for a time the boy sat like a stone was taking hold. Jimmy was the only one who didn't kneel. He was also the only one who got up and tip-toed were busy. After a few minutes the Deacon followed him out and found him throwing stones at the hens in the next yard. He was a man with three sons of his own, and the patergave Jimmy a box on the ear. It was an unfortunate move. The boy ut-

The village of Rawsonville knew | town believes as I do, that he ought to mat was going to happen a week or before it came to pass. Aunt Sarah Hicks, relict of Barnaby Hicks, had received a letter to the effect that her sister in California was dead, and that her sister's only child was coming East to live with her. The "child," as she went on to explain, was a boy of eighteen and a born idiot.

"He is the only fool ever born among my relashuns," said the good woman, "and how he happens to be one the Lord only knows, but I owe him a duty, and am going to take care of him. I expect he'll be a great trial, but that's what we are here on earth for-to go through trials."

A few days later Aunt Sarah's nephew arrived. He was in charge of a man, and there was no doubt about his being an idiot. He was led through the village by the hand like a two-year-old child, and it was eviient that his intelligence was of the lowest order. For three or four days the town was as much excited as if a circus had come, and it was not until the last citizen had had a square Yook at Jimmy that curiosity began to wane. Some of the people were inclined to criticize Aunt Sarah for "bringing a fool to town," as they expressed it, while others contended that it would make Rawsonville talked about and perhaps increase business and the price of real estate. The three doctors in town had called and looked Jimmy over and agreed that he hadn't the brains of a rabbit, and the boy had thrown stones at every other boy in the place, and things had begun to settle down when Deacon Harkness opened a crusade. He called on Aunt Sarah one day and said:

"I've been thinking the matter over. and I've come to ask you what you are going to do in a religious way for that boy?"

"What are you doing in a religious way for your plow-handles?" asked the widow in reply.

"Hain't that purty near sacrilege?" "Not within forty rods of it. That boy is a born fool. I might just as well throw him down the well as to try to beat religion into his head." "But it would be a great comfort to him." "Yes, it would be a great comfort to him to be President of the United | who held out his hand. He was led States, but he'll have to get along to church and seated in the Deacon's without. If the Lord was satisfied to make him as he is, then it's not for us to complain."

"But I've been talking it over with some of the folks," persisted the Deacon, "and we don't think it's right to deprive that boy of a chance to go to Heaven when he dies. He ought to be allowed to go to church every Sunday. Mebbe he wouldn't quite understand every word the minister said, but he'd feel the influence of the spirit, and who can say how much it would benefit him?"

There was no doubt about his being an idiot.

Aunt Sarah dismissed the subject by saying she'd think it over, and she thought that would be the last of it. It wasn't however. Deacon Harkness was a great hand to cling to an idea. especially if it was one he'd happened to invent himself, and the idea of Jimmy attending church stuck with him. He talked about it until he got fifty people interested, and he finally made a second call on the widow to

They were followed by fifty more, and those by a hundred, and two or three more rocks did the business The honey-gatherers had been basely and brutally assaulted without just cause or provocation, and they went looking for a row. As Jimmy slid away into distance the bees began to extend the circle of their flight, and in due course of time they came to the open doors and windows of the courch.

The minister had only reached "firstly" in his sermon, when there was a commotion. The entire congregation appeared to "commote" at once. It was odds to the bees whether or whether they began business on a hoary-headed deacon or an innocent and the scene in that sacred edifice will never be forgotten. Everybody made for the doors at once, and every body yelled and screamed and fought off the foe, and not a person escaped unscathed. Two hours later, when Deacon Harkness had had his five lumps bathed in vinegar and swathed in bandages, he called upon Auni Sarah, who had remained at home all the morning, to find Jimmy sleeping is profitable work for several rea-"Do-do you know what he did!" exclaimed the deacon, as he pointed an accusing finger at the sleeper. "Hush, Deacon,! I believe you were right to take him with you to service though why he came home so soon I can't make out. #### The Horse in Hot Weather

Modern ideas on the proper and humane treatment of work horses do not always meet with the approval of men who have for years followed oldfashioned plans of management. For instance we advised in an article on this subject that the harness should be taken off the work horse at the noon resting and feeding hour. To our surprise a farmer wrote that such advice was an insult to himself and his neighbors, as at least 90 per cent they came in at the door or window, and indeed had no time to do so and of them never removed the harness. did not recognize the necessity of the youth of 10. #### Our County Fairs

The people that really dictate the kind of county fairs we shall have are the farmers. Managers of such events are not in the habit of running in the face of public opinion; for the success of their fair depends on the patronage of the farming population. It is well enough to encourage the visits of the city people, but the mainstay of all is the farming country lying adjacent to the fair. The farmers can thus fix the status of every county fair held, if they have the energy to exert them-A natural theater, that is to say, a selves. But if to get this money there must be a lowering of the moral tone the whole fair had better be abandoned. We have seen fairs that were supported by money drawn from gambling devices and from side shows whose whole influence was bad. It is possible to have side shows that are of a highly moral nature, instructive, and that will receive the patronage of the people. The opportunity for the man with little means is probably better to-day in the prairie states of the Southwest than over before in the listory of the nation. To be sure, there is not the vast open choice of land for the homesteads that ex-isted in the '70s. The lands then taken up under Government laws are now prosperous farms and ranches. IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well.

It is with great pleasure we publish the following letters, as they convinc-ingly prove the claim we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs.

Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully qualified to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters. Her first letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:-I have been a sufferer for the past eight "I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful menstruation—the pains were excruciating, with inflammation and ulceration of the womb. The doctor says I must have an operation or I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if fran possibly avoid it. Please help me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C. Her second letter;

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize what you can do for them."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 50th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply! As Mrs. Dimmick says-it sayed her life. Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers ailing women helpful advice.

MR. BAYSSON PUBLISHES RESULTS OF VALUABLE EXPERIENCE.

A Former Pronounced Dyspeptic He Now Rejoices in Perfect Freedom from Miseries of Indigestion.

Thousands of sufferers know that the reason why they are irritable and depressed and nervous and sleepless is because their food does not digest, but how to get rid of the difficulty is the puzzling

Good digestion calls for strong digestive organs, and strength comes from a supply of good rich blood. For this reason Mr. Baysson took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the cure of indigestion. "They have been my best doctor," he says. "I was suffering from dyspepsia. The pains in my stomach after meals were almost unbearable. My sleep was very irregular and my complexion was sallow. As the result of using eight boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, about the merits of which I learned from friends in France, I have escaped all these troubles, and am able again to take pleasure in eating."

A very simple story, but if it had not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills it might have been a tragic one. When discomfort begins with eating, fills up the intervals between meals with pain, and prevents sleep at night, there certainly cannot be much pleasure in living. A final general breaking down must be merely a question of time.

Mr. Joseph Baysson is a native of Aix-les-Bains, France, but now resides at No. 2439 Larkin street, San Francisco, Cal. He is one of a great number who can testify to the remarkable efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the treatment of obstinate disorders of the stomach.

If you would get rid of nausea, pain or burning in the stomach, vertigo, nervousness, insomnia, or any of the other miseries of a dyspeptic, get rid of the weakness of the digestive organs by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are sold by druggists everywhere.

Proper diet is, of course, a great aid in forwarding recovery once begun, and a little book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," may be obtained by any one who makes a request for it by writing to the Dr. Williams Medical Co., Schenectady, N.Y. This valuable diet book contains an important chapter on the simplest means for the cure of constipation.

Nothing shows more clearly the versatility of the Slavonic nature than this ready adaptability to either mode of life. The man seems transformed. Once back in the country the mask of the cosmopolitan dweller in one of the gayest capitals in the world, St. Petersburg, falls away like a wornout garment and he is again a Boyar, like his forefathers.

A group of peasants, large or small according to the size of his estate, will be waiting to greet him on his arrival there. Their warm welcome to the khazyaeen (master of the house) is evidently sincere, and as they bend reverently to kiss his hands, or possibly his feet in the case of the older ones, just as they would have done in fewer than 2,000 individuals took the days of serfdom, one begins to see part. All the characters were red that the real relations between land- men. owner and peasant are much more friendly than is generally supposed.

The heart of the average Russian land-owner, however, is not, and never has been in his country estate. Thus his personal influence in his own locality, which would, no doubt, have led to the development of a healthier national life than is possible under present conditions, is almost entirely lacking.

A Laconic Correspondence. It is said that the celebrated German theologian, Schleiermacher, was rather inclined to save than to spend money He was at one time quite ill and sens for a renowned physician, Dr. Grafe, who was court physician at the time and whose son became the great oculist. Schleiermacher recovered, and when fully restored to health he sent a polite note to Dr. Grafe, expressing his gratitude and inclosing 4 louis d'or, begging the physician to accept this small sum as a token of his appreciation of the services which had been rendered him.

The following day he received his gold pieces again, accompanied by the following laconic note from the great physician: "The poor I cure for nothing. The well to do pay me according to the regular 'medicine tax.' The rich reward me lavishly, according as it suits their pleasure!"

Thereupon the clergyman sat down and sent Dr. Grafe this still more la conic answer: "The 4 louis d'or are received back with gratitude. The poor Schleiermacher!"

CASTOR WHO ESCAPED FROM JACKSON, FOR THE ELECTRIC CHAIR.

Grand Rapids' Peril. The Grand Rapids' board of health decided Monday to order closed all of the city schools and churches on account of the smallpox epidemic. The board will also act with the officials at Reed's lake and close Ramona pavilion, the summer theater, at that reort. The Holland Reformed church will refuse to close and see if the authority of the board is legally enforcible. The city has been fighting smallpox for weeks and the filth left by the receding waters may cause a serious increase in the death list. The board of health has warned every householder in the flooded area to clean and disinfect his property. The situation is serious. The pesthouse is filled and tents are required for the overflow patients. There are deaths almost every day. There are 64 cases in the city, nearly half of these developing within a few days. Formal and entirely satisfactory eplies have been received from Russia and Japan to the president's identical note urging them to conclude peace by direct negotiations. two powers are ready to appoint their plenipotentiaries and the only questions as to the preliminaries is how the commissioners shall be brought together and where they will meet. Exchanges on this point are going on between Washington, Tokio and St. Petersburg and it is expected that the decision will be announced soon after President Roosevelt returns from Vir ginia and that, an armistice will follow immediately. So far the president has not been asked to act as an intermediary in bringing the plenipotentiary together, and the indications are that the date and place of their meeting will be arranged by the two governments.

The Russian experiment in parliamentism will begin in September. The emperor has already given his approval to the scheme now being finally but formally reviewed by the council of state for a bicameral legislative body consisting of a lower house called the gosudarstvennaia duma "imperial duma," and an upper house, gosudarstvennaia sovet, or the present council of the empire, with power to formulate legislation, discuss the budget, interpolate ministers, etc., but reserving in the emperor's own hands the final authority.

The elections will take place during the coming summer. Although the scheme clings with desperation to the essence of autocracy, it marks the beginning of the end. The die once cast there can be no retreat, and the regime which will be inaugurated will prove only to be a transitory bridge over which absolutism must cross to constitutionalism.

Peace and a constitution appear simultaneously on the Russian horizon. The proclamation of the parliament either in the form of a manifesto or as a ukase will be promulgated within a few days.

MANY VARIETIES OF NOSES.

Some Facts About Most Prominent Part of the Human Face.

A nose which in any way suggests our ape-like ancestors, whether snub, flattened or abnormally small, is deemed ugly, says the International Quarterly. Generally speaking, the long nose belongs to the people of Europe, whereas the negroses and Mongolians have short noses. With the Esquimo the nose is said to be in many cases so flat that a ruler might be placed so as to rest upon both cheeks without touching it. In many the muscles of the nose have little flexibility except about the nostrils, which visibly dilate and contract under the influence of passion. Mantegazza has remarked that among civilized people the nose is nearly always deflected toward the right, which he attributes to the custom of wining the nose with the right hand. Lonardo da Vinci discovered that there were over ten different varieties of nose, seen in profile, and eleven when looked at in front. Charles characteristic feature of the face, and recommended ladies to regulate the style of their dress with reference to its shape, and Lavater went so far as to ascret that a beautiful nose was worth more than a kingdom, that it is never associated with an ugly face.

The sails were furled and the yards braced in a smart and seamanlike manner. As they listened to the sulphurous orders of the mate one of the sailors on the good ship remarked sententiously to the other:

Bill. d'ye see now what it is we wan't aboard here? We want a little encouragement!"

popularity, and will be one of the most favored of wash materials during the coming summer. A delightful suggestion for a gown of this sort follows: The skirt is perfectly plain, fitting over the hips and flaring prettily from the knees. The blouse is built on the surplice order and the collar and crosspiece are heavily stitched. Three wide tucks form a round voke, and a band of narrow embroidery trims the collar and exguimpe are allover embroidery, a band of the latter, set between two rows of tucks, making the deep cuffs.

Sugared Sweet Potatoes. Sweet potatoes are never better than when cooked in the southern style and baked with sugar. Boil and peel the sweet potatoes and cut them lengthwise into slices. Arrange them in layers in a pudding dish, treating each layer to butter and sugar in the proportion of a heaping tablespoonful of butter and a cup of sugar to each quart of the potatoes. The sugar should be of the moist, light-brown variety. When the dish is full, with bits of butter and sprinklings of sugar for the top dressing, cover it and bake for twenty minutes, then uncover and let the potatoes brown. Properly prepared, this is a delicious dish.

English Silks. There is no doubt about it that the most elaborately plenished wardrobe requires absolute simplicity as the characteristic of some of its details, and this applies very emphatically to the morning shirt. Smart though the white lingerie one is, it is not always desirable to wear it, and so there arrives an opportunity for the tailormade model called the Gibson Girl, with its neatly stitched pleats and its general air of practical utility.

There are being sold now some excellent English silks that wear very well, and are not expensive.

They should be made with a neckband like that of a man's shirt, and a deep white linen collar should be worn with them, with a little tie arranged in a bow in front. Supposing there should be in the possession of the wearer a set of pretty studs and cuff links, they should be brought into instant requisition.

A New Chocolate Cake.

Pound to a paste one-quarter of a pound of sweet unpeeled almonds; take the same amount of chocolate and fresh butter, four very fresh eggs, one-half pound powdered sugar and three tablespoonfuls of sifted flour. Melt the chocolate in as little water as possible over a slow fire, and when it is reduced to a paste add the other ingredients, with the exception of the whites of the four eggs. Beat the mixtures for a couple of minutes, then butter, a charlotte mold and stir in the whites of the eggs, which have not been previously beaten, merely stirred vigorously. Fill the mold and bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes, until it reaches a golden tint; then turn it out and cover with chocolate icing.

Voile Is Lovely Fabric. In the wool voiles every day brings out new fancy effects, and more beautiful ones. Probably it is the exquisiteness of the season's colors, their softness, delicacy, adaptability, that makes the materials seem more beautiful than ever before, but the designs for weaving, embroidering and printing are certainly lovely. Among the new fancy, voiles are some in fine checks, with little squares woven in open work design like large checks throughout the material, and over the surface at twoinch intervals are embroidered little dots in the darker of the two colors In a delicate pinkish orange and white this voile is indescribably charming.

Charming, too, is a creamy gray and white voile of the same general plan, but with little flowers embroidered in white silk with yellow centers re- revers, cuffs and waistcoat placing the embroidered dots of the orange and white material. Still another new voile has a shaded surface, giving somewhat the effect of fish scales, over which are scattered small embroidered dots.

Linen soutache braid trims the smart linen. The untrimmed skirt is by means unusual Valenciennes lace comes now in circular flounces. The soft leather girdles are em-breidered in colors. The open-work shoe has come. It makes its bow in white kid. Shaded stockings, the color paling toward the top, are new. Patent-leather ties are procurable now in both mauve and white. The silk bodice and cloth skirt combination is one of the innovations. Stocks are very wide, shaped high at the back and deep under the ears.

Ribbon Work.

Ribbon work in various forms and devices is applied to the waistcoats and fronts this season, and very beautiful are the designs carried out on some of the new examples. Old-fashioned brocades in pearl gray, oyster pink, white and the faintest shades of blue, green and mauve, are used as the basis of these schemes, the ribbon being worked into gathered borders with trains of flowers running down on either side, supplemented with embroidered leaves. Rows of ribbon connected with hairpin work and flanked with button motifs ornamented with lace centers provide another effective device which is simple enough for the home embroideress to carry out herself.

New Wrinkle in Belts Every day there's a new belt designed. The latest is made of flowered pompadour ribbon on a foundation and bound with kid. The buckle is square and covered with kid. Where pink is the main color in the ribbon, pink kid is used. The prettiest have pale blue or white kid bindings. The belts are straight, without fullness, and a little more than two inches deep. Two new powers of importance have been conferred on electric railway companies-under the Eichhorn bill they were given the power of eminent domain and under the Simpson bill the right to own steamboat lines. The "G. R. & I." fare bill failed miserably, and if the Baillie bill to cut out damages for suffering of persons injured in accidents and who die from their injuries, advantages railroads, the houses were unaware of it at the time, and the house has repudiated this act by voting for a repeal bill. When it was thought that the omission of the subrogation clause in the insurance policy bill would help the railroads, the clause was promptly restored. Both in this and in the Baillie bill the railroad interest was not known at the time of passage, and when it was known things were different. The Simpson bill to make railroads common carriers of live stock passed the house, and only narrowly failed in the senate.

Corporations in general have re ceived safe and sane treatment. This is true with regard to bills that have passed and bills that have been killed. The Smith bill releasing certain corporations from obligation to file lists of stockholders was held up in the house committee. The Lord bill, requiring patent rights, copyrights, good will, etc., to be included in company statements, passed both houses, and it is expected it will be a serious curative for overwatering of stock.

school legislation of 1905 is thought by the department to be the most im portant in years.

In general state affairs the bill that has attracted most attention is the Holmes bill regulating the speed of automobiles. The game and fish laws that were passed were the result of able discussion and wise compromises, and do not effect any very great changes.

The bank legislation has been to ward conservatism and security. The Partlow bill, allowing state banks to organize in cities of 1.000 or less, with a capital of $10,000, was killed. Rep. Lord's bills to prevent fraudulent ma nipulation of bank assets, to raise the necessary capitalization of loan socities from $50,000 to $100,000, to require two examinations yearly of all banks in the state outside of reserve cities, instead of one each year, as at present, to widen the scope of investible securities and create a securities commission, all passed both houses. The house approved the administration bill for the state examination of private banks, but it failed in the senate. The primary bill that has been passed and signed is not what everybody wanted, but it is more of what be transacted. The galleries of both houses were crowded with visitors measure that was presented. Else it would not have passed. The primary bill, whatever its mechanism may prove to be, is in its terms a worthy type of the hard working, conscientious, compromising legislature of 1905. #### GAS AND WATER

IS ONE AS NECESSARY AS THE OTHER?

Citizens of Large Cities Say it is.

New York, June 13 .- In the recent agitation here about the price of gas, the demand for lower rates was supported by the argument that every resident is as dependent upon a supply of gas as upon a supply of good water.

It has come to pass that the day laborer uses gas as his only fuel for cooking, because of economy, and the rich man uses gas on account of its convenience. Gas for lighting, with modern improvements in burners, is cheaper, better and more satisfactory than any other kind of light. Gas sells at $1.00 per thousand cubic feet in large cities and from that to as high as $3.00 in smaller towns. The consumer of gas in the country uses Acetylene (pronounced a-set-alene), and each user makes his own gas and is independent of Gas and Electric Companies. Acetylene is a more perfect illuminant than the gas sold by the big gas companies in the cities, and the cost to the smallest user is about the equivalent of city gas at 85 cents per thousand.

Acetylene is the modern artificial light, the latest addition to the many inventions that have become daily necessities.

The light from an acetylene flame is soft, steady and brilliant, and in quality is only rivaled by the sun's rays. If water and a solid material known as Calcium Carbide are brought into contact, the immediate result is the making of this wonderful gas. The generation of acetylene is so simple that experience or even apparatus is not necessary to make it. If it is desired to make it for practical lighting, and to keep it for immediate use, then a small machine called an "Acetylene Generator" is employed. There are many responsible concerns making acetylene generators. In practice, this gas is distributed in small pipes throughout buildings, grounds, or entire cities and towns, in the same manner as ordinary city gas. Acetylene is the only satisfactory means of lighting isolated buildings located in the counfry or suburbs at a distance from city gas or electric plants.

Floating Nests.

When mother grebe is ready to lay her eggs she searches out some retired spot, among the reeds and rushes of a lonely lake, and there she scrapes and pushes together a low heap of mud and decayed reeds, says C. William Beebe, in Recreation. Here on the water-logged islet-this merest semblance of a nest-she broods her eggs. A moose splashing among the nearby lily pads may send floods of water over the sitting bird, or the winds may disentangle the little raft of reeds, sending it scudding to the farther end of the lake, but the bright eyes of the mother bird never falter. She carefully covers her eggs with decayed leaves whenever hunger forces her to leave them. Although she does not weave the reeds. vet in some way they hold together until the last little grebe crawls to the edge and plunges off head-first. Or he may leap upon his mother's back and thus ride proudly forth into the world, exchanging the soaked, decayed leaves of his cradle for her feathers.

RAILROAD RATE LEGISLATION. Testifying before the Senate Committee at Washington, Inter-State Commerce Commissioner Prouty said in discussing the proposition to give to that Commission the power to regulate railway rates:

"I think the railways should make their own rates. I think they should be allowed to develop their own business. I have never advocated any law, and I am not now in favor of any law, which would put the rate making power into the hands of any commision or any court. While it may be necessary to do that some time, while that is done in some states at the present time, while it is done in some countries, I am opposed to it. * * * The railway rate is property. It is all the property that the railway has got. The rest of its property is not good for anything unless it can charge a rate. Now it has always seemed to me that when a rate was fixed, if that rate was an unreasonable rate, it deprives the railroad company of its property pro tanto. It is not necessary that you should confiscate the property of a railroad; it is not necessary that you should say that it chall not earn three per cent or four per cent. When you put in a rate that is inherently unreasonable, you have deprived that company of its rights, of its property, and the Circuit Court of the United States has jurisdiction under the fourteenth amendment to restrain that. * * I have looked at these cases a great many times, and I can only come to the conclusion that a railroad company is entitled to charge a fair and reasonable rate, and if any order of a commission, if any statute of a state legislature takes away that rate, the fourteenth amendment protects the railway company."

Under the management of the Na tional Good Roads association another good roads train left St. Louis recent ly, and after several stops in Missour points in Kansas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma and Texas will be visited and then, operating over other lines, the train will make a tour of other states. Before the tour ends thirtyfour states will be visited. The present good roads special train will travel over 4,000 miles and con duct a crusade of political and economic education for the farmer, show ing him how to organize his forces and secure feasible road legislation. Each locality where conventions are held will be expected to contribute to the expense of the undertaking, and after the proper enthusiasm has been aroused a local good roads association will be formed and every member will be

Ten Times Easier.

It is ten times easier to cure coughs group, whooping cough and all lung and pronchial affections when the bowels are open. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar is the original Laxative Cough Syrup. Best for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, etc. Remembe the name, "Kennedy's", and see that the red clover blossom and the honey bee is on the bottle. Sold by L I. The Successful Dalryman. The successful dairyman must be persistent man and a good man for de tails. That is the first essential to success in the dairy business. The second is the cow. There is no excuse in this day of enlightenment for not knowing whether every cow in the herd is a profitable one or not. There ought to be some way to punish the dairyman who doesn't use the Babcock test. Several years ago one of my herds of fifty cows was tested, with the result that some of the cows were actually losing money and others making it. The difference between the best cow and the poorest was about $68 per year.—H. B. Gurler Before Ohio Dairymen's Convention.

Feed Cows Twice a Day. Where no feed is given at noon the dairy cow has the day to rest and deposit her flow of milk as well by day as by night, and her appetite is quickened for the feed when it is put before her, writes a Maine farmer in American Cultivator. When I first adopted this practice I thought it was cruel, but I am thoroughly convinced by practice that it is an advance step in the care of dairy cows.

Overheating the milk will give the butter an oily appearance, thereby injuring the body of the butter unless the cream is cooled down to 60 degrees F. and held there for four to five hours before churning. In the winter milk should be separated at a temperature of 85 degrees F.; in summer, 75 to 80 degrees F .- Hoard's Dairyman.

Egypt, China, Assyria, Greece and Rome. Lamp, from the Greek lampas, a torch, and candle, from kandeel, the Egyptian word for a common lamp, originally meant the same thing, and the Mosaic candlestick held oil lamps, not candles, as we now use the word. Man early improved on the torches of the Homeric age and caught the idea of obtaining light from porous fiber soaked in animal or vegetable oils. Lamps of brass, bronze and stone have been found in the pyramids and in ancient Indian temples, and common terra cotta ones were in general use for domestic purposes in Greece in the fourth century B. C. The earliest candles we hear of were those of the ancient Romans made of rushes coated with fat or wax.

The Next Corn Crop.

From the persistency with which corn is talked and written about this spring it seems that the agricultural world in general is set upon making another big corn crop, and nothing short of most unfavorable weather conditions can prevent it. All sorts of good advice are circulating. Farmers tell in their favorite papers how they have made or expect to make a good crop. HOUSE to rent. Enquire of A. A. Cheerful Statistics, According to the latest estimates for the last fiscal year, our increasing fruit trade is shown by a gain of $3, 000,000, the total domestic exports of fruits for 1904 being valued at more than $20,000,000. At the same time our imports of fruits gained $100,000 and nuts $600,000, while alcoholic liquors declined $500,000, all facts of cheer to vegetarians, the Apple Consumers league and the nut growers.

Quality vs. Quantity. Hard nuscles and strong body do not depend on the quantity of food you eat, but on its perfect digestion and proper assimilation. When you take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure your system gets all the nourishment out of all the food you eat. It digests what you eat regardless of the condition of the stomach and conveys the nutrient properties to the blood and tissues. This builds up the entire system.
