TO SUBSCRIBERS. Over five hundred dollars are due us on subscription account. Those in arrears will please call and settle at once, and oblige, Respectfully, THE PUBLISHERS.

Caught On The Fly. Mrs. Robert Wallace is numbered with the sick.

John Sweigler and wife are at the World's Fair this week. Mrs. Luderman of Bad Axe, is the guest of Miss Carrie Robinson.

Albert Striffler and John and Samuel Benkenman are doing the World's Fair this week. Miss Nellie Pancher, of Detroit, visited at her father's and brother's in town last week.

Jos. Reuter has secured the exclusive privilege of serving refreshments in the grand stand next week.

Bear in mind that Mr. Egbert is turning out a straight, second to none, grade of flour at the Cass City Roller Mills.

Barber Champion has arranged to run three chairs in his shop fair week. There will be no excuse for going unshaved.

Semper Chapter, O. E. S., will meet Wednesday, Sept. 21, at 5 p. m. Members are requested to bring all their books.

Ed Beebhyser is said to be one of the best farmers in Novesta. From ten acres of land he hauled eighty-one bushels of clover seed.

Mrs. James McArthur left for Pt. Huron the fore part of the week to join her sister in a trip to the World's Fair.

J. W. Maconber has exercised excellent taste in painting his residence and now has one of the prettiest residences in town.

Postmaster sent visited Pt. Edward, Ont., the fore part of the week and returned Wednesday night with his horse and carriage.

A. G. Berney has been ill this week. John McLaughlin has moved his livery and creamery from his present quarters near the creamery building.

Laing & Jones have continued the good work this week, and a fine new walk in front of their store makes pedestrians smile. 'Who'll be the next?'

Dray loads and dray loads of fruits, candies, provisions, etc., are being received by this week, and the multitude need not suffer for anything.

All teachers are requested to be prompt in returning the classification blanks to the county commissioner before the close of the second week of their schools.

S. Champion announces that he has engaged Prof. Forbes Italian String Band to furnish music for his dance in the Tennant House Rink during the week of the fair.

A meeting of the Presbytery will be held at Lapeer Sept. 19. We see by the program that Rev. Gerrit Huyser, of this place, is to deliver an address on 'The Model Sunday School.'

Geo. Foble nearly severed a toe from his foot last week while swinging a sharp axe. Mr. Foble says that he has come to the conclusion that an axe is fully as dangerous as sheep-shears.

Rev. Sam Bettis will bring a suit for damages against the F. & P. M. Ry. company on account of the accident which happened at Carsonville, (not Cassville) last week, causing injury to the back and partial paralysis of the lower limbs. Carl A. Wagner, of Port Huron, has been retained as his attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Marr visited at Caro on Sunday. Don Wales spent Sunday with his parents in Elkton.

Prizes to the amount of $500 will be given for bicycle races at Romeo Sept. 19.

Veterinary Robinson walks faster, drives faster, and smiles louder. It's a boy. Mrs. G. A. Stevenson left on Tuesday in company with several Caro ladies, for the White City.

McColl & Eastman have rented the grand stand dining hall, and will serve warm meals during the fair.

Some of the daily papers have devoted columns of space this week to silly trash concerning the birth at the White House.

E. D. Bickford, living 3/4 miles northeast of Cass City, will have an auction sale on Monday, Oct. 2, at 1 o'clock p. m.

J. P. Howe and Mrs. A. D. Gillies are in attendance at the K. O. T. M. and L. O. T. M. convention at Grand Rapids this week, as delegates from the tent and hive at this place.

The flies have been so numerous this week that we have several times heartily endorsed Josh Billings' famous fly time remark: 'Darn a fly! Cuss a fly! I hate a fly!'

I. A. Fritz's house on Sogar street now presents a very nice appearance. The colors used in painting it harmonize exceedingly well. Mr. Fritz has a fine residence.

We have been favored with complimentary tickets to the Vassar fair Sept. 20-29. Secretary Trotter assures us that the exhibition will equal many successful predecessors.

Dwight Freeman is the owner of a colt sired by Tip Jerome. This sire lowered his record several seconds the other day and Dwight declares that his colt can now go fully a third faster.

A beautiful large bouquet has added cheerfulness and fragrance to our sanctum this week. The flowers are from the garden of Miss Edna Karr, who is evidently a successful florist. Accept thanks.

Fifteen hundred pamphlets are being printed this week for druggist, T. H. Fritz. They contain many valuable recipes and Mr. Fritz proposes to distribute them free at the fair next week. Don't fail to secure one.

A. Frutheley is now the owner of 'Barney C.' formerly C. H. Lewis' trotting horse. He was entered in the Pt. Huron races last week. 'Milo,' Wm. Kile's success was also entered in the above race. We have not learned how successfully they conducted themselves.

A new disease is said to be attacking cattle in Lapeer county near Otter Lake. The animals are taken with inflammation of the lungs, swelling of the front legs and brisket, and usually die within two or three days. The veterinary surgeon has been informed and will investigate.

We have received complimentary tickets to the grounds and grand stand of the Bay City Driving Club for their fall race meeting, to be held Sept. 27, 28, and 29. One of the special features of the meeting will be the trial to lower the world's half mile track record of 2:09 1/2, by the famous pacer, Red Bell, for a purse of $1,000.

O. F. Clark, who exchanged his property in Virginia several months ago for Henry Butler's house and lot in this place and shortly afterwards took possession of the same, has made up his mind to return to the Sunny South again. He will have an auction sale of household goods to-morrow, (Saturday) at his residence at the north end of Oak street.

The management of the Ice Railway at the World's Fair have our thanks for complimentary tickets. This unique exhibit has been installed by the De La Vergne Refrigerating Co. of New York City, and shows that in addition to refrigerating and ice-making skating rinks and amusements of this character can be produced by this system—direct expansion. Misdirection sleighing on real snow is delightful, refreshing and exhilarating. The Ice railway furnishes all this, and is a most pleasing and instructive novelty. It is located in the Midway Plaisance, directly south of the great Ferris Wheel.

It is the nasty habit of pitching out of the back door a painful or a dipperful now and then of greasy water and a handful of parings and the waste of the kitchen that breeds fever and biliousness. The waste disappears for the most part in the soil, but this is the key of the mischief. The soil gets full after a while and ferment, and the hot sun breeds gases which surround and enter the house. This is true not only of poorer homes or careless families, but well-to-do, intelligent people have spots behind their houses saturated with slops and veritable breeders of disease.—[Ex.]

Attorney-General Ellis has interpreted the Saturday half-holiday law in compliance with a request from the Grand Rapids Bankers. He holds that paper due at the bank on Saturday is payable Monday, but advises that the protest be made both Saturday afternoon and Monday until the supreme court shall pass upon it. If Saturday is a full holiday paper due Monday is a full holiday on Sunday, paper is due Saturday before noon. If Saturday is a full holiday and paper falls due Sunday, it is payable Friday.

The banks of this city have not adopted the Saturday half holiday, the law giving them permission to keep open for business if they like, but in dealing with negotiable paper the half-holiday will have to be observed. It is probable that the action of Detroit banks will govern the local banks.

Charles E. Ale is recovering from his illness. Lizzie Beach and Belle Ross were callers at Gagetown Monday evening.

Miss Martha McArthur left Monday for Ypsilanti, where she will attend the State Normal.

Mr. Lewis Carlton, of Oxford, was the guest of his friend, Willard Wells, on Sunday last.

School commenced last week with a good attendance. The attendance by grades will be given in our next issue.

Myron E. Hanson starts on Friday evening for Ypsilanti, where he intends to enter the State Normal school. He takes this course in preference to an offer to teach a desirable district school a few miles distant from Cass City.

The large barn of J. H. McCorkney, of Elmwood, which burned last week, was set on fire by the tipping over of a lantern. The barn was insured for $300 in the Tuscola Mutual. As the barn was filled with this year's crops, the loss will be a severe one to Mr. McCorkney.

A Trawas farmer tells a hard story on the onion. His cattle were covered with vermin and as an experiment he split onions and rubbed the animals with them. Not only did the lice, flees and ticks desert in a hurry, but the cat had an antipathy for each other.—[Free Press.]

The Caro Democrat was fourteen years old last week. It's editor and proprietor, G. H. Slocum, is all that constitutes a "hummer," and under his leadership, the Democrat was not long in becoming one of the leading weeklies of the state. The Democracy of Tuscola county have a paper that they can consistently stand by and swear by.

Arch Johnson, who went to the state of Washington early last spring, returned to Cass City Tuesday. For the past few months Arch has been braken on a line of railroad in that state, and while thus engaged received quite a wound on the head by being struck by a moving train. Barring the wound on his head the Wild West seemed to have agreed well with Arch.

Pt. Austin Post: 'Rev. Jas. Egbert who has been the successful Pastor of the Baptist Church here for some time past, has resigned the pastorate of the church to accept a more lucrative position at Cass City. Mr. Egbert and his family are much beloved in their church here and in the village and their departure is much regretted. The Baptist society prospered under the leadership of Mr. Egbert and his congregation regret to see them leave.'

Michael Steinhauser, living three miles north of Cass City, has nearly completed a new stone residence on his farm. The house consists of an upright large lean-to on west side. This will be the only stone house in this vicinity—perhaps in the county. Although Mr. Steinhauser is a farmer by occupation, he is a stone mason by trade, and the building is his own handwork. It is needless to add that his farm is now quite free from stones.

Golden-rod is in bloom, and as usual influenza is prevalent. It has come to be a recognized fact that the aesthetic yellow flower over which the poets rave is responsible for many cases of this disease that occur at this season of the year. The flower should not be allowed in the house, especially in the sleeping apartments. The blossom gives off an imperceptible powder like substance, which is breathed into the lungs causing irritation and producing violent sneezing and coughing.—[Ex.]

A business men's association is not an organization composed solely of business men, to advance prices on merchandise, or have a corner on this or that, as some people may entertain a mistaken idea. It is an organization of business men, lawyers, doctors, real estate dealers, manufacturers, etc., fostering ideas for the benefit of the community in which they live, by negotiating with manufacturers and inducing them to locate in our midst; to give work to the unemployed; to induce railroad corporations, to have easy access to the world at large, etc. Cass City is in need of such an organization. Who will make the move?

County Capital News. From our Special Correspondent. Mr. Joseph Klunger, of Akron, Mich., is visiting at A. L. Hunt's this week.

B. W. White has been on the sick list for three or four days, but is better at this writing. The long-looked-for rain came last night, but no where near enough. But, we ought to be thankful for small favors.

Last Friday the corner stone to the new M. E. Church was laid. They had prayed and speaking and then had supper in the basement of the Baptist Church.

B. Himeleoh & Co. are in Chicago, New York, and Detroit the last two weeks, purchasing goods for their new store which they will be in before fair time.

Last Thursday night fire broke out in Wm. Forbes' planing mill. But little damage was done owing to the prompt attention of the fire boys. They are always on deck.

Accommodations for Horses. D. A. Freeman will have the Robinson barn in readiness to stable or board horses during the Fair.

A Settlement Requested. All parties owing us on account are requested to call and settle at once. 9-14 FROST & HEBBLEWHITE.

'Twill Be a Hummer. Preparations About Completed For Our Fair—Good Weather the Only Thing Necessary to Insure Its Success.

Before another issue of the ENTERPRISE reaches its readers, the Fourth Annual Fair of the Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac Association will be in full blast. The officers and directors are leaving nothing undone to make the fair strictly a "hummer," and there is every indication that their hopes will be fully realized.

The ladies, without whose aid no fair can be successful, are preparing to make exhibits in the art and needlework department with the same enthusiasm and enterprise which has marked displays of previous years, and as extra and larger premiums are offered in some classes this year it is confidently expected that former exhibits will be even improved.

The farmers of Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties are enterprising, and their best products from the garden and field will make Agricultural Hall an interesting place.

In the stock department the exhibits of blooded animals promise to be larger than ever. Among other important entries which have been made is the herd of thoroughbred Aberdeen Angus cattle, and several choice breeds of sheep and swine, for which special classes and premiums will be arranged by Jas. Hall, of Pt. Austin.

The races, for which one thousand dollars are offered, are filling up with swift "runners," and they will be hotly contested.

Prof. Sprague, and his wonderful troupe of trained and trick horses and mules, will exhibit on the fair grounds during the last three days. The trotting horse "tricks" is spoken of as a "show" in herself. Another feature will be a minstrel show and a free exhibition on a high wire. Don't fail to attend the Cass City Fair.

Make arrangements to take a rest from your labors next week and come to Cass City. The three past successes and the thousands of pleased visitors are alone sufficient surety of the success of next week's Fair.

Musical Entertainment. Miss Carrie Hitchcock, pupil of the celebrated William Courtney and Mr. Clinton Elder, of New York City, will give a concert in the Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening, September 20. She will be assisted by home talents.

Following are some of the complimentary notices that have been accorded Miss Hitchcock: "A very pleasing incident of the service Sunday evening was a duet by Miss Carrie Hitchcock and Mr. Clinton Elder in the musical world, and her singing is a delight to all lovers of music."

"The recital of Clinton Elder's pupils Miss Carrie Hitchcock shared the greatest honors. She has a strong, sweet voice."—Washtenaw Times.

"The New York World says: 'One of the most pleasing incidents at St. Andrew's reception at Chickering Hall on Thursday evening was her singing of 'Rejoice Greatly,' from the Messiah, by Miss Carrie Hitchcock.'"—Admission 15 and 25 cents. Look for program next week.

Our Churches. Pastors are invited to contribute. Next Sunday evening Rev. Gilchrist will review the work of the year.

Rev. S. M. Gilchrist leaves for the session of Conference next Tuesday evening.

The Epworth League social on Tuesday evening, at the residence of D. Lundon was a success. A very enjoyable musical and literary program was rendered.

Rev. A. H. Fraser, of Caro, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church last Sabbath morning and evening. In the evening his subject was 'The Jew in Siam,' and embraced, aside from an interesting description of the land of the white elephant and its people, an exposure of the follies of Buddhism and superstitions prevailing in that far off land.

The Detroit Annual Conference of the M. E. Church convenes in the Cass Avenue Church, Detroit, Wednesday next, Sept. 20. This is about the largest conference in Methodism, having about 400 ministers. The territory covered embraces the Upper Peninsula and the eastern half of the Lower Peninsula. There are about 40,000 church members, and the work is in a generally prosperous condition. Bishop Bowman, senior bishop, presides. Three new presiding elders will be appointed and the work receive a careful inspection.

Letters That Tarry. The following letters remain unclaimed in the postoffice at Cass City for the week ending Sept. 9th: Mrs. A. Fletcher, Miss J. Densen, Miss Liza Cowen, Miss Nellie Clifton, Miss Carrie Cooper, Miss Withey, W. J. Dell.

Persons calling for any of the above please say it is advertised. A. W. SEED, P. M.

Apples Wanted. I will pay the highest market price for all kinds of Apples (with the exception of cider apples), delivered in Cass City. 8-11-4t A. A. MCKENZIE.

Our Neighbors. Three hundred and fifty votes were cast at the second annual school meeting at Vassar last week.

John W. Leipschmidt has been appointed postmaster at Berne. He is an excellent man for the position.

Henry Stanbus, at Bay Port, was peppered by fine shot last week by one of a chivariary party. He will recover.

The Marlette Leader announces the dates of their fair like this: "J. A. Burgess, publisher of the Bad Axe Democrat, met with a sad and painful accident last Friday. He was superintending the printing of his paper, and placed his hand on the type to ascertain its temperature, when it was caught under the cylinder and the three first fingers crushed to a jelly. Amputation was necessary. Brother Burgess has our deepest sympathy.

For several years the six or seven saloons at Sebehave have kept open doors on Sunday. An attempt was recently made to close them up by the city's attorney, and four of the six closed. The other two kept open to test what they think a bluff. The prosecutor is determined that the law shall be obeyed and will prosecute the offenders.—[Journal.]

Orange Emerson, a Vassar veteran and sprinter, heard that the old soldiers were going to have a race at the Indianapolis encampment for a $20,000 prize. Orange ran five miles every day for two months; time, 35 minutes. The expenses of himself and trainer were paid by a stock company at $5 a share, next to J. C. both financially and in case he won. He went to the encampment. There was no race on the programme.

The picnic of the St. Colum Kil Catholic Church, of Sheridan Wednesday, Sept. 6th, was the best picnic the church ever held. Both financially and socially. The proceeds were about $400 clear of all expenses. More people from the villages of Cass City, Bad Axe, Ubyly and Gagetown and elsewhere attended than in any past year, and everything went off in a manner entirely to the satisfaction of the church and half hundreds of patrons.—[Bad Axe Tribune.]

Aphorisms. Heaven never helps the man who will not act.—Sophocles.

Read This. Two Great Sales in Two Large Stores. I wish to announce that I have bought from one of the largest manufacturing in the state, $4,000 worth of clothing, consisting of all grades of Men's, Boys', Youths' and Children's Suits, Pants, Overcoats, Etc., and will, on Saturday, Sept. 16, open up another store in the Mrs. Gambel building, thus making two stores that will be packed from 10 to 12 with clothing, Hats, Caps, Goods', Furnishing Goods', Neckwear, Etc. This store will be under the management of Mr. O. C. Thomas, recently from the firm of Little, Joe, of Caro, while at the Old Stand next to P. O. I will have another store stock with the addition of Boots and Shoes. This store will be under my own management, assisted by Mr. A. D. Gillies. In these two stores everything will be sold at a large discount. I am bound to sell. The sales will continue until at least two thousand dollars' worth has been sold. Now, to make a special inducement, to Cash Customers, I will give for every $10 purchase or $10 paid on account, a family ticket good for four days at the Fair. Call early to avoid the rush. Thanking you for your liberal patronage in the past, I am Yours respectfully, E. F. MARR.

The Last Call. I will be at E. B. Landon's office on Saturday, Sept. 2 and Sept. 3, to receive money on my accounts. All accounts not paid by Sept. 8 will be turned over to my attorney for collection. 9-1 CHAS. D. STRIFFLER.

Settle Up! All parties owing me on account or note are requested to settle on or before Oct. 15, 1893; otherwise their accounts will be placed in the hands of collector. 913 T. J. FINKLE, Gagetown.

MARIE'S PICTURE.
There hangs her picture bright
With mem'ries that have bound me,
And her charms that glow in light
Of other days around me.
The light that lies
In those sweet eyes
Time the sea can sever,
Till angels
And stars burn out,
Thou art mine, Marie, forever.
Thus hangs her picture bright
With mem'ries that have bound me,
And her charms that glow in light
Of other days around me.
I could see in those eyes—
The love she could not tell me,
A love eternal as the skies.
Whatever fate befall me,
Through smiles and tears,
Since childhood's years,
The love has never been broken,
And she to-day
The same sweet May
As when our love was spoken.
Thus hangs the picture bright
With mem'ries that have bound me—
And her charms that glow in light
Of other days around me.

A Sermon to Parents.

"Whatever you wish your child to be," says a distinguished writer, "be it yourself. If you wish it to be happy, sober, truthful, affectionate, honest and godly, be yourself all these. Children are such imitative beings that they often act unconsciously as mirrors to our older people. We see in them our faults produced again and again, and we lose heart, for we know what a battle is to be fought. We see, too, in happier moments our virtues and perhaps our graces reflected in our little ones, and we take courage. But most of us expect our children to be improved editions rather than exact copies of ourselves. We want them to be a great deal more healthy and a great deal more godly, happier, handsomer and even more affectionate, honest and truthful than their parents.

We have spent perhaps twenty-five or thirty years in acquiring these virtues, and I think the demands we make upon the little men and women who have just begun the journey of life is something that is not fair to their tender years. Indeed, I have seen parents exact an amount of self-control and an unflinching obedience from their children which I think they would find it difficult to practice themselves.

Virtue is not the growth of a day, but the outcome of years of discipline and experience. And to preach goodness is, as everybody knows who has tried it, a great deal easier, but not nearly so effectual, as to practice it. Children imitate our manners and our little tricks of speech. They copy quite as readily our virtues or our vices.

We are selfish and grasping, and we have no right to expect our children to be models of generosity, and if we are impatient and irritable, we ought not to be surprised if their tempers are also somewhat unbecoming. To a mother belongs the noble duty not only of training her child in the way he should go, but of training herself likewise, a task that requires quite as much patience and wisdom.

To rule one's household wisely is not an art that comes by intuition, it demands our most serious thought and best energies. A little tact and ingenuity is much more effectual than a stick, and a great saving to the temper.

There are times, no doubt, in the history of every family when a fault and its consequences must be emphasized by some sort of punishment. But don't point your moral with your slipper. Let the punishment come as nearly as possible in a line with the fault. Make it a logical consequence, not an arbitrary act, for these little people reason quite as clearly as we do from cause to effect and appreciate quite as readily the force of a striking argument. After all, it is not rules and regulations, although they be of the best, which develop the character of the child; it is the mental and moral atmosphere in which he lives.

replied the older woman. "I have had my little revenge and consider that we are quits. Come and see me; I dare say we will be great friends."

Care of the Head.

Half a dozen short bristle brushes a year and an hour's hard work every day is the bottom price of a clean head, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. If the hair is oily and thick it will take more time and a dozen or more shampoos to clean and invigorate the scalp. Save the fancy hair brushes for company. Get a barber's brush, the largest you can find, with the shortest bristle. The white boars are the best. They are ugly and expensive, but they are strong, and one stroke cleans the hair and the scalp. In the hands of an attendant or obliging relative a brush of this sort will clean one hour a day will make any head of hair beautiful, glossy and clean.

No girl can brush her own wig properly unless she is possessed of sleight-of-hand ability. Many women who appreciate just the treatment the hair needs take their own comb and brush to the barber shops where a specialist in the eyes and hair is cutting to have the work done. They select hours and days when customers are not likely to drop in. Two visits to the barber shop or hair dressing parlor a week will give the hair all the attention it requires. No comb of any sort is needed. Just get a brushing and insist on having every stroke touch the scalp, for if the head is clean the hair will be clean.

Some heads need washing; others do not. Brushing excites the oil glands. They open, the secretion pours out, the hair is dressed and continued brushing makes it glossy and beautiful. Where there is much oil it is necessary to wash it out, otherwise the accumulation of dust will cause the hair to mat. Very oily hair is apt to become unpleasantly unctuous. It is also a fact that waste material, dandruff, &c., is more noticeable on fine, oily hair than on a coarse, drier sort.

If brushing does not suffice, then use a shampoo. Warm water and castile soap are the essentials. Dry the hair with a towel, dry it more in the sun than in the shade. The hair on a ten-cent straw, crownless hat and pull the hair out of the opening. If there is no sun the tresses can be fanned dry or spirit dried with a little odorless alcohol. This, however, parches the hair and is irritating to the scalp. The same effect is produced by using ammonia, soda and borax in the water; they are cleansing but irritating. They also tend to bleach the hair, which is not desirable. Borax and soda should be avoided by old ladies especially, unless they want gray hairs to come out of the bath tinted a buttercup yellow.

The following hair wash is said to be harmless: Dissolve an ounce of salts of tartar in a quart of warm water and add the juice of two lemons. When the effervescing is over dip the hair in the basin and with the fingers rub the hair until it is covered with lather and all the dandruff and dust has been loosened. If the water is blackened you may know that your head is red and clean. Rinse in warm water, again in cool and a third time in cold water. It will take from one to three hours to dry the hair, and it should not be done up until it is dry.

Love Philiters Still Popular.
Among substances supposed to be valuable in love philiters are: In Italy, powdered lizard which has been drowned in wine, the powder dried and then thrown on the obdurate one; in Bohemia, the blood dipped in beer; in Scotland, lozenges, stuck together with perspiration; in England a certain kind of a frog dried over the fire on St. John's eve and ground; a pansy, to be placed on the eyes; orchids, various kinds, basil, mandarin, fern root, purslane, crocus, mallow.

In England love philiters are pretty well outgrown, but their use is still common in central Europe.

Milk Toast.
Toast the bread quickly and evenly, and slightly butter each piece as soon as taken from the toaster. For six slices scald one pint of milk; rub together three tablespoons of butter and one of flour until smooth. Add to the scalded milk and stir until it thickens. Season with salt; dip each piece of toast in the milk; place in the toaster dish and pour over it the remainder of the milk. Serve at once.

Women Everywhere.
The executors of the estate of the late Mrs. Theobald Fair of San Francisco, intend to erect to her memory in Holy Cross cemetery, San Mateo county, a mausoleum to cost not less than $50,000.

Mrs. Stannard, the writer, who is best known by the name of John Strange Winter, says she knows of one happy marriage that was the result of a proposal made on the fourth day after the couple met. It is her own.

THE SHADOW SELF.

At morning tide the traveler westward bound
Before him sees a lion-throated shadow run:
At noon it sinks beneath him on the ground,
Unmarked, it rearward moves at set of sun.

THE WIFE'S MISTAKE.

It was a little old village in Westchester county, not far from the settlement which the Huguenots of the French Revolution had founded. It was chill and still and o'er-shadowed by lush foliage and the growth of the tall trees much untrimmed. Mrs. Skinner dwelt in a large, white house, plastered in front, set back from the road and screened from the eye of casual passers by a grove of elms. The green shutters that sheltered the long, French windows, opening upon the columned portico and the three smaller windows of the second floor, just beneath the flat roof of that same portico, projecting in the center into a cornice of classic design, were always closed, their slats standing methodically all one way.

Once every day a coach, an antiquated coachman, a pair of fat, sleek, mild horses drew up before the gate at the end of the narrow path, flanked with white, square stones leading to the door of the house. And from that door came a tall feminine figure, erect, clad in robes of deep black. On Sundays likewise did Mrs. Skinner appear with a majesty of great old age and solitude had been powerless to impair, walking up the aisle of the Episcopal church to the very front pew, when raising her eyes from the preacher's face she might see, in the left transept, the memorial tablets of three Skinners, now passed on to the silent majority.

On the first Sunday in June the windows were thrown open, the day mild with the June balminess of fresh-blown leaf and flower, and the sunshine would creep in and lie in a golden shaft over the richest and oldest tablet of the three not put there by herself, the one sacred to the memory of Egbert Thomas Hamilton Skinner.

That shaft of yellow sunlight goes to-day, disturbed only by the checked shadow of a breeze-stirred bough shifted and decomposed its luminous bar, and Mrs. Skinner, mayhap, Ethel Mary de Kay, wife of the Egbert Thomas Hamilton Skinner of long years ago—forgot the clergyman's text and neglected to follow his discourse.

Alone she sat in the darkened dining room at her midday meal. An old servant moved in and out. Pictures—family portraits of Skinners and De Kays—looked with the flat surfaces and wooden poses that characterize such American art of the early years of the century from tarnished frames on the walls. Like more than one De Kay was this old woman's haughty head, with the clear, high profile. The skin of the face was bleached to the smooth, yellow whiteness of old ivory. Black and piercing were the eyes and black also yet the arching eyebrows, though the hair was a silvered mass. They all but met over the nose, these fine, strong, black eyebrows, and a tale they told of the De Kay tenacity, the temper of the De Kay mind and spirit.

After she had passed into the drawing room the old servant who had dressed her mistress' hair and hung up her black dresses these forty years noiselessly entered.
"Shall I pack, ma'am?"
"Mrs. Skinner was a moment in replying—
"A few things in a valise—yes. We shall only be gone two or three days."
"The old serving woman as noiselessly retreated.
The next day mistress and maid were ascending the steps of the old town house, in Tenth street. It had been carefully closed since the departure of the last tenant. Though the afternoon was warm the breath of the empty rooms struck against Mrs. Skinner's cheek with a dull chill.

"Shall I let in the sun, ma'am?" said Hannah.
Mrs. Skinner did not seem to hear.
"So they want the top floor, too, these new tenants?" she said.
"Yes, ma'am," said Hannah, who was in some wise manager of her mistress' affairs as well.
"Then everything must be moved out."
"If I could do anything—"
"Nothing," was the answer.
And Mrs. Skinner slowly ascended the stairs, while Hannah, in silence, sat and kept watch at the foot.
Back into the past again walked the stately old woman in black. Slowly did she unlock the door and move into the large, old littered room. For the first time in thirty-five years she looked upon the objects there. Her eyes, in the dim light, in the dusty silence which, at her entrance, had broken into a succession of small, low, strange sounds, glanced from one to the other—for the first time; for the first time since the day when the tragedy of her life had come to her.

Her eyes, accustomed now to the obscurity of the room, saw them both—the two portraits that she had placed side by side before she locked the door, with her own hand, never except by her own hand to be opened, thirty-five years before. There they were as she had placed them the day she had left the house, the house of her husband who had wronged her. Egbert Hamilton Skinner, the handsomest of all his family, there he was! His blue eyes, his smooth face, his laughing, treacherous, debonair mouth. The widow looked at them all. And then the face of Martha, his cousin. Ah, yes, she had been fair, too, Martha, with her innocent face and her lips that were like ripe roses and her golden curls that fell upon her white neck. And as treacherous, as false as he! Well had she placed them side by side and locked the door upon them—locking them out, as she had locked the man and woman who had wronged her, out of her life forever.

When Hannah, the hours passing without sound from above crept fearfully up the stairs and to the open door, she uttered a low cry. On the floor, in the heavy gloom of the room, lay her mistress senseless. In her hand she held a faded paper.
Hannah, lifting the unconscious head, looked about her in the gathering, deepening darkness. A tall, quaint piece of furniture, with many drawers had been opened. One of the drawers stood out with a scattered confusion of papers. Hannah's memory was very vivid. She had no need to look at that piece of furniture twice to know it. Often had she seen in the days when the master and mistress of the house and Mrs. Martha and she, too, had been young, the master stand before it and lock away his private papers.

The green shutters were open now in the old white plastered house in Westchester county. The doctor went in and out every day.
He shook his head; he looked at the old maid-servant gruffly, suspiciously.
"There are infallible indications of a mental shock," was the old woman's cool answer.
The doctor with an impatient click of the tongue, went rapidly down the white flagging and back to his gig at the gate. Hannah, immovable in every feature as always, went back to her mistress' side.
"You told him?" the white lips would frame.
"No, Mrs. Skinner. You know I wouldn't," was the only answer.
One day the invalid looked up.
"Hannah, crossed the room and stood by the bed. "Sit down!"
Hannah obeyed. "I've been thinking, thinking a great deal," the once strong, pre-emptory tones said. "You know what I mean?"
Hannah nodded.
"I've been thinking that perhaps you knew."

A swift change went over the old woman's face.
"Oh, Mrs. Skinner, don't ask me!"
"I shall ask you!" Strength seemed to have returned to the doctor's patient. Forcibly she raised herself on one arm. Imperiously she stretched out the still handsome hand in the old, firm, commanding gesture. "Tell me everything you know!"
"Then—none of it was true. Miss Martha never cared—never, never. It was some one else. But she knew you would not have liked it, ma'am, for he was poor and not much in the way of family, and since Miss Martha lived with you she was—" the old woman's voice sank.
"A right to let me know? She was afraid of me, go on!"
"Well, yes, ma'am. But Mrs. Skinner he found it out and she told him all, Miss Martha. And he was trying to get Miss Martha's sweetheart into some business, ma'am. And then, when that was done, the two of them would have told you. But they did not dare before. And it's that, so help me God Almighty, Mrs. Skinner, ma'am that they were so much together. Of anything else—"

Again the old woman stopped. This time a color came into her strong, controlled, weathered old face.
"There never was on all this earth a wife that was loved more faithful than you, Mrs. Skinner, ma'am."
Her voice rang out on the silence.
"And you never told me?"
The tones that came from behind the bed-hangings seemed to have grown strangely old.
"There would have been no use, ma'am—and you know that," came the firm answer.

"He—Mr. Skinner—my husband, never defended himself, Hannah. Oh, how fast the pride stubbornly upheld through all these years, was breaking."
"No, ma'am," grimly, "not when you wouldn't listen to him, and turned Miss Martha out of doors, ma'am. He came to me, did Mr. Skinner. 'Hannah,' said he, 'you know this is a most horrible untruth.' 'Yes, sir,' said I. 'But she will never believe it,' he said. 'Never was a wife better loved,' said he. 'But if her awful pride and anger are to wreck my life, I, too, can have pride. I shall not sue to her.' And with that he was gone and I said never a word, ma'am, for this is the first time in thirty-five years that the master's name had been spoken, as you know, ma'am."

Softly, noiselessly, Hannah rose from her chair. One thing more she had to say: "He was like no one else ever was—Mr. Skinner. Never was a kinder, handsomer, sunnier gentleman. I would have done anything for him." She left the room.
The yellow letter that had come from the little drawer in the old piece of furniture and on which a dying hand had traced the truth that the beautiful, vindictive woman, its owner had once called wife, might learn it at last, lay on the bed within reach of Mrs. Skinner's fingers.

The soft June sunlight shone into the room, and outside the windows the birds sang. And these things seemed to mock the woman who lies there, her life passed, thrown away, all her unforgetting bitterness, her vengeful pride thrust back upon her with the despair of a love, which neither the illusion of outrage nor the oncoming sorrows of age, had been able to dim.—N. Y. Mercury.

ONLY ONE BRAVE MAN.

The Stage Coach Was Rifled But He Got the Plunder Back.

"One day in October, 1877, I was staging it in Northern California," said Thomas M. Spencer. "There were six of us in the coach. We were talking about stage robbers. Suddenly there was a halt, and one of the party said: 'Speak of the devil and he will appear.' Well, we all got out and stood in a line and gave up our purses and watches. The driver had thrown off the mail-bag and the Wells-Fargo safe. There were two robbers, neither of them masked. They were not polite like the knights of the road of romance, but swore continuously. The job was done in about five minutes, and the robbers told the driver to go ahead. We did so for a half-mile or so, when one of the passengers, a silent man whom I had taken for a commercial man, said to the driver: 'Go slowly and wait for me at the ford.' He then produced a Winchester from the bottom of the coach and started back over the road alone.

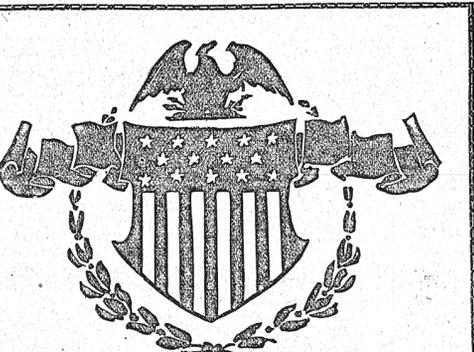

"Who is he?" we asked of the driver.
"Wells-Fargo man. I guess; never saw him before, but I guess he knows his business. If he comes back he will get you; if he don't, he'll have got him."
"Twenty minutes later we heard some rapid firing. We stopped at the ford. Nearly an hour passed and then the man who had gone back appeared on the trail. He walked slowly, as if in pain, and a bloody handkerchief was tied about his head. 'Drive back and get the box,' he said to the driver. 'Did you get 'em?' asked the driver. 'Both of 'em,' he replied.
"We drove back. In the middle of the road where we had been held up, both men lay dead. The Wells-Fargo detective, calculating that they would stop to rifle the mail-bag and the strong box, divide the plunder, and then separate, had quietly walked back. One of them he dropped with his Winchester before he was suspected; the other got in one shot before he fell, and that had struck the brave man a glancing blow on the head. Our property was all restored to us. We helped bury the dead robbers by the roadside. The brave officer refused to accept the purse we hastily raised for him."

Considered the Point.
In Illinois there is an old law on the statute-books to the effect that in criminal cases the jury is "judge of the law as well as the facts." Though not often quoted, once in a while a lawyer with a desperate case makes use of it. In one case the judge instructed the jury that it was to judge of the law as well as the facts, but added that it was not to judge of the law unless it was fully satisfied that it knew more law than the judge. An outrageous verdict was brought in, contrary to all instructions of the court, who felt called upon to rebuke the jury. At last one old farmer arose. "Judge," said he, "weren't we to judge the law as well as the facts?" "Certainly," was the response; "but I told you not to judge the law unless you were clearly satisfied that you knew the law better than I did." "Well, judge," answered the farmer, as he shifted his quid, "we considered that p'int."—Argonaut.

How Many Stars in the Flag.
It is remarked as singular, and possibly an indication of lack of patriotism, that the average American, always excepting school children, cannot tell off-hand how many stars there now are in his country's flag. If any reader of this desires to try the question on ten of his friends he will probably find that only three or four can give the correct number even after a minute of hard thought. The ordinary reply will range from forty to forty-two stars instead of the correct forty-four. The admission within four years of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Washington, Idaho and Wyoming, has brought the list up to the last mentioned number. The shape of the union has been changed from a square to a rectangle, and the stars are arranged in six straight lines, the upper and lower ones containing eight stars and the remaining four having seven stars.

Funnels of Ocean Steamers.
Few people have any idea of the size of the funnels on the great ocean steamers. If you ask the first half dozen people you meet for their estimate it is not likely that one of them will name a figure one-half the actual size. Most persons would say that the diameter of the largest steamer funnel is from four to six feet and would want to wager that it was not more than eight feet. How far from the actual size such guesses are may be understood when it is stated that the funnel of the Eururia measures over a little over eighteen feet in diameter. At even a short distance away this can hardly be believed. It gives an idea of the enormous size of the big steamers. We have grown so accustomed to them nowadays that we accept them as a matter of course.

The English View of It.
Queen Elizabeth raised the standard of English money to a point higher than was ever before known, but at the same time made a separate coinage, containing half the usual amount of precious metal, for special use in Ireland. "It's good enough for the Irish," was her remark when a remonstrance was made.

A Contractor Advice.

Messrs. Dullam Bros.—Gentlemen—I take great pleasure in testifying in behalf of Dullam's Great German Blood Purifier, Stomach, and Kidney Cure. I can say that I never took such medicine as that to cleanse the liver, stomach, and kidneys. I was suffering for years with biliousness, indigestion, and loss appetite and sleep. One bottle did me more good than six months' other treatment, and feel it my duty to testify in its behalf, so others may try it and get cured. Yours truly, Warren E. Russell, contractor and builder. Flint Mich. Sold by T. H. Fritz.

Many do know and all should know the merits of Brant's Balsam for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, all Throat and Lung troubles, which may be foretellers of Consumption. The cost of knowing its value is so slight, (large 25 and 50 cent bottles), you will be wise to test it, for its prompt use may save life. Mothers should know its value for spasmodic or Membranous Croup, which need quick attention or the child may die. It relaxes the contracted muscles or loosens the false membrane, raising the child to throw it off, giving quick relief. Sold by T. H. Fritz.

As Told by the Enterprise's Corps of Correspondents

All the Chit-Chat From the Country Round About Briefly Told For Busy Readers.

Hot and dry. Everyone wants rain.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Webster are visiting relatives in Pontonville this week.

Mrs. M. E. Lockwood is very sick. There are but slight hopes of her recovery.

A few of the farmers have sown wheat, but most of them are waiting for rain.

Thos. Walsh and family returned from the Fair well pleased with what they saw while away.

Mr. Ewen had a stack of hay struck by lightning and burned last week. Luckily the barn was saved.

A party of young people went to Caro Saturday night to attend the performance in the opera house.

At the school meeting in Cedar Run district, O. A. Hendricks was re-elected director and money was voted to have new seats for the school house.

J. Miller has the contract of putting a ditch in Cedar Run through the Hammond place. This is a much needed drain and will be a benefit to many of the neighboring farmers.

At our school meeting the question was brought up in regard to the U. S. flag on school buildings. Is there not a law requiring each district to have a pole erected and fly the U. S. flag on all legal holidays? Will the editor please to give us a little light on the subject? (We know of no law except the law of patriotism.—Ed.)

A logging bee at J. Youngs, north east of town, on Thursday.

Thos. Cosgrove is in Buffalo this week with two loads of stock.

Del. Shultz and Dr. Sloan, of Elkton, were in the burg Monday on business.

The farmers around here have brought their harvest to a close for 1893.

J. D. Owen, our bustling hay merchant, was in Detroit Wednesday on business.

J. D. Owen's fly circle steel press is now pressing a seventy-ton job for T. Cosgrove.

Geo. Henry, of Colfax, this county, visited friends east of town Monday of the past week.

Geo. Greer has purchased a fine young colt from John Muma, of Elkland, so we learn.

Simon Sharrard was elected director in place of Dennis Shores, of the western district of Grant.

We learn that John Taylor has leased the D. Person place, south and east of town, for a term of years.

We were grieved to learn that one of our young men in town a short time ago made a sandwich of himself.

Base ball players seem quite quiet in this part of late. "We cannot hustle a game to save our necks," so say our local sports.

A dance in the Creel hall Monday evening of this week, under the management of Missian Seney, of the above place.

Jerome Spencer returned home Friday from Ann Arbor, where he has been receiving help towards restoring his sight which he lost just recently.

N. McKinnon's threshing crew are hustling the boys in this vicinity at present. He is certainly doing his share of the shelling of grain in these parts.

Miss Campbell, of Sheridan, has been engaged by the school board to teach the coming term in our school. Miss Campbell comes well recommended.

J. B. McKinstry's handsome fledged bird dog was slaughtered on the bridge across the creek south of town, by a fast flying vestibuled train on the P. O. & N. on Tuesday last. The old gent regrets the loss of such a valuable animal. He valued him at $25. But such is life in the far off west, Jake.

It has been a mystery to the most of the people in this community the past few days, where John and Alex, spent Sunday, Sept. 10th. We think they took a round-a-bout trip to reach the Grant Centre Church, but you could hardly blame the young gentlemen for driving the rounds to meet the same smiling eyes that greeted them on Aug. 31 in the shade while out with a picnic party.

Dan Abbey has a new kitchen built to his house. Plowing for and sowing wheat is the order of the day.

Fred Taylor talks of going to Toronto, Canada, soon.

Will Durley, of Cass City, was in these quarters Sunday.

A good show for a good blacksmith at Zimmerman's shingle mill.

Hen. Winegar has charge of Zimmerman's shingle saws and makes a good shingler.

The Sinclair school house has a new stone wall under it. The Walsh boys were the builders.

Fred Loum's smile broadens all over his face now, as he gazes into the face of the new comer, and thinks of his young son.

Mrs. Al Hend started last Wednesday for Grand Traverse county to join her husband who has been there all summer, and he reports very good times there.

Report has it that Charley Taylor is going to raffle his steam threshing machine and grain separator away when he can dispose of three hundred tickets at one dollar each.

Would rather see a man get up and want to fight than to hear so much foul mouthedness as some married men indulge in. Would make a right thinking man feel disgusted at such.

Reported that August Hartman has the diphtheria again. The family were severely afflicted some time ago with the dread disease, two of the family dying from it, and himself nearly going.

Thursday morning we had quite a rain storm mingled with large hail. Some parties were very satisfied because large as hens eggs. We are rather inclined to think they must have been very small eggs. Come again neighbor.

On Saturday last of last week David Evans was working at the knot saw in Zimmerman's shingle mill. The belt ran off and the small pulley on the saw arbor burst and a piece struck Dave over one of his eyes, inflicting a light wound and bringing him to the floor. He was thinking of going to see his best girl the next day but the black eye prevented.

Still very dry and cool nights. Crawford's mill started up this week after a two months' shut-down.

John Libby is nursing a sprained ankle, the result of trying to ride a bronco.

Last Wednesday night we had a heavy wind storm which lasted about two hours.

Bob Lucemore shipped a nice load of sheep to Buffalo this week—the first of the season.

James Cleaver fell out of his granary and hurt his leg so as to lay him up for some time.

Bob Lucemore is nursing a very lame hip, the result of being struck by an angry ram.

We understand R. Woods has purchased P. Lawrence's house and lot and intends moving to town.

The fishermen are putting out their nets and now we will have some of the funny tribe on our plate.

Miss Jennie Buckingham has returned from her week's visit at Rush Lake. She reports a good time.

The Company's mill started up Tuesday after a two weeks' shut down on account of their shipping lumber.

Mr. Traver and wife, of Mead, were seen on our streets last Monday. He drives a nice span of matched horses.

P. Buckingham is delivering wood around town at 75c a cord, and its going fast as they have been paying $1 a cord heretofore.

Charles Crawford sports the nicest span of roadsters in the county, the result of M. Lawrence's training, as he is an expert horseman.

While running a lighter up to the dock, Thursday, Wm. Hall stepped on a boat hook and ran it clear through his foot. He is laid up.

It has been reported that there will be a breach of promise case in town in the near future. Be careful, boys, what promises you make.

Last Tuesday morning John Stock started for Cass City to enter the employ of J. D. Crosby. We all wish John success. He was well liked here.

Some parties are visiting chicken coops nightly and sampling spring chickens. We think they had better be careful for a doctor or a justice may be called for.

The steam barge Lorriette, of Bay City, has been here the past week loading lumber purchased of Curran, Flack & Conley, by John McClellan, of Bay City. 350,000 feet makes a nice load.

Miss Campbell, of Sheridan, has been engaged by the school board to teach the coming term in our school. Miss Campbell comes well recommended.

In all that goes to strengthen and build up the system weakened by disease and pain, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the superior medicine. It neutralizes the poisons left in the system after diphtheria and scarlet fever, and restores the debilitated patient to perfect health and vigor.

THREE DOLLARS A WEEK FOR LIFE. Here is a Snap for Brainy People—The Latest Thing out.

In order to introduce The Canadian Agriculturalist into new homes, the publishers have decided to present an Half Yearly Literary Attraction for the summer of 1893, which closes Oct. 1st. They entered into a written agreement to pay, through the judges all the revenues offered.

HOW TO SECURE A REWARD—Those who become subscribers can complete free of charge. All that is necessary is to take a few sheets of paper and make all the words you can out of the letters in the three words, "World's Columbian Exposition," and send them to us, enclosing $1 for six months' subscription to the Canadian Agriculturalist.

The sender of the largest list will receive $5 per week for life; 2nd, $1,000 in gold; 3rd, $500; 4th, $250; 5th, $100; 6th, Ticket to the World's Fair and ten days' expenses; pianos, organs, ladies and gents gold and silver watches, silver tea services, diamonds, rings and over $100 other rewards, making altogether the most valuable prize ever offered by our country. Send for printed list of former prize winners.

REMARKS—1. Foreign or obsolete words not counted. 2. Letters cannot be used other than they appear in the words. "World's Columbian Exposition"—this is, the word "trials," for instance, could not be used, because, there is but one "i" in the three words, etc. 3. Names of persons and places cannot be used. No charges for packing or shipping; but all prize winners will be expected to help us to extend our circulation. 4. All lists containing over 100 correct words will receive a special reward.

JUDGES.—The following well-known gentlemen have consented to act as judges and will see that the prizes are fairly awarded—Commodore Salmon (Proprietor of Canada's Line of Steamers), Peterborough, and Mr. W. Robertson, President Times Printing Company, Peterborough.

AGENTS WANTED—We pay $1 to $5 per day salary (no commission) to men, women, boys and girls. Write for particulars. Register all money letters. Address, Agriculturalist Pub. Co., (Ltd.) Peterborough, Canada.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

M. Hammerly, a well-known business man of Hillsboro, Va., sends this testimony to the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla: "Several years ago, I hurt my leg, the injury leaving a sore which led to erysipelas. My sufferings were extreme, my leg, from the knee to the ankle, being a solid sore, which began to extend to other parts of the body. After trying various remedies, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, before I had finished the first bottle, I experienced great relief; the second bottle effected a complete cure."

A large tract of land has been purchased by the Orchard Lake military academy for a parade ground. Traverse City's flowing well, with a capacity of 1,300 barrels a day, has increased its flow to 3,000 barrels a day.

Ed. Culver, a Pittsford farmer, fell astride a hay sieve and received painful injuries that may result in his death. Most all the lumber in Oscoda county has been destroyed by the recent fire. Gen. Alger has lost 11,000,000 feet.

National bank of Sturgis which suspended August 7, has received permission from the comptroller of currency to resume business. Fire at Flat Rock destroyed Charles Shearman's blacksmith and wagon shop with their contents. Loss, $3,000, with no insurance.

Fred Russell, judge-elect of the Fourteenth district, visited a convention of judges of the state to be held at Lansing. Good idea. William Stapleton was arrested at Bayport for shooting Henry Stabus during a charivari at that place. Stabus is in a critical condition.

State convention of the Y. M. C. A. at Battle Creek from Oct. 12 to Oct. 15. Gen. R. A. Alger and Rev. Dr. D. D. MacLaurin, of Detroit, are among the speakers. Congress has awarded a silver life-saving medal to George B. Dean for saving the life of Ralph Caldwell, of Cincinnati, at Gratiot Beach, Lake Huron, on July 17 last.

The tri-county fair at Petoskey under the auspices of the Petoskey Driving Park association, Sept. 19, 20 and 21. Premiums offered exceed $10,000, largely for speed contests. A mob at Hickory Corners came near treating a local minister to a coat of tar and feathers for marrying Mabel Scudder and the Negro Mahoney, who eloped from Calhoun county.

The new mill of Ross, Bradley & Company, West Bay City, is running with 80 men. Ultimately 200 men will be employed. The mill will have a capacity of 40,000 feet per year. C. H. Welton, agent of the New York Life insurance company was arrested at Grand Rapids for embezzling $215 from A. S. Davis. The money was paid to Welton as a premium on a policy.

Four suits were commenced at Grand Rapids against Nelson Matter & Company, which filed mortgages amounting to $214,000. The company made an assignment to the Michigan Trust company. A barn burned in Jonesville and in view of the fact that Jonesville is a local option town, the discovery of so many bottles of beer in the barn made a sensation. The quenchers of the fire took the hellish stuff out of the way in a hurry.

Fire destroyed two barns, toots, hogs, poultry, 500 bushels of wheat, 300 bushels of oats, product of 9 acres of beans and 50 bushels of rye, the property of Frank Mc Donough and Cassius Howell. No insurance; cause unknown. John O'Gara's attempted suicide at Saginaw was the result of cigarette smoking instead of love-sickness as at first reported. He has been taken to his home at Nashville, Tenn., by his mother. His mind is unbalanced by excessive cigarette smoking.

Thos. Stoltz, Jr., and his father were shooting blackbirds on Saginaw river when the younger Stoltz received a charge of shot in the neck from the gun of a stranger who carelessly shot at flock of birds between the two boats. The stranger escaped without being identified. The new $12,000 Deaconess home at Grand Rapids was dedicated by the Methodists. It is named in honor of Rev. W. J. Aldrich, who originated the idea, and is the only building of the kind in Michigan. Mr. Aldrich's widow and eight other women have devoted themselves to the work.

A collision on the race track at a matinee at Tokonsha between two competitive horsemen resulted in the death of Arba Wilkinson, a farmer of Clarendon. A wheel to his sulky was torn off, throwing him to the ground and against a post, crushing his skull. He left a widow and seven children in poor circumstances. The little 7-year-old son of John Kremer, Pontiac baker, had a desire to see his grandfather, who resides at Grand Rapids, and without the knowledge or consent of anyone harnessed a neighbor's horse and reached within one mile of his destination before he was found. The distance is 24 miles.

Finding that it does not pay to raise wheat in Van Buren county, several farmers in that vicinity of Decatur have ventured on a new departure in the way of agriculture, raising musk melons. G. H. Peters, of Hamilton township has 20 acres so planted, from which he annually harvests from 3,000 to 4,000 bushels, the price ranging from 30 to 50 cent per bushel.

The women of Battle Creek were badly worsted at the school election, their candidate received only one-third as many votes as the men. It is expected 1,500 acres will be planted to cucumbers about Highland next season. The crop yield is from 100 to 250 bushels per acre and selling at 45 cents they beat wheat as a cash producer. Three Niles boys borrowed a wagon on one place, a horse at another, and then stole 20 bushels of onions at a third, drove to South Bend and sold them for 75 cents per bushel. They are now out on bail.

CLADSTONE WHIPPED.

The Grand Old Englishman's Home Into Bill at Last Meets Its Fate. London cable: The bill giving home rule to Ireland to which that grand old Englishman—Gladstone—had given his life's greatest efforts has been killed by the peers of the realm after having passed the lower house of parliament.

THEIR RANKS THINNING

YET 25,000 VETS MARCHED AT INDIANAPOLIS. Capt. "Jack" G. H. Adams, of Massachusetts the New G. A. R. Commander-in-Chief—Interesting Reports.

The twenty-seventh annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Indianapolis was certainly a magnificent success in every particular. The weather was simply superb, the city was a bower of decorations and the hospitality of the people was all that anyone could ask. The boys marched slowly, but on the day of the parade there were at least 50,000 visitors in the city and more than 25,000 veterans the procession.

Illinois held the position of honor at the head of the veterans with 2,000 men. The famous old war eagle "Old Abe," which was carried alive throughout the war on Wisconsin's banner, was at the head of that state's heroes. Ohio had over 2,500 men on parade. Pennsylvania and New York were well represented and Massachusetts, with Capt. "Jack" Adams—successful candidate for national vice-president in 1892—in line. Michigan's boys did the Wolverine state proud with nearly 1,000 men in line; a feature being the splendidly drilled and dressed Detroit post with the 19th U. S. infantry band.

It's a Girl Again. President Cleveland has been made happy by the birth of a second baby and it is a girl—much to the disappointment of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland as well as their friends. The event occurred in the White House and both mother and babe are in splendid health.

The following day the encampment proper was called in session to transact business. The report of the National General Gray's report shows that the present encampment is composed of 1,187 members (delegates). The returns give a membership in good standing of 1,037,232. The number of posts is 7,629; departments, 45. There has been a net loss of membership in the past year of 2,657. During the year there were 7,002 deaths in the order, larger than in any previous year.

General Gray's report shows that the present encampment is composed of 1,187 members (delegates). The returns give a membership in good standing of 1,037,232. The number of posts is 7,629; departments, 45. There has been a net loss of membership in the past year of 2,657. During the year there were 7,002 deaths in the order, larger than in any previous year.

Inspector-General George I. Goodale complained that department officers and post commanders are delinquent in enforcing the rules of inspection and in many cases there was no report at all. He submitted rules for the consideration of the 27th encampment to enforce the annual inspection.

Official cables to London from the British government deny that there is danger and claim that the confidence in the government. The clear attempt to "cover" by these cables convince the well-posted that the dispatches do not tell the truth and that the British government's advice are regarded as authentic.

The report of Surgeon-General William C. Wiley, M. D., shows that the ranks of the Grand Army to be composed, as a rule, of "as hardy and sturdy a set of men as can be found anywhere, age and condition taken into consideration." Consumption, however, and grave lung troubles seem to have a good footing in the ranks, and he recommends that a home or hospital for the treatment of these cases be erected by the government. The long lay-up of the ranks is particularly alarming.

From the first moment of the encampment the talk was about the next commander-in-chief. J. G. B. Adams, of Massachusetts; Samuel H. Hurd, of Ohio; and Charles P. Lincoln, of the department of the Potomac; E. Burd Grubb, of New Jersey; Sexton, of Chicago, were named for the post.

The naval veterans' annual session was interesting. Rear Admiral Osborn delivered the address. Capt. Cyrus Sears submitted the executive report. It showed an increase of membership and a bright outlook. Rear Admiral Osborn was re-elected.

Retiring commander-in-chief, Wesley Hurd, of Chicago, delivered the year's work and in conclusion paid particular attention to recent pension decisions which he severely commended. He said: "Some of those who were not the friends of our country during that mighty contest from 1861 to 1865, have taken every means within their power to create a public sentiment against pension law and pensioners. Unwarranted statements are made against the pension roll. No facts are advanced to substantiate the statements made. The pension law of our country affects the interests of veterans of various wars, but somehow this indiscriminate taking away of pensions affects only those who served in the war against treason and rebellion."

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Improve-ment has extended to the iron and steel mills. The condition of great industries has distinctly improved, though still seriously depressed. More important than the rise in stocks is the fact that more works have resumed operations. It is a shock to have stopped operations, so that the producing force of the country, after months of constant decline, is again in increase. The money markets are more healthy, the current currency is better maintained, the embarrassments in domestic exchanges have all but disappeared, and while very little money is yet available for commercial or industrial loans, there is some relief in that respect. It is a shock to have a business after several months of stagnation, and there is no occasion for despondency. It is a relief to see the price of corn have not improved, and the heavy duty on bread seems to insure a much smaller yield than was expected. The price has advanced fully 1/2c. Cotton has advanced to 32c with assurance that a new treasury arrangement will facilitate the supplies of money for moving the crop. The cotton crop reports are still favorable on the whole. The volume of grain has been small of late is not surprising. Exchanges through the principal clearing houses outside New York, continue to show a large decrease in comparison with last year, for the year ending 24th Sept. All-though several banks, which were forced to stop in July and August, have resumed the numerous failures of two months have thrown into confusion the calculation of merchants and compelled them to curtail operations. Failures for the past week were only 325 in number, against 355 the week previous.

Money is Easy in New York.

New York special: Monetary conditions are improving steadily here. Bank officials report that the movement of currency once more favors the center. Receipts are particularly large from near by and New England points. Trust companies are offering fair amounts of money on time and at legal rates. Banks are not in the market to any extent as the disposition is to look after merchants and to keep their resources intact for the purpose of moving the crops. Call money rates at 3 to 4 per cent, time money at 6 per cent and mercantile paper strictly prime at 8 to 12 per cent.

Six Killed in a Cyclone.

A severe cyclone struck the pretty little town of Lockport, on Bayou Lafourche, La., and left it a mass of ruins and desolation. Six persons were killed, mostly inmates of a convent which was destroyed. The seriously wounded number 11. The body of Mrs. Gus Abrial was in her arms at the time and was carried by the wind into the street and escaped injury.

Constante the "Great."

Constante the "Great" was not a saint. He murdered his wife, one or two of his sons, a considerable number of his other relatives, and was guilty of a score of assassinations and murders. He was a Christian only in name.

At the Foot of the Palisades.

Perhaps the quaintest and quietest little settlements within a hundred miles of the foot of the Palisades. The fishermen who live there appear to be as far from the maddening crowd as though they were alone on the prairie. The tall cliffs and jagged rocks about them cut them off from the rest of the world, and they have few visitors. There is not a horse or wagon among them, and no road to drive on. Springs of good water are found within a rod or two of the Hudson, but beer and groceries are a long way off, unless one takes a boat and crosses the river to the metropolis that swirls and roars on the other bank.

At the Foot of the Palisades.

"It is interesting," he said to the dyspeptic young man. "to observe the different names we have for the same thing." "Is it?" "Of course it is," he went on, with the persistence of the man of research. "Take 'lamb,' for instance. When it gets old it is called 'sheep.'"

At the Foot of the Palisades.

"Anybody knows that," he said. "And the sheep, after it is killed, is called mutton." "You're getting right around to where you started from." "How?" "When your mutton is cooked and served in your boarding house it becomes 'lamb' again."

At the Foot of the Palisades.

"The business portion of the town of Albany, Ind., has been burned; loss, $25,000. Levi French, a Lexington farmer, cut his throat, leaving a widow and three children in poor circumstances. The steamer Alvo, from New York to the West Indies, which was in the path of the recent hurricane, has been given up for lost. The men on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road will be ordered to strike if the company insists on the reduction of wages.
