NO. 25.

The Way We Do It

There are different ways of doing business. One way is to make as much out of customers while they are in the store as possible. Another is to give them the best value for their money. The first way is about as sensible as the man who killed the goose that laid the golden eggs. Try our business methods for a while and see if we can't please each other.

We offer some EXCEPTIONAL GOOD VALUES in

Shoes, Clothing, Hats, Caps, Gloves, Mittens and Furnishing Goods

Suits, $8.00, $10.00, $12.00, $15.00, $18.00 and $20.00
Overcoats, $8.00, 10.00, 12.00, 15.00, 18.00 and 20.00

Queen Quality and Pingree Made Shoes for women, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00.

W. L. Douglas and Keith's Konqueror Shoes for men, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00 and $4.50.

We carry a good assortment of Children's Shoes, Suits and Overcoats. Worth investigating.

SAVED FROM A WATERY GRAVE

Captain and Crew Float to Shore on Wreckage. One Man Drowned.

Captain Arch Fletcher, well known in this vicinity and especially in Greenleaf township, had a narrow escape from death during the severe storm which raged on the Great Lakes during Thursday night, October 19. Mr. Fletcher was captain of the steamboat, Joseph S. Fay, and while the boat, a freighter loaded with iron ore, was making a trip from Escanaba to Cleveland she was caught in the storm thirty miles this side of the Straits.

During the night the boat sprang a leak and commenced to fill rapidly. Finding that work at the pumps was of no avail, the crew were obliged to leave them and when the boat was within two miles of the Michigan shore she commenced to sink and break up. To the pilot house which floated to shore near Rogers City and afforded them a means of escape, Captain Fletcher and five of his men owe their lives. Out of the crew of fourteen only one man was drowned, the remainder of the number floating to shore on pieces of the wreckage.

Captain Fletcher says this was the worst storm he ever witnessed since he began sailing in 1874. He came to Cass City last Friday and later left for his farm one mile west and two and one-half miles north of Greenleaf postoffice. He is well known in that vicinity, having settled there in 1880.

PATENT MEDICINE HABIT.

Collier's Weekly, a magazine of national reputation, is carrying a campaign against the patent medicine habit which is so prevalent in almost every community, and in a recent issue it quotes Dr. Ashbel P. Grinnell of New York City, who has made a statistical study of patent medicines, as saying that he asserts as a provable fact that more alcohol is consumed in this country in patent medicines than is dispensed in a legal way by licensed liquor venders, barring the sale of ales and beers.

Pe-ru-na, a patent medicine which has been advertised very extensively from one end of the country to the other in the last few years, was given an airing in the same issue. "It is apparent," says Collier's, "that a bottle of Peruna contains as much alcohol as five bottles of beer, or three bottles of claret or champagne—that is, bottles of the same size. It would take nearly nine bottles of beer to put as much alcohol into a thirsty man's system as a temperance advocate can get by drinking one bottle of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. While the 'doses' prescribed by the patent medicine manufacturers are only one or two teaspoonfuls several times a day, the opportunity to take more exists, and even small doses of alcohol taken regularly, cause that craving which is the first step in the making of a drunkard or drug fiend."

People will find it safer to call on a local physician who can prescribe for their individual needs when ailing rather than to trust the most valued possession they have, their health, to the "patent cure-all."

A SAD DEATH.

The announcement of the death of Thomas Griffith of Crosswell will be of interest to our readers. He was the father of Mrs. Lawrence Clement, formerly of this place but now of Crosswell. The Crosswell Jeffersonian says: "Thomas Griffith, whose residence is on the west side, was instantly killed Thursday afternoon while assisting to raise a building belonging to the E. R. McCredie estate in Buel township. The building was a frame house which W. J. Humphries had a contract for raising. Mr. Griffith was employed by Mr. Humphries and while working under the building it slid from the blocks, coming down upon him and killing him instantly. Mr. Griffith was a man about 45 years of age. He was a hard worker and a good citizen. He leaves a widow and five children, some of them being grown up."

Hunting Forbidden.

I hereby forbid all persons hunting on my premises. If continued, all trespassers must suffer the penalties by law. 11-3-10 A. E. GOODALL.

I have for sale a farm of 96 acres one mile from Northville, Wayne county, Mich. Small house, barn 30x40 ft., two good springs, good orchard; finely adapted to keeping cows; cheese factory, also creamery at Northville and milk may be shipped by electric line to Detroit. Will exchange for a farm near Cass City. Call or address O. K. JAMES, Cass City, Mich., for particulars. 10-20-10

OF INTEREST TO TEACHERS.

Commissioner Bush is planning a great educational rally for Dec. 8-9. H. R. Pattengill from Lansing, the most widely known educator in the state, has been secured to give one of his popular lectures on Friday evening, Dec. 8, at Caro. Mr. Pattengill will stay over for the session on Saturday, Dec. 9, to aid in the exercises which will continue throughout the day. Every teacher in the county is expected to be present at this meeting and mention of the meeting is made early so that these dates may be kept wholly for this important gathering of teachers.

THEY WILL REMOVE TO LAPEER

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ostrander About to Leave Cass City.

S. Ostrander, who has conducted a shoe store in the block next to the Cass City Bank for some time past and who has been associated for nearly ten years with Cass City business circles, has decided to leave Cass City and this week is moving to Lapeer where he will re-enter the shoe business, having purchased a new stock of goods to add to that he already has on hand. On Wednesday evening about thirty-five of Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander's friends surprised them at their home on Main street.

They came heavily laden with baskets of choice viands and spent a most enjoyable evening. After refreshments were served, Rev. J. W. Fenn presented Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander with a pretty salad bowl in behalf of the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander have been closely associated with the church work in the M. E. society at this place during their sojourn here and will be greatly missed in that capacity. They are both very estimable people and Cass City will lose two of her very best citizens by their removal from our midst. However, the best wishes of the entire community go with them to their new home.

The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Karr, Mrs. R. N. Mulholland, Mrs. W. H. Anderson, Mrs. W. J. Campbell, Mrs. M. Duncanson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fenn, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Fritz, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Keating, Mrs. F. R. Smithson, A. A. P. McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bond, Mrs. A. Phelps, Mrs. Amanda Fritz, Mrs. E. J. Usher, Misses Lottie Usher and Lottie Bradley, Mrs. N. Hill, Mrs. N. McLaren, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Heller, Mrs. Hannah Wickware, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Traver, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Withey.

THIS BOY KNOWS.

A twelve-year-old boy who has evidently been noticing things, wrote the following essay on "The Newspaper": "Newspapers are sheets of paper on which stuff to read is printed. The men look over the paper to see if their names is in it, and the women use it to put on shelves and sigh; don't know how newspapers came into the world. I don't think God does. The Bible says nothing about editors, and I never heard of one being in heaven. I guess the editors is the missing link them fellers talk about. The first editor I heard of was the feller who wrote up the flood. He has been here ever since. Some editors belong to church and some of them try to raise whiskers. All of them raise hell in their neighborhood and all are liars, at least all I know are, and I only know one. Editors never die. At least I never saw a dead one. But sometimes the papers dies and the people feel glad, but some one starts it up again. Editors never went to school because editors never got licked. Our paper is a mighty poor one, but we take it because ma likes to put it on her pantry shelves. Our editor don't amount to much, but pa says he had a poor chance when he was a boy. He goes without underclose in the winter, wears no socks and has a wife to support him. Pa hasn't paid his subscription in five years, and don't intend to."

MUSIC REHEARSAL.

A Probe Stunde will be given on Monday evening, Nov. 6 in the opera house reception hall by the music pupils of Mrs. Caroline Fenn-Bigelow from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock. These rehearsals will be held on the first Monday evening of each month. The public is cordially invited to attend any or all of these meetings of the class.

ELECTRIC ROAD WILL BE BUILT

Detroit-Bay City Line Looks Like a Sure Go This Time.

On Wednesday morning the first shovelful of dirt on the proposed Detroit-Bay City electric line was turned in Bay City. The ceremonies attending the first turning of ground on the road bed was without frills. The company had intended to pull off a few extras, but owing to pressure of work this was abandoned.

The teams and men employed by the company will be limited during the first few days as there will not be much room for working until the open country is reached. About 75 teams have been contracted for so far but they will not all be used for several days.

The report that the company intended to abandon the building of the Quannicasee river bridge for the winter is announced by Superintendent Young as untrue and due, probably, to a misunderstanding. The structure will be erected as fast as steel is secured. It is the intention to lay the tracks as fast as grading progresses in order that the company may deliver its own material from Bay City without wagon haulage.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The first and second graders painted Brownies Tuesday afternoon.

Inez Harris and Golda Jamison were visitors in the high school this week.

The fifth and sixth graders painted some very pretty autumn leaves this week.

Lena Fairweather and Ernest Schwaderer were absent a few days on account of sickness.

Two whole months gone. One-fifth of the school year gone. Report cards are out for this month.

The seniors are offered scholarships for Alma College if they reach the average mark of 90 per cent.

Some of the pupils were tardy while others did not even appear until afternoon Wednesday. We wonder why?

The American literature class recited one of Longfellow's poems, also one of the members gave a report on his life this week.

A golden opportunity was offered and accepted by the boys last Tuesday morning after the music lesson. Leap year is past, girls.

Miss Cochrane was absent a few days this week owing to illness. Miss Hunter undertook to teach German I during her absence.

One of our sophomores was in such haste the other day that she thought the quickest way to get down stairs was to go head first. No bones broken.

Lost by the Seniors—Found by the Juniors—two bright young ladies who thought they would take another year in the high school and a course in music in the meanwhile.

We congratulate ourselves on the behavior of our boys Tuesday evening. Altho a few overstepped the bounds of propriety but on the whole they behaved very well—for boys.

Many of the high school pupils were absent Monday morning. Young people are not generally so economical as to save light on Sunday evening to study during the week.

As the English literature class have been studying Shakespeare's works, one of the Juniors will take the opportunity to hear "The Mid Summer Night's Dream" to be played at Pontiac next Friday night.

Some of the young and old of the high school were out on a hunting tour Saturday. Their leader found he was just as good a shot as ever was, finding that it would take only ten shots to kill a rabbit. But they got it anyway.

Altho the teachers earnestly request the pupils of the high school not to have a mid week party, they begin by setting the poor example themselves and giving a "masked party" at Mr. Doerr's vacant house on the corner of Seeger and Houghton streets.

The following program will be given at the high school next Friday afternoon:

Piano Solo.....Miss McKim
Lilo on Mr. Vesuvius.....Miss Sweet
Current Events.....Miss Craze
Declamation.....Miss Wallace
Vocal Solo.....Miss Lenzner

There are some vacant seats for visitors.

A PLEA FOR FOOLISH VIRGINS.

When John D. Rockefeller, Jr., encountered the parable about the foolish virgins who had no oil in their lamps, which was the lesson of the day for his Bible class, every member leaned forward with interest to hear what a Rockefeller would say about the folly of improvidence as illustrated in a lack of oil.

"And the foolish said unto the wise," quoted Mr. Rockefeller from Matthew 25: 8-9, "Give us of your oil; for our lamps are gone out. But the wise answered saying: Not so; lest there be not enough for us and you; but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves."

Mr. Rockefeller forcefully presented the lesson that is taught in this parable, and said that the wisdom of being prepared for an emergency could not be more strikingly presented than in the case of the foolish virgins who failed to buy enough oil. When he had finished, and it was time for little talks from the members at large, one, who had a record for raising discord, arose and asked:—"But suppose the price of oil was so high that they couldn't procure it?"

Mr. Rockefeller called for the singing of a hymn, saying that he had unconsciously taken up too much time, and adding that the usual offertory would be skipped.—Success Magazine.

WHERE, O WHERE IS JOHN?

October 31, 1905.

Tri-County Chronicle,
Cass City, Mich.

Gentlemen:—Do you know what has become of John McCracken, the scribe from Deford, who used to contribute articles for the Chronicle quite frequently? Has he moved out of the state or forgotten the readers of the paper?

I, for one, would like to hear from him again and hope you can find his address and persuade him to write an article. If I remember aright someone said he was at the Cass City fair again this year, "just to bring the youngsters out to see what was going on," but of course I am not sure about it.

I had rather you wouldn't print this letter but just word this request your own way. A READER.

TEACHERS ENTERTAIN.

On Wednesday evening the Teachers' Club entertained about forty guests at a Halloween party in the vacant house at the corner of Houghton and Seeger streets. The guests were costumed to represent different characters and the costumes were "immense." The rooms were decorated with autumn trimmings and the spirits roamed through the large rooms at will. A gypsy maiden told the guests what the future held in store for them and disclosed some startling events which may (never) happen. A most delightful evening was spent.

MICHIGAN HAPPENINGS

INSURANCE IS TOO HIGH AND SO NEEDS SOME REGULATION.

MR. WATERS' VIEW OF MATTER.

SENATOR ALGER WILL NOT RESIGN BEFORE THE COMPLETION OF HIS TERM.

Benton Harbor Woman Horribly Burned by Fall on Stove—Kalamazoo Molder Murdered in Oakland, California.

Representative Arthur J. Waters, of Manchester, wants the legislature to look into the fire insurance business of Michigan at the next session. He says: "It is well known that the fire insurance companies doing business in this state are banded into one vast combine for the purpose of forcing tribute from the people. Although the ratio of losses paid to premiums received has stood at 46 per cent in Michigan for the last three years, the new system of scheduling each individual risk is doing some remarkable things.

"The effect the central board has in making 'advisory rates,' which are really compulsory rates, is to destroy competition and put the premiums as high as possible. In the last session I introduced house bill No. 740, file No. 250, for the purpose, among others, of compelling fire insurance companies to do business on a competitive basis, and to destroy all combinations between them. I succeeded in having the bill printed, but I was not able to get it out of committee.

"I think the fire insurance companies of Michigan ought to be investigated, and if it is my fortune to return to the house, something along that line will be doing if it is in my power to do it."

Alger Won't Resign.

"There's nothing at all in the report that Senator Alger will resign before the end of his term," says Congressman William Alden Smith, who had a conference with the senator. "He seems to be in better health than for some time and will certainly hold his place."

Mr. Smith said he saw the senator in reference to matters of patronage, but would not state what they were. "Grand Rapids will get all that is coming to it," is all he would say.

Shockingly Burned.

Mrs. Lewis Larson fell across a gasoline stove Saturday morning, sustaining injuries from which she cannot recover. She was getting a meal on the stove when she was stricken with an epileptic fit and fell into the fire. Her hair was burned off; her face and neck disfigured, and her back from the shoulders to the waist is a crisp. The woman was found on the floor with her clothing burning when her husband returned from the store.

Killed With An Ax.

Fred C. Turner, an iron molder of Kalamazoo, was found murdered a few miles south of Oakland, Cal. The discovery of the body was made by Hugh Manaman, of Fruitville. Turner had been assailed by an unknown assassin, armed with an ax, and the victim was frightfully mangled. No clue to the murderer has been found.

Efforts to definitely locate Turner in Kalamazoo have been without results, except it is known that Fred C. Turner, a factory hand, went west about eight years ago, but his present whereabouts are not known.

Smallpox Expense.

It cost Eaton county $2,383.24 for smallpox and other contagious diseases for the nine months ending October 1, and there is talk of the county building a hospital for the exclusive care of this disease. The tramp evil, and Charlotte is a menace for the hobo fraternity, is lost sight of compared with this expense. During the nine months not a death from smallpox was reported.

Fatally Shot.

It is believed that Roy Evans, a 10-year-old lad of Horton township, cannot survive the injuries to his face and head caused by the accidental discharge of his brother's shotgun. His right ear was torn off, the whole side of his face was lacerated, and it is believed some shot penetrated his skull. John Evans, an older brother, had left the gun standing where his younger brother could reach it.

The young bride of Lafayette Peebles grieved because her hubby attended a burlesque show at Grand Rapids. She swallowed morphine and Peebles found her in the barn where he stabled his horse. Instead of getting her to a doctor he hurried to get her sister, and as they were returning she was thrown from the buggy and the sister fainted. The young wife was nearly dead when they finally got a doctor, but she will recover now.

The 4-year-old son of Ed. Evison, two miles from Wallin, strayed from home Sunday afternoon and not returning at night, the whole neighborhood and every one from Wallin formed a searching party. The lad was found Tuesday in the depths of a dense swamp, dirty and hungry, but otherwise all right.

Mrs. Branch, of Muskegon, married but a short time, showed her inexperience with marital life when she poured gasoline in a wash boiler on a heated stove. The explosion which followed enveloped her in flames, but she ran to the yard, wrapped and rolled in a rug, and escaped with severe burns. The house was nearly destroyed.

Second district, Woman's Relief Corps, in convention at Hillsdale, elected officers: President, Mrs. Celia Westfall, Hudson; vice-president, Mrs. Alma Fry, Ogdon Center; treasurer, Mrs. Armanda Sturgis, Hudson; delegate to national convention, Mrs. Augusta Johnson, Palmyra. The next convention is to be held in Hudson.

The state will distribute about $1,800,000 in primary school money November 10. The apportionment will be made at the rate of $2.70 per capita, 426. There were 6,224 collisions, with money loss of $4,849,054. The total loss from all kinds of accidents was $9,711,656.

Santiago, Chili, police battled with the mob so gallantly and suffered so severely that a popular subscription in their aid realized $200,000. There were 60 killed in the riot and 200 injured. It was the outcome of a government order imposing a tariff on cattle brought into the country from neighboring states.

GENERAL NEWS

CHANGE OF FRONT TAKEN BY THE CZAR'S FIRE-EATERS.

NICHOLAS LAST OF ROMANOFFS.

THE WHOLE NATION AWOKE AND REVOLUTION ALREADY IS BEGUN.

A Provisional Government is Set Up in Moscow—Troops Ordered Not to Fire on Assembling People Now.

Russia is in the throes of a revolution and late advices from Moscow, the great center of true Russian feeling, say a provisional government has already been set up there by the revolutionists and striking workmen who have enrolled themselves under the revolutionary banner. This government is said to be acting already, disregarding absolutely the imperial authority. The city is full of troops, but all communication with St. Petersburg has been severed and it is believed that many soldiers will follow the example of their comrades in arms at Kharkov Ya and join the revolt.

In the imperial palace at Peterhof, with his private yacht, the Polar Star, lying at Cronstadt, ready to take him to Denmark at a moment's notice, Czar Nicholas, probably the last of the Romanoffs, as a last resort, after a lengthy conference with his ministers, issued an order to the troops to avoid firing on the strikers unless absolutely necessary and granting them the privilege of meeting in freedom to discuss political and economical questions. Gen. Trepoff, by declaration ordered the provincial governments to carry out this order and to designate buildings for the holding of such meetings. Three have already been named in St. Petersburg.

Never before has the government so completely backed down on any questions and this change of front is taken as a confession of weakness, for the strikers and revolutionists are said to be well armed and provided with bombs and other explosives which they have been collecting ever since the beginning of the war, much of the shortage of the ammunition at the front being due to the speculations of revolutionary agents at various points along the trans-Siberian lines.

Every section of both European and Asiatic Russia seems to have caught the spirit of revolt. From Omsk, Tomsk and Irkutsk come reports of the tying up of railway traffic and other industries, and it is even hinted that the agitation has made great headway in the army in Manchuria, despite the herculean efforts of Gen. Linevitch to arrest its spread.

Claimed and Denied.

The persistent report that Mrs. Cunliffe, wife of Edward G. Cunliffe, the Adams Express robber, had in her possession $5,000 of the $101,000 stolen by her husband on October 9, were confirmed today when Superintendent H. J. Bideman, of the Pinkerton detective agency, went to the Cunliffe home in Pittsburg, and in the lining of a baby carriage found a package containing $5,000. On the night Cunliffe was brought here from Bridgeport, Conn., where he was captured, he made a written confession to the authorities that he had given his wife $5,000.

Following the above statement comes this one from Mrs. Cunliffe: "I emphatically deny that as a result of any confession made by me $5,000 of the money stolen by my husband was found in a baby carriage in our home at Pittsburg. If the money was found, as stated by Robert A. Pinkerton, it was because of disclosures made by my husband. I maintained throughout the ordeal to which I was subjected by the detectives that I had none of the stolen money, nor had I hidden any. The allegation of Robert A. Pinkerton regarding a confession made by me is absolutely false."

Secretary Bonaparte has dismissed an employee of the Norfolk navy yard because the latter revoked an agreement to rent rooms to a sailor when he learned that he would come in and out with his uniform on. The man said that a prejudice existed in the town against sailors and that he had to maintain the position of his family.

Chasing a hog ended disastrously for Frank Button, a farmer near Clayton. He got mixed up with a wire and was thrown to the ground while running at top speed. His right leg was broken in two places; he was injured internally and his condition is serious.

Gov. Folk of Missouri has been caught in the act of accepting a bribe in exchange for a pardon. The prisoner was sent to jail for six years for false registration, but does not seem to have understood what he was doing. His wife, with her three children, came to see the governor, but he was still in doubt. The prisoner's 5-year-old daughter approached him timidly and said: "If you let my papa go I'll give you a kiss." The governor replied a trifle huskily: "All right, little girl, you shall take him home with you."

Railroad accidents in the United States during the past year killed 537 passengers and injured 10,040; killed 3,261 employees and injured 45,426. There were 6,224 collisions, with money loss of $4,849,054. The total loss from all kinds of accidents was $9,711,656.

Santiago, Chili, police battled with the mob so gallantly and suffered so severely that a popular subscription in their aid realized $200,000. There were 60 killed in the riot and 200 injured. It was the outcome of a government order imposing a tariff on cattle brought into the country from neighboring states.

"LURE OF THE WILD."

Dillon Wallace, the American explorer, is thought to be lost in the wilds of Labrador. Last spring he and Mrs. Leonidas Hubbard, both of New York, started on rival expeditions to carry on exploration work in far Labrador, in prosecution of which Leonidas Hubbard, formerly a well-known Detroit newspaper man, perished previously. A. R. Burgess, customs officer at Riglolette, Labrador, has reached Halifax and said:

"I believe Wallace's expedition is a failure and that possibly the members of his party may have met the fate that overtook poor Hubbard. On the other hand it seems as if Mrs. Hubbard and her party have reached their destination."

Burgess added that when he left Northwest river Indians had informed him that Mrs. Hubbard was at Ungava Bay, 170 miles distant from the objective point of her expedition. They declared, however, that Wallace and his men were on the wrong track and that if they continued they would either be lost or come out on the seashore hundreds of miles away.

KILLED BY RAILROADS.

The statement of railroad accidents recently issued by the interstate commerce commission covered only the last quarter of the last fiscal year. The figures for the entire fiscal year are now given as follows:

The total number of passengers killed in train accidents was 350; passengers injured in train accidents was 6,498. The total number of employees killed in train accidents was 793; injured, 7,052. There were 187 passengers killed in other than train accidents and 3,542 injured; and 2,465 employees killed in other than train accidents and 33,374 injured; a grand total of all classes of 537 passengers killed and 10,040 injured, and 3,261 employees killed and 45,426 injured.

There were 6,224 collisions during the year, with a money loss of $4,849,054, and 5,371 derailments with a money loss of $4,862,602; a total of 11,595 collisions and derailments, and a total money loss of $9,711,656, being damage to cars, engines and roadway.

The record, written on the skin of an antelope, was found by Chester Gray, a farmer living on the shore of Lake Itasca, which is the source of the Mississippi river. He will send the record to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. The record, which is barely legible, is dated August 9, 1547, and signed by Ferdinand Villena and Sancho Cueva, members of De Soto's expedition.

NEWS OF THE NATION

HERE'S A KNOCK FOR THE BIG CANAL BEFORE CONGRESS.

THE FUNDS ARE RUNNING LOW.

OHIO GETS BUSY OVER THE BIG INSURANCE COMPANIES' BUSINESS IN THAT STATE.

The New Battle Ships Are to Be Larger Than Ever—The Twenty-Thousand Ton Mark Nearly Reached.

With practically a bankrupt treasury and a clash between Secretary Taft and Chairman Shonts, the Panama canal commission is confronted with a situation that makes a gloomy view of the outlook.

The fact that probably not a dollar will remain in the commission's hands by December 31, so it is said. On October 31 about $2,000,000 was on hand. The salaries of employees on the isthmus amount to $450,000 or more a month; contracts have been entered into for large sums and these, with other expenses, will wipe out by the last of the year the amount now on hand.

Almost immediately upon convening congress will be asked to meet promptly this condition by making an emergency appropriation of possibly $10,000,000 out of the original lump sum of $130,000,000 authorized for the canal work. The proposition to enact legislation so as to enable the issue of bonds may also come up at that time, but what the commission wants is action before congress takes its recess for the Christmas holidays. This, in all likelihood, it will not get.

The Insurance Companies.

Quo warranto proceedings were commenced in the circuit court in Akron, O., Saturday by Prosecuting Attorney Hagelbarger on the advice of ex-Attorney General Monnett of Ohio, against the Mutual Life Insurance Co. and the New York Life Co. to oust them from the state by taking their franchises from them, on the ground that the companies have misused their powers for the last five years in violation of the laws of the state.

Thirty-three interrogatories are submitted to the companies to be answered. The appointment of receivers is asked for.

The receivers to be appointed are authorized by the petition to make all collections of premiums and funds due the companies in this state and to hold the same to be paid out as death benefits until the final hearing of the cases.

Monsters of the Deep.

Twenty thousand-ton battleships for the United States navy is a probability that may be realized in the next few years. Naval officers say they are sure to come and a step in this direction will be taken this winter by congress in the canceling of the authorization for 16,000 ton vessels, the Michigan and South Carolina and providing for 18,000 ton vessels. Work on these battleships has not begun so that no embarrassment will be involved to congress.

How He Escaped.

Fred Faller, the Pontiac lad who, with C. B. Flodell was charged with burglary, told Sheriff Halladay, of Charlotte, how his pal Flodell, broke out of jail Tuesday night. Until Faller gave up his story the officers thought the escape was made while one of the jail attaches was serving supper to one of the prisoners upstairs. Faller says Flodell, by means of a key which he made since his confinement, opened a door, and that by stripping himself and wrapping his body he got in the jailer's residence by crawling through a 7 1/2 by 11 inch hole in the door. Faller told the sheriff where he found the key. Flodell made his break during the time the officers and jail attaches were at the court house to hear the verdict in the Cole murder trial.

Two Dead by Poison.

William A. Cox, a Detroit printer, and Mrs. Mary Camp, also of Detroit, were found dead in a cornfield in Ypsilanti Wednesday afternoon. It is thought that they committed suicide, but it is possible that Cox murdered the girl by forcing her to drink poison, and then committed suicide himself.

Seventeen girls, all under six years old, got hold of a bottle of poison in the absence of nurses at an orphan asylum in Burlington, Vt., and three died. They had been left at the institution while the 250 other inmates had been taken to an entertainment.

John and Ed. Hoard, farmers living near Morrice, both poor men, have received word that they, with two brothers living in New York, have fallen heirs to an estate valued at $50,000 left them by an uncle, William Pittis, of Buffalo.

Alfred Decardo walked from San Francisco to New York city to find the girl he loved had gone back to Italy. In a despondent mood he attempted to end his life by a plunge from the Williamsburg bridge over the East river, but was caught by a watchman.

The ironquels fire of Dec. 30, 1903, in which hundreds of Chicago people lost their lives, has yielded the first damage suit. Edna S. Hunter, burned in that fire, is pressing a $25,000 suit against the Fuller Construction Co., which erected the building, claiming that the building ordinance was violated.

The Good-Time Season

The good-time season
Is a-comin' right along;
The whole world's singin'
Of a jubilation song!

Fields have brought you plenty—
Kind reward of toil,
That song of jubilation
Is an echo of the soil!

Oh, the good-time season
Is happy on the way,
An' you'll hear its music ringin'
In a regular hooray!

ALLADIN AND HIS WONDERFUL WIFE

BY CHARLES W. CONY

(Copyright, 1905, by Dally Story Pub. Co.)

In the time of Alid Ben Theodore, peace to his Strenuosity, there lived a man whose name was Alladin. To this man Fate seemingly delighted to throw the dregs of her favor. He lived a meager life, dragging each day through a myriad of figures set neatly in ponderous volumes, and then reluctantly turned his footsteps toward his rooming house, where he renewed his strenuous combat with boarding house men.

But to this man Fate one day turned her beautiful face and held out her hand, saying, "Come with me, Alladin, and I will reward you."

He stretched out his hand and took hers wondering. Childlike, he followed her footsteps as she led him by devious ways and winding paths through the woods to the window of a lonely and isolated cottage.

"Alladin," said she, facing him and looking sternly into his eyes, "I am about to reveal to you one of my greatest treasures. In as much as you guard it well will be your reward. Think deeply, therefore, and fathom well your courage ere you look through the window into the hut."

With that she disappeared and Alladin, whose curiosity had been well aroused, hastened to peep into the hut. "Oh," he cried, disappointed, "it is only a woman!"

He went away angry at the trick Fate had played upon him, but the next day he returned, for the face, not beautiful, and the form, not ravishing, still held for him a subtle something upon which his mind dwelled and which drew him back again to the cottage. There was no resisting it.

He saw again and again. He grew to love. He wooed—and finally—HE MARRIED—the woman. And thus Fate bestowed upon him, disguised, the most precious of her treasures upon this earth.

For a long time he lived in ignorance of the wonderful being that belonged to him. His thoughts never fathomed the wealth of gold in her love, nor the myriad jewels of her intellect; the glittering gems that fell from her lips, nor the magic light in her eyes.

He did not see how the touch of her magic hand transformed their little narrow flat into a wonderful palace; how each cheap little article grew, by her touch, into a precious thing; how she transformed the meager allowance of money that he was able to give her into a heaping mountain of comfort and happiness; how, with consummate skill, the evening meal became a feast for a king. He did not guess that each day he drank deeply from the wealth of contentment and cheerfulness in her face.

When a little son came into the world, he little thought of the marvel of it, of the magic of it. He dandled the boy upon his knee and loved it and dandled it, yet reckoned his wealth as little because he had not taken time to count and fathom it.

He did not think how the ministering care and her influence taught him to look for higher things. He did not mark how happy she was when he proved his first advancement; how proud, as though she had had a hand in it. When advancement after advancement came easy and frequent, he forgot the magic of her touch in his fortune. He was too busy in doing to think.

He forgot to look back into the past and see how wealth, honor and affluence came, step by step, through the magic of her being; how she had planned and watched; how she had loved and ministered. He forgot to value the touch of her hand on his soothed brow, the welcoming smile, that he heard the evil magician crying through his halls, "Who will give old lamps for new? Who will give old lamps for new?" Before his anxious eyes, his palace, built in such beautiful lines, seemed to crumble and disappear. He saw before him the dark, empty desolation as it had been before she had come into his life.

Ah, then he realized the wealth of golden love that he had squandered and shuddered when he thought that his precious treasure was forever to be taken from him. Then he realized the unbounded faith in his ability that had pushed him, step by step, up the ladder of fame. He saw the jewels of thought that, lavishly, he had allowed to be scattered to the throng instead of gathering them into the casket of his memory. Before his eyes came his children, precious jeweled treasures, like windows in the dome of his life, even one of which, being lacking, what artisan or jeweler could replace? He realized for the first time the magic touch that had transformed the hut into the beautiful palace; that had made a man out of a drizzling slave; that had cast before him jewels of precious life, gold of love and diamonds of sparkling faith. Precious lamp of his soul, she had lighted to him the magic of the universe; at a word she had conjured faith, life, love, wealth and honor, and now, at a touch, aye, at a thought, a sinister, unrelenting thought, all these things seemed to disappear from his sight forever.

Alladin sought out the doctor and cast before him all that he possessed. "Take them," he cried, "take all my treasures but save my wife!" The doctor shook his head and said, "I am but the slave of the Drug and have no power over the soul. What Fate decrees will be. I have done all I can do."

Alladin departed and it seemed to him as if he was wandering out into the wilderness. The world was desolate and drear and seemed a vast desert to his weary eyes, but still he hoped on and, one day, after the doctor had come and gone again, it seemed as if he saw again in the distance the spires of his wonderful magic palace, but it was far, far away. He seemed to travel onward, hoping against hope. Each day hope grew nearer to his sight until at length, with a joyous cry, he ran to embrace his wife, beautiful in his own eyes, in the fullness of her restored health.

The dread disease was dead. By the touch of this magic joy he was again transported back to his old happy self and the people that see him now wonder at the light in his eyes and the joy in his face.

He knows the value of his treasure, he can feel the magic in her eyes and touch and he has counted the wealth of her love in the measure of her beautiful deeds.

He sees, he is awake and he realizes. He is tender, he is thoughtful, he is thankful.

Oh, thrice happy Alladin, what treasures, indeed, can compare to the magic of these?

The Headless Charger.

In connection with old Admiral Jaurguiberry a writer remembers a Jean-sur-Erve, during the retreat on Laval, the admiral was galloping along the front, his tall, bony figure erect, his long gray side whiskers streaming in the wind, when some fragments of an exploding shell absolutely decapitated his horse, which nevertheless galloped on quite forty yards before it fell, the admiral meanwhile retaining his seat unmoved, though he profited by the respite to free his feet from the stirrups in such a way that as the horse collapsed he easily alighted. His only comment in response to the congratulations he received on his escape was very characteristic. "Some people imagine," said he, "that sailors cannot ride."—Dun-dee Advertiser.

SUICIDE'S GOODBYE.

Mrs. James F. Handy, formerly one of the leading society young women of Kalamazoo, committed suicide in her revolver. She was a daughter of the late Delos Phillips, one of the best known citizens of Kalamazoo, and was married eight years ago. She leaves two children, Helen, aged 7, and Winifred, aged 5.

The suicide is made all the more pathetic by the letter she left addressed to her husband, evidently written in great haste and left unsigned. It read: "Jim, My Jim—Good-bye. "Do they not kill convicts? I stand self-condemned; myself the executioner. You have life before you; for me there is nothing. I was losing you and the children."

"Oh, Jim, forgive me. Oh, that it may be the end. You have been good always; too good to me, Jim, and patient. I thank you and all who have tried to help. Good-bye."

"Good-bye, my babies. They will be happy without me, poor babies." Mrs. Handy had been melancholy for some months, from a fear of tuberculosis and grieving over the death of her sister, Mrs. Edwin Roberts, who was killed in a runaway in Denver a year ago. She had made two previous attempts to end her life, with morphine and with gas, both of which were frustrated by her husband.

Mrs. Handy was alone in the house when she ended her life. Her body was found when her little girls came in and the husband was summoned from court, where he was trying a criminal case.

Clara, 18-year-old daughter of John Rosine, of Coral, became insane while attending a salvation army meeting.

THERE IS MONEY IN GROWING GINSENG

Prof. W. L. Howard of the Missouri State Agricultural College says: "I advise American farmers to cultivate Ginseng. Big profits may be realized. It is a hardy plant and is easily grown." A recent bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College in part says: "The supply of native Ginseng root is continually diminishing and the price per pound is correspondingly increasing, while the constant demand for the drug in China stands as a guarantee of a steady market for Ginseng in the future. The market for our cultivated root will exist as long as the Chinamen exist."—Counsel General W. A. Rublee of Hong Kong says in the U. S. Consular reports: "The sale of Ginseng root grown in America is very large here and the demand is so great that much more could be disposed of advantageously. The root is indispensable to the 400,000,000 Chinese as is their rice."

Ginseng is a staple on the market the same as corn, wheat and cotton. The present market price varies from $5.00 to $8.00 per pound according to quality, while the cost of production does not exceed $1.50. There is room in an ordinary garden to grow several hundred dollars worth each year. The plant is hardy and thrives in all parts of the United States and Canada, except in the arid regions. We are successful growers and can show you how to make money growing Ginseng. You can get a good start in the business for a small outlay, and soon have a comfortable income. We have several thousand choice roots for sale for fall delivery. The planting season begins in August and continues till the ground is frozen. Write us today for further particulars.

How's Your Liver?

It will pay you to take good care of your liver, because, if you do, your liver will take good care of you.

Sick liver puts you all out of sorts, makes you pale, dizzy, sick at the stomach, gives you stomach ache, headache, malaria, etc. Well liver keeps you well, by purifying your blood and digesting your food.

There is only one safe, certain and reliable liver medicine, and that is

Thedford's Black-Draught

For over 60 years this wonderful vegetable remedy has been the standby in thousands of homes, and is today the favorite liver medicine in the world. It acts gently on the liver and kidneys, and does not irritate the bowels. It cures constipation, relieves congestion, and purifies the system from an overflow of bile, thereby keeping the body in perfect health.

SPELT A MENACE TO THE WHEAT CROP.

Complaints from all sections of the state of Michigan came to the station in the late spring of 1905 that wheat fields were badly infested with rye. Rye is easily distinguished from wheat. Its greater height, bluish green color and peculiarly shaped head point it out with certainty and the farmer has little difficulty in cutting practically all the rye from his wheat fields if he feels so disposed.

Rye flour differs enough from wheat flour to seriously injure the latter if rye forms any large share of the crop. Within the past few years a variety or species of wheat known as "spelt" has been introduced into the state as a stock food. Spelt is sown in the autumn, as fall wheat is, and ripens at practically the same time the following summer. It closely resembles wheat when growing, but the threshed spelt usually resembles barley much more than it does wheat since the chaff is not removed by the machine but is left firmly attached to the kernels. Moreover two kernels are usually attached to each other in the threshed spelt, since the head is broken up by the threshing machine into the spikelets, and not into the individual kernels. Millers are complaining, however, that wheat is coming in containing some spelt from which the chaff has been removed and that the wheat is therefore adulterated with a seed indistinguishable from the wheat kernels themselves. The flour of the spelt differs from that of the wheat so far that it does not make good bread when the two are mixed.

It becomes important for the farmer to be able to distinguish wheat from spelt, either when growing or when in the threshed grain.

DR. ANDREW B. SPINNEY

Formerly of Detroit.

Proprietor of

REED CITY

SANITARIUM

THE OLD RELIABLE

SPECIALIST

DO YOU WANT FREE CONSULTATION AND CORRECT OPINION OF YOUR CASE.

If you are poor your treatment is free. If you are discouraged and we can cure you, we will wait for your pay until you are well.

Come and see us; this is your last chance.

We live to do good, are honest with all. Forty-five years' experience free. This trip and today only.

The above is the picture of the only Dr. A. B. Spinney in this state. His history is as follows: Fifteen years ago, in 1890, he came to Reed City, Mich., as an agent for a large practice as any physician then had. Two years professor in Detroit Homeopathic College and twenty-two years in Detroit. Had charge of Alma Sanitarium eighteen months; Ypsilanti one year, and for the past seven years has owned a sanitarium at Reed City. On December 13, 1902, his sanitarium was burned, loss fifteen thousand dollars; but in forty-eight hours he had bought another and is in good shape for business again. He will move to Belding, Mich., next spring, where he has a Sanitarium with sixty rooms nearly completed.

There is a firm in Detroit calling themselves Spinney & Co. Their history is this: Anson B. Spinney founded the same, but he has been dead some three years, as an extract from the Evening News of September 28th, 1900, will prove. The office has been run by his heirs, putting physicians in the same that he could hire until about a year ago when Kegan & Kennedy bought them out and have been running the business since. I am the only Dr. Spinney in the state. Have been here forty-five years, so do not make a mistake and consult or write the wrong firm if you wish to see me. I am at the Sanitarium every Sunday except one in a month. Will be at the place and date below as follows:

We are coming to your town on date and at place mentioned and are willing to give you our time and the benefit of our forty-four years' experience, free.

It matters not how long you have been sick, or what your ailment, our consultation and advice is free, and our opinions are always the result of careful examinations and a life long experience. The patient is always told the truth and upon just what he can rely. To all who are poor we give treatment absolutely free, only charging cost of medicine. Operate at hospital free, only charging exact cost of board while patient is recovering.

Any person suffering from PILES or any curable disease we will wait for our pay until cured. If you will secure us.

Have you been sick for years and are you discouraged? Come to us and we will cure you. Our prices are the lowest of any chronic disease specialists in the state. Charges at the sanitarium only actual cost. We treat all forms of chronic diseases, but special attention is given to the treatment of the following long standing diseases, viz.: Nasal Catarrh, Eczema, Mucous and Tonic Diseases of the Throat, Foreign Growths in the Larynx, Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Bronchial Consumption, Spitting of Blood, Loss of Voice, Enlarged Tonsils, Insipient Consumption, Asthma, Diseases of the Heart, General Debility, Diseases Peculiar to Women, Neuralgia and all forms of Nervous Diseases, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Strictures, Constipation, Piles, Pessure, Fistula, Irritable and Indolent Ulcers, Hip Diseases, Scrofula, Blood and Skin Diseases, Surgical Diseases of all forms, the Eye, Ear, Face and Internal Organs, including Deformities, Club Feet, Cross-Eyes, Tumors, Hare Lips, etc., also Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Diarrhea, and all forms of Liver, Stomach and Bowel Diseases.

Remarkable Cures
Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but personal consultation is preferred.

Remember Date of visit. Come early as parlors are always crowded. A friendly call may save you future suffering. It has made life anew to thousands who have been pronounced beyond hope. Bring sample of your urine for examination.

The straw of spelt and wheat are practically identical and we shall have to look for the distinguishing differences in the head.

The heads of wheat and of spelt are both broader in one direction than in the other and are flattened on two opposite sides. Now if a wheat head be laid upon a smooth table upon one of its broad, flattened sides, with the straw end pointing to the observer the little spikelets containing the kernels and together forming the head, will be on the upper and lower sides; if a head of spelt be similarly placed on its broadest side, the spikelets will be on the right and left sides, not on the top and bottom. In other words the spikelets of wheat are broad, holding sometimes as many as four kernels, in rather loose chaff, while the spikelets of spelt are narrow, held snugly together by the enveloping chaff and contain but two kernels.

Again in the wheat head, the straw is continuous through the whole length, very crooked indeed, yet it is there; in the spelt, on the other hand, there is no continuous straw running through the head but the spikelets are held together by joining one to the upper inside surface of the next below by a little stalk or pedicel. The spikelets are thus alternately arranged in the head, first one on one side then the next on the other side, packed closely together and forming a compact head. In threshing the wheat kernels readily fall from the loose hull or chaff which surrounds them; the spelt kernels find the chaff incurved about them and the two in the same spikelet are so closely bound together that the head breaks up, each spikelet being torn loose from its neighbors by the breaking of the pedicels which hold them together. A better threshing machine may easily break up these spikelets and turn out the spelt grain free from its enveloping hulls.

Turn now to the kernels themselves which are liable to be found in seed wheat. Here, too, are differences so well marked that the two species of wheat may be readily distinguished from each other. Place a grain of wheat and a grain of spelt on the table, side by side, the groove side down. It is noted at once that the upper side of the wheat kernel presents an irregular broken contour while that of the spelt is fairly even curve from one end to the other. Next the germ of the wheat is sunken and broadly oval while the germ of the spelt is narrower, elliptical and elevated to form part of the somewhat regular curve of the back of the kernel. The wheat kernel is relatively broad, short and blunt, while the kernel of the spelt is longer, relatively narrower and drawn out to more of a point at each end.

Sick Headache

When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain.

This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting.

This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc.

Alay this stormy, irritated, sick condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves—not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloral, cocaine or similar drugs.

"Sick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or so at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they relieved me almost immediately. Since then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once."

LAW URGED BY SELF-SEEKERS.

Real Animus of Movement Against Remedies Deservedly Popular.

An adroit but plausible scheme by which it is hoped to prejudice the sale of proprietary medicines is the proposition to prohibit the sale of any remedy which "contains poison" unless each package or bottle is expressly labeled "Poison." Such bills are also well designed to impose upon men who have no familiarity with the subject matter. The pretense of protecting the public health put forth in support of such bills is generally the merest subterfuge; and whenever you hear a demand for a law of this kind it originates with those who have a direct pecuniary interest to serve by destroying the sale of proprietary remedies.

Some of the best and most widely used remedies in the world contain some one ingredient which, if taken in sufficient quantities, might be poisonous, and yet the preparation as a whole is not poisonous at all. Opium, for instance, is used in small quantities in many of the best cures for coughs, colic, diarrhea, etc., in tooth-ache drops and in almost all liniments. To require such medicines to be falsely labeled "poison" would be merely a cunning device to alarm the public and thus bring about the destruction of the sale of those remedies, and indirectly to compel people to procure the medicine they want by the more expensive method of consulting a physician and getting his prescription. In other words, it is an effort to prevent them from getting cheaply the remedies which they and their fathers before them have used for many years.—Medical exchange.

KEEP OUT OF RUTS

NARROWMINDED PERSON NEVER IS POPULAR.

At Least Have Some Form of Diversified Interest on Which You Can Converse With a Friend—Mistakes of Some Women.

Do you live in a rut? Women are very apt to do so, although the majority of them are loth to admit it. Narrowmindedness, which is so often a result of a life spent within contracted limits, is common to women, they say, but the accused will answer, "Why, my life is not narrow! I have my house, or my profession, or my social circle. Do you call that living in a rut?"

Any or all of these interests may, however, result in stagnation, mentally and physically, and, what is worse, conversationally. Either a woman or a man is at liberty to devote all of his or her interest to a certain object. But what about the friends of that person? One may have a sympathetic interest in a friend's occupation or in her children, or in her bridge playing, but one occasionally becomes a little wearied of a repetition, a constant recurrence to that pet subject of the innocent but shortsighted woman who harps eternally upon one subject. She devotes her mind and energies to that subject to the exclusion of all others. She dreams of it; she ponders over it, and only too readily she reverts to it so constantly that her friends at last wish themselves miles away.

A schoolgirl is apt to be blamed because her conversation is limited to her school—her friends there and her studies and pleasures, which are shadowed by the walls of the schoolhouse. But is her mother free from blame when she herself finds a continual source of conversation in her servants and her household gods? Does it interest her friends any more to discuss the children's bright sayings, to praise her waitress' neatness and her cook's superiority, than to listen to a schoolgirl's prattle?

The society devotee is quite as apt to overdo the matter as her more domestic sister, and the woman with a profession talks "shop" entirely too much as a rule.

But she should not allow herself to dwell entirely upon one phase of life. There is plenty of interest in other people's affairs, there are gay and absorbing pictures in the vista of daily life, and every woman should watch herself carefully lest she fall into a rut of one sort or another. It is surprising to find how readily the habit is formed—more readily, of course, by women than by men, as the latter are thrown more into the world's happenings.

A woman should ever beware of making herself the central subject of her talk—her home, her profession, her health, how naturally she comes to consider them. And it is quite natural that she should. But before she burdens her friends too much with her history let her stop and wonder whether she would like to listen to her friend Mrs. X. and her personal troubles or her sewing society problems for hours at a stretch.

It is not meant by this that one should not speak of or ask sympathy in one's own interests, but there is a limit to patience, and if a woman must have a "hobby" she should not expect her friends to ride it constantly, too.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Dividing Up the Honeymoon.
Charles Felton Pidgeon, the statistician of Massachusetts, is studying the question of race suicide.

"It is a wonder," Mr. Pidgeon said the other day, "that we hear nothing of race suicide in Scotland. The Scotch are a prosaic people. The French, on the other hand, are as romantic as a poet. Yet it is the French and not the Scotch who are permitting the race to die out. The opposite is what we might expect. For the Scotch find little of glamor, even in the honeymoon. I knew in Roxbury when I lived there a Scotch tobaccoist who got married. Meeting him a few days after the wedding I said: 'Why, Donald, I thought you were away on your honeymoon?'"

"Well, so we are," the simple young fellow answered. "Mary is down at Cousin Tam's for a week, and I'm going to take a week when she comes back."

Twilight Hour.
The sunlight on a waveless sea—The folded flower, the mist-crowned tree, Proclaim the gathering twilight.

It is the hour when passion bows; A solemn stillness round us lingers; And on our wildly throbbing brows We feel the touch of angel fingers.

It is the hour when lovers fondle; The drape with fair hopes life's dream beyond; Gay garlands for the future wreathing.

It is the hour when in far land The wanderer, tired of ceaseless roaming, Longs for the clasp of kindred hand, And in the dear home enwrapment in gloaming.

It is the hour when mankind hears, Amid earth's mingled moans and laughter, Chords which will swell when unborn years Are buried in the great hereafter.—Unidentified.

New Use for Flypaper.
Iris is the poetic name of a fluffy Angora cat which has a bad habit of running away. Little Betty, who has a proprietary interest in the animal, greeted her mother the other day with startling news.

"Irit tried to run away," she said, "and the wath bad and wouldn't mind, and I thicked Irit to the flypaper tho the couldn't get away."

HEALTHY CHILDREN.

Without good health life is not worth living. Sickly, peevish children are a source of endless trouble and anxiety to their parents, yet the children's condition is frequently due to their parents' ignorance or thoughtlessness, or both.

To make children healthy and to keep them in that condition it is necessary to feed them proper food and to see that they get plenty of exercise and fresh air. Meat is very bad for children. It should be avoided and food rich in phosphates, such as Pillsbury's Vitos, should be given in its place.

This food is truly the "meat of the wheat." It is made by the world's greatest millers and it is free from artificial coloring or adulteration. It is not especially a child's food. Your whole family will enjoy this common sense cereal. It makes a wholesome, substantial breakfast or an appetizing dessert and can be prepared in one hundred different ways.

Every good grocer will supply you with Pillsbury's Vitos. Large package—enough to make twelve pounds of strength-building food 15c. Ask your grocer about it to-day.

ECZEMA FOR TWO YEARS.

Little Girl's Awful Suffering With Terrible Skin Humor—Sleepless Nights for Mother—Speedy Cure by Cuticura.

"My little girl had been suffering for two years from eczema, and during that time I could not get a night's sleep, as her ailment was very severe. I had tried so many remedies, deriving no benefit, I had given up all hope. But as a last resort I was persuaded to try Cuticura, and one box of the Ointment and two bottles of the Resolvent, together with the Soap, effected a permanent cure.—Mrs. I. B. Jones, Addington, Ind. T."

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from ovarian or womb trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation, she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for ovarian or womb operations!

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations. Margrite Ryan, Treasurer of St. Andrews' Society, Hotel English, Indianapolis, Ind., writes of her cure as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham— "I cannot find words to express my thanks for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me. The doctor said I could not get well unless I had an operation for ovarian and female troubles. I knew I could not stand the strain of an operation and made up my mind I would be an invalid for life. Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been curing the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, leucorrhoea, irregularities, indigestion and nervous prostration. Any woman who could read the many grateful letters on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office would be convinced of the efficiency of her advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The lodge room where the supper was served was decorated with autumn leaves, jack-o'-lanterns and a large "ghost" occupied one corner of the room. The tables were trimmed with chrysanthemums and pansies. The receipts were $20.50.

As a result of the visit of Dr. Bruske, president of Alma college, at the Presbyterian church last Sunday, a scholarship for Alma college has been raised by the local Presbyterian society. The scholarship will be awarded to a member of the senior class of the high school for this school year. It has not been decided for what merits the scholarship will be awarded.

Hunters are very numerous in this section now and complaint is coming in from all sides of trespassing. Farmers complain that some men and boys leave gates open and let down fences, while their dogs worry the sheep and cattle, and cause considerable annoyance and extra labor. Many farmers raise no objections to persons hunting on their premises so long as nothing is molested, but carelessness on the part of hunters causes the owners annoyance and hard work, and it is hardly a fair deal, to say the least. "No trespassing" signs are becoming quite numerous throughout this section through the abuse of a privilege freely granted in former years by most every farmer—that of hunting on his premises—and thus depriving every lover of the sport of the privilege.

A GOOD WIDE YAWN.

It is a Splendid Reviver For the Whole Body.

A good, wide, open mouthed yawn is a splendid thing for the whole body. A yawn is nature's demand for rest. Some people think they only yawn because they are sleepy, but this is not so. You yawn because you are tired. You may be sleepy also, but that is not the real cause of your yawning. You are sleepy because you are tired, and you yawn because you are tired.

Whenever you feel like yawning just yawn. Don't try to suppress it because you think it is impolite to yawn. Put your hand over your mouth if you want to, but let the yawn come. And if you are where you can stretch at the same time that you yawn just stretch and yawn. This is nature's way of stretching and relaxing the muscles.

Don't be afraid to open your mouth wide and yawn and stretch whenever you feel like it. Indeed, if you are very tired, but do not feel like yawning, there is nothing that will rest you so quickly as to sit on a straight back chair, and, lifting your feet from the floor, push them out in front of you as far as possible, stretch the arms, put the head back, open the mouth wide and make yourself yawn.

Those tense nerves will relax, the contracted muscles will stretch and the whole body will be rested. Do this two or three times when you are tired and see what it will do for you.

DURER AND LEONARDO.

Explanation of the Differences Between Their Work as Painters.

Durer was born a German, Leonardo an Italian. This sums up much of the difference between their work as painters. The Italian race, under its sunny skies, has an inborn love of beauty. The German, in a sterner climate—"How I shall freeze after this sun!" wrote Durer, during his stay in Italy, to a friend in Nuremberg—retains to this day the energy that carved its way through the vast forests of his country and some of the gloomy romance that haunted their dark shadows. The German spirit is characterized by a "combination of the wild and rugged with the homely and tender, by meditative depth, enigmatic gloom, sincerity and energy, by iron diligence and discipline." Very remarkable qualities these, and to be found in Durer's work, which is the reason that we describe him as being so representative of the Teutonic race.

But it was not only the difference of race that helped to mold the genius of these two men differently. Each was a manifestation of the "new birth" of art and learning that was spreading over Europe—Leonardo of the form of it which appeared in Italy and Durer of that which prevailed in Germany.—St. Nicholas.

Monarch
The Stay Satisfactory Range

Why We Are Selling Monarch Malleable Ranges

We believe in giving our customers the best possible value for their money. This has been our policy all through our long experience in the stove business, and we think that at last we have secured an article that exactly fills all the requirements of a good range and yet may be bought at a reasonable price.

We Mean the Monarch Malleable Range

This stove is manufactured by a concern which makes a specialty of cooking ranges only. They make nothing else. Naturally this concentration of effort results in a range which in our opinion is the acme of perfection. We are fully convinced it will give you the best satisfaction of any on the market to-day.

And now we want to convince YOU. We invite you to call and allow us to demonstrate the claims made for the Monarch Malleable Range. We want to show how carefully the top of the stove is riveted to the frame, and braced with angles—preventing any buckling at the joints, or "air-leaks;" how strong and tough the Malleable Iron top and lids are, insuring safety against cracking or warping.

We want you to see our salesman stand on the oven door, thus actually proving the strength of construction. Let us explain to you the working of the drafts, which will help to cut down your fuel bill. You will notice the airtight chamber beneath the fire-box, which gives perfect control of the fire, the ratchet draft door permitting excellent regulation.

Malleable Iron lasts a life-time. It's very nature enables it to stand three times the abuse of gray iron, without warping.

We shall be pleased to show you all the advantages of the wonderful Range at our store.

EHLERS & NIQUE,

SHABBONA, MICH.

Don't Buy Unknown Quality.

When you buy a wind mill you should buy one that will last and do good work as long as you live. We sell the and they've been made and sold ever since 1866, and the mills made and sold the first year are running yet, and doing good work.

Come in and see us, and let's have a plain, common sense talk about mills. We won't exaggerate and we won't urge you to buy if you're not ready, but we want to show you the best wind mill made.

THE MISSING MAN

By MARY R. P. HATCH
Author of "The Bank Tragedy"

Copyright, 1892, by Lee and Shepard

CHAPTER XXI.

The Test.

A stillness so tense as to be almost painful succeeded the plaintiff's words, and the summons to admit the defendant while the plaintiff passed him on his way to the seclusion of the office.

Mr. Hamilton, for such he was, undoubtedly, whether the true or false claimant, was deeply moved, as was apparent to all when he stood in the witness-box before them all. His face was pallid, his eyes were gleaming, his hands were tightly clenched.

All glances were riveted upon him with astonishment as he said in a strange tone, not waiting to be questioned at all:

"I will go to get it. I will go to get it."

Twice he said it, and then stood looking at vacancy rather than at the judge.

The judge directed that the counsel for both parties and the juryman attend the defendant to his destination, if not too distant, and see the search take place. Meanwhile the court would adjourn until one o'clock. And His Honor went to dinner. The sheriff followed the thirteen, who filed down the street toward the bank building, no doubt the place to which the defendant was leading them. Tall, erect, impassive, he passed on as in a dream, never hesitating, never speaking, neither looking to the right nor to the left.

Thus he led them to the bank and up the steps. Pushing open the door, Mr. Morley explained their errand to the cashier.

"It is in the vault, the safe, the small drawer," said the defendant, and the cashier successively opened each receptacle except the drawer.

"I have no key to that," he said. "I have never been able to find it. The directors told me nothing was ever kept in it, because it was not accounted a safe receptacle, being poorly constructed."

"For my wife. Give it to her," and then fell prone upon the floor.

At this moment Tony Osborn came forward with a key. "I found it not long ago," he explained, "under the corner of the safe."

"Try it," said Mr. Morley, but the cashier handed it to the defendant, who inserted it in the lock.

The juryman crowded forward to see what was in the drawer. Nothing, evidently, but a piece of tissue paper, unless that paper contained the diamond stud.

It did.

A flash, a gleam, and the defendant thrust it into the hands of Mr. Morley, instead of his own counsel's.

"For my wife. Give it to her," and then he fell prone on the floor.

Had he fainted? Was it a fit?

The doctor was called and pronounced it the last, but he soon revived and was in a short time apparently as well as ever. He attended the afternoon session of court, and was the center of curious interest to all. Indeed, it was generally admitted that he had triumphed by leading the juryman straight to the hiding place, though it could not be denied that the other claimant had indicated the place just as surely by his words. Strange that both should know what was a secret except to one of them and to Mrs. Hamilton! She seemed dazed by the circumstances, while a hopeless, dejected look settled over her countenance.

Tony Osborn's testimony was taken in the afternoon, and told against the defendant, since it was plainly made evident that he had distrusted him from the first.

"Mr. Osborn," said Mr. Morley, "have you any reason for believing that the claimant is not the true Vane Hamilton?"

"None, sir, except the color of his hair. He has stood every test I have applied to him. He knows all about the affairs that took place at the bank when we were there together; he seems to be the true Vane Hamilton as I knew him."

Two witnesses testified that Solomon Marks had been seen by them near the mill on the day before the shooting of the plaintiff, and that he appeared to wish to avoid recognition.

Next, several citizens of Grovedale were examined, and they testified that they believed the plaintiff to be Vane Hamilton, for he had told them of many instances known only to himself and them, that he seemed familiar with all their past lives, while the other claimant did not. The testimony of these witnesses was very strong, and upon it the plaintiff's counsel relied much for the success of the case.

The last witness to be called was a man from Valparaiso, who testified to the fact that Ashley was known to him, and that he recognized the defendant as the man. The plaintiff he had never seen but once before. He stated that he had been engaged in various nefarious undertakings with Ashley, who he knew to have been in Boston at the very date when the altered note was presented at the bank. That since then he had been converted under the auspices of the Salvation Army, and had seen in a newspaper the advertisement inserted by the plaintiff's counsel for information regarding the suit, and he had answered it in person.

When he left the witness-stand and the case closed for the plaintiff, there were many among the audience, and among the juryman, too, if their faces did not belie their minds, who were more than half persuaded of the claims of the plaintiff.

Next day Mr. Ferguson spoke for upwards of an hour in an easy, graceful manner natural to him, and his outline of the case held the enrapt attention of every person in the court room that morning. There was little of labored argument, but starting with the supposition that his client was suffering a fraudulent attempt at ejection from his own premises, he proceeded to put the matter before the juryman in this light. He said in substance something like the following:

"My client, who is none other than the true Vane Hamilton—as you can see for yourself, his looks fully corroborating my statement—returns after an absence of many months to his home. He has been in the habit of taking his yearly outings in May, as he is inclined to bilious difficulties and in the place of another, and to base this they are compelled to set up the absurd story of the twin brother. There is no twin brother, for he died in infancy.

"Ashley was visited next morning in jail by his wife. He denied that she was his wife, and she did not contradict him until afterward. Then she said that she was his wife. Ashley got clear on the plea of being insane, and was sent to the asylum. From there he escaped, was supposed to have been drowned, worked awhile at a mill, and then came to Grovedale, where he got employment in the mill here. He gave his name as Primus Edes, said he was never married, could not write; indeed, he appeared to be very illiterate. He worked as a common hand at the mill until he chanced to meet Mrs. Hamilton at church and fell violently in love with her.

"He began to persecute her with attentions, and finally won her interest by finding her little boy who wandered away to the woods and got lost. Mrs. Hamilton made him sundry presents and professed to think he resembled her husband. Ashley, alias Edes, began to learn to write, and learned astonishingly fast, writing the name Constance over and over again. He purchased a violin and began to play. Ashley was a fine player, as we shall prove, and he was also well educated. Mr. Hamilton could not play at all. Neither was he an ingenious workman. Ashley was. Mrs. Hamilton put on mourning and had a monument made to erect to the memory of her husband. She often opened her window to listen to the strains of the violin played by Primus Edes as she knew him.

"Then Mr. Hamilton returned with a straightforward story of loss of memory as the reason for his detention from home, and, very honorably, settled up the bank troubles, as he said he could not absolutely affirm that he had not done what was alleged of him, for he knew nothing of his acts after he left Grovedale on the fifteenth of May. Mr. Carter and his children received him with open arms. Not so his wife. Mr. Hamilton took up his place in the mill and in the community, unchallenged by a soul except his wife. Reports were brought to him of her affection for the man known as Edes, but he paid no attention to them, except to call him to the office and warn him against being seen on his premises.

"In about a week afterwards Edes was shot there by some one unknown, probably by Edes himself, to awaken suspicion against Mr. Hamilton. He was ill for three or four weeks afterwards, and when he was partially recovered he professed to recollect that he was Hamilton instead of Edes. Mrs. Hamilton professed to believe his statement, or at least did not deny his claims. Proof would be offered that before his illness she wrote him a letter, calling him her dear husband, and signing herself Calla Lily, as she sometimes did in her letters to her friends, it being a pet name applied to her fair, stately beauty when a school girl.

A New Definition.

Former Mayor Patrick Collins of Boston told this one as the Irish cab driver had narrated it to him in Dublin. Cabby took "a fare" out into the country one night. The gentleman paid him well, and told him to "look under the seat."

There cabby found a quart bottle of pure Irish whiskey, and he sampled it immediately. He also gave some to the horse, who seemed to like it. Telling the story cabby said:

"'After I'd been givin' av th' baste on'y four or folve dhrinks he got gay; he did. Th' first thing Oi knowed Oi wor in th' shafts pullin' th' keb, an' th' baste wor up in th' sate lashin' me wid th' whipl, makin' me pull hard an' dance."

"Well, what was the result?" inquired Mr. Collins.

"Oi've niver give th' baste another drop fr'm that day till this."

"Yes, but what was the result that night? You were drunk, of course."

"Oi wor not drunk, at all at all."

"Were you entirely sober?"

"No, Oi'll not lie about it. Oi wor not intirely sober."

"If neither drunk nor sober, what was your condition?"

"Oi wor on th' defensive"—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Opera in Arkansas.

"See you had a comic opera here night before last," said the patent churn man, who had just come to town on one of his periodical visits.

"How was it? I notice the bills promised a great scenic production, and all that."

"Ps-s-sst! Come here!" hissed the landlord of the tavern at Polkville, Ark. Hooking a forefinger through a buttonhole in his guest's raiment, he led the astonished man off from the porch, out across the yard and around behind the smokehouse. "Ps-s-sst! That's what they called it, on paper—a scenic production—but my wife (she ain't anywhere around within hearin') said—'you know how women are, that-away, especially the best but kind o' skinny ones; wife, when she seen the chorus in tight's—well, from the way she acted then and what she's said to me 'most ever since, I sorter surmise that she considered it an obscene production.'—San Francisco Call.

LIVE BITTER LIVES

UNHAPPY EXILES WHO HAVE BETRAYED TRUSTS.

City of Honduras Has Colony of Ex-patriated Americans Living in Luxury Yet Haunted by the Knowledge of Their Disgrace—Afraid to Die.

In Tegucigalpa, a city in the Central American Republic of Honduras, there is a club of some 100 men who are known as the Non-suicides. They belong to this club because they should have killed themselves by all rules of shame, and did not have the nerve to put the finishing touches to their careers.

By the Pinkertons, who are perfectly acquainted with the members of this organization, it is called the Defaulter's club. Every member of it has at some time betrayed a financial trust, and every state in the Union is represented on its roll and most of the large cities. Ex-bank presidents, county treasurers, brokers, agents, municipal officers—all of the ex-respectabilities are there, and the life is a very bitter one, in spite of the money the wine and the gayety.

Among those who move and have their being as members of this club is W. R. Vice—Billy, as he was known when he was agent in San Francisco of the Union Pacific. Billy stole $8,000 and decamped with it in April, 1903. Then there's its last accession, Allan Howard, the broker, who left his wife and all the friends who trusted him and fled with $60,000 only a month ago.

Texas is represented by Seth Tracy, who left Houston with $50,000; New York is honored by having the former mayor of Little Falls there; there's G. H. Tripp of Hartford, rated in the Bradstreet of crookedness as worth $50,000; Frank H. Brown of Kentucky, is there with $280,000 of a bank's money; F. E. Webb, a famous bank forger, is also there, and the list would go down to the lowest criminal or the most insignificant, weak and foolish man whom a moment's temptation had flung into the fear of punishment and exile.

Money enough, of course, there is. These men who have slipped away on night trains and fruit steamers did not go empty-handed. A tropical climate does not necessitate much expense, servants are cheap, and all these creatures of passion and avarice and sin live in a sort of luxury that makes honest folk occasionally give voice to envy. But the judgment of those who know Honduras and know this colony is, after all, the truest. "Billy" Vice and Seth Tracy and the rest may lounge on the veranda of their clubhouse, Vice in the uniform of the chief of police. Servants may wait on them, and fine wines and choice cigars may make the hours pleasant. But those who know the inside shrug their shoulders and pass on with the assertion that these are all men "afraid to die."

Once in a while they do die—sometimes very suddenly and not according to Hoyle. But usually a man once there with his stealings simply keeps out of the sun, drinks his liquor and plays his games and goes by himself only when he has to.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Book of Memory.
My grandma has a curious book she often lets me see. When at the dusk I leave my play to sit upon her knee, I cannot touch the book at all, but shut my eyes up tight. While grandma tells the pictures, and I see them clear and bright.

I see the dear old farmhouse, where my grandma used to play. The barn, with all the cattle and the fragrant mows of hay. The pet that grandma used to have, and all her queer old toys, And the little country schoolhouse, full of merry girls and boys.

And there are other pictures, too, which make my grandma sigh. She says I must not see them now, but wait till by and by. But though she thinks they're far too sad to show to little me, She's sure they all look brighter when I'm sitting on her knee.

My grandma says I'm making now a book to be my own. And that I'll often look at it and smile, when I'm grown; And then I'm sure the picture that I'll like the best to see Will be myself a-sitting in the dusk on grandma's knee!—Hannah G. Fernald.

Trouble Over Sunday Observance.
London had its troubles with Sunday closing laws when, in 1855, there were riots caused by Lord Robert Grosvenor's bill to put down Sunday trading. A crowd hostile to the measure went to Hyde Park "to see how the aristocrats kept the Sabbath," as a newspaper of that time put it. Carriages taking the afternoon drive were greeted with yells of "Go to church!" and with hooting that scared many horses into running away. A week later the police prohibited a meeting that was announced, but tens of thousands of people appeared, and there were vigorous struggles with the police. On the third Sunday pure rowdism supervened; footmen were assaulted and windows were smashed wholesale through the aristocratic districts. Then the trouble died out, and so did the bill.

Pitched too High for the Choir.
A good many years ago, before the late Dan W. Palmer moved from Georgetown to East Boston, he was a choir member and played a musical instrument in the church at the former place. Some weeks after his removal the tenor singer of his old choir came up to visit him. The first question Dan asked him was how matters went in the choir.

"They don't go worth a cent," was the reply. "The new leader we've got pitched the tunes so high that they couldn't play the bass on a fife."—Boston Herald.

THE NEW AND OLD IN ENGLAND.

Strange Mixtures to Which Visitors Must Get Accustomed.

I was never an enemy of the confusion of the old and new in Europe when Italy was all Europe to me, and now in England it was distinctly a pleasure. It is something we must accept, whether we like it or not, and we had better like it. The pride of the old custodian of the Exeter Guildhall in the coil of hot water pipes heating the ancient edifice was quite as acceptable as his pride in the thirteenth century carvings of the oaken door and the oak-paneled walls, the portraits of the Princess Henrietta and Gen. Monk, and the swords bestowed upon the faithful city by Edward IV. and Henry VII. I warmed my chilly hands about the medieval facts, and even fly to that uttermost antiquity when the Roman Praetorium stood where the Guildhall stands now. Still, I was not so warm all over but that I was glad to shun the indoors inclemency to which we must have returned in the hotel, and to prolong our stay in the milder air outside by going a drive beyond the city into the charming country.—W. D. Howells, in Harper's.

A Teacher's Testimony.

Hinton, Ky., Oct. 30th.—(Special.)—It has long been claimed that Diabetes is incurable, but Mr. E. J. Thompson, teacher in the Hinton school, has pleasing evidence to the contrary. Mr. Thompson had Diabetes. He took Dodd's Kidney Pills and is cured. In a statement he makes regarding the cure Mr. Thompson says:

"I was troubled with my kidneys for more than two years and was treated by two of the best doctors in this part of the state. They claimed I had Diabetes and there was little to be done for me. Then I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and what they did for me was wonderful. It is entirely owing to Dodd's Kidney Pills that I am now enjoying good health."

Many doctors still maintain that Diabetes is incurable. But Diabetes is a kidney disease and the kidney disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure has yet to be discovered.

River of Genuine Ink.

Algeria has a river of genuine ink, caused by the joining of two streams, one of which comes from an iron region, while the second stream flows from a peat swamp. On meeting, the acid of one stream blends with the iron solution of the other, and ink is the result.

When Nuns Powdered.

The custom of powdering the hair dates back as far as the sixteenth century, and was first introduced by the nuns in French convents. Those who had occasion to leave the cloisters for any reason were wont to powder their hair, so as to make it appear gray and give them a venerable look. The fashionable dames were so struck with the novel effect of white powder on dark hair that they soon appropriated the device as one of the arts of the worldly toilet. Out of this grew the use of tints in the hair. The Roman women often used blue powder, and later, in 1860, Empress Eugenie set the fashion of using gold powder.

English Woman Praises Sisters.

The Englishwoman may not unreasonably claim to be the best-looking woman in the world, says an English writer. Of course, she would not pretend for a moment that all the essentials of good looks are in her possession, but when she comes to think that the women of no other nation manage to give such general satisfaction as Englishwomen, they may, I think, confidently conclude that in them is combined the largest proportion of good looks, grace and fascination to be found in any daughter of Eve all the world over.

FUNNY

People Will Drink Coffee When It "Does Such Things."

"I began to use Postum because the old kind of coffee had so poisoned my whole system that I was on the point of breaking down, and the doctor warned me that I must quit it.

My chief ailment was nervousness and heart trouble. Any unexpected noise would cause me the most painful palpitation, make me faint and weak.

"I had heard of Postum and began to drink it when I left off the old coffee. It began to help me just as soon as the old effects of the other kind of coffee passed away. It did not stimulate me for a while, and then leave me weak and nervous as coffee used to do. Instead of that it built up my strength and supplied a constant vigor to my system which I can always rely on. It enables me to do the biggest kind of a day's work without getting tired. All the heart trouble, etc., has passed away.

"I give it freely to all my children, from the youngest to the oldest, and it keeps them all healthy and hearty." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

You Have No Right to Suffer

From Constipation, Bowel and Stomach Trouble.

Q. What is the beginning of sickness?
A. Constipation.
Q. What is Constipation?
A. Failure of the bowels to carry off the waste matter which lies in the alimentary canal where it decays and poisons the entire system. Eventually the results are death under the name of some other disease. Note the deaths from typhoid fever and appendicitis, stomach and bowel trouble at the present time.

Q. What causes Constipation?
A. Neglect to respond to the call of nature promptly. Lack of exercise. Excessive brain work. Mental emotion and improper diet.
Q. What are the results of neglected Constipation?
A. Constipation causes more suffering than any other disease. It causes rheumatism, colds, fevers, stomach, bowel, kidney, lung and heart troubles, etc. It is the one disease that starts all others. Indigestion, dyspepsia, diarrhea, loss of sleep and strength are its symptoms—piles, appendicitis and fistula are caused by Constipation. Its consequences are known to all physicians, but few sufferers realize their condition until it is too late. Women become confirmed invalids as a result of Constipation.

Q. Do physicians recognize this?
A. Yes. "The first question your doctor asks you is 'are you constipated?' That is the secret.
Q. Can't be cured?
A. Yes, with proper treatment. The common error is to resort to physics, such as pills, salts, mineral water, castor oil, injections, etc., every one of which is injurious. They weaken and increase the malady. You know this by your own experience.

Q. What then should be done to cure it?
A. Get a bottle of Mull's Grape Tonic at once. Mull's Grape Tonic will positively cure Constipation and Stomach Trouble in the shortest space of time. No other remedy has before been known to cure Constipation positively and permanently.

Q. What is Mull's Grape Tonic?
A. It is a Compound with 40 per cent of the juice of Concord Grapes. It exerts a peculiar strengthening influence upon the system, so that they can do their work unaided. The process is gradual but sure. It is not a physic, but it cures Constipation, Dysentery, Stomach and Bowel Trouble. Having a rich, fruity grape flavor, it is pleasant to take. As a tonic it is unsurpassed. It builds up the system against disease. It strengthens and builds up waste tissue.

Q. Where can Mull's Grape Tonic be had?
A. Your druggist sells it. The dollar bottle contains nearly three times the 50-cent size.
Good for Ailing Children and Nursing Mothers.
A free bottle to all who have never used it because we know it will cure you.

Trees in Berlin.
Three hundred streets in Berlin are planted with 44,000 trees, which represent a value of $200,000. The care of the municipal parks and gardens requires 250 gardeners and 700 assistants, male and female, principally the latter.

PARALYSIS CURED

Case Seemed Hopeless but Yielded to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mr. Kenney has actually escaped from the paralytic's fate to which he seemed a short time ago hopelessly doomed. The surprising report has been fully verified and some important details secured in a personal interview with the recent sufferer.

"The doctor," said Mr. Kenney, "told me that if I wanted to live any length of time I would have to give up work altogether, and he told my friends that the paralysis which had begun would in time involve my whole body."

"Just how were you afflicted at this time?" Mr. Kenney was asked.

"Well, I had first hot, and then cold and clammy feelings, and at times my body felt as if needles were being stuck into it. These sensations were followed by terrible pains, and again I would have no feeling at all, but a numbness would come over me, and I would not be able to move. The most agonizing tortures came from headaches and a pain in the spine."

"Night after night I could not get my natural sleep and my system was wrecked by the strain of torturing pains and the effect of the opiates I was forced to take to induce sleep. As I look back on the terrible suffering I endured during this period I often wonder how I retained my reason through it all."

"But relief came quickly when I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The very first box seemed to help me, and seven boxes made me entirely well. There can be no doubt about the thoroughness of my cure, for I have worked steadily ever since and that is nearly four years."

Mr. Kenney is at present employed by the Merriman Hat Company and resides at 101 Aubin street, Amesbury, Mass. The remedy which he used with such satisfactory results, is sold by druggists, or direct by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.
