Tribute Is Paid to Nation's Heroes on Memorial Day

Many Spectators Viewed Impressive Parade of the Band, Veterans, Scouts

A Memorial Day parade, described as the largest and best in years, was witnessed by an unusual number of spectators Friday. Many placed their cars on both sides of the business section of Main Street and occupants held "reserve seats" to see the 40-piece high school band and members of the Tri-county Post of the American Legion and of Cass City Memorial Post, V. F. W., in the march to Elkland cemetery. The veterans were followed in the parade by groups of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Cub Scouts. The parade was very impressive.

The weather man was kind in sending sunshine for the parade, but during the program hour at the cemetery a shower interrupted the proceedings and a brief intermission was necessary.

Rev. Arnold Olsen presided as chairman and offered prayer, the band played a few numbers and Rev. Melvin R. Vender gave the address of the day. The sounding of taps and a salute by a firing squad brought the program to a close in a second shower of rain.

Mr. Vender introduced his address with the following words from the Book of Joshua: "When your children shall ask, what mean these stones, then you shall let your children know." A resume of his talk follows.

"In the perspective of our national history, we have set up heaps of stones. We have monuments, special days and symbols marking milestones of progress and having peculiar historical significance for us, and for succeeding generations.

"Thus children of a new generation may naturally and fittingly ask: 'What mean these stones? What mean these monuments? What mean these memorial flags? What means this Memorial Day?'"

"When your children shall ask their meaning and significance, then you shall properly inform them as the coming citizens of tomorrow. Yes, we need ourselves to be reminded of their significance."

"This Memorial Day in its origin means that sympathy leaped the barrier of animosity, and mothers who had brought floral tokens to lay on the graves of their sons and husbands who had died in the Civil War on that part of the South, knew that former enemy dead lay close beside their own. They knew

The Girded Mind Is an Open Mind Says Speaker

Rev. Melvin R. Vender Delivered Baccalaureate Address to Seniors Sunday

A drizzling rain fell Sunday evening but it failed to have much, if any, effect on the size of the audience who listened to the baccalaureate service at the high school auditorium. The attendance was almost as large as that of former years when weather conditions were favorable.

As Elsie May Rawson and Manley Fay played the processionary march, "Pomp and Circumstance", seniors marched through arches of lilacs and tulips held over the aisle by junior girls and were ushered to seats at the front of the auditorium.

Rev. Frank Houghtaling gave the invocation, Rev. Stanley P. Kirm read the scripture passage from 1 Peter 1:1-16, and Rev. John Safran offered prayer. Rev. Melvin R. Vender delivered the address to the graduating class and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Arnold Olsen. The senior girls' sextet sang two selections during the program, "In a Monastery Garden" and "My Task", with Joan Sommers as accompanist.

Rev. M. Vender spoke on the subject, "The Girded Mind", choosing the text from 1 Peter 1:13, "Wherefore, gird up your mind." He spoke in part as follows: "The word 'gird' in the text does not have in it (nor behind it) the thought of propping or bracing up a weak structure; and we do not get the idea, nor word 'gird' from this root-word. The word 'gird' used by Peter, is translated from the Greek. As a figure of speech it is a metaphor, derived From Deford correspondent.

Fred Hartwick met with a very severe accident on Thursday night while returning to his home near here from Cass City. Near the Harley Kelley home, he met a loaded truck. The distance between the truck and auto as they met was misjudged, and Fred, with his window open and elbow resting in the opening, was hit by the truck body as it passed the auto. The intervening space was so slight, that the elbow was badly crushed and amputation was deemed necessary. The arm was removed above the elbow.

Sugar Beets May Be Planted in June

Sugar beets planted in June in past years resulted in favorable yields and Norris W. Wilber, county agricultural agent, sees no reason why it should not happen again.

Delay in preparation of the seedbed because of heavy rainfall this spring has prevented some farmers from seeding their beet crops.

During the three-year period from 1943 through 1945, according to information compiled by Michigan State College crop authorities, half of the sugar beets in Michigan were planted after the last of May.

Yields for that period were only slightly below the ten-year average of 8.4 tons per acre. Many farmers realized yields far in excess of that figure.

With the guaranteed price in 1947 the highest in history, the county agricultural agent believes that plantings made during the first half of June will prove profitable. Sugar beets by nature are not so sensitive to date of planting as are many other Michigan produced crops.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

Executive Office — Lansing

PROCLAMATION

Michigan, with its million dairy cows producing over two and a half billion quarts of milk a year, ranks sixth in the nation as a dairy state.

In the past few years, Michigan's dairy industry has grown from a seventy-two million dollar business to one of over two hundred million dollars, and represents more than one-third of the average Michigan farmer's cash income.

The dairy industry has made great contributions to the general welfare of our citizens, through the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent annually for the improvement of our dairy herds, for the installation of better machinery and equipment, and for research in the field of human nutrition.

Therefore, I, Kim Sigler, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim the month of June 1947 as Dairy Month in Michigan, and urge that during this period, our citizens become increasingly aware of the importance of the dairy industry to the health and vitality of the people of this state.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Michigan, this twelfth day of May, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred Forty-seven, and of the Commonwealth the One Hundred Eleventh from the practice of the Orientals who in order not to be impeded in their movement were accustomed when about to start on a journey, or to engage in a contest, or in certain kinds of work to bind up their long and loose, flowing garments closely around their bodies and fasten them with a leather girdle. Hence, the Apostle knows that his readers would readily understand his figurative meaning when he said: 'Gird up your mind.' In our American 'slang-usage' we employ similar figures of speech when we say: 'pull yourself together,' 'make up your mind,' 'brace up and be a man,' 'buckle up your belt and go to work.'

GIRDED MIND IS AN OPEN MIND SAYS SPEAKER

"Perhaps there was a lot of scatter-brained and loose thinking going on in Peter's time. Hence, the need of 'girding up their minds.' Certainly there is plenty of confused and loose thinking going on in our day—a good deal of it down at Washington. Policies can change over night if more votes are in sight for this or that course of action.

"Our confused nation and world are in desperate need of some straight and clear thinking; and in need of intelligent and moral convictions instead of mere opinions; in need of principles instead of policies of expediency. Wherefore I challenge you to 'gird up your minds' as you enter upon the larger responsibilities which will confront you and challenge you.

"The girded mind is an open mind; not so open that truth and ideas just go through it like a sieve; but open to new ideas; a mind that is not blinded by prejudice, nor closed to new ideas, new insights and revelations of truth from whatever source they come.

"The girded mind is not only an open mind, it is also a pure mind. Hence, its possessor is girded against temptation. Holy Writ says: 'As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.' Psychology teaches us that thoughts tend to action.

"The girded mind is a mind that is dedicated to high and noble purpose; a mind that is not afraid to face reality. One of the weaknesses of our time is due to the fact that so many people cannot face up to life. They endeavor to escape from their problems and perplexities by the use of alcohol, or some other means of evasion or escape.

"The admonition to 'be sober' does not mean to go around with a long face, nor does it deprecate the value of having a sense of humor. If I mistake not, a girded mind would have a good sense of humor. But life is a serious business. The advice here to 'be sober' is translated from a beautiful Greek word, meaning to be calm and collected in spirit; to have mental poise; to be temperate in thought and conduct.

"Too long men and nations have set their hope for peace and progress upon the promises of politicians; upon balance-of-power politics which so suddenly get out of balance. For nearly half a century we have set our hope upon science and practically discarded religion. But today scientists are turning evangelists and are urging us to set our hopes not upon atomic bombs and military power, but rather upon spiritual realities and moral power.

"We have boasted of our schools and colleges and universities—and well we may, but secular education will not save us. Theodore Roosevelt said: 'Men educated in intellect and not in morals and religion, will become a menace to our nation.' We need a generation of adults and youth not skilled alone in scientific truth but whose minds are girded by Christian ideals and principles.

"Be obedient unto your higher self; respond to the noblest impulses which seek expression; be obedient to high ideals, to convictions and conscience which are moulded, not by the dictates of modern conventionality but by the principles of moral truth and right."

Russians Make Drastic Cuts

In Military Forces in Reich

BERLIN. — The Russians have made drastic cuts in their military occupation forces in Germany, and more are coming, but at present they have nearly as many troops in the country as the other three occupation powers combined, reliable Allied sources estimated.

High Allied officials believe the Soviets now have between 300,000 and 400,000 troops in their occupation garrisons. It was learned, however, that the Russians planned to cut their troop strength to about 100,000 men, a reduction of between 30 and 70 per cent of present strength.

Pleasant Remedy

Down to the combination drug store and liquor dispensary of a Tennessee village came a grizzled mountaineer with a huge empty bottle.

"Ah wants me some whisky," he told the dealer, handing him the bottle, "and Ah wants me some sulphur."

"In the same bottle?" asked the dealer.

"Uh-huh," answered the mountaineer. He placed his finger about half an inch from the bottom of the bottle. "Fill her up to thar with sulphur," he said, "and then finish filling her up with whisky."

"When you get the stuff in there," said the dispenser, "just how do you use it?"

"Well, pardner, it's this way," explained the mountaineer. "When Ah wants a dose of sulphur and whisky Ah jes' shake her up afore Ah drink, and when Ah don't want no sulphur, Ah don't shake her."

With a wink, he added, "Ah seldom shakes her."

too, that they were sons of mothers whose hearts too, were heavy.
Thus the forgiving spirit and mother love climaxed into deeds of loving devotion. That was the genesis, as you well know of Memorial Day.

"Decoration Day" thus began what is now tradition, the decorating of the graves of the soldiers of the Blue and the Gray (North and South) who 'gave their last full measure of devotion' in the Civil War. That 'heap of stones' marked the second great milestone of social, moral and political progress in our nation. It marked the end of the wilderness journey of intolerance and practice of human slavery, and entrance into the Promised Land of a new and larger birth of freedom for all within our great nation.

"Time marches on and following 1898 Memorial Day added into its observance new significance, and a larger number of flags were needed to mark the resting places of heroes.

"In 1917-18 and again in 1941-45 Youth of America (two generations in one) were called up to combat in-grown nationalism — totalitar-ianism and Fascism which ruthlessly trampled over the rights and freedom of other nations and threatened our own security and peace.

"Thus some 400,000 paid the supreme sacrifice that Truth and Freedom might live. Today, these heroic dead are sacred in our memories; and the 'heap of stones'—the white crosses and added flags all are embraced with the larger significance and observance of this sacred day.

"We pause, therefore, to pay tribute to the living heroes of World Wars I and II, and to the thinking ranks of the G. A. R. and veterans of 1898, but primarily, we are here to honor the memory of the dead.

"We are here, my friends, not to glorify war, but to lament war.
War is an indication of man's selfishness and sin; the outcome of national greed or unholy ambition; and of political and moral failure. The roots of war are many and complex.

"Memorial Day, and the meaning of this flag at half mast, of these stones and crosses, is that we, the living, are challenged to a new and larger patriotism. It calls for attitudes and actions that are above narrow sectarianism, sectionalism, of even nationalism itself. Worldmindedness is needed in the atomic age—'With malice toward none, and charity for all.'

"Today, two years after military victory, we are far from peace. To place the burden of responsibility for the present conditions and stalemate upon Russian leaders is an easy way to save our conscience, but it is not the whole truth. We dare not ignore the facts of recent history, and we must be realistic.

A line from 'In Flanders Field,' says: 'Take up our quarrel with the foe.' But who is the foe? It is easy to say 'Communism.' If Russia hides behind an iron curtain, we dare not hide behind a screen that anyone can see through, and continue a negative role. To threaten with bombs will not suffice. The foes are not all in Russia.

"The sacrifice made by the generations of the past, and by our own comrades in arms demand more from us than wreaths, parades, bronze plaques, and lofty tributes of praise. (I would not minimize their place and value).

But our 400,000 dead in two World Wars in one generation will have died in vain unless we are as willing to work and cooperate for peace as we did for war. War never won a peace. It only creates a situation—a short period of time in which the foundations of peace may be built.

"We need not minimize the threat of Communism, nor the obstinacy of Stalin. What we need is a firm foreign policy based upon principles and not upon mere expediency.

"The plan presented by ex-president Hoover seems to my mind, to be the most realistic and practical of any presented for getting ourselves out of the dilemma confronting us today. We must continue to feed a starving Europe, but help them as rapidly as possible to become self-supporting, thus stopping the outpouring of American money; people who are starving cannot work enough to restore their nation's economy, and hungry people will be more attracted to Communism than to Democracy.

"We seem to have learned but little from the lessons of history.
We hide behind our atomic bomb, and threaten, and go on planning for bigger and better—for more devilish war!
"Since balance-of-power politics and resort to war have failed again and again, to bring peace and security, but only disillusionment, confusion, fear, suspicion, and hate in a vicious circle, the need of our age and the last best hope on earth is to be found in some better way.

There is no hesitancy on my part to say, as our scientists and other great national leaders are saying—that our hope is not in atomic power, but in moral power. The need and challenge of the hour is for a generation that has the faith and the daring to try the way of the Prince of Peace. Thus we hope that 'under God we may have a new birth of freedom, and that peace shall not perish from the earth.'

Realistic Approach

The Squire, who had a real affection for young people, was deeply troubled by the raids made on his orchard and garden by the youngsters of the neighborhood. One day, seeking to win the boys over to honesty by the exercise of kindness and consideration, the old gentleman held a party, at which he stuffed the youngsters with fresh strawberries liberally supplied with cream and sugar.

Hoping to draw a lesson from the occasion, the Squire said, "Boys, tell me honestly—would these berries have tasted as good if you had stolen them?"

"No, they wouldn't, sir," one bright-eyed youngster replied.

"And can you tell me why?" asked the Squire.

"Because they wouldn't have had any sugar and cream with them," was the candid reply.

NOT SENSITIVE

In the mountain country where women never wear shoes their feet become hardened and calloused. One evening Miranda was standing before the hearth with her corn cob pipe hanging listlessly from her mouth. Her husband motioned her aside with a wave of his corn jug. "Step aside, Maw, you're standin' on a live coal." Leisurely she puffed on her pipe then, glancing toward him, "Which foot, Paw?" she asked.

A captain of marines from Norfolk, Va., relates that one day in the jungles he ran onto a tribe of cannibals who were just about to sit down to their favorite repast. The head of this tribe finally confided to the captain that he had actually attended college in the United States.

"Do you mean to say," asked the amazed marine, "that you went to college and that you still eat human beings?"

"Oh, yes," replied the chief, "but of course now I use a knife and fork."

Mexicans Study Erosion

During the last five years and for the first time in history, much of the land of Mexico has been studied to find the effects of soil erosion. Surveys have shown that 12 per cent of the plains and 30 per cent of the steep lands have been made totally unproductive by erosion.

Spray Peach Trees

To assure a good peach crop, part of the spraying must be done after the leaves drop and before the buds crack in the spring. Extension specialists say that this first spray is to prevent peach leaf curl, reduce brown rot, and control San Jose and terrapin scales.

Roasting Nuts

Pecans, hickory nuts and English walnuts don't need to have their skins removed before roasting. To roast, combine the nutmeat halves with oil and melted fat in the frying pan. Place over a low heat and stir constantly until the nuts are hot throughout. Then drain and place them on absorbent paper and sprinkle with salt.

Daily Fire Toll

Every day there are 1,300 home fires, 23 deaths by fire, 180 store fires, 100 factory fires, 7 church fires and 3 hospital fires, according to the National Fire Protection association.

Supervisor Mueller, Chairman of Committee on Drains and Drainage presented the following report: Mr. Chairman, Hon. Board of Supervisors, Gentlemen: The following is joint report of Committees on Drains and Drainage and Buildings and Grounds:

Your committee who was referred the matter of disposal of sewage and waste from the County Infirmary and hospital, beg leave to report and recommend the following:

We met with the County Welfare Commission and Drainage Commission. After careful study and consideration, we have purchased for the County a piece of land ideally located and adapted for sewerage disposal at the cost of $1,000.00.

This piece of land, hereafter designated as "Commencing from a road north of the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of section thirty-three, thence north forty rods, thence east, thence north four rods, thence east eighty rods, thence south eight rods, thence west forty rods, thence north four rods, thence west forty rods to beginning except so much of said premises as is described as follows: Commencing from a road south 7 feet, then east 32 feet, thence south 10 feet and thence west forty-two feet to beginning—is of gravelly and sandy soil very essential for a good filter bed.

It will be traveled by the County Farm Drain which will insure adequate drainage for the filter bed.

Therefore, we recommend that the action of your committee be approved by your Honorable Board, that the necessary steps be taken to complete the transaction and the project.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Russia Steps Up '47 Goals for Industry

Agriculture Production Also Comes in for Boost.

MOSCOW.—The Soviet Council of Ministers announced its heavy industries and agriculture production plan for 1947, which calls for a speedup of work throughout Russia with quotas running as high as 332 per cent bigger than last year's.

The ministers' plan includes "further application of modern technique in supplying the armed forces of the Soviet union with the most up-to-date military equipment," the Moscow radio, heard in London, reported.

The broadcast said that civilian production in 1946 was 50 per cent higher than 1945, but that in many cases the standards set for 1946 had not been met.

The plan laid great emphasis on heavy industry, where it called for a 33.3 per cent increase in production.

The announcement blamed last year's lag in heavy industry production on the lack of fuel. As a result, the ministers gave first priority in 1947 to coal and oil production, to be upped 16 and 18 per cent, respectively.

The plan called on Russian workers to increase consumer goods production 27 per cent and to double the construction of new dwellings, badly needed to replace war-devastated buildings. To improve living standards further, the ministers decreed a 50 per cent jump in clothing production and a 37 per cent higher food quota.

Seven million more acres of ground will be planted this year to increase food output and the production of agricultural machinery will be jumped 203 per cent under the plan.

In terms of the individual worker, the new quotas meant that "the productivity of the worker in industry must be increased 13 per cent and in construction 11 per cent," the council said.

Some of the increased quotas for heavy industry announced included: Steel, 19 per cent higher than 1946; cast iron, 21 per cent; heavy locomotives, 88 per cent; trucks, 55 per cent; passenger cars, 316 per cent; steam turbines, 242 per cent; hydro-turbines, 332 per cent and standard housing, 188 per cent.

Cancer Victims Saved

By New Surgery Plan

CHICAGO.—University of Chicago reported that out of 100 "hopeless" patients suffering from abdominal cancer, 19 have survived with the aid of experimental surgery performed by Dr. Alexander Brunschwig.

The new technique in cancer surgery was disclosed in a book entitled "Radical Surgery in Advanced Abdominal Cancer," published by University of Chicago Press.

Dr. Brunschwig began his experiments with advanced cancer cases more than 10 years ago at the university.

The 19 patients who survived previously had been classified as "inoperable" and had been given only days to live, the university said. No recurrences have been found, despite the fact some of the operations were undertaken 10 years ago, it added.

Public Address System Used

To Teach Children English

BOSTON.—Some 30 children of foreign-born parents are learning English at a public school in Boston's Chinatown by aid of a public address system.

A 6-year-old Chinese girl steps up to a microphone on a raised platform and begins reading the story of the "Three Bears." If she mispronounces a word, other children raise their hands and the reading is halted until a correction is made.

Teacher Mary I. Elliott says the new method "is working miracles and the children are learning the language almost overnight."

College Students Win Fight

On Raising Price of Coffee

ALFRED, N. Y.—Alfred university students have won their own battle against inflation.

While most of the 1,500 students were home on vacation, two of the three public eateries in town doubled the price of a cup of coffee, raising it to 10 cents.

The students took all their business to the remaining five-cent place.

After two weeks the passive resistance of the students prevailed and coffee at five cents a cup is once again the standard price in the tiny college town of Alfred.

Women in College Prefer

What's Cooking? Not How

NEWARK.—The modern miss prefers to determine "What's cooking?" rather than how to cook it, according to a survey of freshmen at Rutgers university's New Jersey College for Women.

Top preference was given to the study of journalism by 21 per cent of the 378 first-year students, while home economics was picked by 9 per cent, the poll revealed.

THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY

2000 SECOND AVENUE
DETROIT 26, MICHIGAN

May, 1947

To Our Residential Customers:

The Detroit Edison Company has a story that needs telling.

It is an important but little noted phase of the story of skyrocketing prices and the now dramatic effort to stop dangerous increases in the cost of living.

The fact is that Detroit Edison fought this fight all through the days when there was no drama in it.

Through the war, and since then, there has been no increase in the price of Detroit Edison electricity to residence customers.

This Company, while PAYING higher prices for labor and materials, has been able to REDUCE the price of electricity.

Detroit Edison residence customers now use 50 per cent more electricity than they did in 1939.

This increase in use is a major factor in making possible the reductions in price.

That process, applied to ALL production, opens the door to lower prices, progress and prosperity, and to better living for the people.

Study Your Figure Problem Before You Select Style

By Ertla Haley

MUCH as women try to achieve ideal figure measurements, most of them always find themselves falling short of the requirements because of wide variations in anatomy as well as other physical peculiarities. This need not be a cause for such great alarm, for clothes carefully chosen as to style, color and fabric can do much to minimize figure faults.

After all, let's look at it this way. No one has ever agreed on one set of features which would be considered as making up a beautiful face. Large eyes as well as bold features can be made to look just as interesting as small regular features, etc.

It all depends upon the setting you give features as well as figures as to what impression people have of you. There is no cause for feeling awkward simply because you are too tall or too short. Dress to fit whatever physical qualifications you possess, playing down the bad, highlighting the good, and you will be closer to perfection than you perhaps can realize.

There are tricks that all of us, either tall or short, can employ which will give us the more ideal look. So let's consider those points when we select styles.

According to statistics recently released, most women tend to be heavy rather than light. Because of this universal problem, it seems wise to consider just what to do in cases of too large measurements.

Are You Top-Heavy? Emphasize Hips
If you have very large shoulders and are full-busted besides, you will want to draw attention to your slender hips.

If you're stout, don't do this... der hipline. Never wear clothing which is too tight, and do away with everything which makes for a fussy appearance.

Let's say that you belong to the rather slender but full-busted category. Fancy, low-cut necklines will be particularly good for you as well as dresses which have a tapered fullness at the shoulder. You will also do well to wear boxy jackets with slender skirts.

Good general rules to follow if you have the above figure faults are as follows: Use simple untrimmed bodices with interesting skirt details such as draping or flouncing. Always be careful of the tight waist, as this will naturally draw the bodice line tighter and emphasize the fullness you have on top.

If you are on the plump side, your most flattering necklines will be V-shaped vestees or dummies or surplice styles. Coats and redingotes will also give you slender lines which tend to de-emphasize fullness at the top.

Another "don't" to observe is not to use too much padding at the shoulders as this will make you even more top heavy. If your face can take it, wear the hair in an attractive up-sweep style, as this gives and creates the illusion of nice long slender lines where you tend to be rather heavy.

Avoid Tight Skirts If You are Hippy
If your figure belongs to the large hipped class, then you will want to do just the opposite of the top-heavy woman. Draw attention from the hips by creating interest at the upper part of face and figure.

For the average figure with full hips, use tapered lines from waist

But emphasize long, vertical lines.
to shoulder in both suits and dresses. Or, use dark skirts and light tops to make the hips appear slender. Also, try dresses with front fullness and a plain back.

There are innumerable ways of creating top interest if you have a full hipped figure. One good way it may be done is to have contrasting sleeves and yokes which draw attention away from the hips. Or, you can keep your skirt slightly flared

Cardinal Coat Dress

Cardinal coat dress, designed in navy crepe by Brownie, buttons down the front and has a short cape collared in lace-edged white plique with matching cuffs. The slim skirt is box pleated down the center back.

even when pencil skirt skirts are high style, as this disguises the hip line.

If you are plump all over, with particular emphasis on the hips, your best bet is to wear interesting shoulder details. Try buttons, flowers stitching and other trimmings which are rather on the conservative side.

Fly-front dresses or button-front dresses are very slimming because they emphasize up and down lines. Contrasting vests and blouses are exceedingly good for full hipped, large figures because they draw attention to the top.

Princess styles both in dresses and coats are exceedingly attractive on the full hipped figure, because they create the slimming up and down lines. Always avoid fabrics and styles which would emphasize the horizontal lines.

Fullness over the entire figure demands that the woman be especially careful of all small dress-making details. As a general rule, waistlines extending below the belt are slenderizing. Two-piece dresses with a soft look also meet with fashion's approval.

If you are selecting a coat for the tall, full figure, choose one that is straight or semi-fitted. It may be full length or three quarter.

If you combine fullness with tallness, select jackets which are fairly long; never wear your skirts tight, and always plan to have them ever so slightly flared.

Long torso effects are also good because they equalize the leg length.

Be Smart

If you love a lustrous ribbon bow, prepare to wear it beautifully on the front of your hat! Crisp black taffeta on black or combinations of colors in satin in a huge flower-like rosette bespeak the newest.

Fabric Facts

Never guess about the washability of blouses. Always look for tags on the blouse before purchasing so you will know just how to clean it properly.

Don't be impractical and choose accessories that go with only one outfit. You'll never get full use out of them in that way.

Don't treat your accessories shabbily. Put them away as soon as you take them off, in their special boxes, so they will not collect soil and dust just by lying around. Always have them cleaned as soon as they are soiled.

Rotarians View Water Safety Movie

"Auld Lang Syne" was sung as a parting gesture of regret by Rotarians Tuesday when it was announced that "Al" Krueger, the club treasurer, was leaving for his former home in Crosswell after two years' residence in Cass City. Fritz Neitzel served as song leader with Mrs. Maurice Joos as accompanist.

Willis Campbell informed club members of the activities of the Crippled Children's committee, and Robt. Keppen introduced Emerson Scott, executive secretary of the Tuscola Red Cross chapter, as the luncheon speaker. He was assisted by Jack Douglas as projectionist in showing a movie picture on "Water Safety."

Scramble Steers Are Seen by 4-H Club Agent and Sponsors

Reid Kirk, Bob Beyette and Murray Crawford toured the last half of the 4-H scramble steers of Tuscola County and found some fine animals. The seven steers seen last week belonged to:

Allen Rohlfis and the sponsor was Caro State Bank.

Howard Russell and the sponsor was Caro Creamery.

Alan Latimer and the sponsor was George Bieth.

Jack DeSimpelare and the sponsor was Harold Hyde.

Paul Carolan and the sponsor was County Farm Bureau.

Carl Buehrly and the sponsor was Latham Farm Service.

Jerry Henderson and the sponsor was George McIntyre (Michigan Bean Company).

An estimated average gain for these steers was 464 pounds and they made varied nearly 200 pounds at starting weight.

Sweet Potato Weevil
The sweet potato weevil resembles an ant to some extent, having a brick-red thorax or waist, distended body, and dark blue and prominent head and beak. It burrows into or through the potato, leaving excretions which make the potato unfit for food. If large numbers of the pest attack a potato, they render it unfit even for livestock feed.
