

Tri-County Chronicle

F. KLUMP, PROP.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

For governor— AARON T. BLISS, of Saginaw. For lieutenant governor— ALEX. MAITLAND, of Marquette.

CONGRESSIONAL TICKET.

For Congress, eighth district— Joseph M. Fordney, of Saginaw.

The President chose the Fourth of July as the opportunity for three addresses. Needless to say they were the embodiments of patriotism.

The fact that the balance in the state treasury last week amounted to $3,806,883, the largest in the history of the state, is sufficient proof that the present administration is doing business on business principles.

Our friends on the other side are looking for an issue. They need not worry, the issue is looking for them.

There is the right ring in the platform recently adapted by the Republican State convention.

The squabble among the free silver Democrats in regards to who should be their candidate for Governor is golden.

ORANGEMEN'S CELEBRATION.

with a bitter denunciation of Romanism. "I'd rather see my daughter dead and buried than to have her marry a Catholic!" he thundered.

Rev. Blackburn, of the Vassar M. E. church, gave the concluding address of the day.

Kingston is indeed fortunate in counting among its business enterprises the line grocery and bakery line of Threehouse & Anderson, which gives every promise of yielding handsome returns to its enterprising managers.

A happy half hour was devoted to story telling, during which the audience was kept in paroxysms of laughter, and then the meeting was adjourned for supper. At eight o'clock the last excursion train left Vassar, bearing with it a multitude of tired but happy excursionists and leaving the hospitable little village to peace and quiet.

SNAP SHOTS FROM THE CELEBRATION.

It is stated that 2,700 excursion tickets were sold at Port Huron on the 12th.

About 75 excursionists from Cass City took in the celebration at Vassar last Saturday.

The ladies of the M. E. church at Vassar served meals to over a thousand people last Saturday.

One Preston, a Vassar saloon keeper, was relieved of $1,500 by a "light fingered gentleman" during the afternoon of the Orangemen's celebration.

In a saloon brawl at the Orangemen's celebration a man had his ear chewed in a most vicious manner by another beast of the same species.

Many farmers living in the Thumb took advantage of the drought last Saturday for a day at the Vassar celebration. You can't celebrate in the rain, and—well, neither can you make hay, but celebrate by all means!

The P. O. & N. neglected to make adequate preparation for the excursionists between Caseville and Clifford, having only one coach beside a baggage car for the accommodation of passengers.

When the train was crowded before it reached Cass City, and the hundreds which boarded it at stations below Cass City were compelled to ride as best they could.

KINGSTON IS A LIVE TOWN.

1861, while Mrs. Anderson was born Sept. 14, 1856. The family moved to Marshall, Mich., about 1864. Seven years later the family came to Tuscola County, and purchased a farm three and one-half miles northeast of Mayville where the father and mother still reside.

Mrs. Anderson was married in 1870, and moved with her husband two years later to Canada where they remained eighteen months, after which they moved to Saginaw.

Four years later they returned to Mayville where Mr. Anderson worked for five years upon the railroad. After a year's residence in Clio, they moved upon a farm eight and one-half miles south of Cass City.

It was while living upon this farm that Mr. Anderson met his death through poisoning. One year ago last June he ate some wild parsnips thinking they were spignet, and after three hours of suffering he died.

The firm of Threehouse & Anderson have introduced a novel advertising scheme. With every cash account amounting to $25, they give free of cost a handsome wood engraved rocking chair.

Mr. Smith was born in Fremont Township, Tuscola County, November 14, 1867, and spent the years of his young manhood upon a farm near Kingston.

He married Miss Newman of Kingston in 1898. In February of '01 he started in his present place of business which has enjoyed a steady growth since the start.

Mr. Smith is a quiet, unassuming individual, but for all that he is one of Kingston's best citizens, and takes a lively interest in every improvement that tends toward the betterment of the village.

Andrew Millikin is Kingston's candidate for sheriff. The citizens of Kingston stand solid for him, and he can count on a strong following throughout the county.

Geo. E. Hopps has recently completed his fine new hardware and implement emporium, which is one of the largest in this section of the country.

Besides a full line of heavy and shelf hardware, he carries a complete line of carriages as well as farm machinery of all kinds.
