The following facts and statistics oncerning the beet sugar industry, given the Chronicle by the Michigan have sent those legislators to Lansing Bureau of Labor will make interestng reading for our farmer readers. The sugar obtained from Michigan last season averaged above 14 per cent. On this basis from the above estimates, the output of sugar for the present season will aggregate 167.580, 000 pounds or 83,790 tons. Some of the experienced manufacturers estimate that there will be over 2,000,000 pounds of sugar made in Michigan

The growers of beets realized an average price of $5.03 per ton last year. This is certainly a handsome profit. It is thought that for the present season the price will average larger. The construction of these sugar plants is giving employment to a vast amount of labor, those employed being from the highest skilled mechanics, commanding large wages, to the ordinary laborer whose daily earnings average about $1.60. During the season of weeding and harvesting all the surplus help of the vicinity is required. This item alone brings thousands of dollars into families, providing the necessities of life and often furnishing luxuries not otherwise obtainable. The outlook for the continuation and increase of the industry in this state is most promising. It's a boon to every farming community where a factory is located, and every farmer in our community should hail the day when a factory is erected at

After reading the sugar trust artile in last weeks' Tuscola County Advertiser which sets forth the danger would be the most shameful mockery threatening the beet industry in a comprehensive way, the Chronicle, prompted by local conditions, communicated with Congressman Fordcause he yielded to a temptation that ney in regard to the matter. while in Washington recently I called upon the Secretary of Agriculture to get his opinion as to the liklihood of the sugar tariff being reduced. He assured me that no material reduction was likely, and by his talk I know that the beet sugar growers have a good friend in the right place."

The beet sugar people are not losing any sleep over this matter. The su gar trust with its millions will no doubt make a stubborn fight to have the tariff on sugar reduced, but con gress will see to it that the beet sugar industry which is now one of the most important in the land, will be fostered and protected. Henry J. Oxnard, president of the American Beet Sugar Association, says:

"The movement on the part of the sugar trust in selling its refined sugar material, and in the special market which is now reached to some extent by the beet sugar products, cannot but call down on the head of the trust sugar producers, but also of all the fair minded people in the country, and having done this they place themselves in an exceedingly poor position to go before congress and ask for the perpeto increase their capital stock to the extent of $15,000,000, to rivet their control of the raw cane product.

Millions Invested in Beet Sugar Plants.

VERY INTERESTING FIGURES.

The State Will Soon Lead in the Manufacture With Nineteen Plants-Sixty five Thousand Acres of Beets and Eightyfour Thousand Tons of Coal Required.

The beet sugar industry has and is growing to vast proportions in Michigan as shown by the State Labor Commissioner's report given out Friday. There are three factories at Bay City. one at Caro, one at Rochester, one at Alma, one at Kalamazoo, one at Benton Harbor, one at Holland and one at Marine City. The plants which will be in operation for the first time this season are located at Lansing, Saginaw and Salzburg. The plants that will go into operation next season are at Harbor Beach, Sebewaing, Mt. Clemens, Carrollton, Lapeer and Croswell. Companies have also been organized to build four new plants, two of which will be in Wayne county, one at Caseville and the other at Mt. Clemens. The thirteen plants which will operate in Michigan the present season have a capitalized stock of $4,400,000, an average of $338,462 each. The cost of construction and equipping these factories will aggregate $5,525,000, an average of $425,000 each. The six plants which will be completed for next season's work will have an aggregate capital stock of $2,150,000, an average of $358,333 each. The cost of their construction is estimated at an average of $550,000 each, an aggregate of $3,300,000. It is a conservative estimate that over $9,000,000 will have been invested in sugar plants in Michigan the coming senson. The thirteen factories which will be operated during the coming season will have an average daily capacity of 6,650 tons of beets. The six factories which will start next year will have a capacity of 3,600 tons daily, which will bring the aggregate capacity of Michigan factories to 10,850 tons of beets daily.

It is estimated that the thirteen factories to be operated this season will average ninety days each and together will require 598,500 tons of beets. The sugar obtained from Michigan beets last season averaged above 14 per cent, and on this basis the output of sugar for the season will be 167,580,000 bounds, or 83,790 tons. Experienced pounds, or 83,790 tons. Experienced manufacturers estimate that there will be over 200,000,000 pounds of sugar made in the state this year.

Attention is called to the fact that a large portion of the machinery used in the factories is now of American manufacture, and that the industry opens up other avenues for the employment of American capital and labor. A large amount of limestone is used in the purifying process, the average being about 2,100 tons for each factory during the season. A large portion of this stone is procured from the quarries near Alpena. About 85,000 tons of bituminous coal from Michigan mines will also be used.

A total of 65,000 acres of beets will be used this year, and farmers will receive an average of $5 per ton for the product of their farms. The operating force in the factories this season will aggregate about 2,400 persons. who are paid high wages. The amount of labor employed in weeding, thining and pulling the beets is very large. The future outlook for the industry is considered very bright. Farmers and beet growers are realizing handsomely

She Lost Her Life.

The body of Mrs. L. A. Seeley, the aeronaut known as Lillian Lefay, was found in the Illinois river, four miles west of La Salle, Ill., and will be sent Mich., for burial. Seven days ago Mrs. Seeley ascended from one of the principal streets in LaSalle. The ascension was made at dusk in a brisk wind. The balloon rose rapidly and pursued a southward course toward the river. The parachute leap was made and the spectators considered that the aeronaut would land safely beyond the river. Several men, in cluding her husband, were detailed to meet the aeronaut and return with her and the parachute. At midnight an alarm to the effect that the aeronaut was lost was spread, in response to which 500 men and boys turned out and a general hunt was instituted. For three days and nights the river valley and the hills south of it were searched in vain. Believing his wife had landed in safety, Seeley gave it as his opinion that she was abducted. This was generally believed until the finding of the body.

This is Tough. Two resident hunters reported meeting a wild man in the woods near the headwaters of the Deer river, about fourteen miles from Crystal Falls. They got within thirty feet of the place where he was eating the carcass of a dead skunk. He snarled at them, then bounded off into the woods. He carried a piece of a gun barrel and tent pole, and from utterances of "Public," "Public," it is thought he is from Republic. A posse left to search

The Royal Oak Mystery Solve.

Later developments tend to show that the body found in the woods near Royal Oak is that of Mrs. Christopher Huss and that she was last seen in the company of Henry Wiseman, who is now an inmate of the State Prison. While the evidence is circumstantial, it seems very strong against him. Mrs. Huss at the time wore tan shoes and Mrs. Frank Marvin, of Wayne, says that Mrs. Wiseman had no shoes, but just before she moved from Royal Oak she found a pair of tan shoes in the house which her husband said belonged to Ida Williams and requested that they be put away. The tan shoes were the same size as worn by Mrs. Huss. My daughter, said Mrs. Marvin, was very easily influenced by Wiseman, and she did as she was request-Ida Williams was a woman that had been living in the house with my daughter. My daughter needed the shoes badly and she wore them for a long time afterwards. Ida Williams moved away at that time to Pennsylvania.

Two weeks after the disappearance of Mrs. Huss, and after Wiseman had shown Mrs. Huss where she could buy some wood, Wiseman was working with his father-in-law in a sawmill at Grass Lake. One day Wiseman suddenly announced that he had had a gold ring stolen from him. Later he said perhaps he had lost it, and a search was made by several of the men, who found the ring and gave it back to Wiseman.
"Why, it's a woman's gold ring," exclaimed Frank Marvin, Wiseman's ather-in-law. "Where did you get

"I found it," replied Wiseman hesitatingly; "I found it on the western boulevard in Detroit. Two weeks ago, when I rode over from Royal Oak to Wayne, I got off my wheel and picked up this ring on the road."

When Marvin was told that Wiseman had denied accompanying Mrs. Huss to the woods, where the bedy was recently found, he reiterated his statement that Wiseman did so. "My object in going to see my son-in-law was to get him to go to work with me in a sawmill," said Marvin. "I had broached the subject to him when the woman came along. They went away together, and just as they did so the Birmingham car, which I was anxious to take to get back home, came along I let it pass without me. When the next car came along and Wiseman had not returned, I got on it and did not see him again until a day or two afterwards."

Marvin also said that in discussing the incident of Mrs. Huss' disappearance later, when the papers were printing long stories about the case, he remarked to his wife: "If anything has happened to that woman I wouldn't be in Henry Wiseman's shoes for a good deal, after having been seen going into the woods with her."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Marvin continue to assert that Wiseman told them that Mrs. Huss talked about the beauty of the woods, its suitability for pienics and about her troubles with her husband. And this in spite of Wiseman's denial that he went into the woods with the woman or that he talked with her any more than merely to direct

Mrs. Edward Tremper, who now lives about two miles south of Royal Oak, remembers Mrs. Huss distinctly as she was a neighbor of the Huss woman in Royal Oak a year ago. "I remember that she wore one gold ring. It had no stone in it, but had a lot of little square marks on it," she said, "She used to wear that ring all the time, but whenever she was going to wash dishes she would remove it." When the ring was shown Mrs. Tremper she exclaimed: "That is just like it. It had little square marks on it just like that. I feel that could swear on the witness stand that that ring is the same ring Mrs. Huss wore." Mrs. Tremper also said: "She used to wear on the ribbon around her neck a safety pin with several little red beads on it. I remember them very distinctly because it seemed such a funny way to make a clasp pin just to take a safety pin and put the beads on it." Exactly such a pin was found on the body.

Lacey, of Niles, Arrested. W. K. Lacey, the aged president of the defunct First National bank of Niles, was arrested Saturday at his palatial home on a warrant issued under indictment issued by the federal grand jury. Mr. Lacey was taken to Grand Rapids and arraigned before Judge Wanty. He had no attorney present, and absolutely refused to talk of his case. The indictment contained two counts, one defrauding and abetting in the making of false entries in the First National bank stock, and the other for falsifying reports to the comptroller of the currency. Mr. Lacey is 61 years of age.

They Are Indicted. Indictments have been returned by the federal grand jury, in Grand Rapids, against City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury and Stilson V. MacLeod, former paying teller of the Old National bank and manager of the local clearing house. MacLeod was indicted on several counts charging violation of the United States banking law, and in connection with the issuing of a worthless certificate of deposit, and Salsbury is charged with being an accomplice. Bail in the cases of Salsbury and Mac-Leod was fixed at $7,500 each.

Mrs. Thomas Lynn, of Port Huron, is in a precarious condition as a result of an assault made Thursday afternoon by two men, who came to the house selling spectacles, and crowded hteir way in. One of them choked and held Mrs. Lynn, while the other ransacked the place, securing $35 in money and other articles. The little village of Augusta, Kalamazoo county, is unfortunate. A few years since fires destroyed the entire business portion of the place, and last week the box and basket factory, the only manufacturing industry in the place, was burned, throwing forty persons out of work. The fact that the plant will not be rebuilt makes the situation still more discouraging. The making of shoes is now an important industry at Menominee, a new plant employing 125 persons having just begun operations. The present output is 600 pairs per day, which number will be shortly doubled, Cecil Rhodes Very III. Cecil Rhodes, whose part in politics and empire-making is vividly recalled by the Schnadhorst letters, is living almost absolutely alone at a quiet London hotel, on a diet and with the attentions of a man who is seriously ill. There is no doubt that he is suffering from heart disease and is no longer the robust man of former times; yet he never missed a day last week at the office of the British Chartered South African Company, burying himself in details and conducting long, tedious meetings without complaint or mention of his ill-health. After these duties, however, in the quiet of the hotel, he seems to become almost a wreck, "like a man liable to go off at any moment,' as one of his few visitors said on coming out from his room.

Good Apaches.

Surprising progress towards the ositors of the defunct First National goal of self-support by the Apache prisoners of war is recorded in a report by Capt. Sayre, in charge of those prisoners. He shows that they now have on hand 2,784 head of cattle of their own raising, that they have built many miles of new fences and repaired as much more of the old and that no clothing was issued to them during the year. On the other hand, these Indians are suffering severely from tuberculosis, contracted by them while in captivity in Florida and there were thirteen more deaths than births among them. They are declared to be generally a moral, industrious, truthful, honest and docile people.

Rear Admiral Sampson.

Rear-Admiral Sampson, who is now sojourning in Washington, is profiting by the daily care and attention of one of the best local physicians. Admiral Sampson will retire next February, at 62 years of age.

More War Ships.

It is probable that a liberal building policy with respect to naval ships will be urged upon congress at the approaching session. No authorization for new construction was given by congress at the last session, owing, in part, to a disagreement as to the prospective merits of single and superposed turrets. Congress contented itself with a direction to the navy department to submit full plans for two battleships and two armored cruisers to it at the approaching session, so that the body could itself choose between the de signs.

The police of Waukesha, Wis., have revived the stocks of colonial days for the benefit of tramps who refuse to work out their sentences. Four Lives Lost. Except that the father will not sur-

The Peters family consisted of Joseph Peters, Anna, his wife; Christopher, aged 12; Mabel, aged 7, and Gertrude, aged 4. They retired as usual Tuesday night, all occupying a room upstairs, and some time afterward Mrs. Peters was aroused by the crackling of flames. She rushed down stairs to find the kitchen nearly consumed, and shouted for help, then attempted to return to awaken her husband and children, but the stairway was a mass of flames, and she could not reach her loved ones, although badly burned in the effort. In despair she called to her husband, who awakened and spent some time in an effort to find and save the little ones. In this he failed, and finally, crazed with pain from his burns, he sprang headlong through the cear window, his face an unrecognizable blister, his arms and chest literaly cooked, and one leg burned so badly that it was drawn up to his body. In his agony he begged the bystanders to kill him.

CHAPLER XVI.-(Continued.) Lola looked at Lord Chugmough in 4 onsternation.

"Is he dead?" she cried. "No! He cannot-he must not die!' "He is dead," said Lord Chugmough, sorrowfully.

"Oh, what did he mean? What did he try to say? Could you hear more than I?' They moved away from the dead

"He-well, he made a remarkable statement," said Lord Chugmough, looking puzzled. "He said you had died, you know.' "Oh, he must have been wandering.

Death had sent him that relief—the relief of unconsciousness-before the end," she said.

"I do not think so," replied Lord Chugmough. "If ever there was a conscious and rational dying man, he was. I cannot fathom the meaning of what he said, but he knew; of that I am sure. One thing he did say that was plain enough. Your Arthur Medworth, thinking you were dead, has gone off with another girl in a boat." "Oh, I cannot believe that," she said. "And why should he believe I was

The Englishman examined him, and found that he was seriously wounded. "Look here, my fine fellow," he said, "your wound is a bad one, but with a little bandaging and a little care you will be all right. If you will tell me the truth about this thing, I will fix you up and let you go. If you don't, I'll put another bullet into you and make a better job of it. Do you under-

"Si, senor," was the reply. "How much do you know about this rascality?"

"The fight, senor?" "No. I know a little about the fight myself. But about this fellow Mattazudo, and the old Indian, and the senorita."

"The beautiful senorita," said the Zambo, grinning, "has many lovers." "Oh, I see you do know something. Now tell me, how was the senorita

"It is an old trick, senor," he said. king-But my wound, senor-it bleeds. I will tell the truth—all I know—but while I am speaking I bleed to death."

"I'll fix you up," said Lord Chugmough, at once beginning to bind up the wounds in a piece of William's shirt. "Go on; you had got as far as the king."

"The senorita has many lovers, senor. Philip loved her, and wanted to and wanted her for his wife. Mattazudo looked upon her pretty face, and swore he would have her for himself. called in to see her and cure her. Mattazudo saw Namampa first, and promised him much gold if he would get the senorita away without any one knowing it. Namampa first cured her of her fever, and then gave her a drug that stops the heart for a number of hours. They all thought she was dead, and she was buried. That night Namampa returned to the grave and dug her up and took her to his house, where he gave her another drug that brought her to her senses again and brought her up here to escape the rushing waters. You were here and kept the senorita. Namampa saw Mattazudo and told him the senorita was here, but said nothing about you. Mattazudo came here, and you threw him out. You were very strong, senor. Then he came for us. We attacked you; you beat us. But beware, senor! Mattazudo was not wounded. He has hundreds of men under his command who will do his bidding. He will return with plenty of men. You will be killed, and the senorita will fall into his hands again."

"Is there no way to get her to the castle under her father's protection?" A gesture of dissent from Lola made

"It is best," he said in English. "You do not know where Medworth

"There is no way, senor," said the Zambo. "Mattazudo's men are all around, and would not let you reach the castle. You are safer here. But if you will pay me well, I will tell Don Juan Garza when I return, and he will send a force to recover his daughter." Lord Chugmough looked thoughtfully at Lola. "It seems to be the only thing to do," he said.

"First tell me," she said to the Zambo, "do you know anything of the other American?"

"No, senorita; I know nothing. The Americans escaped, and no one knew where they went."

Arthur thought I was dead, and having no reason for remaining here longer, has assisted the family of the republican General to a place of safety.

"The senorita says," said Lord Chugmough to the Zambo, "that she will thank you to go at once to her father and tell him she is here, and have him come to rescue her. I will pay you well-after I see the face of Don Juan. I don't pay in advance for services in this country, but if you do your errand well, the pay will be

"An honest man-when it pays him well to be one," said Lord Chugmough, watching the retreating figure.

CHAPTER XXVII.

A Summary of Events. In the meantime our friends on the Island of the Clouds were making themselves as comfortable as circumstances would admit and awaiting their rescue which is to take place as soon as the waters recede.

The wounded Zambo becomes fearful and in order to save his own life goes to the nearest plantation, which is that of Pedro Francisco, where he met Sir Galloping Grace and the other members of the party from whom Lord Chugmough and other members of his party had become separated before the storm. He arrives just in time to tell the story of Lord Chugmough's ad-

This is welcome information for Sir Galloping Grace, who subsequently starts in pursuit. They depart for Bolivar expecting to find Lord Chugmough and William with the yacht Cheerway but find a desolated scene instead. The Cheerway had been released from its moorings by the sailing master just at the height of the storm, floating down toward the Isle of the Clouds, where it lodges as the storm subsides and is taken possession of by Arthur Medworth and the wife and daughter of Salvarez. In the meantime Gen. Mattazudo gets together a commando and attempts to rescue Lola from Lord Chugmough. The lawless passions of Mattazudo did much that day to prevent the making of history. With the fair country south of the Orinoco already in his grasp, Philip had a brilliant prospect Import the certainty of s before nin throne. But God in his wisdom ruled otherwise, and Mattazudo was the creamake her his queen. Gomez loved her, ture chosen by Him to undo all that Gomez and Don Juan by their executive ability and organizing power had done. As the half-breed, at the head She was ill, and old Namampa was of his cut-throat gang, climbed up Carib Hill, he saw Pedro Francisco, at the head of his men, coming up the slope in another direction.

The half-breed hurled curses and defiance in the same breath, and Francisco laughed to think how he had outwitted Mattazudo,

Francisco was nearest the stone ruin, out of which several English heads were looking, greatly alarmed at the sudden appearance of the enemy. "Bah Jove!" said Sir Galloping

Grace, "we are attacked by overwhelming numbers." "We must beat them off," said Lord Chugmough, quietly. "Beat them off! That's like you. Chugmough," said Viscount Elsmere.

"But see how many there are." "We are Englishmen. Don't forget that." said Lord Chugmough. But now a new surprise was given to the English party. Francisco, who had got within a hundred feet of the ruin, paid absolutely no attention to the persons inside, but lifted his hat in the air, and and nothing can drive them away as uttered a shout of triumph at Mattazudo. "You are too late, you half-breed cur!" he yelled. "She is mine! She is mine!" Mattazudo replied with curses and a rifle shot. Francisco's right arm fell useless at his side. "At them!" he yelled. "Kill the curs! Down with them!"

An answering cheer came from his men, and a volley or rifle shots awoke the echoes around the old stone ruin. "Bah Jove!" said Sir Galloping Grace. "They are not fighting us, after all. They are fighting each other.'

When the day's fighting was done the dead on the field included Mattazudo, Francisco, Gomez and Philip. Don Juan joined his daughter and Lord Chugmough's party. . .

CHAPTER XXVIII.

How It All Ended. It has already been seen how the redoubtable sailing master of the yacht Cheerway pulled up anchor and retreated before the rushing flood, thereby saving Lord Chugmough a good many thousand pounds, and probably the lives of the crew as well.

And it is also known that when Sir bers of Lord Chugmough's party Francisco's hospitable plantation, the Cheerway was already plowing the waters of the subsiding Orinoco to regain her deserted anchorage off Boli-"They, too, escaped. Nothing has

Now and then Captain Glover raised a pair of glasses to his eyes and swept the verdure-clad shore, noting the many-colored flowers, which certainly must have bloomed since the storm, for they could not have lived through

"Ah," he said to himself, giving a characteristic grunt at the same time, 'now I know where I am. I remember that mountain. Now, that's a queer place for a mountain. captain continued to study the bold outlines and lofty eminence of the mountain that had attracted him. which was no other than the Island of the Clouds, which has already played a not unimportant part in the history of some of our friends.

And smiling at his own joke the

Every minute brought the rapid yacht nearer to the mountain, and after an hour or so Captain Glover raised the glass again to take another and closer survey.

The same day he rescued Dona Maria, Jacinta and their American protector and the Cheerway bore them up the Amazon to Bolivar. In due time the yacht arrived at Bolivar, and Medworth, seeing no soldiers of Philip near, made bold to request to be sent ashore that he might make inquiries concerning Castle Salvarez, and also put in a few sly questions to see if Jack Tempest was anywhere about.

The information he received on shore fairly staggered him with a mixed emotion-part joy, part grief. Everybody in Bolivar knew all about the battle on Carib Hill, and Medworth listened with beating heart to the story of the supposed death of Lola Garza, the crafty treachery of Namampa, the meeting of Namampa and Lola with Lord Chugmough on Carib Hill. the subsequent attack by Mattazudo. and the final misunderstanding which resulted in the total annihilation of both wings of Philip's army. He also heard with sorrow of the heroism and death of his old comrade, and the joy over the knowledge that Lola was alive and well was tempered with grief over the death of his loyal friend.

Tons of accumulated rubbish were cleared away, and after about a month's work the spring was found. The excavators discovered behind some fallen rocks an old aqueduct running away into the valley of the Kedron, and into this aqueduct the beautiful, cool, clear water had run and been wasting for years.-Sunday Companion.

Fish Are Like Moths. Two Yale students have discovered that electric light is the best bait for fishing. As a result of this discovery the fishing industry promises to be revolutionized. It has been found that the rays of an electric light under the water hypnotize the denizens of the deep. When they see the rays they flock to them like a moth to a flame, long as the light shines. If it is turned off they scamper away in all directions. A company has been formed which proposes to enter into the capture of fish by electric light upon an extensive scale.-Kansas City Journal.

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

We want to send to every sufferer a trial treatment of Asthmalene, similar to the one that cured Mr. Wells. We'll send it by mail POSTPAID, ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE, to any sufferer who will write for it, even on a postal. Never mind, though you are despairing, however bad your case, Asthmalene will relieve and cure. The worse your case, the more glad we are to send it. Do not delay. Write at once, addressing DR. TAFT BROS, MEDICINE CO., 79 East 130th St., N. Y. City. Sold by all DrugHas what you want for cold weather at a right price. . .

PAN=AMERICAN

THEN Superintendent Converse promised a better series of live stock shows at the Pan-American Exposition than was ever before attempted, the statement was accepted as an ordi-geration. The complete success of the dog and the swine shows, however, proved to be the first steps toward redeeming his promise.

nary pleasant and pardonable exag-

The cattle show was an agreeable surprise to every stockman who saw it and at once established a new standard of excellence that will not be equaled for years to come and possibly never surpassed as regards quality.

The sheep show, now fully under way and lasting to Oct. 25, is in every way a worthy successor to the dog, the swine and the cattle shows. an exhibit of 240 Angora goats. These interesting animals fill one of the live stock pavilions. The growing of Angora goats is a comparatively new business in this country, and very little is known about it in the east. Their adaptability to rough, rocky pasture lands, where they graze and grow contentedly, has brought them prominently into consideration where such lands have proved useless or nearly so.

In connection with the sheep show is Shearing Machinery. Still another accessory to the slicep industry is elaborately illustrated. In me of the stock buildings a platform was erected about three feet above the floor, upon which is installed the latest and best shearing and clipping machinery. Some of the machines are operated by electricity, while others are worked by hand. To show to Exposition visitors their practical working, twenty sheep are brought from the East Buffalo stockyards every morning. One machine is set in motion each half hour during the day, and one of the men in charge removes a fleece with it. One of the operators claims a speed of one and one-half minutes to a

Dame Fashion may have withdrawn her smile of approval and the different styles of autos turn their backs in derision, but the horse still holds favor with the great majority of mankind. The horse show at the Exposition which holds the boards for two weeks, from Oct. 7 to Oct. 19, will be no exception. Five hundred horses are coming which are carefully selected to faithfully represent the best of every breed found in the United States and Canada. Vermont is again courting prominence by sending a fine lot of Morgan horses, a breed that should receive are entered more as a special feature of the horse show. They are little known in the United States, but their style and endurance will commend them as superior coach horses and those that will command favor in any market.

Instead of enumerating the different breeds it is only necessary to select any kind of horse wanted, with the assurance that it will be on exhibition. The finest stables on the continent are contributing to the show with sufficient enthusiasm to insure the finest representation possible. The judging takes place in the Stadium on the 9th and 10th of October, when this immense structure will be none too large to accommodate those who will want to see this crowning climax to such an elaborate series of live stock shows.

Rockefeller's Private Wire. John D. Rockefeller occasionally uses the long-distance telephone when away from his New York office, but not for important business. For such purposes he never uses the mails. There is a private wire from the office to his mansion at Forest hill, Ohio, and the Standard Oil millionaire, when at the latter point, transacts business just as though he were in New York. He never writes a message, but talks to a trusted and reliable operator.

The sheep king of Australia is Samuel McCaughney, an Irishman, who went to Australia in 1856 with practically nothing. He did not succeed well at first, but started again with a small flock and from year to year has added to his holdings, until now he has more sheep than any other man in the world. He has more acres of land than sheep, and his possessions are in the best parts of Australia. One of his farms, on the Darling downs, is thirty-six miles long and forty miles wide. Altogether he owns more than 1,000,000 acres, and leases about 1,000,000 more.

NIGHT SCENES IN GREATER CITIES.

Warns the Unwary Visitors from the Country - From Isalah XXI: 11, "Watchman, What of the Night"-The Hour of Great Temptation.

[Copyright, 1901, by Louis Klopsch, N. Y.] Washington, Oct. 13.-In this discourse Dr. Talmage describes some of the scenes to be witnessed late at night in the great cities, and warns the unwary of many perils; text, Isaiah, xxi, 11, "Watchman, what of the night?"

When night came down on Babylon, Nineveh and Jerusalem they needed careful watching; otherwise the incendiary's torch might have been thrust into the very heart of the metropolitan splendor, or enemies, marching from the hills, might have forced the gates. All night long, on top of the wall and in front of the gates, might be heard the measured step of the watchman on his solitary beat. Silence hung in the air, save as some passerby raised the step. Look about you, lest you feel the question, "Watchman, what of the garroter's hug. Look through the bronight?"

It is to me a deeply suggestive and see. You say, "Nothing." Then lissolemn thing to see a man standing ten. What is it? "God help us!" No guard by night. The Early Watch.

I never weary of looking upon the life of the city in the first watch. That is the hour when the stores are closing. The laboring men, having quitted the scaffolding and the shop, are on their way home. It rejoices me to give them my seat in the city car. They have stood and hammered away all day. Their feet are weary. They are exhausted with the tug of work. They are mostly cheerful. With appetites sharpened on the swift turner's wheel and the carpenter's whetstone they seek the evening meal. The clerks, too, have broken away from the counmother or wife or child. The streets are thronged with young men setting out from the great centers of bargain making. Let idlers clear the street earned their bread and are now on their way home to get it. The lights in full jet hang over 10,000 evening repasts-the parents at either end of the table, the children between. Thank God, "who setteth the solitary in families." A few hours later and all the places

The ballroom is or your coat tighter, for the cold wind resplendent with the rich apparel of sweeps through. those who, on either side of the white, glistening boards, await the signal from the orchestra. Concert halls are lifted into enchantment with the warble of one songstress or swept out on a sea of tumultuous feeling by the with all splendor of manner; mirrors are catching up and multiplying the scene, until it seems as if in infinite corridors there were garlanded troops advancing and retreating. The outdoor air rings with laughter and with the moving to and fro of thousands on the great promenades. The dashing span, adrip with the foam of the long country ride, rushes past as you halt at the curbstone. Mirth, revelry, beauty, fashion, magnificence, mingle in the great metropolitan picture until the thinking man goes home to think more seriously, and the praying man to pray more earnestly. A beautiful and overwhelming thing is the city in the first and second watches of the night.

Third Watch of the Night. But the clock strikes 12 and the third watch has begun. The thunder of the city has rolled out of the air. The slightest sounds cut the night with such distinctness as to attract your attention. The tinkling of the bell of the street car in the distance and the baying of the dog. The stamp of a horse in the next street. The slam-

Stories of Chelsea's Dead.

In Chelsea, in an old rectory that stands in the shadow of a mulberry tree planted by Queen Elizabeth, there lives a fine old minister, the Rev. Dr. Blount, who was the personal friend of the great men who have made Chelsea famous. He knew Carlyle well, and told a visitor recently that he and the great but irascible sage went to see Westminster one day. Carlyle was impressed with the bu service aroused him to sniffs and snorts of contempt, and he summed up his feelings by saying: "As for being buried in it, I should demand a general jail delivery first before I'd lay my bones there." Dr. Blount remembers Rossetti well and tells this rather wicked anecdote of him. "Poor Rossetti!" he says. "When his wife died he cast a volume of unpublished poems into her grave, and it was buried with her. But later the argument of his friends as to the loss which the world suffered thereby induced him to have the poems dug up again."-New York Press.

The Sequel to a Put Out,

A game of ball could not possibly arrive at a more exciting crisis than this one between the "Dewey" nine and the "Schley" nine. It was the final half of the ninth inning, with of the oyster are held together by a the "Schleys" at the bat. The score was nine to eight. Two players were out. Perry Price was dancing around third base, and Harry Hughes was hovering near second. Amid a pandemonium of shouting, George Grant came to the plate. He rubbed his palms vigorously on the earth and firmly grasped the willow. The pitcher girded himself afresh. The catcher crouched close behind the bat. Twice flew the whizzing sphere, while George struck in vain; but his third effort animal to close its shell. Others tell caught the ball fairly, and to the right field it winged its flight.

Like a flash, almost, the batter sped to first, while Perry came tearing down the home stretch like a flyer on the rail. But a wonderful thing occurred. Out yonder in right deployed Fritz Fossler, the fat, slow, good-natured boy who never did anything scarcely at a faster than snail's pace. Now, however, the good angel that presided over the Dewey destinies seemed to have infused speed into his whole being. The ball came to the home plate with incredible speed, and while Perry's hand was reaching for the goal in a mighty head-first slide, the catcher touched him out.

To lose the game so nearly won was too much for Perry's self-control and from its shell, digesting it in its own he raged against the umpire, Clark Carr, applying to the latter the stock epithet of "robber." Now, Clark, was eminently quick, fair and firm, and so far in this game, and in fact, in all games before, his decisions had given excellent satisfaction.

The umpire remained calm amid the tempest, merely saying, during a brief lull, that Perry would be sorry for his anger and his words. Soon the nines gathered their outfits and left the field in regret at the unpleasant ending of an otherwise fine game.

A week passed and Perry remained sulky and distant towards Clark. The second Saturday following, a swimming excursion had been arranged, and at evening a dozer boys, among them the two named, went to a deep pool where a crib of logs had been built to protect the bank from the teeth of the flood when the spring freshets ran. Quickly disrobing, one after another, the boys ran out on the strong plank that projected from the top log of the crib, and, leaping out, went head foremost into the stream, vanishing from sight to reappear on the far side of the pool; then swimming about a while they returned for another dive and swim.

Clark had been first off, and Perry came last. As the latter stood on the plank end he cried: "Boys, I'll dive deeper and come up farther away than any of you. Watch me do it." Then he leaped high and disappeared beneath the surface.

The boys, seated on the crib, watched to see Perry make good his boast. The moments passed, and he did not come up.

Suddenly Clark Carr sprang to his feet with a gasp: "Boys," he cried, "he's fast under the old log;" instantly the rescuer leaped from the plank and disappeared where Perry had vanished. As Clark, swimming under water, opened his eyes, his fears became a Perry looked at Clark with wondering eyes; then held out his hand. 'You told me that I would be sorry for abusing you, Clark," he said, "and I am. Will you forgive me?"

The offered hand was quickly taken. "Don't mention it, Perry, I never laid it up against you, anyhow."

Thus came to pass the pleasant sequel of a put-out on an umpire's close decision.—The American Boy.

Starfish and Oyster. How the starfish eats an oyster is the United States.

told by H. W. Conn in St. Nicholas for July. The oyster when at home lives in a hard lime shell which nicely protects him from the attack of enemies. Man, with his tools, can open the shell and remove the soft animal, but besides man the oyster has few foes. Oddly enough, his greatest foe is not, as might be expected, an animal with powerful jaws and strong teeth, but one wholly without jaws. It is the common starfish, so common everywhere at the seashore. Now, the starfish is a soft, flexible creature, very sluggish, seemingly helpless, and utterly unable to attack such an animal as the oyster. Its mouth, which is in the center of the disk, has no teeth or jaws. How can such a helpless creature open the formidable oyster shell, and get at the animal concealed within?

Its method of doing so is odd enough. It first clasps the oyster in its arms, wrapping its five arms around the shell tightly. Having thus seized the oyster, it quietly waits. Just exactly do not exactly know. The two shells hinge which is opened by a spring. The spring is so adjusted that the shells will be pushed open unless they are held together by the muscles. Some scientists tell us that, after the the oyster opens its shell in order to get food, and the starfish that has state of Texas, and won't answer any been waiting for this, now injects into the shell a little reddish liquid. This first mortgage holders on the same acts a poison, paralyzing the muscles and thus making it impossible for the us that the process is simpler, and that the starfish simply holds the shell tightly together until the oyster is smothered. As soon as it is stupefied by the suffocation, the muscles relax, and the shell opens.

true, it is certain that after a little ranged Kidneys added its tortures to Whichever of these two accounts is the oyster shells fly open. Now comes the oddest feature of all. The stomach of the starfish is very large and elastic, and it is now thrown out of the animal's mouth much as one would turn a bag inside out. This stomach is then thrust within the oyster-shell, and wrapped around the soft animal, beginning at once to digest it. The starfish does not take the trouble even to remove the oyster home, and eventually crawling away, leaving behind the gaping, empty

The Task in the Philippines.

Conditions in the Philippine Islands as seen through British eyes are pictured in a report of the British Consul at Manila, which has just reached the Treasury Bureau of Statistics. It

"The gigantic nature of the task before the United States authorities in these islands is probably not understood in the United Kingdom. The group has an area of 114,000 square miles (about four-fifths of that of the United Kingdom). The islands are very scattered, the extreme north and south being about 2,000 miles apart. They are about 600 in number, though only 11 are of any size or importance.

"The population is variously estimated at from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000. To reduce this huge tract of land and water to subjection the Americans have at the time of writing some 60,000 troops and a small naval force. The smallness of the latter and the lack of light draught vessels make it very hard to watch the coasts of the islands, and the natives on being driven from one are able to escape to another and recommence operations. The natives are in great measure badly armed and unskilled in the use of firearms, but are sufficiently well led to avoid general engagements, and confine themselves to attacks on the lines of communication. At the same time they have a system of secret agents all over the archipelago who manage in various ways to collect junds for their war chest. Manila itself, as recent arrests have shown, being their best hunting ground. "The configuration of the islands is very much in favor of the guerrilla warfare carried on by the natives. Steep volcanic ranges, large swamps and forests, along wit. a deficiency of roads, all tend to make the movement head beneath it. Stunned and held have made great progress. Posts have more. been established all over the islands. expeditions against any considerable burden to the surface called for help. force of natives coming together in their neighborhood with the result of a very large and constantly increasing total of killed and wounded on the native side at small cost to the American forces. Owing, however, to the fact that the peaceful cultivator of one day can by digging up his weapons become the truculent bandit of the next. traveling is not encouraged. The deportation of leading rebels to Guam, one of the Ladrone Islands, and especially of the Manila contingent, who although not actually in arms were directing and financing operations, has had a very salutary effect, especially as deportation was coupled with confiscation of property. "A 'Federal' party has been formed to propagate pro-American opinions among the natives in which the native judges and other officials are taking a leading part. Native provincial governments are in course of organization in the more pacified districts. Whether they will be a success or not is problematical. American schools are being established all over the islands, the staff of which are brought over from

WOMEN AS INVESTORS.

Their Nervousness About Securities Causes the Brokers Much Trouble. Two women had $1,000 to invest, and after talking to a broker for two solid hours bought a government bond because it was safe. Next day they sold it because it paid very little interest and bought gas stock. That evening some friend alarmed them by saying that if the gas works blew up stock wouldn't be worth anything, so they returned to the broker and swapped for railway stock, which they returned to him next day because the railways might go into the trust and stock wouldn't pay any dividends. Yes, they bought Suspension Bridge bonds at 2:10 p. m. and were on hand at 6:30 a. m. next day to sell them. Hadn't slept all night. Had just heard about the Brooklyn bridge. "Suppose a tornado should blow our bridge over, medicine for coughs and colds—1 Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1900 what security would be left?" For bridge bonds they secured an upper county bond, and actually kept from worry for a whole week. Then they swooped down on the poor broker and what happens next even our scientists | had him sell them. He gave up his clients. Then came a fine looking gentleman named Adams, from Dallas, Texas, who wanted to borrow $1,000 at 10 per cent on his big ranch, and would pay interest in advance. The women trusted him, and now learn that there are worse investments than starfish has held the oyster for a while, gas, bridge, street and governments. Adams boards at the expense of the

LAING & JANES

AN INTERESTING ADDRESS.

Last Sunday evening the congregaago to join her brother who has been 100 votes and 25 cents, 50 votes. in America some time. This young lady speaks the English language marvelously well considering the very short time she has been in this country. She had had some training in the mission schools of Armenia but not enough to form sentences in English. Miss Boyajian, without a doubt, shows remarkable ability and talents yet partially undeveloped. She gave a very vivid description of the persecution of the Armenians by the Turks through their efforts to force them into the Mohammedan faith. Her own family were taken prisoners at one time but by bribing the guards they succeeded in freeing themselves. A particular incident was given which happened right in her own neighborhood when an Ar menian minister who had been converted to the christian religion was holding his meeting in a Methodist church. During the services a body of soldiers entered, taking the ministerby force and inflicted the most horrible tortures, such as cutting off the arms, cutting off a portion of the tongue and destroying the eyes, in their determination to force him into the Mohammedan faith. Failing in this they turned and slaughtered the whole congregation of five hundred, men, women and children.

The object of the brother and sister in giving entertainments and lectures at different places is to secure the necessary means to take them through college. The brother has been at Yale college for the past two years and Miss Boyajian will enter Albion college next January. After two years in college they expect to return to Armenia as missionaries. But they say they expect to return to America with the remaining members of their family in the future. On Wednesday evening, Mr. and Miss Boyajian gave a delightful entertainment at the M. E. church. The toms of the Armenians, illustrations of how the Turks pray and four diffin Armenia. In the wedding performance they were assisted by sever-

An Opportunity FOR A FAVORED FEW

We have a most excellent opportunity for two bright, active, young men, and also for two companionable young ladies to work for their b and and room while taking a course in this college.

Many of our best students are working for their board, and some of the most successful young people are those who have worked for their board.

If you wish an education and have not sufficient means to procure it, you should write to us at once.

This opportunity will not go begging.
