Lenzner residence on Hitchcock, whose death was reported Houghton Street, Mr. Lenzner having in last week's issue, were held Sunday moved to his parental home on Oak afternoon at the residence at the corner of Leach and Church Streets.

It is estimated that over four hundred were in attendance and every individual could not but feel the solemnity of the occasion. The pall bearers were twelve in number, six young ladies and six young gentlemen, all of whom were chosen from her immediate associates. Rev. B. J. Baxter, of the Presbyterian Church, had charge of the services and spoke with deep feeling of the sudden bereavement, yet pointing out with a bright ray of hope how all should look forward to a glorious resurrection. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Her companions had procured a large doule wreath of roses, lilies and sweet alyssium enclosing the word "Iris" in contrasting colors of carnations. Hyacinths, white tulips, Easter lilies, violets, etc., added grace and beauty to the display. A number of appropriate selections were sung by a special choir and after the viewing of the remains the large procession wended its way to the Elkland cemetery where the interment was made in the family vault. She was always a genial companion and consequently was beloved by all, especially by those of her own home. The parents, brothers and sister feel their loss keenly and have the deepest sympathy of all. The joy and life of a home has departed, a merry voice is hushed forever, that lithesome step will nevermore be heard except in fancy, but the tender words of farewell will never be forgotten and the remembrance of her kind deeds will be cherished fondly.

United States Consul Norris, at Ghent, has reported an interesting fact to the State Department regarding the manufacture of incandescent lamps. It is that the most expensive product in the world is the charcoal thread employed in the lamps to furnish the light. This will be interesting news to the people who use electric light nightly without being cognizant of such a proximity of wealth. It is, for the most part, manufactured at Parls and comes from the hands of an artist. This product is sold at wholesale by the gramme, and, reducing this price to the basis of pounds, it is easily found that the filaments for lamps of twenty candle-power are worth $8,000 per pound, and for the lamps of thirty candle-power the fabulous sum of $12,-000 per pound. The former have a diameter of twenty-thousandths of one millimeter, or 7.874-ten-millionths, and the latter less than one-fifth of this size.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

'A RESURRECTION MISTAKE" EASTER SUNDAY SUBJECT.

From the Text: "She, Supposing Him to Be the Gardener, Saith Unto Him: Tell Me Where Thou Hast Laid Him and I Will Take Him Away"-John 20:15.

TERE are Mary Magdalen and Christ, just after his resurrection. For four thousand years a grim and ghastly tyrant had been killing people and dragging them into his cold palace. He had a passion for human skulls.

For forty centuries he had been unhindered in his work. He had taken down kings and queens and conquerors, and those without fame. In that cold palace there were shelves of skulls, and pillars of skulls, and altars of skulls, and even the chalices at the table were made of bleached skulls. To the skeleton of Abel had been added the skeleton of all the ages, and no one had disputed his right until one good Friday, about eighteen hundred and sixty-seven years ago, as near as I can calculate it, a mighty stranger came to the door of that awful place, rolled back the door, and went in, and seizing the tyrant threw him to the pavement and put upon the tyrant's neck the heel of tri-

Then the mighty stranger, exploring all the ghastly furniture of the place, and walking through the labyrinths, and opening the dark cellars of mystery, and tarrying under a roof the ribs of which were made of human bones-tarrying for two nights and a day, the nights very dark and the day very dismal, he seized the two chief pillars of that awful palace and rocked them until it began to fall, and then laying hold of the ponderous front gate hoisted it from its hinges, and marched forth crying, "I am the Resurrection!" That event we celebrate this Easter morn, Handelian and Beethovean miracles of sound added to this floral decoration which has set the place abloom.

There are three or four things which the world and the church have not noticed in regard to the resurrection of Christ. First, our Lord in the gardener's attire. Mary Magdalen, griefstruck, stands by the rifled sarcophagus of Christ, and turns around, hoping she can find the track of the sacrilegious resurrectionist who has despoiled the grave, and she finds some one in working apparel come forth as if to water the flowers, or uproot the weeds from the garden, or to set reclimbing the fallen vine-some one in working apparel, his garments perhaps having the sign of the dust and dirt of the occupation.

flower the chief of all, the morning sky and the midnight aurora, flaring terraces of beauty, blazing like a summer wall with coronation roses and giants of battle. Blessed and glorious mising him to be the gardener." What does that mean? It means that we work in every-day apparel. Not on Sabbath morning in our most seemly work dress, managing our merchanstrain of this Easter anthem, "Supposing him to be the gardener."

If Christ had appeared at daybreak with a crown upon his head, that would right to bring suit and recover from have seemed to suggest especial sympathy for monarchs; if Christ had appeared in chain of gold and with robe bediamonded, that would have seemed to be especial sympathy for the affluent; if Christ had appeared with soldier's sash and sword dangling at his side, that would have seemed to imply dawn, not Easter noon. especial sympathy for warriors; but when I find Christ in gardener's habit. then I spell it out that he has hearty and pathetic understanding with every-

Oh, that is what helped Joseph Wedgwood, toiling amid the heat and the dust of the potteries, until he could make for Queen Charlotte the first royal table service of English manufacture. That was what helped James Watt, scoffed at and caricatured, until he could put on wheels the thunderbolt of power which roars by day and night in every furnace of the locomotive engines of America. That is what helped Hugh Miller, toiling amid the quarries of Cromarty, until every rock became to him a volume of the world's biography, and he found the footsteps of the Creator in the old red sandstone. Oh, the world wants a Christ for the office, a Christ for the kitchen, a Christ for the shop, a Christ for the bankinghouse, a Christ for the garden, while spading and planting and irrigating the territory. Oh, of course, we want to see Christ at last in royal robe and bediamoned, a celestial equestrian mounting the white horse, but from this Easter of 1897 to our last Easter on earth we most need to see Christ as Mary Magdalen saw him at the daybreak, "supposing him to be a gardener.

Another thing which the church and the world have not noticed in regard to the resurrection of Christ is that he made his first post-mortem appearance to one who had been the seven-deviled Mary Magdalen. One would have supposed he would have made his first posthumous appearance to a woman who had always been illustrious for goodness. There are saintly women who have always been saintly, saintly in girlhood, saintly in infancy, always saintly. In nearly all our families there have been saintly aunts. In my family circle it was aunt Phebe; in yours saintly aunt Martha or saintly aunt Ruth. One always saintly. But not so with the one spoken of in the

While you are not to confound her with the repugnant courtesan who had made her long locks do the work of towel at Christ's footwashing, you are not to forget that she was exorcised of seven devils. What a capital of demonology she must have been. What a chorus of all diabolism. Seven devils -two for the eyes, and two for the hands, and two for the feet, and one for the tongue. Seven devils. Yet all these are extirpated, and now she is as good as once she was bad, and Christ honors her with the first posthumous appearance? What doth that mean?

There is a man seven-deviled-devil of avarice, devil of pride, devil of hate, devil of indolence, devil of falsehood, devil of strong drink, devil of impurity. God can take them all away, seven or seventy. I rode over the new cantilever bridge that spans Niagaraa bridge 900 feet long, 850 feet of Mary Magdalen, on her face the rain chasm from bluff to bluff. the lifting of the rusted latch? Oh, the glorious thought, the glorious consolation of this subject when I find Christ coming up without any of the lacerations, for you must remember He was lacerated and wounded fearfully in the crucifixion—coming up without one. What does that make me think? That the grave will get nothing of us except our wounds and imperfections. Christ went into the grave exhausted and bloodless. All the currents of His life had poured out from His wounds. He had lived a life of trouble, sorrow, and privation, and then He died a lingering death. His entire body hung on four spikes. No invalid of twenty years' suffering ever went into the grave so white and ghastly and broken down as Christ, and yet here He comes up so rubicund and robust she supposed Him to be the gardener. "Are we-are we-ruined?" gasped.

The Doctor stretched out his arms to her. "Ruined," he replied, "you are ruined by your sinister husband.'

Casimir observed the consequent embrace through his eyeglass: then he turned to Jean-Marie. "You hear?" he said. "They are ruined; no more pickings, no more house, no more fat cutlets. It strikes me, my friend, that you had best be packing; the present spec ulation is about worked out."

CHAPTER I.

INCE my name has become so widely known in the world, and my discovery the subject conversation wherever civilized men do congregate, I have, through the agency of one of the establishments that have recently fee distribute to individuals such cuttings from newspapers as may concern them, been made acquainted with a considerable amount of gossip more or less truthfully connected with my private affairs. This nuisance began to come upon me shortly after the publication some years since of my work, "The Secret of Life." The reader will remember, if this short history of facts is ever made public in years to come, that the appearance of this book created a great sensation, even in what is called English society.

Everybody appeared to have read "The Secret of Life," or pretended to have read it, and it was no uncommon thing to meet ladies who evidently knew far more about the whole matter than I did after many years' study But it—society I mean— seems soon to have tired of the scientific aspect of the question, not even the interest attaching to the origin and cause of existence could keep its attention fixed on that for long.

Unfortunately, however, curiosity passed from my book to myself. It seemed to strike people as wonderful that they should never have heard anything of the Dr. Gosden (for this was before Her Majesty was graciously pleased, somewhat against my own inclinations, to make me a baronet), who Secret of Life, and accordingly they, or rather some of the society papers, Thus it was that a good deal of rather ill-natured talk got about as to what had been the exact relationship between myself and my fellow-laborer, Miss Denelly. I say ill-natured advisedly, for there was nothing more than that; but still, at the best, it was, and indeed is calculated to give pain to myself and to the lady concerned, whose conduct throughout has been morally blameless, and such as I can conscientiously say on the whole commends itself to my reason however much it may jar upon my prejudices. And now with this short apology to myself for setting down on paper passage in my private history, I will tell the story, such as it is. I say "to myself," for probably it will never be made public, and if it is, it will be in accordance with the judgment of my executors after my death, so I shall have nothing to do with it. I am now a middle-aged man, and have been a doctor for many years. While I was still walking the hospit als, my mother died and left me all her property, which amounted to four hundred a year, and on this slight encouragement, having quiet and domestic tastes, I went the way that young men generally do go when circumstances permit of it, and instantly got married. My wife, who possessed some small means, was a lady of my which I need not enter into here, had a about thirteen. That girl was Fanny

"You will not require," said Desprez, As it happened, I had only seen her positively with a sob; and, casting a once or twice before, and then in the most casual way, or in the dusk, so this was the first opportunity I had of studying her. She was only a young wonder?" Casimir reflected; and then, girl between fourteen and fifteen, I think, but still there was something lowed the Doctor's example and took striking about her. Her hair, which was black and lustrous, was braided eyes were large and dark, not sleepy almost stern in their expression. The rest of the face was well cut but massive, and rather masculine in appearance, and even at that age the girl was closely followed by the man of gave promise of great beauty of form to which she afterward attained.

Paymaster and President. A railway paymaster, whose conversa tion is reported by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, is inclined to magnify imoffice; and no doubt he is a pretty important man in the eye of the employes, who look to him for their wages. This view of the case is emphasized by a story which he tells of President Ingalls, of the "Big Four." President Ingalls was out in his special car one day on his road, and stopped near St. Paul, Ind., for the purpose of inspecting a chasing. He had several minor officials was at work near by, and a switch ran up into the gravel pit, half a mile distant. EOMBAY WOMEN.

Curious Custom Observed in the Highe Caste Families.

Bombay papers tell of a curious cus

tom which is observed annually by the women folk of many families belonging to the higher castes in Lahore, says the Buffalo Times. At about 3 in the morning the women congregate near a well in Vachowali bazaar and, divid ing themselves into two hostile parties, bombard each other with the choices and most telling abuse that their in genuity can invent. Sometimes this party wins, and sometimes that. A vast crowd of awe-struck males assembles even at that unearthly hour, to witness this unique warfare. Five out of the total of fifteen Kanagat days are set apart for this purpose. Then peace will be proclaimed till next year. The wordy conflict continues till about day break, when the exhausted dames ranged on opposite sides, mingle again with the utmost cordiality, and proceed together to the ravi, singing suitable songs for the usual matutinal ablutions. In the good old days all womankind in Lahore, it is said, used to engage in this lingual combat, some 20,-000 fairies on either side. There is a legend that once upon a time an Afghan invader was stealthily approaching Lahore, to pounce upon it unawares. It so happened that he reached Wazirabad a good two hours before sunrise. The proximity to the prey filled the heart of the Pathan leader with joy and set themselves to supply the want. | gratitude, and he ordered his 1,000 troopers to dismount and offer thanks to Allah. They were certain that the Lahoris were unconscious of their approach, and therefore absolutely unprepared for defense. But they had scarcely been a minute on their knees, when they heard a deluge of terrible noise, as it were, coming from the direction of Lahore. They heard a sound as of elephants screaming, horses neighing, camels gurgling, bulls bellowing, bowstrings twanging, wheels rumbling drums booming, warriors roaring and trumpets tooting. They thought that the capital had got scent of the invasion and a vast army was coming out to meet them. Small their numbers. all their hope had rested on the suc cess of the surprise they had planned. So they mounted again and retraced their steps to Kabul with all possible speed. But think of their feeling of disgust when they learned later it was only this wordy combat of females!

The owl is noted for wisdom, as every one knows, but as a fowl of prey for big game he is certainly enacting a new role, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. An engineer of a train says that while near Greensburg, Ind., he saw what appeared to be a cow or horse about to cross the rails almost directly own age; and, owing to circumstances in front of the locomotive. Anticipating an accident, he put on all the cousin dependent upon her, a girl of brakes just as the engine struck the object. As the jar was slight and no "His luggage, to be sure," answered Denelly, and my wife made it a condi- damage done, he walked out on the ily consented, that she should live with | what then looked like an eagle lying on the cowcatcher. He picked up the object, carried it in the cab of the engine, but could not make out what it was, although lie was certain that it was not an eagle. Afterward the passengers of the train pronounced the bird to be an owl, which measured nearly five feet from tip to tip. Investigation proved that the owl, at the time he was struck, was dragging along the ground a lamb that weighed many pounds. Birds have all sorts of queer adventures, but perhaps what is the oddest one of recent days is that which befell a sparrow at Anderson Ind. It flew into a knife and bar manufactory. back from a most ample forehead. The and getting too near a small wheel was sucked in. The workmen noticed it go like most dark eyes, but intelligent and | into the wheel, but knowing that the cylinder was revolving at a speed of 130 revolutions a minute, took it for granted that the bird had been killed. When the factory shut down at noon the men were astonished to hear a gentle chirp from the wheel, and lo, there was the sparrow as well as ever. They found that the bird had clung to the strengthening rod of the inside of the wheel and was in a semi-dazed condition. They picked him up and put him on a table, and from thence, after collecting his wits, the little bird flew to freedom. The wheel in which the bird rode made 31,000 revolutions while it was upon it, and so the tiny feathered creature traveled seventy-three and

Won't remove the burdens that thousands are forced to carry. Many the man of wealth who would exchange his bank account for a back that was free from burdens. Many the poor man that would not hesitate to give his hard-earned savings for a new back. A bad back is a bad thing. Hard to struggle along day after day with a back that aches so that life is a misery. More people have backache than any other affliction and it's constantly on the increase. You see, the public do not seem to know how to get rid of it. They don't understand the cause. Popular education on the subject has progressed wonderfully of late, due to the workings of the little enemies to backache. It is becoming clearer that the back aches because the kidneys are sick and most pains or weakness of the back are due to failure of the kidneys to perform their work. When this is generally known lame back will not be so common and many homes will be happier for it. It's a very easy matter to make a good back out of a bad one and it doesn't require much gold to do it at that. Silver answers all purposes. A 50-cent piece invested in a box of DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS will do it every time—that is if you take the Pills. Here is proof of this in the testimony of Michigan people:

[A Lansing Veteran.] Well known in Lansing is Mr. W. W. Min-

turn, whose place of residence is No. 148 Larch street. He gave the following short story of his experience for publication: "During the war I was captured and confined in Libby prison. Ever since that time I have been a sufferer from a combination of kidney disorders. My symptoms were a pain in my back and urinary trouble. I had a very frequent desire to urinate, and it was accompanied with a scalding feeling and a terrible pain in the lower part of the abdomen. I could not get a proper night's rest, I was so frequently disturbed from this cause. I had that regulation pain across the small of my back, which gave me a great deal of suffering. I was unequal to any exertion. Some months ago a friend of mine induced me to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I began taking them, and I wish to state that I have obtained more relief and benefit from their use than from anything else I have taken during all these years. The pain in my back has been relieved and urination has been regulated, so that I can rest at night better than I have in years. In fact, I am feeling quite like my old self again. I am continuing the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, as I feel that they are just the thing I need, and their effect has given me confidence in them. I am feeling as well now almost as I ever expected to be, and I owe it to Doan's Kidney Pills. I shall certainly do all I can to let other kidney sufferers know what a good medicine the pills are. I can speak from experience.

[A Detroit Citizen.]

Mr. J. Manwaring, a resident of Detroit for over 60 years, has many interests in the lumbering districts and that has been his business. Mr. Manwaging has reached pretty well up the span of life; his has been a busy and honorable career, and he can now be found at his beautiful home, No. 414 Lafavette avenue, surrounded by the comforts which he has gathered round about him. Mr. Manwaring has the following to say about a 16-year-old trouble and its final cure. He says: "About 16 years ago I had an abscess of the kidney which left me with a weakness of the kidneys and this has from time to time given me great trouble. To aggravate my condition I was continually getting colds, as I was exposed to the weather a great deal, which rendered my case worse. I had pains in the small of my back and the urinary organs were affected. Sometimes the urine was scanty and difficult of passage. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills I got some and I gladly testify to what they have done for me. They have rendered urination natural and freed my back from all its pains and aches. The pills are a mild medicine and work in a mild way. I would recommend them to all old men. They will soon learn to prize them highly. I have never in all my experience come across anything which seemed to fill my need like Doan's Kidney

Carleton, Mich. A most remarkable instance of the efficacy of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer in the treatment of nervous troubles is a popular topic in this place. It appears that Mrs. Henry Greene, who resides just outside of the corporation, had suffered many years from a peculiar female trouble, and was advised by the attendant physician, Dr. S. A. Du Paul, to go to Harper Hospital, Detroit, for a surgical operation; that being her only hope to recovery. She followed the idvice and the operation was successfully performed, but resulted in such a shock to her nervous system that she was stricken with nervous prostration. They were unable to revive her from that condition and so no ified Dr. Du Paul, and at the same time sent her home as a probable incurable. Dr. Du Paul used all known means to help her without effect, in fact she grew worse. She could not raise her hand to get the smallest particle of food to her mouth, was a complete physical wreck. Fortunately Dr. Du Paul knewsomething of the virtue of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer in the treatment of such cases and determined to try it. The effect was almost miraculous. She began to im-prove at once; it induced refreshing sleep, quieted her turbulent nerves, strengthened ner entire nervous system, restored her to health, and she soon gained 20 pounds of good healthy flesh. Dr. Du Paul reports that only four bottles of the medicine were

Wild Enthusiasm.

Wild enthusiasm has filled more than one poultry farm. Men get the "hen fever," and nothing will do but a grand scheme. They read of the profits others have made and come to the conclusion that they can do the same. They get to building air castles. If one hundred hens will give so much profit, certainly a thousand would give ten times the amount of profit. Then they overestimate their capacity. They reason that they could handle a thousand hens when there is all the work in three hundred that a man can perform well. Men are too apt to Messrs. WHAT TO DO. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills very wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of lignor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urmate. The mild and the extraor dinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases the best. Burglar Kills a Prominent Citizen of Adrian-Two Young People Killed by Passenger Train on the D., G. R. & W. Railroad at South Lyon.

Adrian Man Killed by a Burglar. Mrs. Lafayette Ladd, of Adrian, was awakened about 3 a. m. by a slight noise. In the dim light she saw a man searching the bureau drawers. She aroused Mr. Ladd, who arose partially and asked what the man wanted. The intruder would have to pass Ladd nearly in order to get from the room. He sprang to his feet as Ladd spoke, fired his revolver and escaped. The bullet struck Mr. Ladd in the left breast just above the heart. The alarm was given, officers and a physician summoned and every effort made to locate the miscreant, but without avail. He had gained entance by prying up the bay window in the front room, using a "jimmy." The ball could not be found by probing and an opening of ten iches was made which disclosed the course of the ball to be downward through the liver, kidney, speen and bowels, making eight per forations of the intestines. Mr. Ladd died the following afternoon. The burglar got about $70 and a gold

Two Killed by a Train at South Lyon Miss Ethel Just, daughter of Banker I. N. Just and Harry Clark, both of South Lyon, and Miss Sarah Fisher, of Ypsilanti, were taking a morning drive at South Lyon and were crossing the D., G. R. & W. tracks just north of the village when a passenger train came upon them without warning. The carriage was literally torn to pieces. The horse, being just over the rails, escaped serious injury. The bodies were carried about five rods. Miss Fisher's legs were both cut off, and her body otherwise mangled and she died instantly. Harry Clark was picked up unconscious, and died in five minutes. Miss Just received some ugly scars about the eyes and face, and

WAR DECLARED.

TURKEY MADE THE CHALLENGE -- GREECE ACCEPTS.

Numerous Flerce Battles Fought Upo the Macedonian Frontier - Turks Advanced Upon Greek Positions and Hot Fighting Followed.

Constantinople: The council of min sters, after a session at the palace, declared that war had broken out on the frontier, owing to the incursion by the Greeks on Turkish territory, and Edhem Pasha, the Turkish military commander, was ordered to assume the offensive. The council of ministers also decided to recall Assim Bey, the Turkish minister at Athens, and give passports to Prince Naurocordato, the Greek minister at Constantinople.

Athens: The Greek cabinet has decided to protest to the powers against the aggressive action of Turkey. An invasion by Edhem Pasha, the Turkish commander, is expected, and the Greek army has taken up positions for the purpose of being in readiness to repel the advance. Orders were sent to the Greek troops to keep strictly on the defensive, but to maintain their positions at all costs.

A late special sitting of the legislative assembly was held and the public galleries were crowded. Amid intense excitement M. Delyannis, the premier, announced that the Turkish government had notified Greece of the rupture of diplomatic relations on the ground of the aggressive attitude of railroad gives to any other shipper on the Greek government. "Turkey," said M. Delyannis, "declares war against us. We accept it." This statement was received with prolonged cheers from the galleries and the floor of the chamber.

Athens: Fighting is reported along the whole line of the frontier in Thessaly. An official dispatch from Larissa says that the Turks, under cover of darkness, assaulted the Greek forces at Mount Analipsis with great fierceness. The Greek resistance was magnificent and spirited. The firing began at Critsovali with an attempt of the Turks to occupy a strategic position in the neutral zone. Firing is reported from Moluna. The line of fire extended from Mt. Analipsis to Klephtika Centika. The Turks, falling back, abandoned several stations which the Greeks promptly occupied. The Greeks cannonaded the Turks from the Greek position at Tsameja in the rear.

At Nezero the Turks attempted to occupy a strategic position in the neutral zone, and this the Greeks could not permit. Thereupon the Turks opened fire, the Greeks replying, and the fight lasted from early in the evening until midnight and ended in a repulse of the Turks. The next morning the Turks again attempted to occupy the same strategic position and again they were repulsed.

Athens: The Turkish batteries at Prevesa, on the north shore of the en- | bill to prohibit the coloring of butter trance of the Gulf of Arta, fired on and sank a Greek steamer, the Macedonia. The crew was saved by boats, but the captain was severely wounded. Upon receipt of this news the Greek fleet in the Gulf of Ambracia bombarded Prevesa, which is in Epirus, 18 miles from Arta, and is strongly fortified. A force of 2,000 Greek troops also crossed the Gulf of Arta from Vonitza to Salagora and marched upon Prevesa. Later-All the forts except one, which is the strongest, have been destroyed at Prevesa, by the bombardment of the Greek fleet. The Astv (Athens newspaper) says the Greek troops have occupied the citadel at Prevesa and it is believed the Turks are bombarding Vonitza. London: A dispatch to the Chronicle from Athens, says the Greeks have captured Menexe after severe fighting. The losses were very heavy on both sides. The latest news received is that the Greeks have captured and hold all the positions except Ana and Milouna along the Thessalian line. The correspondent adds: "I have had access to an important document from a European capital showing that the powers have done nothing for several weeks because they have hoped that Greece would be either financially ruined or soundly beaten by Turkey. If Turkey gets Larissa she will remain there until Greece evacuates Crete. It was Germany that urged Turkey to declare

He took into his flatboat a large bull. When within a mile of the hills, the bull, which was almost famished, in attempting to browse on willow trees, tipped over the boat. In the excitement the animal kicked the boat to pieces, and the entire family was drowned. Negroes who saw them were unable to render

MICHIGAN'S LEGISLATORS.

The House got another rub at Gov. Pingree by passing over his veto the Flint charter bill by a vote of 72 to 19. The House also passed the bill abolishing the fee system for all county officers, except sheriffs, Wayne and Kent counties alone exempted. It provides that all fees received by county officers shall be turned into the county treasuries and the boards of supervisors of the various counties affected shall fix the salaries of the officers at the last | the U. of M. to be envoy extraordinary meeting of the board preceding an election. The Senate has killed the key. The House passed the following joint resolution which provided that a constitutional amendmend be submit- of auditors to examine and audit the ted to a vote of the people, whereby the regents of the U. of M. would be subjected to the authority of the legislature. The House committee on private corporations is having a time with the independent and the Bell telephone | school to homes. The Senate companies. The representatives of independent companies of various cities ing for police matrons in cities areurging the passage of a bill to prevent the Bell company from making ruinous rates for the purpose of driving out competitors. Railroad bills have had another inning in the House and this time the people's welfare induced a little more favorable consideration. Three bills were passed one step nearer completion by being agreed to in committee of the whole, but they have yet to receive the formal vote of approval before passing on to the Senate. The most important of the bills agreed to was the anti-discrimination bill which in its latest form provides that every shipper shall be entitled to the lowest rate for the transportation of freight that such the same class of freight; providing, in case of a violation of this provision, that the shipper discriminated against may recover from the road before any justice of the peace in the city or township where such overcharges are made an amount equal to double the amount charged for the transportation of his freight and $50 additional. The bill originally provided a penalty for discrimination in passenger rates also, but this was killed. The other two bills provide that each railroad passenger shall be entitled to have one bicycle carried free as ordinary baggage, and compelling the railroad company to equip its cars with hooks, racks or appliances for storing wheels so as not to mar or scratch them, the company not to be responsible for the wheels except by the carelessness or negligence of its employes; also requiring automatic bell signals at crossings that can be heard a distance of 20 rods away, upon the approach of a train, such signals to be established upon the order of the railroad commissioner. who is obliged to investigate any crossing and determine as to the necessity for such signal whenever five freeholders, who use such crossing, petition for it. The fight over these bills, particularly the one against discriminations, was so long that all other business was crowded out for the day. The Senate when it recently passed the substitutes to imitate butter (known as the oleomargarine bill) in some way left off the enacting clause. This was not discovered until the bill reached Gov. Pingree. It was then recalled and has again been passed, enacting clause and all. The Senate backed up over the governor's veto. To adjourn May $1 was the purport of a resolution introduced by Senator Coleman, but after considerable talk it was defeated. Ontonagon county will not be cut in two to make a new county, which it was proposed to name Lincoln county, as the Senate killed the bill by a vote of 21 to 8. The Donovan curfew bill was passed by the Senate. The Senate debated the uniform text book bill at length and the bill was referred to the committee on appropriations. The House has got its hand in the killing business and is butchering right and left in great shape. The Lusk-Gordon home rule bill got in the way and was laid low. It is said, however, that an attempt will be made to reconsider it. April 27 has been decided upon as special railroad day when railroad bills will be considered. Atkinson's bill for a uniform law for negotiable instruments failed to pass the House. The Eikhoff blower bill and two railroad bills, the bicycle and danger signal bills, passed the House without debate. One of the most interesting sessions of the House was a three and a half hour debate on the Bates bill permitting the members of any fraternal and beneficial society the right of appeal to the courts of the state in case of disputed insurance claims. No action was taken upon the measure. The railroad committee of the House is apparently working hand in glove with the railroads. The committee decided to report unfavorably bills providing for the repeal of the Michigan Central special charter: to prevent special chartered railroads Chicago from making low rates between points, even on commutation tickets, which they do not grant all other points on their lines. The committee reported out favorably the bill permitting railroads incorporated in other states to hold realty in Michigan; also the bill permitting railroad directors to hold meetings in any part of the state.

The building and loan association men appeared before the House committee on private corporations in protest against the bills of Reps. Peters and Green to place the associations under the control of the state banking commissioner. The building and loan men say the interests of the banks and loan associations clash, and as the interests of the banks are much the larger that it would result in the commissioner being naturally disposed to give the loan associations the worst of it. If the loan associations are to be placed under state control, they want a building and loan commissioner ternal organizations to appeal to the courts on disputed insurance claims was promptly and permanently downed in the House by a vote of 62 to 22 on the second day of its consideration. The House passed resolutions expressing "its great appreciation of the additional high honor conferred by the present national administration upon our state in the selection of the distinguished citizen, educator and diplomat," President James B. Angell, of and minister plenipotentiary to Tur measures: Authorizing the state board claim of Alphonso Button, not to exceed $2,000, in monthly installments of $25 each; amend the law to provide for a female attendant in transferring small children from the state public had a fight over the bill providof over 10,000 inhabitants, but fina action was not taken. The House passed several other measures, the most important being to authorize highway commissioners to open toll gates to the public in case plank road companies fail to keep their roads in proper condition. The others were as follows: Providing means whereby to secure the judgments against villages that have no as sessing officer within court jurisdiction; permitting one-third of the directors of hunting, yachting, fishing, boating, rowing and other sporting associations to be non-residents of the state, and permitting secretaries and treasurers of such associations who are not members thereof; permitting the eastern Michigan asylum to expend $25,000 of its funds for a laundry and electric lighting plant; prohibiting the killing of beaver until 1906, and making a close season for otter, fisher and marten from May 1 to Nov. 15 of each year; providing for an appeal to the circuit court from the decisions of the probate court with regard to the sanity of persons and granting a jury trial upon appeal. This last bill was made retroactive for two years. During a 20-minute session the Senate passed one local bill. appointed the conference committee with regard to the Donovan amendment to the compulsory education law, and concurred in the resolution congratulating President Angell.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

The most conspicuous improyement in trade conditions is in the weather throughout the central, western and northwestern states, where country roadways are more passable. There is a better demand for building materials, particularly lumber. In staple lines there is a more active request. There is no sign of trade revival in the flooded regions. If the water recedes by May 15 one-half of the usual cotton crop may be raised in Arkansas and Mississippi this year, but the outlook is not promising. Demand for dry goods is slow and some manufacturers remain at work without profits, as the lesser of two evils. Woolen and shoe manufacturers are working actively. Iron and steel continue disappointing. A reverse movement is noted in the price of staples Wheat, corn, pork, lard, coffee, cotton and woolens have advanced.

Two Little Editors.

Once In A While is the name of a little paper published in Hyde Park, says a writer in the Chicago Record. Roy D. and Phil F. Hawley are its editors and publishers, and the paper is now in its second year.

The Brothers Hawley live at 5845 Madison avenue, where the paper is issued from forms 71/2 by 51/2 inches. Volume 1, No. 1, numbered only twenty-one copies, but the paid circulation is now more than 100. Once In A While ordinarily has six pages, and, while it is issued "semi-occasionally," its editors, nevertheless, got out an extra on the birth of a baby at their home some time ago. The two boys are editors, publishers, business managers, compositors and pressmen for the paper.

In the Christmas number of the paper was an article on Mai. McKinley. who is now president of the United States. A copy was sent to him at Canton, O., and he acknowledged its receipt through his private secretary. But there is another Once In A While published in Chicago, and the other paper got the acknowledgment and printed it, not knowing that it had not

A New Game.

Bring up your chairs and try a game of "Waterloo.' Cut out the diagram published below and paste it firmly to a stiff piece of cardboard—or play on it as it is. The game, which has been invented for our boys and girls, is exceedingly simple, but when you have learned it you find it much more interesting than backgammon or evening entertainment and don't know progressively, two at each board.

board twelve small squares, six white and six colored.

The player using the white pieces, or men, places them on one of the end the London office, although the disrows, as 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. The opconent's men are placed on 38, 39, 40, 41. 42 and 43. Call these two rows the camp rows.

The object of the game is for each player to try to get all his men into his opponent's camp row. The one who first does this wins. Observe the following rules:

Move only one space at a time (i. e., from one circle to another), except in

Always move forward, never backward, on either the diagonal or the straight lines. Thus, a man on circle 4 in passing to the opposite camp row may move to 8 or 9, but not back from 8 or 9 to 4. Having reached 9, the next move may be to either 13, 14 or

Jumps are made as in checkers, except that the pieces jumped are not taken from the board. When possible. two or more pieces may be jumped at the same time, as in checkers.

No jump can be made around an angle, as from 14 to 21—the pieces jumped must lie in a straight line. A player must jump when there is a chance. A study of this game will bring out some very interesting problems.

Ducks on Their Summer Vacation.

Almost any bright day at this time of year, if you watch the sky closely, you will see faint V-shaped objects going northward, high up in air. If you live in the country, where everything is still, perhaps you can also hear a distant "quack, quack." For the Vshaped object is a flock of wild geese or sucks flying to their summer homes. spinets are very much in vogue.

Playing the Game of Observation. One of the jolliest of July games goes by the name of "Observation."

Take every one of the party into another room, says the Jenness Miller Monthly, let them look around and then go out. Afterward give each person a pencil and paper and ask him to tell what time it was by the clock, how many colors there are in the carpet, how many pictures there are in the room (the one he went into for a few minutes), where the chairs stood, how the curtains were draped and all sorts whereon Abraham would have offered of things of this nature. In the beginning of this game you must not tell the boys and girls why they are allowed to go into the other room: the game, you see, is to test their powers | prophet by the hand of the angel Gaof observation—that is, to find out how much they notice, how keen their rock being shown to credulous believattention is, and so on. Is at first not a single one can remember any of the things he is asked to tell, you need not be very much surprised. A good many grown-up people can look all around a room and not be able to tell what they saw when asked. It is a very good thing in this world to keep your eyes open and learn by observationthat is, by seeing-and this observation game is a first-rate lesson and a lot of fun at the same time

On an Old-Time Railroad.

Years ago railroad travel wasn't as well developed as it is today. A passenger on the old Peninsula railroad. between Battle Creek and Lansing. Mich., tells of a ride he took many years ago. Not only was the road rough and dangerous, but, after going for some time at a snail's pace, the train stopped suddenly in the midst of a deep forest. For half an hour the engine puffed energetically, but the train did not start. At last the pasto see what the matter was. They found that the fireman had run out of fuel, having used his last stick of wood. Accordingly the trainmen and passengers went off into the woods, picked up fallen limbs and logs, dragged them up to the track and loaded them into the tender. At last the fireman got up steam enough to blow the whistle; the passengers climbed been intended for its publisher. This aboard and the train started. In a few minutes, however, it stopped again. Two of the leaders of the wood crusade went out and found several cow lying on the track in front of the engine. They helped the brakeman drive them off and then the train started again, finally pulling into Lansing safe and sound. Not much like railroad traveling today, was it?

With the Speed of Lightning.

Ten thousand miles in less than a minute-how is that for swiftness? Not long ago the editor of a newspaper in Chile wished to find out just how long it would take for a telegram to go from London, England, to Valparaiso, Chile. Accordingly, arrangements were made with the telegraph and cable companies to keep open the wires. Ten minutes before the message was to be sent the wires were cleared along the entire distance and all the ordinary communications through the cables were suspended. At the given astronomical time the checkers. ## Lawsuits in Borneo.

When the Dyaks of Borneo have to decide between two disputants, they give to each the same sized lump of salt. These lumps are dropped into water, and he whose lump is dissolved first is to be decided in the wrong. Or they put two live shellfish on a plate -one for each litigant-and squeeze lime juice over them. The verdict is given according to which man's fish stirs first. An English traveler remarks gravely that the result is sometimes as accurate as the judgment of civilized courts.

Mean Hopes and Cheap Pleasures. "Deliver us from mean hopes and from cheap pleasures." The words are a part of a prayer written by Robert Louis Stevenson to be read at family worship in his household at Samoa, They suggest a lesson that life teaches to men of any creed. ## One of Mrs. Pinkham's Talks Concerning a Mother's Duty to Her Young Daughter. Together with a Chat with Miss Marie Johnson.

The balance wheel of a woman's life is menstruation. On the proper performance of this function depends her health. Irregularity lays the foundation of many diseases, and is in itself symptom of disease. It is of the greatest importance that regularity be accomplished as soon as possible after the flow is an established fact.

Lydia & Sinkham

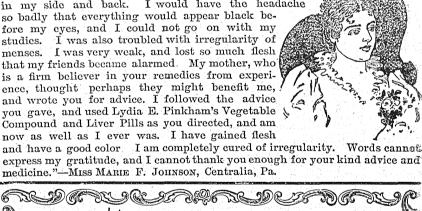

Disturbance of the menstrual function poisons the blood. In young girls suppression develops latent inherited tendencies to scrofula or consumption, and no time must be lost in restoring regularity. Many a young girl goes to her grave because this difficulty has been thought lightly of, and mother has said, "Time will bring about a cure; she is young, I don't worry about her."

Mother, when you see your daughter languid and indifferent to things that usually interest a young girl, when you note that flush on her cheek, that glassy appearance in her eyes; when your daughter tells you that even the weight of her dress waist oppresses her, and that she has terrible pains in her stomach shortly after eating, don't ignore these signs! If you do, you will be following your daughter to the grave, for she will die! This is gospel truth—she is developing consumption of the bowels!

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest regulator known to medicine. Make haste to use it on the first appearance of the tell-tale symptoms; it will restore all the female organs to their normal condition. Miss Marie Johnson's letter to Mrs. Pinkham, which follows, should interest all mothers and young ladies. She says:

"My health became so poor that I had to leave school. I was tired all the time, and had dreadful pains in my side and back. I would have the headache so badly that everything would appear black before my eyes, and I could not go on with my studies. I was also troubled with irregularity of menses. I was very weak, and lost so much flesh that my friends became alarmed. My mother, who is a firm believer in your remedies from experience, thought perhaps they might benefit me, and wrote you for advice. I followed the advice you gave, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable & Compound and Liver Pills as you directed, and am now as well as I ever was. I have gained flesh
