In speaking of the possibility of an alliance between Peru. Bolivia and the 'Argentine Republic, with a view to war with Chi'e, an American, who has lived in Chile for a number of years says: "Peru and Bolivia know very well that they cannot whip Chile, and the outcome of a war, in the event of the alliance I have named, would be the same. The Chileans can and will fight. We can put 375,000 men in the field, for 10 per cent of the population can be counted upon in the event of war. We have ample modern arms, and I have no fear as to the outcome. Should the Queen of England decide against Peru in the boundary arbitration, a war may result, though I am of the opinion that it can be avoided."

The bicycle, according to a recent decision of the full bench of the Mas sachusetts supreme court, is not a "carriage," within the meaning of that term as used in the statutes. Cities and towns are consequently not bound by law to keep their roads in such a state of repair and srepothness that a bicycle-rider can go over them in safety. This decision was called forth by an action brought against a certain Massachusetts town, because of personal injuries incurred by the plaintiff while riding her bicycle on one of the roads. The court held that a bicycle is more properly a machine than a "carriage," as legally defined, and that bicycle-riders, injured from accidents arising from defects in the highways of cities and towns, have not a valid claim for damages. The decision will not prevent them from con-'tinuing the agitation for good and safe

Gen. Chaffee Gives Fuller Particulars to War Department.

The following dispatch was received from Gen. Chaffee:

"Yangtsun, Aug. 6.-Yangtsun occupied today. Wounded: Second Lieut. Frank R. Long, Ninth infantry, moderate; casualties, about sixty men Ninth United States infantry, Fourteenth United States infantry, and B.t. tery F. Fifth United States artillery, nearly all from Fourteenth infantry; names later. Many men prostrated by heat and fatigue. CHAFFEE." This loss is regarded at the war department as not particularly heavy for the force engaged, and while it is regretted there should be such a casualty list, the tone of Chaffee's dispatch is altogether rather hopeful.

The allies marched on Pei Tsans Sunday morning and routed the Chinese, taking that place. The nix morning they moved up the Pei-ho a distance of ten miles, and, according to Gen. Chaffee's dispatch, drove the Chinese out of Yangtsun, occupying that place the same day.

That is considered a brilliant victor for the comparatively small force o foreign troops in the relief expedition It was expected that the Chine would make their strongest resistance at these two places. The imperitroops had for some days been e gaged in throwing up earthworks a Pei Tsang and preparing to make stubborn resistance against the advance of the foreigners. That the reief expedition should have been able to move on and take Yangtsun, which was regarded as the best strategic point between Tientsin and Pekin, shows to military authorities that the allies have a thorough understanding of the campaign they are conducting and also that the imperial troops are more or less demoralized since the fight at Tientsin, and unable to make an effective stand. Yangtsun is the town which Gen. Chaffee indicated in his dispatch as being the objective of the international forces on their then pending movement. It is at the junction of the Peiho and the railroad leading to Pekin. Its capture will insure to the international troops, it is hoped, two routes of transportation to Pekin. It is 178 miles from Tienisin.

SERMON. TALMAGE'S

HE TALKS OF THE GOOD DONE BY CITIES.

They Are the Birthplace of Civilization and Are Not Necessarily Evil -The Farmer as Dishonest as the Merchant.

(Copyright, 1900, by Louis Klopsch.) From St. Petersburg, the Russian capital, where he was cordially received by the emperor and empress and the empress dowager, Dr. Talmage sends this discourse, in which he shows the mighty good that may be done by the cities, and also the vast evil they may do by their allurements to the unsuspecting and the unguarded. The text is Zechariah i, 17, "My cities through prosperity shall yet be spread

The city is no worse than the country. The vices of the metropolis are more evident than the vices of the rural districts because there are more to be bad if they wish to be. The merchant is as good as the farmer. There is no more cheating in town than out of town-no worse cheating; it is only on a larger scale. The countryman sometimes prevaricates about the age of the horse that he sells, about the size of the bushel with which he measures the grain, about the peaches at the bottom of the basket as being as large as those at the top, about the quarter of beef as being tender when it is tough, and to as bad an extent as the citizen, the merchant, prevaricates about calicoes or silks or hardware.

And as to villages, I think that in some respects they are worse than the cities because they copy the vices of the cities in the meanest shape, and as to gossip its heaven is a country village. Everybody knows everybody's business better than he knows it himself. The grocery store or the blacksmith shop by day and night is the grand depot for masculine tittle tattle, and there are always in the village a half dozen women who have their sunbonnets hanging near, so that at the first item of derogatory news they can fly out and cackle it all over the town. Countrymen must not be too hard in their criticism of the citizen, nor must the plow run too sharply against the yardstick.

Cain was the founder of the first city, and I suppose it took after him in morals. It takes a city a long while prisons are the shadow of those founder. Where the founders of a city are criminal exiles, the filth, the vice, the prisons are the shadow of their founders. It will take centuries for New York to get over the good influence of the pious founders of that city—the founders whose prayers went up in the streets where now banks discount and brokers bargain and companies declare dividends and smugglers swear of the wheels and the crack of the auctioneer's mallet ascends the ascription, "We worship thee, O thou almighty dollar." The old church that used to stand on Wall street is to this day throwing its blessing on the scene of traffic, and on all the ships folding their white wings in the harbor. In other days people gathered in cities for defense-none but the poor, who had nothing to be stolen, lived in the country, but in these times, when through civilization and Christianity it is safe to live anywhere, people gather in the cities for purposes of rapid Highway of Prosperity. Cities are not evil necessarily, as some have argued. They have been the birthplace of civilization. In them popular liberty has lifted its voice. Witness Genoa and Pisa and Venice. After the death of Alexander the Great among his papers were found extensive plans of cities, some to be built in Europe, some to be built in Asia. The cities in Europe were to be occupied by Asiatics; the cities in Asia were to commingling and a fraternity and a kindness and a good will between the there always ought to be. The strangthere should be bickerings and rivalries among our American cities. New prosperity. On that highway of national prosperity walk the cities.

is Philadelphia; a city with its pocket cities going with a rush that astounds Chicago; a city that takes its wife and all the cities of the north and all the advantages all. What damages Boston of brotherhood or sisterhood among the heroes of the street. Mighty were WILLIAM I. BUCHANAN the cities.

Important Lessons.

But while there are great differences in some respects I have to tell you that all cities impress upon me and ought to impress upon you three or four very important lessons, all of them agreeing in the same thing. It does not make any difference in what part of the country we walk the streets of a you good morning really hope for you great city there is one lesson I think | a happy day? Do all the people who which ought to strike every intelligent Christian man, and that is that the world is a scene of toil and struggle. Here and there you find a man in the street who has his arms folded and who seems to have no particular errand, but if you will stand at the corner of the street and watch the countenances of those who go by you will see in most instances there is an intimation that they are on an errand which must be executed at the earliest moment possible, so you are jostled hither and thither by business men, up this ladder with a hod of bricks, out of this bank with a roll of bills, digging a cellar, shingling a roof, binding a book, mending a watch. Work, with its thousand eyes and thousand feet and thousand arms, goes on singing its song, "Work, work, work!" while the drums of the mill beat it and the steam whistles fife it. In the carneted aisles of the forest, in the woods from which the eternal shadow is never lifted, on the shore of the sea over whose iron coast tosses the tangled foam, sprinkling the cracked cliffs with a baptism of whirlwind and tempest, is Judas Iscariot kissed Christ. * * the best place to study God, but in the rushing, swarming, waving street is the best place to study man.

Going down to your place of business and coming home again I charge you look about; see these signs of poverty, of wretchedness, of hunger, of sin, of bereavement, and as you go through the streets, gather up in the the losses, all the sufferings, all the bereavements of those whom you pass all sympathetic God. In the great day of eternity there will be thousands of persons with whom you in this world never exchanged one word will rise up and call you blessed; and there will be a thousand fingers pointed at you in heaven, saying: "That is the man, that is the woman who helped me when I was hungry and sick and wandering and lost and heart-broken. That is the man, that is the woman; and the blessing will come down upon you as Christ shall say: "I was hungry and ye fed me, I was naked and ye clothed me, I was sick and in prison and ye visited me; inasmuch as ye did it to these poor waifs of the streets ye did it unto me." Wicked Exclusiveness. Again, in all cities I am impressed with the fact that all classes and consometimes cultivate a wicked excluiveness. Intellect despises ignorance Refinement will have nothing to do with boorishness. Gloves hate the sunburned hand, and the high forehead hedgerow will have nothing to do with the wild copsewood, and Athens hates Nazareth. This ought not so to be. I gospel of Jesus Christ which recognizes the fact that we stand before God on one and the same platform. Do not take on any airs. Whatever position you have gained in society, you are nothing but a man, born of the same parent, regenerated by the same spirit, cleansed in the same blood, to lie down in the same dust, to get not only the fatherhood of God, but the brotherhood of man.

Again, in all cities I am impressed with the fact that it is a very hard thing for a man to keep his heart right and to get to heaven. Infinite temptations spring upon us from places of public concourse. Amid so much affluence, how much temptation to covetousness and to be discontented with be occupied, according to his plan, by our humble lot! Amid so many op-Europeans, and so there should be a portunities for overreaching, what temptation to extortion! Amid so much display, what temptation to vancontinents and between the cities. The statue Aye, the angels of God are on the of Benjamin Franklin in New York | street, and in the day when the crowns greeting the bronze statue of Edward of heaven are distributed some of the Everett in Boston. All the cities a brightest of them will be given to those confraternity. I cannot understand men who were faithful to God and how there should go on bick rings and faithful to the souls of others amid the rivalries. I plead for a higher style marts of business, proving themselves their temptations, mighty was their deliverance, and mighty shall be their triumph.

Hollowness of Society. Again, in all these cities I am im pressed with the fact that life is full of pretension and sham. What subterfuge, what double dealing, what two facedness! Do all people who wish shake hands love each other? Are all those anxious about your health who inquire concerning it? Do all want to falo next year, is Hon. William I. Busee you who ask you to call? While fops ture, forestry and live stock, but was simper and fools snicker and simple | a most sagacious and helpful adviser in tons giggle, how few people are nat- the general management of the exposiural and laugh! I say these things tion. not to create in you incredulity or misanthrophy, nor do I forget there are thousands of people a great deal better than they seem, but I do not think any man is prepared for the conflict of this life until he knows this particular peril. Ehud comes pretending to pay his tax to King Eglon and while he stands in front of the king, stabs him through with a dagger un til the haft went in after the blade.

Dishonesty Never Prospers. I want to tell you that the church of God is not a shop for receiving stolen goods and that if you have taken anything from your fellows you had better return it to the men to whom it belongs. In a drug store in Philadelphia a young man was told through the streets, and come back that he must sell blacking on the Lord's day. He said to the head man arms of your prayer all the sorrow, all of the firm: "I can't possibly do that. I am willing to sell medicines on the Lord's day, for I think that is right and present them in prayer before an and necessary, but I can't sell this patent blacking." He was discharged from the place. A Christian man hearing of it took him into his employ, and he went on from one success to another until hé was known all over the land for his faith in God and his good works as for his worldly success. When a man has sacrificed any temporal, financial good for the sake of his spiritual interests the Lord is on his side and one with God is a majority.

But if you have been much among the cities you have also noticed that they are full of temptations of a nolitical character. It is not so more in one city than in all the cities. Hundreds of men going down in our cities every year through the pressure of politics. Once in awhile a man will United States minister an enviable come out in a sort of missionary spirit and say: "I am going into politics now to reform them, and I am going to reform the ballot box, and I am going to reform all the people come in contact with." That man in the fear and love of God goes into politics with that idea and with the despises the flat head, and the trim resolution that he will come out uncontaminated and as good as when he went in. But generally the case is when a man steps into politics many like the democratic principle of the of the newspapers try to blacken his character and to distort all his past history, and after a little while has gone by instead of considering himself an honorable citizen he is lost in contemplation and in admiration of the fact that he has so long been kept out of jail! If a man shall go into politics to reform politics and with the right spirit, he will come out with the up in the same resurrection. It is right spirit and unhurt. That was high time that we all acknowledged Theodore Frelinhuysen of New Jersey. That was George Briggs of Massachusetts. That was Judge Mc-

Lean of Ohio. Then look around and see the allurements to dissipated life. Bad books, unknown to father and mother, vile as the reptiles of Egypt, crawling into some of the best families of the community; and boys read them while the teacher is looking the the corner of the street when the groups are gathered. These books are read late at night. Satan finds them a smooth plank on which he can slide down into perdition some of your sons and daughters. Reading bad booksone never gets over it. The books may be burned, but there is not enough power in all the apothecary's preparations to wash out the stain from the soul. Fathers' hands, mothers' hands, sisters' hands will not wash it out; none but the hand of the Lord can wash it out. * * * I stood one day at Niagara Falls, and I saw what you may have seen there—six rainbows bending over that tremendous plunge. I never saw anything like it before or since. Six beautiful rainbows arching that great cataract! And so over the rapids and angry precipices of sin, where so many have been dashed down, God's beautiful admonitions hover, a warning, arching each peril-six of them, 50 of them, 1,000 of them. Beware, beware, beware!

Young men, while you have time to reflect upon these things and before the duties of the office and the store and the shop come upon you again, look over this whole subject, and after the day has passed and you hear in: the nightfall the voices and footsteps' of the city dying from your ear, and it gets so silent that you can hear distinctly your watch under your pillow going, "tick, tick," then open your eyes and look out upon the darkness and see two pillars of light, one horizontal the other perpendicular, but changing their direction until they come together, and your enraptured vision beholds it-the cross.

During the latter part of his diplomatic, service the Argentine Republic and Chile were brought to the brink of war, by a long standing boundary dispute. For a time a peaceful adjustment appeared to be hopeless. Finally a scheme of arbitration was devised, and Mr. Buchanan was made the arbiter, whose decision was accepted as binding on both parties. The facts regarding this happy outcome of an international quarrel that had long excited the countries of the southern continent, made at strong impression on the people of those countries, and earned for thereputation throughout South America. Among other results of his diplomatic service at Buenos Ayres was the successful negotiation of an extradition treaty and a commercial convention between the Argentine Republic and the United States.

VALUE OF SLEEP.

It Is of Utmost Importance to Preserve Good Looks.

Sleep, the rest which holds the eyelids down, is of the utmost importance in good looks. There is no means, aid or condition so productive or preserving of a pleasing appearance as proper and sufficient sleep. Nothing will promote brightness and vivacity like this death-like rest which nature demands once every twenty-four hours. This fact is ignored by many of the most intelligent men and women. They know it, but they don't seem to know it well enough. Every walk in life seems too full-there is so much to do -"the world is too much with us." there does not seem time enough to sleep, says Health Culture. When a halt is called and we are forced to learn that we can accomplish much more by reason of stronger nerves, granted by the proper amount of sleep, we are on the way to successother way, or at recess, or on ful accomplishment of our heart's desires. Our cities are filled with tired eves and faded complexions from lack of sleep. Our country places offer tired countenances from overwork. Society women consume their evenings in social affairs and their days in the duties incumbent upon their position and wonder why they fade. The farmer's wife works all day and half the night, arising in the morning unrested and unrefreshed, and wonders why she ages faster than her husband, whose work is done at dark. Youthful strength and comely appearance are absolutely dependent upon sufficient sleep. The woman who will consider this fact as positive will give the subject of sleep as much attention as she will that of diet or dress, or any other requirement of existence. Those who have been neglectful of this important function should arouse in themselves first a determination to grant sufficient time from pleasure or duty for its full need. Then go to bed with the intention of sleeping-make your preparations by removing every garment worn through the day, putting on a loose single garment which has comfort for its recommendation. Do not sleep on feathers. This style of bed is a remnant of ignorance-a cotton or wool mattress is a good bed. Have your pillow just high enough to raise the head a little above the level of the body and place the pillow under the head-not under the shoulders. Sleep between two sheets and under light but warm covering. Do not place your bed directly in a draft, but be sure to have an open window in your room; night air is only fresh air and it is necessary during sleep as at any other

CHAPTER VII.

Veronica's face was as haggard as Alan's. The blow had been so crushing, so unexpected—that he had not seemed glad to see her, that his heart had not leapt out to her, as hers did to him, that his eyes did not rest for one moment upon the boy, was bad enough; but that there should be another woman in her place! Oh, that was anguish intolerable! At last she "You love her, Alan?" she asked.

"Better than my life!" he answered

"Oh!" She gave a little shudder. "Then I will go and leave you to your happiness," she said quietly. "It's the only way-the only way. I will take our boy and go!"

"But you cannot go!" he groaned. "I made you my wife, Veronica, and as long as you live you will be my wife, although my heart and hers may

"I break your heart?" cried Veronica. "Why, I would give my life for you. I would not have you unhappy for a moment if I could help it. I love you as much as in the old days, Alan, before the shipwreck. Oh, why was I saved?"

He looked at her, and poor Veronica's heart failed her. There was no love in that look. All the love of Alan's heart was given to Joyce. There was pity and despair, but no love. When a woman loves a man she can soon see the difference. He could not say that he praised God that she was saved, and he did not. "Tell me about it." he said mechanically. If she talked he would be able to think what it would be best to do for her. But as for him, the despair of his heart almost choked him when he thought that in about half an hour he must pull down that beautiful fabric of their lives, must ruin Joyce forever! He could scarcely think of Veronica in his overwhelming agony; but she spoke, glad to see his inter-

But it was a year before I could find anything of you, and I should not have found you at all but Hutchinson told me he had seen you and had spoken to you."

"When did he tell you that?" "Two days ago. But he told me that he had seen you two months ago, and you had spoken of me. You had told him we were married, Alan, which he had not known. He tracked me home from a music shop, where they get me music lessons; but I cannot tell why he delayed."

But Alan could. Hutchinson, in his cruelty, knew that it would be the ruin of Joyce's life as well as his own if this marriage with her could be consummated first. He knew Hutchinson hated him, so this was his re-

He tried to think of Veronica, but it was of no use. Joyce's image came before him whenever he tried to think of the poor girl who was his wife. The little boy, also, was looking at him with his, Alan's, own blue eyes, which were so great a contrast to his curly dark hair. That these poor creatures, dependent upon him for love which he could not give, troubled

"Yes," said Alan. "Will you do that? You know that you can trust me."

"Of course," said Veronica, simply. "I will do what you say always. It person in this world point a finger of is misery to me to think that I have scorn at you? Do you think I should made you so unhappy, when I thought let you soil your beautiful white soul only to make you happy."

way out of it. He and Joyce, his wife of six weeks, must part!

At last he roused himself: it was getting late. Joyce already would be paying professions to follow. "The uneasy about him. and had not hated her. He crept home slowly, like a wound ed animal going to its lair. Home! The very word hurt him. And he and Joyce had only this morning talked of buying the pretty house for their summer residence. Hand in hand they went together into the pretty morning-room, into which the sun was shining, and they sat down speechess. A bird in a bush close by set up its joyous song. Nature was full of gladness. Then suddenly he wrenched his hand out of hers and threw himself headlong upon the couch. Sobs broke from him and his shoulders heaved. For a moment she let him weep, and then she knelt down beside him and flung her pretty, soft arms round his neck, and pressed her cheek, down which the tears were running, against his, so that their tears mingled together.

"Tell me like this," she said. But he could not speak, his grief was uncontrollable. And so in whispers she began: "It is something about your wife, Alan-your first wife, I mean, poor Veronica?"

He groaned, and an awful knowlclutched her heart and made her very being stand still. For a moment she saw nothing distinctly, heard nothing distinctly, only felt Alan's tears upon her cheek. Then, when the mist cleared away: "Is she alive?" she whispered. "Yes!" he cried

"Alive? Oh, my poor heart! Alive!

Your wife? And I-I--He sat up then and grasped her hands in his. "You, you!" he cried. And the agony of his voice came back to Joyce for years after. "You! I've got to give you up, Joyce! You, the You've got to be as nothing to me! How can I do it"

"I don't know," she said "And yet, Alan, we must!"

"Do you think I don't know it?" he cried. "Do you think I would have you live with me while my wife was 11ving? Do you think I should let one for me? Oh, Joyce, I love you too perfectly for that, you are too dear to me touched by the contrition in her tone for that! A good deal of anxiety has been felt during the last two years as to the available supplies of iron ore and fuel. The total world's consumption of iron ores in 1899 was probably more than 90,000,000 tons. Of this quantity the United States contributed more than 22,000,000. But in all countries alike exceptional efforts were made to increase the output so as to overtake the greatly stimulated demand. These efforts are still being continued, says the Engineering Magazine. The grounds are cared for, his conservatory is filled with flowers, and the gardener who cares for it is paid by the government. The only servants whose wages the president is called upon to pay are his own personal ones, for the doormen, messengers, clerks, and, in fact, every one connected directly or indirectly with the executive department are, of course, government employes. He receives, also, as the head of the army, fodder for his horses and his stable is the property of the government. There are other allowances and, taken all in all, it is estimated that the president receives in various ways between $80,000 and $90,000 a year, or its equivalent.

The doctor gives the result of his work after a detailed study of 859 offenders, confined in the great jail at Nimes, France, of which he was the physician. He has investigated the matter from all standpoints, as to the birth of the criminal, his family and antecedents and effect of heredity on his morals; early life, association and education, nature of the crimes number of convictions, general charac-

The Frenchman is the most accomplished sneak thief, and has carried begging to a degree of perfection undreamed of by operators of other nations. The most skillful pickpocket is the Englishman, because of his coolness and self-control. The Frenchman is the ideal prisoner, barring an occasional tendency to jovial noisiness He becomes accustomed to the regime of prison life in a short time and is almost invariably contented and happy the soul of good humor and jollity, The arrival of a new comrade, especially a friend of other days, is greated with joy and whenever possible some little demonstration is arranged in his honor, speeches are made, stories recounted and the many virtues of their latest accession proudly extolled.

On the other hand, the English are cold and correct, and amenable to discipline. They seem to feel their disgrace keenly. They are taciturn and called out: 'You're wasting your time, are the most difficult of all the crim- miss; it's no good talkin' to 'im-'e's inals to examine. The Englishman in fail is just as solicitous about his comforts as the Englishman at large. Indeed, it seems to be his only thought. lawyer, and Bella Maria Ashmead, a Coutts, the wealthiest woman in England. Miss Ash's engagement had just been announced when the war broke out, and when she learned of her lover's death she denied herself to everybody. After the death of her self up in the big house with her invalid mother. Two years ago the mother died. Everybody who passed the old house frequently wondered why it was never opened, and most of them concluded that the place was unoccupied. For many years no paint has been put on the building, the closed shutters have half rotted on the hinges and the door steps show the effect of neglect. On a small card that always hung from the rusted door bell could be read this announcement: "Not home today." Once a week Miss Ash, dressed in black and heavily veiled, would walk up and down the street, leaning on her servant's arm. But no one was ever admitted to the house. Frequently carriages were driven up to the old residence and footmen would leave cards under the door. Once during the nearly twoscore years Miss Ash went out of the house on a visit, and that was to her lawyer, a suit involving $20,000 having been decided in her favor and her signature being required.

The "Trained" Nurse.

Mai. Rasch, M.P., told a new story in addressing a public meeting at Springfield, England, the other day. In commenting upon the hospital service he observed: "Here is a specimen of the value of ladies at the front. Recently at a military hospital a lady sat down beside a bed and commenced reading aloud in a very impressive manner. This was too much for Tommy, who been dead an hour."

Professor Charles Eliot Norton, Ruskin left his manuscripts and notes in perfect order, as if he expected death. He had destroyed such manuEXTRACT OF BENNE PLANT.

It Is Nature's Own Remedy. First used by the Mississippi river steamboat men in the "early forties," who drank their "Benne Tedd" from the hands of the colored "aunties." They steeped the leaves in hot water, and the verdict of these steamboat men was that it "did the business."

In 1841, James and Constance Maguire secured some of these miraculous leaves, and upon investigation, discovered that

Weekly Crop Report.

The weekly weather crop bulletin issued on the 7th says that the mean daily temperature for the week ending Aug. 4, 68.0 degrees, was identical with normal. The average total precipitation of 0.24 of an inch, was 0.25 of an inch below normal. The sunshine averaged 77 per cent of the possible amount. In the lower peninsula the wheat and rye harvest has been quite generally completed and the oats harvest well advanced. There are a few complaints of rust and smut in oats but generally the crop is very fine and heavy. It is being well secured and in the southern counties its threshing is well advanced. Late potatoes are doing finely and their present condition is very promising. Beans vary somewhat but for the most part are doing well. Sugar beats continue to make good growth and remain promising. Pasturage is better than usual during August. In southern counties plowing for fall wheat and rye is quite general and correspondents report the soil in good condition. Peaches are ripening and are quite plentiful. Plums and apples indicate rather poor crop. Threshers returns say that while wheat is a very short crop it is generally of good quality; rye is a full, good crop, and cuts are heavier than usual.

The Swine Plugue. The state sanitary live stock commission is making a determined effort to stamp out the swine plague or hog cholera in this snate. President Brown, of the live stock commission, who was in Lansing on the 8th, asserted that the disease has cost the farmers of Michigan hundreds of thousands of dollars, the losses in a single township often aggregating $5,000 or $6,000. While there is no recognized cure for the disease it is the opinion of the commission that by intelligent restriction and the employment of sanitary methods the ravages of the disease may be prevented to a great extent. The commission has therefore secured an allowance from the state board of auditors for the purpose of printing circulars describing the disease, giving methods of preventing infection, care of animals and disinfection of premises. These circulars will be placed in the hands of supervisors whose duties under the law are to take every possible step to limit the spread of the disease whenever notified of an outbreak.

Lake County to the Front.

Lake county is generally considered a worthless heritage, fit only to produce fish, huckleberries and thieves but this year the crops are excellent, and farmers throw down the gauntlet to the best farmers of the state. One farm of 25 acres of land produced at the first cutting 80 tons of mixed clover and timothy hay, and a very superior second crop is now growing upon the same land

CHINA WAR NEWS.

Mrs. E. B. Drew. wife of the British commissioner of customs at Tien Tsin, who recently arrived at San Francisco from the orient on the transport Logan, in speaking of the brutality in China, says: During the bombardment we lived most of the time in the cellar of our house. Our house was partially wrecked by big shells. Sleep was out of the question most of the time and we were so unstrung that but little food satisfied us. There was ever present the haunting fear of the Chinese triumphing and slaughtering every foreigner and convert. Some, probably all, of the women were prepared to act in case the Chinese effected an entrance. But, aside from the unpleasant recollection, it appears the allied officers were prepared to act. I did not know it at the time, but learned later that 10 or 20 men had been detailed to kill all the foreign women in case the chinese were the

Among the refugees from China who arrived at San Francisco on the Logan were the wife of Prof. C. D. Tenney, of the Imperial university in Tien Tsin, and her children. They were among those who took refuge in Gordon hall during the bombardment and escaped uninjured. She and her husband had been together in China for 18 years. Prof. Tenney is now accom panying the allied forces on the march to Pekin as an interpreter.

A dispatch received at the war office in St. Petersburg from Gen. Grodekoff, dated Khabarovsk, Aug. 4, says two squadrons reconnoitering near Teche engaged 1,000 Chinese with two guns and 250 eavalry. After a stubborn fight the Russians were reinforced by another squadron with two guns and defeated the Chinese, killing 200. The Russian loss was eight men killed and eight wounded. Excluding the 4th brigade the strength of the forces proceeding to China is 446 British officers, 1,064 noncommissioned and native officers, 13,-970 men, 11,850 followers, 1.150 drivers, 2,520 horses, 4,300 ponies and mules, 12 guns, 14 Maxims, and 1,800 imperial service troops. It is expected that the entire force will have sailed before the middle of next month.

A Shanghai special, dated Aug. 6, says: Li Hung Chang has officially informed the consuls that the ministers left Pekin for Tien Tsin on Aug. 3 with Gen. Yung Lu in command of the escort. The consuls are by no means disposed to credit Earl Li's statement. All other reports that have reached London indicate that the ministers have not left Pekin.

TRANSVAAL WAR ITEMS.

The following from Lord Roberts; dated Pretoria, Aug. 6. was received on the 7th: Harrismith surrendered on Aug. 4. The neighboring country seems to be quiet. Kitchener is with the force south of the Vaal river. He was joined yesterday by a strong detachment of Brabrant's horse and the Canadian regiment. The Boers attacked the garrison at Eland's river on the morning of Aug. 4. Information was sent to Carrington, who was on the way to the river. Ian Hamilton, who reached Rustenburg yesterday, reported hearing heavy firing in the direction of the river. Today the firing seems more distant, which looks as if the Eland's river garrison had been relieved and was retiring toward Zeerust.

A dispatch from Pretoria dated Aug. contained the following: A plot to shoot all the British officers and to make Lord Roberts a prisoner, has been opportunely discovered. Ten of the ringleaders were arrested and are now in jail. Probably the plot was part of a conspiracy of which the attempted risng at Johannesburg was the first indication.

A dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated Aug. 8, says: Hunter reports that he made 4,140 prisoners in the Bethlehem-Harrismith district, a majority of whom are now en route for Cape Town. Three guns and 4,000 horses were captured, and 10 wagonloads of ammunition and 195,000 rounds of ammunition were destroyed.

It is stated positively that President Kruger is willing and anxious to sur render, provided a satisfactory promise is given as to his ultimate destination. It is feared by Lord Roberts that Elands river garrison has been captured by the Boers.

Those to whom the term "The Yellow Peril" has become familiar look upon it as a bugbear arising from the present situation, the idea that the despised Oriental might even in the course of a century become a dominating world power being considered not worth a second thought. Neither the phrase nor the idea, however, is by any means new. The words of Lord Wolseley, which are today taken almost as a text by students of international affairs, and upon which the novelists are busily building fanciful tales, were spoken nearly a dozen years ago, but in view of recent developments are more interesting than ever.

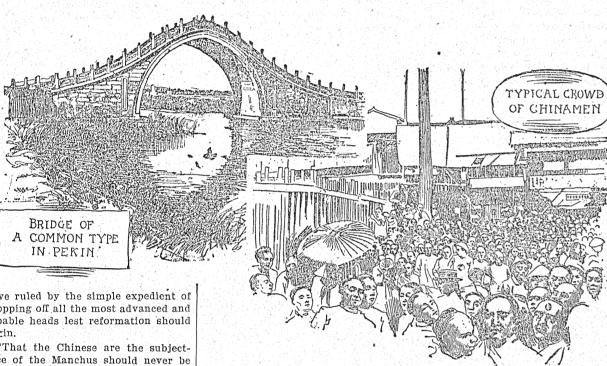

"A Yellow Peril menaces the world," he said. "The coming battle of Armageddon will be fought between the Anglo-Saxons and the Chinese. For 300 years past the Chinese have been under Tartar tyranny. The Manchus table.

TASCA.

Alexander Basilwski looked moodily out of the window. It seemed as if all the world was covered with a vast and crudities, and presenting only a ing skies above. In the streets below was St. Petersburg and mid-winter.

He tapped idly upon the pane of surroundings than this.

How he hated St. Petersburg and potic fathers! Why should he not have been free, like those young Englishmen with whom he had spent six months of his last year. They were all younger sons, every one of them, Penniless and happy, they herded cattle on the Pacific slope of North America. How freely she came among themfearlessly, innocently, with her clean limbed pony, her bright eyes and her red rebosso-Tasca, the boys called her, but what her name really wasstrange that he never had thought to askt

They would meet afar down the bushes while their ponies grazed near by, and gazing at each other in supreme contentment, they needed not words to express the joy, the rapture, of living.

Again he saw the deep red glow of the sun on that last evening together. Again he marked her sloe black eves the long, straight lashes, the curled straight fold of her short black serga shirt where the little foot with its high Spanish instep peeped temptingly forth. They had told him that mixed with the mild Aztec strain in Tasca's veins ran the vigorous and vengeful blood of the Spanish invader. Ah, lit tle he knew or cared what race called her its own, what her family, what her kind! Suffice it, he loved her.

That last night love held him slave His tattooing came to a violent and inharmonious end, and broke in a series of wild disconnected chords that fell on the stillness of the luxurious apartment like the wail of a lost soul wandering in purgatorial depths. He started-that wail was so real-then viciously bit at his old Virginia cheroot the last of a quantity carried over from America to this accursed land.

Pekin's Military College. Under the conservative administration of the Empress dowager, the foreign drillmasters were discharged from the imperial service, and their places filled with graduates of the Manchurian Military College at Pekin. .This school's chief text-book upon military science is a literary classic more than 1,000 years old. It abounds in such recommendations as these: "A wise general plays sweet music before going into battle in order to lull his enemies into a deep sleep." "A good commander should insist upon his men practicing with the bow to shoot backwards as they ride on their horses, and should at times lead in the exercise himself." "No general should go to war without taking with him an extra red umbrella and an extra umbrella-bearer." These graduates are supposed to have mastered horsemanship, bow and arrow, the spear, the sword and martial music, these being even to-day the chief features of the Manchurian curriculum.

Sugar-Beet Pulp in Cow Feed. A government report on dairying in California says: Sugar-beet pulp, which is the principal by-product in the manufacture of beet sugar, is usually sold for 25 to 30 cents a ton at the factory. Last year the price was as high as 50 cents. As it can be held a long time in silo and is fed to best advantage when old, it is available the entire year. The use of fresh pulp is said to reduce the milk flow. It is supposed to be good when a few weeks old and better at six months, and will keep two or three years. When fresh the pulp is piled or mains undisturbed until needed for use. The material is so soft and moist that if a large pile is dumped in the corner of an inclosed space it will gradually settle until the surface is almost level. Of course the top part decays, and after a time the entire mass is covered with a protecting layer from 3 to 6 inches in thickness. Within a few months the individual pieces of beet which were originally 2 or 3 inches long and quite slender are broken down, and the appearance of the material reminds one of cold mush, grayish brown in color. Three tons of fresh pulp make about 1 ton cured. Pulp has a tendency to fatten and it is given to beef cattle without the addition of any other food, but tons. See that you get quality in the for milch cows its effect is found to be best when used with a little grain or the price afterwards, and the result hay. Without these latter it is supposed to produce a thin and watery lines indicated, when mated with the milk. One feeder uses corn with pulp, proper mares. another feeds about 3 pounds of bran daily. When pulp is fed in considerable quantity the animals do not care for water and may go for months without a drink. A feeder who has been calves are likely to come weak and dairyman of less experience who feeds the pulp fresh states that in his observation it has no bad effect on the calves. A herd of 200 milch cows kept near a beet-sugar factory about 40 miles south of San Francisco is given a daily ration of 60 pounds of pulp. 5 pounds of mixed ground grain, and a little hay. The cows were seen in the pasture and appeared to be in good health and flesh. The milking cows averaged almost 2 gallons each per day. Their milk is shipped to a dealer in San Francisco, who pays 121/2 cents per gallon for it the year through and 1 1-6 cents per gallon for railroad freight. Butter made from the milk of this herd, for experimental export, was found to have exceedingly good body, a satisfactory flavor, and an apparently first-class keeping quality.

not brisk, is certain-like everything else, the superior article always finds INTERESTING CHAPTERS FOR a profitable sale. We have ever to raise our standard higher; we must not be content on arriving at one point of excellence, but strive for one still higher, which time and the advancing condition of everything amongst which we live clearly demonstrate that the Clydesdale breeders must not lag in the race for superiority. We must continue to implove, and keep a bright outlook for anything that will advance our interests. One quality most in demand in size—the horse wanted for the future must be big. Our efforts as breeders should be mainly along that line; we must have great size with sufficient bone to carry weight without coarseness. The demand for animals of this kind is sure. Animals of fine size and appearance always command good prices over average stock, apart from any other of the necessary qualities of the animal. I think we are fully justified in assuming that there will be a steady market for many years to come for our p'aced in a silo where it rehorses, aside from any great demand for shipping to foreign countries. We can, and wisely. I think expect from the rapid development of our mineral indus ries, the building of railways. and other works of like magnitude. the large influx of agricultural immigrants and the consequent settling of new districts of the country in all directions. The large investments of capital on every hand in various enterprises all go to mark an assured area of prosperity, which will benefit every one, and none more so, I hope, than the Clydesdale breeders.

'It is needless for me to point out to you, practical men, the necessity of carefulness in breeding, but I do mention to be particular in your importas.res. Consider the animal first, and cannot but be satisfactory along the
