Prof. C. F. Ritterger, who is sorry to state, has been seriously ill this week with hemorrhage of the lungs. At this writing he is no better, and his recovery is considered very doubtful. His brother, John, of the State Agricultural College, arrived Wednesday noon.

Barber Champion has made another improvement to his shop equipment. It is by adding a top to his dresser. The top contains two large bevel-edged French plate mirrors, and numerous apartments for mugs, etc. It is finished in oil and presents an antique oak appearance. Lenzner Bros. are the manufacturers.

The usual summer drowning fatalities have commenced and their continuance throughout the heated season is inevitable. Care and prudence are the only preventives that can be recommended. A special watchfulness should be exercised over children who are exposed to the danger of death from this cause. Only this week a boy was drowned in the Cass River at Caro.

The most successful merchant that ever lived, A. T. Stewart, was once heard to remark that the man who did not advertise could not succeed for the reason that he was either short in goods or could not make prices low enough to compete and just relied on what trade he could catch. He also advised that all people should read the advertisements they wished to get the worth of their money.

If your uncle has an aunt who has a nephew whose wife has a cousin that is married to an old friend of your wife's sister, whose grand father used to live in the same town with an old school mate of yours, whose son-in-law is now living in Chicago, you should at once renew the acquaintance with the view of saving hotel bills while attending the World's fair. This scheme can be worked successfully in many instances.

A good show in spring time does not always promise a good show in the autumn. Weeds grow faster, and often attract more attention than plants that bear berries. So it is in the field of character. A lad who makes a display in dress and cigarette smoking may seem to have the advantage over a plodding youth who has something to do and does it. A few years hence will tell the story of the comparative worth of these two boys. Even in the spring time of life it is well to consider for what harvest one is sowing.

"What Cass City needs is more manufacturing industries" remarked a citizen the other day. "For my part," he continued, "I would be pleased to see a flax-mill established here. I think the soil hereabouts is well adapted for the production of flax, and that it could be grown with profit. Where I formerly resided the citizens secured a flax-mill that employed about fifty hands. Of course where machinery is added for the manufacture of linseed oil and oil cake from the flax seed, the business assumes much larger proportions. Industries that give steady employment to a large number of hands, are bound to materially increase the prosperity of a town and likewise her citizens." There is no doubt but what the above citizen expresses the views of many in regard to the "needs of the times." At any rate, he does ours. We would be pleased to see more interest aroused in this direction. Is the committee of the Business Men's Association ready to report?

David Tyo says, "It's a boy." S. A. Cooley, of Caro, visited in Cass City on Sunday.

Rev. S. M. Gilchrist was called to perform a wedding ceremony at Shebena on Wednesday.

The Greenleaf stage, which heretofore made only two trips a week, is now a daily line, the new service going into effect on Wednesday. John McLellan is the "conductor."

Mrs. P. L. Fritz left on Tuesday to join her husband at Alexandria, Ind. Dr. Fritz's many friends here will be pleased to learn that he is building up a good practice at that place.

The cellar and stone wall for C. D. Striffler's new house at the corner of Grant and Pine streets, is completed. Landon Eno & Keating have taken the contract to build the house.

Miss Belle McKenzie closed her term of school in the district immediately west of here last Friday, and an entertainment was given by the pupils in the evening. Miss McKenzie, we are informed, has given excellent satisfaction.

The many hundreds of girl children who are being educated in this county, of their age, which it is possible some of them will not relish, in the years to come, when—well, when they are not as young as they used to be.

A town in Southern Georgia claims to have the meanest man in the country. He recently gave a load of wood to a poor widow, then hired a colored man to steal it and return it to him, and then had the colored man arrested for theft and sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

Norton Gordinier, the section foreman of the P. O. & N. R. E., and who was stationed at Pontiac, was instantly killed while assisting in slacking down a car loaded with cinders last Saturday. Gordinier was holding the stake and just as the car was passing over the switch the stake slipped from its fastening at the end of the car and he was thrown against the car, still holding the stake. Before he could recover himself the engine had caught him from the rear and pinned him between it and the car, literally crushing his life out.

His flesh was not lacerated, but his internal organs above the stomach were forced up into his chest and those below into the abdomen. He leaves a widow, and was about 35 years old. He was a member of the I. O. F., in which he carried an insurance of $2,000, having taken out his policy but a few days before. The unfortunate man was formerly section foreman at Pigeon.

It is said by experts who have examined the Sebawaing and Saginaw Valley coal, that it is what is called a "caking" or coking coal, and suitable for use in melting iron ore. This is the nearest coal to the rich bessemer ores of the Upper Peninsula, and these ores could be hauled in cars direct from the mines to Saginaw for melting, saving the long journey to Cleveland and Pittsburg, and the numerous transfers from cars to boats and from boats to cars. Furthermore, the cars could run winter and summer, and save the expense of piling the ore on the surface at the mines during the winter while navigation is closed. It requires two tons of coke to smelt one ton of ore, and hence the ore must come to the coke for smelting. The great deposits of iron ore in the Duluth region cannot be utilized there for want of fuel, but with good coke Saginaw could smelt a large part of these ores. The question of establishing iron smelters at Sebawaing is presently being considered. This industry would be of immense value to Saginaw.

On Tuesday Samuel Wells left at the ENTERPRISE office a copy of the Richmond, (Va.) Dispatch, which devoted its eight large pages last week almost exclusively to giving an account of the removal of the body of those who gave federate President, Jefferson Davis, from New Orleans to Richmond for re-interment, and the ceremonies connected therewith. Nearly the entire populace along the route between the two cities, turned out to do honor to the "South's departed Chieftain," and the railroad track and funeral car were literally buried with flowers.

The Southerners evidently cherish the memory of Jefferson Davis as much as do the French that of Napoleon, and the recent ceremonies compare well with those attendant upon the removal of the latter's remains from St. Helena to Paris. The Dispatch editorially says: "The wretchedness of oratory was not invoked to arouse sentiment. It was not needed and it was not employed. In the breast of the southern people gratitude lives for all those who gave brave-hearted service to the Confederate cause. No matter if that cause failed; no matter that it is dead, memories of our heroes are alive as ever and we honor them all in honoring their chief."

VOCAL AND INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

MISS CARIE HITCHCOCK, a pupil at the Conservatory of Music in Ypsilanti for two and a half years, and also a pupil of Mr. Clinton Elder, and the celebrated teachers, Mr. William Courtney and Madam Serrano, of New York City, will receive pupils in singing during the summer. Miss Hitchcock has recommends from the above teachers. She will also give instructions in instrumental music, which she studied at the Conservatory in Ypsilanti.

Cass City to Celebrate!

Independence Day Will be Fittingly Observed in Cass City—An Excellent Program of Races Being Arranged.

Hoop la!
Prepare to spend the Glorious Fourth in Cass City!

At a meeting of the citizens on Wednesday evening, steps were taken for holding a proper celebration of Independence Day in Cass City.

The various committees are already hard at work, and as Cass City never does things by halves, and as it is her turn to celebrate, all who come may expect a royal entertainment.

Special arrangements are being made for races on one of the best half mile tracks in the state. The large purses to be offered are sure to bring "fifers." Vassar is the only other town in the county that celebrates this year, therefore we may expect a large delegation from Caro, Mayville, and other points.

Hoop la!
Major R. A. Hendershot.

"The Drummer Boy of the Rappahannock," to appear in the Rink, next Monday evening.—Comes highly recommended as an Entertainer.

Major Hendershot, who is acknowledged as the original "Drummer Boy of the Rappahannock," and his son, who is one of the best fifters and piccollo players in America, will appear at the Tennant House Rink next Monday evening, June 12, under the auspices of the Sons of Veterans' Camp, of this place.

Major Hendershot brings the original silver drum presented to him by Horace Greely for his gallantry at Fredericksburg, on the 11th of December, 1862.

Major Hendershot and son have a national reputation, and have recommendations from some of the leading newspapers and statesmen of the times. They gave one of their entertainments at Bad Axe some time ago, and this is what the Democrat had to say about it:

"The amuse and entertainment given under the auspices of Wisner Post, G. A. R. No. 70, last Friday and Saturday night, was a complete success in every respect, and met the expectation of our citizens. Long before the time had arrived to open the doors, the crowd began to assemble and they patiently waited till they were admitted at seven o'clock.

Four hundred and twenty-five people took advantage of the cheap rates and facilities for returning home, and came here to see and hear the noted Major, whose fame as being the only original drummer boy of the Rappahannock had preceded him; but many of the crowd went away disappointed, being unable to gain admission to the hall, which unfortunately was too small by far to accommodate all."

Major R. A. Hendershot is all, and even more than he claims for himself as a drummer, and from the beginning to the close the audience was highly entertained with his portion of the program, assisted by his son. His imitation of a battle out of a locomotive was truly worth the price of admission alone. The hall was well filled the second night. The program was changed throughout with the exceptions of the imitation of a battle and a locomotive. The Major's skillful drumming should be ever returned to Bad Axe he will be greeted with a full house.

Local talent will be called upon to assist in the entertainment. A large turnout is anticipated.

Our Churches.

Pastors are invited to contribute.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
At a meeting of the members of the Presbyterian Church, of Cass City, held on Thursday evening, June 1, Nathaniel McClintock, M. D., was re-elected Ruling Elder for the full term of three years. Hugh Seed, Sr. was also elected Ruling Elder for three years. Dr. McClintock was installed last Sabbath forenoon; Mr. Seed's ordination and installation is expected to take place soon after his return from his visit to Ireland.

The Board of Deacons last Sabbath reported to the congregation that the recently adopted plan of weekly offerings by means of envelopes, both for the support of the Gospel at home, and for the benevolent and missionary work of the denomination, has so far proved eminently successful.

The church officers have decided to at once make arrangements for the erection of sheds, for the accommodation of the increasing number of those who attend divine services from the country.

Children's Day will be observed as usual on next Sabbath. In the forenoon a discourse will be delivered on "Conversion in early Childhood." The ordinance of Holy Baptism will also be administered to children of believing parents. In the evening there will be a Sabbath School concert.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Baptist Church, will be held at Mrs. Riker's, on Wednesday, June 14, at 2 p. m. Tea will be served from 5 to 8 in the evening. All are cordially invited to attend.

Springfield, Mo. April 2, 1893.
Messrs Lippman Bros. Savannah, Ga.
Gentlemen:—
I commenced taking P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium) last fall for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease, and I soon disappeared. This spring I became very much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who are needing a general tonic for building up the system improving the appetite I consider it has no equal. Will say, any one who will care to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I therefore cheerfully recommend it.

NEWS MISCELLANY.

PRINCIPAL NEWS OF THE WEEK IN BRIEF.

A Lake Steamer Collides With an Unknown Schooner and the Latter Sinks.—The Vessel's Name a Mystery.—Mob Law in Illinois.

The large steam barge Corsica, bound from Lake Superior to Cleveland with ore, collided with an unknown schooner about 10 miles south of Thunder Bay Island, Lake Huron, about 3:30 a. m. A dense fog had been hovering over the lake during the entire night and was thickest about this time.

A careful lookout had been made to avoid any disaster. Unlooked for and unexpected, a schooner tried to cross her bows, but unfortunately was too slow and plunged into the Corsica almost broadside. The latter's engines were immediately reversed and everything done to aid the crew of the schooner, but all attempts proved futile.

No signs of life could be found; no voice, no yawl boat, nothing to indicate that anyone was making a struggle to retain life. After diligent search had been made Capt. Cummings gave attention to his own condition and found a large hole had been stove in the upper works and considerable damage done to the hull. He at once headed for Ossineke, east anchor and made repairs.

The mystery is what schooner was it that ran into the Corsica and what became of her crew. Every effort to obtain reliable information on these questions has been unavailing. Whatever boat it might have been, one thing is certain, it now lies at the bottom of Lake Huron in 25 fathoms of water. The fishing tug Angler, from Alpena, ran into, considerably damaged, what was 11 miles southeast of Thunder Bay Island the following day.

AN ILLINOIS LYNCHING.

Negro Ravisher of White Women Hanged by a Determined Mob.

Samuel Bush, a Negro, was arrested and jailed at Decatur, Ill., for assaulting two defenceless farmers' wives near that place. The particulars of the affair caused great excitement and a large crowd gathered about the jail. About 2 a. m. 25 unmasked men marched rapidly into the city and to the jail. They were refused admission by the sheriff's deputies and sledge hammers and chisels were brought into use and after 20 minutes work the outer door was broken down. Twenty minutes more were consumed in passing two other barriers and opening Bush's cell. The attack was very quick and the 1,500 people outside the jail made no demonstration. Bush was found under the mattress of his bed and jerked out into the street in a hurry. He claimed he was innocent but the mob paid no attention to his appeals and after giving him a chance to pray a rope was thrown over the arm of an electric light pole and the body of Bush which had been stripped of its clothing was pulled up and let fall back to the ground. Bush was then placed on top of a hack, the rope tied up short and the hack drove away. The body fell to within two feet of the ground and was allowed to hang some time after which the rope was cut up and divided as souvenirs.

Gov. Altgeld, when he heard the news of the lynching issued a proclamation denouncing the deed in vigorous terms and offering $200 reward for the arrest and conviction of each of the lynchers.

DR. BRIGGS DOWNED.

The Presbyterian General Assembly Declares Against the Alleged Heretic.

The second trial of Prof. Briggs, of the Union Theological seminary of New York, has resulted in the upholding of the charges of heresy against Dr. Briggs. The first trial in the Presbyterian General assembly at Portland, Oregon, the case was referred to the New York presbytery which acquitted Dr. Briggs, but his opponents appealed the case and it was again taken before the Presbyterian General assembly which has just been in session at Washington, D. C. The point for the latter body to decide was whether the decision of the New York presbytery be sustained or reversed by the acceptance or refusal to receive the appeal from the latter's decision. The appeal was accepted, and the decision sustained by the following vote after two day's consideration: Number of votes cast, 499; to sustain the appeal, 383; not to sustain, 116. Dr. Briggs' friends and defenders made a strong fight and the gentleman himself made a strong speech, but his opponents were too many.

Having decided that they had a heretic on their hands in the person of Dr. Briggs, the next thing for the Presbyterian General assembly to do was to consider what should be done with him. Accordingly, a committee was appointed to bring in a verdict, and its members were requested to get to work at once. After a long session the committee brought in this recommendation: "Suspension from the ministry" and the assembly adopted the report.

Dr. Briggs' friends filed a protest against this action and it was spread on the record, but the assembly voted that no answer was necessary.

The body of Mrs. Hattie Sullivan, who was drowned March 12 in the Tittabawassee river, near Midland, has been found within 20 rods of the place where the woman was last seen struggling. The river had several times been dragged, but the body was found by accident.

Kennedy Hanna was elected trustee of the peace in Grand Rapids township, Kent county. W. G. Saunders, his opponent, contended that he was elected by the votes of veterans in the Soldiers' Home, and that said inmates had no legal right to vote. Judge Grove in the circuit court has decided in favor of Saunders.

A CIRCUS TRAIN WRECKED.

Five Men Killed and Animals Freed by an Awful Disaster.

The train carrying the circus and menagerie of Walter L. Main on the Tyrone & Clearfield line was wrecked near Tyrone, Pa. It was made up of 19 cars. There is an exceptionally heavy down grade where the accident happened. The cars in which were the camels and elephants first broke down. Then the engine pulled out a drawhead on the disabled cars, the locomotive was detached, and the next moment the train was running "wild." The flying train struck a sharp curve, the cars leaped clear off the road bed and with one tremendous crash the wreck was dreadful and complete. Three sleepers used for traveling coaches by the performers and leading members of the organization remained on the rails. Every other car, cage and wagon was utterly demolished and mixed up in an awful tangle.

There were 175 persons with the circus and 173 horses. Five men and many horses and other animals were killed outright. The animals were all captured with the exception of a leopard and hyena which are still at large. Walter Main, proprietor of the circus, places his loss at over $150,000.

Payments will be continued until the indebtedness is cancelled.

The iron works of J. B. & J. M. Cornell at New York City were destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $300,000, partially covered by insurance.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

IMPORTANT AND INTERESTING ITEMS.

The State of Affairs in Hawaii Very Unsettled Because of the Action of Minister Blount.—Secretary Gresham's Instructions to Mr. Blount.—Items.

Honolulu letter, via Steamer Australia to San Francisco: The situation here at present is more interesting than for several months and the whole town is agog with excitement over late developments. First came the arrests of Messrs. Bush and Kenyon, editors of native papers on charges of libeling the provisional government and Minister Stevens, then a publication of Secretary Gresham's instructions to Commissioner Blount and a warning by the latter to the annexationists that they could not depend upon help from the United States in case the royalists attempted to reinstate their queen; then news of Blount's appointment as United States minister to Hawaii and finally an attempt of the provisional government to silence Charles Nordhoff, correspondent of the New York Herald, (who was alleged to have made statements derogatory to the government which were untrue) and Minister Blount's interference in his behalf. All sorts of alarming rumors are afloat and even Minister Blount, who all along has predicted that there will be no trouble, is not now so confident.

Commissioner Blount's instructions from Secretary Gresham were very lengthy. Besides requesting him to investigate affairs on the Hawaiian islands they say: "You are authority in all matters touching the relations of this government to the existing or other government of the islands, and protection of our citizens in paramount; and in you alone, acting in cooperation with the commander of the naval forces is vested full discretion and power to determine whether such forces should be landed or withdrawn." That while the United States claims no right to interfere in internal conflicts, this government will adhere to its consistent and established policy and it will not acquire in domestic interference by other powers. At the end of his instructions Mr. Blount added the following postscript: "While I shall refrain from interference between conflicting forces of whatever nationality for supremacy, I will protect American citizens not participating in such conflict."

These few lines created great excitement as they were regarded by all parties as a plain invitation to the royalists to make trouble. The royalists, however, say they are not now prepared to take advantage of Blount's notice, but will await the decision of the United States. If the islands are not annexed, as the royalists firmly believe they will not be, then there may be trouble. The provisional government is strengthening its position, and claims to be able to hold together for several years, or until a new administration, if annexation is refused by Mr. Cleveland.

Hawaiian News: Minister Blount is not desirous of retaining his position and will ask to be relieved as soon as possible. His report of his work as commissioner has been forwarded to Washington.

Before ex-Minister Stevens sailed for the United States his friends presented him with a silver service costing $1,000. Mr. C. Porter has resigned as minister of finance under the provisional government and Vice-President Damon has been appointed to the place and the vice-presidency is vacant.

Claus Spreckles, the sugar king, is busily engaged fighting against annexation and he is charged with working in the interests of the sugar trust of the United States.

Ada Rehan's Silver Statue Unveiled. Montana's famous silver statue of Justice was unveiled in the mines and mining building at the World's Fair. The statue for which Ada Rehan, the actress, stood as the model. The unveiling of the statue was the event of the day at the White City, and the great building in which the statue stands was thronged with people eager to see the magnificent work of art. The total weight of the statue is 1,900 pounds and it rests on a pedestal of solid gold taken from the Spotted Horse mines, which are situated in Maiden district of Montana, tributary to Great Falls. In high the statue stands eight feet and three inches. With the pedestal it is 12 feet high.

End of Findlay's Gas Boom. The final throes of a dying boom based on gas are being felt at Findlay, O. The statement that there are 600 empty wells there is said to have been verified by actual count. Further, the statement is confirmed that all the glass manufacturers have signed an agreement to move their plants from the town not later than July 1. It is estimated that this exodus will take 4,000 people from the place. Some of the manufacturers are going to different locations in Pennsylvania, but the greater number will locate in the Indiana gas fields.

The tomb of Marquis de Lafayette, at Vincennes, was decorated by Americans. Ambassador Eustis delivered an address.

Information received at the state department from Minister Baker, dated Messaya, June 1, states that peace is restored in Nicaragua, and the new government is in operation.

The safe of the Chicago & Northwestern ticket office at Menominee was robbed of $150. It was supposed to be the work of professional burglars. Examination, however, showed no signs of force and Ticket Agent Robert C. Millican was arrested as he was about to board a southbound train for Milwaukee, and the money was found secreted in his shoes. Millican is a young man who took the place of the striking telegrapher and ticket agent.

BIG PENSION SAVING.

The Service Origin Disability Claim Law Given a New Reading.

Probably the most important pension decision ever sent from the office of the secretary of the interior to the commissioner of pensions has been filed. It was believed by those high in authority in the pension bureau that it will reduce the payment of pensions under act of June 27, 1890, between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

It involves the repeal of an order passed by General Raum and approved by Assistant Secretary Bussey, and a return to the language of the statute requiring the disability, not of service origin, to be such as to prevent the applicant from earning a support by manual labor. Secretary Hoie Smith has been considering the principles involved in this decision for several weeks, and so important did he deem it that when it was called to his attention from the pension board of appeals, he submitted the questions involved to Attorney-General Olney and to Judge Lechen, the commissioner of pensions, both of whom concurred in the correctness of the decision.

Amick Not in Any Sincinate. Dr. A. R. Amick, of Cincinnati, the discoverer of the cure for consumption, disclaims any connection with any of the syndicates organized to open sanatoriums based on his discovery. He says the physicians in charge can obtain the treatment from him just as any doctor can, but he is on record as stating that his treatment will effect a cure in the patient's own home as well as away from it, if under a physician's care. To prove this, Amick sends test medicines to all physicians of good standing without cost.

Miss Bertha Manchester, daughter of a farmer living near Fall River, Mass., was brutally murdered with an ax while the family were absent. No clue to the identity of the assassin could be found.

Burglars entered the offices of the Hygeia Water company, at Chicago, and being interrupted at their work by Manager T. Fleury, who slept in the adjoining room, shot him and made their escape. Fleury will probably die.

Minister Grant has written from Austria that there exists no reason for thinking that the Austrian government will refuse to accept Max Judd as consul-general of the United States to Vienna. The nomination is passing through the usual routine.

Four Mormon elders, who engaged in proselyting near Pinckney, Ga., were driven into the woods by indignant citizens, and a number of shots were heard. As the mob returned apparently satisfied and the elders failed to reappear, it is thought they were done away with.

Four cases of small pox have been discovered by the health board inspectors in the family of Wm. Velopken, a Bohemian, at 1505 Avenue A, New York City. No doctor had attended the children. In the same district a few days ago four other cases of concealed small pox were discovered by a health officer.

NEW YORK, June 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trades says: More discouraging conditions have prevailed during the past week, and those who saw the beginning of a recovery in the market for the better part of the week previous are disappointed. The money market has been quiet, especially in the interior. Finance made the iron trade more affected than before. Gold has gone out again in large amounts, and the treasury gold reserve during the week has been about $5,000,000. Departments of trade uncertainty about the future has a depressing effect, which is now clearly manifest in the iron and steel business, and while most manufacturing works are yet employed on full orders, as has been the case since the beginning of the year, the market for iron and steel is depressed. Speculative markets have been sinking. Stocks are nearly $2 per share lower than a week ago. Wheat has declined 1 1/2c, corn 2 1/2c and oats 1 1/2c, with moderate transactions, few caring to buy wheat with enormous stocks on hand. Lard and hogs are lower and cotton has declined 1 1/2c, with moderate sales, though receipts are small. The market for iron ore has been weaker, though lead is higher and coal more active. Uncertainty about freights, labor, crop and finance made the iron trade gloomy. The prospect of trouble with the Amalgamated Association sustains the present demand for finished products, and higher freight rates raise prices of pig, not to the advantage of sellers. Structural mills are well employed, but at prices which return scanty profits. In the shoe trade shipments are still large. In men's woolsens commission merchants are in trouble with clothes, who throw back goods ordered, apparently to get them at lower prices, and little is doing in spring goods. Exports of products still fall well below last year's in value, and there is much withdrawal of money loaned in this country on foreign account. Failures during the past week have been 28 in the United States, against 17 last year, and 21 in Canada, against 22 last year.

The house occupied by James Ward, near Milford was entirely destroyed by fire. Mr. Ward was away shearing sheep for a neighbor, and had reluctantly left his wife sick in bed, to be cared for by three small children. They wetted their garments playing in the water and then built a big fire in the cook stove to dry them, which accomplished, they went out to their play again, when the house caught fire. A neighbor, seeing the house in flames, arrived only in time to save the sick and helpless mother.

LUZELLE. Luzelle has drooping eyes; The light that in them lies Is like the glow On latest snow Of starlight from the skies. Luzelle is small and fair; Luzelle has silken hair, And teeth so white And feet so light; That none with her compare. Luzelle is poor, I trow; No gems gleam on her brow; But no man's got, And there is not A better little cow. —Washington Evening News.

HULDAH'S BABY. Again the baby moaned, a low, faint moan, and tossed its emaciated little brown arms above the head that rolled so restlessly on the coarse, hard pillow; again the mother bent over it, and pressed her black lips to its burning brow; again that look of patient, hopeless grief settled on her face; again she whispered: "Poor little baby! Mammy don't know what de matter wid you. She don't know what ter do for you. She wish yer could run 'bout agin, of you wuz lots ob trouble an' always a henderin' of her when she gwine 'bout her wuck." A figure darkened the open doorway, and the mother looked up to see Club-footed Sal, a half-grown negro girl, holding in her hand a bunch of hoarhound and some of the white velvety leaves of the mullein. "Hyar some yerbs I fotch you. You kin meek tee-ou-ten 'em, an' of you put saffron in hit—here's some I pick up 'hind de sheep in de pasturs—hit meek a mighty sarchin tea, an' meek de chile sweat, an' drive de misery outen her haid; ef she ain't got de conjer on her. 'I will dat. 'I b'leve de chile got de conjer on her, dough, kase dat Melie mighty bad 'oman, an' she ain't got no use for you, dough she do like she do. She like yer old man, dough, an' dat huomo she 'spise you, an' she 'spise de baby. Dat huomo she 'spise dat baby, an' make hit 'waste 'way like a piece ob soap on washin' day." Say, Huldah, doan you b'leve de chile got de conjer on her? "You's a ign'ant critter, Sal, an' dat huomo you b'leve in de conjer. I doan b'leve in no sech foolishness; you ain't nuva-bin off dis yer black land plantation sence you wuz 'born, an' you ain't got no eddication, an' you doan know nuffin more dan de beastis in de field, you don't. You hush up, gal; I bin to school, an' I bin to de city; I bin down to Mobile, an' done seed de sights an' got some sense. Dat huomo I know der ain't no sense in de conjer. Dis yer chile got de tivoy fever. Dat what de matter wid her. De doctor done bin see her, but I ain't gin de chile what he say gin her, kaze I ain't got no money to cyarry to drug store arter de physic. I ain' tell dat doctor I ain' gin de physic, kaze, ef I do, he git mad like he did wid Sis Cyarlino, an' say, 'How de devil you 'spect me to cure you?"

down de road, little baby. Yander come a whole passel ob people in a red spring wagon. Fore Gord, ef dey ain't gwine ter stop at Huldah's house.

A lady habited in gray leaned from the wagon, and, after a cheery "Good morning," said: "My good woman, will you be kind enough to lend us a gourd that we may get some water to drink at de beautiful spring we have just passed?"

With a swift, yet tender motion, Huldah put the sick child in the arms of club-foot Sal, and rushed toward the wagon with hands outstretched, exclaiming: "I'd known your voice in de tuther world, dat I would! Ef hit ain't Misy Simpkins! Don't you know Huldah? Is you forgot Mobile? Is you forgot you didn't hab nuff cold days for de satisfaction ob dat ole furnace? If you forgot 'bout de ole pipes whar run all ober de house? Is you forgot dat de ole furnace germinate, and 'nipulate' and de house got like fodder 'field in August? 'Claro to gracions, Mrs. Simpkins I boun' ter know you, dat I is; I so glad ter see you. I's right weak. You tuck me all of a suddin'. You 'most made me forget 'bout my baby, whar club-foot Sal say got de conjer on her—I members dat time you splained all de 'cision ob de matter ter me, an' gin me de understandment dat dar warn't no sech a thing as de conjer. I jiss now tote Sal 'bout dat, when I tote her my baby ain't got de conjer, seaze dey ain't no conjer, but she got de tivoy, an' I gwine cure her wid nanny tea, an' ole big-bully spider outen dirt-dauber nest. Say, Misy Simpkins, is you forgot Huldah?"

A smile, full of benevolence, rested on Miss Simpkins' face, as she extended her small gloved hand, and exclaimed: "Indeed, I remember you perfectly, 'conjer' and all, and glad to meet you again. But your little baby—let me see it. Do not give it the spiders, I beg. Perhaps I can find something better in my hand sachel. Let me get out and see the child. I am in no hurry. I and my friends are going across the country to Janetown, whar we are to take charge of mission work, and start a school for de colored people."

"De Lord knows you's a good 'oman, Misy Simpkins. I doan cyar whar He put you; dat you is, for sho' fac." I mighty glad if you will look at my baby; she moan so I 'most 'stracted. I is. She jes' moan an' groan, an' I nuss her an' walks her, an' studies 'bout angel comin' arter my baby, kase dey so knowin', dey knows I doan rightly know how to teck cyar my baby when she so sick. I spee you come 'om de Norf, an' you knows what good fur chile when she got de tivoy fever, an' moan an' moan all de time, day in an' day out. You's a 'oman whar got understandment, you is. You got understandment like dem angels whar 'pear ter be a flut-terin' roon' here 'tell I skeered dey gwine teck my chile 'om me, kaze dey knows how to 'tend to her. Dat dey does, Misy Simpkins. Angel mighty smart critter. I done heard how dey jess fly up an' down de Jacob ladder bedout ever touchin' de rounds wid dere hands or dey feet."

In a few minutes the practiced eye of the kind Miss Simpkins saw how ill the wee brown baby was. With an air of decision she told Huldah to put into a sack a few necessities for herself and child, to leave the house in charge of clubfoot Sal and her brother, who had just appeared on the scene of action, and to seat herself, baby in arms, in the red spring wagon. Once in Janetown the child should be carried to the hospital, cared for, and cured, and Huldah could once more become a cook in the Simpkins household. "Fore Gord," cried Huldah, with glad eyes, "dat huomo I bin studyin' 'bout angel all de time. Angel done druv up in red spring wagon. Angel never had no wings dat time, but Huldah knowed 'em. She knowed 'em, bedout de wings, from God she did!"—Eleanor Churchill Gibbs, in the Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Disappointed Tourist. The first cow-boys I ever saw greatly disappointed me by their appearance. All that I have seen since that time have disappointed me equally. If I were to write a play in which there was a cow-boy character I would dress him up in fringed leather breeches and a buckskin coat, with a big drab Spanish hat as stiff as a board and as big as the top of a wash-tub, in dainty boots and bead-worked gloves; his pistol should be of mother-of-pearl, and none but the best Cheyenne saddle should he sit on—for such is the cow-boy of the flash literature which has immortalized him; and if the true cow-boy does not know enough to live up to his own china I would ignore the fact.

And yet these first cow-boys I saw in Montana were a very ordinary looking lot of young depot-loungers, says a writer in Harper's Weekly, peculiar only because they wore big flat-brimmed hats and because they had a long line of bronchos fettered to a hitching-rail near by. I would have been immeasurably disappointed and disgusted had there no been a redeeming story told concerning them as soon as our train bulled away from the station whar they were loading.

Trade and Sport in England. In England trade takes away a man's social standing, but sport doesn't. An impetuous nobleman may breed horses and sell them, and still be in the prime of Wales' set. But let him sell beef or butter, and he is ostracized. He may train horses for a salary and still be a gentleman. He may be a starter and still retain his social standing. But he must not go into trade.

IRELAND AT CHICAGO.

A PICTURESQUE SCENE FROM ERIN'S GREEN ISLE.

Donegal Castle, Surrounded by a Score of Cottages and a Village Smithy—The Noble Philanthropy of Mrs. Ernest Hart.

Donegal Castle, Surrounded by a Score of Cottages and a Village Smithy—The Noble Philanthropy of Mrs. Ernest Hart.

Anyone who has ever climbed the steep pass of Glen Eibh and crossed the seemingly endless bogs of Donegal into Carrick will have no difficulty in recognizing the buildings which Mrs. Hart has erected in the pleasure. Entrance is had through the fore-famed gates of St. Lawrence, built in the thirteenth century. The interior is a large court formed by cottages on each side and an exact reproduction of Donegal castle at the back. In the center of the landscape gardening can be seen the ruins of the castle.

Castle in the Irish Village.

do has been done to produce a unique effect. Around the edge of the walls runs a moat, and on its edge is reared a tower 100 feet high copied after one of the famous towers of the Emerald Isle, the history of which is only a speculation of the antiquaries. Around these are planted the antique and old-fashioned cottages, when the warm weather comes will be added a look of age closely resembling the original article. In the courtyard are placed a number of old stones such as the pillar stone, O'Brien hole stone and others closely connected with Ireland's early history.

The first cottage is occupied by a Gweedore girl, who makes Kelt embroideries. This industry was called so because many of the designs are taken of the old Celtic folk of 'Kells,' and other early manuscripts. This cottage, like all the others, is an exact reproduction of the Donegal cottage where these home industries are daily carried on. The visitor will see the antiquaries' and the native dress, living in cottages, the pot hanging on the fireplace, the cooking and the housewife work going on. All the girls, who number eighteen, are 'pure' Celtic lasses. The next cottage is a carpenter-shop, where the finer trades are shown, and there is a boy there who carries in wood the drinking cups, or mether, as they are called. Here also are made the designs for the Celtic crosses, and out in the courtyard is a stone-mason who reproduces the designs in stone which have been brought from Ireland for that purpose.

In a cottage over the way more girls are at work on the famous Donegal hosiery. There whoever cares to may see the wool as it comes from the sheep's back; see it washed, carded, dyed, spun into the threads for weaving by an old-fashioned spinning wheel and woven into the cloth. I call it an old-fashioned spinning wheel because they know no other in the Irish homes and I sometimes doubt if such fabric could be made on any other. In every one of these cottages is reproduced exactly the same state of affairs that exists in Donegal, and if any one imagines that they are too premature they have only to remember that the girls and the work come from a place thirty-six miles from a railway in the very heart of Ireland and show the work that is now going on in hundreds of cottages where a few years ago all was idleness and poverty.

No attempt has been made to reproduce the interior of the castle, now a ruin. The large space has been divided into two rooms. One is a lecture and concert room, where during the summer Irish music will be given, and at stated times Mrs. Hart and others will lecture on the subject of fostering by benevolent home industries among the poor. In the larger room is displayed the work done by the people. In none of the cottages are articles offered for sale. In the center of the large room in the castle is the huge statue of Gladstone by Bruce Joy, the famous sculptor, and around the walls are hung portraits of famous Irishmen by well-known Irish artists. There are also many cases showing old and curious Irish jewelry, and the Century and Graphic have sent for exhibition the original sketches of Irish life made by their artists. Many curious old things are put in quiet corners and hours may be passed in studying in the pleasure the history of the famous island.

Adjoining the castle is the village smithy. All of the tools and the fittings of the shops were brought over for the special exhibit, showing just how the work is done at home. A very interesting feature is the Irish pipe. He is a direct descendant of the MacSwineys of Donegal, at one time the most powerful of all the Celtic clans, and at regular times he will play the old native airs on the pipes. His place is at the foot of the great market cross of Kilkenny, which stands in the center of the courtyard.

AN ACROBATIC AUTOMATON

A Monkey Which Climbs a Wire Scarcely of Its Own Accord. A toy of German origin has lately been patented. It consists of a grotesque figure caused to climb or crawl upward along and toward the highest portion of an inclined plane or straight edge by means of a fine wire to which it clings. The result is accomplished by the invisible and unconscious nervous or muscular vibrations and twitches of the hand and arm of a person holding the straight edge, so that such person, as well as the spectator, cannot account for the phenomenon of the grotesque figure clinging to the bent wire and traveling up hill by means thereof, without the application of visible traction force.

The parts being in the position illustrated in the drawing, the vibrations of the hand impart an oscillating motion to the blade, and, as this motion is imparted to the staple, it causes the lower ends to slip along the table in the direction of inclination of the staple when the blade is lifted, and its upper portion is caused thereby to slip along the blade in the same direction when the blade is depressed, with the result that the monkey travels toward the high end of the blade, that is, toward the left in the drawing. Of course the rate of travel of the monkey depends upon the degree of trembling or twitching of the hand or arm of the manipulator, and by practice it is possible to acquire the requisite strength and skill for preventing such tremblings and twitches, whereby the monkey is permitted to remain at rest.

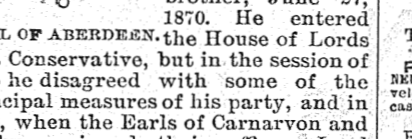

AN AMUSING TOY. Consequently, in playing this game, as in playing other games requiring practice and practice in order to attain proficiency, a certain feeling of competition among players and spectators is created.

GOVERNOR OF CANADA.

The Popular Earl of Aberdeen Recently Complimented by Gladstone.

The official announcement is made that the Queen has approved the appointment of the Earl of Aberdeen as Governor-General of Canada. The Rt. Hon. John Campbell Hamilton Gordon, seventh Earl of Aberdeen, was born Aug. 3, 1847. He was educated at College Hall in connection with the University of St. Andrews and at University College, Oxford, where he graduated M. A. in 1871. He succeeded to the title on the death of his brother, June 27, 1870. He entered the House of Lords as a Conservative, but in the session of 1876 he disagreed with some of the principal measures of his party, and in 1878, when the Barls of Carnarvon and Derby resigned their offices, Lord Aberdeen heartily supported the views of these statesmen. In the debate on the Afghan war he voted against the government of Lord Beaconsfield. In 1877 he was a member of the Committee of the House of Lords on intemperance, and both before and since has taken great interest in the temperance cause. He was appointed Lord-Lieutenant of Aberdeenshire in 1880 and High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland in 1881.

In 1886, having by that time become a member of the Liberal party, he was appointed by Mr. Gladstone Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland with the mission of carrying out the home-rule policy of the government. In this capacity he was immensely popular in Ireland, and the scene in Dublin on the occasion of the leave-taking after the fall of the Gladstone Cabinet is said to have been such as has never been witnessed there before or since. Lord Aberdeen is a member of many Protestant religious societies, at whose meetings he frequently presides. He is at present in Chicago with Lady Aberdeen, who is interested in work at the World's Fair.

The Earl has now been appointed Governor-General of Canada in place of the Earl of Derby, formerly Baron Stanley of Preston; who is about to retire from the office of Governor-General, to which he was appointed in 1888.

Wicksburg taxes telegraph and telephone poles $2.50 apiece.

In the manufacture of knives the division of labor has been carried to such an extent that one knife is handled by seventy different artisans from the moment the blade is forged until the instrument is finished and smoothly wrapped up for market.

The fleet in the United States coasting trade and in internal waters has a tonnage of 3,761,241, of which nearly one-third or 1,181,071 tons is in the great lakes. There has been no decline of shipping prestige in the waters where American interests have been protected without interruption for a hundred years. Chicago and Buffalo rank next to New York in the handling of water freight, and are surpassed by only three European ports.

A well-to-do wine-grower from California, who is on a visit to the Eastern cities, declines to commit himself on the Chinese question—if there is a question. He says: "My personal dislike to the Chinese is as strong as anybody's, but that doesn't blind me to the fact that we Westerners would be nearly helpless without them. They have built our railroads, laid out our streets, hewn our wood and drawn our water for us, and to-day we depend on them to run our farms and gardens, do our housework and cook our food. They do for us what women servants do for you in the East."

Crossus—When I came here I didn't have a cent in my pocket. Midas—When I came I didn't even have a pocket. Crossus, admiringly—How? Midas—I was born here.

Maud—He asked me to marry him, but said he had only a broken heart to offer me. Maria—Did you accept him under these conditions? Maud—Yes; his bank account was intact.

"And now, parson," said the editor, "will you ask a blessing before we dine?" "Good Lord," said the parson, "have mercy upon this man and open his eyes that he may see and understand that greens are not green without bacon, and that grace without grits is dead!"

Mother—What did young Mr. Tompkins say to you, Clara, when he was trying to button your glove? Clara, sadly—He said that the man who would make a glove that wouldn't button any easier than that ought to be hanged. Mother—Well, I wouldn't waste any more time there!

First Cabman to gentleman with lady on his arm—Keb, sir? It's beginning to rain. Second Cabman, as the couple pass on in silence—What I want to waste your breath for? I knowed she was only his sister?

Cumso, to Threds—Not counting you, how many clerks are there in this store who can't tell the truth? Threds, highly indignant—Sir! Cumso—Oh, well, don't be cross about it. How many are there, counting you, then?

Uncle Joe—This is a queer world. City Man—What makes you think so? Uncle Joe—Well, a painter fellow came down to my place last summer, and while he was loafin' about painted a picture of my dog. I heard afterward that he sold it for $50. So I brought up the dog thinking I could get at least a cool $100 for him; but, by jingo, I couldn't give him away!

Old Bachelor, in want of a house-keeper—And where did you say your last place was? Applicant—My last situation was at Enamel, sir. Old Bachelor—What's the name of it—Animal? Applicant—No, sir, Enamel. Old Bachelor—Where the dooce is that? Applicant—It's hin Suffick, sir, Lord Stradbrooke's. Old Bachelor—How do you spell it? Applicant—Haitch, Hee, Hen, Haitch, Hay, Hem, Haitch, Hay, Hell, Hell, sir. Old Bachelor, relieved—O-o-o-o-h! He haz haz Haitch!

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, P. J. Homes for World's Fair Visitors. In view of the crowded condition of Chicago and its hotels during the World's Fair period, Peole Bros. have done a public service in issuing a very carefully prepared list of the Homes in Chicago that are thrown open to the public upon this occasion. The list is complete and gives the name, location, number of rooms, etc., so that correspondence may be had and arrangements made before the visitor comes to Chicago. This list is accompanied by splendid sectional maps of the city on a large scale, by which the location of every house can be accurately found. The list is obtained at the Michigan Central Ticket Office at the Publisher's price of 50 cents, less than the value of the maps themselves.

The Oakland County Advertiser, (Republican) must be one of the few honest party papers in Michigan. It says "the present legislature is the worst lot of good-for-nothing misrepresentatives that has ever been at Lansing."

He crawled out off the morning train with a yawn and began to entertain the first person he met with an account of his ailments. He claimed his home to be at Clifford and was agent for a cement that was very wonderful. Then the question of poor health was again brought to the front. He rubbed his ear that was about as thick as a wall and told how he had been in cold weather; had a bad spell yesterday and feared another to-day just a little worse; thought the world was all going to pieces, just then the freight came through and he crawled on and went south to help make some other part of the world gloomy.

We cannot judge a man or woman properly by seeing them out in society. We wish to see their home life. Many have an open countenance out in company and fold it up like an umbrella on their return home. A person who is courteous at home will be courteous every where, but one who puts on the hypocrite air out "among them" is often a tyrant at home. Now such people have a bad heart and should get a sound cussing from their fellowmen. Yes, they will be offended, but they want others to think they are better than they are, so a denouncing will keep them in check. If we can't all pray for them we can use some other means to keep such despot creatures in place.

Messrs. Dullman & Bru—Gentlemen: For over 4 years I have been afflicted with an eruption of the skin, which became very troublesome and I could get no relief. I was also troubled very badly with constipation, which nothing I tried gave any permanent relief until I took Dullman's Great German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Remedy, and since taken I have been entirely cured. For a tonic, blood purifier and general health restorer I can heartily recommend it. $1 a bottle. Mrs. Wm. Copeland, Flint, Mich. For sale at Fritz's drugstore.

It does the work. Mr. Chas. Gocha, Gaylord, Michigan, says: "I am asked, 'Did Brant's Balsam do you any good?' Well I should say it did! LaGrippe left me with a serious cough and lung trouble, for which I took about all the cough remedies I had ever heard of, without benefit. Mr. Russell, our druggist, suggested Brant's Balsam. As it was a large bottle for 25 cents I took one. It helped me; I used six bottles and was cured completely. (Cost $1.50.) Can heartily recommend it; it's a great medicine." 25 and 50c bottles at
