Maccabee Rally.

We have heard it remarked that the Maccabees never do anything by halves. However much we may have been inclined to question the verity of such a remark we can no longer entertain a doubt as to its correctness, since we were privileged to witness and participate in their grand rally at Caseville yesterday.

The excursion train was fairly well filled, each town and village along the line sending its quota, and from the villages more adjacent to Oak Bluff came the Sir Knights and Lady 'Bees, 'their uncles and their cousins and their aunts," until the grounds were thronged with as cheery a gathering as one could wish to see. The Caseville, Pigeon and Canboro bands furnished a profusion of music and given in a style that would do credit to much more experienced musicians. Excellent meals were served at reasonable prices. Refreshment stands did a thriving business and the merry-go-round added enjoyment for the little folk. A dancing platform was also provided for lovers

FIFTEENTH INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION AT WASHINGTON.

Provisional Program Furnished in Adcance by the General Secretary of the Society-A Call to Christians Everywhere

OHN Willis Baer. general secretary of the Christian Endeavor Society sends out the following official program of the Fif-Internateenth Christian tional Endeavor Convention at Washington, July 8-13:

It is with pleasure your attention is called to the provisional program of the Fifteenth International Christian Endeavor Convention, to be held in Washington, D. C., July 8-13. The practical character of the topics to be discussed the eloquent speakers, and the throng of delegates who will be present, promise to make this the greatest convention of Christian workers ever convened in America. Is your society planning to be represented? Why not send your pastor and his wife? Why not spend your vacation in this way? Remember, every Endeavorer who can attend will be gladly welcomed. The spiritual uplift, and deep, abiding enthusiasm that will result from this meeting will more than repay you for the expense of going. Pray for the Convention, that the Holy Spirit may be poured out upon the multitude gathered there, and that a spirit of loyalty and devotion to Christ and the church may be awakened in the hearts of all the young people throughout the world.

Wednesday Night, July 8. "Deepening the Spiritual Life," is the topic for the opening meetings in twenty of the churches of Washington. Thus at the very beginning it is hoped to set the standard for the entire Convention. Carefully has the entire program been constructed, but to no part of it has more thought or time been given than to these Wednesday night meetings. In each church wili be two speakers, each speaking thirty minutes Among those who have already promsed to make these addresses are the following: each one of the twenty churches a "quiet hour" will be introduced. It is expected that we shall listen to the "still, small voice" calling for a deeper spirit of consecration, and that we shall close the opening meetings of the Convention on Wednesday, as well as the closing services on the Monday following, with a season of spiritual communion with God that will stir in our hearts a new-born desire for service. These seasons of quiet will be led by Mr. C. N. Hunt, Minneapolis, Mr. Ralph Gillam, Boston, Rev. A. D. Thaeler, Winston, N. C., Mr. W. H. McClain, St.

We shall first be greeted by the three large choirs, each of not less than one thousand voices. The first familiar face and figure to direct your attention and afterwards your singing will be Mr. Percy S. Foster, who for three years has led our convention choruses. The other two leaders of the large choirs are Mr. Peter Bilhorn and Mr. E. O. Excell. These two consecrated singers raise their batons for the first time at an International Christian Endeavor Convention. And right here let me say that more than ever will the music be made an important part of every session throughout the entire convention. Mr. Charles S. Clark, the chairman of the music committee, has many plans which will meet your hearty approval. In addition to evangelistic songs by Mr. Sankey, Mr. E. O. Excell, Mr. Bilhorn, Mr. Foster, and * Mr. Lamb, the committee will introduce soloists from Washington at different times during the convention. Saturday Afternoon, July 11. The annual Junior rally will be held at 2.30 in Tent Washington. The programme is far from complete but the main feature, an exercise by the boys and girls, is all prepared, and the Washington Juniors are hard at work now upon it. The exercise is entitled "The Juniors' Love of Country," by Mrs. James L. Hill, Salem, Mass.

At 5.30 Saturday afternoon, under the leadership of Mr. Percy S. Foster, the combined choirs, numbering about four thousand voices, will give a grand patriotic vesper service upon the 'White Lot." near the White House, It is hoped that the chorus will be assisted by the celebrated Marine Band. At 8 o'clock will be the opening time for State and Provincial receptions in the thirty-three churches used as "headquarters." These gatherings are entirely under the direction of the presidents of State and Territorial unions. Reserve Saturday night!

While the Endeavorers are enjoying their receptions and rallies, the three large tents will be used for meetings for citizens, and citizens only.

In Tent Washington a unique, and we pray a blessed, service has been planned. It will be for men only. A choir of male voices will lead the singing, conducted by Peter P. Bilhorn. There will be a brief introductory address by Evangelist C. N. Hunt, of Minneapolis, after which Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D., will speak. The meeting is entirely under Dr. Chapman's direction. In Tents Williston and Tent Endeavor the speakers will all be trustees of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. The general topic will be, "Christian Endeavor; Its Aims and Possibilities." We hope these citizens' meetings will be largely attended. They are an innovation, but ones that we believe have come to stay. The following trustees will speak in Tents Endeavor and Williston:

AN OLD WOMAN FINDS THE TRUE SOURCE OF VITALITY.

Reporter's Interesting Interview With a Lady of Seventy-two Years, Who Tells. a Marvelous Story.

From the Union, Port Jervis, N. Y. But a short time ago, in a distant part of the country, we heard of a cure by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which seemed almost marvelous, and more recently another substantial evidence of their value reached our ears. Being of an inquiring turn of mind, and wishing to know just how much there was in the story, a reporter was sent to interview the person said to be thus benefited. If the narrative as it had reached our ears was true, it was only simple justice to let it be

was only simple justice to let it be known—if it proved untrue, it would be well to know it.

The person alluded to above as having been thus greatly benefited by the use of Pink Pills is Mrs. Jane Hotalen, of Hainesville, N. J., a pleasant hamlet in Sussex County, about fifteen miles from this office. The reporter had no difficulty in finding Mrs. Hotalen. She is a pleasant-faced old lady, looking to be sixty-five, but is in reality seventy-two years of age. After a few preliminary remarks in explanation of the call she was asked if she had any objection to giving us the details of the case and how she came to try this now famous trouble was rheumatic in character—sciatica, they called it—and it was very painful indeed. The difficulty began in my hip and extended the whole length of the limb, crippling me completely. I suffered intensely from it, and the ordinary treatment gave me not the slightest alleviation. I was under treatment about a month as stated, but grew worse instead of better, and was fast becoming discouraged."

"What brought Pink Pills to your

"My son called my attention to an article in a paper, in which it was stated that a Mr. Struble, of Branchville, a village in this county, had been greatly benefited by their use, and suggested that it would be a good plan to try them. But I was skeptical in regard to their value—in fact, I had no confidence in their efficacy, and rather laughed at the suggestion. But the trouble increased and I was badly crippled. A few days later my son was about to visit a neighboring town and suggested again that it might be well to try this much-talked-of remedy, and I then consented. He bought me a box of them, and I began taking them at once. At the end of a week I noted a marked improvement, and by the time I had taken the first box I was able to walk without a cane. I continued their use, taking several boxes, and am, as you see, in a very comfortable state of health." "Have you had any return of the 'Not as yet, though at my time of life, seventy-two, it would not be sur-prising if I should have. "None whatever. They never disturbed my stomach in any way or caused me any annoyance. LIFE INSURANCE SWINDLERS. A New Brand of Fraud Abetted by Unscrupulous Medical Practitiones

The discovery has just been made by the medical examiners of some of the leading life-insurance companies that an unscrupulous class of practitioners are making a business of "doctoring" disessed applicants for policies so they car deceive the agents of the companies, and thereby swindle those organizations, says the New York World, So extensive has this nefarious practice become that it is proposed to hold a convention of insurance examiners for the purpose of devising plans to coun. teract it. Heart trouble, for instance, is one of the commonest causes of rejection for life insurance. The stethoscope, under ordinary conditions, show the condition of the heart, but it has been found possible to "doctor" a man who is suffering from, say, valvular insufficiency of heart murmur, so that for the time being the heart acts in a perfectly healthy manner and would be passed by the keenest examiners as all right. In like manner it is possible hide all evidence of Bright's disease, the same thing is true of persons suffering from diabetes and many other diseases. The question is a most important one, not only for the companies. but for bona-fide policy-holders, and it probably will be made a subject of legislation in every state in the Union.

England Backs Up Italy.

The shibboleth of the British democracy, "Why should we fight for foreigners?" shows a fine disregard for two vital facts; the first being the actual and unusually hostile attitude of other nations; more especially of France; the second being that any European war

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of

He calculates the carrying power of British ships for 1892 at 27,720,000 tons, and that of all one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore the British flag would disapfleet the British flag would disapnear from the high seas. Considering therefore, that England has more than 50 per cent of the carrying trade, it is needless to point out how far English prosperity depends upon that trade, or how much it would diminish in consequence of a war destructive of it. If defeat would mean ruin, to accept the friendship of Italy may be a part of the prudence of foresight. Such is one of the many advantages accruing from friendship with Italy: but the excellent dispositions of Italy toward England represent much more than prima facie they might be assumed to do. We all know the latter-day record of German hostility to England, a hostility, we may add, which is both surprising and, in many ways, unfair. The obvious function of Italy, become the friend of England, would be to exercise a moderate influence upon German aggressiveness and to lead to a reconsideration on the part of that country of its attitude to Great Britain. This hostility may be gratuitous and uneasonable, but speaking from diplomatic information of undoubted authenticity, it may be asserted that a frank and positive intelligence between England and Italy, based upon a desire of peace and preservation, would certainly entail a change in front on the part of Germany.

The Carousel. The carousel was a military fete, or mimic combat, represented by a troop of cavaliers grouped into several square sets-quadrilles, as they were calledto compete for prizes, says the Quarterly Review.

The spectacle was completed by chariots, mechanical effects, devices, recitations and equestrian ballets, the variety of which united to form a magnificent whole to the eye. The dramatis personae consisted of a master of ceremonies, mounted, with his sids-decamp; the cavaliers, comprising each figure of the quadrille, who, with their cartels, dress, mottoes, arms, pages, slaves, footmen, grooms, horses and comparisons, made up a brilliant scene. To these must be added the reciters of the poems, the mechanicians and the musicians. Each set or "quadrille" was composed of from four to twelve riders, not including the leader, who was usually a prince. The quadrilles were of two kinds-those of the holders or defenders and those of the assailants or disputants. The holders opened the carousel by which they undertake to uphold by force of arms against all comers and form the first quadrille. The assailants resist the challenges and cartels of the holders and form the opposite quadrille. The cartel is delivered in the name of the leader of the quadrille, whose adherents wear his liveries, and contain five points: the names and addresses of those who bear the challenge, the cause of the challenge to fight and any other propositions which they desire to defend by force of arms, the place and mode of combat, the names of the holders who send the challenge or cartel. The cartels might be either in prose or verse, and as the occasion for the challenge is the desire for self-glory and advertisement they are seasoned with some amount of rhodomontade. The subject of carousels being historical, fabulous and emblematical the holders and disputants assume suitable names-those who represent Roman subjects, for instance, styling themselves Julius Caesar. The names corresponded to the devices or posies of the riders and the quadrille itself bore their name. The grooms and footmen led in the horses by hand and remained near the machines, disguised as Turks, Indians, slaves or savages. The musicians, vocal and instrumental, performed two kinds of music-one stately and martial, the other soft and dulcet. The first is at the head of each quadrille to amuse the riders and announce their presence, their entry upon the course which was called "com pase," and their challenges; the other kind was an accompaniment to the recitals, the mechanical effects and the pageant. For the production of the martial harmony, drums, trumpets, cymbals, oboes and fifes were used.

To Oblige the Colonel.

There wasn't any particular excitement over the hanging of the man pointed out and arrested at Big Bend as the chap who stole a pack mule from Colonel White's camp, over the Fish river. One of White's men, who was over after bacon, happened to meet the stranger, and he went to Jim Redfern, president of the vigilance committee, and said:

"Jim, is it a good day for hangin'?" "Wall, tolerably fa'r," replied Jim. "The kuss who stole our pack mewl is down in the tin-front saloon."

"I see. And you want him hung?" "I don't keer no great deal about it myself, but I reckon the Kurnel would be pleased."

"I'm willin' to obleege Kurnel White, as he's a good friend of mine, but do you think the critter down thar has any objeckshuns to bein' hung?"

"He don't look like a man who'd kick about it. 'Pears more like a critter who'd be glad to git off the airth." "Wall, we'll take chances on him." said Jim, and he went to his shanty and got a rope and asked eight or ten of the boys to go along. When the crowd reached the tin-front saloon the stranger was just coming out.

"Say, we want you," remarked Red-

"What fur?" "Goin' to hang you!" 'Cause why?"

"Fur stealin' Kurnel White's pack

"Wall, fire away!" He was escorted to a tree whereon dozen or more men had been duly ranged, and lifted upon an empty whisky barrel and the noose placed over his neck.

"Want to say anything?" asked Jim as all was ready.

"Nuthin' 'tall.' "Then let 'er go!"

An hour later, White's man, who had started for home, returned to hunt up Mr. Redfern and say: "Look-a-yere, Jim, that feller didn't steal our mewl."

its Wide Extent and the Destruction Force of the Waters.

Each year, notably in the season between actual winter and conventional spring, there are floods in New England that seem so widespread and destructive that the communities afflicted think the waters must this time have done their worst, says the Boston Transcript. Floods are however, no respecters of records and the high-water mark of one year may be passed by the swelling waters of the next. The floods that are now beginning to subside have broken the record at Manchester, N. H., where structures like the "steam bridge" of the Amoskeag company, built so far above the highwater mark as to be deemed perfectly safe from the maddest freshet, have been carried away. Briquettes made from coal dust are likely to find a rival in localities where wood sawing is largely carried on. Good fuel is now being made from wood sawdust, and there is no reason why saw dust, if well agglomerated, should not make excellent briquettes. They are said to be successfully manufactured in Germany, and in an exceedingly simple manner. When well heated the sawdust becomes sticky, owing to its resinous properties, and then it is compressed into suitable blocks in the usual way. One man with a machine driven by twohorse power can turn out about 9,000 briquettes per day. We should be inclined to doubt the cohesive properties of the sawdust itself. All woods are not alike as regards resin, and in most cases the addition of a small percentage of resin or some other inflammable agglomerant might be advantageous.

The session had carcely opened when the opponents to Great Commander Boynton began to show fight, but they were turned down at every point. The great commander reported 65,000 men and 29,000 women in the order of the Maccabees in Mich-

gan. The first session of the uniformed rank was held at Germania institute. Brigadier Gen. White presiding. Adjt. P. J. Abt. of Detroit, was chosen adjutant-general: Levi Auchampaugh, inspector-general; Col. Stetzer, quartermaster-general: Louis Kries, of Saginaw: commissary-general. It was decided to hold biennial meetings, the next to be at Kalamazoo in August, 1898. The uniformed rank will secure an outfit and will hold their encampments in true military style. The prize drill at Union park was interesting and Celery division, No. 15, of Kalamazoo, won first prize, with Pearl division, No. 1, of Cleveland, a close second.

At the session of Ladies of the Maccabees Great Commander Lillian M. Hollister made a thorough report During the year ending Dec. 31, 1895 there was an increase of 96 hives and 7,869 members, giving the order a total of 618 hives and 27,110 members. Since January the number has grown to 646 hives, with 28,673 members, and 20,409 life benefit certificates. The local Maccabees gave a reception at the Masonie temple which was greatly enjoyed.

The fight against the administration of Great Commander Boynton was continued when it came to the election of officers, but the kickers were downed and the administration slate was elected as follows: Great commander, N. S. Boynton; great lieutenant commander, Devere Hall; great record keeper, Thomas Watson; great finance keeper, R. J. Whaley; great medical examiner, Edwin Eaton, M. D.; great chaplain, Oscar Allyn. The other great officers elected are: Great sergeant, Edwin Boyce, Sault Ste Marie; great master-at-arms, W. S. Evans, Pentwater: first master of the guard, Emil Stehlin, of Ironwood; second great master-at-arms, George G. Lutz, Ann Arbor; great sentinel, George C. Rav. Bay City; great picket, Nat L. Havana the Scene of Great Excitement Caused by Dynamite Explosions Which Nearly Cut Off the Water Supply-Dis ease and Famine Feared. Reign of Terror in Havana.

Havana: This city was startled and alarmed at 9 p. m. by the noise of two successive explosions which was heard for several miles. Consternation prevailed for a time as it was feared that this was a prelude to an attack by the insurgents or to a series of similar explosions. Excited throngs rushed to the streets while an armed party proceeded in the direction from which the detonations had been heard. It was soon found that the stone bridge of Christina and Concha and the aqueduct of Bernando and Septimo were the points that had suffered from the dynamite. The bridges were partially destroyed and the pipes on the aqueduct, upon which the city is dependent for its water supply, were much damaged. There is no doubt that the dynamite which caused this wreck was placed by agents of the insurgents. It has been their determination, announced some time since, to cut off the water supply of Havana and so make the city as nearly uninhabitable as possible. The greatest apprehension is felt on account of the secrecy and effectiveness with with which the insurgents have been able to carry out their designs. All fruits and vegetables and fresh neats are unprecedentedly high-priced and difficult to obtain in Havana and milk is of the poorest. There is much fever; and smallpox has broken out and in the unwholesome condition of affair threatens to become epidemic. Many are suffering from measles, and there is much intestinal trouble among the inhabitants owing to poor and in sufficient food. The failure of the water supply under these conditions is dire alamity.

Another sensation has been created at Havana by an editorial on the situation of affairs in Cuba, in the Diaro del Commercia, the leading paper of Barcelona, Spain. Copies of the paper which reached Havana have been suppressed by Capt.-Gen. Weyler. The subject of the editorial is Senor Sagasta's statement that the war is annualy costing Spain 500,000,000 pesetas (over $100,000,000) and 15,000 soldiers, but that the conflict may end in a year or so. It says in part:

The gravest is not what the liberal chief says, but what he withholds. He knows the war will never terminate, except in the loss of Cuba. The treasury of Cuba will not have resources to cover the expenditures, nor has that of Spain. The powers of consumption are dried up, and agriculture, industries and business wholly ruined. We have to accept the economic catastro-phe, colossal as it is, and admit both Spain and Cuba are ruined and this catastrophe is due to the stupidities that ound in the river at Bay City. Many Allens in U. S. Departments In accordance with joint resolutions passed by congress, calling for information as to the number of aliens, if any, are employed in the governmental de partments, investigations, have been made which show a rather surprising state of affairs. During the pas month the clerks of the supreme court of the District of Columbia have been busier with naturalization cases than they have been for a long period Since May 14 no less than 56 persons have taken out their papers. Ordinarily the naturalization cases in the district for a similar period of time, according to the statement of the clerk, is about eight. From the records of the court the names of all those naturalized since May 14, were obtained and the investigation, which is far from complete, reveals no less than 18 employes in the different departments who were not citizens of the United States. Some of these are holding positions of great importance and when the statement of the heads of the different departments, in re-Detroit was booked to entertain 1,000 sponse to the inquiry of congress, are submitted, they will no doubt create quite a stir.

One reason for the introduction of the resolution in congress was found in well-grounded rumors that certain foreign governments were in receipt of information which they could not have obtained legitimately and it is the intention of those interested to make some startling revelations when congress reassembles in December. I ground my teeth. I bit my annoyance that I am obliged to relate lips until the blood came. I cursed the the result of that hand-to-hand struggle. I was strong, and had measuerd my strength with many, but never with such a man as this. The moment we closed I felt that I should be conquered; that right does not always gain the victory. Grant's arms were like bars of for a time-table. Was there a train I iron, the girth of his chest almost abnormal; moreover, he stood two inches crossed to-night? make its record as short as possible. Nevertheless, I will be candid, and show myself in as bad a light as truth compels. I do not seek to excuse myself by saying that many another in my place would have acted as I acted. I hope there are few in the world who have passed through such grief and shame as mine.

At first, without for the moment losing sight of the vengeance I meant to take on the traitor, Eustace Grant, I set myself the task of forgetting the I vowed I would destroy the love I bore scorn and contempt, as the basest of her sex. me? Why had I not kept my vow of killing him when his dream of joy was at its height? Simply because I knew not where to look for him. He and his no less guilty companion had left no race behind them-no clew that might be followed until it brought me face to face with them. I had made inquiries, and inquiries were still being made on my behalf; but as yet I had not discovered Grant's hiding place. He seemed to be a man with, so far as I could ascertain, no friends or connections. Miss Rossiter, with whom he or Viola might have corresponded, died two days after the elopement. I was fatalist enough to believe that, sooner or later, this must happen.

I lived on in the dreary solitude of Herstal Abbey. Each day found me more cynical and misanthropical; but legacy, I suppose, eh?" each day I renewed my vow of vengeance. Its accomplishment was the only thing in life to which I could look forward. When Grant lay dead at my feet, life for me would be at an end. So the months passed. To cut the matter short, I had to consent-as I generally did where Charley

I had written to Charley telling him of his good fortune, and that I was going to stay on down here for a few days. Another week slipped by, and I still staid on. At the end of that time I was in such a state of mind that, one day, "Yes, why not? It's years since I finding myself alone with Milly, I blurted out my hopeless love for her, and said I should go away at once, for I felt that I could not possibly stay on there any longer. "Well," said Milly, composedly, "they say you never know your luck" till you try; but if you are too fainthearted to try, why, of course-

"I'll go off and find the Major and have it out at once," I burst out. And I saw him accordingly, and told him the whole story, humbly apologizing for daring to ask for his daughter's hand.

"H'm," said the major, "how is it Master Charley comes in for all the 'luck' in this way?"

"I don't know, sir," I answered dolefully, "He goes about more and makes himself more liked, I think, while I-" I hesitated.

"While you stick at home and work. Is that it?" he asked.

"Well," I returned, "I try my best. You see, I have nothing else to rely onor hope for-like Charley. It's his luck and mine!

"However," said the Major, "I have been told you get your pictures hung, and sell them, which is more than he does. Is that luck, too?"

To this I made no reply. I could not see its relevancy. "Now, look here, Jack Wiburn," the Major went on. "I knew you were not Charley Wiburn." (I looked up in surprise), "Milly told me; and I have made certain inquiries of my own, and I have something to tell you. The late Alexander Stephen Wiburn was a very old and intimate friend of mine, and had long ago set his heart upon Milly's marrying Charley" (here I jumped up excitedly, but he waved his hand to me, as a sign to be quiet), "but he was determined that, if it came about at all, it should be spontaneous, and not through any compulsion or unworthy motive. But in that will you heard read the other day there was something you did not hear-it was mixed up in another matter; but it comes to this: that if Milly married 'his nephew' he and she were to have a certain sum between them to begin housekeeping. I have consulted Mr. Parchly upon this matter, and he agrees with me that, as Charley's name is not expressly mentioned, and as he would not take the trouble to come down himself, even to the funeral of his poor old uncle, who had been so kindly disposed to him, if Milly likes you well enough to have you, you and she will be just as much entitled to the sum set aside as if Master Charley had married her, and I am sure I shall not object to the situation. In the will the only condition is that Milly shall marry 'his nephew,' and, of course, you are as much his nephew as Charley is. Therefore I leave it with Milly; if she says 'yes,' I say the same. and you will both have something to set up housekeeping with.' No need to tell the joy with which I heard the unexpected news, or the heartiness with which I thanked the kindhearted Major.

"I'll go and tell Milly at once," I said; but I had not gone far when he called me back.

"You don't ask how much you will have to start housekeeping upon," he said. "What matter, sir, since you think it

War ended in April, 1865.

In the war between the northern and southern states, which raged in America during 1861-5, we have the only instance in which steam cruisers have been employed on any scale to harry commerce. The south had no commerce to be attacked, but the north had a large and presperous merchant marine. From first to last the south sent 11 steam cruisers and 8 small sailing cruisers to sea. These captured between visit here with his parents to Pontiac them 2 steamers and 261 sailing ships—not a very heavy bill of loss, one would think. Yet this loss practically drove the United States flag from the seas. To prove this, I will quote from the case of the United States, as presented to the Geneva arbitrators, the following facts: "In 1860 two-thirds of JAS. TENNANT'S the commerce of New York was carried on in American bottoms. In 1863 three-Also a full line of fourths was carried on in foreign bottoms." And the transfers from the Groceries. United States to the British flag were enormously large. They were:
