Then they took him, and slew him at the passages of Jordan." Do you know the difference of pronunciation between shibboleth and sibboleth? A very small und . unimportant difference, you say. And yet, that difference was the difference between life and death of a great many people. The Lord's people, Gilead and Ephraim, got into a great fight, and Ephraim was worsted, and on the retreat came to the fords of the river Jordan to cross Order was given that all Ephraimites coming there be slain. But how could it be found out who were Ephraimites? They were detected by their pronunciation. Shibboleth was a word that stood for river. The Ephraimites years old. had a brogue of their own, and when they tried to say "shibboleth" always left out the sound of the "h." When it was asked that they say shibboleth they said sibboleth, and were slain. "Then said they unto him, say now shibboleth: and he said sibboleth. for he could not, frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him and slew him at the passages of Jordan." A very small difference, you say, between Gilead and Ephraim, and yet how much intolerance about that small difference! The Lord's tribes in our time-by which I mean the different denominations of Christians-sometimes magnify a very small difference, and the only difference between scores of denominations to-day is the difference between shibboleth and sibboleth.

The church of God is divided into a great number of denominations. Time would fail me to tell of the Calvinists, and the Arminians, and the Sabbatarians, and the Baxterians, and the Dunkers, and the Shakers, and the Quakers, and the Methodists, and the Baptists, and the Episcopalians, and the Lutherans, and the Congregationalists, and the Presbyterians, and the Spiritualists, and a score of other denominations of religionists, some of them founded by very good men, some of them founded by very egotistic men, some of them founded by very bad men. But as I demand for myself liberty of conscience, I must give that same liberty to every other man, remembering that he no

It is very often the case that that kind of education acts just opposite to what was expected, and the children grow up, and, after a while, go and see for themselves; and, looking in those churches, and finding that the people are good there, and they love God and keep his commandments, by natural reaction they go and join those very churches. I could mention the names of prominent ministers of the gospel who spent their whole life bombard. ing other denominations and who lived to see their children preach the gospel in those very denominations. But it is often the case that bigotry starts in a household, and that the of the Lord Jesus Christ a strange subject of it never recovers. There are tens of thousands of bigots 10

I think sectarianism and bigotry also rise from too great prominence of any one denomination in a community. All the other denominations are wrong, and his denomination is right because his denomination is the most wealthy or the most popular, or the most influential, and it is "our" church, and "our" religious organization, and "our" choir, and "our" minister, and the man tosses his head, and wants other denominations to know their places. It is a great deal better in any community when the great denominations of Christians are about equal in power, marching side by side for the world's conquest. Mere outside prosperity, mere worldly power, is no evidence that the church is acceptable to God. Better a barn with Christ in the manger than a cathedral with magnificent harmonies rolling through the long drawn aisle, and an angel from heaven in the pulpit, if there be no Christ in the chancel, and no Christ in the robes. Bigotry is often the child of ignorance. You seldom find a man with large intellect who is a bigot. It is the man who thinks he knows a great deal, but does not. That man is always a hight. The whole tendency to education and civilization is to bring a man out of that kind of state of mind and heart. There was in the far east a great obelisk, and one side of the obelisk was white, another side of the obelisk was green, another side of the obelisk was blue, and travelers went and looked at that obelisk. but they did not walk around it. One man looked at one side another at another

"Didn't it go?" "Yes; went to smash." "What was the matter?" "Aw," in a tone of deep disgust, the most prominent citizens always discriminated against me in favor of the morning paper."

"In what way? You weren't in competition." "We were in the matter of the only kind of news our people wanted." "I don't understand."

"You would if you had tried it once. It was lynching parties, shooting scrapes and that sort. They always made it convenient to have them take place after my paper had gone to press and the whole force had gone off and got drunk, and then the morning paper had the scoop. By the time my paper had got out next day the people were wanting something new, and they just waited over till next morning and got it." The applicant for a job sighed pro foundly at this point. and the city editor extended his sympathy. "I tried to change my luck," continued the ex-editor, "by starting out one day at noon with my gun for the editor of the morning paper, but it wasn't any use; he dodged me until my paper had gone to press, and then I missed him and he shot me in the leg. After that I con-

Some moralist is getting ready to point to the suicide of William Day, the champion amateur runner. Day was undoubtedly one of the most remarkable athletes of his time. If his moral fibre had been as strong and wiry as his muscles he would not be mourned to-day. Overindulgence in athletic sports had nothing to do with Day's death. He became an athletic hero and he fell a victim, as so many others do, to hero worship. Will not our young athletes heed the lesson?

IT is estimated that there are 10,-000,000 species of insects in this country, and a newspaper suggests that "a large and lively lot of bug men" should be employed in the ethnological bureau of the agricultural department. They would certainly need to be "a large and lively lot" to learn the origin, uses and habits of all these insects. There are men who have been studying one species-the mosquitoall their lives and yet know nothing about it, except that it is productive of blisters and profanity.

To WHAT extent Spain is still under the influence of mediæval laws and restrictions which hamper its progress and development, may be gathered from the fact that among other imposts which the taxpayer is called upon to pay, is that entitled "The Crusado.' which was originally instituted for the purpose of providing funds for the crusades, and which has remained in existence ever since. Its proceeds are now applied to the repair of churches, the payment of the stipend of the clergy and other ecclesiastical purposes.

erty in all religious belief and form of worship. In art, in politics, in morals, and in religion, let there be no gag law, no moving of the previous question, no persecution, no intolerince.

You know that the air and the water keep pure by constant circulation, and I think there is a tendency in religious discussion to purification and moral health. Between the fourth and sixteenth centuries the church proposed to make people think aright by prohibiting discussion, and by strong censorship of the press, and rack, and gibbet, and hot lead down the throat, tried to make people orthodox; but it was discovered that you can not change a man's belief by twisting of his head, nor make a man see differently by putting an awl through his eyes. There is something in a man's conscience which will hurl off the mountain that you threw upon it, and unsinged of the fire, out of the flame will make red wings on which the martyr will mount to glory.

In that time of which I speak, between the fourth and sixteenth centuries, people went from the house of God into the most appalling iniquity, and right along by consecrated altars there were tides of drunkenness and licentiousness such as the world never heard of, and the very sewers of pertion. dition broke loose and flooded the church. After awhile the printing press was freed, and it broke the shackles of the human mind. Then there came a large number of bad books, and where there was one man hostile to the Christian religion, there were twenty men ready to advocate it; so I have not any nervousness in regard to this battle going on between Truth and Error. The truth will conquer just as certainly as that God is stronger than the devil. Let Error run if you only let Truth run along with it. Urged on by sceptic's shout and transcendentalist's spur, let it run. God's angels of wrath are in hot pursuit, and quicker than eagle's beak clutches out a hawk's heart, God's vengeance will tear it to pieces. I propose to speak to you of sectarianism-its origin, its evils, and its cures. There are those who would make us think that this monster, with horns and hoofs, is religion. I shall chase it to its hiding place, and drag it out of the caverns of darkness, and Fip off its hide. But I want to make a distinction between bigotry and the lawful fondness for peculiar religious beliefs and forms of worship. I have no admiration for a nothingarian.

side, and they came home each one looking at only one side; and they happened to meet, the story says; and they got into a rank quarrel about the color of that obelisk. One man said it was white, another man said it was green, another man said it was blue, and when they were in the very heat of the controversy a more intelligent traveler came, and said, "Gentlemen, I have seen that obelisk, and you are all right, and you are all wrong. Why didn't you walk all around the obelisk?" Look out for the man who sees only one side of a religious truth. Look out for the man who never walks around about these great theories of God and eternity and the dead. He will be a bigot inevitably-the man who only sees one side. There is no man more to be pitied than he who has in his head just one idea—no more, no less. More light, less sectarianism. There is nothing that will so soon kill bigotry as sunshine-God's sunshine. So I have set before you what I consider to be the causes of bigotry. I have set before you the origin of this great evil. What are some of the baleful effects? First of all it cripples investigation. You are wrong, and am right, and that ends it. under a corn shock. It stops all investigation. While each denomination of Christians is to present all the truths of the Bible, it seems to me that God has given to each denomination an especial mission to give particular emphasis to some one doctrine; and so the Calvinistic churches must present the sovereignty of God. and the Arminian churches must present man's free agency, and the Episcopal churches must present the importance of order and solemn ceremony, and the Baptist churches must present the necessity of ordinances, and the Congregational church must present the rasponsibility of the individual member, and the Methodist church must show what holv enthusiasm, hearty congregational singing can accomplish. While each denomination of Christians must set forth all the doctrines of the Bible. I feel it is especially incumbent upon each denomination to put particular emphasis on some one doctrine. Another great damage done by the sectarianism and bigotry of the church is that it disgusts people with the Christian religion. Now, my friends. the church of God was never intended for a war barrack. STRUGGLE FOR LIFE IN EIGHTY FEET OF WATER.

A New York Diver Tells How It Feels to Suffocate-The Air Hose Attached to His Diving Suit Broke and Shut Off His Supply of Breath. 1.37

Here is the autobiography of suffocation from the New York Press. The victim is William Olssen, who was eighty feet under water in a diving suit when the air hose broke and shut off his supply of breath. He was trying to attach a hawser to the anchor which the big steamer La Touraine, lost off Quarantine a few weeks ago. Oissen was hurriedly brought to the surface and soon after taken to the Long Island He was a big, plain, everyday, workcollege hospital in Brooklyn. He was well enough to leave the place a few days ago, and just before going away he related his amazing experience to a reporter. His story is as follows:

"About 2 o'clock in the afternoon I had found the anchor and had made fast one line. It was not strong enough, I thought, for a 7000pound anchor, and I was about to make fast another line.

"I had been working rather hard, and found myself short of breath. I straightened up and signaled for a little more air. I noticed from the sound that the wheels above were going around very fast, as though for bundles. She stood in petrified the men above had difficulty in sending me what little air was then coming. Then I got the signal to make

The top of my head felt as if it were about to blow off and let out a tide of something which seemed to come from my feet, my hands and my inside.

"My neck felt as if a big, thick rope—thicker than it was wide was being drawn tight, tighter, oh, so very tight around it. The back of my neck stiffened so that I felt that I could not move my head. It seemed to me that I tried to move my head and my neck struck a knife which, sharp as a razor, seemed to go clear through my neck and circle. round my collar bone.

"My collar bone then seemed to be pressed way down into my lungs, and it felt as if that big bone was a double-edged curved sword reaching from one shoulder to the other over my chest, then circling round over my back. It seemed to scoop out my heart, lungs and other organs. I did not feel any pain in those organs, though I realized that I was losing them. "My throat grew dry and hot, so hot that it seemed as if I had a raging fire in there, and it seemed as if the heat from this fire rapidly went clear through my head and out through my ears and nose. "Then the darkness began to be

VALUE OF THE WATER PAIL. More Fires Put Out With It Than With

All Other Appliances. With all the improvements that have been made in fire extinguishing apparatus, the fact remains that the simple pail of water is, even at this day, one of the most efficient pieces of apparatus of this class that has yet been in use. Insurance statistics, indeed, show that more fires are put out by water pails than by all other appliances put together, the only point that can well be raised against them being that, while they are generally provided abundantly enough in places where they are likely to be of service, the water is very apt to be wanting.

of the five classes of eggs found in It is true, also, in a measure, that, even if the London shops-new laid eggs, breakfast eggs, fresh eggs, cooking eggs pails were kept full, they are often and finally eggs-tells this story: borrowed for some purpose and "Once upon a time a shy young curnot returned, so that when most ate had the honor of breakfasting needed they are unavailable. As a with his bishop. The great man way out of this difficulty it has been noticed that his guest was making proposed, says Cassier's Magazine, slow progress with his boiled eggs to use pails with round or conical and called cheerily across the table to bottoms, which will not stano on a ask if there was anything wrong door, and are not, therefore, likely with it. 'Oh, no, my lord,' stammered to be taken off for some use for the young man in great embarrasswhich they were not intended, but ment, 'it's a very good egg—and ex-cellent egg—in parts.'" this form seriously diminishes the value of the pail as a fire extinguisher, since a man with two of them in his hands, arriving at the scene of action, cannot use either without setting the other on the loor and losing all its contents. As an improvement on this a superintendent in one of the large New England mills, who had found it difficult to keep the fire pails full and in good order, some time ago adopted the following interesting expedient: The hooks carrying the pai's were fitted up with pieces of spring steel strong enough to lift the pail when nearly empty, but not sufficiently so to lift a full pail. Just over each spring in such a position as to be out of the way of the handle of the pail was set a metal point connected with a wire from an open circuit battery. So long as the pails were full their weight, when hung on their hooks, kept the springs down, but as soon as one was removed or lost a considerable portion of its contents by evaporation, the spring on its hook would rise, coming in contact with the metal point, thus closing the battery circuit and ringing a bell in the manager's office, at the same time showing on an annunciator where the trouble was. As the bell continued to ring until the weight of the delinquent pail was restored t was impossible to disregard the summons, and no more reason was found to complain of the condition of

Six Ladies Strangely Injured.

A bad accident occurred at Nash ville, in which several ladies nearly lost their lives. The streets were filled with pleasure-seekers, who were waiting to see an exhibition of rope walking. A crowd of some 30 or more women and children stood on the side walk in front of W. H. Kleinhous' drv goods store. Suddenly the walk gave vay, precipitating its load into the basement. They were piled up on top of each other, and a great many limbs were broken and wrenched. Those who were injured are: Mrs. Y. P. Cassell, skull fractured and internally injured; Mrs. Albert Mix, both legs broken; Mrs. F. M. Sprague and Mrs. William Sweezy, badly cut; Mrs. Francis Showalter, injured about the face and spine.

Brutal Murder of a Miser.

One of the most shocking crimes which has evor occurred in or about Detroit took place near Grosse Pointe. the victim being a historical Grosse Pointe road character. Charles Chauvin, an old man worth probably more than a quarter of a million dollars who has for many years lived as a hermit. The perpetrators of the deed broke into the back door of the little, tumble-down cabin, and killed the taciturn old hermit with an ax. Then they tumbled over all the articles in both rooms of the house, presumably in search of valuables, and made their escape. It is believed that they were unsuccessful in securing any money.

Condition of the Treasury Improving.

Washington: Secretary Carlisle is much pleased with the condition of the treasury. Instead of a deficit the returns for July and August of this year show a surplus of nearly $7,000,-000. This indicates an improvement over last year of more than $25,000,000. The cause of this is decreased expenditures, increased internal revenue and customs receipts and an improved condition of trade. Secretary Carlisle is now confident of his ability to meet all the treasury obligations without another issue of bonds.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE. NEW YORK: Bradstreet's trade review says: Special telegrams from more important dis-tributing points make it plain that in mercan-tile lines trade is fairly active, fully meeting earlier and more favorable anticipations in a majority of instances, and exceeding them in some. An increased number of interior buyers at larger cities within the week has served to stimulate the feeling of hopefulness and, aside from the cotton mill strike in New England and distress in the northwest, due to forest fires, the past week has not brought unfavor-able features. Staple prices tend upward, except for wool. A striking feature at the west comes from Chicago and St. Louis, where the volume of business in all lines, increased, especially in dry goods, the total for the week being the heaviest for the senson. The grand total of 83,358,000 bushels of wheat available in the United States and Canada, September 1 was 25 per cent larger than a year ago and the heaviest stock ever held on that date. a physician. Every thing was in fine trim for the wedding, the bridal trousseau almost completed, and even the ring bought, when an awful thing took place.

Mr. Michaud and Doctor Mansfield, the father of his prospective son-inlaw, while playing a game of dominoes, fell into a quarrel. At first, really a polite one, then an angry, then a furious one. 🤲 🕬 🕬 Doctor Mansfield called Mr. Michaud a cheat, and Mr. Michaud called the doctor a liar.

The doctor gathered the dominoes in his hands, and was about to hurl them at the head of Mr. Michaud. He thought better of it, however, caught up his hat, stuck it on his head sideways, crammed his fists into his pockets and, without an "adieu." marched out of the house, calling his son to follow him.

The end of the affair was a dissolution of the matrimonial engagement between Theodore and Rosine.

In vain Theodore remonstrated. In wain Rosine wept. The old gentlemen were not to be moved by the unhappiness of the young folks. All the deeds that had been drawn up were canceled. The little house which had been furnished for the bride and groom was let to a family temporarily sojourning in the place, and the lovers were forbidden to speak another word to each other as long as they lived. At last, having bribed Rosine's maid to keep his secret, he confided to the hands of the girl a letter to her mistress, in which he begged her to steal from the house that night and wait under the pear trees beside the garden wall, until he should come to Rosine, who had never disobeyed her parent in her life, felt as guilty as though she were about to commit a murder, when she stole out of the side door to keep the rendezvous; but, nevertheless, her heart beat high with hope at the thought of meeting Theodore once more, and when at last she saw through the darkness a form gradually rise above the wall, and proceed to ascend by means of a rope which was fastened on the other side. she with difficulty refrained from screaming aloud.

Night after night, when the old gentleman was asleep, snoring peacefully, Theodore and Rosine sat side by side, more familiarly than they ever had done before, in the garden under the pear trees, while Nannette, the maid, kept watch outside the little side door.

All this had been going on for some time, when one night Rosine took her usual place to wait for Theodore. She heard the stealthy steps as usual. Her maid, who had seen all, hurried down the path. Neither of the girls knew what was best to do. At last, Nannette, a stout young girl, clambered up into the largest pear tree, and managed to get her chin on a level with the wall. She could not see anything below, but she heard a movement.

"Mr. Mansfield," she whispered, "speak if you possibly can. My mistress is nearly frightened to death." A faint voice replied:
