Progress Report On County-wide Bang's Disease Test

Percentage of Reactor Cattle Increases in Test Program in Tuscola

Percentage of reactor cattle increases in county-wide Bang's test program. With 500 herds now tested, representing 5,121 cattle, the percentage of infected cattle is now at 7.68% of all cattle. This is nearly 1% higher than a month ago.

Reactors are found in practically every fourth herd in the county. Many of the reactors detected through this test are being disposed of for slaughter purposes by their owners. Others are retaining them in their herd and adopting the practice of calf-hood vaccination. The farmers who do retain reactors in their herds are asked to observe strict precautions against further spread of the disease. Such cattle should be isolated from the rest of the herd at calving time and it is illegal for any reactor cattle to be moved from one farm to another or otherwise, except for slaughter purposes.

This is part of the restriction laid down by the so-called Bontine Law and gives protection against spread of infection of reactor animals.

Progress of the county-wide test has been considerably slowed down by the snow blocked roads. As soon as the roads open up, those in charge hope to cover the territory before time to turn cattle out in the spring.

Thumb Roads Blocked by Drifts Early This Week

Many Township Roads Are Kept Impassable by Series of Storms the Past Month

Side roads in the Upper Thumb district were filled up again the first of the week and snowdrifts rendered automobile travel impossible in many sections. It was one of a series of storms the past month that has kept many farmers' cars in their garages and made it necessary to either walk or use horse and sleighs to reach villages for supplies of provisions. In some instances, it was necessary to shovel roads to permit the use of horses and bobsleighs.

Milk haulers, school bus drivers and rural mail carriers were limited to partial trips for several days and they report the snowdrifted highways in the worst condition in many years. Several schools were closed for a few days and various meetings of societies and other groups were postponed by the storms.

High winds hampered the work of snow removal crews early this week and driving was hazardous in sections. Not only township roads but several trunk lines were "plugged" with snow on Monday. The Lamotte Presbyterian Church at the corner of M-53 and M-46 provided warmth and refuge in its basement for nearly 60 people who were marooned by the storm Monday night. Some slept on tables, others on chairs, and a few on the floor. Blankets were unloaded from a snow bound furniture truck. Bacon and eggs, toast, coffee and doughnuts were served by hospitable neighbors to the stranded group. A line of 32 cars was "held up" in a drifted county road between Vassar and Carr's Corners Monday.

To reinstate, the veteran must submit a statement that he is in as good health as he was when his insurance lapsed and must remit two months' premiums for the amount of insurance he desires to reinstate.

Poultry Institutes Are Well Attended

Poultry institutes held at Unionville and Vassar last Thursday and Friday proved popular to county poultry producers. The meetings were sponsored jointly by the county extension office, local merchants, and county hatcherymen.

Exhibits of live poultry, canned and frozen fowl, and poultry feeds and remedies were featured. Demonstrations of poultry culling, poultry dressing and cutting for freezing, and poultry cookery were offered. A 31 pound dressed frozen turkey was exhibited by the Vassar Turkey Roost Farms.

There are, according to the 1945 census, 567,346 chickens produced annually on Tuscola County farms. The value of these birds and the poultry products produced in that year in the county was $508,667.00. The average Saginaw Valley farm keeps 127 laying hens. Each hen produced an average income of $4.30 in egg production in 1945. Each farm in the valley grossed a poultry income of $791 in the same year.

Poultrymen were advised to cull their laying flocks once each month and to market non-layers. Baby chicks should be purchased not later than April 15 for profitable egg production next fall.

Financing Vets' Bonus Is Still an Unsolved Problem

Law Suit Pending to Test Validity of Legislator's Daily Expense Allowance

How Michigan is to finance its $270,000,000 veterans' bonus is still an unsolved problem of the state legislature, now beginning its third month of deliberation.

Approximately 620,000 men and women will receive cash payments as evidence of the state's deep gratitude for their patriotic service and personal sacrifice. These benefits will be in addition to the annual earnings of the $50,000,000 veterans' trust fund, proceeds of which are to be administered by local units of veterans' organizations.

A touchy topic is whether the veterans of World War II and their relatives should be taxed along with the rest of the people in the state to pay off the bonus bond issue and interest on bonds. Nothing was said about taxes last November when the bond issue came before the voters. But the problem is still on the books, and money must be raised somehow to foot the bill. Like an infected tooth, it must come out of somebody's pocketbook.

The bonus matter, of course, is involved closely with the over-all enigma of state finances. Governor Kim Sigler sought to induce the legislature to put the controversial sales tax amendment on the April election ballot. Lack of two-third majority in the Senate balked this move.

Now a test suit is being filed to find out whether the amendment is constitutional. The Michigan Education Association spokesman for school teachers, has filed a suit to mandamus the State treasurer and State Auditor General. These officials decline to fork over additional school funds until the court decides.

Another law suit is pending to test the validity of the $7.50 per day allowance for legislators' living costs (room and board) while away from home on state business. Senator Otto Bishop, Alpena, chair.

Area in Farms in Michigan Changes Little in 50 Years

There has been no important change in the amount of land in farms in Michigan in the past fifty years. The recently released U. S. Census of Agriculture for Michigan shows that about 50 per cent of Michigan's land area is in farms.

E. B. Hill, head of the department of farm management at Michigan State College, says that this is of particular significance to those in the state who think there may be opportunities for developing brand new farms from unimproved areas.

The 178-page report presents information for Michigan, by counties, of the number of farms, acreage use of the farm land, value of farm property, acres and production of crops harvested, numbers of livestock, and the amount and value of livestock products.

Other items included in the report are the value of farm products by source of income, number of farms by tenure, sizes of farms, and farms classified by the total value of farm products.

The report reveals there were about 175,000 farms in Michigan on January 1, 1945. Of this number about 100,000 harvested 30 or more acres of crops. Hill believes it would be reasonable to assume that these 100,000 farms include most, if not all of the commercial farms in Michigan.

This publication, containing the latest reports from the Bureau of the Census, is entitled, "United States Census of Agriculture 1945, Statistics by Counties for Michigan." A copy of this report may be obtained for $1.25 from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C.

Warm Clothes At Last

HAPPY smiles show the joy of these Italian children and women over receiving a small allotment of warm clothing from a distribution depot of American Relief for Italy. Since the beginning of the war the Italians have been unable to obtain clothes and millions are now wearing rags. Children are hardest hit by this scarcity. To try to meet the clothes shortage American Relief for Italy has distributed more than 15,000,000 pounds of new and used clothes, shoes and blankets. These donations by Americans replace but a small amount of the clothes needed by almost 45,000,000 men, women and children. This is emphasized by the exhaustion of the fuel supply which makes the homes of Italy cold and damp. American Relief for Italy will meet this shortage with the aid of the American people who will contribute funds during February.

Unemployment in the cities is causing city men in unusually large numbers to turn to the farms for work, according to a periodical report on farm conditions issued by Verne H. Church of the federal state bureau of farm crop statistics. Many city men are out of work, the report declares.

This advanced the Dillmanites up the ladder from sixth spot to second place and tied with the Gremel Five. The Landon squad was the only other team in the league to grab up a full four points over the week and thereby left the cellar position for the Krug team to hold down for the time being.

Concrete Floors Increase Profits

Faster Gains and Feed Savings Prove Results

By W. J. DRYDEN

Faster gains and the saving of feed are the aims of every hog raiser. Among the most essential farm improvements that may bring these results are concrete feeding floors. Such floors help produce more pork and save feed from being lost in the mud.

Each hog should have 10 square feet of floor space. To build 100 square feet of floor, 4 inches thick, it will take 7½ sacks of portland cement, ¾ cubic yard of sand and 1 cubic yard of gravel or crushed rock.

If the area to be paved is poorly drained, it is best to place the concrete slab on a well-tamped fill of about six inches. If the concrete is to be driven over, it should be six inches thick.

New concrete should be properly cured by covering with earth or straw as soon as it has hardened enough not to be marred, and then kept moist for at least five days by frequent sprinkling.

KNOW YOUR BREED

Morocco Spotted Horse

By W. J. DRYDEN

The Morocco horse originated in the crossbreeding of the Morocco Barb and the English Hackney and the French coach horse.

The conformation of the Morocco Barb is somewhat similar to the Arabian horse.

In size the Morocco varies from 1,050 to 1,400 pounds. It is a general purpose horse, bred for work as well as pleasure. The working team is fast and steady, and has considerable stamina. They have the power to reproduce themselves true to type and color even when used with other colors and breeds.

To be registered they must stand 14½ hands high. Type must be clean and neat with ample legs to be suitable for either saddle or harness.

Telling Sheep Age

By Teeth Diagrams

The age of sheep up to four years can be determined easily by examining the teeth. The mouths of sheep are equipped with a full set of 24 molar teeth on both upper and lower jaws. In addition to these eight incisor teeth are provided along the front of the lower jaw.

The chart designed by University of Alberta should prove an accurate guide in determining or estimating the age of sheep.

Alfalfa Seed Yield Increased With DDT

Alfalfa seed plots at the Utah station dusted with DDT to control lygus bugs produced 400 pounds of seed per acre—fields not dusted produced less than 100 pounds.

Until DDT became available, no insecticide had been found that would control these insects at a cost that was economically feasible. The tests proved that DDT offers promise of greatly increasing seed production by control of lygus bugs.

See Ultra-Violet Light

Persons who have had an eye lens removed can see objects clearly in ultra-violet light that are almost invisible to those with good eyes. In the normal individual, the lens absorbs almost all of the light in the ultra-violet portion of the spectrum so that very little of it reaches the retina.

Longer Handle Speeds Pruning

Members of the Emergency Farm Labor program of the Michigan State college extension service say that this method of pruning in the orchard will save time, labor, and spray materials and will avoid the danger of falling from ladders.

A pruning saw handle eighteen inches or longer in length, instead of the regular size, will allow pruning of seventy-five percent of the water sprouts and much thin wood from a standing position on the ground. The longer handle will not only save climbing trees and ladders, but will do an effective pruning job so that suckers won't be robbing the soil of moisture and fertility, shading the fruit, lowering quality and preventing spray materials from reaching all parts of the tree.

The saws are obtainable at most local dealers, and bulletins are available at the county agent's office on using this type of saw when following the "thin wood" method of pruning.

Cattle Often Find Harmful Plant Life in Farm Woodlots

The warmer days, when many farmers move their cattle out of the barn to the farm woods, are not too far away.

W. Ira Bull, extension forester at Michigan State College, warns farmers that turning cattle into the farm woodlot may be bad management.

When cattle are kept in the barn during the winter, close attention is paid to their diet. The warm spring days should not be a signal to turn them loose to eat much of the harmful plant life that grows in woodlots.

Wild cherry trees are abundant in most upland farm woods. The leaves will form a deadly acid in the stomach of a cow. Low, wet areas frequently abound in water hemlock — also a livestock killer. These plants are not found in a good alfalfa, brome, or clover pasture.

In connection with livestock, the farm woods can be used for one purpose. It can supply shade for the cattle. A minor rearrangement of fences can give the cattle an acre or so of shade in areas that do not harbor livestock forage hazards.

It is best to pasture livestock in the open sunlight. In addition to harmful plants, many animals diseases persist in shady places where sunshine does not strike the ground.

Let the woodland grow timber and put the cows in a good pasture.

Quality Milk

Healthy cows with healthy udders, cleanliness, and quick cooling are all necessary for the production of high-quality milk.

SAVE LABOR BY PLANNING CHORES

Chore planning is one way to cut time and labor, according to B. R. Bookhout, specialist in farm management at Michigan State College.

One Michigan dairy farmer with 12 cows analyzed his chores, planned them, and put the plan into effect. Figures showed that planning the chores saved 26 minutes and 639 steps in one day. When these savings are taken over a period of one year, they amount to 16 days or 119 miles.

REAL DIFFERENCE

A lady psychiatrist was analyzing a patient at the Mayo clinic and asked:

"What would you say is the difference between a little boy and a dwarf?"

The patient went into deep thought, then said: "Well, there might be a lot of difference."

"What for instance?" encouraged the lady psychiatrist.

"Well," said the patient, "the dwarf might be a girl."

Virus Pneumonia Virus pneumonia, first reported in Switzerland in 1878, appeared in the United States in 1929 and 1930, when 169 cases of psittacosis with 19 per cent mortality were reported in this country, following the importation of diseased parrots from South America.

Must Protect Our Top Secret Papers

House Committee Calls for Prompt Action.

WASHINGTON. — A house judiciary subcommittee called for quick steps to tighten the government's system for protecting its top secret papers, declaring "an astonishing lack of security" prevailed during the war.

The report grew out of a congressional inquiry into the government's handling of a case involving indictment of three persons on charges of illegal possession of confidential state department documents.

"There has been too little safeguarding of documents," the report commented. "Some agencies could not ascertain whether or not certain of their records were missing."

The report added that "there is no evidence nor hint justifying adverse criticism" of officials for their handling of the state department case. Representative Fellows (Rep., Maine) took issue with this finding. He said in a minority statement that the government underestimated the strength of its case against the individuals prosecuted. He added that Representative Dondero (Rep., Mich.), author of the resolution authorizing the inquiry, had declared the state department forbade arrests of some of the persons suspected.

Philip J. Jaffe, editor of the magazine Amerasia, pleaded guilty to the illegal possession charge and was fined $2,500. E. S. Larsen, state department employee, was fined $500 on a no contest plea. The government dropped its case against Andrew Roth, former naval reserve lieutenant. The grand jury did not indict three other persons whose names were referred to it by the FBI.

The committee report said there was no evidence that the documents were stolen, noting that Larsen had authority to take such papers from the files.

"No criminal intent on the part of the subject parties was ever established and there was no evidence that any of the documents or copies was ever put to any use harmful to the war effort," the report added.

Photos of Sun Taken

With Aid of Rocket

WASHINGTON. — A rocket-mounted spectograph has taken "pictures" of the sun from a height 65 miles above the earth. Announcing this, the navy said it is studying portions of the sun's spectrum never before photographed.

The pictures were taken from a Nazi V-2 rocket. It is not possible at present to say much more than that very valuable information will be obtained from these spectrograms," the navy said. "Actually, the analysis of the data may well require a full year."

Spectrograms enable scientists to determine the materials which compose the sun. Using such pictures, scientists discovered helium on the sun before it was found on the earth. Spectrograms taken at the higher altitudes are valuable because the light which reaches the earth is filtered by the air, and the shorter wavelengths of light never reach the ground surface.

Old Tradition at College

Thrown for Loss by Girls

EMPORIA, KANS. — Tradition boomeranged to bring red faces and wet pants to upperclassmen at Emporia State Teachers college. Theory is that football lettermen ban freshmen from restricted campus areas and upperclass coeds prohibit freshman girls wearing makeup during homecoming week hazing.

Outnumbered, the football team was tossed into a campus pond and upperclasswomen were dunked by the new girls after a near riot in which lipstick smeared, barked skins and muzzled tresses were much in evidence.

Nazi Is Given 10 Years For Parading Americans

FLORENCE, ITALY.—An American military commission sentenced German Lt. Gen. Kurt Maelzter to 10 years' imprisonment for parading some 200 United States prisoners of war from Rome February 2, 1944. Affidavits from soldiers in the march said they were spat upon, stoned and insulted. The commission found that Maelzter, commander of German troops in Rome during the occupation, had violated an article of the Geneva convention securing prisoners against mistreatment.

Tipping by Yanks in Europe Is Forbidden by U. S. Army

FRANKFURT, GERMANY.—Tipping has been banned in all clubs, bars, hotels, messes and other similar establishments operated by the U. S. army in Europe. The order said that tipping, in addition to money, included the giving of such items as candy bars or cigarettes for services furnished by waiters, porters, bootblacks and attendants in other personal service establishments.

IT'S EASY TO FOLLOW THE ROW

...IF YOU LOOK AHEAD

The new Allis-Chalmers Model C Implements are mounted on the tractor, well forward and ahead of the driver's seat. You can aim them like a rifle down the row.

Particularly in planting or cultivating on the contour, you find out what a tremendous advantage this is. FRONT-MOUNTED IMPLEMENTS follow the curve, unlike trailed implements which characteristically "tend to cut the corners."

This is an advantage, too, in turning at the ends. Front-mounted implements follow the row nearly to the fence.

Fertilizer attachments are also up front, easy to watch. Handy dual levers control the depth of right and left gangs, independently of each other. A convenient and efficient Hydraulic Lift operates at a finger's touch.

LOOK AHEAD in comfort. "Foresight is easier than Hindsight," the Allis-Chalmers way.

man of the state finance committee, sponsored this bill which the Senate and House adopted and which Governor Sigler signed.

Phillip C. Kelly, attorney in Jackson, has filed a suit challenging the law's constitutionality.

It is recalled that four attorney generals, prior to Attorney General Eugene C. Black, ruled that legislative expense accounts were illegal under our state constitution.

Attorney General Black was frustrated in efforts to collect $2,500 a year living expenses by Auditor General Muriel Aten who declined to honor his claims. Black retaliated by commuting daily between Lansing and Port Huron, his home town, via a state automobile and state-paid gasoline.

Mr. Black's deputy, Leo Brennan, who also sought to collect living expenses, has returned to the Upper Peninsula to accept a governor's appointment as judge. The L'Anse attorney was probate judge of Baraga County at an annual salary of $2,200 prior to his arrival in Lansing. He served as probate judge on a part-time basis.

Two bills have been introduced in the Michigan legislature to help finance the Michigan $270,000,000 bonus to war veterans. State bill 94, sponsored by Senators Tripp, Bonine, Bishop and Fletcher, would impose a 1 per cent tax on taxable net income, as reported for federal tax purposes. Senate Bill 97 (Milliken, Down and Heath) would remove the $50,000 ceiling from the state corporation tax.

The first measure would finance the bonus payments by a levy on all personal income. The second measure would accomplish the same thing at the expense of corporations — "Big business" as the politicians traditionally say.

As an indication of what may be said in the legislature when the matter comes to a head, Governor Thomas E. Dewey was made the target of attacks by Democratic leaders recently when he advocated a combination of new taxes to finance a proposed $400,000,000 veterans' bonus. These taxes would raise $40,000,000 a year — a sizeable sum — in the following manner.

Addition of 1 cent to the present 2-cents-a-package cigarette tax. (Michigan has no cigarette tax.)

Addition of 1 cent to the present 4-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax. (Michigan's gasoline tax is now 3 cents.)

Addition of 25 per cent to the alcoholic beverage tax. (Michigan increased its take 10 per cent in 1946 to raise funds for cities.)

Addition of 1 per cent on top of an existing 2 per cent tax on the gross income of utilities.

Increase in personal income tax by raising the 50 per cent basic rate to 60 per cent.

You will note that in most of the above taxes the cost would be paid in part by war veterans and their relatives. In fact, surprising as it may seem, Governor Dewey frankly takes the position that it is not practical to finance the bonus of this size without general taxation. In proposing a bipartisan commission to study the bonus, Governor Dewey observed: "Before long, the million and a half veterans and their wives, parents, children, brothers, sisters and other relatives will constitute at least eight out of every 10 people in the state. They and their relatives therefore will be paying for whatever benefits are voted."

Democratic leaders in New York state denounced Governor Dewey. They say the bonus should not be paid by veterans and their relatives; they suggest that industry be forced to share its "profits".

What the Michigan legislature will do is yet to be decided. With the $50,000,000 trust fund intact and a $270,000,000 bonus well on the way, Michigan will have done well with its veterans. On a national basis the record is equally good, if not better.

Last fall in the four-year colleges alone over the nation there were more than 700,000 veterans as full-time students. The Veterans Administration recently reported that 2,258,987 veterans were attending schools or taking job training up to November 30.

Unemployment benefits of $20 a week for 52 weeks are available to ease the readjustment of veterans. Veterans have the advantage also of retaining life insurance to the amount of $10,000 at a lower rate of premium than is available to the public. They have medical care or hospitalization and pension rights. The $270,000,000 bonus in Michigan and the $400,000,000 bonus in New York are all part of the big picture — expressions of gratitude from the Nation.

DEFORD

Death of J. Wells Spencer—

J. Wells Spencer passed away in death at his farm home one mile north and ½ mile east, at eleven o'clock on the evening of Feb. 6, due to internal hemorrhage with which he was stricken about ten o'clock that morning. Funeral services were held in the Deford Methodist Church at two o'clock on March 1 and burial was made in Novesta cemetery. Services were conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Walter Mollan. Harley Kelley and Gerald Hicks sang two selections with Mrs. Malcolm as pianist. Pallbearers were John Field, John Jordan, Arthur Hartwick, George Jacoby, R. E. Johnson and Glenn Towsley. The floral offerings were beautiful.

The deceased was the youngest of three sons born to the late Lyman and Mary Ann Spencer. The brothers, Edward and Frank, have been dead for several years.

James Wells Spencer was born in Novesta Township Nov. 10, 1875, and as a farmer nearly all his life, has lived within two miles of Deford. Nov. 30, 1897, he was united in marriage to Phebe Anna Belle Gough, and they became the parents of five children: Vina, (Mrs. Harvey Palmateer) of Deford, Lena, (Mrs. Harold Spencer) of Pontiac, Myrtle (Mrs. Gordon Lamkin) of Inkster, Anna (Mrs. Nathan Freeman) of Lapeer, and Willard Spencer of Harbor Beach. Mrs. Spencer (Phebe) was taken by death April 21, 1922.

Feb. 6, 1935, Mr. Spencer married Mrs. Rose Groth. Left to mourn his departure are his widow, his five children, 16 grandchildren and six great grandchildren, five stepsons and three stepdaughters. He was a pleasant neighbor, a kind

Desperate Measures

Watson's wife was well known in the little suburban community for her numerous shopping forays into the city. These costly excursions were a source of dismay to Mr. Watson, especially when his fellow commuters chided him about it. Then came the day the dignified Watson boarded the commuter's special with a pair of his wife's shoes under his arm. They were destined for the repair shop. A neighbor, viewing them skeptically, quipped:

"Rather a drastic measure, eh, Watson?"

Real Justice

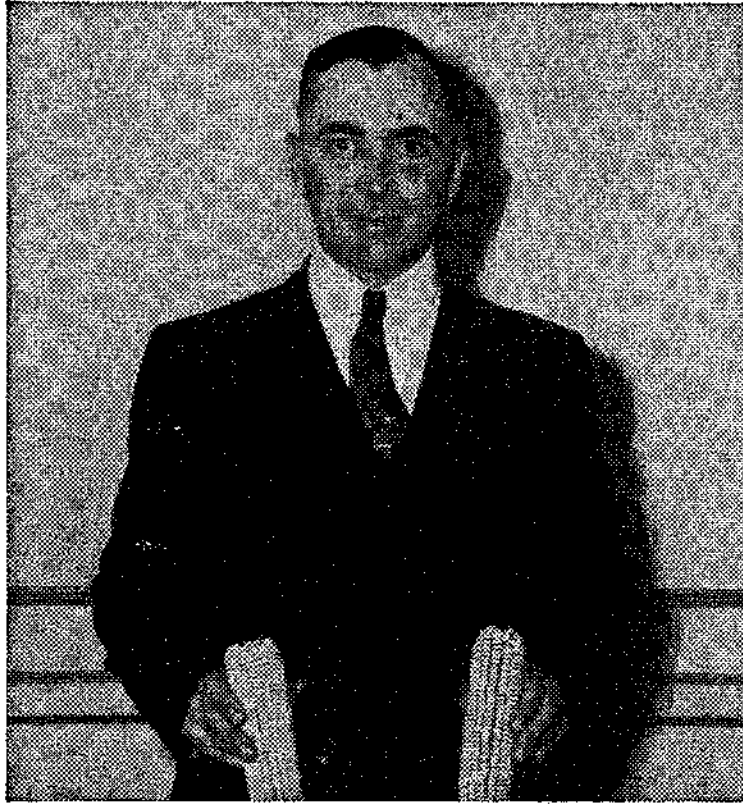

An Alabama man charged with the stealing of a calf made the following statement: "I was always taught to be honest, and most always have been, but when I see the calf I calved, I never wanted a calf so bad in all my life."

The jury returned the following verdict: "We are satisfied that Steve stole the calf, but as the feller that owned the animal is a considerable of a slouch, we agree to clear Steve and make slouch pay the costs."

Jack of All Trades

Before the 18th century, a cabinetmaker was not a cabinetmaker at all but either a carpenter, a joiner, or a turner, and sometimes several at once, since it was the custom for the man who built your house also to build your furniture. Out of this latter circumstance developed some of the earlier labor troubles on record, during which the rights and duties of each group were definitely, though only temporarily, defined.

GROWS 118 BUSHELS OF CORN PER ACRE!

Fairgrove, Michigan (Special)—An outstanding corn yield of 118 bushels per acre grown on a selected 5-acre contest plot, has won the 1946 Michigan state corn growing championship for Blanford Campbell, Tuscola County farmer, in the 9th Annual DeKalb Corn Growing Contest.

Campbell's yield, more than three times the size of the national average last year, was accurately computed according to contest rules from a selected 5-acre plot that had been in alfalfa and soybeans for three years. The contest field was spring plowed, fertilized with 2-2-6, and planted May 10 with DeKalb hybrid seed corn, variety 404A drilled in rows 40 inches apart.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates the average yield for all corn grown in Michigan last year at 28 bushels per acre. By comparison, the 68 Michigan farmers who entered the DeKalb competition averaged 88.6 bushels per acre on their selected 5-acre contest plots.

Natural Glass

Angus MacTavish was a plain-living, plain-spoken man. Over his protest the new clergyman persuaded the members of his kirk to install new stained-glass windows in the ancient temple of worship.

"Well, Angus," asked a friend, "how do you like them?"

"Ay, they are handsome," was the grudging rejoinder, "but I prefer my glass in its natural state—just as the Lord made it!"

Slow at Both Ends

In the furnace room, Sammy, the colored janitor, sat writing a letter, his paper on the end of an overturned box. The furnace man came in to tend the fire.

Sammy's pencil moved with snail-like pace across the paper.

"Mah goodness! You sho' does write slow," the furnace man observed.

"Ah means to," replied Sammy. "Mah girl kain't read fast."

Secret Is Guarded By Whooping Crane

Survey of Vast Area Fails to Show Nesting Place.

NORTHFIELD, MINN.—The whooping crane has succeeded for another year in keeping its nesting grounds a secret.

With the migratory season of birds completed in the north country, the nearly extinct whooping crane, object of a survey by National Audubon society in conjunction with the United States wildlife survey, kept its secret despite a search covering about 50,000 square miles of remote Canadian country.

Dr. Olin Sewall Pettingill Jr., zoology professor at Carleton college, Northfield, who headed the hunt for the crane's nesting ground, reported that no trace of the majestic bird, the numbers of which are believed to total fewer than 100, was found.

The whooping crane, a large bird named after its resonant call, stands over four feet tall and has a wing spread of about seven feet. The adult bird is white except for the black tips of the wings.

The Carleton zoologist said he had received reports that 17 of the birds had arrived at the Port Aransas wildlife refuge near Austin, Tex., on the gulf coast, the chief known wintering grounds. Three of the birds were young—hatched this year.

Last year 23 whooping cranes were observed at the Port Aransas refuge.

Once the nesting grounds of the whooping crane are discovered, protection will be given it in the hope that the species will increase in numbers.

A hundred years or so ago the whooping crane was present in impressive numbers, causing an authority witnessing the migration along the Mississippi river in 1811, to write: "The clangor of these numerous legions passing along high in the air seems almost deafening. The vocal call continued nearly throughout the whole night without intermission."

The rare bird once nested in prairie marshes in Minnesota, with the last known nesting record at Thief Lake in 1889. Civilization apparently has pushed the extremely wary bird from its more southerly breeding grounds to the trackless wastes of northern Canada.

Astronomers Find That Milky Way Also Revolves

MOUNT HAMILTON, CALIF.—University of California astronomers at Lick observatory have completed studies giving them new insight on the rotation of the sun in its orbit in the Milky Way.

Dr. Nicholas U. Mayall, associate astronomer, said studies of 50 globular star clusters showed that the whole system rotates slightly. The finding takes on importance when it is realized that the rotation of the sun was calculated from these clusters on the belief that they did not rotate.

However, the astronomer said the discovery does not change the estimate of speed of the sun's circular motion. Earlier calculations proved lucky, he said, and gave the correct circular velocity for the sun.

California Hunters Find Tame Deer Too Friendly

FRESNO, CALIF.—Bambi, one-and-one-half-year-old pet deer living at Eckerts resort on the shore of Shaver lake, is a nice, friendly animal—too friendly, in fact. Furthermore, she loves tobacco.

Deer hunters, at least two of them, have found the combination disheartening and downright dangerous.

Resort patrons tell of the pair of hunters starting early one morning to stalk deer. Bambi, a lady deer—if you overlook the tobacco-chewing habit—elected to follow. She dodged their steps like a faithful hound.

When they stopped, she begged for cigarettes. They tried to make her leave quietly. She would have none of it. They were afraid to try more violent methods for fear of scaring away any buck deer in the vicinity.

Then, while trying to decide what to do next, they began to worry about trigger-happy hunters—who might start blasting away at Bambi. The thrill of the hunt was not worth the risk of traveling in her company. They gave up in disgust, returned to camp and decided to try again the next day—leaving from a different camp site.

Members of Phi Beta Kappa Seem to Be Tough on Keys

NEW YORK.—Phi Beta Kappa members, cream of the college crop intellectually, may be able to remember the date of the Battle of Agincourt or recite Shakespeare's 97th sonnet, but they still have their little difficulties, the fraternity office reveals.

George A. Works, secretary of the society's united chapters, said that 500 members write in yearly to replace lost keys.
