and more than 100,000 other rural customers outside of incorporated towns. That's real progress.

But the job isn't done. As fast as transformers, wire, poles and other critical materials become available we are extending reliable, low priced electric service. It is our goal to make this service available to every home, farm, business and industry at the earliest possible date.

For your listening pleasure tune in The Electric Hour every Sunday at 3:30 over WJR featuring Anne Jamison and Bob Shanley with Robert Armstrong and his orchestra.

Tire Shortage Is Threatened

Lack of Textiles Reduces Civilian Output Say Manufacturers.

NEW YORK.—The day when civilian tires again will be available in normal supply may be carried further into next year because of an acute shortage of textile fabrics, the Rubber Manufacturers association, Inc., warns.

Some tire manufacturers already are threatened with curtailment of production for want of fabrics, the association said. Others, with only a small portion of their second quarter requirements assured, foresee shutdowns unless supplies of enameling duck, chafers, osnaburgs and sheeting are materially eased.

This means at least another season of close attention to all the wartime tire conservation practices including recapping, careful inflation and moderate driving speeds, particularly in the hot weather driving period just ahead, the report added.

Cuts into Output.

With the automobile industry making heavier inroads into tire output for original equipment supplies, shutdowns resulting from textile shortages could easily defeat efforts of rubber manufacturers to achieve their goal of 66 million passenger car tires this year, the association said.

The warning came with the association's figures showing January production up over December by 913,467 units in passenger sizes, 241,446 units in truck and bus tire sizes and 680,911 units in all types of inner tubes.

January shipments of casings totaled 5,537,154, an increase of 28.86 per cent from December and compared with 3,830,757 produced in January last year. Passenger casings accounted for 4,380,997 or 77.25 per cent over December and compared with 1,953,946 a year previous. Truck and bus casings shipments of 1,156,157 showed an increase of 38.86 per cent over December and compared with 1,787,811 in January, 1945.

Passenger, truck and bus tube shipments in January totaled 4,238,947, an increase of 17.91 per cent over December and compared with 3,008,910 shipped in January, 1945.

Increase in Casings.

Casings produced during January totaled 5,972,780, an increase of 23.97 per cent over December and compared with 3,746,590 produced in January, 1945. Production included 4,705,092 passenger casings, an increase of 28.09 per cent over December and compared with 1,974,380 produced in January, 1945. Truck and bus casings produced during January totaled 1,267,688, an increase of 23.52 per cent over December and compared with 1,772,200 in January a year previous.

Passenger, truck and bus tubes produced during January rose to 4,639,762, an increase of 17.20 per cent over December and compared with 3,348,935 produced in January, 1945.

American Guard Shoots, Ruins 56,000 Doughnuts

YOKOHAMA.—When an American guard here found two Japanese breaking through a brewery window, he fired two shots in the air to frighten them. The trespassers escaped but the guard's shots severed an electric power line that supplies current to a Red Cross doughnut factory, spoiling the 56,000 doughnuts in the vats.

Italian Bandit Goes For $5,660 Better on Reward

ROME.—A Palermo dispatch to the Rome newspaper Espresso said the notorious Sicilian bandit, Giuliano, for whose capture 900,000 lire (about $3,774) was offered recently, retaliated by placing placards in Palermo offering two million lire ($9,434) reward for Minister of the Interior Giuseppe Romita, "dead or alive."

Michigan Peaches for Everybody

The recent rains gave an additional boost to the peach crop in most of the peach growing areas of Michigan and, more than likely, will help Michigan break all peach production records this season. Chas. Figy, director of the State Department of Agriculture, states that according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service, last year's record peach crop of 4,400,000 bushels, which broke all previous records, is expected to be exceeded this year. Their estimate as of August 1 shows 4,428,000 bushels. If this record production materializes, it will be 70 per cent over the 10-year average.

This year's crop will be of especially good quality. The early peaches are now being harvested. The harvest of the major portion of the crop in southwestern Michigan usually starts this week, with the peak of the season around Labor Day.

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT!
By FRANK COLBY
Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

ADD TO YOUR VOCABULARY

Here is a graceful and valuable word for your vocabulary: criterion. The word is from the Greek kritērion, "a test; a means of judging."

In English, criterion expresses the idea of a standard by means of which anything may be correctly judged or evaluated. Pronounce it: kry-TEER-ee-um. The plural is criteria, pronounced: kry-TEER-ee-uh.

How to use it: A man's deeds are the criteria of his character. The speaker's opinion is interesting, but I cannot accept it as a criterion. Truth is the sole criterion of knowledge.

Q. Will you please discuss for our English class the origin of the word companion? One of the girls says it comes from the word "bread." How can that be?—D. B.

Answer: The word does not derive from the English word, bread, but from the Latin com-, "together," plus panis, "bread"; therefore, a taking of bread (food) together.

Another familiar word from the Latin panis is pantry. Originally the word designated a place where bread is made or stored. Later, bread took on the extended meaning of "food in general," as "our daily bread; to quarrel with one's bread and butter (means of livelihood); to break bread with a friend (companion)." Thus, pantry came to have its present meaning: a room, closet, or shelf where foodstuffs or dishes or glassware are kept.

Strangely enough, the original meaning of the Anglo-Saxon word bread meant "a bit, morsel, or sop of any food." During the Norman occupation, most food words in English were replaced by words of French origin, as, soup, stew, fricassee, beef, pork, mutton, veal, venison, poultry, etc. But the French word for bread, "pain," somehow was not accepted by the English, possibly because their Anglo-Saxon tongues could not manage the French pronunciation pa(m), which has the flat "a" and the nasal sound.

Oak Bluff Breezes

A few days ago tree surgeons were here taking down one of our largest birch trees which had died last season and which was considered dangerous, being close to the cement walk. Its dead branches have been falling and might have fallen on a passerby. We regret to lose these large shade trees, particularly the charming and graceful birch, Coleridge, the English poet, has properly called this tree the "most beautiful of forest trees." The white birch has feminine grace and beauty and adorns the spot wherever she may be growing, stately, slender, symmetrical with its unusual white bark it fits into any environment. The "Lady of the Woods" is perhaps the best known of our native trees. It is as rugged as any and survives the lashing of the winter storms and intense heat of the summer suns. Historically it is closely associated with early American and colonial history. Every child has learned that the early explorers and the Red Men of the forest used its bark for their canoes and even for writing and correspondence use, and many others aside from school children have torn layer after layer of the transparent bark from her trunk where she now bears the scars of man's thoughtlessness. We on the shores of Saginaw Bay who have seen the shore line with the white birches against the green background of cedars, pine, oak and hemlock have seen one of nature's loveliest pictures. "In her beautiful white robes she reigns in her kingdom, always gracious and lovely, always calm and friendly."

Bowlers, Attention!

Due to unavoidable circumstances, Gagetown Bowling Alleys cannot be opened as per schedule. We welcome you to come and inspect alleys which are all brand new Brunswick Baulke equipment.

We planned on opening the alleys so that new bowlers could establish an average and Old Timers work out some of those rheumatic kinks.

Keep your eye on these alleys as we hope to have some red hot teams.

Drop us a card for your team and individuals who wish to bowl on a team.
