"CAPITAL PUNISHMENT." Our system of law is slowly approaching perfection. We are becomng known as a nation of lawyers. The stirring events of succeeding generations, the crisis that come sooner or later to every nation have naturally turned the minds of the masses to the study of the laws by which they have been governed, and to the improve-ment of those phases of the law which have robbed them of their just rights. Slowly but surely the law of love is displacing the laws of selfishness and sin which still hang like sullen shadows over the face of the world, slowly but surely men are demonstrating that the command "Let there be light" came from out the heart of the eternal and History tells us that our present system of laws has been moulded by the three makers of history—the Greek, the German and the Anglo Saxon. As a result this system is nearing a perfection little dreamed of in past agesa perfection that is attracting the attention of the nations of the earth.

One of these most serious defects is the law which, for certain offences, deprives man of his life. In the old disples upon others, who as well as him pensation it was: an eye for an eye, self, have ideas of their own which and a tooth for a tooth; it was: obey and live or disobey and die. It was capital punishment in the strictest sense of the word. In this newer age ushered in by Jesus, the Christ who came not to condemn but to bring men to a kyowledge of the truth, we are slowly learning to love our fellowmen. Capital punishment can not be compared with the law whose principles are love because it can not possibly do for man what love can accomplish, and is on the whole contrary to the trend of civilization. Such a mode of punishment does not correskind. In July of 1776 Congress took up the Articles of Federation, or plan of government for the United States, and in 1777 sent them to the states for approval: but disputes over the ownership of lands west of the mountains delayed their acceptance till 1781. From the first the plan was a failure. Congress had no power to lay a tax of any sort, nor regulate trade with foreign countries, nor between states. The states issued paper money, regulated foreign trade, each in its own way without regard to the regulations of others, and by this lack of uniformity produced the financial, commercial and industrial distress which wrecked the Confederation. Business conditions made an abandonment of the articles necessary, and in 1787 our present Constitution was framed at Philadelphia. Eleven states promptly ratified and in April, 1789, Washington was inaugurated at New York. In 1790 Philadelphia became the seat of government, and in 1800, Washing-

The financial legislation of the first and second congresses split the people into two political parties—the Federalists, who supported Washington, with Adams, Hamilton, Jay, Pickering, and King for leaders, and the anti-Federalists or Republicans, who opposed the administration under the lead of Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Gallatin. Scarcely had the parties been organized on domestic issues whan France declared war on Great Britain and opened her West Indies to neutral trade, and our country entered upon a long period of foreign complication. Washington issued a proclamation of neutrality (1793) and our merchants rushed to the French West Indies. But Great Britain seized their ships and the Anti-Federalists attempted to force Congress to retaliate. Lest this should bring on war Washington sent Jay to London to negotiate our first commercial treaty with Great Britain. This treaty offended France, who rejected our new minister, demanded tribute and so insulted us that an army of volunteers was raised, coast defenses erected, the Navy department created, and a naval war waged from 1798-1800. From 1801 to 1803 there was peace in Europe, and during these years our trade declined; a wave of population swept westward; Ohio was admitted as a state; Jefferson was elected president; Louisiana was purchased from France and war renewed in Europe.

As nearly all western Europe soon became tributary to Napoleon, our country became the great neutral ocean carrier. An immense trade was developed which Great Britain attacked with orders in Council and Naleft but fight for our neutral rights or | were the removal of the Indians from abandon the sea. HOW THE TIBETANS DRESS.

Lay and cleric alike, the inhabitants of Lassa are entirely similar to those of the rest of Tibet, says World's Work. There is, indeed, but one difference, even in the dress. In one province through which we passed the women use a turquoise-studded halo as a headdress; in Lassa a fillet ornamented in the same way is bound close down over their hair, fluffed out on either side, and falls down over the shoulders. It is one of the most becoming ways of doing the hair that I have ever seen, and for a certain

We heartily pray thee to send thy Holy Spirit into the hearts of those that possess the grounds, pastures and dwelling places of the earth, that they, remembering themselves to be thy tenants, may not rack nor stretch out the rents of their houses and lands nor yet take unreasonable fines and incomes after the manner of covetous worldlings; but from their sale, the building of roads habitants thereof may both be able and canals at Federal expense, tariff to pay the rents and also honestly to for protection and a sound currency. live and nourish their families and the war brought on a period of busi- On these the two parts of the old Re- relieve the poor. It is on record that the congress sitting in Philadelphia in 1776 adopted the following resolution on the 5th of July: "Resolved, That copies of the Declaration be sent to the several assemblies, conventions and councils of safety, and to the several commanding officers of continental army corps, that it be proclaimed in each of the United States and at the head of the army." In accordance with this resolution. John Hancock, president of the congress, enclosed a copy of the Declaration to which of the states and to the various organizations named in the resolution. With the Declaration was sent the following letter: "I do myself the honor to enclose, in obedience to the commands of congress, a copy of the Declaration of Independence, which you will please to have proclaimed in your colony in such a way

CHAPTER XIII.

Joan Stands Within Her Danger. So soon as Werner von Orseln returned to Castle Kernsberg with news of the forcing of the Alla and the overwhelming numbers of the Muscovite hordes, the sad-eyed Duchess of Hohenstein became once more Joan of the Sword Hand.

The invading army must have numbered thirty thousand, at least. There were, all told, about two thousand in Kernsberg. Von Orseln, indeed, could easily have raised more. Nay, they would have come in of themselves by hundreds to fight for their Duchess, but the little town could not feed

When Werner von Orseln and Peter Balta met the invader at the fords of the Alla, Maurice von Lynar and Alt Pikker had remained with Joan, nominally to assist her dispositions, but really to form a check upon the impetuosity of her temper. Now Von Orseln was back again. The fords of the Alla were forced, and the fighting strength of Kernsberg united itself in the Eagle's Nest to make its final stand.

Aloft on the highest ramparts there was a terrace walk which the Sparhawk much affected, specially when he was on guard at night. It looked towards the east, and from it the first trained alacrity of seasoned men at glimpse of the Courtlanders would be obtained. Presently the chief captain's step was heard on the stone turnpike. "Ha, Sparhawk," he cried, "this is cold cheer! Why could we not have talked comfortably in hall, with a beaker of mead at one's elbow?"

"I wanted to speak with you on a matter we cannot mention elsewhere," "How long can we hold out if they besiege us?" "Two months, certainly-with luck, three! "And what of the Duchess Joan?"

persisted the young man. "Why, in the same time she will be dead or wed!" said Von Orseln, with tarian journal published at Hamburg, an affectation of carelessness easily

"We must get her away to a place

S.R. CROCKETT, Author of "The Raiders, &c to ride a reconnaissance to ascertain whether the advancing enemy had cut Kernberg off towards the north. On this matter Von Orseln thought that her Highness had better judge for herself. Here at last was something to be done. It was almost like the old > perate cause. No one in all Castle Kernsberg was to know of the departure of this cavalcade. The Sparhawk was appointed to command during Von Orseln's absence. Ten men only were to go, and these picked and sifted riders-cnosen because of their powers of silenceand because, being unmarried, they had no wives to worm secrets out of

Joan and her chief captain rode on ahead, Von Orseln glancing keenly about him, and Joan riding free and careless, as in old days when she overpassed the hills to drive a prey from the lands of her father's enemies.

It was grey morning when they came to a goatherd's hut at the top of the green valley. Already they had passed the bounds of Hohenstein by half a dozen miles. The goatherd had led his light skipping train to the hills for the day, and the rude and chaotic remains of his breakfast were still on the table. Boris and Jorian cleared these away, and, with the arms, they placed before the party a breakfast prepared with speed out of which they had brought with them and those things which they had found to their hand by foraging in the cottage of the goatherd—to-wit, sliced neat's tongue dried in the smoke bread of fine wheat which Jorian had carried all the way in a net at his saddle bow. Boris had charge of the wine skins, and upon a shelf above the door they found a great butter pot full of freshly made curded goat's milk, very delicious both to taste and

Of these things they ate and drank largely, Joan and Von Orseln being together at the upper end of the table. Boris and Jorian had to sit with them, though much againht their wills, being (spite of their sweethearts) more accustomed to the company of honest men at arms than to the practice of dainty eating in ladies' society.

Soon Joan of the Sword Hand rose to her feet, for the ex-men at arms had few words to say.

"Let us now mount and ride homeward," she said, "there are no enemy to be found on this northerly road. We shall be more fortunate upon another occasion."

Then Werner von Orseln nerved himself for a battle more serious than any he had ever fought at the elbow of Henry the Lion of Hohenstein

"My lady," he said, standing up and bowing gravely before her, "you see here eleven men who love you far above their lives, of whom I am the chief. Two others also there are, who, though not of our nation, are in heart joined to us, especially in this parts.' thing that we have done. With all respect, your Highness cannot go back. We have come out, not to must take ten good men and ride make a reconnaissance, but to put your Grace in a place of safety till the storm blows over." The Duchess had slowly risen to which swung at her belt.

"You have suddenly gone mad. Werner!" she said; "let us have no more of this. I bid you mount and ride Back to Kernsberg, I say! Ye are not such fools and traitors as to deliver the maiden Castle, the Eagle's Nest of Hohenstein, into the hands of our enemies?" "Nay," said Von Orseln, looking steadily upon the ground, "that will we not do. Kernsberg is in good hands and will fight bravely. But we cannot hold out with our few folk and scanty provender against the leaguer of thirty thousand. Nevertheless we will not permit you to sacrifice yourself for our sakes or for the sake of the women and children of the city."

Joan drew her sword. "Werner von Orseln, will you obey me, or must I slay you with my hand?" she cried. The chief captain vet further bowed his head and abased his eves.

"We have thought also of this," he made answer. "Me you may kill, but these that are with me will defend themselves, though they will not strike one they love more than their lives. But man by man we have sworn to do this thing. At all hazards you must abide in our hands till the danger is overpast. For me (this he added in a deeper tone), I am your immediate officer. There is none to come between us. It is your right to slay me if you will. Mine is the responsibility for this deed, though the design was not mine. Here is my sword. Slay your chief captain with it if you will. He has faithfully served your house for five-and-thirty

And with these words Werner von Orseln took his sword by the point and offered the hilt to his mistress. Joan of the Sword Hand shook with mingled passion and helplessness, and

She paused and looked around the little goatherd's hut.

Modern Pictures Not Wanted. In recent years it has become a matter of increasing difficulty for a living English artist to find a market for his wares, says the Academy. The middle classes appear to have concluded that original pictures are entirely beyond the means of persons with a moderate income, and content themselves with photogravures. The wealthy, on the other hand, appear to consider picture-buying merely in the light of an investment, and all they want is a safe thing like preference stock—the established reputations.

"The Three Most Beautiful Roses" By Paul de Longpre

At the urgent solicitotion of the Woman's Home Companion, Mr. Paul de Longpre, who is the greatest painter of flowers in the world, consented to make a painting of what he considered "The Three Most Beautiful Roses," and the painting is without doubt one of the masterpieces of this great artist. This magnificient picture is reproduced in all its original gran deur on the cover of the Woman's Home Companion for June. Although this cover is an accurate reproduction of a painting worth hundreds of dollars, yet the June number, which has this exquisit cover, may be obtained at any first-class news-stand or direct from the publishers for the trival sum of only ten cents. Mr. Paul de Longpre is justly styled the "King of Flower Painters." He not only paints roses, but every flower that grows, and is the highest authority on flowers. His paintings are found in the most select homes. Some have sold for as much as seven thousand five hundred dolars ($7,500,00).

Artists, art critics and competent judges all agree that the covers of the Woman's Home Companion far excel those of any other magazine.

"BUCKHORN."

Farmers Should Rid Their Clover of It.

A. Frutchey, of the Cass City Grain Company, has just returned from a trip to Pennsylvania, and as he is ever on the alert for that which will be of assistance to his farmer patrons of this locality, he wishes us to urge all farmers to make a special effort to rid their clover fields of the weed known as "buckhorn." The Pennsylvania farmers depend to quite an extent upon the farmers of this locality to supply them with clover seed and it is to the interest of our farmers to furnish the pure article. Mr. Frutchey made a trip through the same section from which he has just returned, nine years ago, and did not find any buckhorn. but now he finds it very thick. This the guests of Miss Florence Tanner last year his company here found it difficult to buy seed for sale here that Mrs. Mary Mark is home from Cass | was free from the weed, and had to re-City where she has been helping to turn several shipments, as they are fused to sell our farmers seed know ing there was buckhorn seed mixed was held at the home of Henry Helwig through it. The weed should be destroyed wherever it is found, as far as possible, and everyone should take an interest in maintaining our reputation for a good article of clover seed.

Vicksburg Bank Affairs.

The affairs of the Vicksburg bank it would seem got in to a tangle through losing deals of President E. L. Page in cotton. No figures have been given out by the bank's officials showing the amount of shortage, but it is well established that when this is done the amount will be well up in the thousands. Farmers and mechanics constitute the bulk of the depositors and they are greatly excited. Business men continue to stand by the bank and only a day or two ago they deposited $8,000 to help bolster up the institution. Munroe, of the Kalamazoo Trust Co., as receiver.

Missing Two Months.

George Shetterly, aged 68, a resident of Pokagon, has been missing from his home for nearly two months, and Kalamazoo officers have been asked to investigate his disappearance or the theory that he has been murdered. Some time ago Shetterly bought a farm from a man named Phillips near Pokagon, and on April 29 left the home of his brothers, near Bertrand, where he had been visiting, to go to Ber-trand and take the electric car to Niles, and thence to his new place. He was last seen some distance from Bertrand by a farmer named Washburn with whom he talked. Last week his daughter in Dowagiac learned for the first time that he had never arrived at his farm, and notified the sheriff. Since the old man carried $100 in gold in his pocket, she believes that he has been waylaid, robbed and murdered and his body concealed in the swamps near where he disappeared.

They Need Lumber.

Advices received by Gov. Warner from the cyclone-swept districts of Tuscola and Sanilac counties indicate that the responses to the governor's recent appeal for assistance for the victims of the disaster have not been as widespread and generous as was hoped for, or as the situation demands. Gov. Warner expressed the hope that the people of the state will bear in mind the fact that about 150 houses, barns and other farm buildings, to gether with miles of fence and other farm property, were utterly ruined, and that the need of aid is most imperative. The greatest need is for fencing, household goods, lumber. etc. All contributions should be sent to A. A. McKenzie, chairman of the relief committee, Cass City, Mich. NEWS FROM

PEACE ENVOYS TO MEET

THE JEWS IN WARSAW ARE IN REVOLT OVER LODZ MASSACRE.

IN WASHINGTON EARLY

IN AUGUST.

THE CITY OF LODZ RESEMBLES SHAMBLES FROM BLOODY BUTCHERY.

The president has received from both the Russian and Japanese governments the statement that the plenipotentiaries of the two countries will meet in the United States during the first ten days of August, and the president has expressed to both governments the wish that the meeting should take place if possible on the first of August, and if not on that date then at the earliest date thereafter. Both Japan and Russia, according to a St. Petersburg dispatch, are now understood to have agreed on the time when their plenipotentiaries shall meet at Washington. It will be during the first ten days of August, but the exact date probably will be announced by President Roosevelt.

The question of precedence evidently is the main stumbling block to a prompt settlement of the number of personal negotiators. Both sides seem desirous to make the other take the initial move. Russia seems to consider that it is Japan's duty to name her plenipotentiaries before Russia announces hers. While the exact number of the plenipotentiaries has not been officially arranged, both powers seem to have tacitly agreed on three. The actual announcement of the names of the plenipotentiaries is expected within a few days.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris says he has received confirmation of the report that the czar has decided to take formal steps through Mr. Meyer, the American ambassador, to arrange an armisshow that suggestions for an armistice have not been received with absolute favor by either Russia or Japan. Quite naturally each government is seeking an advantage over the other in the diplomatic sparring that is going on now, and among those in touch with the situation it is regarded as unlikely that definite arrangements for an armistice will be concluded-even if they should be concluded at all-before the formal meeting of the plenipotentiaries of the two powers. As heretofore noted, there is serious apprehension that unless a temporary suspension of hostilities be arranged, great hattle may be pr result of which might wreck completely the pending peace negotiations. It was expected confidently that an announcement of the names of the envoys of the two powers to the Washington conference be made by the end of last week; but, as a matter of fact, the negotiations have not progressed in the least since Tuesday. That both Rusisa and Japan have decided upon their representatives at the conference is quite certain, but each government, for reasons of its own, declines to make formal announcement of them. Peace negotiations have come to a dead halt on account of the illness of Count Lamsdorff, the Rus sian minister for foreign affairs. It is explained, officially, that nothing in the form of a hitch has occurred. but that the negotiations merely have been suspended temporarily.

Scenes in Lodz

The Russian-Polish city of Lodz presents a sickening scene of blood and death as a result of last week's riots. The trouble began on Tuesday, the 20th, after the funeral of the vic tims of the conflict between troops and terrorists the previous Sunday. The Christians were permitted to bury their dead, but the Jews were prohibit ed from doing so and the people secretly interred the bodies of the Jews at Detroit and Buffalo hospitals and night, which exicted indignation and terrorists riots were initiated Thursday. The city resembles a shambles, and the terrible scenes of the two days will never be wiped from the memory of the Polish people The fighting spirit of the people is fully aroused. They have tasted blood and want more. Certainly the revolutionary spirit is abroad, and it remains to be seen whether military measures will have the same effect as previously. The dead from last week's outbreak total over 1,200. Thus far the bodies of 343 Jews and 218 Christians have been buried. The wounded number over 700. Some semblance of order has been restored and the workmen are gradually returning to the fac

Trouble In Warsaw.

The Jewish districts of Warsaw are now in full revolt. The shops and stores are closed and traffic has ceased. The street cars have been overturned to form the nucleus of barricades. Great crowds assembled in the streets and the ugly temper of both the populace and the troops threatens to break out in bloodshed at any moment. Thirty-four battalions of infantry are stationed in the town.

The city has the appearance of a military encampment. Infantry and Cossacks are bivouacked in the streets and patrols are circulating everywhere. Barricades have been erected at the corners of Ogrodowa and Zelazua streets, and occasionally the crack of a rifle is heard as strikers shoot at men going to work. Monday's conditions are the result of a proclamation issued Saturday night by the Social Democratic party of Poland and Lithuania, calling out workmen as a protest against the Lodz massacre, and declaring that in order to show the solidarity of their brethren and to protest against "the new and incessant crimes of the emperor's government," all Warsaw must stop work.

The attack, which was similar to others experienced by Secretary Hay during recent years, was attributed to a cold contracted on his journey from Washington to Newbury on Saturday. Dr. J. L. Cain, the local physician who was the first one called to attend the sick man, said: "Secretary Hay's trouble has been relieved. He will need attention for a day or two. The Chinese Immigrants.

The president's policy of "a square deal for the Chinese" promulgated Monday in an official statement from the White House, indicates the extent to which the enforcement of the exclusion law is to be modified. These modifications are relied on to head off the threatened boycott of American goods by the Chinese. The president's decision to order a less rigid enforcement of the law indicates that there is at least a marked difference of opinion between him and Secretary Metcalf, who has charge of immigration, and there are indications of rather serious friction between them. Mr. Metcalf is from California, where the sentiment against the Chinese is strongest, and the president thinks he is thinking more of the interests of the section from which he comes than of the interests of the whole country.

Lake Shore Wreck. The Lake Shore officials who have been estimating the loss caused by the wreck of the Twentieth Century churia. Liaoyangwopeng, which the Limited train at Mentor, O., which Russians are reported to have retaken, caused nineteen deaths, place the financial part at about $400,000. The engine and all the cars, except the buffet car, can be repaired. The endue east of Fengwha. This indicates gine will be rebuilt, and the loss on that will not be over $10,000. It was valued at about $18,500.

The total damage to the train will come to $50,000. But there are other items in the list which bring the total cost of the disaster to a high figure. The railroad men make the state ment that personal injury claims and death claims will cost the road about $200,000. They also figure that the adverse advertising to the road will amount to not less than $100,000. In addition, there is the cost of the freight shed and its contents, which will add $5,000 to the damage. The refunding of the fares charged on the train will add $2,000. These, with other things incidental to the wreck, will bring the total cost of the disaster up to $400.000. Alexander Returns Money.

One of the most sensational developments in the Equitable Life Assurance society situation came to light Friday through the discovery that a man who has been dead for 13 months, and three others who had long ago severed their connection with the society were still on the payroll. The discovery was made through a study of the report of Supt. of Insurance Hendricks.

Wreck at Tashmoo.

Two freight steamers, the Linden and City of Rome, were sunk in a collision off Tashmoo Park at 4 o'clock Friday morning, and the steward and his wife, of the former vessel, were drowned. The City of Rome, which was bound down with a cargo of ore, went down immediately after the col-lision, about 50 feet from the Tashmoo Park dock, and the Linden, which was bound up with a coal cargo, kept on her way up to Russel island, where she went down in the middle of the channel. The crews of both boats succeeded in getting away in their yawls, with the exception of the Linden's missing. The accident was caused by the suction of a big propeller bound up which made the Linden veer around and crash into the City of Rome. A large hole was torn into the bows of both steamers.

The National Guard will ask congress at its next session to make the guard a part of the national defense. Doubling of the $1,000,000 annual appropriation is desired.

THE MARKETS.

THE MARKETS.

Detroit—The cattle market has been dull and draggy, with dry-fed shipping steers 15 to 25 cents lower and common cow stuff very hard to sell at a decline of 10 to 20 cents. Grass cattle of all kinds were from 20 to 30 cents lower and of an inferior quality. Hardy dry-fed butchers were about steady with last week, as were stockers and feeders. Bulls were also a trifle lower. Milch cows and springers were about the same as last week. The quality was no better, and there was nothing on sale good enough to bring $45. Bulk of sales were under $40. Veal calves also took a drop and the market was generally 25 cents lower than it was a week ago, and very dull. A few choice grades sold for $6 per hundred, but bulk of sales were at from $5.35 to $5.75. Best grades, $5.50 to $6; others, $4 to $5. Hogs—The market is not at all promising at present, and dealers are predicting a further decline in prices. Sheep—The sheep and lamb trade opened and closed strong at last week's prices on account light receipts. Best clip lambs, $6.50 to $6.75; fair to good lambs, $5.50 to $6.

Chicago.—Good to prime steers, $5.25 @6; poor to medium, $4@5; stockers and feeders, $2.60@4.50; cows, $2.50@4.60; helfers, $2.50@5; canners, $1.40@2.50; bulls, $2.25@4; calves, $3@6.50.

James Shafer, a farmer near Three Rivers, tells of the "explosion" of one of his young heifers from eating gluttonously of clover and drinking copiously of spring water. He says she swelled rapidly and suddenly he heard a report like an explosion and found the animal with her side burst open. The Japanese are no longer pressing the Russians south, and doubt is now entertained as to whether the weak offensive is the precursor of a big battle or a diplomatic maneuver. Belief Even the nights afford little relief.

In a Day

Night reeled and swayed, the day came through,
The light fell clear on hill and tree;
A lark sang up into the blue,
And it was morn in Italy.

A goatherd drove afield his goats, A boy glad hearted as the day,
And as he went his merry notes
Met answering song from every spray.

With eve a scornful maiden came. More lovely than the dying day; he set his careless heart aflame, Then laughed and went upon her way.

Day's crimson died into the dark, And one in shade were hill and tree; Hushed was the song of boy and lark, And it was night in Italy. -Robin Flower

As there was no one in the office to answer this question, and as he was quite new to Porto Rico, Pendleton set to work to piece out the song-if such it could be called-for himself. He knew Spanish-book Spanish-but the music and the voice were too much for his translating. He shouted impatiently to them to stop the music and go slow. The older women obeyed, delighted to have attracted the attention of the rich American; all Americans are rich in Porto Rico, and the younger woman pushed her face farther into her hands. Whether she wept or whether she just stood listening to that doleful song, Pendleton could not tell. But by littles he made out the meaning of it all. It was her tale of woe that the beggars were relating in their song. A true tale, he fancied, seeing how she seemed to bow beneath the shame of it. A sorry one, even for a native of Porto Rico if it was true. Pendleton hailing from a particularly prosperous section of the States was new to beggars and their wiles. Besides, he could not possibly work with that demon-like din going on under his window. He went out into the street and to the woman who was weeping—or pretending to.

But some one was burned on the great hacienda of Santa Rita that day. Almost at the point of safety, within a stone's throw of the turning row that he had learned to call "callejon," Pendleton found the body. Breed, Wis., June 26.-Specialment that is of interest to the whole United States. Put briefly, that judgment is, "Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best Kidney medicine on the market to-day."

And Mr. Peterson gives his reason for this judgment. He says: "Last winter I had an aching pain in my back which troubled me very much. In the morning I could hardly straighten my back. I did not know what it was but an advertisement led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. After taking one box I can only say they have done more for me than expected as I feel as well now as ever I did before."

Pain in the back is one of the first symptoms of Kidney disease. If not cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills it may develop into Bright's Disease, Diabetes. Rheumatism or some of the other deadly forms of Kidney Disease.
