A. H. Ale For Treasurer.

Our well-known townsman, Alonzo H. Ale, has been honored by the Democrats with the nomination for county treasurer, and we cannot but admire their choice in the selection of a candidate that would carry the respect of the populace, and be in every sense competent. Mr. Ale was born in Tuscola County and has always made his home here, associating himself with the business interests of the town at an early age and manifesting a business ability that has ever kept him at the front of the procession. He has held positions of trust in both village and township, always dischargng the duties connected therewith in a manner highly creditable to himself and satisfactory to all. For three years he has been secretary of the Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac District Fair Association and the fairs have ladies' never been more successful than during that time, much of the management being left in his hands, and the results speak for themselves, as the Cass City Fair has become one of the the honored position of postmaster for a full term of four years, and served the public in that capacity in a very pleasing manner. During that period he became interested quite largely in village realty and has been one of the E. A. Jones has purchased a lot on Oak Street north of A. H. For example, Flint Presbytery has 58 churches, most of which receive missionary aid, and while the whole Synod was asked to raise 50 cents per member for home missions, this Presbytery gave only 12 cents per member; Cass City gave 50 cents. The reports on Alma College and the Seminary for young women at Kalamazoo were very encouraging. Unusual efforts along all lines and especially for foreign missions is urged upon all who love the kingdom of Jesus Christ. The next meeting of Synod will be held in Niles, Mich.

An Explosion in a Shoe Factory at Detroit Sets Fire to the Building and Destroys Over $24,000 Worth of Property-Two Workmen Killed.

Two Killed at a Defreit Fire. An explosion took place in the fourstory brick building occupied by Witchell, Sons & Co., as a shoe factory at 15 Jefferson avenue, Detroit, on the afternoon of the 16th. A puff of smoke, which followed the explosion, was blown clear across the street, and in an instant the third and fourth floor of the building were a mass of flames. These two floors were the work rooms of the factory and in them there were some 30 to 35 men, boys and girls. They had but little chance to save themselves. Two men met death, one by trying to jump to a place of safety and the other suffocated, while a dozen were burned more or less by the flames which followed the explosion before they could move. A mass of flames and smoke rushed up the elevator shaft and the stairway was cut off. There was a rush for the windows. Men plunged headlong from the front windows and girls jumped from the back windows into the alleys. The property loss is placed at $24,050, which i nearly all covered by insurance.

Echo of the Marsh Trial.

An important and interesting echo of the Marsh trial was heard in the circuit court at Lansing on the afternoon of the 16th, when testimony was taken in connection with the proceedings commenced against Judge Speed and Capt. Pope, by order of Judge Wiest, for alleged contempt in withdrawing from the case when their motion for a continuance was denied, and leaving Marsh without counsel. Five witnesses were sworn. Sheriff Porter testified that just before Speed made his speech withdrawing the attorneys from the case, he heard Pope say to Speed, "Now is the time to announce our withdrawal."

He Confessed His Crime.

Deputy Sheriff Clark, of Kalamazoo, left Lincoln, Neb, on the 15th, for home, having in his custody Charles Evanston, whom he arrested the day before on the charge of robbing the Union bank of Richland. Evanston confessed to Chief of Police Hoagland and Sheriff Clark his participation in the crime. The Richland robbery which was sensational and daring occurred two years ago and $6,000 in cash and $40,000 in securities were stolen. Six men were connected with the theft and four are now in the penitentiary. Evanston has been in Lincoln several months.

Indians Ejected and Houses Burned. The Indians of the Indian village at Burt lake, Cheboygan county, are homeless. The land which they lived on was sold for taxes two or three years ago, and on Oct. 4, 1899, they. promised to go away the next spring, if the writ of assistance granted by the circuit court was not served and they be allowed to stay. A few of them went away, but some remained and finally had to be evicted and have their for mer homes burned down. Taxes Boosted in Lapeer County.

The supervisors, in completing their work, gave Lapeer county a boost in figures this year in accordance with the law, at its actual eash value. In 1899 the equalization committee's figures were $9,320,000, and the assessed valuation was placed at $10,149,645. This year the corresponding figures ave $13,624,000 and $12,782,552 respec-

Worm Destroying Corn in Ohio.

Farmers in the vicinity of Tiffin, O. are experiencing a new plague, and unless a remedy is soon applied the magnificent crop of corn Ohio is producing will be a failure. The little pest, a species of cut worm, locates near the tassel of the ear. He commences boring away at the grains. The worm cuts down from the small of the ear to the thick end. It eats out the heart of the grains, which then fall from the cob. They are about an inch in length and about one-sixteenth of an inch in thickness. The fields are full of the worms and no remedy has vet been discovered.

U. S. Navy to be Increased.

Germany's great naval increase will play an important part in the determination of the recommendation for new vessels which the naval board on construction will submit to Secretary Long very soon. All the members desire that the U.S government shall Germany, and some favor a fleet which shall make the U.S. the third naval power of the world. From present indications the board will favor the authorization of 3 battleships and 12 gunboats of about 1,000 tons each.

War Material Seized by Spain The Spanish government is greatly concerned at a revival of the Carlist 14th at a depth of a little more than agitation and the discovery of a depot of arms at Lerida, Catalonia, where 615 Remingtons and 400 bayonets and an important collection of machinery and tools for the manufacture and repair of arms were seized at a locksmith's store kept by a Carlist. Four arrests were made, including one Nimbo, who styles himself, "Chief of the Carlist administration."

Ferrell's Defense is Insunity. A jury was impaneled at Marysville. Russia, it is explained, is disposed to attach less value to joint action since her interests have been fully secured by the successful campaign in Manchuria. Moreover, Russia is not willing to "follow the irreconceivable policy of some of the powers."

A determined stand will be made by the U.S. against the partition of the Chinese empire, in accordance with the purposes set forth in the note of Secretary Hay on July 5. In case Germany, Russia, France and Japan seize large strips of territory, it will probably be thought best to ask a renewal of the pledges that the commerce of the U.S. and that of all other nations shall stand upon a footing of equality there with the commerce of the governing power. There is little doubt that Great Britain and Japan would certainly support this proposition.

The American share of the loot at Tien Tsin is larger than at first reported. It has been understood all the Americans took after the capture of Tien Tsin was gold amounting in value to $278,000. This report arose from the fact that Li Hung Chang asked Gen. Chaffee to restore that sum to the Chinese government. It now appears that this $279,000 was only the value of gold coins and gold bars taken from the Chinese treasury at Tien Tsin and apparently it was only the money taken from the treasury which concerned Earl Li as a government official. Things of value were also obtained from other sources and it is now reported that the total value of the loot will reach a figure about $100,000 in excess of the amount originally reported. The gold coin and gold bars taken from the treasury were melted by order of Gen. Chaffee. Li Hung Chang's request for the $278,000 taken from the treasury has received no reply.

THE NEWS CONDENSED

Chicago's council went on record on the 15th for municipal ownership of all gas and electric light plants.

A dispatch from Washington, dated the 17th, says that ex-Secretary of State John Sherman is dangerously sick at his residence in that city.

The sealing steamer Kate, which has just visited Cumberland inlet with supplies for the American whaling station there, reports that nothing has been seen or heard of the Peary steamer Windward. Hope of her return this fall is now practically abandoned.

TRANSVAAL WAR ITEMS.

It is said orders for $7,500,000 worth of railroad material will be placed in America by Maj. Girourd, the young Canadian, who acts as director of railroads in the Transvaal, under Roberts. A dispatch from Lord Roberts, under date of Pretoria, Oct. 16, reports a number of minor affairs, but says that the only incident of importance was the surrender of Theunis Botha, at Volksrust, Oct. 13.

A dispatch from Lorenzo Marquez lated the 15, says that the American bark, Fred P. Litchfield, went ashore there from her moorings during a gale on the 14th. In consequence of a suspicion that she was carrying Mr. Kruger's gold to the amount of £1,500,000, she was searched.

A dispatch from Pretoria, under date of the 18th, says that the Boers are daily tearing up portions of the railroad and cutting telegraph and telephone wires Their attacks are intolerable. The repairing linemen cannot leave the garrisoned points without considerable escorts. The only remedy seems to be to corral all the burghers and deport them, as apparently none can be trusted.

Ex-Minister Decapitated. Confirmation was received at Wash ington on the 16th of the execution on July 20 of Chang Yen Hoon, the former Chinese minister to the United States. Chang was a loyal adherent of the emperor and a warm supporter of the latter's reform movements. When the empress dowager supplanted the emperor two years ago he was banished to Nebradoo, but through the intervention of the American and British ministers his punishment was commuted to banishment in the distant province of Kashgaria. It now appears that the empress dowager, taking advantage of the late reign of terror at Pekin, and knowing Chang's influence with the emperor, ordered his execution by decapitation.

Kruger Will go to France. Mr. Kruger has postponed his departure until Oct. 20, and he will now land at Marseilles, France. The announcement that he is going there will probably prove a disagreeable surprise to the French ministry, who had tried to persuade him to land elsewhere. Kruger is such a hero in France that M. Delcasse, the minister for foreign affairs, did not wish to add to the anti-English demonstration that is expected as little children do when something to find expression in the chambers which is to convene Nov. 6, by having Kruger in the country. It is the fear of the ministry that the people will be so demonstrative that offense will be given to Great Britain.

BIRD MUSIC.

Wonderful Effect on Indians at a Concert. In his "Recollections of an Old Musician," Mr. Thomas Ryan tells of the effect produced by a violinist on a family party of Indians who occupied the front seats at a concert in Topeka, Kan. "I was told there was a father with six sons in the party, all very large, broad-shouldered men. They filed quietly into their seats, preceded by a local guide, in whose hands they seemed like good, docile children. One can never know what they thought of us, but one can do something in the way of inference. They sat quite immovable in their seats, with their oxlike eyes fixed on our party while we played serious music. No shadow of emotion could be seen on their countenances. The fifth number of the program was a violin solo by Mr. Schultze, and for an encore he gave a little caprice, entitled "The Bird in the Tree." The moment Mr. Schultze began this piece the Indians were all alive, their eyes sparkled with pleasure, and they nudged each other with their elbows: and when the little birdmelody and imitations of bird-singing began they looked all around the ceiling and the walls, doubtless expecting to see singing birds flitting about. Not seeing any, they looked at the violinist and began to understand that he was the m ician. The surprise and almost incredulity depicted on the faces of these children of nature was a rare show in itself. At its conclusion they jumped up and down, just unusual pleases them."-Youth's Com-

ger Agent of the Blg System. F. A. Miller, a brother of Roswell P. Miller, chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company, has been appointed general passenger agent of that system (effective Oct. 15, 1900) to succeed George H. Heafford, recently resigned. The appointment of Mr. Miller to the head of the St. Paul passenger department was not unexpected, as he has been for several years the principal assistant general passenger agent of the company, making his headquarters in the Marquette building. There will be no assistant anpointed to succeed Mr. Miller. The two other assistants, Messrs, Marsh and Merrill, will continue in their old .

positions. General Passenger Agent Miller is widely known in the railway world and is one of the most popular of passenger officials. He began his railroad career in 1874, and his good nature. character and ability have steadily advanced him in the service of the St. Paul system since 1883, when he entered the company's employ as a clerk in the passenger department, of which he now becomes the head. Mr. Miller was born at Harford, Pa.

Drawing back against the heavy plush curtains in the hall, she watched with beating heart as it came glimmering nearer, not exactly frightened, but with a curious awe and dread, a feeling that something was going to hapto the study.

The girl's first thought was to steal up stairs again, her next to creep across the dark hall after madame, and look in at the half-open door, and so, unthinkingly, she witnessed a sight that froze the blood in her veins and that she never forgot. For had she upstairs, neither she nor Kate would as this do great events hang!

Madame put the lamp on a table close by, and then stole with cat-like step to the back of the chair before sitting asleep at the time of the at- | FAMOUS CROOK DYING tack. Suddenly she raised her arms, holding them as if she had some heavy weapon in them, and went through the motion twice of bringing it down with terrific force on the back of some one's head.

It was awful to see her face as she stood there, wild, fierce, watchful, her features working convulsively as she eyed the empty chair as if it were occupied, her dark hair streaming down the light dressing gown she wore, her breath coming in heavy gasps. After a minute she began muttering to herself, and leaned over as if to examine what was in the chair; then she went he gained by his craft, has been taken to the table and turned over the papers in a strange, troubled manner, her eye New York. To describe the feelings of the horror-stricken girl watching her would be impossible. As one act after another of this terrible drama was played out before her she felt powerless to move, almost to think. All her senses were bound up in the effort to keep her trembling knees from giving way under her, for well she knew that to make the least sound might cost her her life! No need to ask again who killed Leonard Barlowe. She had been how it was done; she had seen everything-knew it was by his own sister's hand that the blow was struck.

Yet frightened as she was Mollie's courage did not desert her. She determined to see what took this wretched woman, whom she felt persuaded was mad, to the kitchen; so, with chattering teeth, she gathered her skirts a diamond ring and a watch, and took the dark passages after her.

The lamplight guided her to the butler's pantry, and there stood madame. holding her hands under a tap which rear. Suddenly madame's glance fell upon some knives lying on a table, and a gleam like fire flashed into her eyes, a gleam that had neither reason nor sanity in it, only cunning and fierce exultation.

"Why not kill them both?" she muttered, standing still with a meditative look. "They are no use to Henri: the girl will not marry him; the child had better follow her father. Yes, yes; that will be best!"

DISPOSAL OF IDIOTS Society Cannot Shirk Its Responsibility for Criminals.

Now, of course it is the easiest thing in the world to pick out indi vidual cases where this highly effect ive and economical plan would seen justifiable, but the obstacle which must everlastingly keep all such obstacles out in the realm of purely visionary and impossible propositions is the fact that no man, or group of men -no, nor that of angels, probablycould ever be trusted to decide that such and such a person could not be reformed, but must die. There is the crux of the whole matter. That little word "very" which is supposed to de scribe the kind of vicious and crimi nal persons who are to be "gently and painlessly" assisted out of this world. contains the whole range of subtle, unknown and unfathomable qualities of character upon whose possibilities no human wisdom is competent to pass the final word. With Dr. McKim declaring, for example, that John Jones aged thirty, whom he has carefully examined, is incorrigible and should be executed, and John Jones' mother, who, presumably, also knows something about him, declaring that there is that within the boy which, bad as he is, can and may reclaim him to useful manhood-where is the judge or jury that would venture to pass upon the awful issue? Oh, no! Society has long since passed the point where it can shirk its share of original responsibility for its criminals and imbeciles by killing them-no matter if doing i is a little more "gentle" than our say age forefathers' custom of stranging

Big Jim Brady, one time most skilled and most feared of bank robbers, broken in health and spirits and not penny left of the thousands which to the Westchester almshouse. near brought him almost to the door of death, but the doctors say he has a fighting chance. He used to be one of the biggest bank burglars in this country, the pal of Jimmy Hope, Big Frank McCoy, Bill Miller and the greatest criminals of his day. Broken in health by long imprisonment, he reformed a dozen years ago. He has been poor ever since be began to live honestly Now he is dying a pauper, a dependant upon men who remember that 30 years ago he was a great man in the village of New Rochelle; the Midas of the yate immlet, the mysterious

In speaking of an experience with Julius Doherty, an old-time pal, Brady said: "We were coming back from the southwest with a big leather bag full of money. Julius wanted me to break open a nice place with him in Washington. I said no; we had enough in the bag to go back to New York and live happy the rest of our lives. He said it would be a sin to pass this place by, it was so easy. We left the strolled into the jewerly store, bought clothing store around the corner and Then I slipped on a false moustache I had in my pocket and strolled around the corner into Pennsylvania avenue. 'Burglars inside?' I said to the three in the door. 'Well, men, do your duty.' When I got a few blocks away I gave a cabman $25 to catch the New York train. Yes, there was my friend, Julius Doherty, with the big bag ful! of money beside his chair. Oh, but I had fun with him. He never knew me in my disguise, though: I sat bewhen the train slowed up, I said: 'Can he could say no, I took off my moustache and I said to him in my own natural voice: 'If you touch that bag, I'll croak you.' And I would, too, in a minute. He took a flying jump off the train. I never saw him again." "Yes," the veteran robber continued,

"I sat among the big ones for days. Went with the best, ate and drank the best. Why, I've passed for a senator and people never knew any better. Brady used to own large tracts of land in New Rochelle. He lost it all while he was serving his last term in prison 12 years ago. He had all the property in his wife's name. She vanished. But before she went she sold everything. Brady enriched the members of his family, who never knew how he made his money. But now they are all poor. Not only did he own property and spend money lavishly, but he once aspired to be a leader in politics. This was 30 years ago. A valuable horse which Brady stole in Buffalo led to his arrest. He took the animal to New York and drove him a while. Tiring of him. Brady offered him for sale for $4,000. Harmonic vibration is next applied. It is a well-known principle that musical reeds and strings will vibrate in unison when their particular tones are produced near them. In the recording and a high rate of vibration of the metal ribbon, and the result is a corresponding rate of vibration in the reeds. The reeds are like the teeth of a comb. Starting from the lowest point, as weight is generally applied to the scale, the reeds commence to vibrate from the lower to the highest tones as the load increases.

experimental stage, it has been thoroughly tested at Bellefonte. One was placed on the scales of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania at Mill Hall, with the recorder in the office of Assistant Superintendent John J. Walsh in Bellefonte, a distance of twentynine miles, and highly satisfactory results were obtained, the practicability and merits of the system being fully demonstrated. The tests were made with moving cars, and it was shown that less than one second of time elapsed after the circuit closed until the ribbon and reed responded to the proper rate. From this and other practical tests it has been plainly demonstrated that the feat of weighing a train moving even at regular transit speed over any properly constructed scales, and of simultaneously recording the weight of the successive cars, is within the capabilities of this system. The illustrations accompanying this article give a correct idea of the size of the anaratus, the hands of a man being shown in one picture.

The invention has already attracted the attention of large railroad and you never think of them. Why, I arrange for the manufacture, not only manufacturing companies, who are anxious to give it a thorough test. Bellefonte, however, recognizes the merits of the apparatus, and because of this the aforementioned company has been organized.

Mr. McGarvey is only twenty-four years of age, but has demonstrated his ability as an inventive genius.

IRONY OF FATE.

Famous Artists, Who at First, Received Seant Appreciation.

In an article on "The Art of the Age" in Pearson's there is an interesting reference to the early struggles of famous artists. J. F. Millet, the great French painter of peasant life, for instance, only reached a moderate amount of comfort toward the end of his life. Since his death his pictures have sold for enormous sums, "L'Angelus" being bought by his country for $75,000. Can we account for this? Millet was an artist consistently true to himself, never turning aside to do what he considered was below the standard he had set for himself. It not infrequently happens that men of strong personality produce work not understood by the average man, and as he is the largest buyer of pictures, eat his heart out or starve, as Millet did for years, because he works outside accepted conventions. Recently an exhibition was held in London of the works of the French romancist Montecelli. His career was a remarkable one, for from poverty and obscurity his pictures suddenly became the vogue, and for a while he lived in opulence; then they ceased to sell, and he became little better than a vagrant. tramping from place to place, eventually dying in Marseilles a pauper. He resembles in this respect Morland. whose works are now so fashionable and fetch long prices. He was content to work for a drink or a lodging. His contemporary, Richard Wilson, whose classical landscapes now thousands could not sell them and lived all his days in penury,

Paris Misses Its English Patrons

One Englishman wastes, according to his means, more money on a pleasure trip than three dozen foreigners. The Englishman is not a good linguist, and even if he knew a language grammatically his words are straggling. "They refuse to come out in procession," as George Eliot wrote. As a consequence he is fleeced and submits cheerfully to the fleecing. Not so the German, the Austrian, the Spaniard and the Italian. They all know French, and even if their accent should betray their foreign origin they are safe, for the French shopkeeper and trader only goes deliberately for the "Anglish." The "Anglish" have kept away, and now there is wailing and gnashing of teeth .- London News.

On every side the Alps send down rivers, leaping from the rocks, and in the lower lands, especially on the Italian side, spreading out into beautiful blue lakes. Recently the stored-up energy of these Alpine streams has been brought under control, in many instances, for the production of electric power. The river Adda at Paderno already furnishes 13,000 horse-power, and works are now under way on the river Ticino, below its point of issue from Lake Maggiore, which will, it is expected, furnish 12,000 effective horsepower to be distributed among a string of manufacturing towns reaching down into the plain of Lombardy. It was originally intended to send this power to Milan, but all of it has been eagerly seized by the intervening smaller towns. The Alps are yet rich in unused energy of this kind.

The School Marm of Red Elm,

BY SARA BEAUMONT KENNEDY.

(Copyright 1900, Daily Story Pub. Co.) There was something of a sensation when she came to take charge of the district school. The first Sunday after her installment eyes and whispered comments followed her up the aisle as she went with 'Squire Bailey to a soat; and after service she was the one subject of conversation.

"You say she's eighteen? Well, she ain't spent her time growing; a pound of soap after a week's washing is as big as that."

"The children said she was so little her feet did not touch the floor when she sat in her chair on the rostrum; but I didn't expect to see such a kid," said Mrs. Moore. "She doesn't even dress like a teacher-look as those elbow sleeves and yards and yards of ribbon."

"She'll never govern that school this side of kingdom come," sighed Mrs. Wade. "Bob Smith and his crew will scare the life out of her the first time they get to cutting up. She'll have to resign.

"Yes for it takes as much muscle as book learning to teach in Red Elm," replied Mrs. Moore. "I wonder what 'Squire Bailey was thinking of to engage a child like that. My Sally could do as well, for she's ciphered up to 'miscellaneous examples' in the back of the arithmetic, and everybody heard how beautifully she spoke 'Curfew' at the last concert." But the others were silent when memories of that recitazion were evoked.

The disapprobation, started that Sunday, spread during the weeks that followed, and everybody was prohseying a Waterloo for the new teacher the first time Bob Smith "got out of bed with the wrong foot foremost." And meanwhile Mamie Lewis sat on the school room platform, with her little feet two inches from the floor, and worked like a Trojan and earned every cent of the scanty salary the country districts allow their overworked teachers. She had come to Red Elm with many misgivings, having heard of the big boys who made life in the schoolroom as exciting as a "ghost dance" of the painted Indians. Especially had she been warned about Bob Smith, a lad of nearly twenty, handsome, idle, restless, and possessed of a legion of mischievous devils. His invalid mother humored and adored kim and his busy father neglected him and between the two his better nature lay dormant. Miss Lewis studied him eovertly all that first morning, and planned her line of attack, for if she was to stay here, then she must have Bob on her side. And with a woman's intuition she found the Achilles heel. That afternoon some blackboard work had to be done, and after tiptoeing a few minutes in a vain effort to reach high enough, she turned around and said, with a fetchingly beseeching smile:

"Bob, won't you come and help me? -you are so nice and tall."

Surprised and rather complimented. the boy did as she asked. dear," she said with another soft smile as he stooped to put the chalk in its box. Then with a sudden gesture she pushed the hair from his brow with her pencil and added: "With such a fine forehead as that you ought to have the making of a president in you." And confused, but tingling in his boots. Bob went back to his seat. That afternoon everybody lingered, but Bob outstayed them all, and Miss Lewis found him pretending to mend the gate latch when she came out.

"Do you go my way Bob? That is nice. Come on this side and take my umbrella; my arm gets so tired of holding it-tilt it just a little morethere, that's a dear."

Again Bog tingled; and then he asked himself if it were really he walking along the road carrying a girl's parasol

"You're the littlest thing I ever saw," he said presently, looking her over out of the corner of his eye. Then he blurted out, boy fashion: "But say, you're awful pretty!" "I'm glad you think so," she answered, with a flattering accent on the last pronoun A long look ahead as if he had not heard her, then he asked: "Why?" "Oh, because I like you and I want you to like me. As you say, I am so little that I sometimes need a big, strong friend like you to look after

The words and the glance that went with them finished the subjugation of the young rough. The next day he said to the other school boys:

"That girl's too little to be bullied. The first fellow that starts it will have to answer to me. See?" And Dick James, the other "unterrified quantity" of the community, having nodded his agreement, Miss Lewis was as safe as if a troop of Rough Riders had been picketed about her desk. But the gossips did not know this, and so they kept waiting for Bob Smith to put that wrong foot out of bed. And while they waited the autumn wore peacefull away.

One afternoon 'Squire Bailey stopped at the school house. The day's work was done and Miss Lewis stood on the steps tying her hat under her chin with its gay ribbons. On one side of her Dick James swung her lunch basket: and on the other Bob Smith waited with her parasol as docilely as though he had not "fanned out" the last teacher and sworn like treatment to this one-before he saw her. 'Squire's eyes twinkled at sight of these two unruly spirits in their new roles.

Got two mighty rough citizens for your escort; Miss Lewis," he said, with a knowing nod and wink. The little teacher bridled:

"I'm sure I don't know why you should say such a thing, 'Squire Bailey I find Bob and Dick perfectly lovely."

Dick flushed with pleasure and Bob drew himself up proudly until he stood fully a head above the beribboned hat that shaded Miss Lewis' brunette face. "No other teacher ever found them lovely," laughed the 'Squire. "Well, I think no other teacher ever thoroughly understood them. To me they are two of the sweetest boys I ever knew," and she went away down the shady road with her two escorts who, between their smiles at her, glared at each other over the crown of the beribboned hat. After she was safely at her boarding place they went down behind 'Squire Bailey's hay ricks and mander of the Pacific station. had a good hard fight.

"But fighting is utterly unworthy of you. I'm talking to you very plain; just like a sister who has your good at heart."

"I don't want a sister," he said doggedly; then grew red to the roots of his hair as he blurted out, "but win I have learned a little more sense and

He even appealed to the emperor, but no notice was taken of his petition. This case is a good illustration of the rigid impartiality with which Austrian laws are enforced. It seems rather anomalous that while schoolmasters are exempt from military service, there should be no provision exempting distinguished scientists like Sczcepanik.

Professor Becomes Pastor.

The Congregationalist says: "The call of Prof. Edward Cummings, of Harvard University, to the pastorate of the South Congregational church, Boston, over which Dr. Edward Everett Hale has ministered so many years. is of more than usual significance, in that it implies that he will give up professional ambitions at Harvard and prefer the pastorate, and in that it will be a notable instance of a man coming to the Christian ministry without much of the conventional training for the profession, but who, on the other hand. is unusually well equipped for the discussion of the ethical and sociological problems of the day.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors provonced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. The state board of health asks attention to the fact that at the international congress of sanitarians Naples in April, 1900, Devoto considered "tubthe presence of a large gathering of Thirty car loads and 500 team loads of relatives and friends, by Rev. Shepard, beets had been received previous to that in the hospitals of Genoa about erculosis" among nurses, and found 20 per cent die of tuberculosis. In those hospitals receiving no tubercular cases, the percentage was practically nothing. He recommends as a cure for this evil the proper disinfection of the rooms; nurses should not be permitted to eat or sleep in the wards or the sick rooms." This matter is of importance not only to nurses in hospitals, but al. so to the general public interested in the restriction of the disease, because each consumptive nurse supplies a new center of infection.

It Happened in a Drug Store "One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandin, the nobular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of romedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamber lain's Cough Remedy. I consider that very good recommendation for the rem-edy." It is for sale at Bond's Drug Store.
