Vegetable Trickery

It seems only yesterday that winter vegetables were allowed to lie in storage almost indefinitely, and when served, it was done with an apology. Yet these winter members of the vegetable kingdom have not only good nourishment but excellent appetite appeal to offer.

Carrots and sweet potatoes are rich sources of vitamin A which we need for building resistance to colds. Rutabaga is also rich in this vitamin. For vitamin B2 you can concentrate on such things as turnip greens, beet greens, green lima beans and dried peas. Green peppers, which are easily available as well as brussels sprouts, are good sources of vitamin C. Green beans, broccoli and cabbage supply calcium, phosphorus and iron.

Fortunately for advances made in cooking techniques, none of the winter vegetables need wear a humdrum air when they come to the dinner table. Dress them up and give them a bit of seasoning and glamor and the family will relish them.

*Carrot Loaf. (Serves 6)

1 cup milk 3 eggs 1 teaspoon salt Dash of pepper 1 tablespoon 'sugar 1 tablespoon salad oil 1½ cups grated raw carrots 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs 1/2 cup chopped nuts 1 cup cooked rice

Add milk to well beaten eggs; add bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45 minutes. Serve with a cream sauce to which hard-cooked eggs or peas have been added.

Fried Carrois and Apples. (Serves 6)

6 medium-sized carrots 6 small apples 3 tablespoons drippings

2 tablespoons brown sugar 14 cup dark corn syrup 1 teaspoon salt Wash and drain carrots; cut into thin pieces lengthwise. Wash, peel and core apples; cut into eighths lengthwise. Melt drippings in skillet and add sugar and syrup. Arrange carrots and _ apples in alternate layers in pan, sprinkling each layer with salt. Cover and cook over low flame for 1½ hours. Turn onto hot platter and serve at once. Puffs are a very popular way of dressing up vegetables. Here are wo vegetables treated in this way:

mashed rutabaga with salt, pepper, sugar and wellbeaten egg yolks. Turn into a Good beef steers greased casserole and heifers and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 to 25 minutes.

Stuffed Onions.

(Serves 4) 4 medium-sized onions 2 tablespoons butter

2 tablespoons flour 1 cup milk ½ teaspoon salt Dash of pepper

1 egg yolk 2 tablespoons grated cheese 1 cup cooked peas

Peel onions; cover with boiling salted water and cook gently for 30 minutes or until tender. Make cream sauce of butter, flour and milk and season with salt and pepper. Add egg yolk and cheese, then peas. Cut a cross almost through the onions and fill with the creamed peas. Sprinkle with paprika and serve at once.

> *Sour Cream Cabbage. (Serves 4 or 5)

2 tablespoons butter ½ peeled, minced clove garlic 8 cups finely shredded cabbage 14 cup boiling water

14 cup sour cream 1 tablespoon lemon juice 1 tablespoon granulated sugar 1 tablespoon salt 1/4 teaspoon celery seed

1 egg, beaten Melt butter in skillet, then saute garlic in it for 5 minutes. Add cabbage and boiling water. Cover and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for 8 to 15 minutes. Add remaining ingredients which have been combined. For meat stains, which are primarily greasy in origin, try using ammonia. Place this in a shallow pan and let the cloth remain in it for several minutes, several hours or even overnight. The fumes from the ammonia help to loosen the grease in the stain. Soak wine stains with alcohol, or apply one of the fruit stain removers. Cover a fresh stain of red wine with salt, as chlorine produced by the action of acid on the salt will bleach out the mark.

Canning Hint

Use on your electric range of a pressure canner with a diameter larger than the range's heating unit may result in discoloration of the range's white porcelain top. Any possibility of damage can be averted by this simple process: Raise the range's heating unit about onequarter inch by inserting three small metal or asbestos wedges between the heating unit and the range's top or spacer ring - just enough to keep the bottom of the canner from contact with the procelain surface.

Broken by Mountains

Haiti, one of the most romantic of the Caribbean countries, is divided by three mountain ranges, running from east to west, which separate this tropical land into a series of isolated valleys which are broken up into many small parcels of land.

"Michigan cannot long continue versy. and financial structure," Governor should receive the largest share of Sigler declared in his budget mes-"I am convinced that we should have, at the earliest possible date, a complete revision of our total tax structure.

"This should not be done in a make-shift manner. It should be approached with the idea of getting at the cause for the present financial plight of the cities of Michigan. It should be done with full understanding of the problems of the schools. It must be done with an appreciation of the responsibilities of state government in the services it renders to the people.

"It must be considered in the light of the taxpayer and his ability to bear the burden of taxation . . . It must delineate clearly the responsibilities between state and local units of government - both for collecting and spending tax money in order that form of a 15-mill limitation." Next, the Legislature turned to the sales tax.

"Since the sales tax was adopted." state expenditures have increased $168 million or 151 per cent, but it would be a mistake to think that this money has been spent by the state government for its own activities. It has increased its annual expenditures for direct state services to the people by 30 million dollars in this period, but at the same time the state's payments to local units of government have increased 138 million dollars."

It is the governor's thesis that we have completely overloaded our "antiquated tax structure" and that unless something is done soon the "props we have put under it from time to time are threatening to give way and let the financial house fall down upon our heads."

Woman's World Careful Dress Fitting Required To Minimize All Figure Faults

By Ertta Haley

Next time you are shopping o riding in a public conveyance, look about you. Yes, do it critically, too. One thing I can guarantee you is that very few people will look perfect as far as their figures are concerned.

Now look again and try to find the most attractive woman around you and look at her critically. At first glance she may look perfect, which is as it should be, but on careful inspection you may notice that one shoulder is a little higher than the other or that her proportions aren't quite as perfect as they first appeared. However, you say, she does look nice.

Well, that's the way we all should like to measure up when inspected either by others or ourselves. And it can be done, as you have seen for yourself, if we dress so as to point up our good points and minimize those about which we are not so

Fortunately there are many tricks that can be applied to clothing and many disguises to be employed which will do just that for us. We play up our eyes and features if they are good, then carefully add more padding to one shoulder, lift or lower the waistline, nip it in or make it one inch more loose, and hide our figure faults very suc-

Side Seams, Back and Front Lines Must Be Straight

Always check the long lines of the garment first. Don't try to stand unnaturally straight so they will look right, but see if the side seams and front and back lines look straight when you stand normally. They should just fit and fall in place one rarely thinks of straightening up or walking in an unnatural way, Naturally, if you have a noticeable slouch, correct it, but if your posture is fairly good, then the garment should do the rest.

The lengthwise threads of the fabric, both in the back and front, should hang straight. If you are sewing at home, the best way to make sure your fabric will hang properly is not to neglect the basting threads that help guide us in sewing and help us in keeping the material properly aligned. A small thing, this, but it will save time and effort in fitting later. Always check horizontal lines before you stitch. Armholes, sleeves, neckline and shoulders should be examined critically to see if they balance on you when you fit the garment. Check before putting in your final stitching. Press before stitching to help guide you in this.
