

A well known lawyer started for his north side home about dusk one evening last week. He thought he needed exercise, so he concluded to walk over. He had with him a ladies' work basket, fixed upon a high standard, and this he was carrying home to his wife. He struck Dearborn avenue and hastened north at a rapid gait. He was looking straight ahead, and after he had gone a few blocks he noticed a stylishly dressed lady alight from a handsome equipage and run hurriedly up the steps of a house. He thought he noticed her drop something, and when he reached the sidewalk in front of the house where the carriage had stood he looked down and discovered a fat purse. Picking it up he stepped up the steps and rang the door bell, the lady having been admitted before he came up. His ring was answered in a moment by a neat maid, whom he asked if the lady of the house was in. The lady evidently heard the question, as she stepped at once to the door. He was about to return the pocketbook she had dropped, when she noticed the basket in his hand and blurted out: "No, we don't want anything." Then she slammed the door in his face. He wanted to explain, but it wounded his pride to be taken for a peddler, and he tucked the pocketbook in his pocket and proceeded on his way home. On his way down town in the morning the gentleman stopped again at the lady's house to return the pocketbook. His wife had not been satisfied with the workbasket he had brought home with him, and he carried it along to exchange for another. It happened that when he rang the bell of the house, the number of which he had carefully noted the day before, the lady herself was in the hall. She hastened to the door and when she saw the man and the basket again she petulantly exclaimed, "I told you last night, sir, that we wanted nothing," and for the second time she slammed the door in his countenance. This made him hot. When he reached his office he put the pocketbook in a sealed envelope and tucked it away in his safe. For a whole week afterward the lady advertised in all of the papers for her lost wealth. At last the lawyer addressed her a note, asking her to call at his office. When she came he sat her down, explained all the circumstances to her, and then handed over her pocketbook. It contained $951. Now it is a safe bet that when a man who looks like a canvasser rings her door bell she will search her pockets before she turns him away.—Chicago Herald.

Notice of Election.

Notice is hereby given to the electors of the township of Elkland, in the county of Tuscola and state of Michigan: The next ensuing township election will be held on Monday, of April 23rd, being the 1st day of said month, at the Town hall in said township, at which election the following officers are to be chosen, to wit: Thomas R. Sherwood, whose term of office will expire December 31st, 1889, also two Regents of the University in place of Charles S. Draper and Austin Blair, whose term of office will expire December 31st, 1889.

Also an Amendment to section 6 of article 6, relative to Circuit Courts, provided for by joint Resolution No. 1, of the Legislature of Michigan, which shall divide the State into judicial circuits, in each of which the electors shall elect one circuit judge, who shall hold his office for the term of six years, and his successor is elected and qualified. The Legislature may provide for the election of more than one circuit judge in the judicial circuit in which the city of Detroit is or may be situated, and in the judicial circuit in which the county of Saginaw is or may be situated, and in the judicial circuit in which the county of Kent is or may be situated, and the circuit judge or judges of said circuits, in addition to the salary provided by this constitution, shall receive from their respective counties such additional salary as may from time to time be fixed and determined by the board of supervisors of said counties. And the board of supervisors of each county in the Upper Peninsula is hereby authorized and empowered to give and pay to the circuit judge of the judicial circuit to which such county is attached, additional salary of compensation as may from time to time be fixed and determined by such board of supervisors. This section as amended, shall take effect from the time of its adoption.

Also an amendment to section 10, of article 15, relative to the duration of corporations, as provided for by joint resolution No. 3, laws of 1889: Section 1. The governor shall receive an annual salary of four thousand dollars; the judges of the circuit court shall each receive an annual salary of two thousand five hundred dollars; the state treasurer shall receive an annual salary of one thousand dollars; the superintendent of public instruction shall receive an annual salary of one thousand dollars; the secretary of state shall receive an annual salary of eight hundred dollars; the commissioner of the land office shall receive an annual salary of eight hundred dollars; the attorney general shall receive an annual salary of eight hundred dollars. They shall receive no fees or perquisites whatever for the performance of any duties connected with their offices, except as herein provided.

Also an amendment to section 10, of article 15, relative to the duration of corporations, as provided for by joint resolution No. 3, laws of 1889: Section 10. No corporation, except for municipal purposes, or for the construction of railroads, plank roads and canals, shall be created for a longer term than thirty years; but the legislature may provide by general law, applicable to any corporations, for one or more extensions of the term of such corporations while such term is running, not exceeding thirty years for each extension, on the consent of not less than a two-thirds majority of the capital of the corporation; and by like general laws for the corporate re-organization for a further period not exceeding thirty years, of such corporations whose terms have expired by limitation, on the consent of not less than four-fifths of the capital. Provided, That, in cases of corporations where there is no capital stock, the legislature may provide the manner in which such corporation may be organized. One Supervisor, one Township Clerk, one Township Treasurer, one School Inspector for two years, one Highway Commissioner, one Justice of the Peace for full term, one Justice of the Peace (to fill vacancy) term three years and four Constables. The polls of said election will be opened at eight o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as may be, and will be continued open until five o'clock in the afternoon, unless the board shall in their discretion adjourn the polls at 12 o'clock noon, for one hour. Dated, Elkland, this 13th day of March, 1889. DANIEL A. HOLMES, Township Clerk.

MOTIVES OF ALIENATED

WHY CHILDREN ARE SO OFTEN STOLEN FROM THEIR HOMES.

People Afflicted with a Mental Derangement Which Prompts Them to the Commission of the Crime—Celebrated Cases, Including That of Charley Ross.

Why are children stolen? Not many of them are kidnaped in the hope of pecuniary reward. Cases of this sort, such as the Charley Ross abduction, are rare.

NOT OFTEN FOR LOVE.

Even this theory falls short when we think of the numerous cases in which, without apparent motive, two or three persons unite to do the stealing.

That a child stolen by a partially insane person should be inhumanly treated is no cause for wonder; it naturally follows that any one with so distorted a sense of right and wrong, necessarily without a moiety of love or feeling, would not be capable of tenderness or even consideration.

In 1815 a child named Lambert was stolen from her parents in Baltimore by a young woman, apparently sane, purely because she wanted it to keep.

Of course, there are many cases when the abduction is due to abnormal love and yearning, pure and simple. A well known judge the other day said: "Last summer I sent my family to England. My little girl, 4 years old, being too young to stand the trip, was placed in the care of a friend of mine, whose family consists of a wife and one child.

NOT YET FORGOTTEN.

Any mention of child stealing always recalls the Charley Ross case. So celebrated was the affair that now, sixteen years after, it has not to a great degree faded out of the popular mind, though perhaps the details have.

Christian K. Ross lived in a handsome dwelling, isolated by a large yard, in Germantown, a Philadelphia suburb. One July afternoon all of the family happened to be absent save two young brothers, aged 4 and 8 years. They were playing together in the front street when two men drove up in a covered wagon.

A third conspirator was subsequently convicted of complicity and sentenced to a long term in prison, protesting his innocence and denying all knowledge of the affair. It is the popular theory that the abductors, at last finding themselves close pressed, murdered the child.

Three years before the disappearance of the Ross boy Freddie Leib, a pretty little child of 5 years, was stolen in about the same manner at Quincy, Ills. He was never recovered, although the father impoverished himself in the search.

One of the most mysterious cases of recent years was the stealing of Lillie Shaffner, a 14-months-old baby, in this city about five years ago. The family lived on Wesson street, and two older children were wheeling the baby to and fro in front of the house.
