

Lighted Athletic Field Dedicated Friday Evening

Nearly 2,000 Witnessed Ceremonies and Saw Caro Win from Cass City

"It is appropriate that we should pause for a few moments to consider the significance of this occasion," said Village President Frederick H. Pinney, in beginning his address before nearly 2,000 people who came to the dedicatory ceremonies of the lighted athletic field at the Cass City Recreation Park Friday evening. "All of us have come here tonight to witness this meeting of two old rivals, because we expect to see the same, hard-fought contest that all Caro-Cass City games usually prove to be. At the same time we are dedicating this playground and athletic field."

"A vision which was conceived several years ago is now being attained," said Mr. Pinney. "Nine years ago the first step was taken, when our swimming pool was built. The whole community has been and still is justifiably proud of this pool, and there certainly is no question of its popularity among our children. However, the vision of a completed playground continued to remain merely a dream for a long time. Now we have proof that a community which believes in its youth could not let the matter stop there."

"The Gavel Club of our town have supplied the energy, the perseverance—and, I might add—a goodly amount of plain hard work to bring this dream to a reality. Because of their sponsorship of this project, I want particularly to congratulate the Gavel Club on a job well done. For the wholehearted support extended by the rest of our community, I can only say what I tell myself—it is a happy privilege to live in, and be part of a community where this sort of dream comes true."

"Let us dedicate this field to those ideals of good, clean sportsmanship and honest endeavor, which are some of the most important things we can convey to our youth. May future years show the worth of this investment in our citizenship of tomorrow."

"Everyone—including myself—came here tonight to see a football game. So let's have the game, and may the best team win."

The evening's program commenced with an impressive parade in which the high school bands of Caro and Cass City and members of the Tri-County Post, American Legion, participated. They marched from the school building to the park. The flag raising ceremony was conducted by the Legion color.

Appraisals Will Be Reported Sunday

Several weeks ago, Rev. M. R. Vender presented a questionnaire to all members of the church and congregation, to secure their reactions and appraisals as to sermons, preaching, the services of worship, together with opportunity for making suggestions for improvement for personal help and added interest.

The pastor will give a resume-report on Sunday at 10:30 a. m., prior to his sermon which as to title was inspired by summarizing the questionnaire, "Let the Church Be the Church."

Also, in the questionnaire was a section, employed as an "interest finder" as to courses of study and other church activities. Several classes will be arranged during ensuing months to meet this response. One of them will begin on Oct. 19 at the Sunday School hour, 11:30 a. m., "Tenets of Protestantism."

E. G. Golding, Sr., of the Session announces that Dr. Dale D. Welch, the newly elected president of Alma College, has been secured as speaker for the church family night, potluck supper and program, Wednesday, Oct. 29.

In this section, Cass City was represented by Edward Baker, adviser of Senior Outfit 6-194 and Harold Oatley, scoutmaster of Troop 194.

Nazarene Church Enters Fortieth Year

On October 12 the Church of the Nazarene located at Cass City joined in a denomination-wide emphasis known as Renewal of Covenant Sunday. The following day, Oct. 13, marked the beginning of the 40th year for the Church of the Nazarene as an organized Protestant denomination.

It was on Oct. 13, 1908, at Pilot Point, Texas, that a small group of ministers and laymen met to consummate the union of several groups of people from the East, the West and the South sections of the United States. The guiding genius in bringing about this church union was Dr. Phineas F. Bresee, then pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene in Los Angeles, California, and who was one of the three general superintendents elected at this gathering to head the church.

Install Device in Lightning Study

Bolt-Funneling Device Is Put Atop Empire State.

NEW YORK.—Inside the conical cap atop the Empire State building General Electric technicians tugged and pushed into position a new device to record the characteristics of lightning bolts.

Previous studies involving the world's tallest "lightning rod" have shown that about 80 per cent of the lightning bolts "hitting" the tower actually originate in the steel frame of the building and soar skyward.

By continuing these war-interrupted studies, General Electric company's engineers hope to learn enough about the characteristics of lightning so that equipment can be designed against interference and damage during storms.

Once the new recording device has been installed, a technician will sit in front of the great box-like photographic instrument atop the building. The abnormally heavy lightning bolts will funnel through the apparatus in front of him. He will be safe, the technicians say, unless he touches two of the girders simultaneously or sticks his hand out of the trap door at the top of the cone.

The peak of the Empire State building is not the most peaceful place in town during an electric storm. The electrical field of the earth is projected abnormally far into the sky by the tower and the metallic cone on its summit hisses continuously as it pours a stream of static electricity into the air. If one should stick a hand up through the trap door each finger would give off a corona of St. Elmo's fire, engineers say, though no one has ever tried it.

The experiments are suffering momentarily from a housing shortage. The scientists want an office in a building nearby facing the tower, so they can mount a camera in a window to record the bolts as they strike. This would provide information on speed and direction of flow of the bolts.

In the course of the work, begun in 1935 under Dr. Karl B. McEachron and continuing under J. H. Hagenguth, it was found that the tower was struck as many as nine times in 20 minutes.

Widowed Stepmother Is Married by Californian

TUCSON, ARIZ.—Can a man legally marry his father's widow?

Belle D. Hall, Superior court clerk, posed the question. After checking the statutes, County Attorney Odin Dodd said there was nothing to prevent a man from marrying his stepmother.

So Mrs. Hall issued a license to William R. Jeffries Jr., 56, and Mrs. Marguerite C. Jeffries, 49, both of Pasadena, Calif. They were married by Judge Lee Garrett of Superior court.

"If she's half as good to me as she was to my father, I'll be the happiest man in California," said Jeffries.

Necktie Swapping Swamps

Inventor, He Screams Uncle

SEATTLE.—Bill Horsley, president of the one-man International Necktie exchange here, is screaming "uncle."

Horsley, founder of the exchange, idly mentioned to a local newspaper reporter that his agency exchanges neckties. His hobby is designed so that men who get tired of their ties can exchange them for the cost of postage.

Horsley's idea got widespread publicity and the former University of Washington cheer leader says he is going crazy with cravats. He has been receiving hundreds daily.

The exchange has been temporarily suspended until tie-mad Horsley catches up with back orders.

Bat Disturbs Composure Of Ohio Senate Chamber

COLUMBUS.—The senate had bats in its chamber.

One bat, that is, which enlivened proceedings by sudden swoops and swishes past ducking senators.

Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert said he was undecided to which committee to refer the creature.

That quandary was resolved by Sen. Evert E. Addison, who moved to refer it to the conservation committee.

Before facetious action could be taken, a spectator caught the bat and tossed it out the window.

New Device Ends Peril of Break in Fire Company Hose

CHICAGO.—Northwestern university has revealed development of a new device that would protect firemen from the dangers of bursting hoses.

The invention, called the sealed air chamber, also eliminates vibrations and knocks heard in home and apartment plumbing systems when faucets are turned off.

Lewis H. Kessler, professor of sanitary engineering, and Merrill B. Gamet, associate professor of civil engineering, developed the device at the university's technological institute.

Turkey Steaks Open Daily Paying Market Surplus Birds Are Quick Frozen, Realizing Profit

North Carolina is leading the way in taking care of a surplus turkey crop. Near Burgaw, N. C., quick frozen turkeys are being processed into steaks that bring excellent rein the washers with the pulley holes, through which 1/4-inch stove bolts are placed.

The frame is fabricated of angle iron, welded at the points of contact with heavily coated mild steel electrode. The motor is mounted on the frame (D) and balanced two ways to minimize weight on the tractor. The motor base is extended far enough ahead to allow for the attachment of a jack shaft and pulleys (E) which reduce unit speed. The unit is ready for operation with the attachment of belts (F).

Bacteria as Plant Food Increases Grain Yield

The use of bacteria as food for plants is the basis of a new preparation known as phosphorobacteria, developed at Leningrad institute. Each gram of the preparation contains up to 200 million specially cultivated bacteria, which on reaching the soil transform complex organic matter containing phosphorus into soluble salts from which the plant can draw nourishment. The bacteria increased crop yields.

Painting Stucco

Stucco may be satisfactorily painted by the use of either cement base water mixed paints or the regulation oil base paints, but the procedure differs, according to the type of paint which is used. If cement base water mixed paints are used, the surface of the stucco should be dampened first. On the other hand, if a regular oil base paint is to be used, the stucco should first be seasoned for several months to get rid of any free lime which might burn the paint, and moreover, be thoroughly dry at the time when the paint is applied.

NAZARENE CHURCH ENTERS 40TH YEAR

ing only 10,000 members scattered in 228 churches, the Church of the Nazarene begins its 40th year with nearly 3,500 established churches in the United States, Canada, and the British Isles, and well over 200,000 members. The denomination is operating mission stations in 23 world areas with approximately 200 missionaries and 1,000 native workers.

Six major colleges are supported by the Church of the Nazarene in the United States, one in Canada, and one in the British Isles. The Nazarene Theological Seminary has recently been established in Kansas City, Mo., international headquarters for the church, where graduate training is given ministers and missionaries leading to the Bachelor of Divinity degree.

During the period since its founding, the total property valuation has increased from $500,000 to $30,500,000 at the close of 1946. For a number of years the Church of the Nazarene has led all other denominations, reporting to the United Stewardship Council, in per capita giving for all purposes. In 1946 that amount was $82.33 per capita.

'Twas Ever Thus

ONE DAY that outspoken, unconventional musician, Eugene D'Albert, whose numerous marriages had been matched by an equal number of divorces, was an interested listener to a lecture on archeology. A famous man of science was holding forth on his latest expedition.

"And thus," announced the lecturer, "the only relic we have of the ancient Assyrians are a few hundred pieces of broken crockery." As the speaker paused to let this surprising thought penetrate the minds of his listeners, the silence was broken by the voice of D'Albert observing, "Ah, so matrimony is a very ancient institution!"

JUST LIKE DDT

When Joe McCarthy was cracking the whip one of his players was spending too many of his evenings in the taverns. Just before game time, McCarthy mounted a bench. In one hand he held a glass of water, in the other a worm. Joe dropped the worm into the water. It wriggled about with a great display of energy. Then he removed the worm and picked up a second glass—this one filled with liquor. Holding the worm high for all to see, he dropped it into the whiskey. It wriggled about gaily for a moment, then sank to the bottom—dead.

McCarthy looked about the room. His eye caught that of the erring player. "You, there!" he rasped. "What did my little experiment teach you?"

The player wrinkled his brow, brightly replied, "Well, boss, it teaches me that if I keep on drinkin' I ain't gonna have no worms."

W. S. C. ISSUES "SAFETY FOR ALL" RULES FOR OCTOBER

The Safety Department of the Woman's Study Club whose motto is "Safety for All" issues the following rules to be observed in co-operation with the National and State Safety Councils.

I. Falls—the most common cause of accidents:

a. Wipe grease and water from the kitchen floors immediately after spilling.

b. Keep porches and stair steps clear of obstacles as bicycles, kiddie cars, skates and toys.

c. Place milk bottles where they won't cause a fall in the dark.

II. A good thing to keep in mind—a gun is always loaded.

III. A penny is a dangerous substitute for a fuse.

IV. Keep handles of pots and pans toward back of the stove.

V. Young children should never be left alone in the house.

October Accident Hazards.

From National Safety Council. Moving, fall house cleaning, burning leaves, starting furnace fires, hunting season, taking down screens and awnings, Halloween with excitement and pranks, football, bicycles, hikes and outdoor fires.

Tree Farmer's Need
A tree farmer needs about 20 acres of growing timber to produce an average annual revenue equal to what one acre will produce in such crops as wheat or corn. But trees may be profitably grown on land unsuited to grains or other food produce and once a tree farm is in growth it will bear perpetually with nature doing the work of planting.

Old Lake Determined Topography of Utah

Prehistoric Sea Once Covered Large Part of State.

SALT LAKE CITY.—Take the shoreline of the Big Briny from which this city gets its name, stretch it into the size of Lake Michigan, fill it with water until it reaches a depth of 1,000 feet and covers Utah's three largest cities—and you have Lake Bonneville as it was 25,000 years ago.
But the sterile Great Salt lake is not the only remaining evidence of mighty Bonneville which, though geologically short-lived, had a profound effect on Utah's topography.
At its greatest depth, Bonneville covered the sites of this city, Ogden and Provo, which are strung out under the shelter of the Wasatch mountains.
It covered the southeastern corner of Idaho and stretched west across the Great Salt lake desert to the border of Nevada.
On the south its fingers penetrated as far as the Escalante desert, 300 miles from the northern shore.
Bonneville currents determined much of the state's topography. Many ridges which were once sand-spits now run from the Wasatches far out into the valleys.
The Geneva steel plant at Provo is built on one of these spits.
Born of melting glaciers in the Wasatch mountains, Bonneville found its high point not far below the peaks of the same mountains. Its shorelines are still discernible in great, hewed-out ledges along the hills.
The lake continued to rise until it blasted an outlet in Southeastern Idaho at a point now called Red Rock pass, near the town of Downey.
The outpouring swelled into a flood which emptied into Snake river and sent a tremendous tide rushing through mile-deep canyons and down the Columbia to the Pacific.
From the "Provo shoreline" level, the lake gradually evaporated, forming a dozen independent basins, the largest of which contains the Great Salt lake.

U. S. Plans to Keep Ahead In Field of Atomic Bombs

WASHINGTON.—A world unable to agree on international control of atomic bombs was put on notice by the United States that:
1. It intends to conduct more tests of atomic weapons in the Pacific.
2. Top military officers in the field of nuclear fission now head a joint army-navy agency devoted to "development of atomic weapons of all types."
3. "We mean to maintain and increase the pre-eminence of the United States in atomic weapons until acceptable international agreements" are reached and control machinery established.
A report of the atomic energy commission to congress contained the terse announcement of further experiments and the implied acceptance of any challenge to a world atomic armament race.

British Plan to Sacrifice 90 Ships in Bomb Trials

LONDON.—The Sunday Times said that Britain planned to sacrifice 90 gunships in bomb experiments off Portsmouth and Loch Striven during 1947-48.
The tests are designed to determine the effects of various types of bombing against individual and massed vessels, the paper reported.
Of the ships listed, 88 were built during the war. Included were the 22,450-ton aircraft carrier Furious, the cruisers Hawkins and Emerald, 10 destroyers, 16 submarines, three sloops, 16 corvettes and a number of smaller craft such as landing barges. Some of the destroyers were launched as late as 1945 and two of the submarines were of the fast ocean-going class intended for the Pacific war.

Incensed at Movie Scene, Shanghai Barbers Strike

SHANGHAI.—Two thousand of Shanghai's barbers laid aside their scissors and razors to continue their protest against a movie.
The barbers were incensed over a movie called "Phony Husband," in which diminutive actress Li Hau portrays a millionaire's concubine who flirts with a barber.
This, the demonstrators thought, was so unfair to organized barbers that they surrounded the movie house where the preview was scheduled and blocked the showing.

'Working' Cats Allowed Ration in New Zealand

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND.—"working" cats in New Zealand are entitled to a meat ration under a little known regulation in force here. Some butchers recently invoked the regulations which allot a "working cat" two shillings (32 cents) worth of meat every four weeks, slightly less than that allowed for children. To qualify, a cat must be kept in a food warehouse or a shop to kill rats and mice. The regulation states bluntly the ration is not for household cats.

Double Trouble

By Lila Lennon

LINDA WARE slowed her little coupe and pulled off to the side. That suspicious swaying felt like a tire going soft. And, if it was... she was going to use some unladylike words. There simply wasn't time to change a tire. She was already late... late for the homecoming party in her own honor!
One look verified her suspicions. The tire was very, very flat. She gave it a little kick and stood glaring. She knew that before she was through, she would be good and hot, and dirty.
A long sleek car came zooming up, slowed and stopped. The young man behind the wheel spoke, "Having trouble?"
Linda looked at him. He was very good looking, she decided. And he was also nicely dressed in natty sports jacket and flannels. Those flannels weren't going to look so good, either, after a tire change. "I'm afraid it's rather dirty," she said meekly.
"Of course it's dirty. When is changing a tire a clean job?" Really, if he was going to be rude, she thought indignantly.
The young man was busy with the trunk. He rolled the tire out and found the jack. He was still scowling. Linda spoke quickly, "Please don't bother, I'll change it."
He proceeded to loosen the wheel, looked up. "You?" he asked, unbelievably.
Exasperation filled Linda. "Certainly! I do know how to change a tire!" The young man grunted.

Then, as if he hadn't heard at all, he said, "That's the trouble with women drivers, they know just two things about a car; how to start it and how to stop it."
Linda thought of a thousand remarks to make, but she contented herself with observing coldly. "Please remember that I did not ask for your assistance, and I do know how to change a tire!"
He shivered and turned up his coat collar. "It's chilly, isn't it?" he observed.
Linda started her car and drove away. The mirror showed him still standing there.
"Obnoxious male," she murmured aloud. "Why do all good-looking men always seem to be so egotistical? He was impossible. That superior manner. Could she take it?" She snorted. "I'd like to tell him a thing or two." Suddenly, she began to smile. "I must tell Bud about this," she thought.
Bud greeted her at the door. "Hi, sis, late as usual."
Linda kissed him quickly. "Bud, the funniest thing happened to me..." Bud interrupted: "Not now, sis. People are waiting to see you, come on." He propelled her into the living room and Linda made the rounds of her friends.
Suddenly, Bud was tugging at her elbow. "Linda, I want you to meet a special friend of mine. This is Randy Palmer... he was my engineer on the Flying Fort."
Linda turned, and she stared at each other. Impossible, but there he was again, the obliging tire changer.
"How do you do," Linda said briefly. "Kismet," he murmured, and smiled.
Bud grinned. "You two ought to know each other, neither one of you ever arrives anywhere on time."
"Really, Bud..." Linda began. Bud put his arm around her. "I'm really very proud of my little sister," he said to Randy. "She probably knows more about cars and engines than any man in this room." Randy's smile was enigmatic.
"Yes sir," Bud continued. "For two years she drove a jeep all over North Africa. She's a good gal to have along on a trip."
Randy's smile stiffened, and he seemed to be swallowing something. "A jeep... North Africa...?" he asked weakly. "Yep," Bud said.
Linda didn't say anything, but her eyes danced. Bud moved off, but Randy stood there, looking.
"Well?" Linda said.
"I can't believe it..." he said slowly. "You're so small and pretty..." Then suddenly, he chuckled. "I guess this puts me in the well known corner." He took her arm. "Please forgive me..." and thanks for not telling on me."
Linda smiled. Maybe... maybe she wouldn't tell Bud, after all.

Such Manners
Three-year-old Ned was taken, for the first time, by his Grandma to the club for tea. When a glass of crushed ice and a bottle of ginger ale were placed in front of him, his eyes grew big—he was a real man now. After a sip or two of it he was asked how he liked his drink of ginger ale. "Fine, Grandma, but it sneezes in my face."

JUST TESTING

"Give me a glass of water, please," gasped the victim. "You aren't going to faint, I hope?" asked the barber in alarm. "No," replied the victim, "I just want to see if my mouth still holds water."

They'll Be Sorry
"Friend Smithers," remarked a neighbor to the old gentleman whose family had relegated him to a dark little room in the attic, "don't you think your children are treating you rather badly?"
"Yes, I suppose they are," admitted the old man. He pondered the question a few moments, then suddenly cackled with glee. "But they have children," he added, "and they will avenge me!"

The Uniform
Wife—I think married men should wear something to show they're married.
Husband—I do—this shiny suit.

Ten Dollar Words
Attendant (in filling station)—Boss, your doctor's in here with a flat tire.
Boss—Well! Diagnose the trouble as puncture wounds resulting in prolapsus of the perimeter. Prescribe plastic surgery followed by the administration of violent fustulents, and charge him accordingly. That's what he's been doing to me!

Preparation
Patron—Why do you have only horror, detective and mystery stories in your shop?
Barber—I find it much easier to cut hair when it is standing on end.

The want ads are newsy, too.

Soils Need Air for Total Crop Growth

Increasing Depth of Aeration Boosts Yield

"Stuffy" soils that have little or no oxygen available to the plant roots that grow in them just are not able to support high crop yields. Hard working plant roots need oxygen if they are to do a good job of supporting the plant and collecting plant food for the above ground parts.

Working with muck soil, N. K. Ellis, Purdue university, and Richard Morris, U. S. soil conservation service, found that when liberal quantities of oxygen penetrated the soil only four inches the yield of red beets, sweet corn, onions and Chippewa potatoes was small. When the soils were "ventilated" to 18 inches the yields increased as much as 10 fold. When the depth of aeration was increased to 36 inches the yield of some of the crops was increased.

The yield of carrots went from 3 to 33 tons per acre when the depth of aeration was increased from 4 to 18 inches. Sweet corn yield went from 3 to 4.75 tons; onions from 45 to 275 50-pound bags; red beets from 3.75 to 13.5 tons and potatoes from about 12 to 258 bushels per acre.

Oxygen in the soil for the use of the plant roots is the logical reason for the difference in crop yields. Adequate plant food was available on all the plots. Rainfall during the season was sufficient to eliminate water as a limiting crop production factor on the muck soils.

KNOW YOUR BREED Blue-Game Chickens

A tradition that has been recorded by the historians of Delaware, is that during the early days of the Revolutionary war the men of Capt. Jonathan Caldwell's company took with them game chickens noted for their fighting ability. These chickens were said to be of the brood of a famous blue hen. The company soon received the sobriquet "Blue Hen's Chickens," and the state of Delaware in 1939 adopted the Blue Hen's Chicken as the state bird.

The photograph shows a blue fowl resulting from a cross of Black Sumatra cock and Blue-Splashed White hen, as developed by the USDA.

Trough and Bath Pen

This drinking trough has an overflow pipe to carry water to the larger trough. The arrangement eliminates the need for float valve.

The pipe also serves as a part of the fence. The water in the larger and lower trough is carried away by an overflow pipe.

Treating Turkeys for Blackhead Recommended

A little item on a large subject appeared recently in the official publication of the American Veterinary Medical association.

Diisobutylphenoxymethyl dimethylbenzylammonium chloride, it seems, has been recommended by leading veterinary authorities as a "preventive of naturally occurring enterohepatitis of turkeys." "Enterohepatitis" is a disease more commonly known as "blackhead."

Vary the Salad With the Meal
(See recipes below.)

Salad Parade

Salads lead the health parade because in them you eat so many fruits and vegetables before they get a chance to lose their vitamins and minerals. All through the ages people have turned to salads because they craved things fresh from garden and orchard. Besides, certain foods are more attractive and appealing served in their raw state, or in salad form.

Salads may accompany the main course, and then they are served on a side plate, but alongside the main course. If you want to entertain in a special way, the answer is a salad platter or salad bowl. Use fruit or vegetables as your taste dictates.

Don't forget the party or dessert salads, which are in a class by themselves. These are full of fruit and even whipped cream, the fairy princesses of the salad world. Serve them for special occasions as a topping to a meal or as a party dish.

Frozen Banana Salad. (Serves 10 to 12)

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 3-ounce packages of cream cheese
2 tablespoons crushed pineapple
1/2 cup maraschino cherries, cut in quarters
1/2 cup walnut meats, chopped
1 cup cream, whipped
3 ripe bananas
Crisp greens

Add lemon juice and salt to mayonnaise and stir in cheese. Add pineapple, cherries and nuts; fold in cream. Add bananas, cut in cubes. Turn into tray and place in automatic refrigerator. Freeze until firm, then serve sliced on crisp greens.

Here's a pretty salad that may be served either as a special salad or as an accompaniment:

*Ginger Ale Pear Salad. (Serves 6 to 8)

2 envelopes plain, unflavored gelatin
1 No. 2 1/2 size can of pears
1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 1/4 cups ginger ale
Few drops red coloring
8 maraschino cherries

Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup of the cold pear juice drained from can. Bring to a boil 1/2 cup pear syrup and stir in softened gelatin until dissolved.

Add maraschino cherry juice, sugar, lemon juice and ginger ale. If a darker color is desired, add a few drops of red coloring. Rinse a shallow pan in cold water; arrange pear halves, cut side up in bottom. Top each with a cherry. Pour gelatin mixture over pears carefully so as not to dislodge pears. Chill until firm. To serve, cut gelatin into squares with a sharp knife and place on lettuce. Serve with desired dressing.

When you're serving a heavy dinner, there's nothing better than a crisp salad just bursting with vegetables. For example, a chef's salad is about the best choice, or perhaps a cole slaw.

A true chef's salad is composed mainly of some of the salad greens

LYNN SAYS: Try Old Salad Favorites With New Touches

Watercress is especially good with mayonnaise to which a bit of catsup has been added. Sliced radishes and chopped green pepper are also good additions.

Asparagus tips on a big slice of tomato seem tastier when served with a blue cheese dressing. Break up the cheese in french or oil dressing and add enough lemon juice for tartness.

such as escarole, romaine, lettuce, raw spinach, endive, watercress, dandelion greens or celery cabbage. They may be arranged bouquet style or shredded and tossed lightly with an oil and vinegar dressing (sometimes a french dressing) just before serving time.

One or more of the following may be added for variety if you want to tease the palate: Sliced radishes, chopped green pepper, diced cucumbers, cut celery, sliced stuffed olives, tomato sections, sliced pickle, sliced hard-cooked eggs, rolled anchovies, minced onion rings, garlic salt, celery salt, celery seed, or a light sprinkle of thyme, curry powder or chili powder.

Here are some tempting variations for a cole slaw type of salad:

Plain Cole Slaw: 4 cups finely shredded cabbage, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 1 cup cooked salad dressing. Optional additions: 1 tablespoon either dill seed or caraway seed or mustard seed.

Carrot Slaw: 2 cups grated or shaved carrots, 2 cups cabbage, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1 cup boiled salad dressing.

Slaw Deluxe: 3 cups shredded cabbage, 1 cup diced banana, 1/2 cup chopped peanuts, 2 tablespoons catsup and 1 cup boiled salad dressing.

Pineapple Slaw: 2 cups shredded cabbage, 1 cup cut, drained pineapple, 1/4 cup boiled salad dressing, 1 tablespoon celery seed and dash of paprika.

Spanish Slaw: 1 1/2 cups cut cabbage, 1 cup diced tomatoes, 1 cup diced cucumbers, 1/4 cup chopped green pepper and 1/4 cup of boiled salad dressing.

Two molded salads that may be served as an accompaniment are a pretty addition to the table:

Molded Grape Salad.
(Serves 6)
1 1/2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1 cup orange juice
1 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup seeded or seedless grapes
1/2 cup nutmeats
Lettuce

Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Bring juices to a boil, add sugar and gelatin. Cool, and when thick, fold in grapes and nuts. Pour into individual molds and chill until firm. Serve in nests of lettuce.

Mixed Fruit Salad. (Serves 6)

3 oranges, peeled and diced
3 slices canned pineapple, diced, or 1 cup pineapple tidbits
1 unpeeled red apple, diced
1/2 cup pitted dates, cut into pieces
1 cup seeded grapes, cut in half
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup coconut, shredded, if desired

Mix fruit with mayonnaise and chill thoroughly. Serve on shredded lettuce; sprinkle with coconut, if desired.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Serve sliced tomatoes on a bed of lettuce with a dressing to which a few caraway seeds have been added.

You might also like a half avocado dressed with lemon juice served with cubes of fresh orange to which just a suggestion of onion has been added.

Strips of peeled avocado marinated in lemon juice may be effectively combined with sections of grapefruit or orange, strips of pimiento and grated blue cheese and nutmeats.

See 50,000 Feet Altitude Range

Military Flight Predicted By Tester for Boeing Aircraft Research.

SEATTLE. — N. D. Showalter, chief of flight test for Boeing Aircraft company, predicts military flight at altitudes from 40,000 to 50,000 feet—more than nine miles above sea level—"for the near future."

The forecast, made at a Boeing-sponsored symposium on high-altitude flight, established five mile altitudes as at "present practical levels" for regular commercial air travel.

Military craft operated at altitudes ranging from 30,000 to 38,000 feet during the war.

The vast testing and development of high-height flying military craft has made commercial flight in the stratosphere practical, Showalter said, and provided an altitude safety margin well beyond operating levels.

Flights Called Safe.

"Research programs in which military planes pushed above the 40,000-foot level have given us adequate experience for commercial operation at lower altitudes," he said. "Present development indicates commercial flights should be safe, economical and comfortable at 25,000-foot altitudes."

"We believe that an entirely appropriate altitude margin is provided by the background and experience at and above 35,000 feet." Showalter cited his company's 10-year program on stratosphere research and development, and outlined the tests designed to "build an adequate altitude margin into the airplane."

Boeing flight crews, he said, have spent more than 1,300 hours above 25,000 feet and conducted more flying at 40,000 feet or higher "than all the rest of man collectively." The program has been carried on during the last five years in connection with army air forces.

About 650 man-hours, aside from mechanical work on equipment, have been spent for each flight hour in the conducting of tests and compilation of data, he said.

Needs Consideration.

Discussing government regulations of aircraft, M. F. Vanik, Boeing airworthiness engineer, said new federal requirements in high-altitude design "must be carefully considered" because of the wide extent of the field and its national importance.

"The basic philosophy of government aircraft regulations," he said, "is to establish uniform safety rules of minimum standards which will result in maximum safety commensurate with the best interests of the general public, the development of aviation and the current science and art of aircraft design and operation."

"To realize the full advantages to be obtained with high-altitude airplane design, regulations must be kept at a minimum, and those that are considered necessary must be kept general and flexible to allow achievement of the best realization of balanced design and efficiency."

Experience in high-altitude design gained through the war will be translated into commercial airplane design, he said, and high-altitude flying soon will become common due to its advantages in speed, comfort and economy.

SUPERIOR, WIS.—Skunks have no respect for a policeman's uniform, it was learned by Policemen Marcus Erickson and Willard Nelson.

One of the striped kitties fell into a deep hole near the Ambrose J. Lunch residence, promptly halting a construction job going on there.

All attempts at rescue failing, the officers shot the skunk, figuring that would disrupt the animal's protective device. In this respect, both officers admit they were wrong. They are now wearing their spare uniforms.

Child Is Swept Ashore;

Life Is Saved by Oxygen

OCEANSIDE, CALIF.—An unconscious baby, identified as 18-month-old Suzanne Marie Rodriguez, was swept ashore at the feet of a fisherman.

The fisherman applied artificial respiration. Later the fire department arrived with a resuscitator. Firemen administered oxygen and the child's eyes fluttered open.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Renaldo Rodriguez of Los Angeles, said the child had toddled away from their tent without being missed.

Wed 10 Weeks, He Divorces

Wife Who Couldn't Cook

SEATTLE.—Paul E. Newton, 65, was cooking his own food again. Newton was granted an uncontested divorce from his wife, Theda, because she couldn't cook. They had been married 10 weeks.

Newton told Judge James T. Lawler that he had known his wife for 43 years and always assumed she was an excellent cook.

"I tried one pie," Newton said sadly. "That was enough."

By-Products From Sheep

Not only wool but meat, cheese and skins are valuable products of the sheep. Before men learned to shear their animals and convert the fiber into cloth, sheep pelts were used as protection against the weather. Even today, sheepskin is extensively employed as a lining for heavy coats, cold weather boots, rugs and sport coats. In Australia secret processes recently have been developed which are said to give short fiber sheepskins the appearance of superior animal fur.

HOWDY FOLKS!

The young man was saying: "When I think that tomorrow is your birthday and when I think that I didn't know you a year ago—" She interrupted with: "Don't let us talk about the past. Let's talk about my present."

Student: "Sir, I do not think I deserve an absolute zero."
Professor: "I don't either. But it's the lowest mark I can possibly give."

Then there was the man who complained, "My wife has the worst memory."
The friend said: "You mean she forgets things?"

"No," was the answer, "I mean she remembers everything."

And we remember to give extra service when you come here for gas and oil. That's one reason it pays you big dividends to make this place your headquarters for gas, oil and lubrication. The other and bigger reason, of course, is the superior quality of our products.

"Land sakes... it's the Edison man"

Surprising, isn't it, how quickly Edison servicemen can respond to a trouble call? As small a thing as a burned-out fuse in an electric range will bring the Edison man to the most remote farmhouse with remarkable promptness.

In addition to emergency services, it's nice to know that Farm Service Advisors,

Home Service Advisors, and appliance repairmen are ready to serve you—quickly and efficiently.

Part of the answer for the speed of Edison service is the number of Edison offices—86 of them throughout southeastern Michigan. Part can be found in the pride that Edison employees take in helping you get the most out of all the electricity you use.

Taxation Forever!

Beginning with a tariff levied on distilled spirits in 1790, says a Twentieth Century Fund report, liquor taxation in the United States has been imposed both for revenue and for control of consumption. Three-fifths of the individual states impose taxes on incomes of individuals and sales tax is in use in 22 states and two large cities. Two-fifths of the states levy special taxes on chain stores.

Waste in City Water

Water wasted in New York City due to leaking faucets amounts to 100 million gallons a day.

SUPERIOR INTELLECT

ONE of Sam's mules took it into his head to stop dead on the main street of the town, and it was twenty minutes before Sam could persuade the animal to move a single step. And then the other mule balked! Sam pleaded, threatened, cursed, but to no avail. The critter wouldn't budge an inch.

If the mules made Sam mad, the steadily growing crowd of spectators that gathered about his wagon, offering comments, suggestions and jibes, reduced him to the state of a raving, gesticulating maniac.

Pushing his way ahead of the recalcitrant mules, Sam turned, leveled an accusing finger at them, and shouted, "I'll conquer you, I'll conquer you!" Sensing some doubt on the part of the spectators, Sam added, "Don't think I can do it, eh? Well, I can, 'cause I've got more sense than both of you mules put together!"

UGH!

He—I always kiss the stamps on your letters because I know your lips have touched them.

Waiting for the Kickoff

Sonny boy, 4, came trotting into the house with an old, battered feed pail and shouted:

"Here, grandma, kick this quick!"

"Why should I do that?" asked granny, puzzled.

"Because," said Sonny boy, "daddy told mamma we'll all have lots of money as soon as you kick the bucket!"

Really Serious

"Doctor," said the patient, rushing into his physician's office, "you've just got to do something about this insomnia of mine. It's driving me crazy."

"Now, now," soothed the medic, "surely it can't be as bad as all that."

"It can't, eh? Why, I can't sleep even when it's time to get up!"

Their Big Date

A Kansas cyclone hit a farm house just before dawn one morning. It lifted the roof off, picked up the bed on which the farmer and his wife slept, and set it down gently in the back 40. The wife was crying softly. "Don't be scared, Mary," her husband said, "we're not hurt."

Mary continued to cry. "I'm not scared," she responded between sobs. "I'm just happy 'cause this is the first time in 14 years that we've been out together."

Second Hunter—Yeah?

He Got Trimmed

At a swank New York restaurant, a customer sat down at a table and tied his napkin under his chin. The manager told the waiter to let the man know, without hurting his feelings, that such things weren't done there.

Approaching his customer, the waiter smiled pleasantly, then inquired, "What will you have, sir? Shave or haircut?"

A Tip-off

A Hollywood hostess, giving instructions to her new maid just before a party, cautioned:

"Now please try to remember, Marie, when you serve the guests, don't wear any jewelry."

Maid—I haven't anything valuable, Madame, but thanks for the warning—just the same.

Making Cakes Smooth

Housewives who like to have their cakes look smooth and neat around the edges after frosting should cut a piece of fairly heavy paper just a bit larger than the cake plate, then cut the paper into quarters. Place the paper under the cake and apply frosting. After the frosting has "set," the paper should be removed and the cake plate will be free from drippings.

Water or Electricity

Prompt cooling of milk during hot weather is essential if losses are to be avoided. There should be four times as much cold water as milk available for this purpose, unless electrical refrigeration is utilized. Water cools milk many times faster than air at the same temperature. When an overflow pipe leads from the milk house to the water trough the surplus may be used without loss. If electricity is available it should be used to cool the water.

FRIDAY EVENING

guard while the high school bands played the national anthem.

The invocation was given by Rev. Arnold Olsen and was followed by the dedicatory address.

Caro had little difficulty in winning the football game which ended in a 26-0 score in favor of the county seat school.

Duane Klein raced 25 yards for the first touchdown in the first period. Keith Warren made a 42-yard run and M. Nowland picked up a block kick and scored. Both of these were recorded in the second period. The fourth touchdown was made in the fourth quarter when Robert Hutchinson plunged three yards after Cass City fumbled on its 18-yard line.

Caro made 11 first downs and Cass City 10. The locals fumbled five times to Caro's once. The visitors intercepted three passes.

The announcement of the game's progress, play by play, by a loud speaker system, was a new feature in football in Cass City. Howard "Baldy" Ellis handled the broadcasting very satisfactorily.

The high school bands engaged in marching formations between halves, under the floodlights which illuminated the field and made it as near daylight as one could desire. The band members' art and skill in maneuvers and music won the admiration of the large crowd.

Caro was represented by a very large delegation of fans, both adults and students.

Officials at the game were Referee Hood, Umpire Wes Dunn and Lineman Chas. Crampton.

The next home game under the lights is scheduled for tonight (Friday) with Harbor Beach playing Cass City.

worked in cooperation with the program and took many blood samples required in carrying on the work.

The object of the program is to eventually eliminate all infected cattle from all herds in the county. Most of the 2057 reactor cattle were sold for slaughter. However, their owners may keep them on their own farms under strict quarantine. All reactor cattle are identified by a tattoo in the ear and may be sold only for slaughter purposes.

Through this program the owners of infected herds are also offered free calf-hood vaccination service until the herd is free of reactors or replaced by immunized cattle.

Dr. Segal states that he and his staff greatly appreciated the cooperation given them by Tuscola County farmers, local veterinarians, the sheriff's department, the Caro towns people and others.
