For my part when such a thing occurrs, I can hardly hold myself down." Certainly good judgement and prudence, should dictate to the owners of poultry to take care of them and not bother their neighbors.

New York representatives of the P. O. & N. R. R. were in Pontiac last week in the interests of the proposed extension of the above road to Detroit. The southern extension scheme has certainly taken more definite form then mere "newspaper talk," and the work of actual construction may be looked forward to as a probable event of the near future. After this important undertaking has been accomplished the much-talked-of northern extension may be expected soon to follow. The Review of Reviews for May will be as strikingly original and individual in its character as any previous issue of this enterprising periodical. It strikes out into a fresh feld with Mr. Stead's magnificent character sketch of Freder-ick Selous, the great African traveler and hunter—the greatest Nimrod, in fact that this world has eyer produced. Mr. Stead makes a marvelously interesting chapter of exploits with lions, elephants and other large game in the heart of Africa, and also shows in his own pe-culiarly virile and fascinating way how vitally the work of a great hunter like Selous may associate itself with the adyance of civilization and with the enlightenment of the Dark Continent.

Not unfrequently, farmers and others driving into town stop their rigs on the crosswalks, while conversing with some-one, and thus oblige pedestrians to turn out and walk around their vehicles through the mud or dust. Such drivers display, their thoughtlessness or piggishness. A lawyer has the following to say on this point: "The crossings at say on this point: "The crossings at the street corners belong to pedestrians who have the right of way there by law, as against teams. Many drivers ignore the law and dash over the sidewalks, endangering lives and the limbs of the pedestrians, without thinking they are violating the law. No vehicle or horse can, within the law, be driven rapidly over the crossing, nor can the driver ob struct the crossing."

A few days ago Edward Reinheimer, of Saginaw, was tried and convicted before Justice Simoneau on a charge of threat-ening to harm Jacob Seligman. After listening to the arguments of counsel, Judge Edget ordered the defendant discharged from cusdo, and that when men are refused drink tody.

The following highly complimentary article, from the Eaton Rapids Journal, will be read with interest by Prof. T. A. Conlon's many acquaintances here:-The unanimous re-election of Prof. T. A. Conlon as superintendent of the schools for next year at an increased salary is a handsome recognition of his splendid work the current year. Never have the schools been more prosperous the teachers more harmonius and united the pupils more interested in their work than this year. In a large measure the credit for such results rests upon the superintendent. Prof. Conlon has a sympathetic way with pupils that wins their regard and, while not dictatorial in any degree, he has executive ability well calculated to produce the best results from a system of schools such as Eaton Rapids has. The schools are fortunate in his retention."

EDITOR ENTERPRISE: Will you kindly give me space in your paper in which to reply to the item which appeared in your issue of April 28, in Karr's Corners" correspondence? The telegram referred to for Mrs. Ward was received at 5:20 p. m. Tuesday, and did not reach its destination until the following morning, which was not my fault, as the party it was addressed to lived three miles in the country and the delivery charges were not guaranteed. I also think that if the person who wrote that item would read the W. U. Tel. Co's book of rules he would find out that its employes are not governed in their business by "Harper's Fifth Reader," and the next time he has a chance to "roast" the agent he may do so with some degree of intelligence. Yours truly, C. L. Morse, Agent. $25 Reward.

CHURCH TAXATION.

A DEMOCRATIC LEGISLATIVE CAUCUS AGAINST IT.

Prominent Detroit Church People Talk to the Committee in Opposition to the Bill-Rank Boodle Business in Detroit's Council.

Church Property Taxation.

The Democratic members of the degislature in joint caucus at Lansing adopted the following:

Resolved, That as Democrats we believe the proposed taxation of the property of churches, charitable and benovolent societies to be an undesirable innovation in the government of a Christian community opposed to the best interests of the state, tending to repress the purest impulses of humanity and to array moral forces against each other in the field of political action, and that we recommend the Democrats of the legislature to vote against the proposed measure.

The House committee on judiciary, which has the bill in hand, gave a mearing to Hon. S. M. Cutcheon, Rev. Dr. Brownson, Rev. Dr. Radcliffe, Rev. W. H. Shier, Rev. Dr. Plantz, Col. John Atkinson, J. L. Hudson, F. A. Baker and Rev. Dr. Dickie, all of Detroit, and all of whom opposed the measure as one which would injure Christian work and influence.

rested for Bribing an Alderman.

Manager of the Electric Light Co. Ar-

William H. Fitzgerald, the secretary and general manager of the Detroit Electric Light & Power company, has been arrested at Detroit, charged with bribing Alderman Charles Protiva. The meeting of the common council at which the matter became public was the most dramatic in the history of the city. Mayor Pingree himself asked to be heard. Drawing a roll of bills from his pocket he waved it aloft, charging that it had been given by Fitzgerald to Alderman Protiva in consideration of the latter's vote for a resolution which had been vetoed by the mayor.

At the same moment the secretary and manager of the Detroit Electric Light & Power company was sitting in the office of the superintendent of police under arrest. He denied all knowledge of the accusation and refused to talk for publication.

The prosecuting attorney, who has charge of the case, says that his evidence is conclusive and that there were several witnesses to the alleged fraudulent transaction.

Girls to Tramp to the World's Fair. Two pretty milliners of Muskegon will attempt to break all previous records in the line of traveling. They will leave Muskegon on June 11, and will walk the entire distance to the World's Fair city. Neither of the two will be allowed to accept any assistance from any one of the masculine persuasion. The walk will be one of 194 miles, and they have arranged to make it in 14 days. The younger of the two is a sketch artist, and many of the scenes they will see will be repro duced on canvas before the Windy City is reached. Preparations have been made to the smallest details, so that they shall not suffer from sun-shine or rain. The friends of the two girls are preparing to give them an ovation when they leave.

INCHAM CO. BANK CLOSED. Lansing Financial Institutions' Hard Luck

The Ingham County Savings bank at Lansing has closed. It is the bank which the run began on at the time of the two big failures in that city. At that time Bank Commissioner Sherwood made a speech, which calmed the excitement for some time, but it appears the trouble did not end there.

The closing of the bank is due to the inability of the officers to realize on some of the securities. The directors of the embarrassed bank met and discussed the situation. It became evident that the bank could not continue payments under the circumstances and the directors decided to close the doors until some satisfactory arrangement could be made. They attribute the present difficulty to the unsatisfactory condition of the money market quite as much as to the complications of the Barnes companies. The directors did not consult Bank Commissioner Sherwood about the closing and that official is very indignant, especially in view of the fact that his address to depositors stopped the previous run.

MICHIGAN BUILDING.

THE WOLVERINES' BUILDING DEDICATED.

The Building a Neat and Comfortable One ar I the Exhibits do Honor to the State-Gov. Rich Presented With the

The dedication of the Michigan building at the World's Fair was attended by a cold wind and a disagreeable rain which made the pine wood fires in the grates the rendezvous for the visitors before and after the ceremonies.

The gale from the north, the chill in the atmosphere, the dampness and the mud did not deter the Michigan people from attending the dedication of their building. Over 300 ladies and gentle-men from the state were in attendance and were most heartily welcomed by President Weston, Commissioners White Flynn and Belden and Secretary Ste-The commissioners were much complimented on the style and architecture of the building, and its interior arrangements. In comparison with the buildings of other states, it will stand the test of examination. There is probably not one on the grounds so well adapted to the uses of a general assembly home as is the Michigan building. A band of music from Lansing was in attendance and added by their excellent playing to the pleasures of the day.

The audience assembled in the main room of the building were called to order, and Commissioner White presented Commissioner Weston, president of the Michigan board of managers. President Weston made a very pretty speech in which he spoke of the de gradation of labor in ancient times and of the wonderful progress of the farmer and the workingman and of the progress of the world. International exhibits alone show at one view this constant improvement and modern progress made such expositions possible. This World's Fair is a gigantic cosmorama, illustrating the era of economics. Michigan now joins in the grand march of nations toward universal unity and peaceful fields, to be cultivated and harvested by the brotherhood of man under the blessings of a higher civil-

In conclusion President Weston said: 'Charged by the state to erect in Jackson Park, a suitable building to be used by the citizens of Michigan as a home and headquarters during their participation in the World's Columbian Exposition, the state World's Fair board has performed the work assigned and in its behalf I deliver to you, as the state's chief executive, this key to the completed edifice."
At this point Mr. Weston turned to

At this point Mr. Weston turned to Gov. Rich and presented him with a golden key to the building. The key had a large plate attached to it which contained the inscription, "Delivered to Gov. John T. Rich by I. M. Weston, president of the board of managers, April 29, 1893." The reverse side contained the names of the Michigan managers, a picture of the building and the coat of arms of the state.

Gov. Rich, in accepting the keys, said: "I think this tag is given to me so that the people of Michigan will not be locked out of this building during the next six months. Michigan is to take a very prominent part in this-the greatest and grandest exhibition that has ever been heard of. I do not think our state will be very far behind other states or even other countries in manufactures, and I know she will be near the front, if not at the very front, in her exhibits of fruits and minerals, while for forestry she cannot be beaten. It seems like extravagance to spend the amount of money necessary to erect such a building as this in view of the fact that it will stand here only a few short months, but then we have the assurance that we, as Michigan people, have a home here among the states and nations. It is quite likely that one in every ten of our citizeus will come to Chicago this summer, and it is fit and proper that they should have a home

A tribune of honor to the son of another country whose genius befriended us in time of sorest need constituted one of the formalities in the Columbian fetes at New York. While the Columbian fleet was slowly waking into life in the harbor in the early morning on shore the air was rent with the music of bands as preparations were being made to unveil the statue of Ericsson. The double turretted monitor Maintonomoh came up from the lower bay, anchored off the Battery and fired 21 guns when the statue was unveiled by Miss Frielanda Anderson. The statue was then delivered to the civic authorities by Secretary Ashley W. Cole and accepted on behalf of the city by President Paul Dana, of the park board. Colonel William C. Church made the

The Columbian Ball,

The Columbian ball at the Madison Square Garden in the evening, was in respect to magnificence of decoration and arrangement, and of the large number of world-famous guests present, the most splendid ever given in the new world. Besides the President and his advisers, the chief legislative body of the United States and a Spanish grandee, Duke de Veragua, who is a namesake and lineal descendant of Christopher Columbus, there were the diplomatic corps, the admirals and subordinate officers of every great naval power in the world, governors of neighboring states and famous army officers. It was, in fact, a gathering of celebrities so varied and so gloriously arrayed that the oldest and most traveled guest acknowledged that seldom or never had he seen a parallel to the gorgeous picture presented. A Magnificent Search Light Display, Inky darkness veiled the Columbian fleet by 8 o'clock and not a sound was heard from the anchored battleships. Suddenly a ray of light shot upwards from the Philadelphia. It was long, dazzling and seemed to pierce the sky. For a moment it remained stationary and then disappeared. That was the signal for the scheduled display of the electrical search lights with which the war vessels are provided. At times the projected rays were concentrated at certain spots on shore, then turned far up the Hudson, making objects plainly visible at a distance of five miles. Fol lowing came another signal, and simultaneously every light in the fleet was turned toward the zenith. Slowly the rays converged until they formed the apex of a brilliant silvery pyramid of incalculable height. Experts say it could have been seen 75 miles away in any direction. Having tried other remedies without success, I was led by an advertisement in the Sentinel-Democrat to try Hall's Catarrh Cure. THE WORLD'S FAIR MACHINERY BEGINS ITS LONG RUN.

The Address of President Cleveland and Director-General Davis-The Procession—The Button Pressed.

The Opening Program.

The first thing on the program for the opening of the World's Fair was to escort the Duke de Veragua from his hotel—the Auditorium—to President Cleveland's hotel—the Lexington where the procession was formed to proceed to the grounds.

The ducal party appeared before the committee of World's Fair dignitaries and local officials promptly on time.

COLUMBUS IN BRONZE.

The duke and his son were arrayed in the most gorgeous apparel, containing all the colors of the rainbow, with gold lace, gold buttons and gold trimmings everywhere. The duchess and her daughter were also very richly, but more quietly dressed. The party was escorted to the Lexington by a detachment of troopers from the Seventh Cavalry and the committee appointed for that purpose.

The duke and party were received by President Cleveland, and they were soon joined by Vice-President Stevenson and party. Meanwhile "the procession was forming into line, and promptly at the appointed time Maj. T. A. Baldwin gave the signal for the icanized Russian uniforms.

Twenty trumpeters heralded the approach of the Hussars, and bringing up the rear of the military division, was mounted Troop A, of the Illinois carriages was led by a vehicle containing National Commissioners P. The column moved along Michigan avenue and the grand boulevard to Fifty-first street, thence to South Park, by way of Bayard avenue to Palmer avenue, thence to the westerly entrance to Midway Plaisance. At this point Col. Rice, commanding the Columbian Guard, met the column and directed its march to Jackson Park, thence to the Administration building, vhere the column dispersed. In front of the administration build ing a large platform had been erected for the guests and participants in the program. Extending from the front of the platform there was a special stand for President Cleveland, Vice-President Stevenson, the Duke de Ver-agua and party, and a number of the more important national and local officers of the fair. Immediately in the rear were the sections assigned to the members of the diplomatic corps, while to the right and left the other officers and guests of the occasion were ar ranged. Behind these were placed the orchestra. In front of all, occupying the two wings on the right and left of the speakers' stand, was provision for some 300 representatives of the press. Between the platform and the audience before it, every nation and every tongue seemed to be represented to the honor and glory of the Colum bian exposition.

At 10 o'clock the foreign commission ers and members of the diplomatic corps, resplendent in gold lace, jewels and decorations, were escorted to the east end front of the platform amid rousing cheers. Fifty minutes later the head of the main procession emerged from under the big avenues of the administration building and slowly descended to the center extension of the ground and grand stand. Just as the President appeared in view of the audience the sun broke fully and squarely through the clouds and quickened the torrent of enthusiasm that welcomed the executive of the United States.

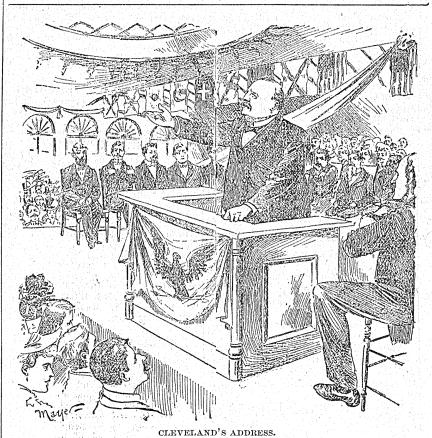

All was now in readiness for the in auguration of the exercises proper. It peen intended to preface the speech making with a grand chorus of 1,000 voices, but, owing to an oversight in drawing the plans of the platform this feature was eliminated and in its place was rendered a Columbian march composed for the occasion by Prof. John K. Paine. Theodore Thomas John K. Paine. wielded the baton, and 600 instruments responded to the wand of authority. As the music died away, the blind chaplain of the United States Senate, Rev. Dr. W. H. Milburn, was led for ward. Facing the throng with clasped hands and bowed head, he besought the blessing of the Almighty upon the proceedings of the day, and the enter-prise about to be inaugurated. Many of those about him joined in the "amen" with which the man of God concluded his invocation.

Miss Jennie Coutthoui, a Chicago reader and elocutionist of national reputation, was escorted to the speakers stand and in clear, impressive tones read the poem of the day. This was entitled "The Prophecy," and is the production of W. A. Croffut, a member of the journalistic profession at the national capital. Hearty applause rewarded the reader as she retired and it was renewed when, after the orchestra had rendered the "Rienzi" overture by Wagner Director-General Davis arose from his seat, and after bowing to the chief magistrate and those surrounding him, addressed the assemblage. In closing he said: "It is our hope that this great exposition may inaugurate a new era of moral and material progress, and our fervent aspirations that an association of the nations here may secure not only warmer and stronger friendships, but modern progress which is here presented for the encouragement of art, stant thought, our best energies, and now, in this central city of the great republic on the continent discovered by Columbus, it only remains for you, Mr. President, if in your opinion the exposition here presented is commen-surate in dignity with what the world should expect of our great country, to direct that it shall be opened to the public, and when you touch this magic key, the ponderous machinery will start in its revolutions and the activities of this exposition will begin."

THE CURRENT'S WORK.

President Cleveland Touched the Button and the Wheels Turned.

All that preceded had been tending all that preceded had been tending up to the culmination which was reached, when, with the last word his speech, President Cleveland reached forth his arm and pressed down his forefinger upon the button of the golden electric key. At that instant the dull rumbling of machinery came out to the ears of the thousands of neonle from machinery hall. Those of people from machinery hall. Those who could see the pressing of the key heard the results as the distant engines received the steam, and, reaching out their ponderous arms, applied their power to a network of belting and wheels which were thus set in motion. The man at the base of the center flagstaff quickly released the American banner which floated away to the southeast, while up upon the corner flagstaffs the banners that bore the arms of Castile and of Aragon were pulled aloft. Water gushed to the great fountains and sprang aloft in showers of spume. From every flag-staff and tower broke forth a fluttering bannerette. The revenue cutter opened its whistles in the basin, and from the face of The Statue of the Republic, near the colonnade, fell the veil which had hidden her from view. And with all and above all arose in the air the mighty roar of 200,000 voices, cheering the consummation of their great enterprise and the turning over to the people of that which should now bo theirs to study and enjoy.

As soon as the ceremonies attendant upon the formal opening of the exposition were over, President Cleve-land, Gov. Altgeld, Mayor Harrison, the Duke of Veragua, and other nota-bles, were conducted to the dining room on the third floor of the adminis tration building, where they were en-tertained at dinner by the world's fair omcials. When the dinner was over the party, with President Cleveland and Director-General Davis in the lead, was conducted from the administration building and was driven around the grounds. At the manufacturers' building, which was the first place reached, the presidential party alighted at the main entrance and walked from one end of the monstrous edifice to the other. From here they drove to the north end of the grounds, among the state buildings, and back along the main drive, past the horticultural building, to the south end of the grounds. After having thoroughly inspected the White City, President Cleveland and his party were driven back to Grand Crossing, where they took the train for Washington.

The Woman's Building.

The most satisfactory feature of the day's proceedings from a feminine standpoint, was the formal dedication of the women's building. Women who stood in the great throng at the administrative building, indifferent to the eloquence of the chief magistrate breathlessly fought their way through the masses to reach their own Mecca. Women from every corner of the land crowded into the building, the cere-monies committee began to gather on tne platform, and soon from behind the curtain of palms and flowers, sweet strains of music arose, the grand march by Jean Ingeborg von Bronsart, Weimar, Germany, followed by prayer by Miss Ida Hukin. Miss Francis Ellicott, of London, England, favored the assembled women with a dramatic overture, after which Mrs. Potter Palmer arose and delivered an address. A jubilate by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, of Boston, was the feature of the program. Addresses were then delivered by the following distinguished representatives of foreign nations: Spain, Duchess de Veragua, Haly, Countess di Brazza; England, Mrs. Bedford Fenwick; Scotland-Ire-land, Duchess of Aberdeen; Russia, Princess Schachoffsky. The exercises closed with the singing of the hymn America" and a benediction.

A HISTORY OF THE FAIR.

How the Big Show Originated and How the Idea Grew.

It was on November 18, 1885, that the directorate of the Interstate Exposition, held at Chicago, where the Memorial Art Palace now stands, adopted a resolution favoring a national commemoration of the quadricentennial of the discovery of the new world. The idea attracted instant and widespread attention, and early in the following year the board of promo-tion was organized in New England, with ex-Gov. Clafflin, of Massachusetts, as president. Through its efforts a resolution was introduced in the Sen-ate, July 21, 1886, by Senator George F. Hoar, of Massachusetts, for the appointment of a joint committee of fourteen to consider the advisability of holding a world's fair. Washington was then regarded as the proper place at which to hold it. A favorable report was rendered, but the matter

July 22, 1889, the Chicago City Council instructed Mayor Cregier to appoint a committee of 100 to advocate the selection of Chicago as the location for the fair. Three weeks afterward a number of citizens organized a corporation with the title of "The World's Fair, 1892," which was chartered under the laws of the State of Illinois with a capital stock of $5,000,000. By this time the interest in the proposed commemoration had become national On December 19 of the same year Senator Cullom, of Illinois, introduced the first world's fair bill into the Senate. For two months thereafter there was a fierce rivalry between the dif-ferent cities that were eager to be chosen, but the agony was ended on February 24, 1890, when the national Congress selected Chicago, and the bill was signed by President Harrison on the next day.

At a special session of the Illinois Legislature, held in June of the same year, Chicago was authorized to increase its bonded indebtedness by $5,000,000 to aid the enterprise. There-"Let us hold fast to the meaning upon the name of the corporation was position, and its capitalization in creasd to $10,000,000. The first meeting of the national ommission, designated by President Harrison and by the state and territoral governors, was held in Chicago on June 27, 1890, and ex-Senator Thomas W. Palmer, of Michigan, was chosen as president. Subsequently George R. Davis, of Chicago, was selected by this body as director-general. The selection of a site was now in order, and after a fierce competition Jackson Park was chosen, a largo space fronting on Lake Michigan one and one-half miles, and containing, with the Midway Plaisance, which forms a connecting link between Jackson and Washington Parks, a total of over 600 acres. On Christmas eve of 1800 Bucklett Hamiston articles 1890 President Harrison extended an invitation to the nations of the earth to participate in the exposition, and the responses were immediate and cordial. About the same time the lady board of managers was brought into existence, and Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago, selected as president of the body. The work of constructing the President National Columbian Commissions Mines and Maning building, the first structure undertaken, was begun on July 2, 1891, and from that time on the work of building up the Whito City was prosecuted with vim and vigor. One structure rose after another, and on October 21, 1892, in the presence of an assemblage of over 100,000 people, the grounds and buildings were formally dedicated to the purposes designed by act of Congress. Up to the last financial statement the total expenditures on account of the fair had reached the enormous aggregate of $18,000,000, a sum equal to twice the cost of the Paris exposition. Of this amount over $15,000,000 has gone into the buildings of the White City, while the balance has been eaten up by general expenses outside of the construction. Shortly before the adjournment of Congress a special appropriation of $2,500,000, in the form of souvenir silver coins, was voted by Congress in aid of the enterprise. Five million dollars worth of bonds, due on Jaunary 1 of the coming year, were also issued and disposed of at a premium. It is an interesting fact that the gate receipts from visitors prior to the formal opening to-day, reached the total of a quarter of a million dollars.

There will be several new buildings going up in Ellington the present season. My brother correspondents ask for my age and weight. Well now I could not say how many pounds as I have not been weighed in a long time, but when last weighed upon the scale it was one hundred and twenty-eight. I am a Jersey blue of the old Revolutionary stock, and the first time I saw the eight of day was in that distant state the 17th of October, 1828,—when Old Hickory Jackson was elected President. Came to Michigan in 1852, and to Tuscola county in June of the same year. It has been my home ever since. I liked the country then, I like it still, and expect to end my

A barn raising at John Crop's on Friday last. Twill take a good crop and Crop will have to work hard to fill it. Size 45x60. Mr. McPherson's horses ran away last Wednesday afternoon. They tore down some fence for John Profit. Damage very slight.

Alex Marshal set out some trees on the day after Arbor Day. They'll only be one day behind but those that aren't set out until next Arbor Day will be a year behind. Mrs. Muma has tomatoes plants 15 inches high, and cabbage plants 8 inches high. No yarn about it, Deford. It's straight goods. We've got to have something to equal the aroma

During the past few days a goodly number of youths have indulged in the innecent sport of fishing, but the fish—Oh where are they? Ask of rivers all aroun that flows in toward the bay.

Our item about Charles Karr's injury got badly racked—in fact completely wrecked—after it left us last week. Quite fortunately for us, we let a iriend read the items before sending them in. The item stated that the wind blew a barn door off for Parmer Karr and one off for Charles Karr, two doors each of different barns. Charles was caught under the door of his own barn, When mistakes of this kind occur we trust people will patiently wait a week for us to correct them, pefore criticising and please withhold anathemas under such circumstances.

DEFORD.

J. C. McKain is still very poorly.

J. Ellisworth's new house is in process of erec Norman Retherford has regained his usua health.

All our business citizens went to to Cass City last Saturday. R. A. Moshier is moving Clark Courliss' new barn to the front. Wm Cooper and wife visited at John Mc-Cracken's last Sunday.

We expect to speak of many raisings next week. They are near at hand. Some of our people are engaged in cultivating the sly and frisky raynard. Thomas O. Rourke and family visited at Har-vey Matoons last Sunday.

he was perfectly sober and is not to blame for the accident.

The writer is a foreigner by birth, a citizen of the United States by adoption, a despiser of all simpering royalty. We detest the false teaching that "greatness comes by birth." We admire the sentiment that greatness comes by racrit and not by birth. There can be no honor due any man on account of birth for he had no part in making the selection. Honorable is the bighest title to which an American can rise and no man, honest and intelligent, will aspire to anything higher, for it is the height of true greatness, and the most humble of birth can sain emmence as well as those favored with wealth. All men are honorable whose conduct grace the circle in which they move, and dishonorable if their conduct is disgraceful. Birth, alent, nor wealth cut no figure in elevating to the one nor lowering to the other. He that must go back to his ancescory to defend his actions is a pittable object. Let man or woman stand or full by their own individual merits. Let each person be the owner of an individuality, without which we are nonentitys.

ELMINOOD.

Mrs. R. Webster was called to Tuscola last week by the illness of a sister.

We heard a rumor of a fight between two brothers near hear but did not learn the particulars.

R. Webster and J. P. Hendricks have had the hay press at work bailing hay for them this week.

It has been so rainy that the seeding is away behind. There is scarcely any grain sown here yet only on sandy soil.

J. Dodge intends going to Dr. Orr, V. S., of Caro, this week where he will study until Oct, when he will go to the Ontario Veterinary College, of Toronto, to take a full course of study.

We see the agent of Dr. Ayers, a specalthrough this part looking up patients for the Dr. who will follow to make examination in a few days.

There was a very pleasant party at the home of M. E. Stone last Saturday evening, it being the sixteenth birthday of Miss Lilah. A large number of young people were present and after spending several hours in social games and partaking of a splendid supper, they presented her with a fine plush album.

We can not compete with Grant and Deford on potatoes and such, but we do claim the distinction of having had the first ice cream social of the season on last Wednesday evening at Mr. Adams. We think we are entitled to the cake. It us to partake of any ourselves.

CASS CITY,

Edison says that women have more fine sense about machinery in one minute than most men have in their whole lifetime. And yet every mar-ried man thinks his wife doesn't know how to run a watch.

An inventor in New York asserts that he has a device which will enable ships to cross the Atlantic in three and a half days. Such things have been heard of before, but have never panned out well on practical application. Such a rate of speed would hardly allow a man to get seasick.

THE French schools in New York city, which have been supported in part by subsidies given by the French government and the city of Paris, are in financial straits because of the withdrawal of these gifts and will have to cease operations, probably. Not many of the pupils cared to remain French, and the thing didn't pay the government of Gaul.

MARYLAND has a sect numbering 2,000 whose principal claim to individuality is that members believe, and state vociferously, that they live without sinning. Neighbors, who have observed the sect with some care, believe that it labors under error. People who do not sin in any particular are so scattered among the asylums of the country that 2,000 of them could hardly be together in

ONE of the first things to be considered by the aspiring young man who is ambitious to obtain a college training and must depend largely upon his own efforts is health. THE Chicago river is, metaphorically speaking, between the devil and the deep sea. Since the United States government declared it navigable water the city solons refuse to pay for dredging it, rightly enough claiming that the cost of the work should come out of the national river and harbor appropriation. The government doesn't seem disposed to Butto look after its self-claimed protege, and hence the turgid stream is filling up and will soon be impassable to large craft. Meanwhile as a sanitary nuisance the river remains the same old howling success as of yore.

THERE is a point at which the duty a lawyer owes his client comes into conflict with the obligation which every citizen must acknowledge to society and to the principles of right and morality embodied in the law itself. No attorney may bribe a juror, suborn a perjurer, or send an innocent person to jail to save his client, without himself becoming a criminal: It is an interesting question, therefore, how far a lawyer may properly

A resolution was passed calling upon the governor to transmit to the Senate any statement in his possession from the World's Fair commissioners in regard to the expenditures made by the commission. In committee of the whole the Senate agreed to the baff's baff's baff, and a bill pro-iding for a new toard of control for the industrial School for cirls. House—An unauecessful attempt was made to reconsider the vote by which the supplementary World's Fair appropriation bill was passed. The reason or this move being the discovery of the fact that the commission still had $3,000 in the treasury unexpended, instead of being without means to complete the Michigan exhibit as had been understood. A bill to refulate and control the state House of correction and reformatory at Ioma was passed without reading to which action representative Bark orthernered a formal protest. Representative edferns bill to remove the bounty for English sparrows from April to No emper was passed. Amended charters of Grand lapids and halamazoo were passed. Senate—Firhteth day.—Senator Clark protested against the refusal of the Senate death of four persons in one house in New Hampshire, supposed to have been caused by contaminated well water, as a text for a sermen on the farmhouse well. The sermon is pertinent and ought to be heeded. The only thing to wonder at is that a larger number of deaths are not due to this cause. Farm wells are generally noted for their convenience and not for their healthfulness.

Wood fibre is now almost universally used to more or less extent in paper manufacture. A paper is obtained from it in most respects good enough for the temporary use that is made of newspapers, but its texture does not resist tearing as the rag material which was practically the only basis of papers in the earlier days used to do. It is a mistake to suppose that wood fiber is found only in the cheaper papers. It enters into the composition of the best quality as well nowadays.

THE BLUE TULIP.

Van Rettig face might now and then have been seen mounting the steps of a famous old domicile in New York. His ascent was feeble, for he had reached the allotted threescore and ten of human life; he was the last male descendant of Carlson Van Rettig, the old warrior, and, like all his race, he had a passion for tulips, and that same ambition which none of them had ever gratified.

Jacob Van Rettig was a widower, but the wife of his early years had given him a daughter who had reached the age of womanhood, and who combined in many graces of person the rare beauty of the old line.

She had reached the door and was looked to her, when she heard voices in the conservatory. This was so unusual that she turned pale and fell oack wondering. She could not believe that her father had admitted an outsider to the garden, but she summoned courage and advanced again. Just as she laid her hand on the knob the heard a cry and then a voice in expostulation.

"You won't give her to me, will you? You will let her wither like one of your confounded tulips! Well, I will see about that. I will throw brilliant light of the stars, and my secret open to the world, and you through a broken light came the rare will see that flower which you have cool air of that autumn night.

Julia Van Rettig stood spell-bound in the hall. Her hands were clasped and her face was white. She had recognized the voice. She knew it was that of Julius Martels, a man whom she had dreaded from her thildhood days, her lover from their first meeting, and a person to be shunned by womankind. He was rich but wicked—a man with a dozen vices

"Very well, we won't discuss this matter any longer," suddenly continued Martels. "I will leave you to your reflections, but I say to you now that I can produce blue tulips, and that within a few days the market will be stocked with the glory of your house, and all your years will ave been spent for nothing.

Julia heard the groan which these vords wrung from her father. She tarted toward the door, but stopped again, and thinking that Martels was back to watch for him in the hallway

Julius Martels did not remain away from the house, but came often to see the last of the Van Rettigs. He seemed to be the most welcomed of the many who sought out the fair woman, and she seemed to listen to

Julia was stooping over the glass frame all unconscious, as it seemed, about to leave the garden, she went out turning her head. "It is the wonderful blue tulip that bloomed has come back to bloom for me."

Some indescribable impulse took Martels forward. He reached the spot where Julia was and looked down at the flowers that lifted their parti-colored petals at her hand.

With a cry he caught the flower which Julia had fastened to his lappel; but the next moment he uttered a shriek. The tulip seemed glued to

"It is the blue tulip of vengeance!" her voice rang out. "It is the deathflower of the Van Rettigs!" She pushed him back into the chair. "You will live until the poison now in your blood reaches your heart. You will die where three generations of Van Rettigs sought in vain for the flower of their ancestor. For this hour I have waited. Julius Martels, that tulip was made blue in order to send through your blood the poison which entered your body when you pulled the flower away. The blue rulip has done its work.

Julia Van Rettig was at the door. The man, helpless in the old Hollander's chair, only looked at her. The door opened and shut, and the stately figure of the beautiful woman vanished. - National Tribune.

HOW BETA WAS SAVED.

A Negro Boy in an Elephant's Stomack After a Piece of Iron.

Apropos to the death of Zipp, the big elephant at Baraboo, Wis., from having swallowed a chair weighing ninety pounds, a reminder was called up and related by Dr. Hume of Den ver, to the St. Louis Republic man.

"Just prior to the demise of the much lamented Phineas T. Barnum I was touring in Connecticut, and called upon the great showman at Bridgeport, who invited me to se the circus animals in winter quarters. On arriving at the great caravansary where the wonders that tour the country year after year are stored, the illustrious owner was informed that Beta, the prize trick elephant, was ailing. All the symptoms of the poor beast pointed to the fact that she was suffering from acute gastralg a, and many means had been tried had by some means wrenched off an iron bar from her stall and as it could not be found it was surmised that she had swallowed it, and which accounted for the gastric irritation of the valuable pachyderm.

"Mr. Barnum saw that poor Bets must soon succumb to the inflammation caused by such a large foreign body and with ready wit resolved on an uni ue plan to remove it. Attached to his large winter hotel was a small colored boy who went by the name of Nigger Joe. He was but little larger than a full-grown 'possum, and P. T. sent for him and explained that he must take a rubber tube in his mouth to breathe through, and with a rope 'round his waist must go down into the elephant's stomach

"Joe rolled his eyes and demurred, but he knew his employer too well to refuse. Accordingly Joe was annointed with a pound of vaseline and Beta being safely gagged he was gent'y pushed down the giant aesophagus head first; a smooth stick well oiled landed him at the bottom. According to instructions the boy soon gave three tugs at the rope, as he had been instructed, to be pulled out again, and sure enough, tightly clasped in Joe's hands was the offending and indigestible iron bar. It is needless to say that Beta's life was saved and that Nigger Joe was handsomely rewarded for his cure of the valuable elephant's indigestion.

Lawyer-Now, sir, you say the burglar, after creeping in through the front window, began to walk slowly up the stairs; and you did not see him, although you were standing at the head of the stairs at the time. May I venture to inquire why you did not see him?

Principal Witness-Certainly, sir. The fact is, my wife was in the way.

You can always find out how much a man is worth when he dies by looking at his will. It is a dead give-away. "Carrie," said the bashful youth, with a gasp. "If you liked somebody else about the same as you like me, would you care to marry him?" Little Johnny-May I hitch the dog to my sled and let him pull me? Mother-I'm afraid he'll bite you. Little Johnny-It's the other end I'm going to hitch. An exchange says a man's full mental power is not reached before the age of 25. Either this is wrong, or the college freshman has been misin-

Indignant Manager - See here, Spriggs, you have got to get some new gags. The audience will neve stand them mouldy chestnuts you are giving 'em. You might as well understand right now that you ain't neither a sentor nor a bishop. See?

Last Friday evening two men walked into an uptown restaurant They sat down at one of the tables and began studying the bill of fare. "Well," said one of them, "I'll take a little fish." The other glanced at the clock and read the bill of fare again. "I think," he said slowly, "I think I will take a Welsh rabbit." The man who took fish looked up in alarm. "Great heavens! Charley," he said, "remember that it's Friday.'

GRAINS OF GOLD.

Whenever there is selfishness there is sin. The greatest of all duties is the present one.

Every good man on earth is a pillar to hold heaven up. Wherever there is a sin it is sure to be followed by a sorrow. No man is good who behaves himself simply because he has to. The best answer you can make to self-conceit is to Aep still. There are too many men who love to preach but hate to practice.

Many there be who buy nothing with their money but repentance. Modest appearance, good humor and prudence make a gentleman. No man can be truly brave who is not seeking to be truly good. For every fault we can point out in others we have two of our own. If you want to keep out of darkness never let the sun go down on your wrath. The man who thinks that his sin will never find him out makes a great mistake.

We should not make our profession of religion a receipt in full for all other obligations. There are people who think their neighbors houses need painting because they neglect to wash their own windows. Putting your enemy in the wrong in the sight of men is the worst kind of defeat, against which neither indaidual nor nation can long persist. It is hard for a man to bear his own good luck, it is harder still for his friends to bear it for him, and but a few of them ordinarily can stand that trial. San Francisco has among her population a Chinaman named Mish Go, who has red hair, a light complexion and blue eyes, and he is also crosseyed. Five ladies in waiting to the empress of China are en route for Berlin, whither they have gone, it is said, to study the German language and German court etiquette.

RIO REY, the Hambletonian Stallion,

Will stand for a limited number of mares at his own stable, 5 miles east of Cass City, the entire season of 1898. He is a dark bay with white spot in forehead, 16 hands high, weighs 945 pounds bred by L. M. Charlton, Cleveland, Ohio, (on his Far View stock farm), foaled May 3, 1890. Registered in Vol. 10 of the American Trotting Register at New York, on the 26th day of March, A. D. 1891, where his pedigree can be traced in the following form:

He is a veritable Humbletonian. He is certainly in the purple, giltedge, and done up in tissue at that. He is very growthy and will be allowed to develop before being worked for speed, Shall allow him to serve a few select mares this season. His sire is comparatively a young horse so that his produce have not made their debut as yet, but that he will be a noted sire no one doubts. Hambletonian blood must and will tell. On his dam's side he is scarcely less fashionably bred, being by Hermes, record 2.27½, [also the sire of several in 2:30 or better and strongly bred, being by Hermes, record 2.27½, [also the sire of several in 2:30 or better and strongly bred in the Hambletonian hine]. This mare, Miss Hermes, is a trotre; has snown her ability on trial. It is only by a careful study of the above pedigree that the remarkable blood lines come to the surface. He has four blood lines of Rysdyk's Hambletonian [progenitor of the great Hambletonian family, sire of Dexter 2:17½, and 40 others in 2:30 or better, also sire with 645 performers in 2:30 or better]. He has two blood lines of Harold [sire of Maud S 2:08½, and 33 others in 2:30 or better]; also one blood line of Alex Abdallah [sire of Goldsmith Maid 2:14, and 5 others in 2:30 or better, also sire of 13 sires that have got 95 in 2:30 list.

TERMS,—To insure a mare in foal. $10, payable on the 1st of February, 1894. Season, $8, payable on the 1st of August, 1893, Single services, $6, payable at time of service. All accidents at risk of owners of mares.
