REV. J. BOZEK ADDRESSED ROTARIANS TUESDAY

"One runs into selfishness all too frequently," said Rev. John Bozek at the Rotary Club luncheon Tuesday in his interesting talk on the subject, "You get out of life what you put into it." Kindness begets kindness, according to Fr. Bozek, and one frequently sees manifestations of this truth even in a world where so many are out of type. where so many are out of tune with their surroundings.

Luncheon guests included J. A.

Lime Essential Lime is essential on acid soils for proper growth of many crop and pasture plants. To promote this desired growth, sufficient lime should be applied to change the acid condition to a near neutral point. Under most conditions in the upland area the addition of lime to the soil also provides calcium for plant growth. Commercial fertilizer, incorporated with the soil management practices previously mentioned, is essential for continued high crop production. Every crop harvested for grain, forage or other use removes plant food from the soil. Soils under continuous cropping systems, coupled with erosion, lose their plant nutrients faster than they can be replaced by nature.

Primitive Origin

The universality of man's love of color was demonstrated early in antiquity. Each region and sub-region of the globe developed its own dye sources. It is estimated that nearly 1,000 different plants, vines, shrubs and trees were, at one time or another, employed for extracting dyes. However, only a few of the primitive dyes survived to ancient and medieval times.

Employers Shun College 'Grind'

Personal Qualities Rated Of Major Importance For Employment.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Few employers now seek the "greasy grind"-the student who has shunned all outside distractions, kept to the solitude of his dormitory room and recorded an endless succession of "A" grades.

Most employers of college graduates today ask for students who have taken vigorous part in worthwhile campus activities. Except for research and other highly technical work, the 1947 employer puts first importance on personality, leadership and ability to get along with people; he ranks brilliant scholarship second in importance, although demanding "satisfactory" scholastic records.

These are some of the facts brought out in a new survey of employment experience of college placement departments, recently completed by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Out of 101 universities and colleges reporting in the survey, placement officials of 72 schools stated that the majority of employers rate personal qualities of the graduate first in importance, Only 10 schools reported top scholarship to be the primary requirement in their placements, and nearly all of these are engineering colleges or other technical schools. Responses from 21 schools were difficult to classify, some stating that their prevailing call is for top-bracket scholarship and high personality qualifications combined; others that employers are so hungry for men that they will take anybody who can squeeze past his finals with a passing grade.

Noteworthy in this year's employment picture, the survey finds, is the large proportion of engineering, graduates who are being hired for non-engineering jobs, such as selling and office administrative work. Most large firms have their own training programs, and many feel that the background of an engineering training yields especially desirable sales and junior executive magraduates and business administration grads with equal warmth; there is a growing tendency on the part of personnel executives of firms with extensive training programs to pay little attention to the particular course a candidate has pursued while in college, so long as | home. his personal qualities are good and his scholastic record has been satisfactory.

Old fashioned study and good Mark home. marks still pay off, however, placement officials state; between two candidates of equal personal qualities, the one with the higher scholarship gets the nod.

Store Surplus Food at Pole For Lean Years, Byrd's Idea

the navy's antarctic expedition said west coast in company with relathat long range planes and powerful ! ice breakers could crack the great white south polar continent wide open for exploration and that within 25 years men may be tapping its resources.

"There's a lot of goal down there," he said. Byrd also envisaged exploiting the vast ice cap as a natural refrigerator for the storage of surplus crops in bumper years.

"The world need never have another famine," he said. "Surplus food could be stowed away in the polar ice as insurance against lean production years. I'm pretty sure it would keep perfectly. Time stops: for such things down there.

"We brought back with us some; of the food left in the 1933-'35 Little America camp to see whether it has lost any of its value in calories. vitamins or minerals. I'm fairly certain the 13 or 14 years' exposure hasn't done much harm. The dry cold makes a perfect refrigerator."

Baby Chick Need of Riboflavin Is Great Curled Toe Paralysis Cause of Deficiency

Riboflavin, a crystalline yellow vitamin containing nitrogen and ribose, has proven necessary for growth of poultry. It is also important in connection with the formation of an enzyme responsible for utilization of feed within the cells of the body.

Riboflavin is widely distributed in feeding materials. It is present in greatest amounts in milk products, yeast, live meal, alfalfa, cereal grasses and byproducts of the fermenting and distilling industry. Only a few grams are required per ton of mixed feeds.

Many poultry authorities have stated there is an advantage in using natural riboflavin concentrates in preference to synthetic riboflavin. The natural concentrate generally supplies other important nutrients aside from riboflavin. When chicks are fed4a ration low in riboflavin, they start squatting and develop a condition known as curled toe paralysis. In the past the lack of riboflaving in feed ingredients has caused considerable economic loss. Baby chicks require greater quantities than older birds. Deficiency in laying flocks lowers egg production and results in inferior eggs or poor hatchability.

BURNING RUINS SOIL

When you burn straw, cornstalks and other crop residues on the field you lose valuable nitrogen and destroy organic matter vital to soil rebuilding and crop production. If the up in smoke 6,500 pounds of organic matter and 55 pounds of nitrogen are lost. When you light a match to a mature sweet clover crop, you lose about 150 pounds of nitrogen and three to four tons of organic matter. It takes more effort to plow these materials under than it does to burn them, but an extra 10 to 20 hushels of corn per acre and a more fertile soil should be worth the extra trouble.

New Disease of Sweet Potatoes in the South

A new and distinctive disease of sweet potatoes known as "internal cork" has been the subject of intensive studies by Dr. C. J. Nusbaum, South Carolina experiment station. Sweet potatoes affected with the disease are characterized by the occurrence of dark brown, corky spots of irregular shape and size. There are indications that it may be possible to develop resis-

Increased Earnings

"What farmers do now with their liquid assets and credit will determine their financial position for the next two decades. It is imperative for farmers to recognize that much of their present money in fact is not increased profits. It represents the soil fertility sold off the farm, depreciation of buildings, fences and equipment. The money farmers now have, in large part, belongs back on their land-to restore soil-to modernize-" The Land.

Trapping Is Good Way To Control Moles

In the spring the activities of the common mole appear to be more noticeable. Unlike rodents, such as rats and mice, moles live chiefly on earthworms and insects. The mole is unpopular with farmers because his tell tale ridges and mounds disfigure the fields, ruin new seedbeds and damage gardens and lawns. Trapping appears to be the most satisfactory way yet found to controi the mole.

Milk in Industry

In more and more industries milk is being used to improve employees' health and counteract fatigue. Reductions in accidents with an improvement in safety, less absenteeism due to illness, increased production during hours of fatigue lowpoints, are reported where milk is being served between meals or added to diets.

Draft Rejections

An estimated 10 per cent of the men rejected by selective service were disqualified because of cardiovascular diseases (diseases of the heart and blood vessels). In a survey of a special sampling of 5.000 rejectees for cardio-vascular diseases in five major cities-Chicago, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, San Francisco — 50 per cent had been disqualified because of rheumatic heart disease. The second greatest cause of rejection due to cardio-vascular diseases was hypertension (high blood pressure).

Freeze Meat Rapidly When meat is frozen rapidly, its juice sets before much of the water can separate from it and the damage to cell structure is kept to a minimum. Quickly frozen meat therefore more nearly resembles fresh meat after thawing than slowly frozen meat. Rapid freezing of meat is essential if quality is to be retained in cold storage.

Half of Doctors in Russia Are Women

Must Be Members of Union of Medical Workers.

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R.-When a person in the Soviet Union calls for medical help, the chances are even! that a woman doctor will come around.

It's certain that the doctor, whether man or woman, will be a! member of the Trade Union of Medical Workers and will be pulling down between 1,500 and 2,000 rubles a month in government pay, which is between two and three times what ordinary workers make.

There is room at the top for top men, however, and if a doctor succeeds in becoming a professor of medicine he eventually may make 6,000 to 7,000 rubles a month. (The ruble is worth about 18 cents at the official rate, but only 81/2 cents at the diplomats' exchange rate.)

This information was gathered along with other facts about Soviet medical services in a visit to the Moscow Medical institute.

The institute's director, Dr. Andrei Lihachev, and Dr. Ilya Strashoon, a member of the Soviet Medical academy, answered questions freely.

The questions brought out that state employed doctors are allowed to practice privately after hours if they want to enlarge their income. Standard medical service is supposed to be available to any person, regardless of position. There are some hospitals, however, such as Moscow's top notch Kremlin, which, are open only to big-time officials, diplomats and the like.

Of the 150,000 doctors in the Soviet Union, half are women. Before the revolution, there were only 18,000 doctors in the country, they said. About 70 per cent of the 4,000 students at the institute are women, but the percentage of men has increased since the war.

The medical leaders were asked what happens when someone in Moscow gets an acute appendix attack. They replied that a telephone call would bring an ambulance and a doctor within 10 minutes, and the patient would be rushed to a hospital. There a diagnosis would be made by a commission of doctors, and the patient either would undergo an operation or be taken to a specialized hospital.

The informants said rural sections had the same system of medical districts as big cities, and that some industries, such as railways, had their own hospitals.

Shannon Airport in Ireland Is Now Free of Customs

LIMERICK, EIRE.—The Shannon airport, stopping point for many, transatlantic planes, has become the world's first customs-free landing field.

F Goods coming into the 800-acre airport zone were freed of customs duties unless the merchandise is intended for sale in Eire. The new system, inaugurated at a ceremony presided over by Trade Minister Sean Lemass, will permit American and European manufacturers to place their goods in display warehouses at Shannon, making it a 'world store window for buyers." Officials said they hoped to interest manufacturers in building factories within the zone for processing raw material, imported duty free by air, into finished goods for customs-free aerial export.

Television to Revolutionize Political Campaign Technique NEW YORK. - Television will

"I saw your new picture. You were as sweet, as beautiful as it, and it is the truth.) I'd like to be the one to give you everything you want in life. But I wouldn't want you to belong to anyone else. Maybe that is selfish. But you'll understand, I hope.

"You were wonderful in the picture, tonight. Especially, the scene In which you did that dance when you came out in that long, blue dress. You know what I did. Gloria? I closed my eyes and pretended I was the one there with you, whirling you about. And the part where you were in the roadster, going real fast-I pretended I was the driver and you were at my side. Your hair blew back away ing. I love to hear you laugh!

"I wish you were here right now, instead of your photograph. I wish you would come in right now through the doorway, and sit on the side of the bed, and talk. I can just imagine how you'd look, Maybe you'd wear the robe you wore in the picture-I think you called the color 'chartroose.' And slippers to match, with white fur trim at the top. And your hair would be loose around your shoulders, and all goft and golden around your face. Oh, Gloria, you're so beautiful! You make me feel so proud!

"In the picture, you cried—and even if I did know it wasn't real, I couldn't help feeling sad.

"The part of the picture I liked best was when you put on a white apron, to cook a dinner for guests -you didn't know much about it, but you were bound you would do it or bust. That part was natural and real. That's why I liked it so much. You seemed just like yourself, and so little and helpless and cute.

One of the two jointly owned cottages was built by O. K. Janes and Mrs. Elizabeth McLean on the Janes lot. Mrs. McLean's lot joined this to the south. From the Janes, C. D. Striffler bought it and a few years ago sold it to pie cherries ripening, early green Mrs. Ivan Vader, whose son, Carlos, and family now occupy it.

The next lot was owned A. D. Smalley who owned this whole tract and sold it to the Cass City Summer Home Club retaining this one lot on which George Lamb finally built. This was owned by a number of people and at last bought by Mr. Sandham and moved up on the Bluff. It is now the property of the Langleys.

The Sandham's cottage built by them joins the above lot and is occupied during the summer by the various members of the family. Next on the hill is the Louis Walton cottage, which has since its construction been in the Walton family, Mr. Walton's mother

The George Hitchcock lot was next and after several years is now wned by Mrs. Gladys Hitchcock Merion.

Now you have the complete score so if during our summer news reports you do not recognize all the newcomers by name perhaps you can recall their background from relatives or cottages.

Here it is almost mid-July. Small green tomatoes on the vines, beans ready to be picked and it seems only a couple of weeks ago that we were wondering if it would get warm enough to germinate the seeds. It did. It always has. Now it's the constant battle between vegetables and weeds. Even here at the shore there are several gardeners among us and we are not doing badly. If you would know a gardener's worth, look at his garden in mid-July. It's easy enough to plant in May and it's no great task to harvest in August. July is the critical period. Is he a planter, a harvester, or a man who can use ia hoe?

Up His Sleeve

A group of sailors on a freighter were frequently entertained by one of their number, a sleight-of-hand performer of no mean ability, during the long evenings at sea. His act, in which cards, money and handkerchiefs were made to disappear, was enjoyed by all aboardexcept one-a parrot which greeted each performance with a rancous,

"Ha, ha, ha! Phooey!" The ninth night out, in the midst of the show, a terrific storm arose and the boat sank. The prestidigitator was thrown into the ocean and managed to grasp some wreckage to support his weight. The following morning he was startled to see his critic, the parrot, sitting on an upright on his improvised raft. Not a word passed between the castaways for two days. Suddenly, however, the parrot looked down, cocked his head to one side, and with a gleam in his eye

"Alright, what'd you do with the ship?"
