

Bank Deposits Here Nearly Four Times Those 10 Years Ago

Community Savings in Banks and Bonds in 1946 Are $875,046.70.

Apparently Christmas bills and winter taxes have not caused much worry to many people of the Cass City community if one takes a glance at local bank statements printed in the Chronicle today and learns of the amounts invested by local citizens in government bonds during the past year. More people in the community today have more bonds and more money in savings and commercial accounts than ever before.

As an example, the two local banks on Dec. 31, 1946, had $828,361.96 in deposits, which is $777,682.95 higher than their statements showed a year ago. The Dec. 31, 1945, statements showed the total deposits here as $3,450,679.01, which then was the highest up to that time.

Purchases in government bonds made at the two banks and the post office in Cass City during the past year show an investment of $297,363.75. Combining the increase in local bank deposits and the purchase price of government bonds given above makes a total of $875,046.70, a neat sum in savings made in the Cass City community in one year.

Ten years ago statements of the two banks here had combined deposits of $1,024,538.33. Commercial and savings deposits at the end of 1946 were nearly four times those of December, 1936.

Third Quarter at Sebewaing Spelled Defeat for Cass City

Had the third quarter been omitted, Cass City would have had easy sailing at Sebewaing Friday, but the third period proved their undoing for the Bay Shore boys turned in 15 points and the locals failed to chalk up a single marker. Cass City was leading at the half, 13-10, and outscored the Sebewaing five in the last quarter.

Don Karr was high point man for Cass City with 11 points, closely followed by Ken Weatherhead with nine. Reinhold, with seven, was Sebewaing high man.

Untimely Death of Mrs. Delbert Rawson

Townpeople and the many friends she has made since coming to make her home in Cass City were shocked to learn of the untimely death of Mrs. Helen Rawson, 25, wife of Dr. Delbert Rawson, which occurred Thursday night in Saginaw Contagious Hospital, three hours after her admittance.

Mrs. Rawson was taken ill Tuesday and Wednesday her illness was diagnosed as bulbar poliomyelitis. She grew worse rapidly and late Thursday was taken to Saginaw that she might be placed in an iron lung.

Miss Helen Louise Holt was born June 4, 1921, at Ironwood. She was a graduate of Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti and taught at Ironwood and in Chicago. September 3, 1943, at Ironwood, she was married to Delbert Rawson. She was a member of the Methodist Church at Ironwood and had transferred her membership to the local Methodist Church.

Surviving are her husband; a son, James, two years old; her mother, Mrs. Amy Holt of Ironwood, who was visiting here at the time her daughter became ill, and a brother, John E. Holt, of Chisholm, Minn.

The body lay in state in the church on Sunday from 1:00 until 2:30 p. m., when funeral services were held. Rev. D. C. Masure of Deckerville officiated, assisted by Rev. John Safran. Interment was made in Elkland Cemetery.

Mrs. Rawson was Cass City's first death of 1947.

Playground Project Financing Offered to the Public

Certificates Paying Interest of 2% Will Be Issued in $100 and $50 Sizes

The citizens of this community are invited to share in the building of the playground. According to Horace Pinney, chairman of the project, certificates dated Jan. 15, 1947, bearing interest at 2 per cent, will be issued in $100.00 and $50.00 sizes. Funds for the payment of interest and the redemption of certificates will come from the revenues of the playground and special contributions such as the Gavel Club's pledge of at least $500.00 per year. Anyone interested in further details of this investment may get them from the special canvassers or from either local bank.

There are many types of community projects of benefit to and deserving of the support of any locality. Cass City has always welcomed and supported good projects wholeheartedly. Only occasionally, however, are these projects of such a nature that once started, they are able to pay for themselves. The playground project is one of these. Naturally the facilities of the playground will be available to children without cost, but the big games under lights such as football and softball attract crowds. It is the revenue from these games and the support of local civic groups that will make this project self-liquidating.

The cost of the completed project as planned for Cass City will be around $11,000, reports C. M. Wallace, treasurer of the project. He further reports that over $2,700.00 or one-fourth of the project has already been paid for out of funds on hand. The $8,000.00 worth of certificates now offered for sale represent the balance of the estimated needs. As the funds already spent were raised without obligation, the amount of the certificates to be sold will represent the only indebtedness of the project.

Thos. Murphy Died After Long Illness

Thomas Murphy, 80, a resident of this vicinity for the past 78 years, died Friday night in the Harold Murphy home. He had been ill for 16 months.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 p. m. in the Douglas funeral home. Rev. John Safran officiated and burial was made in Elkland Cemetery.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murphy and was born March 24, 1866, in Ontario. At the age of two years he came with his parents to a farm eight miles northeast of Cass City. He was married to the former Miss Jennie Crawford who died in 1930.

Surviving are two sons, Arthur and Harold Murphy; a brother, David Murphy, all of Cass City; five grandchildren; three nieces, Mrs. Herbert Frutchey of Gaines, Mrs. J. C. Corkins and Miss Winnie Murphy of Cass City, and a nephew, Edward Murphy, of Lennon, Mich.

Rural School Music Programs in Sanilac County

The new music program which was adopted in the rural schools of Sanilac County last October, will continue throughout the new year. The program is sponsored by Michigan State College and is under the direction of Miss Marie Adler of their extension department. During the mornings, she visits schools of participating teachers and conducts demonstration lessons in singing, rhythm band, and rhythmic games.

The program is already proving itself to be a worthwhile addition to the curriculum of rural schools. The third series of meetings will be held Jan. 14-17. Each meeting will begin at 1:30 p. m. The schedule is as follows:

Tuesday, Jan. 14 — Teets and Applegate groups at Applegate School.

Marked Increase in Marriages and Divorces in 1946

Court Litigation Also Is Greater in Tuscola in 1946, Compared with Other Years

Divorces granted last year were nearly double over the 1945 total and marriage licenses issued in 1946 were 44 per cent more than in 1945. Here are the actual figures as prepared by Deputy County Clerk Maud B. Ormes:

The following cases were commenced in the Tuscola Circuit Court from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1946: Criminal, 35; circuit court, 33; chancery, 139. Total number in 1946, 207. Total number of cases begun in 1945, 156.

Total number of marriage licenses issued in 1946 was 361. Total in 1945, 250.

Total number of divorces granted in 1946 was 86. Total in 1945, 45.

Michigan Mirror

The "no new taxes and no deficit" pledge of Governor Kim Sigler, voiced in his inaugural message to the legislature, points the way clearly to re-submission of the issue of sales tax diversion to the voters at the April election.

The governor's stand was expressed in these words: "The approval of the so-called sales tax diversion has taken away a major share of the state's chief revenue and placed it in the hands of schools and local units of government. Under this amendment the schools may receive upwards of a total of one hundred sixteen million dollars a year — a sum far in excess of the wildest dreams of the most enthusiastic school supporters but a few weeks ago."

"Many townships, villages, and cities will receive money without any relationship to their needs."

"This condition presents a lopsided financial picture, and we find ourselves faced with this question — can we continue the present state services and operate the government at its present level without the adoption of new taxes?"

"In my statements during the recent campaign, I voiced opposition to the levying of new taxes. I believed then, and I have not changed my opinion, that the people of Michigan are paying enough taxes to finance good government. I am convinced that the solution of the problem lies not in more new taxes, but in seeing to it that those which we are now paying are used and expended equitably."

Declining to make any definite recommendations as to a means whereby the "no new taxes and no deficit" pledge might be carried out, Governor Sigler has given firm notice that the needs of the state, as the major government in Michigan, are imperative and that he intends to do something about them.

The governor's declaration, interpreted anyway you wish, puts the State of Michigan first on the list. As governor of the state, Sigler is displaying the same spirit of devotion to the needs of the state services as did his predecessor, Harry F. Kelly. Sigler chided the voters for jumping to the conclusion that "we had accumulated huge surpluses" whereas the state did have "certain surpluses, but not to the extent commonly supposed."

If the state is to achieve "a more equitable distribution of our income and responsibilities among local units of government on all levels," then the new sales tax diversion amendment must be eliminated or revised. This amendment, as we have repeatedly emphasized, does not divert one-third of the sales tax to home government.

New Year Meeting W. F. Y. at Manse

The Westminster Youth Fellowship of the Presbyterian Church held their New Year meeting at the manse as guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Vender. In spite of the storm, 11 were present.

The devotional meeting was held in the living room, which with a crackling fire in the fireplace and colored lighting provided an unique setting for listening to the New Year broadcast and the reception of greetings from foreign countries over a "short wave" receiving set under the direction of Dr. Karr, assisted by a cast comprised of James Wallace, Edward Golding, Jr., and Marjorie Karr in an adjoining room, the pastor's study. Mrs. Vender gave a New Year's story in concluding part one of the evening's schedule.

The recreational period which followed was in charge of the pastor-host. Winter fishing, "Sippa-Fish," provided much fun. In fact, it was breath-taking at times. All held their breath when the ice gave way and Jim Wallace fell through (or off his chair) in the excitement of spearing fish. At any rate Jim got his allotted catch, first in his group, while Don Karr and Dick Wallace finished with a tie for speed and number of fish caught.

"The Relay" fishing was most exciting — and here is where the "breath-taking" and most laughs occurred. In this, the junior highs won easily from their older rivals of high school age.

In "Rainbow fishing," even the ice cream and cake had to be held off in serving by Mrs. Vender, assisted by the president, until events of the catch could be made to determine the winners. Again Dick was a winner and Roger Little, too, with an added serving of ice cream and cake. But it is reported that Edward Golding Jr., "took the cake" — but where?

If the opening meeting of the year was a precedent some good times are in store for W. F. Y. in 1947.

Next week the group will begin a study of "India in the Throes of Change."

Memorial Service for Mrs. Delbert Rawson

About 35 were present Monday evening when the Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the social rooms of the Methodist Church. Business meeting and program followed the dinner served by women of Group No. 1.

A highlight of the evening was the impressive memorial service conducted for the late Mrs. Delbert Rawson. While the members stood with bowed heads, Mrs. E. W. Douglas gave a very fitting tribute to the life of Mrs. Rawson.

Mrs. A. H. Kinnaird was in charge of the program which had as the theme, "Our Stewardship of the Children of the World." Mrs. John McGrath reported on the work accomplished with the children of the church.

Installation of new officers and the annual pledge service for members was postponed until the February meeting because of adverse weather and road conditions.

Sees Adobe as Help In House Shortage

Former Editor Sees Its Value As Building Material.

WASHINGTON.—With the acute housing shortage reaching a disastrous stage the past year, preventing many young couples from marrying for lack of a home and causing thousands of others to double up with their families in a small and overcrowded household, methods of alleviating the condition are constantly being expounded by those needing homes themselves or possessing a sincere desire to help others obtain housing.

A new suggestion along these lines has been proffered by a 71-year-old gentleman living in this city. With wood and other building materials so scarce, why not use adobe?

Adobe is mud or clay which has been moulded into bricks and dried by the sun and air. It has long been associated with Indians and Mexicans in the building of their huts and, therefore, scorned by modern architects. Actually, however, adobe differs from our own bricks only in respect to the quality clay used and the method of hardening. Our bricks are dried by means of heated kilns and are more durable.

In 1938, M. J. Blanke and his wife vacationed in California where they saw many attractive homes, cottages, tourist cabins and shops made of adobe, bitudobe and cernadobe. When the need for building materials became formidable last spring, Blanke remembered the California adobe cottages he had seen and decided that here, indeed, was an ideal way to overcome the obstacles confronting those who wished to build.

He had recently sold his newspaper and, with time on his hands, he spent long and determined hours in the Library of Congress and other governmental agencies. He wrote hundreds of letters to every source available to obtain material regarding the use of adobe and soon accumulated a vast assortment of reliable data from various parts of the United States.

It proved conclusively to him that here was the best solution to a home at this time. Here was one way for veterans and others to build, or have built, homes for their families without delay and, better yet, build them "dirt cheap," so to speak.

A reference source list was compiled, printed and offered for sale.

Mrs. Ruth Teachout spent the holidays near Charlotte at the home of her parents, returning Jan. 2 to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Little. Mrs. Teachout is a patient in the Little home.

Sees Adobe as Help In House Shortage

Former Editor Sees Its Value As Building Material.

WASHINGTON.—With the acute housing shortage reaching a disastrous stage the past year, preventing many young couples from marrying for lack of a home and causing thousands of others to double up with their families in a small and overcrowded household, methods of alleviating the condition are constantly being expounded by those needing homes themselves or possessing a sincere desire to help others obtain housing.

A new suggestion along these lines has been proffered by a 71-year-old gentleman living in this city. With wood and other building materials so scarce, why not use adobe?

Adobe is mud or clay which has been moulded into bricks and dried by the sun and air. It has long been associated with Indians and Mexicans in the building of their huts and, therefore, scorned by modern architects. Actually, however, adobe differs from our own bricks only in respect to the quality clay used and the method of hardening. Our bricks are dried by means of heated kilns and are more durable.

In 1938, M. J. Blanke and his wife vacationed in California where they saw many attractive homes, cottages, tourist cabins and shops made of adobe, bitudobe and cernadobe. When the need for building materials became formidable last spring, Blanke remembered the California adobe cottages he had seen and decided that here, indeed, was an ideal way to overcome the obstacles confronting those who wished to build.

He had recently sold his newspaper and, with time on his hands, he spent long and determined hours in the Library of Congress and other governmental agencies. He wrote hundreds of letters to every source available to obtain material regarding the use of adobe and soon accumulated a vast assortment of reliable data from various parts of the United States.

It proved conclusively to him that here was the best solution to a home at this time. Here was one way for veterans and others to build, or have built, homes for their families without delay and, better yet, build them "dirt cheap," so to speak.

A reference source list was compiled, printed and offered for sale.

ments; it diverts 76 per cent of the revenue to home governments with public schools getting the lion's share.

In that extreme and inequitable distribution of the state's major tax lies the basic trouble. The amendment created a financial impossibility. State Treasurer D. Hale Brake, recently warned school districts against counting their chickens before they were hatched; that is, increasing teachers' wages in anticipation of the new financial melon from the state treasury.

A "more equitable distribution" of taxes now collected by the state would still make possible financial relief to school districts. Prior to the November election, Rep. John F. Espie of Eagle, long-time chairman of the house ways and means committee, warned that the state government could not function on only 24 per cent of the state sales tax. He recommended an increase of 25 to 33 per cent in the state's school aid — some $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 more for the coming biennium.

February 9 is the deadline for filing of a legislative resolution to re-submit the amendment at the spring election.

If the legislature would decline to re-submit the sales tax issue to the voters next spring — and it is likely that the Michigan Education association and the mayors of large cities will want to get assurances of adequate financial substitute — then the next alternate steps would be circulation of petitions by the voters or the calling of a state constitutional convention.

In recent years state elective officials have been hesitant about risking a constitutional convention because of the fluctuating temper of the public. The present financial crisis might overcome this objection.

Governor Sigler's recommendation for "better marketing and distribution of agricultural products" focused attention on a long-felt need in Michigan. The state department of agriculture has been pushing this program for years — with limited success. The greatest obstacle has been the Michigan grower himself. He has declined to submit to uniform state inspection, grading and marketing of such products as potatoes.

Here is a basic progressive program, and Governor Sigler's emphasis should be most helpful. There is some feeling at Lansing that the state's food advertising program itself has been premature, like putting the cart ahead of the horse, and that it should have been preceded by consumer confidence and acceptance of Michigan food products through uniform inspection and grading. Advertising itself cannot create confidence in the consumer's mind that Michigan potatoes, for example, are superior to those from Idaho or Maine.

The Sigler spirit of grand jury reform was reflected throughout the inaugural message. The governor would encourage honesty in public service through better salaries for legislators, prohibition of the "sale" of political influence for money, regulation of lobbyists, and more direct control of state commissions.

More executive power was suggested by Sigler as a way of ending the independent operation of commissions, many of which make rules and regulations having the effect of law, over which the legislative branch has no jurisdiction.

Inaugural Notes: The American cowboy has replaced the log cabin as a symbol of political virtue. A greeting from the governor's old cow-hands at Broken Bow, Neb., was read at the inaugural dinner. Ray Gorrell's orchestra, which furnished music for the inaugural ball, featured a vocalist attired as a cowgirl. Ray wore a big western hat.

The inaugural dinner was "haunted." The hotel's public address system emitted wild shrieks and noises until a provoked audience yelled "throw him out!" as a persistent electrician tried to fix it.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS work overtime when the nights are long and the days are dark. They don't do their best work, either, unless the lamp bulbs are kept free from dust and dirt . . . unless they're the proper size—neither too large nor too small . . . and unless they have shades that provide maximum glareless light.

Be sure you have plenty of spare light bulbs on hand, too. Your dealer has them or you'll find them at any Edison office—in all sizes—all modestly priced. You can exchange your burned-out bulbs at any Detroit Edison office. There's no charge for this service. Just bring an Edison service bill for quick identification.

Brisk rubbing with snow is not the way to treat frostbite, according to a warning from the Michigan Department of Health. Both the snow and the rubbing are harmful. Best treatment is to gently cover the frozen part with the hand until circulation is re-established. It is important that the frostbitten area return to normal temperature gradually, so hot water or other sources of heat should not be used.

Loss of feeling and a gray appearance due to the disappearance of blood are signs of frostbite. If circulation cannot be restored readily a physician should be consulted immediately.

Frostbite is most likely to occur when the weather combines low temperature and strong wind. The wind removes heat from unprotected parts of the body very rapidly.

More Milk Per Acre
Wilted hay made into silage provides almost 16 per cent more milk per acre of land than the same forage made into field-cured hay, according to studies at the Beltsville Research center of the department of agriculture.

Emergency Farm Labor Furnished Aid to Many Farms

In 1946 the Emergency Farm Labor program of the Michigan State College extension service again met and solved the problem of securing labor for farmers.

As a result, the largest cherry and peach crops in Michigan history; a large sugar beet crop; and better than average pickle, small fruit, and vegetable crops were harvested successfully, A. B. Love, state emergency farm labor supervisor, declared today.

In its recruitment program, the farm labor staff obtained approximately 48,000 workers who filled 178,775 jobs in answer to calls from 36,553 farmers. Included in these placements were: 2,242 Mexican Nationals, 1,490 Jamaicans, 1,213 Texas migrants, 9,823 migrants from other states and approximately 22,000 Michigan residents, including youth and vacationers.

In its 1946 attempt to assist farmers in the transition from war to peacetime conditions, the EFL program issued and distributed more than 100,000 pamphlets and bulletins. They gave information on easier methods of picking various crops.

Temporary housing to assure workers of homes while in Michigan was met by a loan of equipment. It included canvas and steel cots, mattresses, mattress covers, comforters, tents and cooking ranges valued at nearly $160,000. The equipment, which was obtained through the War Assets Administration, was later turned over to the growers at cost.

To enable farmers to establish their own procedures for handling help in the future, the EFL staff assisted in establishing the Michigan Farm Labor Services. It is a cooperative project covering the fruit areas in Michigan, and assisted the Michigan Field Crops, Inc., in handling the sugar beet, pickle, snap bean and tomato interests of the state.

Coal Miner Is Prized by Reds

Gets Best of Housing and Living Conditions Under Soviet Regulations.

KADIEVKA, UKRAINE. — The Donets basin coal miner is a valuable man in the Soviet union's economy, and the state knows it.

He gets the best rations, housing conditions that his mine, backed by the Communist party organization and the government, can provide.

A group of touring foreign correspondents from Moscow met scores of miners at coal mine 3-3BIS, which was described as a typical Donets basin mine. It is situated at Kadievka, 40 miles south of Voroshilovgrad.

Director Mikhail Ageev said the Germans had flooded the mine, but it had been pumped out after its recapture, in November, 1943.

Coal Production.
Coal production is expected to begin late this year, and by 1950 is expected to reach one million tons annually. Prewar output was 600,000 tons.

A heavy-set fellow named Sergei A. Stepanovich said that he considered himself and his son, Ivan, average miners at these diggings. Sergei, 44, is a tunnel cutter. His father was a tunnel cutter when the mine was opened in 1911. Ivan works on props which keep shafts from caving in.

A tunnel cutter's daily norm is one and a half meters. He receives 40 rubles ($5 at the diplomatic rate of exchange) daily for meeting the norm, plus bonuses for exceeding it. In an elaborate pay structure designed to give incentive under socialistic competition. He works six days a week.

Mine Builds Homes.
Sergei is a member of a trade union. The union has representatives on a grievance committee.

Sergei lives in a year-old house constructed by the mine to replace houses destroyed by Germans. His wife, Ivan and a younger son live with him. The house contains a large room and a kitchen. The monthly rent is four rubles. This is practically living rent-free.

The miner does not expect his wages to remain long at their current level of about 1,000 rubles a month. Once he has returned underground, he expects to earn twice that, with payments for overfulfillment.

Ivan has lower wage prospects than his father in his job. When Sergei reaches 55 he can retire on 70 per cent of his actual averaged earnings, including premiums. If he remains on the job he will continue to draw full pay.

Miners are exempt from taxes. If a miner agrees to leave his village, his family can continue to occupy his quarters and can keep any private livestock or other personal possessions.

Austria Takes Industries To Help Pay Reparations

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY. — Minister of Industry Antal Ban announced the Hungarian government has assumed control by decree of the country's major industries until reparations are paid.

The Paris peace conference fixed a 300 million dollar reparations bill for Hungary.

Among industries taken over under a decree issued early this year were Manfred Weiss, manufacturers of light and heavy metal products; Rimma Iron and Coal company, and the Ganz company, whose electric locomotives have been famous throughout the world.

Sealskins From Pribilofs Lovelier Than Ever Before

WASHINGTON. — Milady's seal-skins will be lovelier than ever this season because the war by-passed the Pribilofs.

Philip B. Fouke, head of the St. Louis concern which processes and sells 90 per cent of the world's seal-skins, said the government's 1946 catch is "the loveliest fur ever."

The harvest this year was 64,523 skins, which will make fewer than 10,000 coats.

Last year's skins brought an average of $87 each.

Austria Closes Factories For One Day Each Week

VIENNA, AUSTRIA. — Every factory in Austria is to be closed one day each week to save fuel. Low rainfall has caused a shortage of hydroelectric power. Further economy measures include cutting off of electricity for several hours daily to all domestic consumers and prohibition of private use of electricity for anything but lighting.

Use Seaplanes to Spearhead Expedition in Whale Hunt

LONDON. — Seaplanes are spearheading the British whale hunting expedition in the Antarctic.

Three converted Walrus seaplanes, earmarked for whale patrol, were launched at Cowes, Isle of Wight. The British expedition consists of a factory ship, a dozen catchers and seaplanes. The latter report the position of the whales or their feeding grounds allowing the parent ship to send out catchers.

THE PRACTICAL ONE

"What's Dick doing now?"
"Well, Dick, he's a doctorin'."
"And John?"
"He's horse tradin'."
"And William?"
"He's a savin' of souls."
"And Tom?"
"Well, Tom, he's sorter politician' around."
"And you?"
"Well, I'm sorter farmin', an' a-feedin' Dick, John, William an' Tom."

REASON FOR MUSSINESS

"Beg pardon, but aren't you one of the college boys?"

"Now, I couldn't find my suspenders this morning, my razor blades were all used up and just now the bus ran over my hat."

Modern Generation

The train was pulling out of the station when a young man threw his bag onto the observation platform, and swung himself up over the handrail. He stood painting but triumphant as the train gathered speed.

An elderly party on the platform observed him with some scorn. "You young fellows don't keep yourselves in condition," he snorted. "Why, when I was your age I could carry a cup of coffee in one hand, run half a mile, catch the 8-15 by the skin of my teeth and still be fresh as a daisy."

"You don't understand, pop," puffed the young man. "I missed this train at the last station."

Service Wanted

Little Polly's mother had taken her out into town to help with the shopping. When they went into the grocer's, the proprietor, who was fond of children, gave the little girl a big red apple. She took it without a word of thanks.

Dolly's mother was somewhat embarrassed by her daughter's lack of manners, and said to her, "Dear, what are you going to say?"

Dolly held out the apple to the grocer and said, "Peel it."

The want ads are newsy, too.

Physician, Heal Thyself

Tourist—Don't stand there gaping, man! Run and get the village doctor.

Native—You already got him, mister. That's him you just run over.

All the Same to Him

In a swank cafe the other evening a patron looked up from the menu, motioned for the waiter, and said: "I see here that you have beef hash for 85 cents and also beef hash for $1.35—what's the difference?"

A singularly stupid expression beclouded the waiter's face, and in an apologetic voice, he replied, "I'm sorry, sir, but I'm no good at arithmetic either."

Sounded Holy

A woman phoned her bank to arrange for the disposal of a $1,000 bond.

"Is the bond for redemption or conversion?" a clerk inquired.

There was a long pause, then the woman asked: "Am I talking to the First National bank or the First Baptist church?"

Just So He Won

Jones—Think of it! I've been elected alderman.

Mrs. Jones—Honestly?

Jones—Why ask that question?

Too Much Wampum

Wild Bee Disappearing—Since wild bees and other beneficial insects that naturally do the job of pollinating are disappearing, beekeeping is becoming more essential each year. The department of agriculture has reported that in some sections in the nation, agricultural development has wiped out the native beneficial insects to such a degree that plant farmers have had to import honeybees to pollinate plants.

PRACTICAL FARM BUILDINGS

Trench Type Silo

By W. J. Dryden, WNU Farm Editor.

While a trench is the cheapest form of a silo from the standpoint of cash expenditure, it offers the additional advantages that it can be constructed in a short time, less expensive to fill, is wind- and fire-proof as well as frost-proof. It has the added advantage that it is easier to operate than above-ground silo.

To dig a trench silo economically, a Fresno and plow should be used. In some silos the walls may be given the final smoothing by sprinkling them and cutting them down with a hoe.

cement plaster, (D) plank, (E) make them strong enough to stand vertically. The trench sides should first be covered with two layers of hog fencing, running in opposite directions.

In many cases it may be more economical over a period of years to even borrow money and construct an upright, above ground silo. Or it might be advisable to build such a silo in sections as funds are available. When this is not advisable or possible, good results can be secured by the trench-type silo, as it does offer many advantages, particularly to the small farmer.

Any size of trench may be made. In most soils the sides should be inclined so that they will have a slope of at least one foot to each four feet of depth, particularly to reduce the tendency for the walls to cave.

In places where ground water rises or stands up within four or five feet of the ground surface, the trench may be dug down nearly to the water table and the walls built up around the trench with the dirt taken from it. Where ground is flat, or level, and no drainage can be

'Wings for All' Aim Of New Army School

Six Training Units Are Ordered To Be Changed.

WASHINGTON. — Reorganization of six army schools was ordered by the war department in a move toward eventually giving wings to the infantry and all other ground forces.

The order, issued by General Deviers, ground forces commander, make the air borne school subordinate to the infantry school. Both are at Fort Benning, Ga.

An announcement said "plans call for all ground units eventually to be air transportable and the integration of the two schools under one head should make future activities more efficient."

Other schools to be reorganized include the coast artillery school, Fort Winfield Scott, Calif.; anti-aircraft, Fort Bliss, Texas; air training, Fort Sill, Okla., and the cavalry and intelligence schools, both at Fort Riley, Kans.

In each case the order involves shifting headquarters, activities to another school which the war department said would effect material savings in overhead and administrative personnel.

The field artillery school will be redesignated the artillery school. It will have a sea coast branch—at Fort Winfield Scott and an anti-aircraft and guided missiles branch at Fort Bliss.

Activities of the air training school will be turned over to a newly created air training department of the artillery school which will administer ground forces pilot training as well as training of air mechanics.

From Fort Riley, functions of the cavalry school not involving animals will be transferred to the armored school at Fort Knox, Ky.

Man With Gun Chase Has Surprise Ending

KANKAKEE, ILL.—Two state police squad cars and one from the Kankakee police department threw up a barrier on a highway and closed in on four men.

The chase followed a report from a nearby community that one of the four men was carrying a gun.

The investigating police halted the car and found the man had a gun. But they discovered it was all right. He was a Springfield, Ill., detective going to Chicago for a convention.

Army Plans on Recruiting 5,000 Disabled War Vets

WASHINGTON. — The army announced it will recruit 5,000 partly disabled veterans and offer them a career.

The army said men who have an honorable discharge and received their wounds in honorable service will be eligible for re-enlistment, to serve in jobs that will free physically able soldiers for more strenuous duty.

Positions open to partially disabled veterans include that of Diesel and automobile mechanic clerk, postal clerk, dental technician, draftsman, electrician, machinist, motion-picture projectionist, sign painter, shoe repairman, stenographer, tailor, teletype operator and many other semi-skilled jobs.

British Vessel Sails to Pick Up Some Whale Meat

SOUTHAMPTON, ENGLAND.—British scientists believe whale meat may turn out to be a satisfactory substitute for beef to ease meat shortages.

The Balsaena, a 15,000-ton whaling ship equipped with radar-directed harpoons, sailed for the Antarctic to find out whether roast whale can be eaten with relish by humans.

$100,000 for Earrings Paid At Auction Sale in London

LONDON. — Lady Ludlow's earrings brought $100,000. Lady Ludlow, whose first husband was an African diamond mine operator, died in 1945. Protection for Earthquake; Buildings Put on Skates

NEW YORK.—A method of putting buildings on roller skates so they can glide in protection against earthquakes was announced.

The "skates," a special type of roller bearing assemblies, will allow a building to roll six inches in any direction to cushion the shock of an earthquake.

Ceiling Price on Fancy Cloth Is Abolished by the OPA

WASHINGTON. — Price controls are gone from metallic cloth lame—the stuff that makes evening dresses glitter, hats dazzle and blouses sparkle. Classing the material as a luxury "chiefly because the tarnishing quality of the metal threads give it short life," OPA said its decontrol action applied to all such cloth containing at least 25 percent of the metallic yarn. Its use for decorative purposes is general.

Orders for Chicks Should Be Placed, Poultry Men Advise

Will I buy chicks this year or will I carry my yearling hens over the second year?

That's a question that Michigan State College poultry department specialists often get this time of the year from farmers throughout Michigan. Howard C. Zindel, extension specialist, says it's an established fact that pullets lay more eggs than hens, and lay them when eggs are selling at the highest prices.

July to December is usually the season of highest egg prices. Early hatched pullets produce more eggs from August through December than will older hens. Older hens hit the production peak in their second year of laying between January and June — when egg prices are usually at their lowest.

Heavy breed yearlings should not be kept over for market eggs alone according to the recommendation of the poultry specialists.

Orders for new chicks should be placed immediately. Soon copies of a list of hatcheries operating under the national poultry improvement program will be available from county agricultural agents and the MSC poultry department. These hatcheries are inspected for control of pullorum disease and chicks are produced from eggs produced from tested and approved flocks.

Chicks should be ordered for early delivery to take advantage of early layers during late summer and early fall. When chicks have been ordered, farmers should then begin making ready a sanitary, warm and roomy brooding house to bring the chicks along in a method that will insure healthful growth.

COLD NO'S

No, it's not much fun to be immobilized in a winter blunderland—or the victim of an accident. You can't blitz a blizzard. Keep posted on the cold facts of winter driving conditions, and don't start unless you are sure the roads and your car's equipment will permit you to get through safely.

Chicken Diet

Investigations in a number of different laboratories have revealed that the growing chicken needs 13 different vitamins including vitamins A, D, E and K, thiamin, riboflavin, pantothenic acid, nicotinic acid, pyridoxin, biotin, choline, inositol and folic acid. All of these vitamins can be supplied as crystalline compounds, and chickens grow normally when fed such a combination of pure vitamins in conjunction with a suitable combination of purified carbohydrate, protein, fat and mineral salts.
