"Healers" Depart with Fuel Money and Leave Ailment

Mrs. Hannah Fox, who resides 4 1/2 miles northeast of Cass City, was defrauded out of $165 last Thursday by two women who had called at her home with the promise to heal her of an ailment. The money had been saved from the sale of chickens and farm products to buy next winter's fuel supply for the Fox home.

One of the women said she needed to use Mrs. Fox's money temporarily in her healing art. The money which was carried in an envelope in Mrs. Fox's clothing was produced by the farmerette. Securing the loan of a cloth, the "healer" went through incantations and then supposedly pinned the money in the cloth to the inside of Mrs. Fox's garment with the admonition that it be left undisturbed until the next day.

When Mrs. Fox awoke at midnight, she became curious and decided to look at her money. All she found was an empty cloth. The money had disappeared.

State police have been searching for the "healers."

School Open—Walking, Driving—Take It Easy

With child deaths from auto accidents increased a third in the last year, Automobile Club of Michigan has sent out via 2,000 posters and as many letters a back-to-school warning to Michigan police chiefs, parents, teachers and children, "School Open—Walking or Driving—Take It Easy!"

Posters containing this heading and an illustration of school children crossing a street are being distributed to more than 2,000 parochial and public elementary schools in Michigan as the first of nine themes used yearly by schools cooperating with the Auto Club to cut down accidents to school children. First in a series of instructional booklets they'll get in the 1947-48 school year are now being distributed to 2,257 new safety patrol captains directing those who guard the welfare of 700,000 Michigan school children.

Pointing out that traffic deaths of children from five to 14 years old increased 33 per cent in Michigan during 1946, Ernest P. Davis, Auto Club safety and traffic director, made a special three-point plea to parents sending children to school for the first time.

"Pick the shortest and safest route from your home to school and back, considering both traffic and width of streets. Accompany your child to school the first few times. Teach him to look both ways and wait till it is safe before crossing the street," he said.

From Deford correspondent.

Enroute they crossed the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming. Many interesting sights were enjoyed by the group among which were the Grand Canyon, Grand Coulee Dam in Washington, Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming and the Glacier National Park in Montana.

In passing through the Rocky Mountains, their route reached an elevation of 10,940 feet and they played a game of snow ball, contrasting much from the boiling springs of water in a national park visited.

Several pictures were taken, among which was a large bear standing with paws in car window where they fed him some candy.

Cloud Atom Blast to Create Heavy Rain

Scientists Consider Chance of Causing Downpour.

WASHINGTON. — Scientists are weighing the possibility of exploding an atomic bomb in the midst of storm clouds to create a literal rain of death.

The advantage of this technique, experts studying the plan report, is that a city far inland could be drenched with radioactivity without the necessity of exploding a bomb under water, as was done in the Bikini experiments.

Until now, coastal cities or those near large rivers or lakes were the most probable targets for such type atomic bombing.

There is, however, a definite possibility that the very power and heat of the bomb might foil the plan.

Some scientists contend that a bomb exploded in a cloud bank might first blast the cloud away and then dissipate its moisture high into the air and away from the target.

But proponents of the idea say it would be necessary only to watch the drift of weather toward a target and select a day when rain clouds several thousand feet thick were floating overhead. Radar would pick up the target for the bombing plane, and the bomb would be exploded in the thick of the storm. Rain falling from the clouds would be poisoned with the deadly by-product of the bomb's explosion.

The use of radioactivity in this manner would be aside from previously reported plans for spraying a target area with radioactive material released from an airplane.

36 Factors Are Listed As Hazards in Shaving

NEW YORK.—A sharp blade is still the prime ingredient of a good shave, but there are 36 other factors that may combine to give you and your whiskers a rough time.

After studying shaving problems and techniques for more than 15 years at the Eversharp laboratories and those of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Edwidge J. Casselman says that if the time spent "cussing" razor blades were devoted instead to proper preparation of the face both tempers and chins would be smoother.

"Anyone can get a clean, painless shave if he'll just spend from three to five minutes preparing his face," the expert says. "The average man just slaps some lather on and starts shaving, probably within 30 seconds. He overlooks the fact that there are harsh, gritty particles lodged even in skins that appear clean and many of these particles are harder than razor steel. Naturally they dull the razor and cause pulling and scraping.

"In addition, unless oily deposits from the sebaceous glands are removed water cannot penetrate the hairs and soften them. This removal cannot take place without adequate preparation. As an indication, it takes three minutes for water to penetrate to the center of a hair six one-thousandths of an inch in diameter and hairs of this inch in diameter and hairs of this thickness are only 'medium-tough'."

Making up the 36 factors that influence shaving, in addition to the condition of the razor and blade, he said, are eight variables in connection with facial preparation, four involving shaving techniques, nine connected with day-to-day changes in the individual and 15 involving differences between individuals.

Muntz-Henry Rites Read in Evening

In a candlelight service Friday evening, Aug. 29, at eight o'clock at the Gagetown Methodist Church, Miss Joan Muntz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Muntz, of Cass City, and Mr. William Henry, son of Mrs. Maurice Henry, of Edmore, repeated vows in a double ring ceremony.

Rev. Paul Albery of Plainwell, Mich., performed the rites in a setting of palms and white gladioli.

Miss Jeanne Profit played the wedding march from Lohengrin and Roberta Guisbert sang "Because" and "I Love Thee."

Mrs. William Henry.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white slipper satin with a yoke of white lace trimmed with seed pearls, long pointed sleeves and full skirt extending into a circular train. Small satin covered buttons extended from the neck to the waist. Her headdress, an orange blossom tiara, held in place her finger tip veil. Her bouquet combined white roses and lilies of the valley. Her only jewelry was a string of Oriental pearls, a gift of the groom.

As maid of honor, Miss Al Argo, of Texarkana, Arkansas, previous roommate of the bride, was gowned in light aqua net over taffeta, fashioned very similar to that of the bride. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and lilies of the valley.

Harold A. Cook of Midland, friend of the groom, acted as best man. Seating the guests were Robt. Griffen of Pontiac and Louis Profit of Cass City.

Mrs. Muntz chose a navy blue crepe dress with which she wore blue and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Henry's dress was black crepe with black and white accessories. Her corsage was white roses.

A pre-wedding dinner for out-of-town guests and immediate family was served at the home of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlors at which the bride and groom received about 200 guests. A white fruit cake made by the bride and her aunt, Mrs. Steve Tesho, was served with ice cream.

Out-of-town guests were from Detroit, Pontiac, Romeo, Almont, Saginaw, Ann Arbor, Edmore, Mt. Pleasant, Algonac, Plainwell, Corning, Ohio, and Chicago, Ill.

The bride is a graduate of Cass City High School in 1943 and of Central Michigan College at Mt. Pleasant last June. She will teach the coming year in Hastings, Mich.

The groom is a graduate of Edmore High School and Central Michigan College. He served four years in the U. S. Army in the Pacific area and is now doing graduate work in the field of geology at Michigan State College.

When they left for a short trip, Mrs. Henry wore a gray gabardine suit with green alligator accessories. When the couple return, they will make their home in Lansing.

Up in the Hair

Your hair-do's go up with the temperature. Braids, worn coronet fashion around the head, are the big fashion—and very practical for swimming, too. Here are some hair-minded hints.

Beauty and the Bleach—Much as we disapprove, we feel obliged to report that some teen-agers are bleaching their bangs, just as you bleached streaks through your hair last year. And, did you know, that boys in Tulsa, Okla., call their bleached locks "Skunk Locks"?

Shaggy Dog Staff—Those pictures of Dorothy McGuire in her shaggy, straight hair-do must have made a big impression on you. But, didn't you stop to wonder how it would look on you before you took the fatal step. Wonder before you blunder, we always say.

Hair Do-Dads—You're wearing a silver barrette on each side, connected with a silver necklace chain that crosses your head like a band. You're stocking up on jeweled side combs from the dime store and wearing one on each side. You're hanging dog tags from your bobby pins.

Barrette Business—We hear that lots of you have made your own stretch barrettes by using a math protractor as the buckle and a pencil as the "stick." Well, if you can't carry figures in your head, carry them on it.

Make Gains in Help to Insane

Use of Electrical Current Found Efficient in Some Forms of Disease.

NEW YORK.—New advances in the treatment of split personality and some other forms of insanity were related to American Psychiatric association at its annual meeting.

Dr. Esther B. Tietz, Los Angeles psychiatrist, told of experiments with electroconvulsion, a means of maintaining unconsciousness by continued application of electrical current.

She reported 20 treatments had been given to 93 patients, and that of the schizophrenics—those with the split personality—18 out of 33 made complete recoveries. Nine were able to return home to more or less normal living; two were moderately improved, and two unimproved. The other two failed to finish the treatments.

In two years, Dr. Tietz said, there were no relapses in this particular group of patients.

All Showed Progress.

She reported that of 15 patients treated for depression, all made either a complete recovery or one sufficient to enable them to carry on in a socially acceptable manner.

Dr. Tietz said many of the so-called psychosomatic complaints disappeared. These include headache, gastro-intestinal upsets, heartbeat irregularity, migraine, asthma, vague pains, loss of appetite and insomnia.

Electroconvulsion, she said, may offer a short cut to treatment of such disorders.

Another advance was reported by Dr. William A. Horwitz and Dr. Luther B. Kalmowsky of New York State Psychiatric Institute and hospital, who told of combining insulin with electro-shock treatment for the best results.

Both types of treatment, they said, are of value in treating schizophrenia, but better results were obtained in the more serious cases by using the combined treatment.

They treated a group of 80 patients from 13 to 48 years of age between July, 1942, and January of this year.

Many Improved.

Immediately after treatment, the doctors reported, one patient was recovered; 21 much improved, 29 improved and 28 unimproved. After three months, there was one recovery, 17 much improved; 28 improved, and 40 unimproved.

The doctors said this "relatively poor proportion" of successful responses was not a measure of the efficacy of the treatment.

A later checkup, the period varying from six months to more than three years, showed 22 much improved, 14 improved and 42 unimproved. Those who were ill the longest before receiving the combined treatment showed the greatest tendency to relapse, they reported.

Army Must Develop Arctic Equipment

Test of Maneuvers in Alaska Demonstrate Need.

WASHINGTON.—The war department said that Alaska test maneuvers had proved the army must develop new equipment if it expects to be an efficient fighting force in frigid climates.

Summarizing findings of task forces "Williwaw" and "Frigid," which will return soon from bases on Adak and at Fairbanks, the department said the equipment included:

A light, portable shelter sturdy enough to stand heavy rain, fine snow and hurricane winds.

A motor oil which will not freeze at temperatures lower than 30 below zero.

Clothing which is warm without being too bulky to permit freedom of movement.

A tundra and mountain crossing vehicle which can carry personnel and supplies and is sturdy enough to need little maintenance.

A self-heating can for rations.

A different kind of tank from those used in temperate zones. The current Armored Cavalry Journal quotes Col. Paul V. Kane, who commanded "Frigid," as saying flatly that tanks are "thoroughly impractical in the arctic."

Critics of such armor say tanks quickly bog down in the soft Alaskan tundra, the rough Alaska terrain immobilizes them, the lubricants freeze and 60 degrees below zero seems to be the breaking point for their crews.

The account said Kane estimated a man lost his efficiency at the rate of 2 per cent for every degree under zero. One officer spent six hours in a tank at subzero temperatures and reported his efficiency at the end of the period as nil.

Maj. Myron Johnson, tank test officer of "Frigid," and Capt. George J. Skeets, commanding Company B of the 66th tank battalion, disagreed with Colonel Kane. They said the present tank could be modified to surmount Arctic conditions.

Minnesota Town's 30 Streets Named for Battlefield Heroes

APPLETON, MINN.—Thirty men from this small community died on battlefields during World War II, and the town's 30 streets and avenues have been renamed after them.

Citizens watched with lumps in their throats as old signs came down and new ones replaced them.

They were proud when old Mill street down through the business district became Private High Miles street, after a boy killed in the Pacific.

As they walked along the old Riverside avenue which now was Werring avenue, they remembered Leigh Werring and his brother Bert. Leigh Werring was an infantry captain, killed in the Pacific, and Bert was an infantry sergeant killed in Italy.

Veterans Buy Big Part of War Supplies, Officers Say

SAN FRANCISCO.—Ninety-one per cent of all merchandise in a recent $500,000 sale of surplus goods was purchased by veterans, War Assets administration announced.

Major items were maritime galley equipment, meat slicers, potato peelers, soap powders, linens and navigational instruments.

Figures released by WAA on another sale showed that the government recovered 19 per cent of the original cost. The sale covered merchandise which had an inventory price of more than $400,000 and included trucks and trailers, textiles, machinery and large quantities of scrap material.

Reds Holding Onto Secrets They Uncovered in Germany

WASHINGTON.—William C. Foster, undersecretary of commerce, testified that while the United States has made available to the world all German industrial secrets it has uncovered, Russia has declined to reciprocate.

Foster appeared before a senate appropriations subcommittee. He said that unless a $1,700,000 fund for operations of the office of technical services is restored to a pending money bill, Nazi technological secrets worth millions to American industry may be lost.

United States Returns

Loot Taken by Germans

FRANKFURT, GERMANY.—The United States shipped 25 million dollars worth of Nazi-hoarded Hungarian silver and art objects back to Budapest in a new gesture of friendship.

One hundred and 20 tons of silver—needed by Hungary to keep her economy on a sound basis—and 370 priceless cultural pieces were returned to the former enemy country under an agreement between the U. S. department and a Hungarian economic mission.

The precious cargo was en route to Hungary's capital city aboard a heavily armed U. S. army train, which reached Vienna after passing in almost total military secrecy across Germany and Austria.

Dutch Family of 13 Files

To a New Home and Life

NEW YORK.—The 13 Van der Dussens of Rotterdam, Netherlands, said to be the largest family to come to the United States by air, arrived at La Guardia field en route to California, where they will make their home.

"We want to find a good future for our children here," Mrs. Sybrand Van der Dussen said. "We intend to become American citizens."

Mrs. Van der Dussen and her husband decided shortly after the liberation of Holland that they wished to bring their family of 11 children to America, because they felt they would have a better chance here. They spent about $5,000 on the trip.

The children range in age from six months to 17 years.

Mrs. Van der Dussen, who spoke through an interpreter, said the family would join her husband's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Vanderham, at Bellflower, near Los Angeles, where they would operate a dairy farm. Van der Dussen was a dairy farmer in Holland. The Vanderhams came to the United States 26 years ago.

Ancient Culture of Indians

Found by University Party

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—Implementations of the ancient Hopewell Indian culture have been discovered by a University of Michigan excavating party.

Prof. James B. Griffin, director of the university's anthropology museum, said the Indian village site is in Illinois' Calhoun county.

The implements are approximately 800 years old, he said.

Find Blood Plasma Extract

PEORIA, ILL.—Effective treatment of measles with protein extracted from plasma was reported at a meeting of scientists here.

The treatment, also for other common diseases of man or beast, was described by Dr. Jules D. Porsche, Chicago research chemist, at a meeting of American Chemical society.

Take the Man out of Manure Handling

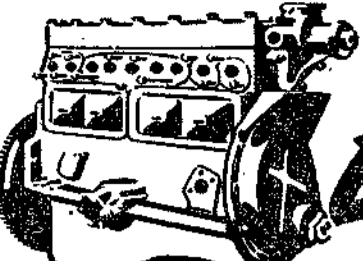

MANURE HANDLING is a great muscle builder for the farmer who has no other form of exercise. You know, farmers have plenty of tough, back-breaking chores, besides pitching litter out of the barn. Today, though, this time wasting labor can be a thing of the past, thanks to the electrically powered gutter cleaner.

Some barn cleaners work on an endless metal chain which runs in the gutter, removing litter by the conveyor principle. They clean the barn while you do the chores . . . needing no more than push-button attention for the entire operation. Driven by a small electric motor, and designed for any barn, this mechanically-simple device takes only a fraction of the time formerly needed by the pitchfork and wheelbarrow method.

The Farm Service Advisor at your nearest Edison office will be glad to give impartial advice on tested gutter cleaners. As a first step in mechanizing your barn cleaning, why not have him arrange for you to see one in operation? Talk with the owner and see for yourself how simple and inexpensive the chore of gutter cleaning can be when the man is taken out of manure handling.

Prevent Cannibalism
By Good Management

Keeping Chicks Active
Real Secret of Success

By W. J. DRYDEN

Chicks will seldom be cannibalistic if provided with proper brooder and range space, correct temperature and air control and a balanced ration, properly fed. They must be kept alert and active. Only the mistreated, sluggish chick will turn to cannibalism.

While the chicks must be comfortable, the temperature should be reduced gradually.

Use a good starting mash. There is no substitute for the best for starting baby chicks.

Baby chicks must be managed right to prevent cannibalism.

ing baby chicks. Give them all they will eat at all times and provide plenty of eating troughs. When the chicks are four to five weeks old they may be given grain, and made to scratch for it.

A good range and shelter should be provided. Pasture such as bluegrass, alfalfa or lespedeza will lower the feed cost and make the chickens take on economical gain. Swiss chard, kale, Chinese cabbage or rape may be planted and the leaves pulled and fed to the chicks. Alfalfa, clover or other grasses may be chopped and fed fresh, or alfalfa leaf meal utilized to aid in proper health and growth.

OAK BLUFF BREEZES

Once again we come to the end of the summer season here at the Bluff. Labor Day which has come and gone marks the end of the holiday season for a good many of the local cottage owners with the opening of school at hand. Labor Day is really a day of labor here for a good many of the cottages are really closed and fastened up for the year on this day. September is here once more with its warm bright days and cool nights when fireplaces are bright and cheery. September is a month full of tang and color. Neither summer nor autumn, it is a blend of both and has the sight, sound, taste and smell of ripeness and maturity. Apples redden and grapes turn purple, peaches are ripe, and the luscious Honey Rock melons for which Michigan is famous are now in the markets and roadside stands. You begin to look for bittersweet in the woods and cut over pasture lots. Sumac is agleam with its red clusters and the black alder, a brilliant glow of berries, yours for the picking to be used in pie or beverage. Soon you will see the smoke and smell the odor of burning leaves and then you will realize that the heat of August is past and autumn is just around the bend.

Warren Fry and Wilma returned to their cottage last week. Warren has had charge of a boys' camp all summer near Oxford. On Tuesday, Warren and Dr. McIntyre visited Charity Island in quest of black bass but from our viewpoint did not see many bass but they did return with several large perch.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hertel (Dorothy Holcomb) and son, Geoffrey, of East Lansing were Sunday visitors here.

Dr. and Mrs. Madigan of Saginaw, who occupied the Ketchum cottage during July, were here again Monday calling on acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Anderson of Bay City were holiday guests of Mr. Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ballard of Flint have been at their cottage for the past two weeks. Charles has a new Ford to replace the car badly damaged in his recent collision near Port Austin.

Mrs. J. D. Brooker, who has spent the past month with the Burkes, returned to Cass City Monday evening before leaving for Bay City for a week's visit at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James K. Brooker.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Todd and their house guest, Miss Dorothea McClelland, returned to Grosse Pte. Farms Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Margaret Tibbetts and daughter, Miss Jenette, of Royal Oak, spent a few days last week at the Knapp cottage.

This week saw all of our school teaching delegation leave for their respective schools—Mrs. Mulholland for Highland Park High, Miss Pearl Spinks for Denby High, Harold Stormzand for Cass Tech and Robt. Foster for Redford High. Warren Fry is also attached to one of the Detroit schools. Miss Spinks seldom returns after leaving but the others all drive back for pleasant week ends until cold weather.

Misses Laura and Eleanor Bigelow, Katie Crane, and Betty Agar of Cass City occupied the Knapp cottage Sunday and Monday.

This concludes the Oak Bluff Breezes column for this season. We have tried to give you the interesting events and happenings here as we have been able to gather them. Some may have been omitted because of lack of information but if so it has been unintentional. We realize that many of the items are interesting only to a few of the remaining persons who at some time were either members of the club or guests here but it is these various items interesting or otherwise that go to make up the local small town newspaper, and when everything is said and done, are perhaps as entertaining as the Palestine problem or the Balkan situation or the revolutions in Ecuador and Paraguay which rate plenty of headlines these troublesome days. This seems to have been a very pleasant and enjoyable season for all the club members and their guests, very few annoying things occurring to mar the peace and quietness of the place which is as it should be. Consideration for others makes this possible, and we trust this spirit will continue in the years to come. A happy and prosperous winter season to all and we hope to see you all again next year. Let's make it a date in '48.

BUILD FERTILITY

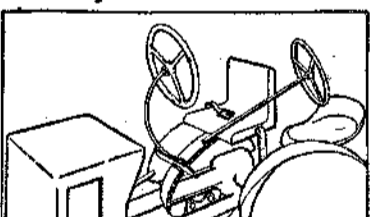

100 TONS OF MANURE

AFTER EXPOSURE TO WEATHER

Careless handling of manure causes serious losses of fertilizer and organic matter needed to help increase crop yields and rebuild soil structure.

One hundred tons of manure contains 25 tons of organic matter, 1,000 pounds of nitrogen, 200 pounds of phosphorus and 800 pounds of potash, one-half of it in the liquid part. Piled outside and exposed to rain and weather for several months, this 100 tons may shrink to 50 tons and lose half its fertility and organic matter. Losses may be reduced by using enough bedding to soak up all liquid manure, cleaning stalls frequently and hauling manure directly to fields, or storing carefully.

Baby Rides Tractor

Those who have youngsters who like to ride the tractor will be interested in this improvised baby seat designed by A. J. Matysus for the Lincoln foundation contest.

The seat consists of two auto leaf springs, pieces of one-inch round iron 24 inches long for stationary steering column and an obsolete steering wheel. The main leaves were bent in the forge and holes were punched to conform to the cultivator fittings and to give shock absorbing effect. The footrest was welded to the spring leaves. All work was done with 1/8-inch mild steel electrodes.

Thick Stand Helps in Boosting Corn Yield

Farmers who would boost their yields of corn should plant thicker stands than they ordinarily do, advises University of Kentucky. Improved soil and the use of hybrid corn seed makes it possible for most farmers to have thicker stands. About 10,000 stalks can be grown on better-than-average land, and 12,000 to 14,000 stalks on very fertile land with good moisture-holding capacity.

VETERANS NEWS

From the OFFICE OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS LANSING

Social Security Benefit Payments Due Survivors of World War II Veterans

Federal old age and survivors' insurance protection is available to families of qualified veterans of World War II for a period of three years following the veteran's discharge from the armed services.

In order for his survivors to be qualified, a veteran must:

(1) Have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable within four years and one day after the official end of World War II.

(2) Have served in the armed forces at some time on or after September 16, 1940, and before the official end of the war.

(3) Have had a least ninety days of active service, or have been discharged because of a disability incurred or aggravated while in service.

(4) Have died within three years of the date of his discharge.

The minimum monthly benefit under this amendment to a widow and one child is $39.14, paid monthly until the child is eighteen years of age. The maximum benefit to a widow with three children, or to four children alone, of a veteran with five years' service would be $65.10 a month.

Benefits like other old age and survivors' insurance benefits are payable only when claims for them have been filed, and are payable retroactively only for three months prior to the date of filing.

Social Security benefits are not payable in cases where compensation or pensions are payable by the Veterans Administration.

Survivors should contact the nearest Social Security Administration field office.

Sugar Beet Combines to Replace 1,800 Men

About 300 mechanical sugar beet harvesters will be used in Michigan and Ohio this fall, handling about 15 per cent of the crop, according to the September Sugar Beet Journal.

Approximately 170 new harvesters have been purchased by farmers this year, constituting an increase of 225 per cent since 1946. The recent gain in mechanical harvesting is labeled by the publication as one of the most remarkable trends in sugar beet production in many years, having started with one harvester in 1944, increasing to 14 in 1945, and 130 in 1946. This year one acre in every seven will be handled by machine, replacing about 1,800 beet workers.

The widespread acceptance of mechanical harvesting is attributed to its speed, ease and reduced costs. Under average conditions, 65 acres can be combined per season, labor requirements reduced 80 per cent, and costs slashed one-half.

The more acres harvested per season, and the higher the acreage yield, the less the cost per acre and per ton, the Journal says.

In addition to the monetary savings, there are other important factors in favor of mechanical harvesting, states the publication. The crop is taken out much more rapidly than when hand labor is used, resulting in a shorter harvesting period and more time for other farm operations; and there is no worry as to where the labor will be procured since the farmer and his help can do the job themselves, thus making them independent of contract labor.

Michigan Mirror

"Why doesn't the Upper Peninsula secede from Michigan and join the state of Wisconsin?"

C. W. Brown, publisher of a weekly newspaper at Oconomowoc, Wisconsin, taunted us with this inquiry. We happened to be members of a board of directors and were visiting together at the Commodore Hotel in New York City last June 29 and 30. He continued: "My friends in the Upper Peninsula tell us they are not getting a fair deal from Lansing and are forever being neglected. This area is right next to Wisconsin. Its people trade in Milwaukee and other cities. It is logical that they should be a part of Wisconsin, not Michigan."

We relate this conversation because our mail has been running heavy with clipped editorials and personal comment, most of them approving our observation that the U. P. is lagging behind the Lower Peninsula in state highways and state parks.

Harold Earle, president of Blaney Park, writes: "There is no question but that the development of the Upper Peninsula has been retarded by a lack of improved highways. . . . There is not much point in improvement of state parks until they are made accessible by good roads. Even our two main U. P. highways connecting the principal larger communities are not yet completed."

Mr. Earle adds: "All during the past week people stopping at Blaney Park have reported having to wait from two to four hours to get a boat either way between St. Ignace and Mackinaw City. Apparently, inadequacy of the ferry service is to become a common and chronic condition."

Frank J. Russell, Jr., editor of the Iron Mountain News and Marquette Mining Journal, observes: "With the exception of US-41 and US-2, the U. P. has nothing to boast about in the way of good roads. For the most part the network of secondary roads is pitifully inadequate and is a deterrent to tourist travel." He proposes an Upper Peninsula highway conference for coordinated, concerted action.

Linwood I. Noyes, editor of the Ironwood Daily Globe, suggests that Gogebic and Ontonagon counties "should work together, through their county and municipal governments, chambers of commerce and civic organizations, to get action from the state, particularly on the highway situation."

Mr. Noyes concludes: "If any additional proof of neglect of highways in the western part of the Upper Peninsula is needed, it is found in the fact that Ontonagon county is the only county in the
