MUSIC ENLIVENED THE OCCASION Jas. MacArthur Proves Himself Efficient in the Preparation of an In-

The morning session of the Farmers' Institute failed to materialize last Saturday for several reasons. In the afternoon, a fair sized audience consisting mainly of farmers, listened to most interesting program. Some of the numbers which were to have been given in the morning were listened to. Rev. L. V. Soldan, in the absence of Rev. M. W. Gifford, gave the invocation. John McCracken of Deford followed with a well prepared paper "The Farmer at the Tail End of the Line.' He said that aithough the ideas expressed might border on politics he did not wish to arouse a political discussion. To illustrate the position of the farmer in commercial circles he compared him to the boy so unfortunate as to be the last one in the game of "Crack the whip." The merchants and business men line up with the farmer as the dupe at the end. The dealers put the prices on the articles of commerce and the men who raise the crops have no voice in the matter. He spoke of farm machinery and the prices the farmer was compelled to pay for it, both the throw of each other for the past six manufacturer and the agent reaping a big profit from his sales. He also compared two tax receipts, one of which was given fifty years ago on Mr. McArthur showed his good sense farm property in St. Clair county, the other given in 1903 on property in the old scotch cart, by wagon like Tuscola county. The properties were putting the small wheels in front, about the same value but the first tax when he called on the mossback paper was $1.54, the latter $26.03. CASS CITY, MICH., FRIDAY, JAN. 22, 1904.

The institute was a success in every way and the local manager. Jas. Mac-Arthur, certainly deserves much credit for the good program he was instrumental in arranging for the benefit of all who attended.

Some things that we learned and noticed at the Farmers' Institute: January 16, 1904, was a wintry day ing Michigan and the farmers had been invited to Cass City on that date to tell what they did know and learn many things they didn't know connected with farming. Among the rest we found ourselves there. Jas. McArthur, the local manager of the affair, had spared no pains in trying to make the Institute a success, but the owners of the opera house had neglected to get up in season and heat the room, etc., which almost ruffled Mack's patience and entirely snuffed the light of the forenoon session.

At 1:30 in the afternoon a goodly number of the tillers of the soil were on hand when Mr. McArthur called the meeting to order. Rev. Gifford of M. There was no mail received in Cass City last Saturday, train No. 1 in charge of Conductor Wickware and Engineer Parks, being delayed until Sunday afternoon. No difficulty was experienced until the train reached Legg's crossing, which is about a mile south of Wilmot. There a car was taken from the side track on to the main track where it stuck in the snow which was about four feet deep, and it was impossible to get out until Sunday afternoon. The passengers, consisting of two ladies and five gentleman, did not suffer for food as news agent Maybe, who has the reputation as caterer, provided in part for their wants. The rest of the necessary provisions was secured at near by farm houses. The ladies secured sleeping accomodations at a farm house nearby and the men remained in the car, while gelical church as proxy, and right H. L. Vincent, station agent at Owendale, who happened to be among the passengers, acted as night watch. Wm. Grigware and a number of other men drove to Wilmot Saturday afternoon and assisted in getting the train out of the drift. The engineer and fireman experienced a rather rough time of it and when the train reached Cass City Sunday afternoon they were nearly "bushed". Train No. 4 left Pontiae at 5:15 Sunday afternoon and reached Cass City in the evening, leaving here for Caseville at 4 a. m. Monday. Trains have been hampered more or less ever since. The P. talks were very beneficial inasmuch as they were given from years of hard labor and experience. The liveliest discussion of the day followed.

W. C. Sanson, who resides south of

Kingston, gave the wittiest speech of the day. He spoke on the "Tillage and Rotation of Crops." He related his experience in Virginia with the growing of clover and other products. He said the reason why plants required so much cultivation is that they have been given so much attention and care while weeds which have become hardy, do not require it. He also spoke of the fertility of the soil and how to retain it. Mr. Cannon. who is a dairyman, then took up the subject of "The Dairy Herd and Its Care." He said that a farmer can keep twelve dairy cows and make a profit. He claims that a dual purpose cow is not so successful. The dairy cow should be kept clean, which is of first importance: then the food and water are often neglected. The animal should be given a liberal supply of salt and not be allowed to drink ice water, spring water being preferable. The animal should be given kind treatment. At the conclusion Mr. Cannon was asked which breed of cattle was the most successful for dairy purposes and replied that a man should keep the animals of the breed

I could not but be deeply moved by the spirit and the words in which it is tendered. You have given me heart and courage by your greeting. Already I have invitations to three semi-centennial celebrations next summer, but the occasion of the founding of the Republican party was a momentous occasion, so rour invitation stands alone and apart from the others. I must consult some friends about my plans and will let you know my decision at an early date."

"I have for several years suffered at times with heart trouble. I got so bad I could not sleep half the night, and had to sit up on the side of the bed lots of times to get breath. Three of my brothers have died of heart trouble, and I thought I was going the same way, but about two and a half years ago I got a pamphlet about Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and thought I would try a few bottles. After using them I recovered, and have had better health since then than before for several years. I can heartily recommend them for heart trouble."—REV.
