STILL IN THE LEAD

Last Week's Fair a Decided Success.

Unusually Large Attendance in Spite of Bad Weather.

Once more has Cass City proven that as a center for the holding of Fall Fairs, she easily takes the lead. Notwithstanding the facts that this has been considered a poor year for farm products generally, and that the weather on the first and second days of the Fair was both wet and cold, the summing up of the finances proves conclusively that in the matter of attendance our Fair this year surpasses even last year's event.

The exhibits in some departments were not as numerous as in former years, for which, doubtless, there are several reasons. Some excuse themselves from patronizing the Fair because they are not exactly satisfied with the manner in which it is conducted, forgetting that it is the membership of the association that chooses the officers and decides what shall be or shall not be done. If they neglect to have a voice in these matters they are equally responsible for wrong-doing if there be any. Some send exhibits merely for the financial return in premiums and if they do not win what they feel they should, or the decision of the judges does not agree with theirs, become dissatisfied and remain away. Still others do not appreciate the educational value of the Fair and simply neglect to take any part through lack of interest, but this year, in several departments, dependent upon the product of the soil, it could not be expected that there would be a large display. The horse department was well filled, but there was a very noticeable falling off in cattle. Sheep, swine and poultry displays were very good. Vegetables and fruit were excellent, especially potatoes. The showing in fancy work was much smaller than usual and flowers and plants did not fill the usual space, but there were several very creditable displays made by our merchants and a good showing of work by the school children. Farm implements and conveniences were well shown also. The special attractions proved quite satisfactory and there were several side shows well worth the price of admission, as well as a few of a questionable character. It would scarce be a fair to the little folk without a merry-ground and we had a fancy one, well managed this year. The horse races were pronounced excellent especially the running races. The officers report that financially the Fair was even better than they could expect, and that they fully expect to pay everything in full and to have a nice surplus. We give below the complete list of prize winners, but must ask our readers to remember that in making up such a list it is quite possible for an error to occur, and if they find such they must make allowance.

Primary Reform.

Illustrations from Muskegon, Kent and Alcona.

We have had some practical illustrations of the workings of the so-called primary reform as advocated by the Colby bill and the democratic papers in Detroit. In Kent, Muskegon and Alcona counties, the county ticket was nominated by direct vote which is in accordance with the provisions of their measure. Grand Rapids is in Kent county and the city of Muskegon is in Muskegon county. The vote cast for governor in Kent county at the general election of 1902 was republican 9706, democrat 8292. At the primaries held September 13th last, the republican vote cast for sheriff was 13,613 and the total democratic vote for the whole county was 504. In Muskegon county at the election of 1900, the republican nominee for governor received 5,162, the democrat 2947. At the election of 1902 the republican nominee for governor received 3672 and the democrat 1911. You will notice that at both of these elections the democratic vote for governor was more than one-half as much as the republican. At the primaries held September 13 last, the largest vote cast for any democratic nominee was 188, that being for the candidate for sheriff. In Kent county at the primaries on same date, the republican vote for sheriff was 3907 more than the republican vote for governor at the general election in 1902 and the total democrat vote cast at the same primaries was as before stated, only 504 and 788 less than the democrat vote for governor at the election of 1902. In Muskegon county at their recent primaries, the republican vote for the nomination of sheriff was 1,597 more than the republican vote for governor at the election of 1902, and the democrat vote cast for the nomination of sheriff was 1724 less than the democrat vote for governor at the same election. This tremendous falling off in the democratic vote and the big gain in the republican vote over the vote cast at the general election in both counties was caused by the fact that a great many democrats voted at the republican primaries. They vote for the weakest candidate on the republican ticket at the primaries in an endeavor to nominate him, and at the election hope to be able to defeat him. The republicans would no doubt do the same thing in democratic localities. Every man nominated on the republican county ticket in Kent county resides in the city of Grand Rapids, and four of the candidates, register of deeds, prosecuting attorney, judge of probate and clerk, were nominated for the third term. In Muskegon county, every nomination on the republican ticket is a resident of the city of Muskegon, with the single exception of nominee for register of deeds, who resides in Muskegon township, adjoining the city. Candidates whose occupation was farming were unsuccessful candidates for the following offices: One for representative, two for sheriff and one for county clerk. Only one farmer nominated in the county of Muskegon and none in Kent. This is easily explained. Voters living in cities or villages can attend the primaries and vote on their way to the office or shop at the noon hour or in the evening when they have finished their work, without the loss of a minute's time. The farmer, and those living in the rural districts, are obliged to quit their work and lose a half day, and in a great many instances, the whole day, for the purpose of voting. There is only one conclusion to be reached should this system become general. That is, the cities and villages would control all nominations, as was the case in Kent and Muskegon counties. Applied to the state, one or two of the large cities would, or at least could, nominate the whole ticket. Do you want a law enacted that will make such a condition possible? This system prevails in the county of Alcona and on September 8 the primaries were held and county ticket nominated. The republican vote for the nomination of sheriff was 970. That vote was 146 more than the average republican vote for governor at the last three general elections. This is more evidence of democratic assistance in nominating a republican ticket. The candidate who received 241 votes, less than a quarter of the vote cast, was nominated. There were polled in the township of Harrisville, 259 votes. On the same basis, Harrisville could have nominated the whole county ticket.

Here is a little of the ridiculous in connection with the system. Judge of Probate Jewell was nominated again by the republicans in Kent county. The democrats deemed it advisable not to nominate any one against him. Someone thought Jack Adams, colored, of Grand Rapids, would make a good nominee for judge of probate on the democratic ticket. He received one vote, the only one, for the nomination. The law plainly states that the board of canvassers shall certify to candidate receiving largest number of votes. With that one vote Mr. Adams has one vote to the good, and is therefore legally nominated. If this is what is called primary reform, I do not think the people of the state want it when it is fully understood. Those from the cities will not if they are fair, and certainly those from the rural districts do not. The proper term to apply to this kind of an article is primary unfairness, as farmers need not apply.

The republican party is in favor of any reform that will reform the manner of making all nominations. The platform provides that the whole question may be submitted in each county to the vote of the people, giving each locality the privilege of choosing for themselves. They are opposed to forcing it on the whole state against the wishes of a large number of its residents. Is it not just as fair to give the people of the farming districts home rule as it is to the cities? If there is any doubt in your mind as to the vote and statistics given not being correct, you are respectfully referred to the public records for consultation, which are accessible to everyone.

OBITUARY.

A Long and Eventful Life Brought to a Sudden Close.

In the passing away of Andrew Campbell, whose sudden death was briefly mentioned in our last issue, ends one of the most interesting and eventful lives. He was born February 20th, 1822, at Perth, Ontario, being the youngest of seven brothers, also having two sisters, one being younger than himself. John Campbell, their father, had settled in that section about 1817 or 1818, having previously been an officer in the British Army, under Wellington, and having served at Waterloo and other memorable engagements. The family descends from the Argyle Branch of the Campbell Clans, of Scotland, and there is a long line of ancestors, who figure conspicuously in the history of that county. The Clans date back to the year 404, and the name Campbell was adopted in the eleventh century. Andrew was the smallest of the seven brothers, all being typical Highlanders. When Andrew was but a small boy, his father died, and he was left in the care of the older members of the family. At about eleven years of age he went with the family to the western part of Ontario, near London. At sixteen he launched out for himself and accompanied an older brother to Detroit, at that time only a small town, without a railroad. The first railroad built in Michigan had just been started and the two brothers found employment in assisting with the grading. Deceased often spoke of how he helped to grade the first railroad built in Michigan. A few years later he bought land near Detroit, where he cleared up a farm, cutting the timber into cordwood and teaming it to Detroit. He returned to his old home in Ontario in 1846, and was married there to Miss Margaret Stewart, of East Williams, then returning to the new home in Wayne County, known as the "Scotch Settlement," where they lived for a number of years. Feeling the need of more land, he sold out and went west to Illinois, but he did not find the climate congenial there and returned to Ontario. In the fall of 1865 he came to Tuscola County and bought land where now is the old homestead, near Ellington, occupied by Charles, his youngest son. This county at that time was a literal wilderness, Cass City was unheard of, Caro was known as Centreville and had but one store, while Vassar, the county seat, was only a mere hamlet. Mr. Campbell engaged in lumbering in the winter and cleared land in the summer, so that in a few years he had a fine farm with good buildings. Some ten years ago feeling the need of a rest from his arduous toil, he left the farm in the care of his youngest son and came to Cass City. Shortly after, his wife died, and his remaining years have been spent with his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McCue. Deceased was a man full of energy, with honest principles and excellent judgment, and always succeeded in anything he undertook. He was highly respected in the community in which he resided and always took an active interest in public affairs. He had been a director in the Caro Fair Association ever since its organization, and was for several years a member of the Elkland Republican township committee. For many years he had been a member of the Presbyterian Church, holding an official position much of the time, and took a great interest in religious matters. He enjoyed his usual good health and activity to the day he was stricken. On the morning of Oct. 1st he suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he did not rally, and on the morning of the 5th he quietly passed away. He leaves behind him four children—Mrs W. T. Schenck, Mrs. C. E. McCue and Wm. J. Campbell, of this

THE POPE'S PHYSICIAN ENDORSES AN AMERICAN REMEDY.

Dr. Lapponi Uses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in His Practice Because Results Meet His Expectations.

Dr. Lapponi, the famous physician to the Vatican, whose name has recently come so greatly to the front on account of his unremitting attention to His Holiness, the late Pope Leo XIII., and the high esteem and confidence with which he is regarded by the present Pope, His Holiness, Pius X., is a man of commanding genius. He is more than a mere man of science; he is a man of original and independent mind. Untrammelled by the "etiquette" of the medical profession, and having used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in his practice with good results, he freely avows the facts and endorses the value of this remedy with an authority which no one will venture to question.

Dr. Lapponi's Letter.
"I certify that I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in four cases of the simple anemia of development. After a few weeks of treatment, the result came fully up to my expectations. For that reason I shall not fail in the future to extend the use of this laudable preparation not only in the treatment of other forms of the category of anemia or chlorosis, but also in cases of neurasthenia and the like." (Signed) GIUSEPPE LAPPONI, Via dei Gracchi 332, Rome.

The "simple anemia of development" referred to by Dr. Lapponi is, of course, that tired, languid condition of young girls, whose development to womanhood is tardy and whose health at that time is often impaired. His opinion of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People at that time is of the highest scientific authority and it confirms the many published cases in which anemia and other diseases of the blood, as well as nervous diseases, such as nervous prostration, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, paralysis and locomotor ataxia have been cured by these pills. They are commended to the public for their efficiency in making new blood and strengthening weak nerves. After such an endorsement they will be accepted by the medical and scientific world at their full value.

CAPT. JIM McMILLAN'S TAME WHALE.

AN UNUSUAL FISH STORY.

DO you ever hear of Captain Jim McMillan's tame whale?" asked one of the old-timers recently in a downy east town, with a party of seamen discussing the particulars of the Chinese difficulty.

Without waiting for an invitation, the speaker opened up with his story as follows: "Captain Jim McMillan was a retired sea captain who moved, with his family, to a small island 'down the bay,' near Deer Island, N. B., and under the protection of the Canadian flag. The island had a small harbor in which was a used-up weir that in former years had gathered up herring and other salt water fish so common in Passamaquoddy Bay. With a few weeks of repairing the brush enclosure, Captain Jim had the weir in good condition again for the first catch of fish. He arranged the gate for the high run of tides and went home to await returns.

"They were not long in coming, for the next day, when the veteran went off to investigate his newly-repaired weir, he was very much surprised and delighted to find an immense school of fat-looking herring leisurely swimming around the inside and evidently enjoying the place. The fish were unable to get out as the gate was closed, and there was considerable satisfaction in his first catch, since the fish had been rather scarce in the different weirs near and the herring were in good demand by the sardine factory owners at the neighboring places.

"Here was a lucky catch, indeed, as he could quickly find a ready market for these large-sized herring at Eastport, where they would later find a place in one of the big smoke-houses or be used as mustard sardines. "The captain made a visit to Eastport a few hours later, told of his supply of herring alive in the weir and was offered a fair price; in fact, looked upon the lot of herring as worth $100.

"When Captain McMillan returned to his Canadian home down the bay a few hours later, he was happy and his hopes ran high.

"We'll have plenty to eat when I sell this lot of herring," said he to his wife, who met him on the beach, "and I'll buy you a new dress before I come back from Eastport, sure." A short time later in the day he got into his boat and pulled into the weir, when his hair stood on ends as he saw a very large and black-looking object resting on the water in the narrow enclosure.

"It looked like the body of a big snake and the aged seaman thought it might be the famed mythical sea serpent he had so often read about, but could never see before. Before he had leave the interior the big fish began swimming around the enclosure in a circle and it did not take Captain Jim long to get on the outside and drop the big gate in place. His weir full of herring a few hours before had been eaten up or gone through the several small breaks in the side of the enclosure, made by the fish, and this was enough to cause the captain to utter a few oaths, since no one was near at the time.

"He watched the big fellow a few minutes in silence, then said slowly, 'that critter cost me $100 sure, and he may be worth that amount if I can get him—dead or alive, but the latter if possible.' He was not long in finding out that the fish he had captured was a very young whale, and since it was one of unusual length and very slim, might be taken for a big snake at a distance as the parts of the body came into view. It was not an easy matter to capture the fish alive without assistance, and determining to make the best of his recent misfortune, Captain McMillan set out for his home to inform his wife of the whale's visit, and what had become of their catch.

"It was a big disappointment, but he cheered him up with the remark that 'even a dead whale was worth something.' The skipper went across to a neighboring island for help, later returning with two boatmen and a long coil of rope with which they expected to capture the whale alive. Repeated attempts were made to get the rope under the mammoth fish as it swam around inside the weir, but it was impossible to get near enough and finally the men had to give up the attempt.

"There is only one way to get the whale landed safely on the beach, that I know of," said one of the men, "and that's to build on to your weir." A little explanation followed, and it was decided to extend one corner of the weir like the two fences of a lane, up on the beach to high water mark, then drive the big fish on shore where he could be captured when aground and helpless.

"Work on the extension began that day and continued for three days, then the lane was completed all but one thing. How to make an opening for the whale to find a false escape up the beach was a question for the fishermen to solve, and it looked like an impossibility. One of the boatmen finally hit on a plan of lowering down a gate at the end, after removing enough of the brush weir at that place, and then to hoist it out of the water again. It required several hours of hard work to construct a suitable gate and sink it into place before the weir could be cut in the desired place, but this was finally done, and at the signal the false gate was arranged in position, then raised. Hardly had it reached the top of the water than the whale seeing what looked like a sure opening and escape in view darted up the narrow enclosure at a rapid rate of speed. "The big fish could not turn, and in less time than it takes to tell you the story was high and dry on the smooth beach. How that whale churned up the water with its tail when the tide began turning for the ebb, but in a few minutes the mammoth fish was as helpless as a baby. Captain McMillan measured the critter on the beach and found it more than forty-five feet from nose to tail, but unusually thin for a whale. "He did not want to kill his new-found prize and was at a loss how to hold it when the tide came in again, but concluded to build a small inclosure around the whale on the beach and at a future time expected to securely fasten a big hawser about the tail of the fish which would hold. He set to work and soon had the captive securely fenced in on all sides so that escape was almost impossible, and when the salt water of the Bay of Fundy again reached the young whale there was some fun for a short time. Next day the captain came to Eastport and from a blacksmith secured a stout iron band to fit securely around the outer end of the whale's tail, just back of the outer fin. "In the band was an 'eye' to fasten on a light chain, and with his newly-made collar he soon returned home, and after some difficulty, at low tide, had the iron band fastened around his victim on the beach. When the tide again came in part of the fence was removed, and the chain was securely fastened on both ends, one being in the eye of the band, the sea monster was a prisoner. "Captain McMillan concluded to allow his captive into deeper water than his cove afforded, so that the fish might be able to look after its supply of food during the day when he was not around. For a few days the captive whale made a lively time of it and tried to break away from the chain, but finally was obliged to submit, and after a short time devoured a quantity of food brought near the weir by the owner. Many of the island residents came from the neighboring places to see the captive whale on the chain, and Captain McMillan was asked why he did not exhibit his prize at the large cities across the border and along the Maine coast. "That would have been easily enough done had the fish been dead, or small enough to carry about in a boat, but how could he get a forty-five-foot whale out of the harbor in safety? "It was not long before the big fish began to show signs of becoming tame, and on the approach of meal time was always found ready to devour the food provided. "In several weeks Jim's baby whale had increased somewhat in length and also became quite tame, so that when the veteran seaman came near it in his boat his captive would play alongside. After two months had passed and the fish had increased in size to be noticed, Jim thought he had better secure a stouter chain to hold his pet, and again made a visit to Eastport for a longer and heavier piece of chain. This he soon secured and returned to his Canadian home to make the change, when he was much surprised and disappointed when he was told that the whale had broken the chain and disappeared into the deeper water of the Bay of Fundy. It was quite a shock to Captain Jim to find the broken chain and lose his whale after so much expense and trouble, but he returned to his house and talked over the loss with his wife. "Never mind, Jim, perhaps the big fish will come back for his dinner as usual, as I've heard of such things, and, you know, that wasn't no ordinary whale, neither. That whale was tame when I left these waters, and mark me when I say that you'll see the fish back when it's time for the grub to be served." "The husband allowed that the whale was certainly tame, but how was he to again capture the big fellow if he shouldn't return to the cove for the customary noon meal. "I'd better shoot the critter and be sure of the carcass this time; what do you say, wife? "Don't you be too hasty, Jim, but wait for developments, as the whale will return often if it comes back once, you can bet. Only wait and see." "At the appointed hour for feeding his former pet Captain McMillan went down to the ledge where he had stood so often on recent days and tossed the food into the bay to his friend, the whale. "He threw the bucket of food to the water and watched it sink below the surface, but before the last particle had disappeared the dark form of a long, slender fish came to view, and when the tail was exposed there was the tell-tale iron ring and hanging to it a small piece of chain. "That's my whale!" exclaimed Jim, as the big fish swam leisurely about the cove and did not seem to want to leave the small harbor when the food was gone. "The old seaman remained on the rocks for a long time; and was then convinced that his wife was right about the fish which had come back to stay, evidently. Next day, and as fast as meal time came, there was the tame whale, and soon the islanders heard of Jim's lucky find. When Jim went out to gather up his lobster traps or haul

TWO SAMPLES OF PRAYER.

Appeal for Needed Assistance and a Petition in Person.

At a prayer meeting in Mississippi during the civil war, a brother of fered this prayer: "O Lord, we thank Thee for all Thy boundless goodness; for this rich and beautiful land of ours; for our brave women and valiant men. We thank Thee that we are fully able to take care of ourselves on land; but, O Lord, we do most humbly implore Thy assistance when the yankees send those infernal gunboats to destroy us." A prominent southern lawyer who had just repented of his wild ways and joined the church was called upon in a religious meeting to pray. He started off very well, but did not know how to stop. After asking the Divine blessing on everything he could think of, he finally, with a determined effort, ended with these words: "Yours truly, P. Q. Mason."—Harpers' Week.

Nature's Defence.

How are children so often able without injury to swallow such sharp things as pins, needles, tacks and bits of glass? The secret, as disclosed by Dr. Albert Exner of Vienna, lies in the fact that, when a pointed or sharp edged body comes in contact with the lining of the stomach or intestines the part touched contracts and puckers so as to thicken itself in that place. At the same time it withdraws itself in such a manner as to form a little pocket and gradually twists the object around so as to turn the edge or point away, pushing the thing along.

Temper Is Good Thing—in Harness. "I wouldn't give much for a man that hasn't temper," says D. L. Moody. "Steel isn't good for anything if it hasn't got temper. But when temper gets the mastery over me, I am its slave and it is a source of weakness. It may be made a great power for good all through my life and help me; or it may become my greatest enemy from within and rob me of power. The current in some rivers is so strong as to make them useless for navigation."

ALL BROKEN DOWN.

No Sleep—No Appetite—Just a Continual Backache.

Joseph McCauley, of 144 Sholto St., Chicago, Sackem of Tecumseh Lodge, says: "Two years ago my health was completely broken down. My back ached and was so lame that at times I was hardly able to dress myself. I lost my appetite and was unable to sleep. There seemed to be no relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills, but four boxes of this remedy effected a complete and permanent cure. If suffering humanity knew the value of Doan's Kidney Pills they would use nothing else, as it is the only positive cure I know."

Mrs. Anderson, a prominent society woman of Jacksonville, Fla., daughter of Recorder of Deeds, West, who witnessed her signature to the following letter, praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—There are but few wives and mothers who have not at times endured agonies and such pain as only women know. I wish such women knew the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a remarkable medicine, different in action from any I ever knew and thoroughly reliable. "I have seen cases where women doctored for years without permanent benefit, who were cured in less than three months after taking your Vegetable Compound, while others who were chronic and incurable came out cured, happy, and in perfect health after a thorough treatment with this medicine. I have never used it myself without gaining great benefit. A few doses restores my strength and appetite, and tones up the entire system. Your medicine has been tried and found true, hence I fully endorse it."—Mrs. R. A. ANDERSON, 225 Washington St., Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Reed, 2425 E. Cumberland St., Philadelphia, Pa., says: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to write and tell you the good I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "I have been a great sufferer with female trouble, trying different doctors and medicines with no benefit. Two years ago I went under an operation, and it left me in a very weak condition. I had stomach trouble, backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, and was very nervous; in fact, I ached all over. I find yours is the only medicine that reaches such troubles, and would cheerfully recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all suffering women."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove, beyond a question, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition. If in doubt, write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., as thousands do. Her advice is free and helpful.

No other medicine for women in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any substitute.

John McCracken considers gambling out of place at a country fair—thinks there is a clash between such pastime and the Sunday School teaching we are giving the children, fears the rising generation won't advance in good morals by coming in contact with such movements. The managers are certainly not fools and know that all who come with a gambling device come for the purpose of beating the simple minded and without any intention of giving value received.

Election will soon be at hand. Take your choice, gentlemen.—Primary Reform or Golden Rule—both the same thing. Take what you will only don't forget, Roosevelt, Fairbanks and Ferris make a strong, safe combination.

This week sees the end of the fairs for this season. From a moral point of view the sooner the business is ended the better. The combination of fakirs, gamblers, and disreputable characters who ply their evil calling is a disgrace to the fairs and those who for a paltry young fee allow them to prey upon young and inexperienced, are no better than those who are doing the work. Would it not be a good experiment to elect clean men to conduct the fairs, and have one some where, that could be conducted on good moral principals? Plenty of people stay at home rather than educate their children in such a manner, and if a fair will not pay expenses, without patronizing the shady element of skin game men, in the name of all that is right, let us quit the fair business and try some thing else or stay at home. One cannot do evil that good may come, and the falling off in exhibits of last week's fair goes to prove that something is wrong somewhere.

John Shier, of 233 Detroit Street, O. wosso, employed at Robbins' Table Factory, says: "For fully three months I had pains through my loins and kidneys. My back quickly became tired and it was very painful for me to stoop or lift anything. I could not rest comfortably during the night and when I rose in the mornings I felt thoroughly tired out and unrefreshed. Mr. W. White, who works in the same department as I do, advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I went to Johnson & Henderson's drug store and procured them. They soon removed the pain and distress from my back and kidneys and I have felt better ever since."

CAN BE QUICKLY REDUCED WITH HEVE-O
From various causes, horses are troubled more or less with swollen or puffed legs, which is not cured with rest, exercise, or any other unsuitable condition. There is no occasion for this trouble to exist as the new discovery called HEVE-O will, with a few doses, remove this very prevalent trouble. HEVE-O, the new discovery for leucos, coughs, distemper and kidney troubles, is meeting with remarkable success. Its action is quick and decisive. Heaves usually start from indigestion, colds, or mussy hay or grain; in either case the stomach becomes impaired and must receive treatment as well as the other organs. HEVE-O is prepared for just such cases. Kidneys—a few doses will show marked improvement on any kidney trouble (which makes it a thorough blood purifier), or a few doses limit cough. Sheep and cattle frequently have bad coughs. HEVE-O is equally good for them. A trial will prove its superiority. One pound packages, 50c. Sold by all druggists. Remember the name, HEVE-O, and take nothing else.

THIRTY-TWO YEARS SINCE THE FIRST CASE OF INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION

Thirty-two years ago the world saw the first fruits of international arbitration, in the award of the high commission which settled the so-called Alabama claims of the United States against England.

The world has made a strong advance toward the settlement of international disputes by the judicial methods of arbitration since the days of the Alabama award.

Differences that before then plunged nations into war are now considered, as a matter of course, fit subjects for the deliberative methods of settlement embraced by arbitration.

The high court which settled the Alabama claims was the first of its kind. The parties to the disputed claims had long been subject to intensely bitter feelings of resentment against each other. The United States charged to England practically all the damage done her shipping by confederate ships in the civil war, while England refused, until this commission sat, to recognize the right of any nation to question her methods of maintaining her proclaimed neutrality.

Long and delicate diplomatic negotiations were necessary to pave the way, step by step, for the formation of the court which was to settle these claims.

Even after the sessions began it appeared for a time as if they would come to an abrupt and fruitless ending.

After months of deliberation on the part of the arbitrators a settlement was reached, however, in which the principal of international arbitration was imperishably perpetuated, while the United States government received in settlement of its claims the substantial sum of $15,500,000.

Russians Drop Alexander. It has been a tradition since the time of Nicholas I. to name the czareviches alternately Alexander and Nicholas. But the murder of Alexander II. caused his name to be considered unlucky, so there will be no more Alexanders on the Russian throne, as there will be no more Pauls or Peters. The czarevitch was therefore named Alexis, after the father of Peter the Great. He was a powerful and successful ruler.

ENDORSEMENTS ON THE ALABAMA AWARD CERTIFICATE.

DEVICE NOT IN DEMAND.

Some Objections to Proposed Telephone Attachment.

A man in Portland, Ore., has invented a telephone attachment that will enable the person at one end of the wire to see the face of the one at the other. He calls this an improvement, and seems to think it fills a long-felt want.

If this fiendish device should find its way into general use the telephone would become a thing of terror. How could you express your opinion of Central with her scornful eyes staring into yours. How could you tell a dun that you had gone to Boston if he could look at your face while you said it? How could you escape a bore in the recesses of your club if he could catch you face to face on a wire?

The world owes something to modern science, but the inventors of wireless telegraphs and portrait telephones are overdoing things. In the interest of the disappearing right of privacy they ought to be kindly but thoroughly suppressed.—New York World.

Prof. Rontgen Is Modest.

One of the least of self-advertised great men is Prof. Rontgen, who discovered the marvelous rays which now bear his name. The professor has never been interviewed, never been banqueted, and he has even refused immense sums of money offered him by American publishers for a book on what he himself modestly styled "a new kind of ray." Though 60, he carries his years gallantly and looks more like a man who has led a healthy outdoor life than one who has spent the whole of his manhood in investigating strange physical problems.

NEW USE FOR THE CAMERA.

Fitting of Clothes by Tailors Done With Aid of Pictures.

A new method of measuring for tailors has been patented in Paris, according to the St. James Gazette. The person to be measured is placed before a camera, and between them is introduced a network that is photographed at the same time and serves as a standard. Certain artifices are necessary to obtain a complete result; thus, the armpits, etc., must be indicated by objects visible from without, and, finally, several views must be taken from various standpoints. The subject is also fitted with a sort of harness which indicates points of comparison. These points may, however, be marked directly on the person instead. The relative positions of the camera, the network and the subject are carefully adjusted so that the subject appears always on the same scale, and then the photograph is taken from the various necessary standpoints.

Helps Distinguished Husband.

The wife of Camille Flammarion, the astronomer, never allows anyone to cut her husband's hair but herself, and she uses the short locks for pillows. Her home in Paris is full of pillows stuffed with such clippings. Telescopes, heliometers, sextants, astrolabes and other astronomical instruments are scattered all about among them. The Flammarions were married thirty years ago, taking their bridal tour in a balloon. In all the time since then the wife has been a veritable helpmeet to her husband. She not only makes observations and calculations, but measures the distances of stars for him. At the observatory of Juvisy, which she helped him establish, she made studies of the planet Mars.

MEEK TILL SCRIPTURE ENDED.

Parson Turned the Other Cheek and Then Grew Belligerent.

Rev. John Smith, who lately died in Mexico, Mo., was nearly a centenarian. He was the confere and chief captain of Rev. Alexander Campbell in the establishment of the Reform or Christian, or "Campbellite" church. He was a pioneer preacher far back in the history of Kentucky. In his young manhood he wore a coonskin cap, which he retained so long after it had gone out of style that he was nicknamed "Raccoon John Smith." The parson was of that class of muscular Christians who are eminently capable of taking care of themselves, even in a strenuously belligerent environment. A country bully one time picked a quarrel with Parson Smith and slapped the parson on the side of the face.

"Whoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also," quoted the parson from the gospel according to St. Matthew, and suited his action to the text.

The bully, thinking he had a "walk-over," so to speak, smote the parson on the other cheek also.

"Right thar the scripture stops," exclaimed the parson, and "lit in" and gave the bully the drubbing that he deserved.

New Coal Field in Mexico.

A company composed principally of British and German capitalists has been formed for the purpose of working a recently discovered coal field near Sabinas, in the state of Coahuila, Mexico. The principal vein is from seven to eight feet wide, and underlies an area of 15,000 acres. The new coal field is about 7 1/2 miles from the Mexican International railway.

Take Census With Beads.

The recent census of the natives in the Transvaal was taken with beads. Each headman was furnished with a number of beads of different colors and twine on which to string them. A big black bead represented an adult married native, a big yellow bead a grown single man, a big blue bead a married woman, and a white bead a single woman over fifteen years old. A small yellow bead stood for a boy and a small white bead for a girl.

Brahmin's Proverbs Popular.

The old English proverb writers used Pilpay's proverbs very largely—in fact, it was not for the old Brahmin there would be many fewer English proverbs than there are. The proverbs have been translated into every European language and into many Asiatic tongues—Persian, Malay, Mongolian, Afghan; they are the proverbs of the world.

A Record in Trees.

The largest tree in the world is to be seen at Mascall, near the foot of Mount Etna, and is called "The Chestnut Tree of a Hundred Horses." Its name rose from the report that Queen Jane of Aragon, with her principal nobility, took refuge from a violent storm under its branches. The trunk is 204 feet in circumference.

Japanese Never Conquered.

Speaking of the Japanese, Voltaire said it was the only nation that had never been conquered. In the thirteenth century the Japs repulsed 107,000 Mongolians in a naval warfare. They fought with success in Korea and China, and Dr. Bertillon says that they are invincible on account of their all-powerful Jiu-Jitsu.

Difference in Farming Methods.

The average gross returns per acre from cultivated land in this country is only $10.50 per acre, and from land devoted to the growing of cereals but $3.02 per acre. In Great Britain the intensive system of farming has brought the average gross returns up to within the neighborhood of $30 per acre.

Varying Views on Red Hair.

In Spain red hair is abhorred, on the ground that it is "Judas hair"—Judas Iscariot having been supposed to possess fiery locks. On the other hand, in New Zealand a red-haired woman is considered on the right road to paradise by the Maories.

Simple and Cheap Disinfectant.

The simplest and cheapest disinfectant, and one, too, having no odor, is copperas. Two pounds will make a gallon of saturate solution. A portion should frequently be poured down each pipe which carries waste and water.

From a Commercial Standpoint.

Don't dwell too much upon Newton's discovery of gravitation when impressing your children with the value of nothing things. Newton discovered something he couldn't make a cent out of.

Spiders Invade Music Hall.

At a recent concert in Warsaw the hall was suddenly invaded by spiders, which, attracted by the sound of a violin, came from cracks and crannies in the building. The other lovers of music left.

Kipling's View of Life.

All we can do is to learn how to do our work, to be masters of our materials instead of servants, and never to be afraid of anything.—Rudyard Kipling.

Nature's Order.

Men love at first and most warmly; women love last and longest. This is natural enough, for Nature makes women to be won, and men to win.

Her Idea of It.

"I suppose," said the sweet young thing, "that they say a man is sowing his wild oats because he gets to be such a terrible blade doing it."

Cheap Enough.

A sea captain stilled a revolution in Bagaloe-falocballeriquita for $20 in gold. The pled dictionary was cheaply bought.—Syracuse Herald.

The Mote and the Beam.

You may be able to see your faults as other see them, but you will derive much less satisfaction from talking about them.

Cholera at St. Petersburg.

Nearly every summer there are some cases of genuine cholera in St. Petersburg. Last summer there were three.

Power of Mother's Prayer.

A mother's prayers, silent and gentle, can never miss the road to the throne of all bounty.—Beecher.

Few Women Platonists.

Women speak easily of platonic love; but, while they appear to esteem it highly, there is not a single ribbon of their toilet that does not drive platonism from our hearts.—Richard.

Wise Girl Takes No Chances.

No wise girl ever lets the young man she has spotted for her own to see her with her hair in curl papers until after the minister has had his fatal say.

DESIGNER OF STATUE OF LIBERTY DIES AT PARIS

FREDERIC AUGUSTE BARTHOLDI

Frederic Auguste Bartholdi died in Paris Oct. 4 of consumption, aged 70 years. He was best known in the United States as the designer of the statue of Liberty Enlightening the World, which stands in New York harbor, and was a gift from the people of France. The statue is the most colossal known to history, the legendary colossus of Rhodes having been but 105 feet high, as compared with the 133 feet of the figure of Liberty. Another of his famous works is the Lion of Belfort. Another work of some magnitude he left uncompleted but the design for his own tomb was finished a day or two before he was taken with his last illness.

NEXT RULER OF GERMANY.

Crown Prince Said Not to Be of a Strenuous Character.

Gossip in Paris is busy with the personality of the German crown prince. He is said to have complained, when he was at Bonn, that his comrades did not treat him as the emperor's son; whereupon the emperor reminded him that at the university he could make himself important only by his attainments, not by his rank. He has no liking for the uniform of a Prussian lieutenant, in which he is constantly photographed; looks like an Englishman just escaped from an Oxford or Cambridge; has a pleasing, beardless face, clear blue eyes, an easy smile and the hesitating, resigned expression of his mother. At present he seems to possess neither the philosophical spirit of his grandfather, the Emperor Frederick, nor the warlike temper of his father. War, indeed, has no charm for him, and when he visited the battlefields of Alsace and Lorraine and listened to stories of the great struggles which made the German empire he manifested a weary repugnance to the whole business.

MEN WHO RULE JAPAN.

Three Most Prominent in Present Crisis in the East.

Three men rule Japan's destinies in her present war with Russia. The first is Marquis Oyama, commander of all the forces in the field—a small, podgy, peck-marked man, whom no caricaturist could fail to lampoon as a frog. Next comes Gen. Baron Kodama, the executive brain of the Japanese general staff. The third member of the triumvirate is Gen. Fukushima, whose genius has been the concrete mortar which has cemented into solid block the rough-hewn material of Japan's general staff. The three men are of very small stature, and Gen. Fukushima is fair for a Japanese. Oyama's tremendous success is due to the fact that he whipped China on the very fields over which he is now so diligently pursuing the Russians. It is said that no other commander in history has ever been called to operate twice over the same squares of the map. Oyama knows Manchuria as well as he knows Tokio.

Edison at Work on Battery.

Thomas A. Edison continues to spend a large part of his time perfecting the storage battery upon which he has been working for several years. The delegates to the international electrical congress who paid a visit to Mr. Edison in New Jersey last week found him very optimistic as to the future of this battery. When it was first developed it had the usual mechanical defects of a new invention and Mr. Edison has been spending much time in his factory overcoming these defects. The engineers who saw him last week say that the Edison storage battery is now perfected and that it will not be long before it is put on the market.

Signatures of English Clergy.

In all his official correspondence the archbishop of Canterbury signs himself "Randall Cantuar." The latter word being an abbreviation of "Cantuar," the ancient name of Canterbury. The archbishop of York's signature is "Willelm. Ebor." Ebor (Eboracum) is the ancient name of York. When bishop of Winchester Dr. Davidson signed himself "Randall Winton." Winton being the old name of Winchester. The rule about these signatures is to follow the Christian name or initial or names or initials with the original name of the bishopric or its abbreviation.

Japanese "Tea Ceremony."

No servant is ever permitted to serve tea in a Japanese house. It is the privilege of the daughter to make the beverage, while the guest who has last arrived serves it. The tea is made fresh for each guest in the same bowl, which has to be washed and dried each time, and so the "tea ceremony" is apt to be a long one. It is probably for this reason that strict etiquette forbids the presence of more than five at such tea parties.

Check on Fast Autos.

The correspondent of a London paper makes the amiable suggestion to lay down about half a cartload of gravel across the road so as to make a slight bank. The horse traffic would not perceive it, and it would not hurt motorists conforming to regulation speed; but the "scorcher" going faster would break his car's springs and considerably disturb the occupants of his car.

Irish Fruit Culture.

Ireland is making a bold bid for a leading position in the British fruit markets. Orchard cultivation is being encouraged by the authorities, and arrangements are being actively prosecuted for the drying and packing of fruit, in "American fashion," for exportation. The Irish fruit is among the finest in the world.

Faced Death With Jest.

It was said of Lord Palmerston that he never grew old and was as light-hearted as a boy to the very end. When he was on his death bed and the doctors told him that his time had come he brightened up for a final jest. "Die, my dear doctor! That's the last thing I shall do." It was.

General Fire Alarm.

By means of an accidental short circuit in one of the junction boxes in an electric main in Melbourne, Australia, an alarm was sent in to every fire department station and fifteen hundred calls were received at the same instant in the head telephone office.

Triumph of Builders' Art.

The Spreckels building in San Francisco, which weighs over 24,000,000 pounds, rests on dense wet sand, on which a solid platform of steel and artificial stone was laid as a foundation. The building has passed unharmed through the test of a severe earthquake shock.

Boy Stops Church Service.

A church service in Wales was suspended while two stout deacons and the preacher extricated from between the two rails of the pulpit stairs the head of a restless boy who had got it there. The balusters had to be broken.

The Wiser Course.

"Some folks wastes lots er time abusin' de devil," said Brother Dickey, "when, ef dey was only wise, dey'd flatter him, en so run a good chance er gittin' a cool corner down yander!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Lure for the Unsuspecting.

It has been said that girls give up piano playing after marriage. Probably the dear creatures started the rumor for the purpose of encouraging young men to propose.

Open Confession.

Father—Now, Maud, in selecting a husband look, before all things, for intelligence and integrity. Your mother, I am sorry to say, looked only for money.

English Paupers.

The annual report on pauperism in southwest England shows that out of every 1,000 persons in the district thirty-three are acknowledged public paupers.

Almanac Is Suppressed.

Because it contained an article on the Darwinian theory of evolution, a Russian archbishop has suppressed the Georgian almanac.

The Busy Bee.

The foolish little bee improves each shining hour by gathering honey for some freckle-faced boy to smear on his beard.

Giving Conscience a Jolt.

A man does not realize that he has corns on his conscience till some one tramps on them and calls him up short.

Lucky Man.

A New York waiter, who has been employed in the same restaurant for thirty-eight years, has never broken a dish.

The Irish Philosopher.

An Irish philosopher says that only two men were created free and equal—and one of them was a woman.

Immense Oregon Fir Tree.

A fir tree was cut in Oregon recently which made nine saw logs averaging fourteen feet in length, scaling 21,483 feet board measure. The product of this one tree will bring over $1,000.

Use for Waste Sugar Cane.

It is suggested that the waste sugar cane in Hawaii—more than 2,000,000 tons a year—which is now consumed as fuel, could be more profitably used for the manufacture of paper.
