In towing the dock, hawsers having a total length of 1,220 fathoms, or 140 yards more than a mile and a quarter, will stretch between the ships and the dock. This great length of hawser, together with the lengths of the ships and the dock, will make a tow of about one mile and three-quarters.

These giant machines hooked up will present a dazzling spectacle on clear nights. The four ships convoying the dock are fully equipped with electricity in the way of search and signal lights, and each ship and the dock are equipped with wireless telegraphy, so that communication should be perfect. Probably Bacon's authority was Tacitus ("Annals," book VI., chapter 46), who says of Tiberius that "He was wont to make sport of the physicians, and of people who after thirty needed others to tell them what was good or bad for them." In Tacitus, of course, the epigrammatic flavor is lost.

One of the most important factors in the towing of the dock are the automatic towing machines, which are an American invention. These are depended upon in a large measure to make the undertaking comparatively safe. The resistance of the tow is borne entirely by the steam pressure in the clyinders of the towing machine, which consists of a reel or drum upon which the steel wire hawsers wind and unwind automatically. This drum is driven by a pinion gear in the crank shaft of the engine, which meshes with the gear on the drum shaft. ALL SICK WOMEN SHOULD READ MRS. FOX'S LETTER

In All Parts of the United States Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Effected Similar Oures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been brought about by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and through the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., which is given to sick women absolutely free of charge. The present Mrs. Pinkham has for twenty-five years made a study of the ills of her sex; she has consulted with and advised thousands of suffering women, who to-day owe not only their health but even life to her helpful advice.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut Street, Bradford, Pa., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham

Dear Mrs. Pinkham "I suffered for a long time with female trouble, and finally was told by my physician that I had a tumor. I did not want to submit to an operation, so wrote you for advice. I received your letter and did as you told me, and to-day I am completely wroad. Wy doothor gave the tumor here diverharm? cured. My doctor says the tumor has disap-peared, and I am once more a well woman. I believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world."

The testimonials which we are constantlypublishing from grateful women establish beyond a dcubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and to thousands of women has proved to be more precious than gold.

Letter to Attorney-General. The criticisms of the valuations of general and railroad properties made by the state board of tax commissioners under the Galbraith equalization law, have resulted in an open letter to Attorney-General Bird, who recently began' suit to have the law declared unconstitutional. The letter follows:

"Hon. John E. Bird, Attorney-General, Lansing, Mich.: "Dear Sir—We notice in the daily press of the state that the result reached by the state board of assessors ed that there were no silver dollars in fixing the values of the railroad properties of the state and in determining the rate of taxation for the same was in your opinion more favorable to the railroads than can be justified by the facts. "We also notice an interview given in the public press by your deputy, Mr. Harry E. Chase, which presumably has your indorsement, stating that cer tain railroad properties were undervalued. It is evident from the interview that your department is in possession of important facts relative to the valuation of the railroads of the state not known to the state board of assessors. However, there is still ample opportunity to make the showing. We do not claim any such degree of infallibility as is asserted in certain quarters, and we used our honest judgment in arriving at our published conclusions. If it can be shown that errors of judgment have been made, there is still ample opportunity to correct all errors. The state board of assessors will be in session in the city of Lansing until February 15, 1906, as a board of review and we believe that in fairness to us and to the state you should come before the board and give us the facts upon which your published opinions have been based. We shall be more than pleased to fix a time satisfactory to yourself for a public hearing at which all parties interested may be present and the whole matter of values and rate thoroughly examined. Gov. Warner desires a hearing and no doubt a time convenient to both The statement has been made that

MARSHALL FIELD

It is interesting to record the fact that Marshall Field was considered unsuited for a mercantile career by so good an authority as the dry goods storekeeper in Pittsfield, who pro-

Ambition to illustrate to his playmates the latest and most improved methods of conducting a wild western lynching bee nearly cost 8-year-old Theodore Noll, of Jackson, his life. The timely action of James Behan, who cut the rope from which the form of the unconscious boy was dangling, undoubtedly saved him from death. Theodore and his playmates were playing in Mr. Behan's yard late Saturday afternoon and Theodore, seizing a rope, climbed into a chestnut tree telling his companions if they wanted to see how they hanged people to just watch him. He tied one end around a limb and the other around his neck, jumped from the tree, and dangled in the air. His feet was near enough to the ground, so Charles Hunt, one of his companions, seized him and held him until nearly exhausted; the other boys fled.

In the arsenals of France, according to a French paper, there are $8,000,000 worth of antiquated and useless artillery. The French navy uses fifty or sixty different models of guns, which makes the question of furnishing projectiles very difficult, and the powder used in the navy is so unstable that one-quarter of it has to be changed every year. It lasts on board ship only five years and in hot climates only two years. According to a leading German paper, the kaiser has ordered the introduction of a new uniform in the army. It will be between gray and green in color. The uniform is to be supplied to all artillery and infantry remiments, but not to the cavalry, as it has not yet been decided what tint is most suitable for this branch. Russian soldiers still believe themselves superior to the Japanese and ascribe their ill luck in Manchuria to the fact that their army was so largely composed of reservists, whose officers were incompetent and insufficient in number.

Williams' Pink Pills Make New Blood. The first sign of rheumatism is frequently a pain and swelling in one of the joints. If not combated in the blood, which is the seat of the disease, the poison spreads, affecting other joints and tissues. Sometimes rheumatism attacks the heart and is quickly fatal.

The one remedy that has cured cheumatism so that it stays cured is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills expel the poison from the blood and restore the system, so that the poisonous matter is passed off as nature intended. Mrs. I. T. Pitcher, of No. 130 Monnouth street, Newark, N. J., suffered for about three years from rheumatism before she found this cure. She says: 'It began with a queer feeling in my fingers. In a little time it seemed as though the finger joints had lumps on them and I could not get my gloves on. "Then it grew worse and spread to my knees. I could not stand up and I could not sleep nights. My suffering was more than I can describe. I took a great deal of medicine, but nothing even gave me relief until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I read an account of a cure in a case that was exactly like mine and my husband got me some of the pills. I took them for three weeks before I really felt better but they finally cured me."

Mr. Pitcher, who is a veteran and a member of E. D. Morgan Post, No. 307 of New York, substantiates his wife's statement and says that she now walks without difficulty, whereas a year ago he was compelled to push her about in a wheeled chair. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pitcher are enthusiastic in their praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

After she had gone the Deacon emptied his pockets of some old papers, throwing them into the stove. "Mordecai wasn't nowhere," he chuckled and then looked at a square piece of cardboard among the papers.

It read as follows: "International Turf Club, New York.

and he replaced it in his pocket. The horses were gathering for the spring races near the village, and Fred Carey was doing a large business with the horsemen. He replaced the card in his wallet and did not speak thereon at the Sunday school. The handicap was to be run the Tuesday of the following week, and the Deacon became distraught and anxious as the day approached. In a surreptitious manner he obtained a sporting paper the day before the race and discovered that Saracen was quoted at three to one. In the meantime he had issued a proclamation forbidding Carey his house and his daughter meeting her lover. Sarah, mournfully, submitted, but Carey boldly told the Deacon that if he could outwit him he'd do it. When the day of the race dawned

the Deacon wandered about the house as a perturbed spirit. The Handicap was to be run about four o'clock and by that time the Deacon was slinking about the entrance to the course in an agony lest he be recognized and lest Saracen should lose. He heard the cheers and shouts which heralded the finish and a cold sweat came out over him. Men began to come out of the entrance and seek the cars, but he dared not ask who had won. Finally, in desperation, he approached a sportive looking man and asked quaveringly who had won the handicap.

"Why, Saracen," replied the man, "hands down and the jock looking back at the other skates." The Deacon staggered back against the race track fence.

"Is this your ticket?" asked the cashier of the Turf Club. "It is," snapped the Deacon. The man called to someone in the office, and in a moment the Deacon and Fred Carey, two very surprised men, were staring at each other.

"This man has the ticket you stopped," said the cashier. "I found it in front of my house."

murmured the Deacon. "By George!" exclaimed Carey, "I must have pulled it out of my pocket when I was going to see your daughter. As long as you found it, why, half of it goes to you and the other half will help to pay for the house Sarah and I will live in next month. You know you've agreed to the marriage and of course I'll say nothing about the ticket and you being at the bookmaker's."

"Edward Everett Hale," said a lawyer, "was one of the guests at a millionaire's dinner. "The millionaire was a free spender, but he wanted full credit for every dollar put out. "And, as the dinner progressed, he told his guests what the more expensive dishes had cost.

"'This terrapin,' he would say, 'was shipped direct from Baltimore. A Baltimore cook came on to prepare it. The dish actually cost a dollar a teaspoonful.' "So he talked of the fresh peas, the hothouse asparagus, the Covent Garden peaches and the other courses.

He dwelt especially on the expense of the large and beautiful grapes, each bunch a foot long, each grape bigger than a plum. He told, down to a penny, what he had figured it out that the grapes had cost him apiece. "The guests looked annoyed. They ate the expensive grapes charily. But

Dr. Hale, smiling, extended his plate and said: "Would you mind cutting me off about a dollar and eighty-seven cents' worth more, please?" "
