The Great Fire Stone.

Buried under the leaves somewhere is the claim of Miss Clarissa Shaw of Sault Ste. Marie. It was discovered by her father in 1866 and has not been disturbed since that date. Miss Shaw is known throughout the upper peninsula as the Indian medicine woman For years she has ministered to the sick, giving patients compounds of It is rumored that a fugitive never barks and berries and roots such as

Her father, Thomas Shaw, lived in Sault Ste. Marie half a century ago, long before the settlement had reached the dignity of a village. He was prominent in the early Methodist church and a mixture of Scotch blood flowed in his veins.

In the summer of 1866, while wandering through the woods near what is now known as Brimley, he saw a where a child gets its badness, but brilliant light flashing in the sun. He beheld a ball of fire a foot in diameter, according to Miss Shaw, and when he investigated the find he learned that it was what the Indians called a fire stone. The rays of light that flashed in the sun were of all the colors of the rainbow and it was almost blinding in its brilliancy. He tossed it into the bushes and buried it under the leaves, so that no one would discover

> "My father was afraid I would marry a white man and that he would desert me," said Miss Shaw when asked to tell her story. "He took me to the place in the woods where the fire stone was and pointed out the spot where I could find it if I ever needed the money it would bring. Then we came away and a few years after he

> "What my father feared would happen did take place. I married a white man and he deserted me. Then I got a divorce But I have never sold the diamond, for it seems sacred to me.

"Almost every year I go to the spot in the woods out of respect to the memory of my father, but I do not disturb the stone. It lies where he left it over fifty years ago. I do not intend to sell it, because I do not believe it would be right."

The woman will not tell the exact location of the spot, but says she will lead one to the place if they desire to make the trip.

"Avenging Angels."

After being out many hours, the jury in the Hudson "avenging angels" case late Friday night returned a verdict of guilty of assault and battery, and recommended leniency on the part of the court. Judge Chester accepted the recognizance of the four prisoners. John and Frank Dillon and Clifford and Alfred Barrett, and suspended sentence for the present.

The verdict was a big surprise, as it had been figured that the long deliberation meant a disagreement. One of the jurors stated that the jury did not doubt that the defendants did the things charged against them, but there was no evidence of it except the words of Mrs. Post and her former husband, and their testimony was not given much weight.

Needs Correction.

Fred Johnson, the 13-year-old slayer of Willie DeLong, aged 9, of Benton Harbor, who has been released after an investigation conducted by the coroner, is said to be defiant and to show no remorse for his careless act when he pointed a revolver at Willie's heart, asked whether it would go off, and snapped the trigger. He is said to be annoying Mrs. DeLong, and unless he is sent away from the city, she may take steps to have him committed to the reform school.

Judge Carpenter III.

Judge W. L. Carpenter, of Detroit, justice of the supreme court, has gone to Alma and will take a long course of treatment at the Alma sanitarium. He is suffering from a nervous breakdown and his health is very poor. He was told by his attending physician that he will have to give up Lansing duties, temporarily, to re-

Child's Horrible Death.

Immersion in a caldron of boiling beans was the horrible fate of Peter Meyers a 7-year-old boy, while playing in a slaughter house near his home in Jackson. He died in agony soon after being taken to his home. Little Peter, in company with another playmate, entered the slaughter house after school. The caldron with the boiling beans being cooked for hogs stood almost flush with the floor. In some manner Peter slipped and fell in. His companion ran quickly to his rescue and pulled him out. Carrying Peter on his back, he hurried to Peter's home, where a physician was summoned. The doctor expressed the belief that he would be able to save the boy's life, but the lad expired half

About 375,000 bushels of peaches were shipped from Grand Rapids during the season. The crop was about 50 per cent of the early estimate owing to rains at the ripening season. M. J. Murphy, of Detroit, has accept-

THE WAR IS OVER, PEACE

TREATY NOW FOR-

MALLY RATIFIED.

THE CZAR'S INVITATION TO A PEACE PARLEY ACCEPT-ED BY ROOSEVELT.

THE DISBANDMENT OF THE VAT-ICAN GUARDS IS POPE'S DESIRE.

Peace Treaty Signed.

The emperor of Russia and the em-Japan Saturday morning peror signed their respective copies of the peace treaty, thus officially ending the war. A few minutes after noon Minister Takahira appeared at the state department with a message stating that the emperor of Japan had signed the treaty at Tokio. A cablegram was immediately dispatched to Spencer Eddy, charge of the American embassy at St. Petersburg, who was instructed to inform the Russian foreign office that the emperor of Japan had performed his part, and so both copies of the treaty having been duly signed, and each of the great nations lately engaged in hostilities having been officially informed of the fact, the Russo-Japanese war which began February 3, 1904, with the attack by Togo's fleet ipon the Russian ships at Port Arthur, erminated officially Saturday, October Another Peace Parley.

The state department has made pubic the invitation of the Russian government to a second conference at The Hague and the president's response. These take the shape of two memoranda. The first memorandum is a mere recital of the opportuneness of another conference with the promise to submit a detailed program by Russia when the congress meets. president's memorandum is a hearty acceptance of the invitation and di rects attention to the fact that his previous circulars to the powers appear to be precisely in line with the Russian papers. The last memorandum was delivered to Baron Rosen Thursday night for transmission to St.

Does Not Like Display.

The vatican guards are to be disbanded owing to the pope's aversion to military display. The date of the disbanding has not yet been decided upon, but meanwhile for the first time in the history of the vatican furloughs have been granted, and Conte Camilio Pecci, commander of the guards, has for reasons of economy, decided to suppress the service entirely during the holidays.

Tired of Governing.

Luke E. Wright, governor general of the Philippines and president of the commission, will retire about December. He is expected to arrive in the United States during that month, and is entitled to six months' leave of absence prior to the formal relinquishment of his labors. It is understood that he expects to return to Nashville, Tenn., to resume the practice of law. President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft, it is believed, practically have decided upon the successor to Gen. Wright, but no intimation has been permitted to become public as to his identity. It can be stated reasonably definitely that Gen. Wright's successor will not be a man now connected with the commission.

Against Cuba's Interests.

Information from Cuba that there ls growing dissatisfaction there with the terms of the proposed Anglo-Cuban treaty has developed the fact that the Washington government thorough ly appreciates the reasons of the Cuban people for objecting to the treaty. The official view is that the treaty is distinctly disadvantageous to Cuba in that it precludes that country from renewing with the United States her reciprocity treaty which under the present arrangement is effective only for five years. The Anglo-Cuban treaty, it is pointed out, gives practically no benefits to Cuba and shuts her off from receiving advantageous treatment at the hands of the United States.

Peoria, III., Financiers.

The grand jury has returned a true bill against Oliver J. Bailey, chairman of the finance committee of the Peoria school board, holding him on the charge of malfeasance in office, in "permitting Newton C. Dougherty to misappropriate and unlawfully convert to his own use school moneys." The indictment has caused a big sensation in Peoria. Mr. Bailey is one of the wealthiest men in this city, president of the Dime Savings bank, a director in the Central National bank and an officer in many other financial institu tions. Forty-three additional indict ments were also returned against Dougherty for embezzlement and forgery.

Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., associate stat istician in the department of agricul ture, is alleged to have pocketed $25, 017 as his share of a $200,000 cotton report leak bribery plot.

Charles Robinson has tendered his resignation to the Morrice council of the offices of street commissioner, city marshal, constable and treasurer, to become a rural mail carrier.

Admiral Dewey says disaster is bound to overtake the navy in event of war if younger men are not given command of warships.

It is reported in Tokio that Russia will station 300,000 troops on the Chinese frontier, after peace has been declared, partly because she is apprehensive of the soldiers joining the malcontents at home and partly intimidation of the Chinese.

INDICTED TWENTY.

The United States grand jury, sitting in Detroit, Thursday morning returned indictments against 20 persons 10 of which indictments are suppress ed by the federal authorities. The indictments which are given out are as follows: Thomas H. Ferris, Bay City, making counterfeit coins. Ferris is now in jail at Bay City and his case will be taken up by the court next week. James A. Dudley, postmaster at Harrison, Clare county, charged with embezzling postal revenue. He is in County Fair Wiped Out.

While the races at the Crawford county, Ohio, county fair this afternoon were on, the grand stand was discovered to be on fire. A panic followed the first announcement. Spectators in the grand stand rushed for the exit and soon blocked the only passage to safety. Excited women, children and men leaped over the front of the stand upon the track, 12 feet and many were injured.

Those who left the grand stand last were badly burned, as the big pine building went like tinder. Within three minutes after the fire was discovered the stand was wrapped in flames. The fire was caught up by a stiff breeze and was driven across the grounds, communicating from building to build-

A Narrow Escape.

In a wild runaway dash an Illinois Central fast mail train that left Chicago for the south at 2:30 a.m. narrowly escaped wreck and destruction at Grand Crossing. The engineer, Frank A. Not until the destruction of the rain was imminent was his condition discovered, and the wild flight of the fast mail brought to an end by Rugg's

There were over 6,000 desertions from the United States army last year. A new plan of identifying recruits is to be adopted that will make it practically impossible for deserters to deceive recruiting officers. It is a combination of the Bertillon system and the sketch plan. By some it is proposed that every recruit for the army when finally sworn in be photographed. For purposes of identification of men who are wounded or killed in the Philippines or any other distant foreign service, such photographs would often be of value to the war department and to relatives of men about whom inquiries are made.

It is believed here that he will introduce a bill for the modification of the Chinese exclusion laws. Senator Elkins is now apparently beginning where the president and Secretaries Root and Taft stopped. The president and these two secretaries went as far as possible in amending "regulations," which amendments were a sop to the anti-American sentiment in Canton and Shanghai. Further requests for modification were refused, it is understood, after a cabinet meeting was held on the subject. It is apparent to Senator Elkins that there can be no change, indirectly or directly, in Chinese exclusion, no matter what kind of treaty be made. The statute laws will be supreme. Senator Elkins's attitude, however, for modification is interesting and shows where the fight is to be made.

The woman who claims to be his first wife, Norma, 19 years old, and Emily, 20 years old, who says she is the second Mrs. Benicker, told the police that a third wife was now living in Lowell, Mass., and that they two, while still ignorant of each other's relation to Benicker, were persuaded by him that the Lowell girl was his sister. They said they had both supplied the money which recently sent her back to Lowell.

The woman who says she is the first wife, Norma Benicker, told the police that after her husband left her and went to housekeeping with a second wife in Eighteenth street, she herself moved to the same house without knowing that Bernicker was maintaining another wife there.

The writ of ejectment was served. Seven days intervened, and a writ of summons followed. Mr. Hamilton agreed to recognize at the first term of the Supreme Court, and he engaged whose reputation by many was considered to equal that of Morley &

The claimant case was one of the first presented. It was to be tried by jury, and the chief justice and four associate judges were all in the court room when the case was called. The principals sat with their counsel, Mrs. Hamilton and her uncle together in the audience.

plaintiff in something like the following words:

"It is my purpose to narrate as briefly as possible the main facts upon which the plaintiff relies in support of his claim to the estate fraudulently withheld from him by his brother, Victor Hamilton. To you, gentlemen of the jury, has devolved the task of re-establishment, of returning to the enjoyments of his home and the honors of his position, my unhappy client.

"You all know the plaintiff as well as I do. It was this man who lived among you more than a dozen years, and all that time held a responsible place in the community.

Mr. Morley then broached the subject of the plaintiff's mysterious yearly absence as the result of his promise to a dying mother to seek for his twin brother supposed by all but her to have died soon after he was stolen. "The child was snatched from his cradle by unknown hands, hidden away where no search could find him. Two years of anxious seeking, and the poor mother nearly frantic all this time! Then an anonymous letter was received, stating that the curious colored hair, more green than anything else, and by this the plaintiff recognized her as Lenora, his brother's wife, who was described by the papers to have such hair. So when she spoke to him as if she the counsel of Stone & Ferguson, knew him, he at once concluded that she took him for his brother, her husband. 'You here!' she said. The plaintiff assured her that he did not know her, when she said, 'Oh, I forgot.' This woman was registered as Mrs. Anderson, Newark, N. J.; but the name was no doubt assumed, for she let out to a table girl named Mary O'Neil that her name was Lenora.

"All this makes it evident that Lenora expected to meet her husband, Mr. Morley opened the case for the | but not in Grovedale, for she was surprised when she thought she saw him coming. This argues a strong resemblance on the part of the twin brothers, and which we know existed. When Mr. Hamilton recognized her, as he did by her emerald hair, he asked her if he might talk with her, and mentioned that he was intending to take the next train for Portland. The woman appeared puzzled, but replied readily enough that she would talk with him on the train. "What does this prove but that she still supposed he was her husband, and that from prudent motives he did not wish her to recognize him on the street? I shall prove to you that her husband, Victor Hamilton, otherwise Ashley, was a fugitive from justice, and his wife's caution was needful not to bring detection upon her husband, whom unexpectedly she supposed she had met in Grovedale when she thought he was safe in Canada. In her first excitement she forgot her caution, but from that time was prudent. In proof of this wrong conclusion regarding the identity of her husband she took the train south instead of the one north. Why did she do this? Simply to travel with her hus-stolen. As time wore on and no trace of the child could be found, all but the mother gave up. Meanwhile, Mr. Hamilton, the father lost the greater part of his property, and after a time, as I have said, the search for the child was given up as unavailing. And the mother at last acquiesced. But on her deathbed she solemnly charged her son to seek for his brother. 'Take two weeks of every year,' she said; 'you will then have fifty left for yourself.' He promised. gave him a ring with the words in trust engraved inside. Many people have seen the ring. It is now worn by the defendant, whom we claim is Victor Hamilton. If so, the ring belongs to him.

"Now for the proof of the plaintiff's statement in the deposition of the nurse, Hannah Sargent, who confessed that it was she who wrote the anonymous letter saying that the child had died soon after being stolen, for the purpose of easing the mind of her former mistress, whom she had often heard say that she should feel better to know her son as Vane Hamilton, the plaintiff, by was dead than living in the midst of evil associates.

"After his mother's death, Vane Hamilton, the plaintiff, set out on his sacred quest. It was in the month of May, the time set by his dying mother. Seven periods of search followed. the plaintiff in the last two getting upon the track of his long-lost brother. He was led into strange places and haunts, if not of crime, of bad reputation until by degrees he became convinced that his brother was no other than Ashley, the notorious bank defaulter, at this time a fugitive from justice. He also learned that this man had a wife named Lenora, or Nora. Thus far his knowledge advanced up to the period of his seventh journey. Mrs. Hamilton would testify that her husband was greatly disturbed in his mind previous to going away; so much so that she tried to detain him. He was very thin; his weight was twenty pounds less than usual; he had little appetite, and was exceedingly nervous. "The result of all this overwork and mental disturbance was soon to manifest itself. But first he was met and accosted by a young and handsome woman, who came out of the Essex house to speak to him. She had

child had died a month after it was | band, as she supposed him to be, and learn his plans. "My client remembers vaguely that he saw her on the train and talked with her, but recollects nothing that was said, for it was at this time that his mind became eclipsed. What followed. The woman, doubtless convinced of her mistake, left the train at Mechanic Falls and went north to join her husband at Coaticoke. Mr. Hamilton went on his way to Port land. Conductor Libby testifies that he saw him at the Portland depot, but after that lost sight of him. "Now comes in the testimony of a commercial traveler, named George Barnstead. His testimony is of so astounding a nature that it needs to be well authenticated and vouched for, as it is in this instance. Barnstead is of an active, alert nature, and little goes on under his gaze without notice. "And this was what he observed at Portland depot, where he loitered for some time, expecting to meet another runner named Hurd. He saw a man-whom he has since recognized his photograph—standing irresolutely by himself, traveling bag in hand and dressed as Mr. Hamilton was dressed when he left Grovedale. there in the same attitude for at least two minutes. He appeared to be troubled in his mind, Mr. Barnstead thought. At the expiration of the two minutes, more or less, another man entered and looked at Mr. Hamilton as if deeply astonished, literally as if he could not keep his eyes off. He was a man of about Mr. Hamilton's height, with long, dark whiskers and dark hair. In some respects he resembled Mr. Hamilton, particularly about the eyes. He looked at him so intently, walking away and then returning as if about to accost him, that he was observed at last by the subject of his scrutiny, who, to Mr. Barnstead's surprise, walked up close to the man and said:

"'You appear to know me. Who am I? "The man was evidently taken aback by this strange query. He hesi-tated only for a moment, however, re-

"'You are Henry Ashley." "'Are you sure?' asked Mr. Hamilton, anxiously. "'Perfectly,' said the man. 'I know conversation, the two soon walking off together. "Here, gentlemen, is the unravelyou well,' and he then entered into ment of the mystery. The man was Ashley himself, a fugitive from justice, detained by some means at Portland. He had, no doubt, disguised himself; for all accounts agree that he was the very double of Hamilton in personal appearance. This would account for the impression on seeing him for the first time. An ingenious man Ashley is well known to be What better way to elude justice than to shift his identity upon the man who had forgotten his own name and looked like himself?

"But let us pass on. Hamilton, unware of his true name, his home, everything a blank, walked off in the company of the man Ashley, who, no doubt, found it an easy matter to shift belongings, and to take the ring, notebook and papers of Mr. Hamilton.

"He had the key to the bank. With it he could enter and take what he wanted, for the cafe had a combination lock; and I will bring a witness to prove to your satisfaction that the key to the combination was in a pocket of that same note book. Ashley was thoroughly conversant with banking matters, and the rest was He went to the bank, took notes, altered them to suit himself and got them cashed.

"Tony Osborn will testify that he was thoroughly convinced at first that it was Vane Hamilton who entered he bank at seven o'clock on the twenty-second of May, but that when the pretended cashier returned he doubted him. You will perceive now how the shirt stud and cap came on the river bank. They were dropped there to start suspicion in the wrong direction, and to create confusion. You will also see the explanation of the supposed cashier's extraordinary conduct in visiting the bank, but neglecting his own home but a few rods away. "Proceed we now to Vane Hamilton Where do we see him? In prison. Yes, gentlemen, in prison, detained there for a crime of which he was never guilty, but of which the unworthy brother, otherwise Henry Ashley, was guilty. He was incarcer ated in jail at Goodwill. His hair at the time was light, a light brown, the same color that we remember so well as crowning the noble head of our beloved townsman. This we can prove by the testimony of the jailer's daughter. But the next we hear of it, his hair had turned, not white, but dark brown, almost black, as you see it

All eyes were turned now in the direction of the plaintiff, who sat beside Mr. Stevens, calm and collected in his demeanor.

Mr. Morley then proceeded to recount similar instances of the turning of light hair to a dark color.

These instances were well authenticated. The change in Mr. Hamilton's hair was, no doubt, the result in some unexplainable way of his terror at finding himself in durance vile, Or it might have fallen off and came out again a different color. Be this as it may, his hair changed from light to dark between the time he entered the jail and the asylum!

A woman who professed to be his wife came to see him. She had learned of the arrest, no doubt, and traveled here without delay. The prisoner took no notice of her, but she declared he was her husband, though the man said he did not know her.

Why was this! Simply because she was not his wife. She, on the contrary, said she was, to screen her own husband, who, she now for the first time saw, was at large. Do you follow me, gentlemen of the jury?' asked Mr. Morley, in thrilling tones "Do you see into what toils he had fallen?'

HIGH BUT UNFULFILLED HOPES

Ambitious Boy Came Back to Home With at Least a Hat. Prof. G. A. Hill, of the United States Naval Observatory, said, before sailing to study the sun's eclipse: "I have high hopes of this expedition, but a cloud may ruin all. I desire to come back overloaded with priceless solar photographs, but everything depends on chance, and perhans I will return as empty-handed as I go away. "High hopes, great expectations-in end, nothing. In this aspect eclipse expeditions are like the expeditions of young men from the country, who give up the plow and haste cityward, expecting in a little while to become bank presidents, captains of industry, and millionaires. "Alas, hopes high enough accompany the expeditions of these youths. The boy departs bravely. His honest father and mother while away the long and lonely evenings on the farm with dreams of his future success. They recount to one another his innumerable virtues. Such virtues, thev say, must inevitably lead him to the governor's chair, to a senatorial toga, to a mayoralty, and so on.

"High hopes, great expectations-in the end, nothing. "A farm boy from Elizabeth, my native town, went to New York to seek his fortune. For six months not a word was heard from him. Then, one winter afternoon his father got this "Dear Pa: Meet me under the old

COMMUNICATION.

Having been retained in two suits brought for the violation of Ordinance No. 5 of the Village of Cass City, and having carefully examined said ordinance am of opinion that a part of said ordinance is unconstitutional and void, and knowing that the village council last year had its ordinances revised and published that they should be lawful and knowing of person having been arrested and fined for the violation of said ordinance, and believing that our city fathers do not approve of having or using an ordinance which is unlawful or unconstitutional, would say that it might be well that the council call the attention of Village Attorney John Corkins to this particular ordinance for his examination as it is an important ordinance to aid in the good government of the village. And while I think its validity would be sustained here, some person might take his case to a higher court and make the village unnecessary cost and trouble.

CHEATED DEATH.

HENRY BUTLER.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had Kidney Trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand since, as I find they have no equal." L. I. Wood & Co., druggists, guarantee them at 50c.

It is universally recognized that in point of goodness DE LAVAL Separators stand alone. Hence the claim of imitating machines to cheapness.

There is nothing else perhaps in which "cheap" means as much as in Cream Separators.

The really "cheap" machine is not that which costs least, but that which gives the most capacity, recovers all the butterfat, produces the best cream, runs easiest, and will last longest.

These are the qualities which represent recognized goodness in the DE LAVAL, and in any and all of which no other Separator is comparable.

Most "cheap" Separators are in a class with rhinestones, "dollar" watches, and other trashy imitations of the real thing. But worse than all that they WASTE butterfat every time they are used, and so would be dear as a gift.

The genuinely cheap separator is the GOOD separator, which soon SAVES instead of LOSES its cost, and may be bought on such easy terms as to actually PAY FOR ITSELF during the first year of use, and then be good for another twenty years more of clear profit.

Facts, figures and reasons, to be had for the ask-

"I have a son that had brain fever when two years old, followed by fits of the worst type, and he was pronounced incurable. I spent hundreds of dollars for him, without relief. After about fifteen years he became so bad that we sent him to Longeliff hospital for the insane, at Logansport, Ind. He was there nearly three years, but he continued to grow worse, so we brought him home. July 30, 1902, in an awful condition: He had lost his mind almost entirely. He hardly knew one of the family; could not even find his bed; was a total wreck. He had from 5 to 10, fits a day. We were urged to try Dr. Miles' Nervine, and before the first bottle was used, we could see a change for the better. We have given it to him ever since, and he has had but two very light, spells since last August, 1903, and then he was not well other ways. We pronounce him cured, as he can work and go anywhere. The Story

Whether Hand Sapolio got a more onthusiastic welcome in homes where Sapolio was an old and tried friend, or where it was a stranger, is a question. Where women had come to rely on Sapollo for rapid, thorough clean-Ing in every part of the house except the laundry, they commenced without loss of time, to avail of this new prize. Grubby little hands, and stained, workworn older ones, whitened, softened, and smoothed out as if by magic, callous spots disappeared, and complexions cleared. Children ceased their strenuous objections to the scrubbing up process, because it became a

It was found to keep delicate baby skins from chafing better than salve or powder, and the crowning had a note in the song of delight came when ency toan adult member of the family used it hardening in a full bath, and realized that a regained their little, ten-cent, velvety cake.

But, strange though it may seem, there were people who had not learned comer, for the sake of the first known, to prize Sapolio. To these the advertising of Hand Sapolio came as a surprise. Sapolio, a scouring soap, Wedding Rings of Old.

There are some heavy old wedding rings at Kirk Braddan, in the Isle of Man, such as might be handy when the flustered bridegroom loses the ring. Leaning against the north wall are some very ancient rings of stone, through which, in days of long ago, before the jewelers' windows glistened with wedding rings at all prices, the bride and bridegroom joined hands, it, is said, and were wedded. The monster rings of stone were always there in readiness for any ceremony, and they are there to this day, chough whether the present day bride would consent to use these "rings" in place of the orthodox pledge is doubtful.

Fisherman in Rain of Mountain Trout

Native Element and Sent Them Back to Earth Before Astonished Sportsman.

About nineteen years ago, before the hills hereabouts became the summer resorts for the state's elite, and rustic cottagers were scarce on the mountain sides, I rode over from Golden to Wellington lake on a burro, more to acquaint myself with the country and, of course, incidentally to shoot any game I chanced to spy, says a writer in the Denver Post. From a distance I caught sight of the lake glistening in the sunlight like a big patch of snow, and the closer I got the more decided I became to pitch my tent on its green carpeted banks for a few days' recreation. There were trout, two and six pounders, in the lake in those days, and I caught lots of them. One afternoon dark clouds began hovering around the mountain tops, and by dusk the wind had gained in velocity and great whitecaps appeared on the lake, to be transformed into clouds of mist which sprayed the mountain sides like an April shower. Off in the distance I heard a peculiar wind sweeping over the mountains ableness that generally exists for a full and shortly the pine trees on the opheavily, as if they would break, and feet.

Waterspout Drew Fish from Their | broken boughs filled the air like the wreckage of a cyclone. Hardly had the trees ceased their violent shaking when I gazed in wonder at the waterspout forming in the middle of the lake. It was a splendid spectacle as it gradually grew in height, spiral shape, and in diameter appeared to be twenty feet at its base. Like a monument it rose on the surface of the water, when there came another distant weird sound, and in the fierceness of the trees' agitation I lost sight of the waterspout, but soon another loomed up nearer to shore, and when it collapsed there was a rain of live trout, gentlemen, I say genuine Colorado mountain trout, and they lay scattered on the ground for quite a distance around me, but hardly any weighed over three ounces. How do I account for it? Well, I figured it out this way-the waterspout happened to form over a large school of fish near the shore where the water was quite shallow and the suction of the whirlwind was so great it raised the fish that were in water only a few inches deep. Rather than see the fish perish on land I busied myself for an hour throwing them back into the lake, but in many life was extinct, having fallen on the posite side of the lake began swaying | rocks from a height of probably fifty

Had No Claim on Ex-Husband. At Munich recently a woman sold her husband, a good-looking ne'er-dowell, to a neighbor for a small sum of money, and was pleased enough with her bargain until, on a distant relative's death, he came into considerble fortune. Then she attempted to resume her marital rights, but was so effectually resisted by her ex-husband's present possessor that she resolved to have recourse to the law's intervention. To this end she consulted a lawyer, only to find that, through some technical flaw, her own marriage was illegal and her claims on man and fortune consequently invalid.

work, but frequently made it necessary for me to remain in a dark room for two or three days at a time. "I employed several good doctors, one after the other, but none of them was able to give me permanent relief. "Eight months ago a friend suggested that perhaps coffee was the cause of my troubles and that I try Postum Food Coffee and give up the old kind. I am glad I took her advice for my health has been entirely restored. I have no more neuralgia, nor have I had one solitary headache in all these eight months. No more of my days are wasted in solitary confinement in a dark room. I do all my own work with ease. The flesh that I lost during the years of my nervous prostration has come back to me during these months, and I am once more a happy, healthy woman. I enclose a list of names of friends who can vouch for the truth of the statement." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THIN BLOOD—WEAK NERVES

Cure Both. The steady use of a particular set of muscles tends to chronic fatigue, which produces faulty or difficult motion, rembling, cramps and even paralysis. Writers, telegraphers, tailors and seamstresses are among the classes most threatened in this way with the loss of their power to earn a living. The fol-lowing instance shows that nerve power may be recovered after it seems entirely lost, if the right means are taken. Mrs. O. S. Blacksten, of No. 584 North Bowman street, Mansfield, Ohio, says:

"For years my hands would become so numb at times that I would drop anything I attempted to lift. Later they became so had that I could not sew any longer, and at last I could scarcely any longer, and at last I could scatterly do anything at all with my hands. At night the pricking sensations would come on worse than ever, and my hands and arms would pain so that I dreaded to go to bed. My family doctor gave me some nerve tablets. They helped me a little, but only for a short time after I had taken them and if I happened to be mithered to be a short them. without them for a day or two I would be as bad as ever or even worse. Finally I got a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began to take them.

"The result was surprising. By the time I had taken the last pill in my first box I could see a gain. Thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I am now all right. I can sleep undisturbed by pain, and for two years I have been as well as ever."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills feed the proves by melium years in head and nerves by making new, rich blood and in this way have cured nervous diseases of every description from simple restlessness to paralysis. They have banished the tortures of neuralgia, the weakness of nervous prostration, the disability and awful pain of locomotor ataxia. LEFT BRIDE AT CHURCH DOOR. Unromantic End of Wedding Arranged by Parents.

There is an old story of the era when all marriages were contracted by parents as business affairs, without consultation of the tastes and affinities of the two principals. The father and mother of one Count Kinski had arranged with some friends to marry him to their daughter. The young people had never met, and the count never left the town in Germany where he lived until the wedding day, and as soon as the ceremony was over he saluted his bride with graceful respect, saying: "Madame, you and I have come in order to fulfill our parents' behests. You have the prettiest figure in the world and the most admirable stature I have ever seen on woman. But I must leave you. I cannot conceal from you that for a long time my heart has been captured by a love which I do not know how to stifle." His post chaise awaited him at the church door, the count quickly stepped into it, and the countess never saw him again.

Because, they have to pay the bills, if Fire or Explosion occurs, from any one of the Acetylene Generators they authorize.

And, here's a proof of their good judgment.

Though there are now Two Million people using Acetylene Light in America, there have only been four Fires from it in one year, against 8865 Fires from Kerosene and Gasoline.

Kerosene and Gasoline.

There have also been 4691 Fires from Electricity, 1707 Fires from City Gas, and 520 Fires from Candles.

Besides these there have been 26 Fires from the Besides these there have been 26 Fires from the Sun's rays, But,—only four Fires from Acetylene. That shows how careful the Insurance Board was in its examination of Acetylene Generators, and in "permitting" only the 70 makes that were above suspicion, out of the 600 experiments that were once on the market.

Well,—the boom in Acetylene Lighting made lower prices possible on the material it is derived from, viz., Calcium Carbide, a material that looks like Granite Calcium Carbide, a material that looks like Granite but acts like Magic.

Today, Acetylene Light is a full third cheaper than Kerosene Light, or Gasoline Light, per Candle Power. It is not more than half the price of Electric Light, nor three-fourths that of City Gas.

If I can't prove these statements to your full satisfaction my name is not "Acetylene Jones."

But Acetylene is more than the safest and cheapest Light of the year 1905.

But Acetylene is more than the safest and cheapest Light of the year 1905.

It is also the Whitest Light—the nearest to natural Sunlight in health-giving Blue and Violet rays, and because of this, with its freedom from flicker, it is the easiest of all Artificial Light on the Eyes.

It is so much like real Sunlight that it has made plants grow 24 hours per day in dark cellars where no ray of Sunlight could reach them. It made them grow twice as fast as similar plants that had only the Sunlight of day-time, viz., half the time.

That was proven by Cornell University in a three-months' experiment made this very year.

months' experiment made this very year.

Now, I've saved up for the last a point more important to you than all the others about Acetylene Light.

It consumes only one-fourth as much of the vital Oxygen from the Air of Living rooms or bed-rooms, as either Kerosene or City Gas-Light consumes.

That's a tremendous difference in a lifetime, mark you—three-fourths of a difference.

Because,—Oxygen is Life.

And every bit of Oxygen stolen from the lungs of Women, Children and Men, through Lighting, is a loss that can never be made good again.

loss that can never be made good again.

A 24 Candle-Power Acetylene Light costs you only two-fifths of a cent per hour.

That's about $5.85 per year, if burned every night in the year for four steady hours. A Kerosene Lamp of equal capacity would cost you a third more, viz.: three-fifths of a cent per hour for Kerosene alone, or $8.75 per year.

That's exclusive of broken lamp chimneys, new wicks, and the everlasting drudgery and danger of cleaning, filling and trimming daily.

I want to grove these figures to you, Reader, if you on what it will cost to light them with brilliant, beautiful,

"I consider Mull's Grape Tonic the very best medicine I have ever taken. My stomach was in such a bad condition that nothing tasted right and the small amount of food that I was able to eat didn't seem to do any good. I became so nervous that sleep was impossible. My strength gave out and I became exhausted and completely run down. I then commenced to take Mull's Grape Tonic and by the time I had finished two bottles my health returned. I now relish my food and can sleep as well as ever. THIS IS MY VOLUNTARY TESTIMONY."

Cut out the coupon below and we will give you absolutely free of charge a bottle of the only permanent, natural cure for constipation and all bowel troubles and indigestion and all stomach troubles MULL'S GRAPE TONIC cures by strengthening and restoring the tissues and muscles of all the digestive organs, and by putting the whole digestive system in a perfect, strong, healthy condition. It does not shock and weaken the organs as purgatives and physics do and thus aggravate the trouble and make a bad matter worse. Its effect is to build up and restore, and not tear down and destroy. It cures the disease by putting the digestive organs in a condition to overcome it. Such a cure amounts to something—it is perfect and permanent. You feel better and stronger all the time you use it—not weakened and run down as in the case of drugs and physics.

You feel the wonderful and beneficial effects of Mull's Grape Tonic at once. You will know that it will cure you as soon as you begin its use. That is why we let you try it free.
