AAA Committees Election Will Be Held in December

Results Will Be Determined by Mail After Nominations Are Made

Final details have been pleted for the annual AAA community committee elections which will be conducted by mail again this year following a series of nomination meetings in township during the next two weeks at which the candidates for township AAA offices will be selected, according to Chas. B. Eckfeld, chairman of the present Tuscola County AAA Committee.

The names of the nominees selected at the township meet-ings as candidates for the AAA community committees and as delegates to the county convention will be placed on a ballot which will be mailed to each eligible farmer in the county. The ballot, when marked by the farmer according to his choice, should be returned either by mail or in person to the county AAA office, 451 North Grant W. S. C. S. State Street, Caro, Michigan, on or before Wednesday, December 24.

The elected county convention delegates will assemble on December 30 to elect the county AAA committee for 1948.

The community nominating meetings will be held according to the following schedule:

KATE YARROW had so often heard neighbors remark that she would be an old woman before her time, that she had begun to think of herself as quite middleaged. Actually she was not quite 30, nor had her full days as mistress of the Yarrow household turned her hair gray or her cheeks wan.

Sometimes, since she had taken her mother's place, Kate did think she was imposed upon. But she blamed no one. Her father was generous enough with the money, and she had Martie in the kitchen and old Sam for outside work. But five inconsiderate younger brothers and sisters, a preoccupied father and a grumbling grandfather made a household that required supervi-

For the past two years, Kate thought, there had really been no Christmas. But this year would be different. The brothers, all in boarding school or college, had accepted invitations to spend the holidays with room-mates. One sister was visiting an aunt, and the other had gone south with her exacting but youthful grandfather, And Kate's father was spending the season with a thoroughly capable widow who, it had been whispered, he was considering as a possible second wife.

Bill did not neglect his privilege. So as soon as the last member of her brood had faded down the driveway, Kate told Martie and Sam to take a two-day vacation — and then settled back to spend Christmas by herself. She ren into the capacious living room and with a completely undignified leap planted herself sprawling upon the divan. Everyone but Kate sprawled on that divan. Kate never had time. Now she would begin the Christmas holidays by staying there for hours.

Before dinner-time she donned her best red evening frock and over this her smock. Then she went down to the kitchen to make herself a meal, admitting for the first time that it was rather lonesome in the old house. She heard loud rappings on the old brass knocker, and went to open the door rather timidly.

But her timidity gave way to annoyance. There was her older brother, Tom, who had started that morning ostensibly to pass the holidays with a group of bachelor friends. And here he was, backwith five young men in tow! They were heavily laden, turkey feet protruding from one of the bundles.

"Well, we began talking it over," Tom said, "and decided Christmas at the club would be a frost. So I asked the fellows to come home with me. I was afraid you wouldn't have things for the feast, so we stopped and got what we thought you'd want. Bill, here, even got mistletoe, though I told him there'd be no pretty girls!"

Then, turning to one of the young men whom Kate had never met, the tactless brother went on, "Bill, this is my sister. Now I'll run along and get the car in the garage. And, sis, you might take the fellows up and show 'em where you want 'em to sleep!"

Bill alone of the young bachelors noted the look of disappointment on Kate's face. Later, after she had prepared an impromptu Christmas Eve supper and laid aside her smock, she heard Bill say from the other end of the table: "I thought Tom said there would be no pretty girls here. Boys, let's drink a toast to Sister Kate!'

It was past midnight that night when Kate left the kitchen. The boys had helped with the dishes under Bill's orders, but there would be pies and puddings to make for the next day and Kate knew she would have her hands full. She was up early to prepare the festive breakfast, and all day she worked in the kitchen.

It was late Christmas night when she had finished the last work in the kitchen. As she passed through the hall, Bill stood waiting for her. There, above them, hung the mistletoe - and Bill did not neglect his privilege.

"It isn't just because of the mistletoe," he told Kate, holding her still close to him. "I loved you when I first saw you. It has been outrageous for us to impose on you

"It's all been worthwhile, Bill," Kate replied, "because I've made myself believe that I was doing it all for you-alone!"

Scientist Hails Telepathy Test

Tells of Success in Trial to Cast Minds Across Atlantic Ocean.

DUNDEE, SCOTLAND. - The British Association for the Advancement of Science was told by a psychologist that he had established statistically the probable existence of the power of one mind to communicate with another, even across the Atlantic ocean.

Prof. John Hettinger of London university, said that he had engaged in research in mental telepathy for eight years. After satisfying himself that a prima facie case for telepathy had been måde out, he began to wonder about the contention of some believers in telepathy that the faculty is not limited by distance.

Hettinger arranged with psychologists in New York to conduct a series of tests in which "controls" on the western side of the Atlantic looked at pictures clipped at random from magazines. "Sensitives" in London tried to pick up, as a radio receiver picks up signals from a transmitter, impressions of what the controls in New York were looking at.

Didn't Tell 'Em.

Neither controls nor sensitives were told what was going on.

He showed members of the society lantern slides of the experiments. A New Yorker looked at a picture of o'clock." Joe Louis, In London, the sensitive said simultaneously: "Someone is counting-wants to count movements. Two men are in the attitude of boxing."

A New Yorker held up a picture of a man playing a string instrument with the thumb of one hand and the second and third fingers of the other. In London the sensitive said: "I want to use the thumb and third finger only.'

Got It in London.

A New Yorker looked at an advertisement showing a waiter with a round tray on which were two tumblers. The sensitive in London said: 'I am holding a small round tray with two glasses on it.

In New York, a control looked at a picture of a medical attendant examining the mouth of a war prisoner. The sensitive in London said: "Something is wrong with the mouth. I rather got the impression of a dentist."

A New Yorker looked at an advertisement showing four small and four large jars, with a woman holding her hand between the third and fourth large jars. In London, a sensitive said: "Glass jars. I want to take the fourth one."

Concluding his speech and demonstration, Hettinger said:

"I hope that a few of the psychologists who are present will fully grasp the implications, become interested in further experimentation and make their own future contributions to this most promising field of psychological investigations."

Population Hits (43,311,000,

WASHINGTON .- The census bu reau reported that the population of the United States last April totaled approximately 143,311,000, including about 1,250,000 then in the military

The bureau said the civilian population, estimated at 142,061,000, represented a gain of 10,392,000 or about 7.9 per cent in the seven-year period since April, 1940.

The largest increase, about 3.427. 000 or 24.7 per cent, was reported in the West, with the smallest increase in the South where the gain was 1,107,000 or 2.7 per cent. The bureau further said: The city population increased from 74,424,000 to about 83,860,000 or 12.7 per cent during the seven-year period. The non-farm population in rural areas increased even more, from 27,029,000 to 30,896,000 or 14.3 per

COLUMBUS, OHIO .- Man apparently isn't alone in devising "secret weapons"-the insect world is doing

Jeff Swinecoat, naturalist for the Ohio State university museum, said mankind this year is being plagued by several new insects, including one that looks like a bumblebee and will attack anything.

This new insect, the naturalist said, has only two wings and has been given the name "robber fly." Furthermore, Swinecoat said, there are four new species of mosquitoes.

Mary's Lamb Graduates After Visit to School

NEW YORK.-Mary and her little lamb went to school one day. Mary Ann Fannon, 8, fell in love with a baby lamb on a visit to the Bronx zoo. An uncle, hearing of the attachment, sent a lamb to Mary. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Fannon, decided the lamb wasn't suited to an apartment. So they decided to give the lamb to St. Joan of Arc parochial school as a mascot. Mary took her pet to class, but school authorities decided the Bronx zoo would be a better home for the

Automatic Selling Grows

Vending machines are winning more consumer acceptance and in many lines, they actively compete with retailing. The industry is now considered a 500 million dollar business. New models can sell canned, frozen and dehydrated foods, hosiery, books, toilet articles, shirts, neckties, ice cream, hot dogs and complete meals. Greater ease of coin changing has also stimulated automatic merchandising.

Soft Corn Requires Special Attention Several Methods Given For Profitable Feeding

Saving soft corn will be a problem facing many farmers this year. Much of the crop went in so late that frost became a factor in maturity, as well as in winter handling of the corn. Next to chopping and feeding green, one of the best ways to get full value from soft corn is to put immature crops in the silo or pasture them off with cattle, hogs or sheep, Capper's Farmer points out.

Another method used by many growers in the last big soft corn year, 1945, was to build emergency cribs five to six feet wide. The farmers set two rows of poles in the ground, wired the tops together to keep the cribs from spreading, and fastened woven wire or slat cribbing on the inside of the posts. These cribs, built in east and west directions, took best advantage of prevailing winds.

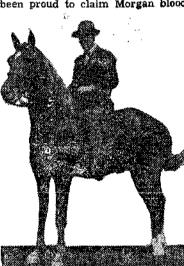

Farmers in many northern areas where corn is likely to be caught by frost before it is mature, regularly cut up large quantities and cure it as fodder. Ears later are husked by hand or with a shredder.

Most hybrid corns are stiff stalked and have a good root system. They will stand with few fallen ears well into the winter. Since ears will dry with less spoilage on a standing stalk, many farmers prefer to let hogs, cattle or sheep harvest the

Some New Weed Killers Give Excellent Results

New weed killers to supplement 2,4-D are appearing with good reports. Quack grass and crab grass are two weed pests which 2,4-D does not control. IPC was developed in England during the war and now is giving good results in the control of quack grass, stolons and seedings, in tests conducted by the U.S. department of agriculture. It is harmless to persons and to some broadleaf plants.

MARY CRANE emptied the last tub and stood it against the shed to drain, sighing her thanks that if she must wash clothes on Christmas Day the job was at least over and done with by noon. She had just returned to the kitchen when a knock came at the door. It was her neighbor, Hattie Jamieson, decked out in her finest.

"Aren't you the one." Hattie exclaimed. "washing clothes on Christmas Day!"

Mary conceded it wasn't the best way to pass the day, but added that it must be done.

"I wonder if you'd do me a favor?" Hattie asked. "John and Fanny have asked us to come to town for Christmas dinner and the tree tonight. You know, times were a little tough for Henry and me this year, so I took those two little State orphans to board. Now, I don't want to leave them at home alone, and Fanny wouldn't want them to come mingle with her youngsters.' She sighed faintly. "Would you let them come stay with you for the evening?"

"Why, of course," Mary replied, smiling. "It will make Christmas for me, who was spendin' it alone. What time will they come?"

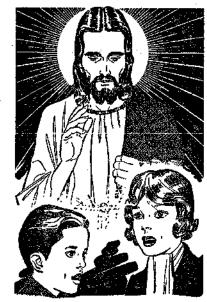

"Fanny's sending the car for us about five o'clock, and we'll drop them off here on the way."

After Hattie had left, Mary mused that she didn't suppose the Lord thought Fanny's children too good to mingle with these two orphans, but after a moment she realized there was much to be done. By five o'clock she had walked to the store and spent her few pennies on two tiny pair of red mittens, which were now hanging on the little spruce tree Mary had cut in the back yard. And in the kitchen a hot, hearty supper was waiting.

Mary sat in the living room, waiting. 'Lucky I did that extra washing today, so I feel justified spending those pennies on the youngsters. Those children must have a Christmas, and maybe—" she sighed—"I shan't have a home another year!"

Waiting there in the old rocker, her head dropped slowly, and Mary Crane fell asleep. . . .

"One thing I'd like to do before dinner," rich old Andrew Craig said to his wife. "S'pose there's time? You remember Mary Crane had some tough luck a few years back. She borrowed money from the bank on her house and couldn't keep up the payments. Well, the directors decided not to give her any more and bright and-and beautiful."

"I couldn't help remembering our lean years, Sue, when Mary was our neighbor and worked day and night to pull you through pneumonia. So I just gathered in that debtit was only a few hundreds-and had some papers made out to Mary. I'd kind of like to take them out to her on Christmas night." Sue pulled his head down and kissed him. "It will take just 10 minutes to pack a basket for you to take along," she reckoned swiftly. "If you drive there and back in half an hour, you can do it. Remember, we have guests coming!" It was snowing when Andrew alighted from the car. A lamp showed him Mary's kitchen through the window, the cheery tree, and the sleeping old lady. He tip-toed in and placed his basket on the table. papers on top. The latching of the door aroused Mary,

Her small guests rushed in a few minutes later to find Mary holding the papers to her heart, her face alight with joy.

"Merry Christmas, Mary," cried the little girl. "There was a man on your steps when we came down the lane. We saw him plain as could be!"

"You're right," said Mary. "Andrew Craig is a man, if ever there was one."

"Not the man in the fur coat," insisted the child. "It was another just behind him. All tall and bright and-and beautiful."

"Well," said Mary. "I'm not surprised. Some folks might say it parel if given the chance, Damp was shadows and lamplight and clothing and linens should not be snowflakes, but"-tapping the papers--"wherever there's things like | dry bag. Mold spores, always in the FOR SALE-One boy's finger tip this goin' on Christmas night, I'm pursuaded He's there!"

and easy to serve. They are ideal for snack fare for the youngsters, as well as family get-togethers during the holidays.

It won't be long now before the holidays are with us, and that means the children will be home with their constant demands on the cookie plenty of entertaining, perhaps not of the elahorate variety, but evenings in front of the cozy warmth of the fireplace, when there should be a simple cockie or cake to serve.

Wise cooks will plan to do a lot of their holiday baking early. Some of the cookies and confections can be made early, and they will taste so much the better for it. Then, too, most women like to make such things as pudding and fruit cakes before the holidays so as to relieve the strain on the kitchen later on. If you're making fruit cake or pudding, chop the fruits the day before and prepare your molds. Then the making of the recipe will be easy and there is less chance for error.

English Plum Pudding. 14 pound butter 1 pound light brown sugar 1 pint milk

1 pound fine bread crumbs 1 giass grape juice 1½ pounds raisins, floured 2 pounds currants ½ pound citron 1 ground nutmeg

Cream the butter and sugar, add beaten eggs, milk, bread crumbs, grape juice, raisins, currants, finely sliced citron and spice. Steam in a buttered mold for five hours. Have you ever made your fruit cake in little fluted paper cases for individual servings? It's really very easy and saves on baking time. Small Fruit Cakes (Dark). 2 cups dark brown sugar

8 eggs, beaten light 31% cups flour and cinnamon

11/2 pounds raisins 1½ pounds currants ½ pound citron, sliced thin

% cup melted grape or currant jelly

Cream butter, add sugar and cream until light. Beat the eggs add to the butter and sugar. Sift the flour and spices over the cut up raisins, currants and citron and mix well. Beat into the other mixture; add the melted jelly.

Fill small paper cases and bake in a slow oven for about 30 minutes. Small Fruit Cakes (Light).

% pound butter 1 pound sugar

1 scant pound flour 1 to 11/2 pounds grated coconut 1 pound citron, sliced fine

1 pound blanched, sliced almonds 1 pound raisins, cut fine 1 pound candied pineapple, sliced

¼ pound candied cherries, sliced finė ½ cup orange inice

Proceed as in recipe above. Both children and adults like peanuts, and there's nothing better or easier than to include them in a bar type of cookie made delicious

¼ teaspoon mace

Scramble eggs with some tomato soup from a can. It's different and very delicious.

When you make that chocolate pudding, the children will like it even more if you pour a little of the pudding in the cup, add a layer of crushed peppermint candy, a layer of pudding, a candy layer and then more pudding.

Veterans Administration Speeds Up Medical Attention

To speed active medical treatment of veteran-patients. Veterans Administration announced that the reception services in its hospitals are being abolished In the future, all general medical and surgical patients will be admitted directly into active treatment wards where their case histories, necessary X-Rays and other routine examinations will be made. Previously these functions were conducted by the reception services pending assignment of patients to treatment wards.

In tuberculosis hospitals, new patients will enter diagnostic and classification units where they will be put to bed immediately regardless of past diagnosis or apparent status of physical well being. This procedure gives the doctors an opportunity to study temperatures, pulse, respiration and other vital processes while patients are in absolute rest. Active treatment as determined by doctors will begin without further In neuropsychiatric hospitals, acute (intensive treatment) services are being established with these units having all facilities needed for treatment of acute neuropsychiatric disorders in all categories of behavior or diagnosis. Repair Shop Saves Money for Farmers Labor Saving Tools Ald In Better Farm Practice Money saved by farmers who do their own repair and maintenance work may not show up in the price of hogs, but it will appear on the right side of the ledger when the year's account books are balanced. Buildings and equipment represent about one-half of the average farm's total investment, and it pays to keep them in satisfactory condition.

In order to do their best work farmers, like other craftsmen, require adequate tools. Because much repair and maintenance work on equipment must be done during offseasons and in unpleasant weather, it is wise economy to have a well-equipped farm shop. Such a shop should be large enough so that field machinery can be moved inside and also satisfactorily lighted so that emergency repairs can be made at

Farmers having electricity available will find that use of certain power equipment will speed up their work and save them time, money and energy. Since many cutting tools are used on the farm. probably one of the first pieces of power equipment purchased will be a tool grinder. Other electrical tools found in most farm shops include post and hand drills, wood lathes, rip and band saws, air compressors, battery chargers, paint sprayers and, more recently, transformer-type electric are welders.

There's money in repairing your own equipment and there's something else also-most boys are interested in the development of farm shops, a factor which should not be overlooked as a means of stimulating their interest in farming.

Soil management and crop rotation made the difference between the two. Increasing the organic matter by 20 tons boosted the amount of water the soil would hold by 200 tons. In addition, tests showed that water needed only half the time to soak through a thin layer of the loose soil rich in organic matter than it needed for the same soil with only 31 tons of organic matter per acre. WISH you'd write an article for my mother," writes a harassed wife from Oregon. "Everyone says mother is an angel, and her four children would be the last to say anything else-seriously, we adore her. But the way she messes up our lives is nobody's business!

"She agonizes over our troubles, exaggerates our successes, makes us constant presents and always is willing to let everything else drop and rush to us in any crisis. And the result is that we have to keep our problems secret, handle very gingerly the story of anything that goes right and never express the slightest need of help.

"Because, at the first sign, Mother interferes. If she suspects that everything isn't smooth between my brother's wife and me, for instance, she writes Jane a long tactful letter. She telephones my husband to remind him of our wedding anniversary, and Oliver says it makes him so mad he decides he won't bring home flowers after all. Once when my sister was miserable with cold and pregnancy and no domestic help and winter weather, Mother paid out of her small income for a nurse for four days. The nurse demoralized everybody in their crowded little flat, and Dory's husband hasn't yet gotten over his resentment. Bill says that if his wife needs a nurse he'll get one and pay

"Mother has a suggestion for everything. She was here for two days last week and I'll tell you what I remember, to give you an idea of the situation. She got out doilies for the dinner table, observing that she'd | see how trying and superfluous they wash them herself, that a man liked are. To her, you are still children, a house dainty. She didn't wash them, but that didn't matter. She took their suckers away from my boy and girl, as 'nassy-nassy.' She felt their clothing and said it was too light. She told Bill he ought to write oftener to his mother-such a lovely mother. She reminded him playfully that if a man can't afford to give his wife a cook he ought to wipe the dishes. She stayed my hand when I was turning to his favorite radio program and said, 'you spoil him, dear.' She had brought a large casserole of noodles as an addition to our dinner, and was hurt when he didn't eat it. She put a rinsing pan on the sink and told me never to forget that little nicety. And every word to the children was admonition; 'little boys in Poland would love that nice pudding, little girls always say thank

"All the time she kept a running commentary on Dory's and Larry's families. They knew nothing of children. Dory's husband was penurious; Larry's wife was terribly extravagant. She had taken them the little Foster girls' outgrown coatspractically new - but Virginia had bought them other coats, just the same. Virginia packed a lunch every day for Larry, poor dear boy, to eat out of a paper bag! So Mother goes down three times a week to take a man of 34 to lunch, and tell him, no doubt, all through the meal, exactly what he and Jinny do wrong. She means so well! -- and we've all gotten so that the very sound of her voice on the telephone fills us with fear. What can we do about it?"

You can't do much, Gillian. It is up to Mother herself to do some-

Family Christmas Held in Germany

Christmas is a family affair in Germany and preparations begin well in advance of the holiday.

The Advent Wreath is hung on the first Sunday in Advent. This large wreath has one red candle to begin with: an additional candle is added each Sunday until Christmas and paper stars are added daily. The stars are inscribed with Bible passages which are memorized by ments making gifts for loved ones: perhaps a soap rose, a paperweight, toys for the younger children, an embroidered handkerchief or table cover: there are dozens of cookies and special cakes to be baked and everything must be finished the day before Christmas - stores and restaurants are closed, too-so that servants and tradespeople may spend Christmas Eve with their families.

After church services on Christmas Eve, one of the family goes into the parlor-where the Christmas tree has been set up and decorated with ornaments treasured from year to year. At the first notes of "O Tannebaum," the whole family rushes in and gathers around the tree; several familiar carols are sung, and then the presents are distributed.

Sometimes Christmann - Father asks each child to say a verse; correct recitations are awarded by with goodies and trinkets.

Fun at Dingley When they were all tired of blind-man's bluff, there was a great game at snap-dragon, and, when fingers enough were burned with that, and all the raisins gone, they sat logs to a substantial supper and a mighty bowl of wassail, something smaller than an ordinary washhouse copper, in which the hot apples were hissing and bubbling with a rich look, and a jolly sound that

"Our invariable custom," said Mr. Wardle. "Everybody sits down with us on Christmas Eve, as you see them now-servants and all; and here we wait till the clock strikes twelve to usher Christmas in, and while away the time with forfeits and old stories. Trundle by, rake up the fire."

Up flew the bright sparks myriads as the logs were stirred, and the deep, red blaze sent forth a rich glow that penetrated into the farthest corner of the room and cast its cheerful tint on every face.

"Come," said Wardle, "a songa Christmas song, give you one in default of a better."

"Bravo!" said Mr. Pickwick. "Fill up!" cried Wardle. "It will be two hours gone before you see the bottom of the bowl through the deep rich colour of the wassail; fill up all round, and now the song."-From Charles Dickens' "Pickwick

Smash the Pinata South of Border

Smashing the Pinata is a red-letter feature of Mexican Christmas festivities.

An earthen jar is filled with nuts, candies and small gifts. Elaborately disguised and decorated with tisa doll's face or an entire figureperhaps a bull fighter.

Children of the household, blindfolded and armed with a club, are each given three chances to break the Pinata. Inasmuch as the basic earthen jar has been selected because of its fragility, it shatters easily, releasing a shower of goodles and trinkets and causing everyone in the party to scramble for a

Periodic Leaflets on Plant Diseases

Farmers in Tuscola county will Christmas-joins the festivities and have an opportunity to receive periodic leaflets on plant diseases, according to an announcement by Christmann from pockets bulging county agricultural agent Norris W. Wilber. The series is called "Plant Disease Notes" and is put out by the botany and plant pathology department at Michigan State College. The series is pre-pared by John R. Vaughn, extension specialist in plant pathology.

The leaflets, which will be issued each month, will stress timely information on the control of plant down by the huge fire of blazing diseases and also acquaint readers with the research work, extension activities and teaching program of the department. Vaughn suggests that farmers keep each number of "Plant Disease Notes" in a folder as a handbook of information on Michigan plant diseases.

Agent Wilber advises that farmers who wish to be placed on the mailing list should write Dr. John R. Vaughn, Department of Michigan

> It will not suffice to blame the 'Administration" at Washington for the fact that we, as a nation, are pledged to defense all freedom loving people against the threat of an aggressor.

Let's look at the record. Michigan born Thomas E. Dewey, 1944 presidential nominee, is accepted today as the titular head of the national Republican On Nov. 5, Mr. Dewey party. took credit for inaugurating during the summer of 1944 the nations present bi-partisan foreign policy. We would prefer to defend freedom through the United Nations, but we are ready to do it by ourselves if necessary. That is why a Republican congress voted aid to Greece and Turkey.

"It has been well said that we are in a cold war," said Dewey. "We are in it for the simple reason we are being attacked by all means short of war. The attack is by the most violent form of propaganda, falsehood, political penetration and economic sabotage.

"The whole system of political and economic freedom for which our country stands is under attack by those who would establish a world-wide rule of a police state."

Dewey sees a "Ghastly Picture" as an alternative of sending further aid to Western Europe. If West-ern Europe and Asia were to be over-run by Communists, "we should find more than a billion people in an armed camp under the control of an aggressive dictatorship arrayed against us. "In terms of dollars, such a ondition would cost us in national defense alone, a great deal more than any program of aid to Europe, and it would cost us that annually for years to come. In terms of living standards we should sink to a level not seen by any living person in this country."

Dewey concludes: "We have only one choice and that is wisely to Botany and Plant Pathology, aid those who stand with us in the world in the hope that they will rise again as bulwarks of the institution of human freedom."

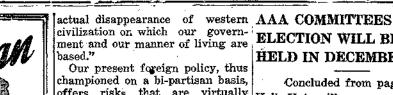

Senator Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, stated at Ann Arbor on Nov. 3 that he fully agreed with General George C. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Peter secretary of state, who described are to be left free to organize their Miss Lila M. Wood and Mr. existence in accordance with their selves this arbitrary power."

Vandenberg said he also agreed and Mrs. Peter Wood of Gagetown with Marshall's conclusion that the and the groom's parents are Mr. alternative risk of economic aid to Europe was "the danger of the

Our present foreign policy, thus championed on a bi-partisan basis, offers risks that are virtually frightening. Should we take these risks? Can we avoid the danger of war regardless of what path we choose? Every citizen should weigh the evidence carefully and prayerfully. There is no escape. The hour of decision is again near.
