Benton, Ark., May 20th, 1892.

Messrs Lipman Bros., Sav. Ga.

Gentlemen:

I have had rheumatism about two months during last winter, was confined to my room most of the time. I saw an advertisement in the Saline Courier recommending P. P. P. as a cure for rheumatism. I bought three bottles, but before I got through with the third bottle I was cured, and have not felt the least effect of Rheumatism since. It is undoubtedly the best remedy for rheumatism I ever tried. I can cheerfully recommend it to the public.

Yours truly,
D. M. Cunningham.

A LIBERAL OFFER.

For a limited time, to introduce the ENTERPRISE into homes in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties where it has not yet found its way, we will receive new, trial, three months' subscriptions for TWENTY CENTS. Send in your names with twenty cents in stamps at once, and receive one of the largest and newest papers in the three counties three months on trial. Address, "Enterprise," Cass City, Mich.

TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Over five hundred dollars are due us on subscription account. Those in arrears will please call and settle at once, and oblige, Respectfully,
THE PUBLISHERS.

Look out for good times. Congress has assembled.

Miss Florence Smith spent Sunday with friends in town.

Frank Martin is on the war path with his threshing machine.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hunt, of Caro, were guests at T. H. Hunt's Thursday.

J. D. Crosby officiated as one of the judges at the races at Caro last week.

Tuscola, Huron & Sanilac fair, at Cass City, September, 19, 20, 21 and 22.

Miss Cora Martin is among those attending the institute at Caro this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McPhail visited at Dugald McIntyre's, in Cumber, on Sunday.

2 Macks 2 are again to the front with special bargains. They announce a "grand removal sale." Particulars in another column.

W. F. Duggan, of Buffalo, N. Y., visited with his parents and many friends in town from Saturday till Monday. Frank is manager of the New York Bazaar at that place.

E. H. Pinney has built a new sidewalk in front of his two buildings on Main street, that conforms with the one recently laid in front of the Crosby block. Let the good work continue.

Ensley Weir, at one time employed in the ENTERPRISE office, had the misfortune to have two of his fingers on his right hand cut off last week while using the paper cutter in the Imlay City Times office.

Street Commissioner Brotherton had a large force of men at work part of this week, cutting down the crop of burdock and other weeds that grow so abundantly in the alleys, nooks and corners. A good job!

Another disgruntled, boiler-plate paper, which is published at Vassar and which is surely a Pioneer in its way, is "green eyed" towards this paper. Keep right on, gentlemen, while the ENTERPRISE continues to do the business and increase in popularity.

Everything is exceedingly dry. If a fire should break out in town and gain much headway, its seriousness can be conjectured. Why not give the fire engine a practical test at least once a week? Better lock the stable before the horse is stolen, etc.

A pleasant surprise was planned by Miss Mabel Drew for her cousin, Mrs. W. J. Cloakey, who, upon her return from a ride, found her home in the hands of about fifteen of her young friends. It was Mrs. Cloakey's birthday and, during the evening, she was the recipient of a gold watch chain.

Miss Belle McKenzie returned on Wednesday from her four weeks' visit at Chicago and the White City. Miss McKenzie has our thanks for a sample of printing done on one of the first printing presses ever used, and which is now on exhibition at the Fair beside one of the modern web perfecting presses.

The brick-laying on J. F. Hendrick's new store was commenced Wednesday.

T. H. Fritz and family and Mrs. S. M. Gilchrist are at Oak Bluff this week.

J. L. Hitchcock has a new advertisement which is of especial interest to builders.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Fairweather are visiting their parents in Imlay City this week.

Jos. Reuter, proprietor of the Cass City Bakery and lunch room, has an advertisement in another column.

Our band is reviving. They have purchased some of the latest music and propose again getting in first-class shape for fall engagements.

The premium lists for the fourth annual fair, of the Tuscola, Huron & Sanilac Fair Association, are being printed at the ENTERPRISE office.

Miss Nella Gregory is now an assistant in the office of Henry Stewart, county drain commissioner. Miss Gregory is a sister of Mrs. Stewart.

Elder J. S. Deming has the thanks of the ENTERPRISE for a fine basket of peaches of the cling-stone variety. Mr. Deming anticipates quite a crop of peaches this season.

Chas. Ale, who has been employed at Almie Harbor, Ont., returned to his parental home at this place last week, being obliged to give up his position for a time on account of an attack of fever.

About two hundred national banks and several private banks have failed within the past two months. Doc Deming's diagnosis of the case is "over-production."

Robert Brown, of Novesta, raised fifty bushels of wheat on one acre of ground. The wheat is of the "Early Red Clawson" variety. A sample of the wheat is on exhibition at this office.

Miss Florence Smith, who was re-engaged as second primary teacher of our schools, has tendered her resignation, which was accepted by the Board the other evening. Miss Smith has a higher position at a better salary in an Upper Peninsula school.

London, Eno & Keating, the wide-awake plaining mill men, have an important announcement to the public on the supplement this week. They have one of the best equipped mills in the "Thumb," and are up to the times in every particular. Peruse their advertisement carefully.

L. C. Smith took his final departure yesterday afternoon for West Branch, where he will assume immediate control of the drug store which he has purchased. Lou is an upright, pushing young man, and will keep a first-class store. He has the best wishes of his numerous friends at this place.

Prof. Burley Tubbs, of Mayville, gave several very fine races with his trained horses. The Roman chariot races were very interesting and created considerable interest.—Caro Democrat.

Prof. Tubbs and his horses would undoubtedly prove a splendid attraction for the managers of our fair to secure.

J. D. Crosby witnessed a game of ball between the Bad Axe nine and the Sand Beach nine, on the grounds of the latter on Tuesday last. The game resulted in a score of 10 to 12 in favor of the Bad Axe boys. Base ball is creating as much excitement in sporting circles in Huron county at present as it did in Cass City in '87-'88.

Rev. Eyanno, a native of Japan, but who is studying for the ministry at Naperville (Ill.) College, of the Evangelical Association, will lecture on Japan, in the Evangelical Church, Cass City, Tuesday evening, August 15. Rev. Eyanno will speak in English. No admission will be charged, but a collection will be taken. All are invited to turnout and hear the young Japanese.

A union Sunday school excursion will be run on the P. O. & N. R'y, from North Branch and all intervening stations, to Bay Port, on Wednesday, Aug. 23. Sunday schools of the several denominations are invited to participate. The train will leave Cass City at 8 o'clock a. m., standard time, and the fare for the round trip will be sixty cents. Children between the ages of 5 and 12 years, half fare.

Somebody says that there is said to be one editor in heaven. How he got in there is not positively known, but it is conjectured that he passed himself off for a minister and stepped in unexpectedly. When the dodge was discovered they searched the realms of felicity in all their length and breadth for a lawyer to draw up the necessary papers for his ejection, but they couldn't find one so of course he held the fort.

Miss Ida Wright departed Monday for the World's Fair.

A. C. Hayes is now clerking for 2 Macks & Co., at Kingston.

Miss Dell Beach left Tuesday for Saginaw, where she expects to remain for some time.

Mrs. A. Wickware and daughter, Myrtle, of Wickware are visiting in town this week.

L. A. Boomhower has returned from Ponton, where he has been attending school this summer.

Miss Addie Mickle, of Clinton, Ont., is visiting at her parental home one mile south of town.

Geo. Willoughby and wife, of Clyde, have been visiting the former's sister, Mrs. R. C. Beach, the past two weeks.

Fred Schwaderer returned on Wednesday from the Agricultural College, that institution having closed for the usual vacation.

W. B. Predmore now rides in a fine new, grade A, carriage, purchased of H. S. Wickware. The vehicle is fitted with spring cushions.

A Deford merchant has the following original sign posted up in his store: "To Trust is to bust; to Bust is Hades,—no Trust, no Bust, no Hades."

Fred Smithson is reported to have narrowly escaped being fleeced by a would-be pick-pocket at Bay Port last Sunday. A scar under his eye is proof of the encounter.

All the important news from every part of the three counties can be found in the ENTERPRISE, besides state and general news. Subscribe for a live paper and keep posted.

E. A. McGeorge has returned from Howard City, where he has been located for some months past, and again forms part of the firm of A. Frutheley & Co., egg dealers. We are pleased to note his return.

Geo. A. Benkelman, of Jaqua, Kansas, is here on a visit to his father, Adam Benkelman, and brothers. Mr. Benkelman reports the wheat crop in his vicinity this season about as light as is the money crop the U. S. over.

The Detroit Free Press has purchased a new $100,000 home, which it will move into within a year. The building is located in the most central part of the city, and will be a model office for a model newspaper.

Mrs. Chas. Spitzer and two children, of Bakersfield, Cal., arrived in town on Tuesday for several weeks visit with relatives and friends. Mrs. Spitzer reports her husband as being prosperous and well pleased with his new home in the Far West.

The ENTERPRISE "devil" is all marred up this week, the result of a contact with Arley Smith and a corn-husking peg. The boys say that Toot lowered the best sprinting record when his opponent commenced using the above deadly weapon.

Fish seem to be quite plentiful in Cass River this season, as our "fishermen" report a good catch. S. Champion, however, is evidently a better barber than fisher, as he was seen the other evening stealthily returning from the river, via the back alleys, carrying a fish about so long.

Our Karr's Corners correspondent gives the particulars this week of a team-running accident that occurred near that place last Friday. In this case one of the horses had its leg cut off by a broken tongue, which made it necessary to kill the animal. When will some young men learn better than to "run horses" on the highway? Probably a few more such costly lessons as this will serve to teach them better.

Last Saturday morning, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rittinger were presented with a beautiful, gold lined, silver tea set of seven pieces by members of the Presbyterian Church, as a token of their esteem; also in recognition of Mrs. Rittinger's faithful services as organist. The presentation was made by Mrs. J. D. Crosby and Mrs. E. H. Pinney. Mr. and Mrs. Rittinger desire to thank their friends for their kind remembrance.

Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews, contributes to the August number of his own magazine an illustrated article upon the career of the late Senator Leland Stanford. The articles cover in an interesting way the early period of Stanford's life, his migration to California, his rise as a business man, his services as a war governor, his instrumentality in the construction of Pacific railways, and finally his growing work in the establishment of the Leland Stanford, Jr., University. The article is an interpretive discussion of the principles that underlay the career of this eminently successful man.

Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Last Tuesday Sheriff Jarvis came over from Caro and arrested Jacob Schenck, of this place, on the charge of taking improper liberties with the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Winegar, also of this place.

The complaint, which was entered by Mr. Winegar and issued by Justice, E. B. Landon, charges the defendant with "having taken improper liberties with a female child under the age of fourteen years."

Mr. Schenck admits the charge and says nothing in defense of his indecent behavior.

He was taken before Justice Landon, waived examination and his bail was fixed at one thousand dollars, which was furnished. His trial will occur at the September term of the circuit court.

The penalty which the law prescribes for the crime for which Mr. Schenck is under arrest, is a fine of one thousand dollars or ten years imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Mr. Schenck is a man about seventy-three years old, in good circumstances, has been an ardent member of the M. E. Church for many years past, and the sensation, not to say indignation, that his crime has caused in this vicinity, can be imagined.

Our Churches.

Pastors are invited to contribute.

Rev. B. F. Wade filled the pulpit in the M. E. Church Sunday morning. There were no services in this church in the evening.

Rev. Bogen, the new Evangelical minister of this circuit, filled his appointment in the church at this place last Sunday morning and evening.

The audiences in the Presbyterian Church last Sunday morning and evening, had the pleasure of listening to the singing of Miss Carrie Hitchcock. Miss Hitchcock was assisted by H. Seed, Misses Lilly Wickware and Joe McClinton, the latter acting as organist.

Rev. F. L. Curry's lecture last Sunday evening on the Indianapolis convention of the B. Y. P. U. A., is reported as being decidedly interesting and instructive. The choir sang the convention hymns. Rev. Curry will lecture on the same subject next Sunday evening.

The ice cream social held at the Bethel M. E. Church, on the evening of July 28, under the auspices of the Epworth League, netted $9.20. The League is increasing in number and the religious services are well attended. They invite everyone, whether Christians or not, to attend. Prayer meeting next Sunday evening, Aug. 13, at Elijah Tanner's.

Kittie Higgins, of Bad Axe, visited relatives in this place last week.

Mrs. J. D. Brooker is spending the week with Mrs. Laing and Mrs. James at Oak Bluff.

J. F. Hendrick was in Sand Beach last week taking mineral baths and enjoying himself generally.

Rev. San Bettis is now endeavoring to bring Crosswells to a full realization of the error of their ways.

We notice a decided change for the better in the Minden Herald since passing into the hands of a new proprietor.

Mrs. Hern has traded her farm in Novesta for the house and lot of Mrs. E. P. Smith, corner of Garfield Avenue and West street. The deal was consummated on Monday.

J. W. Brackenbury, formerly a resident of this vicinity but now of River Rouge, near Detroit, visited with Geo. Perkins part of last week. Mr. Brackenbury did not fail to renew his subscription to the ENTERPRISE before returning.

Ringling Bros.' circus will show at Pontiac next week Tuesday, August 15. This company made a tour of Michigan last year and made a favorable impression. The P. O. & N. R'y. will give low fares for the benefit of those desiring to attend the show.

One hundred brave, (?) would-be lynchings started out early last Sunday morning to murder two boys who were suspected of having killed their father last winter. The boys instead of allowing the mob to put a hemp rope around their neck, commenced firing with shot guns, and killed four of the crowd. The boys did right. The number of lynchings that are daily occurring are a disgrace to the United States Government. If the authorities would make the proper effort to bring to justice the participants in these lynchings and torturing bees, there would be a perceptible decrease in the number within a short time.

Our Neighbors.

What They Are Doing.—News Notes of Interest to All.

James Montague, of Caro, is now the owner of "Hardwood Chief," a stallion formerly owned at Saginaw.

At Verona Mills, Huron county, Thomas Dunn as has been appointed postmaster vice Ann J. Scott, resigned.

Over one hundred teachers are reported to have attended the teachers' examination held at Caro last Thursday and Friday.

The "crossway" between Carsonville and Sanilac Center is being graveled. The people have been shaken up long enough.

Mrs. John C. Tanager, of Greenleaf, has petitioned the Probate Court for an order to admit her husband to the asylum for the insane.

The saloon of Henry Stewart, at Caro, was broken into Saturday morning and $75 worth of choice cigars and what small change was left in the drawer taken.

A run-away horse attached to a hay rake caused considerable excitement on the streets at Vassar one day last week. The driver, Ben. Blackley, was thrown off and quite badly cut about the head.

A. C. Graham, of Freiburger, was the only successful candidate for this county at the civil service examination held July 18th. Other successful ones were Wm. F. Stevenson, of Port Huron, Elmer E. Stockwell of Wales.—Minden Herald.

John Duncan of Bridgehampton township, Sanilac county, was arrested on Tuesday of this week for abusing his wife. Later his daughter swore out another warrant for him on the charge of criminal intimacy with her. The latter warrant will be served as soon as the first charge is settled. Duncan will probably go to keep company with Burwell, the Sanilac county man who was convicted of a like crime and who recently commenced serving a long sentence in the state prison.

Caro Democrat: "C. E. Patterson of this place has purchased the Vassar Times of J. K. Tindall, and will take possession of the same next week. Mr. Patterson is a first-class printer, a good writer and a worker and we predict a successful future for the Times under his management. Mr. Tindall has made many friends in this part of the state during his residence in Vassar, who will wish for him a successful future wherever he may decide to locate."

Wm. Johnson's steam threshing machine was burned last week while working on the farm of E. M. Shafter, in Tuscola township. Mr. Shafter lost two wagons loaded with about thirty bushels of wheat in the straw. There was no insurance on the threshing outfit, but the wagons, racks, etc., were insured in the Tuscola County Farmers' Mutual, but owing to the fact that Mr. Shafter did not leave a watchman with the engine while on his place, as the conditions of the policy require, his claim for insurance has been disallowed by the board.

Mrs. Outwater and son Harry recently returned from a visit with relatives in Argyle.

An Arkansas editor puts it thusly: "You may have all the stars in a nail keg, hang the ocean on a rail to dry, put the sky in a gourd to soak, unbutton the bellyband of eternity and let out the sun and moon; but never delude yourself with the idea that you can escape that place on the other side of purgatory unless you pay for your newspaper."

Commissioner of Banking Sherwood reports that complete returns from both the state and national banks show that from May 4th to July 23 the deposits in Michigan banks decreased $10,002,882.15. The great bulk of this sum represents saving deposits, business men having withdrawn little or no money from the banks. It is safe to say that the bulk of this is stored away in old teapots and stockings.—[Journal.

The big Columbian show may be and undoubtedly is a big thing for Chicago but it's cofoundedly bad for business in Michigan. The economizing that is being done by people, to enable them to visit the show, is drying up all the avenues of trade and business. Economy is commendable at all times, but when a man is overcome by the idea, that in order to be able to take in the show, he must not pay any of his debts, big or little, nor do any trading with home institutions, is an overwhelming nuisance and grossly wrong all classes.—[Ex.

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN

WALTER BESANT believes that Chicago will be the metropolis of America. Chicago will regard Walter as rather stupid. Couldn't he see that she is already that?

The king of Siam introduced street cars into Bangkok, he lights his harem with electricity and is adopting the agencies of civilization rapidly. The bicycle hasn't got there yet, it appears.

The suggestion has been made that Chicago is in danger of growing too fast. However, by means of grade crossings and a high rate of speed, the city seems in a fair way to avert such calamity.

That crank who was so blatantly proposing to be buried alive for a month or so reduces on being "called down" to what the sporting fraternity is wont to denominate a "counter-felt." A New York association wanted to conduct the test and charge gate money, offering the fellow $4,000 if he was successful. He declined, and quite sensibly, too. He knew the public if it paid to see him buried alive would see to it that there was no trickery about it, and in that event $4,000 would be about as useless to him at the end of a month as to any other candidate for harp and crown.

A GREAT name among Arctic explorers was that of Dr. John Rae, whose death in London at an advanced age was lately announced. Dr. Rae was a native of a northern region, the Orkney Islands, and began his active life as a surgeon in the service of the Hudson's Bay company. His first voyage of Arctic exploration was made in two small boats in 1855 and was successful in its objects. Dr. Rae was at one time the repository of all that was known of the Arctic regions and was one of the bravest of the brave men who have endured so much to solve the problem of the pole.

The claims and counter-claims between Chili and the United States have given rise to more irritation in Chili than in this country and it is well for our commerce that steps have been taken to get them out of the way. The selection of the president of the Swiss republic as arbitrator and his appointment of the Swiss minister at Washington as his representative is a good move toward clearing off the clouds. Possibly when these are settled the Southern republic will look with more friendly eyes on the United States and be more willing to throw its trade in this direction.

The next war, if there ever be one, is to be carried on by wholesale. To the hundreds of other implements of destruction which have recently been invented, a French genius has added a piece of light artillery which has a capacity for firing four charges in fifteen minutes, each of which throws 25,000 bullets over a surface of 20,000 square yards at a distance of two miles. With such death-dealing machines as this, there seems little need for the 22,000,000 soldiers composing the European armies, unless it be as food for the enormous quantities of powder and shot, which otherwise might be wasted.

Time was when Boston was essentially an American city and when old land marks were cherished as fondly as a filial son cherishes the memory of his parents. Bunker Hill monument, old South church, Faneuil hall and the old grave-yards were sacred in old Boston. But now a new order of things obtain. The reverence and care which were distinguishing characteristics have given place to vandalism. Old South church is gone, Faneuil hall will soon be among the things that were and as for the old grave-yards, where sleep revolutionary heroes, where Massachusetts' illustrious Governor Winthrop lies buried, are turned into playgrounds for Russian and Hungarian children who have knocked down and carried away nearly every grave mark.

A LONDON dispatch states that three years ago Lord Salisbury made an agreement with the French ambassador at London by which the British were to occupy the Shan States claimed by Siam, while the French were to have all the left bank of the Mekong. In other words, Siam was to be dismembered without even the pretense of consulting her on the disposition of her own territory. If China should conquer Germany and the United States should occupy Italy, after which they should proceed to make a treaty by which each generously gave the other a slice of France, the statesmen of Europe would probably consider their conduct rather high-handed. Distance not only lends enchantment to the view, but seems to lend morality to theft.

FRANCE takes foreign territory against the will of its occupants. The United States declines to take valuable territory that is trying to fall into her arms. There are republics and republics.

News that a thoughtless sealer had taken a porpoise and disabled the Mohican sent a thrill of indignation through the American navy. To be sure the news was erroneous, but there is nevertheless a feeling that the Mohican ought not to be exposed to such danger.

WOODS OF THE WORLD

AS SEEN IN THE FORESTRY BUILDING DISPLAYS.

Trees and Their Products Shown to Advantage—The Creator of the World Glorified in This Department of the World's Fair.

[World's Fair Correspondence.] HERE IS NOT much of unadorned nature at the Fair. Man and man's achievements are glorified, but excepting the blue sky, a bit of foliage here and there and the sparkling waters of the lake, the lines of the great author are not legibly written. It is a relief, therefore, to turn from manifold products of a torrid industry in the great buildings, and all the hard work of an agency greater than humanity. In keeping with the display within is the exterior of the building. A column surrounds the entire structure. The overhanging roof is supported on the trunks of trees in the natural state, representing the forest growth of the United States and of foreign countries. The sides of the building are made of slabs with the bark removed, while the roof is that of various barks. The interior of the building is finished with a trace of the elaborate decorations common in the other structures at the Fair. Wood fresh from the mill is the building material employed. Art has had something to do with the exhibits, of course, but only in support of the natural products of the ground, nowhere being apparent the studied effects of decoration that has brought into being in the agricultural display of grain palaces. There are no wood palaces, although some of the state and foreign pavilions are of rare beauty.

There are sights of special moment in the building, independent of the general run of exhibits, at active as everything. California redwood, from the giant trees of the Pacific coast, comes first in order of prominence. Cross-sections of big trees, showing the bark, are exhibited at various points. In the exact center of the building is shown a cross-section fourteen feet in diameter. The tree was 475 years old in 1492, the label informs the reader. In strong contrast to the dark color of wood are two giant bamboos, which grow above the ceiling of the building. The sides of this center piece are formed of representative woods of the world. Redwood is attractively displayed in the California exhibit, both in the natural state and worked into planks, either rough or polished. To the left of the entrance to the California state pavilion is a giant slab. The color is a rich red brown, spotted with the markings peculiar to this wood. Inside are other planks and cross sections, some of which show bark of a thickness of two feet. Redwood is shown in several of the buildings of the Fair. In the government and agricultural buildings are arranged clever imitations of the trunk of the tree as it appears in the forests, while in the Midway pleasure is a similar exhibit. At the extreme southern end of the forestry building is shown the largest plank in the world. It is of redwood, from Humboldt county, California. Of it the following description is given:

"The great tree from which the plank was hewn was 35 feet in diameter, when standing, and was supposed to have reached the patriarchal age of 1,500 years. A part of one side of the tree had rotted, and, after it had been felled, in turning up the surrounding brush, still more of the tree was destroyed by fire, so that the width of the plank represents less than half of the original diameter of the tree. The entire height of the tree was 300 feet; the plank being cut from a section of the trunk 28 feet from the ground. The plank is the largest in the world, its dimensions being as follows: 16 feet 5 inches wide, 13 feet 9 inches long and 5 inches thick. It is highly improbable if a tree will ever be found that will yield a larger plank in the world. It is of redwood, from Humboldt county, California. Of it the following description is given: cross sections of trees from Oregon. There is a yellow fir log 6 feet in diameter. The yellow fir grows all over the northwest coast range mountains. It is of superior excellence for ship building and spars. It ranges from 2 to 10 feet in diameter. A cross section of a trunk of the land spruce is shown. It is 4 feet 9 inches in diameter. The butt was 10 feet in diameter, the tree being 305 feet high and 300 years old. Great slabs of noble fir, spruce, lovely fir, and yellow fir are shown.

IN THE PALM GROVE OF THE MOORISH PALACE.

Japan almost ever present at the Fair, shows the distinctive woods of the country in a pavilion formed of bamboo near the northern entrance of the building. The extreme neatness of the people is nowhere better exemplified. Everything is of exquisite freshness and cleanliness. On the exterior of the booth are pictures illustrative of forestry and its pursuits. Within are shown, among a multitude of other things, baskets and other fine straw work and matting. At either side of the entrance are fine slabs of wood and descriptions of the method of distilling gum camphor from the wood of the tree it comes from, and the collection and rectification of lacquer so lavishly used in the arts of Japan.

India's exhibit is chiefly of carving in the distinctive woods of the country. A doorway is shown, carved in teak wood. Of this an official description says:

"The general outline and design of the doorway is the same as those used in the thorough and in different parts of the Mandalay palace, but the detail is more elaborate than anything which the palace contains. The triangular space above the door contains designs intended to represent the city of Mandalay with the king and his courtiers. The lowest tier shows the city wall with one of the seven-roofed gateways. On and around this are the guardian nats of the city and other mythological figures. The doorway is supposed to represent the king's ministers, and the highest represents the king and his queens in the palace. The whole was executed by a Mandalay carver, Maung Shwe Daing. A carved mantel shelf is also shown, made of five different woods, some of great antiquity. Another exhibit of interest is that of a great Douglas fir saw log from the state of Washington. It is 72 feet, twenty-four feet long. The woods of South America are known in all the markets of the world. They embrace all the varieties of tropical woods used in the arts and industries, as well as others with medicinal properties.

As illustrative of the several countries of the eastern shores of the continent the exhibit of the Argentine Republic will be taken as typical. In this country there are 400 different kinds of woods of 60 families and 175 genera. There are 38 kinds of trees 25 to 40 yards high; 58 kinds of trees 20 yards high; 61 kinds of trees 15 yards high. The others are of lesser height.

Of other foreign countries Brazil makes an attractive display, its entrance to the pavilion being draped with robes made from the bark of trees. Mexico shows precious woods, barks and basket work. British Columbia displays specimens of the Douglas fir. Quebec shows wood pulp manufactures and manufactures, and white pine. Among the many attractive features of France's display are nuts, berries and barks.

Siam's pavilion contains specimens of precious woods, bamboos and straw work. There is a table made of teak wood from a log which laid in Bangkok 100 years. The table top is 5 feet 2 inches wide. There is also an enormous teak plank of a beautiful reddish-brown color. In the Russian exhibit are reproductions in miniature of pitch distilling plants, rafts, etc. New South Wales displays tree trunks and wood.

Some of the state exhibits are particularly fine. Minnesota shows the trunk of a great Norwegian pine. In the center of the pavilion is a booth of vines, the effect being very good. Ohio's pavilion is similar in design to the state building, and the mining and agricultural pavilions. Tree trunks support the roof of the structure. There are panels showing leaves, and sections with and against the grain of the trees of the state. Prominent among the woods is displayed a specimen of the buckeye.

Michigan's display is elaborate. Among the objects of interest is a case curiously carved. West Virginia displays white ash, maple, and spruce among other varieties of wood. North Carolina displays photographs of her trees, as well as specimens of her wood products. There is a curious piece of rhododendron, while palm trees and hanging moss are shown. Indiana makes an attractive display of the woods of the state, both in their natural condition and polished.

An exhibit of the collection of woods of the United States from the American Museum of Natural History at New York. The state of this name is a novel method for displaying the woods. A thin section of the wood of each tree is mounted in a frame with a photograph and leaves of the tree itself. These specimens are arranged so they can be looked through toward the lighted side of the exhibit.

The effect is very fine, each fibre showing. The colored woods are truly beautiful shown in this way. This exhibit shows representative trees by sections of their trunks, as well as panels of the wood polished and varnished. In Louisiana's exhibit are specimens of the tree moss of the south, in the natural state and cured for market, a substitute for curled hair. Pennsylvania's exhibit is simple. Photographs of trees are shown with specimens of their woods. Connecticut displays sections of trunks and polished woods. Colorado spruce is shown in the exhibit of that state. Idaho displays white pine and Arizona shows specimens of worked woods.

CAUGHT BY A PANTHER.

A DESPERATE BATTLE IN THE FOOTHILLS.

Mixed Up With the Brute—Tom Tower Had the Hardest Kind of a Fight, But Came Off Victorious With the Help of a Few Bird Shot and a Knife.

Tom Tower, a young rancher of Murietta, is slowly recovering from wounds received in a single-handed encounter with a full-grown panther some days ago, the memory of which still haunts his hours both sleeping and waking and the scars from which he will carry to his grave.

A few mornings ago Tower, in company with a friend, started for a forenoon's hunt in the foothills, says the San Francisco Examiner. After a time the two became separated and the friend, meeting with indifferent success, returned to the ranch. Tower continued his way deeper into the foothills, and while going through a dense growth of mesquite and manzanita on his way to the summit of "hog back," he suddenly entered a little clearing a few yards in extent. As he did so a huge panther arose with a growl from his lair under a spreading manzanita in the center of the clearing.

For an instant Tower was paralyzed with fright. Then he rapidly took stock of his situation. Keeping his eyes on the huge beast that was crouching with its yellow belly to the ground, lashing the short sage with its long, flexible tail, its short ears flattened to its head, snarling, showing its terrible long, white fangs, and the long body swaying preparatory for a resistless leap.

His weapons consisted of a double-barreled shotgun loaded with fine shot, a short, stout-bladed knife, two good arms, a strong, athletic frame and an abundance of clear, true grit. But what of his antagonist that would be upon him in another instant? A sinewy, supple, powerful body, paws that could crush the skull of an ox, jaws that could bite through his thigh with one crunch, and a thick, tawny hide that would afford successful resistance to those pitifully small shot.

His only hope was to blind the brute with the shot. He had been standing motionless, fearing that the slightest movement might precipitate that terrible leap. But now the silence was broken by the sharp click of the cocked gun, and with a quick downward movement of his left hand he loosened the knife in his belt, then braced himself for the catanault.

It was not long delayed. With the first movement by Tower the panther had crouched lower, its body trembling more violently, and now it sprang into the air with a cry between a roar and a scream. As it left the ground Tower fired the right barrel full into the beast's front and then jumped nimbly to one side.

The brute screamed again while yet in the air, and as it struck the ground tore its head with its paws and bit at that sharp stinging pain in its breast. Tower had only time to step back three or four paces when the maddened animal sprang again, and again met the full force of the second load of shot fired by that steady hand, and again did Tower leap to one side, at the same moment throwing open the breech of his gun and reaching to his belt for more cartridges. But the panther did not delay the third leap. It had hardly touched the ground when it was up, and this time reached its victim, striking Tower full in the breast and sinking its fangs, with a crunching snarl, deep into his left shoulder.

As the two went down Tower grasped his short knife and, as the fangs of his antagonist met in his shoulder, drove it to the hilt in the animal's side. With a scream of pain the panther released its hold only to seize him again. Over and over they rolled, the panther tearing at Tower's limbs and vitals with its cruel claws and crushing his arm and shoulder with its powerful jaws. Tower managed to keep his right arm free and piled it rapidly. Again and again did he drive the knife to the hilt in the animal's neck and side, the hot blood gushing over him at every stroke.

As the afternoon waned and Tower did not return his friend at the ranch became anxious and with three of the men started on a search for his comrade. Going first to the place where they had separated, the searchers took up the trail and had no difficulty in following it, his footprints being plainly distinguished in the soil.

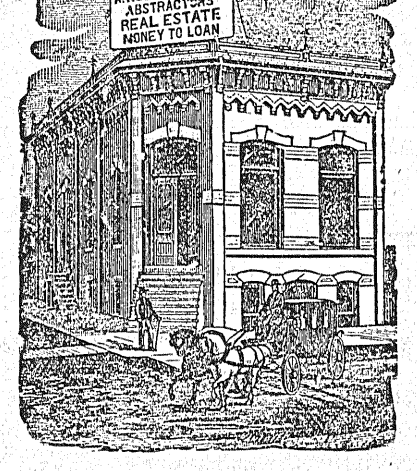

After a tramp of two hours they forced their way through a thicket and found in a little opening an explanation of their friend's absence. There he lay, face downward in the dirt, his clothing almost torn from his body or pasted to the flesh by great clots of dried blood that had poured from deep, gaping wounds. A few feet away, on a plot of blood-soaked ground, lay a full-grown panther, dead, with a short-bladed knife driven to the hilt behind the left fore-shoulder.

Taking in the situation in an instant, the rescuers ran to Tower, supposing, of course, that he was dead, but they were overjoyed to find that there was still enough blood left in his veins to create a pulse. It took those men of the mountains but a few moments to construct a litter of manzanita boughs, and placing Tower's almost lifeless body upon it they carried him down the mountain to the ranch. Medical aid was promptly summoned, and Tower is now able to sit up with his feet on the skin of a full-grown panther.

"Did Smiggs marry his wife for her money?" "No, it was for her father's."

OUR MOTTO:
PLUCK, PERSEVERANCE AND PATRIOTISM.

Fernist Canadian Annexation.

We are always glad when a subject of a monarchy or empire makes himself familiar with our republican system of government and our constitution. It is with due respect, therefore, that we are disposed to listen to the statement of Hon. Peter Mitchell of Montreal that Canadian statesmen had made a careful study of our constitution and modeled their own government upon it. Then says Hon. Peter, says he: "Something like a hundred years of trial had disclosed many defects in your democracy. We in Canada located those defects, avoided them and thus turned your test period to profit."

Mr. Mitchell knows the Canadian government system is better than ours because he himself helped to frame it after "locating the defects" in the American system. Then he proceeds to say that the sentiment of Canada is dead against annexation to this country and that any prominent Canadian official who would dare advocate it would be committing political suicide.

If Mr. Mitchell knows as much about Canadian annexation sentiment as he does about the constitution of the United States, he is a wise man indeed. He says that while nothing will induce Canada to be united politically with us, yet nevertheless she wants our tariff modified, and if she cannot get this done in the direction of reciprocity by congress then she "may have to confine the reduction of tariff to states that will reciprocate." This wise Canadian statesman, who avoided the errors of our system when he helped frame the Canadian government, evidently thinks each separate state of this Union makes its own tariff. We are pained to be obliged to point out this break and ask the Hon. P. M. to read the United States constitution once more.

Rajah Rajagan of Kapoorthella.
From the northernmost part of British India in the Punjab comes to us to visit our World's fair his royal highness Jajat Jit Singh, rajah rajagan of Kapoorthella, one of the most loyal of British provinces. They say he has an income equaled only by that of some of the princes in the "Arabian Nights." Moreover, one of his wives—his fourth—is with him, and she is the first Indian princess who ever visited America. But the gentlemanly reporters, who cannot tell a lie, declare that she cannot be called handsome.

Welcome, Jajat Jit! If you have as much money as they say you have and are going to spend a good chunk of it at the World's fair, Chicago will think you are the greatest Indian prince that ever was. You can learn some things from us, and we can learn some from you. If you stay a little while among us and take pains to be instructed, you will learn in America the richest and most extensive vocabulary of slang that ever any one country possessed. You will also learn how good are pumpkin pie and corn roasted in the husk. You will learn to know the science of reportorial interviewing in such perfection as nowhere else exists.

As for us, we can learn from you how to speak the English language properly and in a musical voice. Perhaps some anxious and worried married men may discover, too, how you manage to get on comfortably with a varied assortment of wives, where they find it difficult with only one.

The Italian authorities appear to have been suppressing news of the presence of cholera in Naples. It would be strange if cholera should not appear in Naples if that disease existed anywhere within 10,000 miles of the town, for Naples is the filthiest place in the civilized world. It is doubtful indeed if Naples can be called civilized. Ethnologists say the admixture of heathen negro blood from the north coast of Africa is strongly marked in the lower classes of Neapolitans. At any rate, the city is most offensive to refined eyes and nostrils in spite of all the beauties that nature has lavished thereabouts. That cholera should be in Naples and scarcely a case of it anywhere else in Europe outside of Russia is clear proof that where lack of sanitation is there the pestilence delights to ravage.

It has been found that coal loses by evaporation and wearing away when it is exposed to weather. This is true of both hard and soft coals, but more especially of the soft varieties. In course of a not very long time bituminous coal has been found to have lost one-third in weight and to have only half the value of freshly mined coal for gasmaking purposes. Persons who leave quantities of coal exposed in open yards are therefore subjecting themselves to serious loss.

A man has made the thrilling discovery that the glass coverings for incandescent electric lights need not be pear shaped, but can be made in any design an advertiser's fancy paints. Already the saloon man is putting up in front of his place rows of electric lights incased in beer bottle shaped bulbs.

It is a peculiarly encouraging sign in the midst of the present financial crash that a majority of the banks which suspended resume again in a few weeks.

Figures, checks and colors can now be printed directly upon so called gossamer clothing and waterproof material.

A new adaptation of electricity enables a chemist to "melt like wax" a bar of iron under water.

Siam.

Since 500 years before Christ Siam has been known to history. It includes in its area about 240,000 square miles and has a population of 10,000,000. The country itself and its people are like a leaf cut from the histories of Herodotus and Xenophon and pasted into the story of the latter part of the nineteenth century. From the time Siam was first known to modern history it has been engaged in a struggle with the Laos country people and other wild and fierce tribes on the northeast. In 1838 the king of Siam conquered the Laosians to the extent of forcing them to be tributary to Siam. The Siamese government is an alleged constitutional monarchy, but in reality is despotic. One writer says the Siamese are too polite to oppose the will of their sovereign, whether he violates the constitution or not.

Siam is not powerful enough to subjugate entirely the wild tribes on its northeast boundary. Three centuries ago France began to colonize Tonquin and the region around the edge of Siam. Whatever western civilization has been venerated upon the surface of things in Siam is mostly due to France. That country is, moreover, quite able to exterminate the Laosians and the other tribes that rebel periodically against the Lord of the White Elephant. Therefore it is not strange that she has been waiting many years for a pretext which will enable her to seize the tract on the northeast of Siam for herself and lessen if possible even the kingdom of Siam on that side. Seven years ago the French governor of Indo-China declared that the proper boundary for Siam was a chain of mountains which constitutes the watershed between the rivers Menam and Me-Kong. This would diminish Siam by one-third.

While Siam holds a sort of suzerainty over Laos at present, she herself is under the protection of China and pays a tribute to that country. It is a sort of Chinese puzzle—a ball within a ball. This explains the interest of China in the trouble between Siam and France. The soil of Siam is extremely fertile. It resembles Egypt in many respects. Rice is the principal cereal, and it is grown upon fields which are inundated annually by the Menam, the Nile of Siam. Tropical fruits are produced in great abundance. And if anybody wants to hunt big game and dangerous game Siam is one of the few spots on the globe where this can still be done.

It Was a Pretty Fight.

When a British citizen talks about Americans being undignified and of the unseemly scenes that sometimes take place in our congress, and also of "disorderly meetings in Colorado," just read to him the following little extract from the cable dispatches on the night of the closure of debate concerning the Irish home rule question in the house of commons. Two facts stand out prominent in the general muss. One is that Tim Healy got his silk hat smashed; the other is that Colonel Sanderson, the champion of the Ulster kickers, got a black eye.

Curses, yells of pain and gross insults were heard on every side. John Logan (Liberal) ran down to the first Opposition bench and began upbraiding Edward Carson, a Tory. As he shook his fist under Mr. Carson's nose, George Wyndham and William Fisher jumped to the assistance of their party colleague, seized Mr. Logan by the neck, threw him to the floor head first and then bundled him under a bench. Somebody smashed Tim Healy's high hat down over his eyes. Healy tore off the hat and sprang into the aisle in full fighting posture just as Mr. Hanbury, still shouting that the chairman must name Mr. O'Connor, was trying to get by. Mr. Hanbury was knocked over a bench by the force of the collision before Mr. Healy got in a blow.

A free fight then broke out at the top of the gangway. The center of it was William Redmond (Parliamentary), who had taken advantage of the general license to push over Colonel Sanderson, the champion of the men of Ulster. Sanderson was rescued and led an attack on the Parmentites. Blows were struck right and left. Members fell and were picked up by their friends to fight again. The whole space between the front benches was filled with a struggling, cursing mass of members, striking, clawing and upsetting each other.

Not only did it not hurt the Duke of Veragua's feelings to propose to raise a fund in America for his benefit, but his brother, the Marquis de Barboles, wants a share of the fund too. He complains that he, too, came to America when his brother did and likewise squandered a large amount of his available cash on us and that he is out many thousands of dollars. He doesn't see, therefore, does Barboles, why he shouldn't be included in the American benevolent fund. Apparently Americans need have no fear that the blue blood of Spain will boil with indignation over the proposition to contribute a fund to keep intact its azure hue. Those sensitive gentlemen who feared this might be the case don't know blue blood.

There are pluck and industry enough in the soul of every American citizen who has met with losses in the present panic to pull himself together and go on again. If he uses the experience he gained in this bad blow, it will enable him to weather future ones and become a richer, wiser, happier man than he was before.

In these hard times put the best face you can on things. Hold fast to the idea that everything will shortly come right. Croaking and discouragement make evil things worse.

There is one occupation that is never overcrowded and always pays good wages. It is that of skilled cook.

SUPPLEMENT.

No. 35.

The Hard Times.

Senator Hawley says the American people are peculiarly prone to distrust and suspicion, and they question everything. They doubt even the evidence of their own senses. This is probably one reason for the panic that is now on. With gold coming over from Europe, with silver in small quantity being shipped to Europe, with most of the railroads of the country earning excellent dividends, with good fruit and crop prospects for the country in general and with no important election to disturb the even current of finances, yet bank after bank closes its doors, wheat and silver have been lower than ever before, and stocks have gone down till they are out of sight, that, too, although the substantial ones are paying their dividends as regularly as if they were worth 200 per cent.

It is boldly claimed that bear speculators for their own purposes have fostered and inflamed the native distrust and suspicion of the American disposition and are working it for all it is worth, while they shrewdly buy in property after property to sell it again when times get good. Their machinations can only be met properly by the optimistic spirit which is determined to wait a little till the clouds roll by and then pick up and go on again as though nothing had happened.

They are claiming almost as much for the new compound litho-carbon as used to be claimed for aluminium. They say it makes a paint impervious to weather or barnacles; that it can be applied to cloths and will make them absolutely waterproof and cause no odor to attach to them, as india rubber unfortunately does; that it can be used in a japan coating or paint which heat cannot crack or blister, and that iron bridges, roofs and other exposed iron and steel surfaces varnished with it will never rust. Furthermore, it makes a perfect insulator and as such will be valuable in electrical industries. Finally, if you bend an iron surface that has been varnished with litho-carbon—though you double it over flat across the middle—this wondrous new varnish will not split off or even show any crack. We could be induced to believe the rest of this fairy tale perhaps, but we draw the line on that last statement.

Keep your courage up. In America is no place for despair.

PIGEON.

Two Italians and bear were parading the streets early Monday morning.

A large number of the people of Pigeon spent Sunday in Sebawaing.

A Hampton's little boy had his leg broken last Saturday. Dr. Frezel reduced the fracture.

A harnessmaker struck town the other night, but whether he is lost or stolen we know not, but he has not been seen since.

Chas. Hamaker, who has been clerking in the Hotel Arlington for some time, has secured a remunerative position in Saginaw. Success, Charles.

The Pigeon band is doing an unusual amount of practicing lately, preparatory for the Harvest Festival at Gagetown, as we understand they are billed to play for the occasion.

WEST GRANT.

How-do-you-do?

A new scribe this week.

The berry patch is getting a rest now-a-days.

Joseph Profit was in this part Sunday calling on friends.

Sam Bodey has his kitchen enclosed now. 'Twill make quite an addition of room.

We are sorry to have to accept the resignation of our former scribe.

George Cosgrove was the guest of James Muma, of Karr's Corners, last Sunday.

William Jenereaux, of Wickware, and Miss Clouse, of Cass City, called on the former's sister at Reuben Bodey's last Sunday.

The picnic held in Finkle's Grove last Tuesday by the K. O. T. M. was a success. We did not hear how much money was made. An enjoyable time was had the afternoon and evening.

CASEVILLE.

We had a fine shower Saturday.

Oak Bluff looks like the home of the tent-dwellers.

Caseville folks of organizing a brass band. Success to the effort.

Several went across the bay Monday to pick berries and on pleasure.

Light house keeper, McDonald was in Caseville Monday to buy provisions, returning the same day.

Misses Tot and Pet McKinley have gone to Canada on a visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. A. J. Holmes is expected home from Ypsilanti this week where she has been for several months past.

Forest fires are raging in Lake town ship and is doing a large amount of damage to standing timber.

Some are taking advantage of the reduced subscription to the ENTERPRISE; and, I think, every money is well invested in a live paper like the ENTERPRISE.

The M. E. Ladies' Aid Society gave an ice-cream social at Mr. McLane's Friday evening. A good turn out and a pleasant time.

Robbie McLane, about ten years old, thought he would try his fortune away from home and got as far as Pigeon, and was then sent back home.

Mrs. M. L. Moore is offering to sell her property and goods cheap. To any one wishing to locate in the millinery business, will do well to buy her out as she wants to go out of business.

ELMWOOD

Last week's correspondence.

Mrs. Van Sickle, of Chicago, is visiting at Eli Baxter's.

Those who have cut their barley report a very light crop.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. S. Fletcher on Thursday last.

We hear Mrs. Land is very sick with a partial sun or paralytic stroke.

John Pardo and wife, of Argyle, are visiting the former's parents this week.

Dell Hendrick has been hauling lumber for the erection of a large tool shed.

Quite a number of our Maccabees took in the picnic northeast of Gagetown, Tuesday.

Mr. Hinkley, of Tuscola, who has been visiting at W. Webster's for some time, returned home Monday.

A. Hargraves, son of our genial P. M., who has been visiting here for some time, has returned to his home in the northern part of the state.

Mrs. Ora Ostrander is visiting her mother, Mrs. Lockwood. H. Falchill, of Battle Creek, is also visiting at the same place.

It is the duty of every one to cut and destroy all thistles, rag weed, milk weed, and all such weeds growing in the roads along their land, but it is sadly neglected in most places. While so many are crying "good roads," why do they not try and help improve the looks of the roads we have and not let them be filled with such weeds. The road commissioner should see that they are cut if no one else will.

ELLINGTON.

Corn and buckwheat looks well but needs rain.

Summer-fallows are being prepared for fall wheat.

The oat crop has mostly been cut and taken care of.

E. McKinley threshed ten acres of his wheat and had 224 bushels.

Late planted potatoes are now suffering for rain and will be a light crop without it.

If berry-pickers keep coming thicker and faster much longer there will be more pickers than berries.

Grant Ostrander started Thursday, Aug. 3, on a visit to his brother's, Rev. Wilber Ostrander, who is now located on Flint River Circuit.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bailey started for their summer resort below Sebawaing last week Friday afternoon. They returned last Tuesday.

Wallace Hiller and mother, Mrs. Nancy Hiller, of Columbia, and Mrs. Rosina Molonzo, of Fairgrove, visited relatives here a short time Sunday.

A. J. Turner had a piece of wheat that the straw was so badly twisted that it had to be mowed. There were ten acres of it and it threshed 350 bushels.

Mrs. Julius Hutchinson received a letter from her husband on his return home, calling her home to Akron to take care of the huckleberries that he picked up north. She returned last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moshier, Mrs. Clara Gould and children, J. H. Moshier and W. S. Wilber started for their summer resort below Sebawaing last week Friday afternoon, and will be absent about a week.

August 1st will be remembered from an accident that happened to little Emily Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darius Gould. While walking around out of door in some unknown way she put her right ankle out of joint, breaking loose the cap. Dr. Graves, of Caro, was called and replaced the ankle and she is doing as well as could be expected.

A bad accident happened to the youngest child of William Colwell Jr. on Thursday afternoon. His two children, the oldest a little girl nearly five years old and the other a boy about fifteen months old, were out playing. The little boy got into a yellow jacket's nest and was so badly stung when found that he could neither cry nor make a loud noise. He was carried to the house and blue clay, wet to make it pliable, was put upon his head to remove the pain and swelling.

KARR'S CORNERS.

Beautiful harvest weather.

People are very busy taking care of the barley this week.

A baby girl at Johnny Breckenridge's. More news this week.

Mr. Geo. Dewey begins work with Peter Gage this week.

Lewis Dewey and James Muma are barbers of Karr's Corners.

Mr. George Cosgrove was the guest of J. A. Muma last Sunday.

Archie Karr made a business trip to Caro last Saturday.

John Kilburn has been engaged by Pum Thompson as feeder for his machine.

Miss Watson has been engaged in district No. 2, for another year. School is to begin Sept. 11.

Naaman Karr and Willie Wright traded horses on day last week. It was an even trade.

A wedding at Henry Marshall's last week and another this week on Wednesday, so we hear. Such is life.

The boys who go north on Sunday nights should be careful, for some goblins are reported being seen over that way.

Parmer Karr has traded his drivers to Solomon Karr for a mare and colt and a hundred dollars, and now Solomon will do the driving.

Miss Nellie Landrigan, Miss Ruth Pratt, and James Muma represented Karr's Corners at the Teachers' Examination at Bad Axe; and Miss Grace Karr and Miss Cora Martin at Caro.

Archibald Karr and Miss Rose Lemunyon join destinies to-day (Tuesday). They are both of this place and their many friends join in wishing them future happiness. We'll give particulars next week.

A very serious run-a-way occurred last Friday, which proved fatal to one of the horses. As Benjamin Castle was returning from Cass City, he engaged in the sport of running horses with some one and his team became unmanageable. Ben jumped out and let them go, when about a quarter of a mile south of Bethel Church. At Bethel Church one clevis-bolt flew out and left one horse to draw the wagon also letting the tongue drop down. The horses ran in this manner for two miles, but along the road somewhere the tongue was broken and the stub punched the feet of one horse cutting one hoof half off and severing one foot half off at the footlock joint. This was what undoubtedly stopped the horses. The injured horse is no more.

KINGSTON.

Barley is a light crop this year; so say the threshers.

Black-berries are in the market now, but they are small on account of the dry weather.

The street commissioner is staking the streets preparing to grade for new side walks.

If this dry weather continues, watch sharp for fires, as the season for burning is drawing nigh.

Last week Mrs. Randall returned home from Flint, where she has been attending a normal.

Saturday evening we were disappointed to see the showers go south and north of us and leave the ground nearly dry.

Miss Coltson and Miss Nedry came home last week. They attended the normal at Caro. This week they are attending the teachers' institute.

Last Wednesday the daughter of Mrs. Stewart was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. Sanderson, of Chicago. The happy couple took the first train for home.

A FRIEND

Speaks through the Boothbay (Me.) Register, of the beneficial results he has received from a regular use of Ayer's Pills. He says: "I was feeling sick and tired and my stomach seemed all out of order. I tried a number of remedies, but none seemed to give me relief until I was induced to try the old reliable Ayer's Pills. I have taken only one box, but I feel like a new man. I think they are the most pleasant and easy to take of anything I ever used, being so finely sugar-coated that even a child will take them. I urge upon all who are in need of a laxative to try Ayer's Pills. They will do good."

GRAND ISLAND, NEB., April 8th, 1892.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

GENTLEMEN: I had been troubled with HEART DISEASE FOR THE LAST 30 YEARS, and although I was treated by many physicians and tried many remedies, I grew steadily worse until I WAS COMPLETELY PROSTRATED AND CONFINED TO MY BED WITHOUT ANY HOPE OF RECOVERY. I would have very bad sink my pulse was NEW HEART CURE and it was the greatest difficulty that my circulation could be at. I tried your NEW HEART CURE and it was a good day's work for me in 18 years of age. I give you credit for my recovery. It is over six months since I have taken any, although I keep a bottle in the house in case I should need it. I have also used your NERVE AND LIVER PILLS, and think a great deal of them.

[Special Washington Correspondence to the International Press Association.]

The ninth extra session was the first session of the Thirty-seventh congress, and was convened on the Fourth of President, Vice President, Cabinet and Fifty-third Congress of the United States.

30, 1880, reconstituted an extra session of the Forty-sixth congress, which was convened by President Hayes on the 15th day of March, 1879. Several important bills have since been passed during this session besides the appropriation bills above named, including an act placing quinine on the free list, one to prevent the introduction of contagious and infectious diseases into the United States, the commission on the Colorado River Commission, etc. During the session President Hayes vetoed five bills, viz: Army and legislative, etc. bills a bill to prevent military interference in elections, and a bill making appropriations to sustain the expenses, and a bill to pay fees of marshals and their deputies, none of which were assented over his veto.

The Coming Extra Session.

The President has announced his assembling will be to select its officers. Vice-President Stephenson will preside over the Senate, by virtue of his election last November. Speaker Crisp will be speaker of the House at an adjournment, and will be re-elected at the end, but it is well understood that there will be considerable of a speaker-ship fight as usual on the reassembling of congress, but that Mr. Crisp will be re-elected to the office of speaker is not doubted or questioned by his friends. The next work will be the appointment of committees. Usually this takes two weeks to a month, and is interrupted by the adjournment of the House. Mr. Cleveland has had the foresight to assemble congress in August, there will be no holiday interruption, and the committees will be in working order by the middle or latter part of the month. The President has already announced he will have all its preliminary work done

The chairman of the committee on coinage, weights and measures, virtue of his position will be the leader of the opposition to the repeal of the vote of the House. The position is one of importance, and requires a skillful parliamentarian, a good debater and a man with the greatest possible power of convincing. Obviously he must be in sympathy with the repeal of the act, in favor of the absolute repeal of the Sherman law, without any entangling free coinage alliances. Mr. Blaine is persona non grata in that position, and it is probable he will be retired.

Bourke Cockran is perhaps the best equipped man for the position of chairman of the committee in the Democratic ranks. He possesses all the eloquence and force of a great orator, and is a powerful personal magnetism. In debate he would be simply invincible but for the one fact that he is not ready at parliamentary practice. Even his friends who are anxious to have him as chairman of the committee on coinage, weights and measures, are critical. His weak point is as a parliamentarian. It is possible that this objection will be waived, and Mr. Cockran called to the chairmanship of the committee. Still there are other men who are equally eligible, and the choice of one of them is very difficult to predict with any degree of certainty.

The financial struggle of course will be the first and foremost matter to be decided, and it promises to be a very exciting fight. President Cleveland has set his heart on the repeal of the present Sherman silver law, by which the government buys 4,500,000 ounces of silver each month and coins it into six if the act is repealed there will be no other hazard to business. It is certainly a fact that the repeal will be able to secure a majority both the House and the Senate for the repeal of this Sherman act. The silver men are numerous in Congress, and they even claim a majority. They are anxious to stop any stoppage in the purchase of silver. They want the government to purchase not only 4,500,000 ounces each month, but all the silver mined in the United States. They want the anti-silver men will be as gue with the latter, and it will be an interesting spectacle to see whether the administration will be able to enforce

After the silver question has been disposed of, the extra session may be

Mutual Secrecy About the Family Diamonds in a New York Home.

One day two years ago John Drucker, a diamond broker, was visited by the husband, who explained the object of his call by producing his wife's diamond necklace, with the request that the real stones be purchased for $2,000 and imitations substituted. The dealer, he said, would never be the wiser; his profession and wealth would banish the suspicion of fraud, and he was temporarily money-starved. The dealer asked a day to consider, retaining the necklace. In the interval he laid the case before the wife's mother, a wealthy and indulgent woman, and asked her advice. In the matter, she at once gave him the $2,000, telling him to hand the amount to the husband, giving him at the same time the real stones for the imitations. This course was accordingly followed, and the young husband "blew the money in" with royal grace.

Six months afterward the wife called upon my friend, the diamond dealer, and, like a female Antoinette, asked for the loan of his ears. Her proposition was the sale of the diamonds in her necklace for $2,500, and their substitution by false stones. She was a little "short," and needed ready-money. A day's time was taken to consider this matter, and a visit was paid as before to the mother. The old lady furnished the money, which was paid to the wife, and the necklace returned ostensibly filled with spurious stones. The wife still wears that necklace to reception and to church, and the pair have each a dead secret well known to the world and to each other. The point of it is imitation diamonds.

It has often been said that as soon as you can excite a personal interest in the planting of trees, the forester the mistakes too frequently made is, however, the encouragement of the idea that it takes centuries to get purposes large enough for timber purposes. If properly planted and properly cared for, as they ought to be in a well-ordered forest plantation, growth is extremely rapid, and good timber can be obtained within a quarter of a century. Near where this paragraph is written there is a specimen of silver maple, Acer dasycarpum, not fifteen years since a seed, which is 4 feet 6 inches in circumference; and an American elm, about the same age, which is 6 feet in circumference. Facts like these could be easily multiplied, showing how easy it is to get a large tree in a very short time when the great utility necessity and consequent profit becomes a matter of exact figuring.
